budget hearings. Questions were raised about a thousand-dollar loan to the UNICEF Committee. Discussion centered on use of the money, reason for the loan and alternate methods of subsidization. The proposed loan is going back. Also discussed was the committee's recommendation to not fund a student Lawyer Fund. Many reasons for creation of a fund such as students and S.A. use and finally that the fund should be a higher priority than some of the other recommendations were raised. The University presently has a lawyer; however, he is not available for student use.

Under new business, a motion was entered for recognition of Las Latinos, a Latin student culture awareness group. A number of financial proposals were entered. Many were on policy and procedures but several dealt with the proposed budget of next year. The proposal for the new budget introduced by Glenn Austin and James Stoman concerned more importantly liquidation of the Ariel fund and addition of the Senate Lawyer fund.

Finally, Tom Grant submitted the annual report in it are figures for FY 72/73 and the proposed budget for 73/74. This fiscal year 72/73 the S.A. had an income of $437,471 with total allocations of $135,607. The year started with a reserve of about $22,000 which has since gone to $2,000. Major allocations for 72/73 were: Ariel, $13,000; Co-ordination Committee, $5,791; OVP, $7,360; Professional Services, $8,500; S.A. Speakers, $18,500; Vermont Cynic, $18,000; and WRUV-AM, $13,150.

The Finance Committee's recommendations for FY 73/74 went as follows: total income, $138,000 (no increase); total allocations at $125,000 with only $13,000 in reserve funds. There were no major changes in major allocations except Ariel to $5,500 and the Cynic to $10,780. Many organizations had to have requests cut due to the increased number of organizations and the lack of an increase in total income as has been the policy in the past.

American Society Is Death Culture

by Gene Bergman

What I'm about to say might sound ridiculous being in the "Affluent Society" and all, but I contend that the U.S.A. is a society of survival and substance based on a death culture which seeps into all aspects of "American life" and influences all decision making processes.

What is a death culture? American society is based on fear and insecurity, the fear of starving, of not "getting ahead" of the Negroes and college radicals, of failing; the insecurity caused by being left out or having those institutions thought sacred challenged. The death culture of American pushes Americans to the mental brink of destruction and creates the fear that any movement will push them over.

At no time does Death Culture U.S.A. talk of life or freedom, except when comparing them with death or imprisonment. "You are lucky to be here because things are worse elsewhere." While this assumption is not absolutely true, it does point out the predominant American mentality. Incentive, progress, work, structures and hierarchies, grading and competition are all negative in nature, they are means not to advance to a good end, but to prevent a bad one. At no time does potential America come into view, the luxury of thinking of a truly free society cannot be afforded to a society which is preoccupied with death and poverty, those basic guiding fears.

Behind much of this death thought is the fundamental belief in man's natural selfishness and unfitness and the desire to structure and regiment man for his own good. Structures and hierarchies are created out of a real fear of freedom. Freedom is anarchy and chaos, which is destructive since it unleashes the animal man. Schooling, grades of "achievement", are designed to integrate children into structuralized existence, to socialize them to conformity with a system which restricts freedom to mimicry. The work incentive is not based on creative application of skills for human development but on the deterrent mentality of "work or starve." All incentives, grades, status, etc. rest on the fear of failure and destruction and not on improvement. Success is more of a measure of what you are than of what you are not. You are not poor, starving, or black.

The death mentality is quite bizarre in a land of supposed affluence, the richest in the world. Numero Uno! America takes pride in being number one, but as the Daily News says, we've got to be number one or we'll be number two or worse. They are always looking backwards, always feeling pressured by the bottom, the masses of starvation. The pride rests on not being something worse.

The bizarre nature of the death culture becomes less bizarre when the forces that push it come out in the open, the media; the government, and most importantly the rich. Death mentality is created, has to be created in a land of abundance. It is created by people, maybe unconsciously, who have something to lose when hope and life come into the picture, they are the privileged few who run this country. A death culture must be created to have people with vast material possessions and wealth fear starving.

The mentality is created in the mold of planned obsolescence, the advertising and manufacturing dears and wants and unfounded fears of poverty. Styles and packaging produce a myth of bare subsistence in a society of affluence. And they perpetuate and extend the myth to include a destructive competition among men for the right to survive. Hence the "dog eat dog", rat race concepts, which are all perpetuated to pit man against man in order to preserve a privileged ruling elite.

America is a death society, its goals, structures and everyday workings are designed not to free man but to restrict and regiment him. It instills fear and insecurity about material conditions which don't exist. And it funnels and channels man in ways which perpetuate the death mentality. Fear is the motivating force in the U.S. today, like the death culture which fosters it, it must be eliminated in order to create a truly free land.

Thoughts Of A Concert Veteran On Crowd Control

by Gene Beaudoin

It seems that after concerts there is a great deal of thought about the concert. This is true of hockey games or any very large event. A great deal of the thought is about how good the concert or game was. At UVM there is a concept that is only true at schools like UVM where crowd control is only allowed for under the heading of crisis management. The idea is one of the talent "saving" the concert. I agree with this concept for the Loggins and Messina concerts.

Being a veteran of many concerts and games at UVM during the past four years, I believe that I can write on the question of crowd control at such functions. For a concert, like Loggins, and Messina it would be rational to assume, that at least 75% of the crowd arrives by fifteen minutes before the show. At 7:45 then on last Wednesday night there were approximately 3800 people pushing and shoving or being pushed and shoved outside Patrick Gymnasium. With the average clothed person in the crowd weighing about 150 lbs, the dead weight of that crowd is 570,000 pounds. Add force to that weight and situation is at the very minimum dangerous. In the hallway between Patrick and Gutterson before a hockey game one must also add the problem of the crowd being confined by three walls.

The blame is also quite clear. Blame is best figured out by finding out who would have the blame if there had been a major incident. I cite the concert traffic as an incident that was quite real. Ultimate responsibility belongs to the Board of Trustees at the University of Vermont. They are the ones who delegate authority and responsibility. When in times of blame, responsibility, we find out, only rests with the Board or possibly the Chief Executive Officer of the Board.

money to pay for this service. Interestingly enough my ticket was not taken by one of the student ticket-takers but rather by a uniformed policeman, who was not paid to collect tickets. The increase in the number of turnstiles is increased by two which easily could be manned by four of 18 or so policemen for they are only paid to handle emergencies. (Another part of crisis management.) It is even possible to add two more turnstiles to the six which could be placed at the major entrances that join Patrick Gym on the South Side.

Hockey games? The problem of crowd control is discussed by many of the local radio sportscasters during the 6 o'clock show which involves call-ins. According to The problem in its original state is a simple one. It is a question of how to get people from the outside of the building to the inside. For concerts there are four doors comprising one entrance. For hockey there are two entrances with a total of three doors. Patrick Gym has an incredible number of entrances. Use two on the front at opposite ends of the entranceway. Add to that the two entrances at either end of the bleachers and the total goes to six entranceways. Keep in mind for Loggins and Messina there was one entranceway. The answer I have always received before this writing was that there wasn't enough one sportscaster, UVM officials refuse to answer questions about the situation. Think of all the doors under the bleachers inside Gutterson Field House. Why not add a few more turnstiles and ushers which is financially feasible.

Two last points — At Loggins and Messina I heard a theory which did provide some comic relief. Someone said that we shouldn't be worried because if you could get pushed, a certain direction there must be room for you there.

When the best form of crowd control is to let the situation get so bad that people don't want to go to the event, we have reached a sad state.

SPS Looking For New Members

STUDENT PHOTOGRAPHY SERVICE is looking for undergraduate students interested in joining our organization. If you are serious about wanting to learn photography, and to have facilities available to you in turn for spending a little of your time doing work orders for SPS, (i.e. CYNIC, ARIEL, etc.), please come to our meeting Monday, April 23 at 8:00 P.M. in the SPS Office, Northwest corner of lower Billings.

LILIES OF THE FIELD WE ARE NOT.

Remember the lilies of the field? They toiled not. Neither did they spin. As Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor we toil for the young as well as the old, for the acute as well as the chronically ill, and we care not for their race or religion for all are of the kingdom of God. Our feet carry us along busy streets, up and down tenement stairs in and out of homes where illness, ignorance, discouragement and despair are sometimes permanent guests. Nursing, counseling, helping to keep families together in their homes as one loving unit. The Dominican Sisters of the Sick Poor achieving the impossible every day of the year.

To learn how you can serve as a Dominican Sister of the Sick Poor write to: Sister Maryanne Mitchell, Vocation Director, Room 103, Markendale, Orono, Maine, New York 10943.

Adopt-A-Grandparent Offers Meaningful Experiences

by Tony Blake

The Adopt-A-Grandparent program originally existed three years ago. Apparently, even though there are no past records, it was a successful project. However, the person in charge graduated, and unfortunately, no one followed up on the program.

I came into OVP in late October and, after talking to Chris Mayhew and Hal Woods, I decided to try to reinstate the program. For the first two months, I had to iron out the technicalities and get the program approved by the PLCC (Project Leaders Coordinating Council). I talked to several people in the community who are involved with the elderly. They gave me suggestions and were instrumental in helping me get this project off the ground.

Eventually I was referred to about four people who have been supplying me with the list of elderly who wish to be involved or would benefit from companionship. Our purpose is to provide a meaningful relationship on a one-to-one basis between a young volunteer and a "grandparent." It is hoped that through this program, the elderly will be provided with an outside stimulus that will help bring them out of their socially secluded state.

Basically, there are three types of elderly involved in the Adopt-A-Grandparent Program. There are those involved in nursing homes, who may be in need of some nursing care or may have been put there by their children for lack of anywhere else to put them. Other elderly are those from the Burlington Housing Authority, which, basically, is a low-cost apartment building for the aged. Finally, there are those individuals who still live in their houses or apartments throughout the community. Burlington has a high percentage of people over 65 who would benefit from this program, and unfortunately I have not been able to use all of these individuals. It would be an immense task even attempting to do so. However, as the program grows, more and more people will become involved in some form or another. It is difficult to say which individuals benefit from this most; I feel that all of them need some form of younger contact.

Even though we have not recruited volunteers, except from the OVP fair, quite a few students have expressed interest in participating. Presently, approximately 20 volunteers have begun their relationship with a "grandparent," and I'm pleased to report that all of them are enjoying the work very much. I ask that the volunteers, assuming they enjoy it, put in a minimum of 1-2 hours a week for one school year. This is certainly not too much to ask, and I hope that many will continue even longer. Of course, the success of this program depends on the volunteers, not me.

The future of the Adopt-A-Grandparent Program is a bright one. Most likely the program will mushroom on its own. Still, early next fall, we will recruit more volunteers. The more people that become involved, the more the program can do, and the more successful it will be. I think for a first year program, it has an excellent base. As it grows, the bigger impact it will have on the community, which unfortunately is unaware of the numerous problems the elderly encounter in their daily lives. I personally have gotten a great deal of self-satisfaction from the program. Caldwell... (continued from page one)

press as an attempt to crack down on dissent?" The reply was, "The national government is involved with changing a lot of institutions at this time. There is a big move to reshape the court and dismantle the media from all sides. There is also redefining of other priorities. I wonder just what the people doing it have in mind."

Mr. Caldwell expressed his dismay with the present power of the press. "It hasn't exerted itself," he stated. "That power is a myth." He called it a good example of timidity when The New York Times recently hired a new columnist, who is "the highest paid guy, a previous Nixon speechwriter."

When asked if he felt the newspapers will play a less important role in society Mr. Caldwell responded that the newspapers have gone down so much that he doesn't think they'll go much further. The only direction they can move is up again.

"The question now," he added, "is how the public is going to deal with it. The public has to say that it wants that information. It has to take some responsibility. Maybe if it doesn't take that responsibility, it should lose the press."

"Do you think the public will ever reach that state?" he was asked. "I do think that people are tired," Caldwell replied. "Their load is just a little bit too heavy and they want to rest a bit."

With us your $200 gets you a lot more than just airfare to Europe.

- You make one call and we get you on the airlines of your choice. (E.L.S. Travel, Inc. Am. to the city of your choice and then bring you home, Plus...)
- Free trip planning
- Passport, visa, immigration fees
- All travel costs within Europe - train, plane and car rental, hotel, European flight, taxes
- Ship to Europe from $100
- Guide books

European quotation for sample of all ages.

NATIONAL STUDENT TRAVEL SERVICES

4 BRATTLE ST. (on Harvard St.) CAMBRIDGE, MASS. 02138 (617) 851-1010

Open Monday - Friday: 10-6 Saturday: 11-6

Phone and see us for the NATIONAL TRAVEL PLANNER. It includes everything you need to know about going to Europe - airlines, train, car, ship, passport, visa, etc.

Name _____ City _____ State _____ Zip _____

DOMINICAN SISTERS OF THE SICK POOR.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

New Rock Opera Debuts April 25 At UVM

by Lisa Charles

Two years ago Jan Goldstein, presently a senior at UVM, decided to integrate his interest in music and religion in order to write a "rock opera" based on the Jewish tale of the ten commandments. With this idea in mind, Jan discussed the musical composition with a friend who played guitar and drums in a local band David Lash.

In the course of two years, Jan wrote the lyrics and David composed the music for this Hebrew musical entitled "Covenant." The final musical score was recently orchestrated by Ken Meyer, a senior at the Eastman School of Music. Two years in the making and three months of rehearsing, "Covenant" will be presented to the UVM and Burlington community April 25 through

29 at the Arena Theatre. "The plot of the musical is of course conventional," Jan commented. "But this production is also a unique elaboration and personal interpretation of what was suggested in the Bible."

The story opens at Mt. Sinai with the return of the Israelites from Egypt. After a three-month journey, the wanderers meet Korah who challenges the integrity and dedication of their leader Moses.

"At this point we see the Israelites being molded by Korah's charismatic persuasion," Jan added. "We observe the marked contrast between the two leaders: Moses being a man of patience, compassion, and insight, and Korah one of compulsion and capriciousness."

In the midst of this conflict, Moses departs for the mountain in order to receive the ten commandments from God. In the meantime Korah uses Moses' forty day absence as a reason to elect a new leader. Subsequently Korah also persuades the Israelites to forget Moses, and to offer riches to a new god, the "golden god" or calf of gold.

At this point, however, Moses returns to find that the Israelites have disavowed the faith. In spite of this, Moses pleads with God not to punish the sinners, as he declares a need for his fellow man. The Israelites do repent after Moses destroys the sacred taboos. During the final scene, the Israelites abandon Korah, and renew their faith with God through the holy "covenant." "Covenant" does not provoke judgment between good or evil, rather it reveals and questions the alternatives posed by two completely different men," Jan stated.

Most of the thirty people cast for the musical are new participants in the theatre this year. Both Marie Davis (Tripporah, Moses' black wife) and Karen Trott (Miriam, Moses' sister) are engaging in their first major dramatic roles this spring. David Griffith, who plays Moses, is a producer at ETV; sings and plays guitar, while Jeff Wilson, a senior while portraying Aaron, has participated regularly in UVM productions. Jose Santana, who portrays Korah, played a small part in the production of "A Day of Absence."

Out of the sixty-five people who auditioned for "Covenant," these students were selected on the basis of vocal and acting talent in addition to physical presence.

"We are working with a certain type of music that needs to be expressed physically as well as vocally," David Lash commented. "It is important to write popular sounding songs that do not become monotonous in the absence of dialogue. I am extremely pleased with the way the cast has interpreted and sung our songs," he added.

To add a new dimension to the stereotypical voice of God, Jan has cast four students (two men and two women) to represent the voice in an attempt to achieve a quadruphonetic effect. The entire production will include orchestration conducted by Professor Read, and choreography directed by Maureen McKenzie, an apprentice to the Harkness Ballet Company.

"To see a production take shape that was entirely written, directed and performed by students is truly an organic experience," Jan declared enthusiastically. "It is a process of creativity that never seems to end. A total student production is one alternative that has never been explored at UVM. I am very pleased with the results of this musical endeavor, and I believe it says a lot for the future of musical productions at this university," he concluded.

Jan, a resident of Burlington, has been interested in theatre since the age of nine. He has performed in St. Michael's Playhouse, and the Champlain Shakespeare Festival, every summer. In addition to majoring in the Communication and Theatre Department at UVM, Jan is studying to become a rabbi in Jerusalem next summer.

David Lash, also from Burlington, attended UVM for two years, then transferred to Duke University. He taught himself to play guitar, piano, drums and harmonica, and has been writing popular songs since he was sixteen years old. Both David and Jan played in a local-rock band during their high school years in Burlington.

The time has arrived for Jan and David to present two years of creative hard work on stage next week. Tickets may be purchased at the Arena Theatre Box Office each day at 10 a.m. Prices are $3.00 general admission, and $1.50 with UVM ID.

Rolling Stones' friend Ry Cooder will be one of many to appear at the second annual Burlington Blues Festival, April 28.

Blues Greats Converge On Burlington For Festival

Saturday, April 28, 1973, Burlington Vermont will once again be host to some of the greatest bluesmen of today. Gathering together such great blues bands as the Otis Rush Chicago Blues Band, Hound Dog Taylor and the House Rockers, the contemporary Ry Cooder, living legend Lightnin' Hopkins and the subtle sounds of the South, Mance Lipscomb and Sleepy John Estes, topped off by an all star blues jam with special guests... and more, the Festival promises to be an electrifying experience.

The Blues Festival will begin with afternoon workshops to be held on the UVM campus from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m., offering anyone wishing to attend a chance to learn about the Blues firsthand from these legendary men. Musicians will also have a chance to play with and discuss music with all the performers. Since the demise of the Newport Festival two years ago, there have not been any blues congregations of this magnitude on the East coast and it still appears doubtful that there will be any others in the future.

Burlington's first Blues Festival held last year was a great success and completely sold out. The workshops were jammed beyond the capacity of the hall they were held in. Burlington's first Blues Festival was cited by the Library of Congress, Billboard (the largest trade music publication in the world) and Down Jones' National Observer.

The Otis Rush Chicago Blues Band (a five piece band) is one of the most exciting electric blues bands performing today. Otis Rush, leader, and lead guitarist of the group is a southpaw. He can play as smooth as B.B. King or as raw as the late Jimi Hendrix. Rush is often compared to Freddie King and has been a major influence over J. Geils. At a recent Otis Rush performance in Boston, Johnny Shines, J. Geils, and Elvin Bishop were in attendance. Chicago contemporaries such as Muddy Waters, Junior Wells and Magic Sam have all admired Rush's work. Popstars such as Eric Clapton, John Mayall and Mike Bloomfield have all copied his guitar licks. Led Zeppelin even copied his song "I Can't Quit You Baby." The Otis Rush Blues Band was one of the first Blues Bands to play the Fillmore East.

Ry Cooder, the only white artist on the Festival bill, at the age of 26, is already a legend in the music world. Cooder is best known for his work with the Rolling Stones and has had a major influence on the group. Cooder on numerous occasions has done sessions with the Stones. Just give a listen to "Sweet Virginia" and then Ry Cooder. Cooder records for Warner Brothers and has three albums out on this label. Cooder is responsible for the scoring of "Performance" in which Mick Jagger made his film debut. Cooder plays very few concerts and when playing is often joined by Charlie Watts and Bill Wyman of the Rolling Stones.

Lightnin' Hopkins is a living legend in today's blues world. Hopkins has played every major blues festival in the U.S. along with most major music halls including both Fillmore. Recently he appeared with Muddy Waters in New York's Carnegie Hall to a sold out house. Lightnin' went over so well that he was asked to return one month later to the same hall. Again it was a sold out house. So it goes for Lightnin' Hopkins.

Hound Dog Taylor and the House Rockers are solely responsible for stealing the entire show at last year's Ann Arbor Blues Festival before 10,000 fans. Taylor is the most underrated electric guitarist of today and has the most loyal audience of any blues band in Chicago. Hailed by Rolling Stone Magazine as "a heavy rock-blues, wonderful band" Taylor is often compared to Eric Clapton's Cream or the boogie of Canned Heat. Taylor's music is non-stop and when a break is needed such blues greats as Jimmy Reed, Big Walter Horton, Magic Slim and Son Seals often fill in on lead guitar for him. At one of Hound Dog's most recent concerts in Texas, silver-haired, still alive and well Johnny Winter joined the House-Rockers on stage for a half-hour blues jam.

Sleepy John Estes, from Brownsville, Tennessee, was rediscovered in 1962 by Bob Koester of Delmark Records, the major blues label in Chicago, and has been making a strong comeback since that day. Estes has played many festivals in the U.S. and Europe. Sleepy John Estes can be heard on Ry Cooder's latest album release singing and playing guitar on "President Kennedy."

Mance Lipscomb's life has been a bitter one. Mance has had hard luck at everything but his music. His music has been a sensation at the Berkeley Blues Festival playing black country music in his raw, unpolished form. "I don't imitate nobody," Mance says, what you hear is just me all over.

An all star blues jam with special guests will also be featured at the close of the Second Annual Blues Festival. The Second Annual Blues Festival will be held Saturday, April 28. The workshops will be held on the UVM campus and are free and open to the public. Locations will be announced. The concert will be held in the UVM Patrick Gymnasium. Starting time will be 8:00 P.M. Tickets are on sale at the UVM Book Store and at Bailey's Music, 600 Church Street, Downtown Burlington.

Lane Series Presents New Star In The Galaxy, Zoltan Kocsis

A 21-year-old pianist, Zoltan Kocsis, who has been hailed by the critics as "a new star in the international galaxy of truly great pianists," performs on the Lane Series, Wednesday, April 25, at 8:30 p.m., in the Allen Chapel, under the auspices of the Lane Series. (Please note that the concert will be held in the Chapel, and not in Memorial Auditorium.)

Only a limited number of tickets are available at $3.75. These are on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman Tel. 656-3418 for reservations.

On last year's Lane Series Zoltan Kocsis appeared as soloist with the Budapest Symphony, and, according to critic John D. Donoghue of the Free Press, he "literally electrified the audience with his intense performance."

Like the Lane Series, many of the concert programs which had booked the Budapest Symphony with Kocsis are this year returning: the young Hungarian Pianist.

Wednesday night's program includes Beethoven's Sonata in D Major, Brahms' second Intermezzo, Chopin's Ballade in G Minor for Piano, and, after the intermission, Stravinsky's Ragtime Music 1919, Kurtak's Eight-Piano Pieces, Op. 3, and Bartok's Sonata 1926.

Born in Budapest in 1952, Zoltan Kocsis commenced regular piano lessons at the age of five. He then enrolled at the Budapest Bela Bartok Conservatory at the age of eleven, where he studied composition along with piano-playing.

In 1968 young Kocsis was admitted to the Budapest Ferenc Liszt Academy of Music, where he has since been studying with the internationally known piano teachers Professors Pal-Kadosa and Ferenc Rados.

In 1970 he entered the Beethoven Piano Competition, staged by the Hungarian Radio and Television, and won first prize.

Following this success, Kocsis gave a sensational piano recital in the Hungarian capital, winning enthusiastic acclaim from the public and critics alike.

He has appeared as soloist with the Dresden Philharmonic Orchestra, at Frankfurt under the baton of Christoph von Dohnanyi, as one of the soloists with the Budapest Symphony on its tour of the U.S. in the autumn of 1971, and at the Theatre de la Ville in Paris in early 1972.

When he played in March of last year in London, the critic of the Daily Telegraph wrote of Kocsis that "the extraordinary range and beauty of his tone would seem to make this unassuming-looking young man one of the giants of the future."

And the critic of Musical

America wrote that "despite his gangling, adolescent appearance, young Kocsis was mature beyond his years at the keyboard. He mastered the trick of attacking this music (Bartok's First Piano Concerto) with just the right brittle percussiveness without lapsing into mere mechanization."

This is the first American tour of Kocsis as recitalist; he is appearing in many major commercial as well as university and college series.

"Godspell" Preaches Happiness, Joy, Love

by Barbara Franklin

Tuesday night's Lane Series performance of "Godspell" was, to put it in one word, joyous. The musical, which is based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew, has been a successful off-Broadway play and film, is currently touring all over the world, bringing high-spirited fun and entertainment, along with a moving message of love, wherever it goes.

The performance witnessed at Memorial Auditorium was no exception to this. From the opening moments until the standing ovation, "Godspell" was a delight. Jeremy Sage, as Jesus the Clown, aptly showed the comical, human side of Christ. An Stephen Schwartz, who composed the music and wrote the lyrics for "Godspell" wrote, "You simply have to like the man. Jesus amuses and delights you; he is the kind of character anyone would want to follow."

Sage, dressed in a Superman shirt and suspenders, both amused and touched one, bringing his words of love and happiness through the simple life to heart.

The ten-member singing cast of "Godspell," Graham Hubbs, Tom De Masi, Kate Drapel, Mary-Pat Green

Sherry Landrum, Sid Marshall, Melanie Mayron, Dale Rehfeld and Jeffrey Winner were all superb, blending the traditional theatrical comic devices, such as soft-shoe routines and burlesque with the moving, haunting melodies of such acclaimed, beautiful songs as "Day by Day." The bright, colorful ragged clown-like clothes worn by the cast and the simple, but excellent lighting added much to the production.

The most important thing about "Godspell" was that preaching an old message of love and unity, these ten people seemed to be really following it. The genuine exuberance and fresh joy could not have been faked. The concern and love for all others, which Jesus teaches them, they, in turn, showed us all evening.

After the tremendous success of "Jesus Christ, Superstar," there were scores of imitators. Only "Godspell" met and perhaps surpassed, "Superstar" in sheer excellence. "Godspell" was conceived and directed by John-Michael Tebbel, opening in May 1971 at the Cherry Lane Theatre. Since then it has met only sold-out crowds and rave reviews.

Many people have objected to the play's ending with the crucifixion of Christ, arguing that "Godspell" does not show his subsequent resurrection. Certainly the beautiful message of love and peace suffices. Jesus preached harmony and happiness; "Godspell" is both

Swiss Chocolate Pot

restaurants S. Burlington & Stowe Village

Seen above at the new Swiss Chocolate Pot Restaurant in S. Burlington are Donald V. Webster, Beverly S. Webster Ruth Poger and Dr. Sidney B. Poger, who is an associate professor of English at UVM. The Swiss Chocolate Pot is open daily 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. all year. Specialties include onion soup, escargots, steaks, hamburgers, cheese, beef, lobster and chocolate fondue and our famous chocolate desserts. Also daily luncheon specials. Fully licensed and plenty of parking. Tel. 862-2422-1242. Shelburne Road, South Burlington, next to Value Sports. And in Stowe Village, Tel. 253-4822. "Bring your appetite...we'll supply the tradition."

Tonite Buck Nite

ST. ANSELM'S CHAPEL REDSTONE CAMPUS

Epicopal Ministry to UVM
MAUNDY THURSDAY, APRIL 19
7:30 pm. HOLY EUCHARIST. Commemoration of the Institution of the Eucharist, and Preparation of the Altar for Good Friday.

GOOD FRIDAY, APRIL 20
9:00 am. Morning Prayer
7:30 pm. GOOD FRIDAY LITURGY
HOLY SATURDAY, APRIL 21
9:00 am. Morning Prayer
11:00 pm. EASTER VIGIL AND FIRST EUCHARIST OF EASTER EASTER SUNDAY
7:30 am. HOLY EUCHARIST
10:00 am. HOLY EUCHARIST

Loggins And Mull, P

by Doug Collette

In front of a crowd as impatiently expectant as was the audience in Patrick Gym, it would've been hard to find a better opening act than Martin Mull. More a comedian than musician, Mull's witty parodies and tongue-in-cheek demeanor, in a wisely short set, kept everyone entertained and good natured.

Ken Loggins' rather perfunctory solo acoustic spot was hardly a precursor of things to come. After Jim Messina led the band on stage and through their snappy country bits, an extended "Angry Eyes" gave the musicians a chance to loosen up. From here on out, it became obvious that the

Johnny W

by Doug Collette

STILL ALIVE AND WELL
Johnny Winter
Columbia KC32188

Signing with a mammoth record company like Columbia doesn't insure easy living, ask Johnny Winter. On his first LP for the label all kinds of blues as well as the men he learned from, but nothing could fulfill the astronomical hopes generated by the hype. His three-sided opus was the follow-up, an earthy consolidation and extension of its predecessor. His next two records were full of tough rock and roll, but in that interim, Johnny also succeeded in nearly killing himself. Unlike Janis and Jimi, Winter was able to keep himself intact and his new album shows he hasn't lost any vitality.

"Rock Me Baby" signals Johnny's energetic return: call it what you will, contemporary blues or rock and roll, it's good to hear that gritty growl and dirty guitar again. "Can't You Feel It," written by Dan Hartman of brother Edgar's band "Rock & Roll" continues that fine tradition of not-too-subtle seduction with roiling music to match.

Understandably, much of the material deals with the sordid side of superstardom and its accompanying excesses. "Ain't Nothing To Me"

Concert B

The University of Vermont concert Band gave a performance Sunday April 8 in the Allen Chapel. Conducting the first part of the program was Edward Spence, assistant conductor. "Folk Song Suite" by Ralph Vaughan Williams was extremely well conducted and performed. The dynamics were good, and the tempo steady with accurate entrances and cut-offs. It was apparent that each section had strong players.

The rest of the program was under the direction of Conductor Professor Herbert Schultz. "Symphony in E minor" by Ernest S. Williams was performed next. "Larghetto" had nice shading and phrasing. The percussion section is to be noted here. This movement contained different moods and each was effectively done. "Larghetto-allegro" contained dissonances which came across sounding well. As the tempo increased, so did the dynamics, and the piece ended very impressively.

"Molly on the Shore" by

Loggins And Messina, With Martin Mull, Please An Expectant Crowd

by Doug Collette

In front of a crowd as impatiently expectant as the audience in Patrick Gym, it would've been hard to find a better opening act than Martin Mull. More a comedian than musician, Mull's witty parodies and tongue-in-cheek demeanor, in a wisely short set, kept everyone entertained and good natured.

Ken Loggins' rather perfunctory solo acoustic spot was hardly a precursor of things to come. After Jim Messina led the band on stage and through their snappy country bits, an extended "Angry Eyes" gave the musicians a chance to loosen up. From here on out, it became obvious that the Loggins/Messina group are serious musicians not just content to recreate their recorded work; they want to please their audience only by satisfying themselves and that means sacrificing a lot of stage presence in favor of concentration on their playing.

During their superbly orchestrated hour and one-half, they unveiled no new material, but the sophisticated instrumental expertise of all in the band — except Loggins who, as the set progressed, looked more and more like excess baggage — and their mutual sensitivity to each other as companion musicians gave even the "Trilogy" new life. Loosely conducted by Messina, a free-form jam on "Vaseline" became as evocative a performance as I've heard by a rock and roll band in a long, long time. The multiple skills of Al Garth and Jon Clarke came to the fore here; the extra dimension they lend to the music is unmistakable and indispensable.

As the band tore through an encore composed of "Your Mama Don't Dance" and "Nobody but You," a certain weariness with their material and the fatigue of touring slipped through most clearly. For a band as dedicated as Loggins and Messina's, though, neither of those drawbacks could keep their concert from being as satisfying as it was.

Loussier's Bach Is Brilliant

The Jacques Loussier Trio performed a program of Bach brilliantly April 6th in the Ira Allen Chapel as part of the Lane Chamber Arts Series.

Loussier, a Frenchman, became intrigued with the idea of playing Bach "in his own way" in 1959. He chose two renowned French jazzmen, Christian Garros on drums, and Pierre Michelot on bass, to be his partners. Loussier's original interpretations of Bach gave a new intricate dimension to the music and brought the group instantaneous acclaim abroad.

"Prelude No. 1" started off the program. The belief that Bach is the "Grandfather of Jazz" was certainly proven here. The syncopation was great and Bach would have admired Loussier's adaptations. The audience was wild with delight, and the three musicians held constant smiles themselves, passing musical jokes among each other with their eyes. Loussier is a master of keyboard, playing the entire concert without music.

The chorale, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," was very effectively done. The lines were sensitively played, with a song adding a unique touch.

Garros used brushes on the drums which brought about a well deserved round of applause.

Fugue No. 5 in D major was originally performed. After the main motive was played, there was a great gap of sound. Then a short phrase was played again, and again, titillating the audience. Garros followed with a cymbal solo in the rhythm of the main motive. Then as a final touch, he squeaked the top of the cymbals with the tip of his drum sticks.

The familiar "Minuet in G major" sounded like music boxes being played simultaneously. Garros ended with a melody on the drums and small cymbals.

The "Italian Concerto" was fantastic. The technique of the Allegro was amazing at the brisk tempo it was performed. The syncopation was outstanding. "Andante" started out as originally composed, with chords gradually being added with the effect-sounding more "nightclubbush." The "Finale" began with the drum playing very quickly. The bass player, Michelot, is to be congratulated on his performance here. "Prelude No. 2" in C minor was technically very difficult, but sensitively and well done. Michelot is again to be praised in this piece.

The ensemble of the group was perfect. The technique was flawless and the beat kept the audience enraptured the entire night. The performers loved it too. It was indeed a rare musical experience.

"Women In Song"

On Friday, April 20, the Arena Theatre's Friday at four series will present "Women in Song," a musical presentation sung by Teresa Elwert with piano accompaniment by Pam Dunkling. The show will consist of songs about women: their good times, their bad times; their highs, their lows, and especially — their men. The songs of Jerome Kern, Cole Porter, Richard Rodgers, Jacques Brel, and others will be presented. Admission is free, curtain time is 4:10 p.m. at the Arena Theatre.

Con Brio Program

The following is the program of the Con Brio Chamber Ensemble performing tonight at 8:00 p.m.

Gypsy Songs, op. 55
My Song of Love
El Triunfo be chiming
Here in the Wood
Songs as mother sang them
Set the Fiddles Scraping Flowing above and Trousers
The cliffrat Taro

Shari Fleming, soprano Elizabeth Metcalfe, piano

Octet in F Major, op. 166

Adagio - Allegro
Andante un poco mosso
Scherzo

Intermission

Octet - (cont.)

Andante
Menuetto
Andante molto - Allegro

Layton Davis, clarinet

Terry Ranney, bassoon

David Racusen, horn

Ronald Foulkes, double bass

Thomas Read, violin

Evelyn Read, violin

Roger Gillin, viola

Bettina Roulier, cello

Johnny Winter's Return: It's Good Rock And Roll

by Doug Collette
STILL ALIVE AND WELL
Johnny Winter
Columbia KC32188

Signing with a mammoth record company like Columbia doesn't insure easy living; ask Johnny Winter. On his first LP for the label all kinds of blues, as well as the men he learned from, but nothing could fulfill the astronomical hopes generated by the hype. His three-sided opus was the followup, an earthy consolidation and extension of its predecessor. His next two records were full of tough rock and roll, but in that interim, Johnny also succeeded in nearly killing himself. Unlike Janis and Jimi, Winter was able to keep himself intact and his new album shows he hasn't lost any vitality.

"Rock Me Baby" signals Johnny's energetic return: call it what you will, contemporary blues or rock and roll, it's good to hear that gritty growl and dirty guitar again. "Can't You Feel It," written by Dan Hartman of brother Edgar's band "Rock & Roll" continue that fine tradition of not-too-subtle seduction with soaring music to match.

Understandably, much of the material dealt with the sordid side of superstardom and its accompanying excesses. "Ain't Nothing To Me" describes the generally listless attitude toward life that Johnny must have known all too well. "All Tore Down" pleads the world "to stop...or just slow down."

Besides producing the LP and playing on a few tracks, Rick Derringer (who's capable of making a bitch of an album himself) contributed two songs, probably autobiographical, but just as applicable to Johnny. The title song is as exhilarating as it should be and the irony of "Cheap Tequila" is obvious: "Drink up and be happy/Live just for today/Drown in cheap tequila/And flush yourself away."

Johnny Winter has never been a prolific or spectacular composer and his two compositions here follow suit. "Rock & Roll" is a worthy reminder that though Duane Allman gained a rightful prominence as a slide guitarist while Johnny was out of action, the albino is every bit the Georgian's equal. "Too Much Second" is the only cut approaching true blues, but Jeremy Steig's huffing and puffing on flute adds a unique effect, counterpointed as it is against Winter's mandolin and slide acoustic.

Together with his live "Jumpin' Jack Flash," the two

Jagger-Richard pieces on this record confirm my belief that, bar none, Winter is an unequalled interpreter of Stones material. "Silver Train" features some more ear-piercing slide guitar and "Let It Bleed" is just perfect for Johnny: because they're ROLLING STONES, there's a certain amount of sophistication attached to even their raunchiest performance, but Johnny's vocal is from the gut and his guitar is straight from the groin and you can't get much more down-to-earth than that. The new rhythm section proves very adaptable; on the rest of the cuts, Randy Jo Hobbs and Richard Hughes play with a deft fluidity, but here their unadorned primitiveness couldn't be more appropriate. Charlie Watts would be proud of Hughes — and maybe a little jealous!

Like the new albums by the original Byrds and Beck, Roger and Apples, Johnny Winter's first recording in over two years doesn't blaze any new trail, but that will only disappoint those who expect masterpieces every time out; who ignore the humanity of these artists amidst the mystique or who are so anxious for Art, that they can't appreciate the simple joy of good, powerful music.

Concert Band Gives Fine Show

The University of Vermont concert band gave a performance Sunday April 8 in Ira Allen Chapel. Conducting the first part of the program was Edward Spence, assistant conductor. "Folk Song Suite" by Ralph Vaughan Williams was extremely well conducted and performed. The dynamics were good, and the tempo steady with accurate entrances and cut-offs. It was apparent that each section had strong players.

The rest of the program was under the direction of Conductor Professor Herbert Schultz. "Symphony in E minor" by Ernest S. Williams was performed next. "Larghetto" had nice shadings and phrasing. The percussion section is to be noted here. This movement contained different moods and each was effectively done. "Larghetto-allegro" contained dissonances which came across sounding well. As the tempo increased, so did the dynamics, and the piece ended very impressively. "Molly on the Shore" by Percy Grainger, was a cute, light piece with a few rhythmic difficulties.

"Symphonic Movement" by Vaclav Nelhybel had a crashing entrance with lots of percussion. The rhythm was difficult, but well handled. This piece was very exciting.

The second half of the program began with four pieces by Shostakovich. In "Folk Festival," one could envision lively peasant dancing. The "Polka" was an amusing piece.

The individual soloists were excellent. It is a very fun-loving piece with the trombone making "laughing" sounds.

Custom
Motorcycles

Bikes Built Repaired Parts

Road Chop Shop

488 RIVERVIEW AVENUE
BURLINGTON, VERMONT 05401

863-9170

The Recording Stars of the Century

THE BEATLES

to
Wed. 25

$3.59 PER DISC
$5.49 LIST
$5.49 LIST

THE BEATLES/1962-1966 On Apple Records and Tapes. THE BEATLES/1967-1970

Every BEATLE LP & Tape In Stock Included In This Sale
ONE WEEK ONLY - SUNDAY, APRIL 15th - SATURDAY, APRIL 21st

"Sleuth" Becomes Excellent Movie

by Marge Henson

The Sleuth is back. The British thriller that won a Tony Award, an "Edgar" award from the Mystery Writers of America, and came to Burlington four weeks ago as a presentation of the Lane Series, has become an excellent movie with three Academy Award nominations to its credit. Sir Laurence Olivier and Michael Caine each received an Academy Award nomination for "Best Actor" in this brilliantly done production. Sleuth was also nominated for "Best Picture."

Welcome to the macabre world of writer Andrew Wyke (Olivier), a most peculiar man, estranged from his wife, he has become pathologically obsessed with games. His rooms are full of chess sets, intricate puzzles, dancing figurines and other oddities. His other great fixation is with his numerous detective stories; with them, he enters the position of (if you will) a puppeteer or chessmaster, controlling all the moves and becoming at one time or another all the moving pieces. Mike Tindle (Caine) is the British-Italian playboy proprietor of a hairdressing salon, in love with Wyke's wife (a love paralleling sets in here, as old Andrew has a girlfriend on the side) and soon to become involved in these eerie surroundings in a most deadly game.

There is something to consider when one compares the film version of an excellent play with the play itself. The nature of any play that distinguishes it from a movie—that of live action before an audience—will perhaps generate in the audience a greater personal involvement. The live drama of a play will, if properly executed, involve the audience to such an extent that they cease to become merely an audience but rather witnesses to something that is real.

While a movie, on the other hand, may not be able to generate this affinity all the time, it has of course the advantage over a play of an unbroken line of action, greater realism through special effects and settings not available to a play, and the great advantage of giving detail to details. Sitting towards the back of a theatre one might be apt to miss a number of little significant things that further the plot, simply because one cannot see them; whereas this problem disappears in a movie with the wide availability of variety in camera shots.

Perhaps it was because the play was seen first, but this reviewer noted in the movie a number of symbols of a social and psychological nature that were not grasped as fully in the play. The dialogue was not added to significantly, but the general impression was that of an enhancement of every psychological ramification, and a resulting greater understanding in the movie. Not that this could be interpreted as a predictability factor by any means! The acting was excellent, the music of Cole Porter ("You Do Something To Me" and "Anything Goes") strangely enough furthered the plot, and the photography was very well done. The only criticism worth mentioning is a tendency to drag things out at one or two major points of suspense, with the impact of surprise not as great as a result.

Sleuth is now playing at Burlington Plaza Cinema I and II in South Burlington—so if you missed the play—or even if you didn't—don't miss this one!

"The Heartbreak Kid" Presents Uncomfortably Funny Show

by Mina Carson

The Heartbreak Kid is a good movie, intelligent, sharp, uncomfortably funny. It combines a script by Neil Simon—you know, that Broadway guy who never fails with the undoubtedly school-of-Nichols direction of Elaine May, and comes out looking, of course, like a film which should have been made five years ago.

That is not a theoretical reflection, but rather one slightly after the fact. When you look at this film's 1972-73 brothers—The Godfather, Cabaret, Sounder, Deliverance, etc.—this one seems almost anomalous. It is very much a comedy of the later '60's genre: cynical, self-contained, contemporary, decidedly anti-heroic. There are, however, a few self-conscious strains which give the lie to such an out-and-out comparison. There are the insistent Bacharach tunes at the wedding(s); a few pieces of camerawork purposely reminiscent and overdone (a distorted shot down the length of a table—you know the kind I mean?); and absolutely no clumsy fumbling for Subtle Social Significance. It is thus its own film, humorously conscious of its forebears, and far more loyal to its purpose and successful therein than any other of its "kind" (e.g., The Graduate, Goodbye, Columbus, and the recent Portnoy's Complaint as one which didn't succeed).

The actors are at least as good as their lines. Charles Grodin as the incredible schmuck who is able to fall in love on his honeymoon—and not with his wife—is so perfect in his insane matter-of-fact oblivion to other people that he is almost endearing. (Well, I can't explain it—go see for yourself.) Jeannie Berlin plays the victim of this first ill-fated match, and not one nuance of this pathetic role escapes her. Hers is really the only character in the script whose motivation is crystal clear. Cybill Shepard, as the lovely Gentile who lures the new husband away from his honeymoon suite, has landed another coy adolescent role, down even to the strip-game scene. (The friend who went with me turned to me at this point and asked, "Why does she always wear those horrible underpants?") She does what she can with it, though. Her character is really the weakest in the script. Her unexplained vulnerability to this creep rightfully puzzles the viewer, and serves no purpose, at least as far as I'm concerned—once a schmuck, always a schmuck. (It's really kind of a sad movie.) Eddie Albert as her father is really fine, and only genuinely likeable character in the whole bunch.

The humor of this film is at times genuinely painful, because all too true, down to the last sordid detail. Moment after moment is screwy and absurd and yet uncomfortably right: the first honeymoon night in a motel, a first-exposure sunburn at Miami Beach, an hysterical family scene in a posh restaurant. I think that this is Elaine May's first film—as such, or even not as such, it portends well for her future work.

Parenti ...

(continued from page one)

faculty of their elitism, of the view that there's something special, separate, apart, from the students that they're supposed to be working with. But the Faculty-Senate as such is a powerless group, a big charade, a ritual of anti-power, that it doesn't really control anything. Anything the Faculty-Senate does is purely advisory.

Cynic: Would you care to comment on anything relating to last year's incident or to present matters at UVM?

Parenti: I just think one thing ought to take place, that students ought to organize themselves and alert themselves to the fact that teachers are still being eliminated because of their political ideas; that certain people are not getting their contracts renewed, that there are administrative steps being taken to attempt to control the range of opinions that students are allowed to hear in the classroom. It just simply is the instinct to play it safe and get conservative, conventional faculty, who accept this hierarchy of autocratic power, rather than faculty members who might

Jorling Discusses Water Pollution Control Amendments

by Jim Bradley

Tom Jorling, the head of the Environmental Studies Department at Williams College, spoke in the Memorial Lounge in Waterman last Thursday evening on the 1972 Federal Water Pollution Control Act amendments. These amendments, said Jorling, have as their goal the raise troublesome questions about the way the university is run. Those who do raise troublesome questions are still being fired, discouraged or filtered out in this and other universities. When they're filtered out, that means the student's right to engage in hearing other opinions is being further and further eliminated.

restoration of the "physical, chemical, and biological integrity of the nation's waters."

He said that the recent history of federal pollution control efforts begins with the Water Pollution Control Administration, which was initiated in the 1960's. But this Administration, which is now under the Environmental Protection Agency, was started from a fear of pollution as a public health hazard, rather than from a concern for ecosystems. With the new amendments, Congress is saying that this approach to pollution must change. Now the goal is elimination of discharges into the nation's waters (with all waterways falling under federal jurisdiction) at their source, rather than simply the decontamination of discharges as far as they endanger public health. As the Water Pollution Control Act now stands, every point source of pollution (meaning every place of discharge into a waterway) must get a permit—in effect, a license to pollute. One prerequisite for obtaining the permit is the implementation of the best possible control technique, designed to eliminate contaminants. According to Jorling, several refineries have been built with "absolutely no discharge of pollutants into water."

As part of the Water Pollution Control Act citizens can ask for the enforcement of the law against violators. If a point source is discharging without a permit after July 1 of this year, citizens can get a court injunction to stop it. If that should happen, the offending industry or municipality has no recourse but to stop, unless it has applied for a permit as of April 16 (last Monday). And Jorling says that, primarily due to poor administration by the Environmental Protection Agency, many municipalities have not been made aware that they must apply for a permit by April 16, so this will probably happen in many cases, the forms for applying for the permits have not even arrived.

The EPA has problems, he said: (1) Ineffective personnel, many being holdovers from the old days when the concepts of pollution and pollution control were different. (2) A lack of funds. (3) A generally chaotic situation. In some ways they have not done their job.

So when cases of violations come to court, Jorling stated, municipalities and industries may say, "We'd have done everything that was expected of us but we don't really know what is expected of us." For the EPA has been very lax in getting regulations published and known. So far sixteen different sets of regulations have not been published by their deadlines.

Jorling thinks that while citizen suits will not solve the pollution problems, they may bring the problems to greater public attention, which could result in needed increases in federal funding. In Jorling's opinion, when the courts start saying to offenders, "You have to shut down, that's what the law says," then things will start to happen and change. "I think we have to create chaos before we can create any order," he concluded.

The weekend. And you've got a little time to spend. Any way you want. Good times, good friends. And Coca-Cola to help make it great.

It's the real thing. Coke.

Bottled under the authority of The Coca-Cola Company by COCA-COLA BOTTLERS OF BURLINGTON

GRAND OPENING

of our new 10 speed bicycle shop

SATURDAY APRIL 21st 96

come register for free prizes &

MOTOBECANE France
MAGNET Holland
FALCON England
ACCESSORIES

pagocycle • charlotte
rt. 7 south of rt. 1-5 • 425-2166

THE TOWER RESTAURANT

... the unique eating establishment for the entire family, large seating capacity, air conditioned.

PIZZA

24 KINDS

Now Serving Ice Cold Draft Beer!

- Italian Dishes (16 kinds)
- Delicatessen Style Sandwiches
- Submarines (15 kinds)
- Muffins (9 kinds)
- Breakfasts
- (country style)

THE Tower RESTAURANT

Don't Forget To Visit Us At Our Other Locations When Travelling!

Open 9:30 a. m. to 1:00 a. m.
Friday and Saturday to 2 a.m.

1234 Williston Rd. S. Burlington 864-9817	Essex Junction Shopping Ctr. 878-8338	ETHAN ALLEN SHOPPING CENTER north ave.
---	---	--

QUESTION: As a parent occasionally read their college home.

For a long time I have obeyed and offensive questions and pertaining to the sex pe "boyfriends". The most recent war. It really makes me ill to wondering if you are writing it. Please don't say, "you don't know when there it is?"

I also think that some answered wouldn't apply to so then why should they be?

Let these people come to extremely private questions public answers. The reading rest of us. I am sorry to write ANSWER: Your interesting are "probably shared by a philosophy of education and different than mine. Perhaps with people and their problem widespread is the lack of personal matters. As a physics "ully" for a couple to be co other with venerable wars.

I suspect that you might be that I encourage people to activities. I hate to disappoint. Sexual activities engaged in to parents, because these are the parents engaged in when differences appear to be the sexually active at a slightly ex their activities. It is in the nature concealing about one's own reinforcing of what is considered even if these values are no longer.

I try to provide as accurate questions that I have reason to concerns. I have always mainly people engage in should be of themselves or others, not content and wrong. I hope that influenced by his family's value hang ups.

On large campuses, a question case in a thousand could generate or visits to doctor's offices. By more people in a year than I seeing patients. Since it has offend anyone, I can only hope my column will be accompanied distress and by a greater appreciation and humor of people's talking to your two children, their friends have and find out. This too, might help you enjoy.

QUESTION: A friend of mine ejaculate twice during intercourse bodily strain and can cause hernia this is true or just another cop?

ANSWER: Just another cop! It is not all that easy to ejaculate in fact, it may even be in early twenties. It is fortunate people, intercourse does not strain. Hernias often occur. Unless you and your friend intercourse in some absurdly risk of hernias.

QUESTION: Life is a perpetual seems this way. While this might be giving me a hand right now, still maintain an erection, some afterwards. Even though I an erection is maintained, making about fulfilling my needs.

I'm afraid to try any more prevent erections for fear of inadequate. I've tried shower afterwards, even concentrating have failed and I'm at a loss to think of anything to do, please inadequacy on my girl's behalf.

Ch

the doctor's bag

by Arnold Warner M.D.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Warner,
Box 974, East Lanning, Mt. 48823

QUESTION: As a parent of two college students, I occasionally read their college newspaper when it is brought home.

For a long time I have objected to some of the ridiculous and offensive questions answered in your column - those pertaining to the sex problems of "girlfriends" and "boyfriends". The most recent one of this kind was about warts. It really makes me ill to read this silly stuff, and I am wondering if you are writing it for a laugh, it is so very silly. Please don't say, "you don't have to read it". How can it be avoided when there it is?

I also think that some of the questions you have answered wouldn't apply to one case in about a thousand, so then why should they be published?

Let these people come to doctors in person with their extremely private questions. They should not be given public answers. The reading is an offense to some of the rest of us. I am sorry to write this letter.

ANSWER: Your interesting letter expresses thoughts that are probably shared by a number of people, but reflect a philosophy of education and health care that is obviously different than mine. Perhaps it takes day to day contact with people and their problems to appreciate how truly widespread is the lack of accurate information about personal matters. As a physician, I cannot agree that it is "silly" for a couple to be concerned about infecting each other with venereal warts.

I suspect that you might be a little distressed believing that I encourage people to engage in particular sexual activities. I hate to disappoint you, but this is not the case. Sexual activities engaged in today should be of no surprise to parents, because these are the same exact activities that the parents engaged in when they were younger. The only differences appear to be that the current generation is sexually active at a slightly earlier age and talk more about their activities. It is in the nature of parenthood to become concealing about one's own sexual experiences and reinforcing of what is considered traditional societal values, even if these values are no longer widely held.

I try to provide as accurate information as I can about questions that I have reason to believe express widely held concerns. I have always maintained that the activities that people engage in should be ones that are not harmful to themselves or others, nor conflict with their own sense of right and wrong. I hope that a person has been positively influenced by his family's values and not rigidified by their hang ups.

On large campuses, a question that applies to only one case in a thousand could generate dozens of telephone calls or visits to doctor's offices. By writing this column, I reach more people in a year than I could in an entire career of seeing patients. Since it has never been my intention to offend anyone, I can only hope that your future readings of my column will be accompanied by less of a sense of distress and by a greater appreciation of the universality and humor of people's problems. You might consider talking to your two children about the concerns they and their friends have and find out where they seek answers. This too, might help you enjoy the column a little more.

QUESTION: A friend of mine insists that for him to ejaculate twice during intercourse produces too much bodily strain and can cause hernias. I would like to know if this is true or just another copout.

ANSWER: Just another copout for what? For some people it is not all that easy to ejaculate twice during intercourse, and in fact, it may even be impossible if you are past the early twenties. It is fortunate that in reasonably intact people, intercourse does not produce too much bodily strain. Hernias often occur from lifting heavy weights. Unless you and your friend are engaging in sexual intercourse in some absurdly strenuous fashion, I can see no risk of hernias.

QUESTION: Life is a perpetual erection for me, at least it seems this way. While this might not seem like a problem, it is giving me a headache right now. Even after several orgasms I still maintain an erection; sometimes for more than an hour afterwards. Even though I am more than satisfied the erection is maintained, making my girl feel inadequate about fulfilling my needs.

I'm afraid to try any medical antidotes available to prevent erections for fear of making her feel even more inadequate. I've tried showers, preoccupying my mind afterwards, even concentrating on chess games. All of these have failed and I'm at a loss as to what to do. If you can't think of anything to do, please try to explain that it isn't inadequacy on my girl's behalf.

ANSWER: The problem you raise is almost worthy of an entire column. I usually hear of men's fantasies of super erections and unlimited performance, which they often tie to enhancement of their desirability in the eyes of women. But, your letter highlights a different reality. It sounds as if your girlfriend would gladly exchange marathon performance for a sense of completion. I think some explanation might permit you both to enjoy your fortuitous physiologic attribute for the few years it may last.

Erections occur when physical or psychic stimulation produces changes in the blood flow through the penis so that more blood goes in than comes out. The internal structure of the penis makes it like a number of other inflatable devices which become stiff when pumped up. Erections occur in non sex related situations also. All men have them at times during dreaming sleep and younger men are apt to get erections with anxiety and certain types of physical activity involving strenuous contraction of muscles. In the sex related situation, the erection dissipates gradually when sexual stimulation stops or, fairly rapidly following sexual climax. However, this is not always the case, as you so poignantly indicate.

Younger men in particular may be able to sustain an erection following climax. Repeated orgasms, especially without loss of an erection in between, is a capacity possessed primarily by men in their late teens and early twenties. They may range from the usual one to as many as six or eight ejaculations. The first one is usually the best and they become progressively more work and less fun for everyone involved. The woman's capacity for repeated or prolonged sexual contact increases as she gets older, often being rather low in late adolescence and early adulthood with many women becoming capable of multiple orgasms later in life. This divergence is a developmental irony since, as you and your partner age, she will begin to appreciate your abilities more as your performance begins to wane.

Under no circumstances should you try any antidotes to prevent erections. The persistence of your erection is no reflection of inadequacy in your partner. Certainly prolonged erection should be helpful to your partner if she has any need for prolonged sexual contact in order to achieve orgasm herself. Sex for humans should be different than it is for lower animals, who couple and uncouple as rapidly as possible. I am an advocate of the relaxed approach, so you might use that hour afterwards to do something unique - talk to each other.

QUESTION: I don't have pimple problems anywhere except on my thighs. At times they seem to "break out" all over and they are sore, other times they seem to dry up and stay red bumps. Many of them seem to be ingrown hairs. They usually seem to disappear in the summer. I would really like to know if there is anything I can do about them. (This letter was written by a woman.)

ANSWER: A number of possible explanations could be provided for the problem you describe. I will start with the physiologic and work toward the mechanical. During the cooler months, many women with hair on their thighs do not shave the hair off. During the summer months, because of wearing bathing suits and shorts, women tend to shave their legs much higher. You may well be developing ingrown hairs or irritation from the hairs where they are curling and turning back into the skin. This problem would be enhanced by wearing tight fitting slacks containing synthetics. Some people break out in rashes from the rubbing of synthetic fibers against their skin. The use of panty hose during the winter might also contribute to the irritation. Dry skin, which is very common in cool weather, seems especially prone to mechanical irritation. The solution to your problems may lie in appropriate modification of your attire and the coming of warm weather.

Chinese Courses

Want to Learn Chinese? College level Chinese courses will be offered by UVM instructor this summer. Classes start in June.

Chin 1 Elementary Chinese equal to 6 credits

Chin 2 Intermediate Chinese equal to 6 credits

For more information call: 656-2250 or 658-0854 or write: WONG, Rm A-160 Med. Alumni Bldg. University of Vermont, Burlington, Vt. 05401.

DAVE'S AUTOMOTIVE, Inc.

Specialists in Foreign Car Repairs
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686

FIRESTONE VW TIRES
for the bug $18.95 + $1.74 FET ww $3.00 extra 560 x 15

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Exhaust $24.95

Spice Balance

Front End

VW BRAKE JOB $39.95
Discs $10 Additional

KEEP TRACK OF FINANCES WITH

ThriftyCheck
PERSONAL CHECKING ACCOUNT

Your checkbook records will keep an accurate report of your expenses and help you manage college dollars more successfully. Only $2. for a book of 20 checks - no minimum balance - no hidden charges - statements sent quarterly!

YOUR CHECKBOOK
EMBOSSED
WITH OFFICIAL
UVM SEAL

CAMPUS-SIDE BANKING
WILLISTON ROAD and DORSET STREET

Chittenden TRUST COMPANY

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

Greco To Lead Cats For '73-'74 Season

Joe Greco, 73-74 basketball captain

Tennis Schedule For Spring

Women's Tennis schedule for Spring 1973:

April 23 Johnson - Home

April 25 Colby Jr. College - Away

May 3 Johnson - Away

Also the following dates have been confirmed for softball (women's) scrimmages:

April 19 Home - CVU

April 26 Away - So. Burlington

Bioengineering Conference Meets At U.V.M.

More than 200 researchers and teachers from New England, New York and eastern Canada will meet at the University of Vermont April 19-20 for the New England Bioengineering Conference.

Dr. S. D. Bruck of the National Heart and Lung Institute will be the speaker at a dinner to be held the opening night of the conference, at the Ramada Inn. His title will be "Perspectives in the Use of Medical Polymers."

The conference, in Given Medical Building, will open at 9 a.m. April 19 with remarks by two from the University of Vermont, Dr. Richard W. McLaughlin, associate professor of mechanical engineering and one of the three conference co-chairmen, and Dr. Alfred B. Rollins, vice president for academic affairs.

The National Science Foundation will sponsor a plenary session on "Trends in Bioengineering Education," at which C. A. Laszlo of McGill University will be moderator.

The remainder of that day's program and all of the following day will be devoted to presentation of scientific papers by participants on a variety of topics such as "Biomechanics and Sports," "Aids to the Handicapped" and "Passenger Restraint Systems."

Co-chairmen of the conference with Dr. McLaughlin are Dr. Richard G. Absher, assistant professor of electrical engineering, and Dr. Malcolm H. Pope, assistant professor of both mechanical engineering and orthopaedic surgery.

Internship Candidates

The University Committee for the State Internship Program with executive agencies met and the following nominees were selected: John Simpson, College of Eric Nadworny, College of Arts and Sciences; Darcie Wentworth, Allied Health. These students will work with agencies this summer for 10 weeks, participating in seminars, and earning academic credit.

The two alternatives are:

Art Professor Arthur Leipzig: A GOOD TEACHER

A good faculty is a collection of good teachers in all their variety.

A full range of summer undergraduate and graduate courses, special institutes and workshops. Residence halls available.

2 sessions: June 18-July 20 and July 23-August 24 (day and evening)

Call or write for the Summer Bulletin: Summer Session Office, C.W. Post Center, Long Island University, Greenvale, L.I., N.Y. 11548 (516) 299-2431

C.W. POST CENTER SUMMER SESSIONS

MORE THAN ONCE UPON A TIME

ONCE A DRAGON CHALLENGED A KNIGHT TO A GAME OF QUOTS. FOR THE WAGER OF 3 CANS OF SCHAEFER BEER...

WHEN THE KNIGHT FORGOTHE QUICKLY INTO THE LEAD, AND AGREED TO DOUBLE THE BET...

BUT ALAS, WHEN VICTORY WAS ALMOST HIS, BAD LUCK FALLETH UPON HIM, AND HE LOST ALL HIS BEER TO THE DRAGON...

PROVING THAT SOME GUYS JUST DON'T KNOW HOW TO QUIT WHEN THEY'RE AHEAD.

WHEN YOU'RE HAVING MORE THAN ONE

Brewery: Breweries, New York, N.Y., Baltimore, Md., Long Valley, Pa.

Amendments

must apply for a permit April 16, so this will probably happen in many cases. The forms for applying for the permits have not even been received.

The EPA has problems, he said. (1) Ineffective personnel, many being holdovers from the days when the concepts of pollution and pollution control were different. (2) A lack of funds. (3) A generally chaotic situation. In some ways they are not doing their job.

When cases of violations are brought to court, Jorling stated, the courts are not doing their job. "We'd have done anything that was expected of us but we don't really know what is expected of us." For EPA has been very lax in enforcing regulations published in the Federal Register. So far sixteen different sets of regulations have not been published by the agency.

Jorling thinks that while the suits will not solve the pollution problems, they may draw the problems to greater public attention, which could lead to needed increases in federal funding. In Jorling's opinion, when the courts start going to offenders, "You have shut down, that's what the suits do," then things will start to change. "I think we have to create chaos before we can create any order," he said.

OPENING

April 21st 96

prizes $1

MOTOBECANE

MAGNET

FALCON

ACCESSORIES

charlotte

5-425-2166

Cats Prepare For Alumni Game

Co-captains Peter Trono and John Hemphill led over 65 players out for spring football drills which began Monday (April 16). The drills which began with the temperature hovering 70 degrees will continue the next three weeks and conclude with the third annual Alumni-Varsity game, May 5. "We'll be concentrating on our offense this spring, particularly with sophomore quarterback Bob Bateman. We lost Fran Baczek last week (ankle injury) playing basketball," so Bateman will get a lot of work," said coach Carl Fawcett. Bateman didn't see any action last year as a freshman, but the 6-5 signal-caller has to be ranked the No. 1 candidate to take over for the departed Earl Olson, who snapped virtually every UVM passing record, including two long-standing Yankee Conference marks.

Fifteen names have been added to the alumni roster, as the alumni prepare for the May confrontation with the varsity. Hiking the alumni roster to over 30 are Bob Lynch ('71), a 6-7, 250 offensive tackle; Bill Bonczek ('71), a defensive tackle; Tom MacLaughlin ('71), a defensive end; Charlie Russo ('72), an All-Yankee Conference defensive tackle; John Sullivan ('66), one of the strongest linemen ever to wear the Green and Gold; Jack Stroker ('69), a former quarterback and defensive back; last year's All-New England and All-Yankee Conference tight end, Tim Sullivan ('73); fullback Carl Etlinger ('65); quarterback Ed Yurica ('72); lineman Bob Miller ('72); fullback Peter Clifford ('70); quarterback and kicking specialist Paul Jakubowski ('73); All-Yankee Conference and All-New England linebacker Doug Bull; cornerback Tom Nierdske ('73) and Olson, one of the finest quarterbacks ever to perform at UVM. These 15 new names will join other stars previously announced. Bobby Mitchell ('67), former All-American running back in 1966; All-New England linebacker Rusty Brink ('66) tight end Jeff Kuhn and halfback Dean Kent ('65).

Deos & Slahor Win 2nd Annual Road Rally

The second annual Maxwell Silverhammer Memorial Cannonball Road Rally took place Saturday, April 14, with 35 cars entered and nearly 100 participating students, staff, and townspeople. The course followed this year led the drivers first toward Colchester, then toward Jericho, back toward Essex, southward to Richmond, finishing at Shelburne Pond. A total of approximately 64 miles, the course took nearly three hours for the first car to cross the finish line. The variety of entries represented the gamut of automobiles available and included four-wheel drive vehicles, a van, Volkswagens, sports cars, conventional sedans, and a 1961 Corvair named "Nader's Nightmare".

Determination of the winner was done by assigning points to each team for deviations from the scheduled time for each section of the course. A list of questions was provided for each section also, and teams accumulated points for incorrect answers. Car number 19, driven by Andy Deos and navigated by Gary Slahor, had the lowest score of 198 points and won the $25, first prize. A breakdown of the spectacular performers follows: Car 19 - Andy Deos, Gary Slahor - 198 pts. - 1st place; Car 9 - Bob Hamill, Glenn Farris - 258 pts. - 2nd place; Car 20 - Craig Lowell, Tom Rutz - 268 points - 3rd place.

Walter May, manager of Waterman Dining Hall, led his team to 14th place, followed by the Corvair driven by Paul Chlo. Last place was claimed by the team of car 28, who amassed a total of 882 points. Only two cars failed to reach the finish line, although one team was disqualified for opening its "Panic Envelope" which contained detailed instructions to the Finish Line.

Bob Lanza, the titular head of the UVM Automotive Sporting Club, indicated his pleasure with the rally by commenting that "people are beginning to learn how to rally." He added that he was "amazed by the enthusiasm and interest" in the UVM community for the sport. Comparing this year's rally with one held last spring, he said that this year's went "a lot smoother".

Rallying emphasizes driving skill and ability to interpret instructions, and is not restricted to high performance vehicles or a particular type of driver. As anyone who made it to the finish line can attest, part of the fun is partaking of the festivities at the finish line.

Another rally is tentatively planned for early autumn.

For Sale: 1 Fischer Imperator Skis - 206 cm. 3 year factory guarantee. Brand new. Normally $250. Now $120 will negotiate. Call Bob 656-3493. Room 420.

Two bedroom furnished apartment - corner of Henry & Weston St. - Near UVM. Available May 15. Rent Negotiable. Call 863-8867 between 5-7 pm.

REWARD of $25.00 for information leading to the return of the white Peugeot stolen from in front of Billings Thursday, April 5. Call 862-0482.

FLUTE PLAYER AND GUITARIST looking for musicians to jam with. Call ELLEN 863-8567.

2 Guitars - Haxton II Amplifier - Princeton Reverb (Fender). Best offer. For all of Above. Call 656-3493. Room 420. Ask for Rob.

FREE PREGNANCY TESTING! Safe Legal Abortions. STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. A Public Service Organization. W.A.R.S. 395 Washington St. Dedham/call 617-329-4210. Ask for Louise. Open 8-6 MON-SAT. Night Appointments Available Upon Request.

NOW IN PROGRESS...EVERYDAY'S

Spring Book Sale

Over 200 titles to choose from! Architecture, Planes, Ships, Great Houses, Animals, America, How-to-Books, Design, Art, Cookbooks and many many others!

Savings up to 75% and More!

Everyday BOOK SHOP

106 CHURCH ST. - 863-8191 - OPEN FRIDAY EVE.

UVM SPORTS

UVM Announces Season Ticket Book Plan

Freshman, sophomore and junior students at the University of Vermont will soon be contacted to reserve their 1973-74 athletic ticket books.

A deposit of $5.00 must accompany the reservation.

This year's package is exceptional in that for the same '72-73 price of $20.00 ($5.00 deposit included), students will have 30 home athletic events (see list of events at end of story) to attend next year, including four football games, and thirteen basketball and hockey contests. Last year, there were 25 home games.

For the $20.00 total package, UVM students receive a $45.00 ($1.50 admission for each contest) value. If students desire to see only hockey or basketball games, it would cost them $19.50 to see 13 hockey or 14 basketball games. So, for an additional $.50, students are able to see all basketball and hockey games, plus all football games. This year's football games come early in the year (three in September to kick off the season and one in October - Homecoming Weekend).

A special to the student ticket plan for hockey games is that the students holding the books will have preferential treatment when tournament time rolls around next March.

Also, ticket book holders will have first crack at tickets for games at other schools, such as Middlebury and Norwich. Finally, the books guarantee everyone a seat at all games.

A total of 2,500 student ticket books have been allotted for the upperclassmen on a first-come, first-served basis. If there are any student ticket books left following the June 1 deadline, they will be offered to the incoming freshmen at the annual Freshman Orientation, June 15-17.

Deadline for the incoming freshmen to reserve books is July 1.

Faculty and staff and general public sales will not begin until June 1. It is expected that 555 general admission and 575 reserve ticket books will be available to faculty and staff and general public.

The same ticket price scale as last year ($30.00 for faculty and staff; $40.00 for general public and $50.00 for reserved) will be in effect this year. More information pertaining to faculty and staff, general admission and reserve sales will be available next month.

There will be no individual reserved seat sales of selected games ahead of time, as there were last year for some of the key hockey games.

1973-74 HOME ATHLETIC EVENTS OFFERED FOR ALL SEASON TICKET BOOKS

1. Sept. 8	Football	Maine	1:0
2. Sept. 15	Football	AIC	1:0
3. Sept. 22	Football	Connecticut	1:0
4. Oct. 13	Football	Rhode Island (HC)	1:3
5. Nov. 27	Hockey	St. Anselm's	7:30
6. Dec. 5	Basketball	New Hampshire	7:30
7. Dec. 8	Hockey	R.P.I.	7:30
8. Dec. 10	Hockey	St. Lawrence	7:30
9. Dec. 11	Basketball	Rhode Island	7:30
10. Dec. 15	Basketball	Maine	3:00
11. Jan. 15	Basketball	Massachusetts	7:30
12. Jan. 16	Hockey	Middlebury	7:30
13. Jan. 21	Basketball	Norwich	7:30
14. Jan. 24	Hockey	Colby	7:30
15. Jan. 26	Basketball	Connecticut	7:30
16. Jan. 30	Hockey	New Hampshire	7:30
17. Feb. 1	Hockey	Boston Univ.	7:30
18. Feb. 2	Basketball	Northeastern	3:00
19. Feb. 2	Hockey	Boston St.	7:30
20. Feb. 6	Hockey	Massachusetts	7:30
21. Feb. 7	Basketball	Siena	7:30
22. Feb. 8	Hockey	AIC	7:30
23. Feb. 9	Hockey	Connecticut	7:30
24. Feb. 11	Hockey	Clarkson	7:30
25. Feb. 13	Basketball	St. Michael's	7:30
26. Feb. 16	Basketball	Bates	1:00
27. Feb. 23	Basketball	Boston Univ.	7:30
28. Feb. 26	Hockey	Norwich	7:30
29. Feb. 27	Basketball	Middlebury	7:30
30. Feb. 28	Basketball	Dartmouth	7:30

There will be no individual reserved seat sales of selected games ahead of time, as there were last year for some of the key hockey games.

1973-74 HOME ATHLETIC EVENTS OFFERED FOR ALL SEASON TICKET BOOKS

1. Sept. 8	Football	Maine	1:0
2. Sept. 15	Football	AIC	1:0
3. Sept. 22	Football	Connecticut	1:0
4. Oct. 13	Football	Rhode Island (HC)	1:3
5. Nov. 27	Hockey	St. Anselm's	7:30
6. Dec. 5	Basketball	New Hampshire	7:30
7. Dec. 8	Hockey	R.P.I.	7:30
8. Dec. 10	Hockey	St. Lawrence	7:30
9. Dec. 11	Basketball	Rhode Island	7:30
10. Dec. 15	Basketball	Maine	3:00
11. Jan. 15	Basketball	Massachusetts	7:30
12. Jan. 16	Hockey	Middlebury	7:30
13. Jan. 21	Basketball	Norwich	7:30
14. Jan. 24	Hockey	Colby	7:30
15. Jan. 26	Basketball	Connecticut	7:30
16. Jan. 30	Hockey	New Hampshire	7:30
17. Feb. 1	Hockey	Boston Univ.	7:30
18. Feb. 2	Basketball	Northeastern	3:00
19. Feb. 2	Hockey	Boston St.	7:30
20. Feb. 6	Hockey	Massachusetts	7:30
21. Feb. 7	Basketball	Siena	7:30
22. Feb. 8	Hockey	AIC	7:30
23. Feb. 9	Hockey	Connecticut	7:30
24. Feb. 11	Hockey	Clarkson	7:30
25. Feb. 13	Basketball	St. Michael's	7:30
26. Feb. 16	Basketball	Bates	1:00
27. Feb. 23	Basketball	Boston Univ.	7:30
28. Feb. 26	Hockey	Norwich	7:30
29. Feb. 27	Basketball	Middlebury	7:30
30. Feb. 28	Basketball	Dartmouth	7:30

There will be no individual reserved seat sales of selected games ahead of time, as there were last year for some of the key hockey games.

1973-74 HOME ATHLETIC EVENTS OFFERED FOR ALL SEASON TICKET BOOKS

1. Sept. 8	Football	Maine	1:0
2. Sept. 15	Football	AIC	1:0
3. Sept. 22	Football	Connecticut	1:0
4. Oct. 13	Football	Rhode Island (HC)	1:3
5. Nov. 27	Hockey	St. Anselm's	7:30
6. Dec. 5	Basketball	New Hampshire	7:30
7. Dec. 8	Hockey	R.P.I.	7:30
8. Dec. 10	Hockey	St. Lawrence	7:30
9. Dec. 11	Basketball	Rhode Island	7:30
10. Dec. 15	Basketball	Maine	3:00
11. Jan. 15	Basketball	Massachusetts	7:30
12. Jan. 16	Hockey	Middlebury	7:30
13. Jan. 21	Basketball	Norwich	7:30
14. Jan. 24	Hockey	Colby	7:30
15. Jan. 26	Basketball	Connecticut	7:30
16. Jan. 30	Hockey	New Hampshire	7:30
17. Feb. 1	Hockey	Boston Univ.	7:30
18. Feb. 2	Basketball	Northeastern	3:00
19. Feb. 2	Hockey	Boston St.	7:30
20. Feb. 6	Hockey	Massachusetts	7:30
21. Feb. 7	Basketball	Siena	7:30
22. Feb. 8	Hockey	AIC	7:30
23. Feb. 9	Hockey	Connecticut	7:30
24. Feb. 11	Hockey	Clarkson	7:30
25. Feb. 13	Basketball	St. Michael's	7:30
26. Feb. 16	Basketball	Bates	1:00
27. Feb. 23	Basketball	Boston Univ.	7:30
28. Feb. 26	Hockey	Norwich	7:30
29. Feb. 27	Basketball	Middlebury	7:30
30. Feb. 28	Basketball	Dartmouth	7:30

There will be no individual reserved seat sales of selected games ahead of time, as there were last year for some of the key hockey games.

1973-74 HOME ATHLETIC EVENTS OFFERED FOR ALL SEASON TICKET BOOKS

1. Sept. 8	Football	Maine	1:0
2. Sept. 15	Football	AIC	1:0
3. Sept. 22	Football	Connecticut	1:0
4. Oct. 13	Football	Rhode Island (HC)	1:3
5. Nov. 27	Hockey	St. Anselm's	7:30
6. Dec. 5	Basketball	New Hampshire	7:30
7. Dec. 8	Hockey	R.P.I.	7:30
8. Dec. 10	Hockey	St. Lawrence	7:30
9. Dec. 11	Basketball	Rhode Island	7:30
10. Dec. 15	Basketball	Maine	3:00
11. Jan. 15	Basketball	Massachusetts	7:30
12. Jan. 16	Hockey	Middlebury	7:30
13. Jan. 21	Basketball	Norwich	7:30
14. Jan. 24	Hockey	Colby	7:30
15. Jan. 26	Basketball	Connecticut	7:30
16. Jan. 30	Hockey	New Hampshire	7:30
17. Feb. 1	Hockey	Boston Univ.	7:30
18. Feb. 2	Basketball	Northeastern	3:00
19. Feb. 2	Hockey	Boston St.	7:30
20. Feb. 6	Hockey	Massachusetts	7:30
21. Feb. 7	Basketball	Siena	7:30
22. Feb. 8	Hockey	AIC	7:30
23. Feb. 9	Hockey	Connecticut	7:30
24. Feb. 11	Hockey	Clarkson	7:30
25. Feb. 13	Basketball	St. Michael's	7:30
26. Feb. 16	Basketball	Bates	1:00
27. Feb. 23	Basketball	Boston Univ.	7:30
28. Feb. 26	Hockey	Norwich	7:30
29. Feb. 27	Basketball	Middlebury	7:30
30. Feb. 28	Basketball	Dartmouth	7:30

There will be no individual reserved seat sales of selected games ahead of time, as there were last year for some of the key hockey games.

1973-74 HOME ATHLETIC EVENTS OFFERED FOR ALL SEASON TICKET BOOKS

1. Sept. 8	Football	Maine	1:0
2. Sept. 15	Football	AIC	1:0
3. Sept. 22	Football	Connecticut	1:0
4. Oct. 13	Football	Rhode Island (HC)	1:3
5. Nov. 27	Hockey	St. Anselm's	7:30
6. Dec. 5	Basketball	New Hampshire	7:30
7. Dec. 8	Hockey	R.P.I.	7:30
8. Dec. 10	Hockey	St. Lawrence	7:30
9. Dec. 11	Basketball	Rhode Island	7:30
10. Dec. 15	Basketball	Maine	3:00
11. Jan. 15	Basketball	Massachusetts	7:30
12. Jan. 16	Hockey	Middlebury	7:30
13. Jan. 21	Basketball	Norwich	7:30
14. Jan. 24	Hockey	Colby	7:30
15. Jan. 26	Basketball	Connecticut	7:30
16. Jan. 30	Hockey	New Hampshire	7:30
17. Feb. 1	Hockey	Boston Univ.	7:30
18. Feb. 2	Basketball	Northeastern	3:00
19. Feb. 2	Hockey	Boston St.	7:30
20. Feb. 6	Hockey	Massachusetts	7:30
21. Feb. 7	Basketball	Siena	7:30
22. Feb. 8	Hockey	AIC	7:30
23. Feb. 9	Hockey	Connecticut	7:30
24. Feb. 11	Hockey	Clarkson	7:30
25. Feb. 13	Basketball	St. Michael's	7:30
26. Feb. 16	Basketball	Bates	1:00
27. Feb. 23	Basketball	Boston Univ.	7:30
28. Feb. 26	Hockey	Norwich	7:30
29. Feb. 27	Basketball	Middlebury	7:30
30. Feb. 28	Basketball	Dartmouth	7:30

There will be no individual reserved seat sales of selected games ahead of time, as there were last year for some of the key hockey games.

1973-74 HOME ATHLETIC EVENTS OFFERED FOR ALL SEASON TICKET BOOKS

Brown And Kongsli Named Co-Captains

Brown Kongsli

All-Americans Chris Brown (Waterbury, Vt.) and Peter Kongsli (Oslo, Norway) were named co-captains of the 1973-74 ski season, replacing Dave Dodge (St. Johnsbury, Vt.) and Martin Grimes (Oslo, Norway). Brown, a junior, will head the alpine contingent, while Kongsli, a sophomore, will lead the nordic squad. Dodge and Grimes also return next year for the Eastern champions. Brown was named All-American following his downhill victory in the EISA's and his outstanding performance in the downhill and giant slalom at the NCAA's at Middlebury. Kongsli proved to be one of the top collegiate jumpers in the country, winning every carnival he entered this past year and establishing hill records on three hills - Norwich (Vermont's own Carnival), Dartmouth and Middlebury (establishing record in January). Kongsli finished second in the NCAA's and was soon after named to both the All-American and All-East team. Brown also was named to the All-East squad.

Only one senior, Hank Pfeifle (Kingfield, Me.), a cross country runner, graduates from UVM's Eastern Championship squad. Vermont finished third in the NCAA's, after leading by a slim margin going into the final event. Colorado won the team title.

Cats To Host State Track Meet

On Wednesday, April 25 at 1:30, Bill Nedde's outdoor cindermen will host the annual Spring State Track Meet, with Middlebury and Norwich at Post Field. Vermont and Middlebury are strong favorites to capture the team title, won by Vermont last year. Two presentations, the Olney Hill plaque and the Stub Mackey award, will be presented to the top runner and field event performer of the meet. The Hill plaque will be presented to the Most Outstanding Field Event competitor, while the Mackey Award will be given to the Most Outstanding Runner.

Hill was a standout track performer at UVM in the mid-20's, serving as its captain in 1926. Mackey was an outstanding football and track star at Middlebury College of 14 teams and the distance before his death last winter.

The State Meet is opened to the public and there is no charge. Vermont is off a strong performance at the Boston College Relays last Saturday (April 14), as the 440-yard dash relay contingent of Billy Looker, Jeff Berk, Dave Bird and Zach Ramsey, won their division recording a 44.6, edging such clubs as Massachusetts, Northeastern and Harvard. Russ Jedlicka turned in an outstanding performance in his leg of the medley relay as he ran a 3:16 three-quarter-mile. Also, Devon Craig hurled the javelin over 200' and the high jump team finished fourth; the triple jump team finished sixth; the sprint medley team was seventh (out of 14 teams) and the distance before his death last winter.

continued on page nine)

The State Meet is opened to the public and there is no charge. Vermont is off a strong performance at the Boston College Relays last Saturday (April 14), as the 440-yard dash relay contingent of Billy Looker, Jeff Berk, Dave Bird and Zach Ramsey, won their division recording a 44.6, edging such clubs as Massachusetts, Northeastern and Harvard. Russ Jedlicka turned in an outstanding performance in his leg of the medley relay as he ran a 3:16 three-quarter-mile. Also, Devon Craig hurled the javelin over 200' and the high jump team finished fourth; the triple jump team finished sixth; the sprint medley team was seventh (out of 14 teams) and the distance before his death last winter.

continued on page nine)

The State Meet is opened to the public and there is no charge. Vermont is off a strong performance at the Boston College Relays last Saturday (April 14), as the 440-yard dash relay contingent of Billy Looker, Jeff Berk, Dave Bird and Zach Ramsey, won their division recording a 44.6, edging such clubs as Massachusetts, Northeastern and Harvard. Russ Jedlicka turned in an outstanding performance in his leg of the medley relay as he ran a 3:16 three-quarter-mile. Also, Devon Craig hurled the javelin over 200' and the high jump team finished fourth; the triple jump team finished sixth; the sprint medley team was seventh (out of 14 teams) and the distance before his death last winter.

continued on page nine)

The State Meet is opened to the public and there is no charge. Vermont is off a strong performance at the Boston College Relays last Saturday (April 14), as the 440-yard dash relay contingent of Billy Looker, Jeff Berk, Dave Bird and Zach Ramsey, won their division recording a 44.6, edging such clubs as Massachusetts, Northeastern and Harvard. Russ Jedlicka turned in an outstanding performance in his leg of the medley relay as he ran a 3:16 three-quarter-mile. Also, Devon Craig hurled the javelin over 200' and the high jump team finished fourth; the triple jump team finished sixth; the sprint medley team was seventh (out of 14 teams) and the distance before his death last winter.

continued on page nine)

The State Meet is opened to the public and there is no charge. Vermont is off a strong performance at the Boston College Relays last Saturday (April 14), as the 440-yard dash relay contingent of Billy Looker, Jeff Berk, Dave Bird and Zach Ramsey, won their division recording a 44.6, edging such clubs as Massachusetts, Northeastern and Harvard. Russ Jedlicka turned in an outstanding performance in his leg of the medley relay as he ran a 3:16

Kongsli
Captains

Kongsli

During every carnival he has been this past year and establishing his records on the hills. Norwich, Vermont's own (Carnival), Plymouth and Middlebury (establishing record in (county). Kongsli finished (in the NCAA's) and was (after named to both the (American and All-East (Brown also was named the All-East squad. Only one senior, Hank (Kingsfield, Me.), a cross country runner, graduates from (M's Eastern Championship (ed. Vermont finished third (the NCAA's) after leading by (lim margin going into the (ed event. Colorado won the (title.

Track Meet

(4 teams) and the distance (re his death last winter. The State Meet is open to (public and there is no (Vermont is off a strong (performance at the Boston (age Relay last Saturday (il 14), as the 440-yard (relay contingent of Billy (er, Jeff Berk, Dave Bird (Zach Ramsey, won their (vision recording a 44.6, (ing such clubs as (achusetts, Northeastern (Harvard, Russ Jedlicka (ed in an outstanding (performance in his leg of the (ley relay as he ran a 3:16 (quarter-mile. Also, Devon (hurled the javelin over (and the high jump team (shed fourth, the triple jump (in finished sixth, the sprint (ley team was seventh (out (continued on page nine) thing

close as you Woodstock without leaving

SE

Admissions Director Dr

Richard Steele reported that there have been about the same

number of applications for

the 18 member Board

Admissions Director Dr

Richard Steele reported that

there have been about the same

number of applications for

the 18 member Board

Admissions Director Dr

Richard Steele reported that

there have been about the same

number of applications for

the 18 member Board

Admissions Director Dr

Richard Steele reported that

there have been about the same

number of applications for

the 18 member Board

Admissions Director Dr

Richard Steele reported that

there have been about the same

number of applications for

the 18 member Board

Admissions Director Dr

Richard Steele reported that

there have been about the same

number of applications for

the 18 member Board

Admissions Director Dr

Richard Steele reported that

there have been about the same

number of applications for

the 18 member Board

Admissions Director Dr

Richard Steele reported that

there have been about the same

number of applications for

VERMONT CYNIC

APRIL 26, 1973

NUMBER 13

Photo by Ted Henderer

Trustees Honor Six All-Americans; Restrict Voting On Committees

by Jim Bradley

A resolution offering congratulations to UVM's hockey and ski teams and to our six All-American athletes highlighted a routine Board of Trustees meeting last Saturday morning in Waterman's Memorial Lounge. Board member and former gubernatorial candidate Luther Hackett read the resolution which honored hockey players Patty Wright and Brad Cook and skiers Peter Kongsli, Bob Cochran, Dave Dodge, and Chris Brown, and which stated that "all Vermonters are really proud of these fine young men and their athletic accomplishments." The latter two were racing in Tuckerman's Ravine on Mt. Washington at the time, but the other four were in attendance. They stood to a healthy round of applause and then slipped out the door as the meeting continued.

In other business, the Board took a stand on the question of student and faculty voting on trustee committees, deciding that voting privileges could not be extended. This was in accordance with the State Attorney General's written opinion that such privileges could not legally be granted, as to do so would have the effect of adding unauthorized personnel to the Board. At present there is one student on the 18 member Board.

Admissions Director Dr. Richard Steele reported that there have been about the same number of applications for freshman admittance this year as last. The figures are interesting. There have been approximately 1700 in-state applications and 5800 out-of-state. Of these, 1300 odd in-states have been accepted and 2600 out-of-states. About 1000 of each group of those accepted are expected to then come here. The number of in-state students who are accepted is usually about 80% of those applying, though that particular percentage is not deliberately sought. The student body for next fall is expected to number 8400, about 200 more than this year. The increase will be reflected in 200 more out-of-state

Honors Day Recognizes Students

by Wendy Nelson

Over 250 students of the four colleges and three schools were recognized on Honors Day, Wednesday, April 18th. Awards included general University awards, such as elections to honor societies and many departmental awards for scholastic achievement. A majority of the students being honored were Seniors, often the outstanding Senior in their respective fields.

The College of Arts and Sciences held its Honors Day in the Marble Court of Fleming Museum. Dean Weiger gave the opening address and awards were given by each department students. A new policy which is being implemented is to offer admission for January rather than September to 400 people who are "highly qualified, but for whom there is not enough room," said Steele.

Dr. Nick Muller reported on the Living/Learning Center. He said room choosing (turned up over 1000 applicants for the 600 beds, and concluded that the "student body must be enthusiastic about the Center. He said that it looks like all the buildings with the possible exception, of, one will be completed by September. He also said that students from every class, college, and

Burlington Police Tow Away Cars;

Angered Students Consider This Unjust

by Jim Bradley

Last Friday morning all the cars parked on the east side of University Place (the side nearest Billings and Old Mill) were towed away. The action was witnessed by a large group of curious and angry students who considered it to be highly unjust.

As the man from the tow truck attached his hook to each car he would receive a flurry of jibes from the crowd, and as he drove away attention would swing back to the cops who responded to the questions and complaints with, "Look, you're talking to the wrong man. I'm only following orders." The word "pig" was in circulation.

The order to tow came down from Burlington Police Chief Carron, who said, "What if there had been a fire in one of those buildings there? With cars parked on both sides of the street it would be impossible for fire-fighting equipment to get in. And University Place is the only access to those buildings for emergency equipment."

It was only for a week or so that people had been parking on both sides of the street. And it was primarily a result of confusion about where to park generated by Burlington's newly implemented alternate-side-of-the-street parking regulations. Some people began parking on the east side of the street, apparently to comply with alternate-side regulations. At the same time, people continued to park on the west side, where they had always parked before.

The order to tow came down from Burlington Police Chief Carron, who said, "What if there had been a fire in one of those buildings there? With cars parked on both sides of the street it would be impossible for fire-fighting equipment to get in. And University Place is the only access to those buildings for emergency equipment."

(continued on page ten)

Academic Affairs Committee
Notes Substantial Rise In A's

by Dan Haslam

The Academic Affairs Committee of the Faculty Senate has released a study of grading patterns at UVM which concludes that there has been a substantial inflation in the number of A's given out since 1966.

The report noted a general increase in the percentage of A's in colleges which are "exclusively professional" in scope. Out of the 45 departments included in the study, 16 gave more than a third A's, while four departments gave below 15% A's in the fall of 1972.

Each department was ranked on the total number of grades given and what percentage of those grades were A's. Animal Pathology gave out 83 grades, 60-2% of which were A's, the highest percentage in the University. Out of 235 grades, Medical Technology rated second in the percentage of A's given, with 51.9%. The College of Education, which is not divided into departments, ranked third in the number of A's given, 51.2% out of 3908 grades given. This percentage is up from 29.4% in 1966.

The study indicated that all departments in the Division of Health Sciences gave more than 43 A's. While the number of departments in the College of Arts and Sciences, which gave A's is the highest, the percentage of A's given by the departments is the lowest. Variation in the number of A's given is not known, but the findings suggest, "We may assume that the variation is considerable."

The Academic Affairs Committee made three recommendations to the Faculty Senate on April 9. One was for "every member of the UVM community to consider the consequences of grade inflation and what may appear to the general public to be a disintegration of standards." The second recommendation, supplemented by a Faculty Senate resolution, "urges all deans, department chairmen, and faculty to take appropriate action at every level to deal with the inflation of grading."

One pattern in grade inflation presented in the report is that there has been a sharp rise in percentage in every college in the number of A's given out. The report also indicated that the overall number of B's given out is "approximately the same" percentage throughout, with the exception of the College of Education and Division of Health Sciences where fewer B's were given. The C and D rates noted a "drop" in percentage in every college, while the number of F's given remained approximately the same.

All college deans and department chairmen will report to the Faculty Senate in the fall describing actions which they have taken or observations that they have made in light of committee findings. Every department and college was urged to "examine and assess evaluation and grading procedures" with respect to the committee's findings.

A Minority Report presented by David Shuman of the College of Education requested a change in the type of grading system at UVM. The Senate did not accept Mr. Shuman's proposal.

Professor Leonidas M. Jones, Chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee, commented that "There is no question in my mind that they (grades) have become inflated." Mr. Jones disagrees with Shuman's Minority Report because it might cause a relaxing of the A-F system. Mr. Jones added, "I wish to resist this."

Mr. Jones was unable to state concrete reasons why there has been an A inflation, but he speculated that in aiming for popularity of their course and its content, professors have overlooked standards of academic excellence. Mr. Jones admitted that he has relaxed his grading system in the last 15 years, but he indicated that he did not realize that the University's inflation was so serious. He added that in the English department, where he is a tenured member, the number of A's given has tripled in six years. Mr. Jones said he felt the

(continued on page five)

S.A. Passes Fund To Hire Lawyer Amid Much Controversy

by Bruce Maddern

Acceptance of the S.A. Lawyer Fund highlighted this week's S.A. Senate meeting. The Senate's discussion will have many repercussions, especially on the proposed budget. In light of the new increase in the budget of $16,100 due to the fund, the S.A. would have to incur a deficit of $2400. Because of this decision, many organizations will have their already thin budgets further reduced.

The Senate convened before the largest audience of any meeting this year, most certainly because of individual budget interests. However, with such an important agenda, commented Fiji Senator Alani King, "This meeting was becoming a farce." The meeting had many "enlightened" discussions, which showed the many conflicts of personality and principles that have been waging all year. Also brought out was the tremendous lack of responsibility which the Senate has shown all year. Its treatment, Tuesday night, of the individual allocations in relation to the budget only emphasized to many observers, this lack of responsibility.

Passage of the S.A. Lawyer Fund created the problem of massive cutting and priority discussions in the budget. Somewhere the $16,100 increase had to be absorbed into the budget. Unfortunately, many of the smaller organizations were hurt in the limited discussion of allocations. Allocations to groups such as the German Club, Senate Contingency, and the University Players will sustain some of the brunt of the cuts. The rest of the cuts will have to be determined next week as the meeting failed to reach a quorum after the budget battle waged for some four hours. Much is still to be resolved and organizations concerned are asked to attend in order to enlighten Senate discussions. The actual consequences of the Lawyer Fund will not be determined until next week's meeting.

Among the other business considered during the evening was the Financial Policy. The proposal by Glenn Austin was tabled so Senators could further study and reorganize the various financial proposals before them. The rules were then suspended to consider the budget. Glenn Austin's amendment to stop funding the Ariel was defeated. The Committee recommendation of $5500 still stands. $132, the Student Lawyer Fund, provided the greatest discussion of the evening. James Sloman, chief proponent of the fund, outlined the specific needs of a full time student lawyer on campus. He stated, for example, legal advice and research would be available in all contractual agreements, SAGA, leasing, rent, etc. He also showed the need for a legal service for the Student Association in its relation to the administration. The lawyer would be very helpful in cases of conflicting interests between administration and the S.A. At present, the S.A. can use the university lawyer, but, again, the problem of conflicting interests arises. Arguments against the fund ranged from the legality of the lawyer (whether the S.A. can have

(continued on page eight)

Senate Chairperson Jim Sloman

SPE Photo: Wynn Gold

Burlington Police Tow Away Cars;
Angered Students Consider This Unjust

by Jim Bradley

The facts in the case are as follows:

(1) Alternate-side-of-the-street regulations are not now and have never been in effect on University Place.

(2) People have apparently been confused and resentful over the new regulations, and have felt that explanations of them have been obscure.

(3) University Place is a city street, not a University one, and is patrolled by Burlington police. UVM Security has no authority.

(4) On the Monday preceding the bust, a Burlington cop ticketed all the cars parked on the west side of the street (the side nearest Waterman), which is where they were supposed to be parked. This was then proclaimed by the Police Dept. to have been a mistake, and all the tickets were declared invalid. However, the incident caused confusion and resentment since even the cop didn't know what the regulations were.

(5) Even considering the confused situation, no effort was made to issue a warning in the form of tickets before the tow job was ordered. No tickets were handed out this week, according to Chief Carron. Many students were angry over this fact, as it made the action of towing appear belligerent and unjustified to them. The Chief claimed that no warning tickets were necessary since notices had been broadcast on the radio and had appeared in the newspaper. (The Cynic which came out last Thursday, the day before the towing, carried a small notice hiding in the middle of page two.)

(6) The towing operation was not limited to University Place, but was supposedly city-wide.

(continued on page eight)

(7) Everyone whose car was towed had to pay $15 towing costs to get it back.

SPE Photo: Wynn Gold

Band Contest

to the quality of the music they play.

Registration is free, but, in order to plan the use of the microphones and stage on the Green, we need to know how many groups plan to participate. Registration forms will be available in the Residence Hall and at the Student Activities Desk at Bldg. Center. Registration forms should be turned in at the main desk in the Bldg. Center.

Elected

A

the group's recent spring meeting in Detroit. Dr. Bogstad, who was chairman of UVM's English department for 10 years, is a Senator of Phi Beta Kappa and a member of its committee on qualifications.

Need Valid Vaccinations

to travel to Great Britain this year. Due to the disease in England, all need to have an up to date vaccine into the infirmity and nations were not necessary for come back to Wason at their fused as to whether you are infirmity and find out.

Survey

definite solution to the basic problem of mankind, while an overwhelming 75% indicated that their philosophy of life did not include a solution.

Fifty percent believed in a God who is both infinite and personal. 15% are unsure and 35% do not believe in God. Half have not seriously read through the New Testament, 12% have read more than half, 26% less than half, and 12% indicated that they had read the entire New Testament.

Twenty percent believe Jesus Christ to be a teacher, 30% said the Son of God or God-man. Ten percent said a philosopher, 5% prophet, 6% a myth, while 29% stated that they did not know who He was.

How did they come to their understanding of who Jesus Christ is? 5% through books, 13% through friends, 10% a pastor told them, 30% through personal study, an equal number from religious education, and 13% through other means.

When asked how a person becomes a Christian, 15% did not know, 10% said understand and follow the teachings of Jesus, 6% be born one, 12% hold personal convictions, 30% live a good life, and 11% said believe in Christ as a personal Savior.

Of those surveyed, 80% indicated that they would like to know God personally, 7% were unsure, 13% said definitely not.

Spring Art Exhibit

The highlights of students' art work for this year will be exhibited The Spring Student Art Show in Williams Science Hall. The official opening is Thursday evening, April 26, at 7:30 p.m. Meeting place is in the basement with sculpture and refreshments. Viewers will progress upwards as each floor exhibits its own division.

Basement: sculpture, First floor: painting and woodworking, Second floor: printing, jewelry, and ceramics, Third floor: drawing.

APRIL 26, 1973

Indochina Educational Program To Visit Burlington Area

The Indochina Mobile Education Program, including a photo exhibit, films on Indochina and two speakers, will be in the Burlington area May 1 through 3rd. The visit is sponsored by the Vermont Area Committee of the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC) and the purpose of the program is to share with Americans a sense of life in Vietnam, its history, cultural heritage and people.

Travelling with the Indochina Mobile Education Program are Lou and Eryl Kubicka. The Kubickas have recently returned from Viet Nam where they worked with the American Friends Service Committee. They speak Vietnamese and feel that their years with the Vietnamese people have given them a deep understanding of their way of life.

Eryl Kubicka, a graduate of Beloit College, worked with the AFSC Rehabilitation Program for war injured civilians in Quang Ngai Province, South Viet Nam for four years (1967-1971) and served as the director of the Quaker Program in Viet Nam the last year. Eryl Kubicka is a native of Oxford, England and took her training as a physical therapist at Middlesex Hospital in London. She joined the AFSC Rehabilitation Program at Quang Ngai in 1969. The Kubickas met at the Quang Ngai Hospital and were married in Viet Nam. They have an infant daughter, Ryannon Thu (Vietnamese for Autumn).

Since September, 1972, the Kubickas have been travelling with the Indochina Mobile Education Program, visiting many different communities and speaking to school, church, community, medical, business and women's groups. The Kubickas state, "We feel that a basic requirement for lasting peace is a deeper understanding between peoples, and that is why we joined the Indochina Mobile Education Unit."

While in Burlington the Kubickas will be giving several presentations to which the public are invited to attend. On May 1st, at 7:30 p.m. the Kubickas will speak at Carpenter Auditorium. Given Medical Building, on their medical experiences while in Viet Nam. On May 2nd, at 8:00 p.m. there will be a general slide presentation and talk on Viet Nam and its people at Delephanty Hall, Trinity College. On May 3rd, at 7:30 p.m., Eryl Kubicka will speak on Women and War at the Vermont Women's Health Center in Colchester. In addition, the Kubickas will be addressing students at Burlington High School and Essex Junction High School. As part of the Indochina Mobile Education Program is a large photo display including Vietnamese art work, block prints, drawings, and photographs of daily life. The display will be divided and set up during the first three days in May at Delephanty Hall, Trinity College and the main entrance of Burlington High School. All interested persons are encouraged to stop by either location anytime during these days to view the display.

VERMONT CYNIC

PAGE THREE

Dr. Wilson Publishes New Speech Therapy Program

A woman faculty member at the University of Vermont has created a newly published program designed to help children put words together when they are having trouble understanding or being understood. It is not, however, "speech therapy" in the conventional manner.

Dr. Mary Sweig Wilson, associate professor in the speech pathology-audiology program of UVM's department of communication and theatre, calls her new system, The Wilson Initial Syntax Program, "Beneath that grammatical-sounding title lies a deceptively simple idea and set of working tools."

A variety of "language-intervention" programs have been used for the slow learner.

Walker To Speak Pentecostal Student Fellowship International (PSFI) on April 30, May 1 and 4 will have a rally with Marvin Walker as speaker, 7:30 North Lounge, Billings. All are more than welcome.

History Party

There will be a party for all persons interested in history, major and non-major, on Saturday April 28th from 5 to 8 PM in St. Anselm's Chapel. Students will be asked to contribute $1.00 each.

"Most," says Dr. Wilson, "have stream of consciousness of speech sounds - the ah's and eh's and ah's etc. - of vocabulary, most have also required individual teacher-student situations."

"Recent research in the field of speech and communication," she added, "has placed new stress and interest on the importance of the development of syntactical patterns in language acquisition."

In materials describing her program, Dr. Wilson credits the celebrated linguist, Dr. Noam Chomsky, for research conclusions that all children everywhere may be born with an innate set of language "rules."

To Chomsky, these rules are universal and guide language development or impede it if they are not grasped. "For the child, to be able to make sense out of organizing the words he is to learn," Prof. Wilson points out, "he must be surrounded by that language in action."

"While there are many different causes and effects relationships in speech - some are related to physiological defects or are accidental. The WISP is for children who, for whatever reason, may be slow in learning to develop whole sentences in their speech," she stated.

The Wilson Program also is adaptable for teachers or parents to work with one or more children.

The working tools of the system are functional, not academic. The child's grammatical ideas emerge from experiences with jars, bugs, blocks, cars, balls and mice with and without cars.

For example, the teacher or parent demonstrates lesson (e on verb tenses by showing a car with its wheels removed. As she replaces the wheels, she says, "Right now I'm fixing the car. See, I'm doing it right now. I'm fixing the car." When finished, she takes her hands away and says, "I'm finished. I fixed the car. See, I finished. I fixed the car." Other concrete demonstrations follow until the child is ready to move on to pictures.

As indicated above, there are other working tools for teacher and pupils, such as bugs and jars and a plastic mouse with removable ears to assist in the visual and oral demonstration of the mouse who has ears and the mouse who does not have ears.

A book of flip cards for home and classroom adds such dimensions as he and she, mice chased by cats, a boy who will throw his shirt and a boy who trims his shirt, a boy standing on the sidewalk, an apple which has and does not have a worm, and on through a range of structures that young boys and girls need to make small or large talk in the English language.

The program is published by Educators Publishing Service, Inc. of Cambridge, Mass.

"Birthright" Sponsors Open House

On Sunday, May 6 from 2 to 4 p.m., "Birthright" will be sponsoring an open house for the purpose of informing more people about what they do. The location is 300 Flynn Avenue, at the corner of Pine and Flynn Streets.

"Birthright" is a pro-life organization designed to help girls and women who find themselves troubled with an unplanned pregnancy. Their aim is to provide help and friendly assistance throughout the pregnancy, including medical aid, professional counseling services and maternity and baby clothes and baby furniture if needed by the mother.

All are welcome at the openhouse.

Memorial Service

A memorial service for William J. McNicol III will be held Saturday, April 28, 1973 at 7:00 PM at St. Anselm's Chapel on Redstone Campus. The service will be performed by Father Gratz and friends of Billy.

Action In Plattsburgh

Peace Corps and VISTA representatives will be at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge in Plattsburgh on April 25 and 26 to talk with people about their programs. They can be reached between 9 AM and 9 PM by just coming in to the motor lodge or by calling (collect) 561-7750. They are especially interested in talking with experienced farmers, businessmen, skilled tradesmen and teachers.

Ride Available

Ride available to Long Island-New York City area. May 14 or 15. Must have very little baggage. Sue ext. 3879

Art Club Speaker

The Art Club is sponsoring a speaker this Friday, April 27, in Williams Science Hall, at 8:00 p.m. Irving Sandler will be speaking on Abstract Expressionism and its Influence on the New Art of Today.

Jazz Performance

The UVM Modern Jazz Ensemble will be performing this Monday night, April 30th, at 8:00 p.m. in the Patrick Gym. The program will be composed of Jazz from the 1930's to the present day.

EUROPE! Transatlantic

Flights ($200 round trip) leave from most major cities. Rail Passes, Car Rental Plans, and Camping Tours. For your free travel planner contact your BOAC campus representative: John (802) 434-3294.

Attention Seniors!

Academic Regalia will be available for rental at the University Store from May 1 through May 18. Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon, 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Saturday 8:30 a.m. - 12 noon.

Please make a note of the hours for renting. Renting your regalia early is advised.

RENTAL RATES	Rental Tax Total
Bachelor Cap & Gown (men)	5.00 15 5.15
Bachelor Cap, Gown, Collar (Women)	5.50 17 5.67
Doctoral Cap and Gown	6.25 19 6.44
Doctoral Hood	6.25 19 6.44
Master's Cap and Gown	5.50 17 5.67
Master's Hood	5.50 17 5.67
Rental of Cap only	1.75 06 1.81
Purchase of Collar	75 03 78
Purchase of Tassel	75 03 78

All Academic Regalia MUST be returned immediately following your commencement exercise. It will be checked in at the place of your graduation; Gutterman Field House and Ira Allen Chapel on Saturday and Sunday.

Make all checks payable to the University of Vermont.

Be sure to include Sales and Use Tax.

Custom Motorcycles

Bikes Built Repaired Parts

Road Chop Shop

488 RIVERSIDE AVENUE
BURLINGTON, VERMONT 05401

863-9170

NOW IN PROGRESS...EVERYDAY'S

Spring Book Sale

Over 200 titles to choose from! Architecture, Planes, Ships, Great Houses, Animals, America, How-to-Books, Design, Art, Cookbooks and many many others!

Savings up to 75% and More!

Everyday BOOK SHOP

100 CHURCH ST. - 863-5191 - OPEN FRIDAY EVE.

Simple, straight-forward, classic - out of step with today's throwaway culture. Refillable cartridge, ballpoint or fiber tip marker in basic tan or navy blue. $1.98 - not bad for a pen you may use the rest of your life.

$1.98

The Lost Hour Sale

Saturday Night April 28th 7PM-12MIDNIGHT

Every LP* & Stereo Tape in Our Enormous Stock

Included in this 5 Hour Store Wide Sale

$1.97 2.98 LIST $2.99 4.98 LIST $3.69 5.98 LIST $3.99 6.98 LIST $4.59 6.98 STEREO TAPES

ABC/DUNHILL RECORDS

DEEP PURPLE

MADE IN JAPAN

2WS 2701 $5.98

FACES OOH LA LA

BB 2685 $3.69

MANDRILL

PD 5043 $3.69

ROY BUCHANAN

PD 5046 $3.69

SLADE

PD 5024 $3.69

CHICK COREA

PD 5025 $3.69

ELLEN McGUIRE

PD 5044 $3.69

JEFFERSON AIRPLANE

RF 1.0147 $3.69

STYALINE WHEEL

SP 4377 $3.69

EAT IT

SP 3701 $4.99

FOCUS

SAE 4377 $3.69

polydor

*EXCEPT IMPORTS

discount records

93 Church St. next to Magrains Burlington 863-4587

Editorial Final Thought— It's Up To You

Once again we come to the end of a semester, anxious about final exams and yet anticipating our summer vacations. For many students, the four month respite from UVM will be a blessing, an overdue break from a school about which they can only complain.

We at the Cynic have seen, throughout this semester and throughout this year, a growing number of students who feel that the time has come to implement major changes in this University. We agree with them. Certainly, the Student Association, Cynic, Concert Bureau, Faculty—Senate, Board of Trustees, Administration, etcetera, etcetera are all in need of vast improvements. The problem remains, however, that few students, including those who complain the most vocally, are willing to devote the time and effort needed to change any of these organizations.

We cannot speak for any other group, but the Cynic welcomes all interested persons, especially those with thoughts on improving this newspaper.

It's easy to criticize, but much more difficult to think of constructive alternatives.

Many students are afraid to "get involved", claiming that "elite groups" run everything. These "groups" are "elite" because only a select few are concerned enough to join. Perhaps if more students evidenced an active interest in changing UVM, these groups would be more democratic and more representative of the whole student body.

September seems a long time off, but vacations have a way of going quickly. This summer is the time to think about your university and what you want done with it. We can have a fine school, something to be proud of. Or we can continue to have a mediocre school, filled with complainers and dissatisfied students. Have a nice vacation. We'll see you in September. As to what happens then, it's up to you.

Boycott The Telephone Company Rate Increase

WHY A BOYCOTT?

The New England Telephone Company is requesting a 35-50% increase in basic service charges and a 15% increase in toll calls within the state of Vermont. Last year, the company appears to be a never-ending spiral. (Green received a 20% increase in toll calls.)

In 1972, the New England Telephone Company employed one of the most profitable years in its history. The profits of N.E.T.AT. were up 17% over 1971. A.T.A.T., which owns most of N.E.T.AT., had a 13% increase in profits last year. The indications are that 1973, even without any increase in rates, could well be a record-breaking year for both companies.

The New England Telephone Company pays its two top executives $135,000 a year, apiece. In 1971 the company spent $540,000 on advertising despite the fact that it is a monopoly without competition.

But where is the legislature? Why aren't the "representatives" of the people taking decisive action to lower the cost of utility service? Could it be that the legislature is more concerned about protecting corporate profits than they are about protecting the needs of the state and local taxes paid by the company are also considered a "cost of doing business" and are passed on to the rate-paying customer as well.

How To Compute the Amount Not to Pay in Your May Phone Bill

The rate increase is scheduled to go into effect on April 15th, under bond (which means they have to pay it back later if the PSB does not grant the full increase). Your first monthly bill which will contain the increase will be the month from April 18th to May 18th. This is the bill which you will receive in the mail at the end of May. There are 2 parts to the bill: Basic monthly charge, and toll charges. The toll charge increase is 15%.

Town	1 Party New Rate	1 Party Increase	1 Party Old Rate	2 Party New Rate	2 Party Increase	2 Party Old Rate	4 Party New Rate	4 Party Increase	4 Party Old Rate
Chelsea	6.05	1.75	4.90	5.70	1.55	4.15	5.00	1.40	3.60
Island Pond	6.05	1.75	4.90	5.70	1.55	4.15	5.00	1.40	3.60
Norton	6.05	1.75	4.90	5.70	1.55	4.15	5.00	1.40	3.60
Brandon	7.15	1.85	5.30	6.05	1.65	4.40	5.25	1.40	3.85
Grand Isle	7.15	1.85	5.30	6.05	1.65	4.40	5.25	1.40	3.85
Jeffersonville	7.15	1.85	5.30	6.05	1.65	4.40	5.25	1.40	3.85
Johnson	7.70	2.00	5.70	6.45	1.70	4.75	5.55	1.45	4.10
Rendolph	7.70	2.00	5.70	6.45	1.70	4.75	5.55	1.45	4.10
Fair Haven	7.70	2.00	5.70	6.45	1.70	4.75	5.55	1.45	4.10
Middlebury	8.30	2.20	6.10	6.85	1.75	5.10	5.85	1.50	4.35
Newport	8.30	2.20	6.10	6.85	1.75	5.10	5.85	1.50	4.35
St. Albans	8.30	2.20	6.10	6.85	1.75	5.10	5.85	1.50	4.35
St. Johnsbury	8.30	2.20	6.10	6.85	1.75	5.10	5.85	1.50	4.35
Waterbury	8.30	2.20	6.10	6.85	1.75	5.10	5.85	1.50	4.35
Bennington	8.95	2.40	6.55	7.30	1.85	5.45	6.15	1.60	4.55
Battleboro	8.95	2.40	6.55	7.30	1.85	5.45	6.15	1.60	4.55
Barre-Montpelier	8.95	2.40	6.55	7.30	1.85	5.45	6.15	1.60	4.55
Rutland	8.95	2.40	6.55	7.30	1.85	5.45	6.15	1.60	4.55
White River Jct.	8.95	2.40	6.55	7.30	1.85	5.45	6.15	1.60	4.55
Burlington	9.65	2.65	7.00	7.80	2.04	5.75	6.50	1.75	4.75
Essex Junction	9.65	2.65	7.00	7.80	2.05	5.75	6.50	1.75	4.75
Milton	9.65	2.65	7.00	7.80	2.05	5.75	6.50	1.75	4.75

THOUSANDS OF PHONES. Boycott the rate increase.

and a customer of the New England Telephone Company with phone number _____ hereby notify the phone company that I do not intend to pay the unfair, unjust, and outrageous new increase which goes into effect under bond on April 15, 1973. I along with Vermonters throughout the state, intend to pay the old phone rates (which are high enough already) until the New England Telephone Company finally realizes that the people of this state cannot afford and will not pay these unjust rates and takes back their request for the increase.

Please mail this statement to the Vermont Telephone Boycott Committee, P. O. Box 602, Essex Junction, Vermont 05452. If you are harassed or threatened by the Phone Co. as a result of your participation in the boycott, write to us at this address and we will help.

BOYCOTT THE RATE INCREASE

When the Government fails to act in the people's interest, the only alternative is for the people to act themselves. If one person fails to pay the increase, his/her phone will be shut off. If 50 people fail to pay the increase, their phones will be shut off. But if thousands of people throughout Vermont stand together — we can win! THEY CAN'T SHUT OFF

(on calls within the state of Vermont.) The basic monthly charge varies from area to area. To determine how much the increase is in your area, find your town on the chart below (or if your town is not listed, find a town which you can call toll free); then find your party classification (1 party, 2 party, or 4 party lines). Then pay only the Old Rate. Do not pay the increase or the new rate.

You've Got A Way To Go, Baby

by Barbara Frankel

Slowly but surely, what is commonly called "Women's Lib" is making progress at this university. As the true but commercial goes, "You've come a long way, baby..." but is it far enough? Have women attained equal rights and privileges? That is something each woman must decide for herself: I, for one, think we have not.

In the last few years, there have been several noteworthy steps taken here at UVM. A "Women's Lib" course, which introduced a couple of semesters ago, received few compliments and even less interest. Today, this same course generates much interest and some controversy. Women also have more and more successfully attained key positions in the student government and other UVM organizations. They have demonstrated, time and time again, that they are just as capable of doing excellent, hard work as the male students.

On the editorial page of the Cynic this semester, we recently have witnessed quite a controversy over Mr. Tom McCormick's opinions on this subject. Several indignant females replied to Mr. McCormick, defending the banner of women's liberation. This is certainly a step in the right direction, but words are not enough.

We are ready now, as we have been for a long time, for a change. Like other minority groups, women have been trying for a long time to alleviate their second-class status slowly, step by step. Well, like other minority groups we are tired of slow progress with the promise of complete equality. "Sometime in the near future." Women are still treated unfairly at this university and all over this country. Over half the student body of UVM is female, yet only a small percentage of women are in high positions in the administration and in the student government. Some might say that this is due to a lack of interest on their part. I disagree. Women are constantly told that "it's a man's world," we need strong men in leadership positions. Last year, in the election for president of the Student Association, there were three male candidates and one female candidate. I repeatedly heard students, and many of them supposedly "in the know" about student government, comment that although they agreed with the girl on most of the issues, they just didn't feel "a girl could handle all that responsibility."

Women have fought, like other oppressed groups, for a long time to gain their rights. But the fight is not over; there still remains much to be done. Sex discrimination is not over, it's just gone underground a little.

Letters To The Editor

Room Choosing— Was It Improved?

To the Editor:

Once again the room choosing disaster has turned out to be as unfair and irresponsible as ever. I arrived at room choosing at 7:30 Thursday morning, waited in line for half an hour, only to find out that I could look forward to spending my senior year on Redstone campus.

My basic complaint is that many seniors will never have a chance to live in Harris-Millis because housing gave the "displaced" students senior status at room choosing. As it stands now, "displaced" underclassmen will live in places that should have been saved for seniors, simply because the underclassmen happened to be standing near the front of the line at room choosing.

In my opinion, displaced students deserve no compensation at all. The problem of returning to a different dorm in the fall is no big hassle for anyone. However, if housing felt these students needed compensation for being moved out, they might have added one year to their present status or given them junior status at room choosing. This would have saved first choice at room choosing for seniors. As it stands now, some underclassmen will live in Harris-Millis for as long as three years if they want to, while many seniors will never live there.

The room choosing procedure was more efficient than last year, but some students still spent as long as three hours waiting in line. If housing can anticipate that students will be waiting in line, they might assign lottery numbers to determine who will take what place in line. A schedule could be set up to let students with different lottery numbers line up at different times during the same room choosing period. This would avoid all the pushing and shoving that comes from masses of students trying to get to the front of the crowd.

At this time, nothing short of a major room shuffling can cure the problems the room choosing policies have created. I hope better policies can be used next year and that seniors will be given priority on the waiting list.

Bill Miller
213 Simpson

Pseudo Sabbath Saints Scalping Students

To the Editor:

I went into the Arena theatre last week in an attempt to buy tickets for Covenant. I was told that all rights had been sold out, but that I might be able to obtain tickets from the Newman Center which had bought out Sunday night. With little hope in my heart, I went to the Newman Center to inquire if they had any extra tickets for sale. I was informed by Father Frank Holland that he was selling tickets for $4.58 apiece. When I protested that I could hardly afford the regular prices ($1.50 and $3), he assured me that he could give me a great seat for $4, "the proceeds of which are for a benefit." It seems that one of the richest organizations in America has added scalping to its list of gambling, tax exemption and other extra-legal activities.

Pamela Spielenner

A Nation's Confidence Sacrificed

by Steven C. Rice

There was no longer the confident smile on President Nixon's face when he revealed that members of his staff would no longer be exempt from testifying about the Watergate incident. At his recent press conference, it was difficult for our nation's leader to look straight into the network cameras recording this tragic moment of American history.

Though his message was worded in a tough manner, there was a touch of weariness in Mr. Nixon's delivery. When the president concluded, no questions were permitted. The reporters stood silently as he made a quick exit. Mr. Nixon has never been a very public statesman. At this writing, the President has journeyed from Washington to a secluded spot at Key Biscayne, reportedly preparing another statement on Watergate.

Smiles have suddenly turned to frowns in our nation's capital. The Administration's confidence in itself to lead the people has been shattered. It may never be restored. More tragic, the confidence of the American people in the federal branch of government has also been shattered as witnessed in a recent Gallup poll. It may never be restored.

There is a eerie silence across the nation as spring arrives. There is a sense of powerlessness — a paralysis — under this atmosphere of corruption. As revealed in Monday's New York Times, the college campuses are quiet as most students have adopted an attitude of looking out only for themselves, instead of working together for a better society. It seems, in effect, that many are beginning to cry to hell with government "of the people, by the people, and for the people."

Mr. Nixon and his Administration can take credit. They have successfully reached the silent majority and silenced them further. Let's hope it won't be forever.

In Monday's lead editorial, the N. Y. Times remarked:

"The combination of secrecy and arrogance on the part of a coterie of appointed officials in the inner sanctum of Presidential power has created a serious threat to constitutional government. Such rule by an unresponsive oligarchy would be unacceptable even if the President's surrogates acted on the highest level of ethics and morality. It becomes an affront to law and government when briefcases and safes are stuffed with hot cash to finance illegal activities."

It concluded with a most sobering contention:

"When the ways of the mob become the ways of the President's surrogates, the people's faith in government is the victim. That is why the issue is no longer merely one of specific offenses or offenders. It is not just a matter — as some of Mr. Nixon's latest remarks suggest — of dropping the delinquent members of the crew and riding out the storm. What has been created is an essentially undemocratic apparatus of men, money and arrogant power. Until that apparatus is dismantled and its oligarchy stripped of its extralegal prerogatives, the American people's trust in their Government will not be restored."

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS MANAGER Barbara Frankel '75
ASSISTANT EDITOR Ruth Hay '74
MANAGING EDITOR Daniel Haslam '75
NEWS EDITOR Lise Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75
ASSISTANT FEATURE EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
SPORTS EDITOR Loren Wilson '74
ADVERTISING MANAGER Jeffrey Yacker '73
EDITORIAL CONSULTANT

NEWS: Jim Bradley, Deborah Cadwell, Jeanne Cook, Mike Cote, Mary Gerwig, Harris Gluck, Bruce Maddens, Wendy Nelson, Jane Smith, Diane Taren
FEATURE: Peter Campbell, Nina Carson, Doug Collette, Allison Davis, Mike Flynn, Jonathan Lief
COLUMNISTS: Gess Bergman, William Bowman, Stuart Dedopoulos, Steven Rice
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Steve Leipzig, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilenski
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Abbie Schaefer
PRODUCTION: Scott Cahoon, John Dimick, Fred Doten, Tom Farris, John Lunde,

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and business offices in Billings Center, Burlington Vermont. Telephone 638-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $3.00 per year, single copy, ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Far-Reach

En

by Madeleine

When the gavel was before midnight Saturday session of the Vermont adjourned. What was a day from January to April.

In the eyes of both political novices, the provided a remarkable the country by enacting original legislation.

The Land Capability second stage of ACT model for environmental are now beginning to rapid development. The criteria for develop preservation of agricult

Vermont has become country to ban non-following the example of The original legislation with a delaying proviso effective until July 1 session; there were a deadline, thereby eliminating failed to get the bottle-ban will be in effect.

The property tax example of innovation, tax rebates on a sliding groups, with preference includes a new capital years or less; the tax basis of the amount of time the land is held.

In the area of social decided to take the initiative federal government comprehensive dental from kindergarten to six available, an additional each year. The state with cost for children whose income of $3,750 and with an income of $5,750.

An open door policy bodies was declared by Right-to-Know bill which closed door meetings. It

Copernicus

by Deborah Cadwell
In honor of his birthday, Copernicus discussed at length nineteenth by five special the commemoration of fifteenth century astronomer.

Dr. Henry St. professor of his coordinated the Speaking at the event John Engroff, University for Action; Professor Crowell, Physics Department; Henry Steffen, Department; Professor Howe, English Department; and Professor Luther of the Department Philosophy and Religion.

The talks lasted 2:00-3:30 during informal breaks. The attraction was a birthday made for Copernicus by Susan Kessler, which justice in frosted stars astronomer.

John Engroff started afternoon with a talk "Influences of Astronomy on Copernicus which he took an interest approach to the history of Copernicus' time referring to Islamic science Engroff labelled the Al being "the custodians of science until the 12th centuries" at which the texts accumulated so far translated into Latin as by the west.

What contributed to astronomy the institutionalization science in Islam." noted. Through "understanding of motion sense was previously wandering bodies."

Dr. Albert Crowell Physics department about "Copernicus a Solar System," in which summarized the aspect geodesic model of the This model involved important geometrical excluding — properties. Copernicus care for mathematical without physical significance mentioned.

He added that "Cop came to realize that the complexities would if he changed his view." In doing so it suddenly emerged as planck in a sun-scheme. The result revision of the honored Ptolemaic model.

This new view

Financial Aid Delayed

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

James Taylor Plays His Greatest Hits To Responsive Audience

SFS Photo: R. Isley

by Peter Campbell
James Taylor, the eminent pop-folk artist came to sing and play his guitar to a large crowd at the Patrick Gymnasium last Saturday night.

The audience, mostly girls in their teens, was buzzing with the usual excited anticipation of seeing a super-star live at last, and speculating whether James' wife, Carley Simon would appear too. I envisioned the newly-weds singing "Your So Vain" together, and something told me it would not be so.

Carley stood behind the amplifiers and watched the crowd.

James shuffled out with his hands in his pockets and his shoulders curiously stooped. Tall and rail-thin, he looked exactly the way he did four years ago—only the suspenders were missing. He sat in his chair, picked up his guitar, nodded to the audience and appropriately began his first set with the autobiographical "Sweet Baby James."

Then, for two hours—with a short intermission—James Taylor played songs from his four albums: "Fire and Rain," "Lo and Behold," "Circle Round the Sun," "One Man Dog," and so on. He conveyed a naturalness and consistency, a tour de force of personality that comes from a real artist. Country music without the twang, the overall quality in his singing and picking is one of restraint. He is a man of deep feeling who gets across best by understatement. His music is tenuously constructed, and for this reason his accompanying musicians could only play along and complement his music where they could. They were bored.

James Taylor played four songs that were not his own. He and his musicians tried the Everly Brothers' great old song, "I'll Be Crying in the Rain," but failed. James just could not sing the scatty Latin rhythm mode. The same with Ray Charles' "Hallelujah I Just Love Her So." But "Okie from Muskogee" was more to his style, and it received the best response from the audience that night. And for the final encore they did a version of Chuck Berry's "The Promised Land" that was excellent.

James Taylor was called back on stage three times. Was he that good? He did not "perform" in any sense of the word. Whether you enjoyed the concert would have to depend on how much you liked the music. I did. But I am reminded of the lines in one of his songs:

"Hey Mister that's me up on the jukebox,
I'm the one that's singing this sad song,
I'll cry every time you slip in one more dime,
And let the boy sing the sad one one more time.
I only wish to point out that the admission price was five dollars, and that is a lot of dimes to pay."

Jeff Beck And New Friends Produce Powerful Album

by Doug Collette

BECK, BOGERT & APPICE
Epic KE 32140
"(Beck) wants, from his band, 'tightness, funkiness, and generally ripping off, which I haven't done for a long while, not for a long while—not since the Yardbirds.'"

ROLLING STONE
October 26, 1972

Beck seems to have gotten what he wanted from his new band. Two seconds after the music began, with a whiplash slide guitar laid upon a grinding basic riff, all my hopes for this album were well on their way to being fulfilled. With his two new partners, who were originally going to join forces with him four years ago, Jeff Beck is playing with all the ingenuity he ever has, combining the angry furor from the days of Truth with the sparkling precision of his last two albums.

"Lady" follows "Black Cat Moan," the band stopping on a dime, time after time, before launching themselves off again with the power of a river rapids. And in Stevie Wonder's "Superstition" funk? Beck can soar to the heavens and cleave your brain in the process, but when he wants to, he can get down as low as they go, assaulting the body with life-giving rhythm.

The meat of side two is right on par with that furious introduction. Bogert and Appice easily keep up with Beck, providing an anchoring foundation, and never straying on the kind of tangents that so often degenerate into formlessness. Hendrix could suffocate you with his self-indulgent gimmickry and Clapton's content to play it straight, but Jeff always uses his special effects to a purpose while still being able to exact pure poetry from the barest of lines.

However raucous Beck has gotten—and he's gotten close to a cacophony of raunch—he's always been able to play with loving tenderness too. Besides having Jimmy Witherspoon and Danny Hutton in the background where they belong, "Sweet Surrender" is distinguished by splendid wah-wah and a jagged solo that still manages to be soothing. Relatively plain figures complete the mood sketched by Curtis Mayfield's "I'm So Proud." Both of these tracks, as well as "Oh To Love You" are negligible compared to the other cuts, largely because Beck recedes to the background.

None of the original tunes on the album are anything special which does come as a disappointment, because Beck in particular is a far better-than-average composer. The boyish brashness of the vocals lend a certain charm to the overall sound, but if it weren't for the fact that at times somebody sounds like that ace wimpoid Mark Farmer, the singing wouldn't be noteworthy, either.

Though Jeff sees himself in a band of equals, Bogert and Appice seem to know their place and that's mainly as supporters to the guitarist nonpareil. Though I've few qualifications in praise for their debut, Beck Bogert & Appice, isn't perfect; it's more like a diamond in the rough. If this trio adheres to the custom of their two predecessors, they've only got one more album together, so I hope they make it a live one.

'Faust' To Be Presented

The opera "Faust" by Charles Gounod, will be performed in concert form on Sunday April 29, at 8 PM in the Ira Allen Chapel. The UVM Choir will be performing major excerpts of the opera with soloists. Performing the part of Faust will be Alan King, tenor. Allyson Davis will be playing the part of his lover, Marguerite, and Gary Moreau, baritone will be performing the part of Mephistopheles. The concert will be conducted by Prof. Francis Weinrich. Reeds: Coltan and Karen Richardson will be accompanying the chorus and soloists. The concert is free of charge, and the public is cordially invited.

'Applause' Portrays Behind The Scenes Theatre Intrigue

The long-running and Tony-Award winning Broadway musical "Applause" will end this season's Lane Series on Thursday, May 3, at 8:30 p.m., in Memorial Auditorium.

Starring in the production is Patrice Munsel, long-time leading singer of the Metropolitan Opera and the Broadway musical stage.

A limited number of tickets, $3.75 each, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, tel. 656-3418. "Applause" is based on the 1950 movie, "All About Eve," written by Joseph Mankiewicz.

The film cast included Bette Davis, Marilyn Monroe, Ann Baxter, George Sanders and Celeste Holm.

The stage version of "Applause" opened in New York on March 30, 1930, with Lauren Bacall in the major role and overnight became an unqualified smash hit. It won the Tony Award as Best Musical of the season and ran to May 29, 1972, for 896 performances.

"Applause" is the story of a popular stage actress who must fight the schemes of an ambitious former protégée seeking to overthrow her. As such, the musical gives an authentic glimpse into the backstage maneuverings of the world of Broadway and film.

Patrice Munsel was the youngest singer ever to debut at the Metropolitan Opera when at the age of 17, she sang the role of Philine in "Mignon." After many successes at the Met, Miss Munsel went on to musical comedy, singing major roles in "Kiss Me Kate," "Can-Can," "The King and I," "Sound of Music," "Hello, Dolly," "My Fair Lady," "Mame" and "The Merry Widow."

Performing with Patrice Munsel will be Diane McAfee

as the Eve of movie and of this musical who worms her way into the graces of the star by demurely begging an autograph, and then turning into a scratching little cat by trying to rob her of her career and of her boy friend to boot.

Also featured in this behind-the-scenes glimpse of Broadway are Virgil Curry as the fought-over boy friend, Ed Fuller as the cool producer, Stephen Everett as the playwright, Lisa Carroll as his wife, and Stephen Wright as Miss Munsel's hair-dresser and confidant.

The book for "Applause" was written by Betty Comden and Adolph Green, with music by Charles Strouse and lyrics by Lee Adams. It is directed and choreographed by Ron Field.

The national company which brings "Applause" to Burlington is appearing in 114 cities in a coast-to-coast tour.

New Movie House To Offer Dinner-Movie Package

Merrill Jarvis, owner of the downtown movie theatre, the great Flynn, will tonight officially open Merrill's Showcase 1&2 on Williston Road.

Last night two special showings were held of the movie, Man of La Mancha, in cooperation with the UVM Committee for UNICEF.

The physical layout of the theatre offers the most modern sound system in Burlington as well as one of the best projection systems around.

Each of the showcases has a seating capacity of 250 persons, making for a small, intimate atmosphere.

A new concept has been developed, the Sizzly Steak House, with the opening of the theatre. It will be located in the same building and will offer Moviegoers a good meal.

The restaurant, opening May 1, will, in cooperation with the theatre, offer package deals to the movie goers. It will be possible for a couple to see a movie and get a complete steak dinner at a reasonable price.

Stressing that this theatre is aimed towards the college community, starting September, student discount cards will be offered free to students for a reduction in price on tickets at the Showcase and also the Flynn.

Mr. Jarvis feels "our main goal is to offer the college community something new in total entertainment, dinner and the best in movies."

Playing in Showcase 1 is Shamus.

Retraction On Covenant

The Cynic would like to print a retraction to the article in last week's issue concerning the rock opera "Covenant." In the second paragraph it stated that Jan Goldstein wrote the lyrics while David Lash composed the musical score for the production. This in fact is not entirely true. The phrase should read that Jan wrote the lyrics while both Jan and David composed the music for "Covenant." The Cynic apologizes for this error and wishes to award proper recognition to Jan and David for two years of hard work.

Classified

Wanted - two people to share house/trailer short drive from campus. Sept. 1 occupancy. $50/month. Call Verne - 656-2912

For Sale: Refrigerator, 11 cu. ft.; excellent condition; call 656-3888

$25 REWARD for the return of a Mexican blanket removed from luggage misplaced at Burlington Airport April 2nd. It is 2 1/2 by 5 feet with bands of bright colors alternating with black in a zig-zag design. It is not rare or priceless, but is of great sentimental value. It once belonged to my father now deceased.
John Williams
448 So. Prospect St.
656-1228

SECOND ANNUAL BLUES FESTIVAL
FEATURES THE OTIS RUSH CHICAGO BLUES BAND
... LIGHTNIN' HOPKINS... SLEEPY JOHN ESTES...
HOUND DOG TAYLOR & THE HOUSEROCKERS...
MANCE LIPSCOMB... RY COODER... AND ALL STAR BLUES JAM WITH SPECIAL GUESTS.
saturday april 28 8:00 pm at uvm patrick gym doors open at 7:00... tickets on sale at bailey's & the uvm bookstore $3.50 advance $4 at door.
a community media project

Produced by PAUL GLICKLER and RICHARD LERNER Directed by PAUL GLICKLER Distributed by CINEMATION INDUSTRIES STARTS FRIDAY!
EVE: 7:00 + 9:15
BURLINGTON PLAZA
CINEMA 1 & 2
GIVE US AN X
NO ONE UNDER 18 ADMITTED

S.A. Films 'Straw

SAFilms is showing more special attractions between now and the end of the semester. Thursday, April 26, FRENCH CONNECTION starring Gene Hackman, who shown in 235 Life Size. It will be shown at 8 and 9:30 pm. Hackman won Oscar for his performance as hard-bitten cop in New York. This is one of the first showings of the film.

On Saturday, April 28,

Williston Road

Saturday In Billings:

Blues Workshops Provide Talk With The Greats

Blues Workshops, allowing all those wishing to attend free of charge, will be held in Billings Center Saturday, April 28 from 1:30 to 3:00 PM. Students and members of the community are urged to come to discuss Blues music in general, Black issues, or whatever is of interest to those participating. Regarding the workshops, Richard A. Waterman of Avalon Productions (named after the birthplace of Mississippi John Hurt), manager for most of the festival's artists and MC for the festival said, "It's important that students and others are able to talk to them (musicians) as people and get to know them up close. This makes for a much finer festival and of course a solid relationship between performer and audience."

The workshops are being sponsored by the Billings Center Governing Board and the Community Media Project. An 8:00 PM concert will follow the workshops. The concert will be held in Patrick Gym and the doors will be open at 7:00 PM at 7:00 PM. Some of those to perform are Lightnin' Hopkins, Ry Cooder, the Otis Rush Chicago Blues Band, Hound Dog Taylor and the House Rockers, Mance Lipscomb, Sleepy John Estes, a blues jam, and more.

In the early 1960s Dick Waterman of Avalon was a freelance music and sports writer for the National Observer in Washington. When he discovered Son House living, but not playing the blues any longer, in Rochester, N.Y., he decided to quit newspaper work and convinced House to play again. They traveled together for a year and in 1965 Waterman formed Avalon Productions, now of Boston, and things have never been the same since that day for Waterman. Avalon exclusively books Son House, Arthur 'Big Boy' Crudup, Buddy Guy, Junior Wells Blues Band, Bonnie Raitt, Peter Johnson, Robert Pete Williams and many more. He formed Avalon to book, manage and find work for old traditional bluesmen who were becoming legends and who, like so many legends, could not make a living doing what they loved the most—playing the blues.

Saturday's concert will feature a wide range of variety and representation of the blues. The Otis Rush Chicago Blues Band and Hound Dog Taylor and the House Rockers are both electric blues bands that rely heavily on the use of amplification of their music in most instances. Atlantic Records has just released a double album which features Hound Dog Taylor and the House Rockers performing at last summer's Ann Arbor Blues Festival in Michigan. It can be best said that Ry Cooder is in a class all by himself. A legend at 26, and white-to-black, Cooder is best known for his great influence over the Rolling Stones and many hours of studio session work with the Stones (best heard on "Let It Bleed").

Lightnin' Hopkins draws SRO crowds everywhere he performs. Hopkins is the elder legend of the festival. Mance Lipscomb and Sleepy John Estes will represent the subtle sounds of the south. Down home, raw, natural blues. The kind that makes a predominantly white audience get some inkling of just what the blues is all about.

All festival performers will take part in the workshops. The UPI International, the National Observer, Cream, Billboard, and Rolling Stone are expected to be on hand to cover the festival.

Randy Kim To Perform As Edgar Allan Poe

Randy Kim, leading actor of UVM's Champlain Shakespeare Festival for the past two seasons, will perform in the final Lane Chamber Arts Series concert on Monday, April 30, at 8:30 p.m., in Ira Allen Chapel.

The young Korean-Chinese actor, who has been widely applauded for his Shakespearean roles at UVM, will appear in his one-man show "Edgar Allan Poe."

Tickets, $3.00 each, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and at Bailey's Music Rooms, 88 Church St. Reservations may be made by telephoning 656-3418.

At UVM in the summer of 1972 he played Titus Andronicus in Shakespeare's "Titus Andronicus," Touchstone in "As You Like It," and Dr. Caius in "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

In 1971 his roles at UVM included Cassius in "Julius Caesar" and "Gremio" in "The Taming of the Shrew."

He also performed General Grant in the long-running production of "Hair" at the International Hotel at Las Vegas, Nevada, in 1969-70.

His numerous other roles have included "The Chickadee Chinaman," "The Servant of Two Masters," "Subject to Fits," "Jungle of Cities" with the New York Shakespeare Public Theatre, "Harley's Aunt" at the Hunter College Playhouse, "Radium" and "Endgame" with the Hawaii Ensemble of Theatrical Artists, and "Macbeth" for the Honolulu Community Theatre.

On television he has been seen in four Hawaii Five-O segments and on Hawaiian Educational TV in a one-man show based on the life of Mark Twain. He has also appeared in two films, "Extra" and "Older Asa."

During the spring of 1972 he was instructor in stage-up in the Department of Theatre and Cinema at Hunter College, New York City.

He recently co-founded a theatre company in Honolulu for which he acted and directed and where his original one-man shows of Mark Twain and Edgar Allan Poe were conceived.

Currently he is appearing at the off-Broadway American Place Theatre in Rochelle Owen's new play "The Karl Marx Play," which opened for a limited run on April 2. Kim's performance as Frederick Engels was praised by Clive Barnes of the New York Times for its "all-troubled reasonableness."

Kim's Edgar Allan Poe show

includes selections from Poe's short stories "The Fall of the House of Usher," "The Tell-Tale Heart," "The Masque of the Red Death," and several poems, notably "Annabel Lee." Randy Kim was born in September 24, 1943, of Korean-Chinese descent. He was educated at the University of Hawaii (a religion major), at New York University, and also received Kabuki training under Onoe, Kuroemon, and Nishikawa Koshuro.

Copernicus Talks . . .

(continued from page five)

archaic to a scientific world "man was able to retain an anthropomorphic state in a geocentric universe." Dr. Martin added, "It is not accidental that the Protestant Reformation and the Copernican revolution were contemporary movements on the face of Renaissance Europe."

"The elemental nourishing Earth Mother, symbolic of the transformation of celestial queen of the Ptolemaic world. This 'mistress of the Universe' in turn gave birth to the solar child who, in his heroic maturity, came to rule the cosmos in her place."

He added that "The sequence of 'worlds' becomes particularly interesting in light of the death of the transcendent sky god, in our own time and the correlate questioning of technology and the purely rational enterprise itself, in light of recent revival of 'back-to-earth' patterns of immanence. The ruling solar here is always transcendent in the face of the eternal feminine."

Dr. Steffens predicts more symposiums of this sort, one in the fall entitled "Science and Ideology" involving science in the modern world, and another next spring concerning Isaac Newton.

"If nothing else, this gives the faculty a chance to see what other people are doing," Dr. Steffens noted. "They are as informal as possible, representing some very formal work done beforehand."

CRYPTOQUOTE

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

Solution on page ten

For Example: Longfellow

nczrjokxkg

In this example, x was substituted for L, z for o and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

TLLW OFXP LM BLFI URMZOH ZMW SZEZ Z

TLLW HFNNVI. HVV BLF RM HVKGVNYVI.

GSV EVINLNG XBMRX

Solution to last week's Cryptoquote:

You can live a hundred years, You can learn a hundred years, You're still going to die a fool.

Russian Proverb

Behind the Intrigue

as the Eve of movie and of this musical who worms her way into the graces of the star by demurely begging an autograph, and then turning into a scratching little cat by trying to rob her of her career and of her boy friend to boot.

Also featured in this behind-the-scenes glimpse of Broadway are Vigil Curry as the fought-over boy friend, Ed Fuller as the cool producer, Stephen Everett as the playwright, Lina Carroll as his wife, and Stephen Wright as Miss Munnell's hair-dresser and confidant.

The book for "Applause" was written by Betty Comden and Adolph Green, with music by Charles Strouse and lyrics by Lee Adams. It is directed and choreographed by Ron Field.

The national company which brings "Applause" to Burlington is appearing in 114 cities in a coast-to-coast tour.

Offer Package

dinner at a reasonable price.

Stressing that this theatre is aimed towards the college community, starting September, student discount cards will be offered free to students for a reduction in price on tickets at the Showcase and also the Flynn.

Mr. Jarvis feels "our main goal is to offer the college community something new in total entertainment, dinner and the best-in-movies."

Playing in Showcase I is Shamus.

Retraction On

Covenant

The Cynic would like to point a retraction to the article in last week's issue concerning the rock opera "Covenant". In the second paragraph it stated that Jan Goldstein wrote the lyrics while David Lash composed the musical score for the production. This in fact is not entirely true. The phrase should read that Jan wrote the lyrics while both Jan and David composed the music for "Covenant". The Cynic apologizes for this error and wishes to award proper recognition to Jan and David for two years of hard work.

Classified

Wanted - two people to share house, trades, short drive from campus, Sept. 1 occupancy - $50/month. Call Verne - 656-2912

For Sale: Refrigerator, 11 cu. ft., excellent condition, call 656-3968

$25 REWARD for the return of a Mexican blanket removed from luggage misplaced at Burlington Airport April 2nd. It is 2 1/2 by 5 feet with bands of bright colors alternating with black in a zig-zag design. It is not rare or priceless, but is of great sentimental value. It once belonged to my father now deceased.

John Williams

449 So. Prospect St.

656-1228

S.A. Films Features 'French Connection', 'Straw Dogs' For End Of Semester

SAFilms is showing four more special attraction programs between now and the end of the semester. On Thursday, April 26, THE FRENCH CONNECTION, starring Gene Hackman, will be shown in 235 Life Sciences Hall. It will be shown at 7:15 and 9:30 pm. Hackman won an Oscar for his performance of a hard-bitten cop in New York. This is one of the first college showings of the film.

On Saturday, April 28, Sam

Peckinpah's THE STRAW DOGS will be shown. The film stars Dustin Hoffman and is by now a notorious study of violence in film. It will be shown at 7:30 and 9:30 pm.

For those students who cannot attend the regular showings of THE FRENCH CONNECTION or THE STRAW DOGS, SAFilms will show both films on Sunday April 29 in Life Sciences Hall. Information please call THE FRENCH CONNECTION 656-2029.

Please note the starting times as several have been altered due to the length of films. All admission is $4.00 and tickets are available at the door. Don't forget SAFilms free double feature of W.C. Field and Mae West on Friday, May 4 in Cook Hall. At 7:30 pm we show MY LITTLE CHICADEE and at 9:30 we show YOU CAN'T CHEAT AN HONEST MAN. For information please call 656-2029.

CAMPUS-SIDE BANKING

Williston Road

Dorset Street S. Burlington

A FULL SERVICE BANK

More than just a Bank

Chittenden

TRUST COMPANY

DAVE'S AUTOMOTIVE, Inc.

Specialists in Foreign Car Repairs
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686

FIRESTONE VW TIRES

for the bug $18.95 + $1.74 FET

vw $3.00 extra 560 x 15

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL Spin Balance Front End Alignment $10

VW BRAKE JOB $39.95

Discs $10 Additional

With us your $200 gets you a lot more than just airfare to Europe.

WITH US

You make one call and we put you on the plane of your choice. ELLE, TWA, Pan Am, to the city of your choice and then bring you home. Plan.

Free trip planning

Passport, visa, immigration forms

All travel needs within Europe - train passes and car rentals, hotel & restaurant reservations

Round trip Europe from $150

Guide books

European specialists for people of all ages

NATIONAL STUDENT TRAVEL SERVICES

4 BRATTLE ST. (at Harvard St.) CAMBRIDGE, MASS. 02138 (617) 861-1111

Open Monday - Friday: 10-6 Saturday: 11-6

THE TOWER RESTAURANT

... the unique eating establishment for the entire family, large seating capacity, air conditioned.

Now Serving Ice Cold Draft Beer!

- Italian Dishes (16 kinds)
- Delicatessen Style Sandwiches
- Submarines (15 kinds)
- Muffins (9 kinds)
- Breakfasts (country style)

THE Tower RESTAURANT

Don't Forget To Visit Us At Our Other Locations When Traveling!

Open 9:30 a. m. to 1:00 a. m. Friday and Saturday to 2 a.m.

1234 Williston Rd. S. Burlington 864-9817

Essex Junction Shopping Ctr. 878-8338

ETHAN ALLEN SHOPPING CENTER north ave.

the doctor's bag

by Arnold Werner M.D.

QUESTION: For the last month I have noticed that when I touch my right nipple there is a sharp pain. Nothing is felt when the same thing is done to the left side. Is there anything wrong? (This letter was written by a man)

ANSWER: The area around the nipples are quite sensitive to touch and occasionally are painful just as you describe.

QUESTION: When I obtain an erection, my penis is 5 1/2 inches in length, which is just fine with me. However, when my penis hangs limp it can vary from one inch to four inches in length. Is this normal, or would you advise seeing a doctor? I purposely stay out of any situation which might involve a shower with other men because I am embarrassed.

ANSWER: You describe a perfectly normal situation. The size of an erect penis is not very related to the size of the erect penis. The small ones get much bigger while the big ones increase only slightly. Any man who has been watching his penis will observe that it can vary tremendously in size depending upon body temperature and degree of activity, among other things. Throw away your tape measure and live a little.

QUESTION: I know that electrolysis is the best way to remove unwanted hair from a woman's upper lip. A few girls I have talked to feel that shaving off such hair will cause it to grow back darker, coarser, and thicker. I find it very hard to think that shaving will cause more hairs to grow out of one's face, i.e. new ones in addition to those cut off before.

ANSWER: Shaving does not change the quantity of hair. However, the blunt ends that result give a false appearance of thickness and they do feel bristly. Small amounts of hair on the upper lip can be managed by shaving, cutting closely, or by using a bleaching cream to lighten them and make them less conspicuous. Such a cream can be made of 6% hydrogen peroxide and soap flakes or a solution of 1 oz of peroxide and 20 drops of ammonia.

QUESTION: I have been using a commercial hair remover. The label states that it contains calcium thioglycolate. What is that? My face is red and inflamed for about 24 hours after use. If it destroys hair, what is it doing to my skin?

ANSWER: Hair removers contain various chemicals which break down keratin, the stuff the hair is made of. Those designed for use on legs are far harsher than the ones that are designed for use on your face. Make sure you are using the right one. In any case, if it is causing the reaction you described, it is too harsh for your skin and should not be used.

Rowell Building To Be Dedicated April 27 & 28

The University of Vermont on Friday and Saturday (April 27 & 28) will dedicate its Nursing and Allied Health Sciences Building to the man who played a major role in the planning of it.

Lyman S. Rowell, 19th president of the University, who served in that office from 1966 until his retirement in 1970, will be honored in the ceremonies in the building that bears his name.

In voting this honor to Dr. Rowell, Trustees last spring noted it was "in recognition of his life of service to the University" that began shortly after his graduation from UVM in 1925.

The two days of events, all open to the public, will begin Friday with a series of symposia in nursing and the allied health sciences. Each of the disciplines will have its turn with the schedule as follows:

1:45 p.m., Physical Therapy; 2:30 p.m., Dental Hygiene; 3:30 p.m., Radiologic Technology; 3:15 p.m., Medical Technology; and 4 p.m., Nursing.

Speakers or panel discussions are planned for each of these events. In most cases, national leaders in each of the sciences will give their views on the future of his specialty.

Rep. Richard W. Mallary, R-Vt., will speak at the dedication ceremony at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, April 28, in Rowell Auditorium. Dr. William H. Luginbuhl, dean of the College of Medicine, will be master of ceremonies, and Dr. Edward C. Andrews, Jr., University president, will introduce both Congressman Mallary and Dr. Rowell.

A plaque in memory of Dr. Joseph M. Shaw, Class of 1912, will be dedicated, and his generous support to the University's Department of Rehabilitation Medicine will be noted.

Prior to the dedication, from 9 to 10:30, there will be open house and tours of the new building.

The new building is a four-story, 70,000 sq. foot structure built with a $2 million state grant and $2.1 million in federal funds. It houses the School of Nursing and the School of Allied Health Sciences, with its programs in dental hygiene, medical technology, physical therapy and radiologic technology.

The building was designed by Architects Collaborative of Boston and built by the Vermont Construction Co. Ground was broken for construction in the spring of 1970, and the building was completed in time for classes last fall.

Senate Meeting...

(continued from page one)

one) to his actual need on campus. It was suggested to hold a law firm as retainer, but this proposal was defeated. Brought out in this discussion was a basic problem the Senate has faced all year, that of priorities. The Senate passed the S.A. Lawyer Fund allocation 39.97 to 17.56.

After discussion of various other budget amendments, the actual budget came under consideration. Discussion centered on cutting and cutting procedures. Finally, after too much discussion and too little action, a quorum was called. As the quorum was not reached, the meeting was adjourned.

Also noted during Tuesday night's meeting was the absence of Sig Heller, newly elected S.A. president. However, this week he was absent with cause, being UVM's representative to a model U.N. in New York City.

(continued from page one)

Specific awards included the Sally Ann Hall Award, Special Honors in Music, and Outstanding Seniors in Physical Education.

The 105th annual Military Awards Ceremony took place at the Allen Chapel at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday. The main address was given by the Cadet Battalion Commander, Cadet Lieutenant Colonel David J. Wheel. Chairman of the Department of Military Studies, Lieutenant Colonel William C. Hapanski presented many of the awards; others were presented by officials from such organizations as the Daughters of the American Revolution, American Legion, and Vermont Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. The UVM Band participated in the awards ceremony, which closed with the singing of the Official United States Army Song.

The College of Technology Honors Day was held in Johnson Auditorium. Voted Building, Opening remarks were given by Senator Arthur H. Jones of the UVM Board of Trustees. Awards were presented in Chemistry, Mathematics, Physics and Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering.

The School of Allied Health Sciences and School of Nursing honored their students in a joint ceremony at Carpenter Auditorium. Given Medical Associate Dean of the Division of Health Sciences, gave the Welcome and members of the various schools spoke on "Reflections on a Health Career." The Department of Technical and Professional Nursing of the School of Nursing each presented an achievement award, as well as several other more specialized awards. The awards from the School of Allied Health Sciences included awards from the Departments of Dental Hygiene, Medical Technology, Physical Therapy, and Radiologic Technology.

The College of Agriculture Sciences included awards from the Departments of Animal Science, Home Economics Honors Day celebrations were held at the Spear Street farm. Dean

SPS Photo: R. Ideby

Thomas W. Dowe acted as Master of Ceremonies. Highlighting their Honors Day was the demonstration of a Morgan Horse by Professor Donald Balch of Animal Sciences, and a tug-of-war between Faculty and students.

Following are a list of outstanding seniors: Departmental awards were: Outstanding senior in anthropology, Vernon G. Baker, Farmington, Conn., and Mary C. Orr, Barre. Outstanding senior in area studies, Diane E. Foulds, Burlington, and Richard J. Huestis, Bridport.

Outstanding seniors in Communication and Theatre: Communication and public address, Lynn I. Witham, Waterbury Center, Mass. Communication, Michael F. McGee, Burlington; Speech Pathology-Audiology, Mindy R. Winkley, Burlington; Theatre, Jan M. Goldstein, Burlington.

Outstanding senior in English, Mary E. Donovan, Burlington; Experimental Program, Lissa D. Charles, Schenectady, N.Y.; Outstanding senior in geography, Charles W.B. Hazard, Burlington; Outstanding senior in geology, James D. Morse, Burlington.

Outstanding senior in Mathematics - Arts and Sciences, Judith M. Epstein, Burlington; Outstanding senior in philosophy, Michael J. Duffy, Burlington, and Michael S. Elmore, Brandon.

Outstanding senior in physics, Geraldine R. Gross, North Haven, Conn.; Outstanding senior in political science, Scott C. Hoyt, North Hero, and Peter R. Hicks, Bloomfield, Conn.

Outstanding senior in psychology, Mark P. Lefebvre, Omaha, Neb.; Outstanding senior in religion, Donald I. Joy, Waterbury; Outstanding senior in sociology, Gregory M. Owen, Milton, and Daniel C. Quinlan, Windsor.

Outstanding senior in Spanish, Paul L. Gordon, New York, N.Y.; Outstanding senior in Zoology, Donald R. Yandow, Jr., Burlington.

W.R. Adams forestry award, Sally R. Bassett, Teaneck, N.J. Alpha Zeta Proficiency award, Mary C. Ashcroft, Bellows Falls; Burlington Garden Club award, Mrs. Ellen S. Sivert, Burlington; Burpee Award in Horticulture, Randall P. Hickin, Winoski; Lewis Ralph Jones award, Richard C. Bishop, Shelburne Falls, Mass., and Sally R. Bassett, Teaneck, N.J.

Elwin LeRoy Ingalls award: Class of 1973, Donald R. Maynard, Moretown, Class of 1974, Margaret D. Ryan, Vergennes; Class of 1975, Rebecca L. Persons, Marshfield; Class of 1976, Kathleen M. Mullen, Milton.

Florence B. King scholarship award, Virginia F. Papp, Stratford, Conn.; Omicron Nu Cup, Elizabeth A. Snyder, Sparks, Md.; Elmer E. Towne award, John P. Sundberg, Richmond; Bertha M. Terrill award, Kathleen J. Place, Shelburne.

Vermont home economics association awards: Scholarship, Karen M. Dow, St. Albans; Student delegate to AHEA national conference at Atlantic City, Kathleen J. Place, Shelburne.

Vermont Garden Club award, Andrea L. MacDonald, Old Greenwich, Conn.; and Wallace H. Thrall, III, McIndoes Falls; George H. Walker dairy award, Barry P. Sullivan, Wellesley, Mass.; New England Farm and Garden Association graduate fellowship award, Karen I. Hauschild, Winoski; Resource Economics Recognition to seniors with cumulative averages of 3.0 or better, David L. Abbott, Cabot; David W. Alexander, Honolulu, Hawaii; Robert A. Baird, Pittsford; Bruce A. Gaylord-Memorial award, Leon L. Graves, St. Albans; Borden Agricultural award, John S. Peters, Rutland.

VOTEC leadership award, Glenn F. Rogers, Winoski; Society of animal science award, John P. Sundberg, Richmond.

College of Education Sally Ann Hall award, Jo Anne Juscen, Brattleboro; Special Honors in music award, Bonnie L. Thurber, Burlington; Outstanding seniors in physical education, Gretchen VonBerg, Ithaca, N.Y.; and Wayne R. Davis, Essex Junction.

College of Technology: Chemistry: American Institute of Chemists award, Eugene Legan, Clark, N.J.; Dean Charles E. Braun award, Barbara A. Allen, Somerset, N.J.; Clinton D. Cook award, Thomas H. Tulip, St. Albans; Merck Index award, Suzanne B. Burton, Bristol, Conn.; Society of UVM Chemists award, Michael G. Morse, South Burlington; and Vicky A. Viens, Shelburne; Chemical Publishing Company award, Frederick Lux, III, Oakville, Ontario, Canada.

Civil Engineering: Chi Epsilon R.V. Milbank award, Timothy F. Meyer, Wind Gap, Pa.; Chi Epsilon D.P., Fay award, Bruce E. Houghton, Danville, American society of civil engineers faculty award, Peter H. Cross, St. Albans; Phelps prize, Patrick J. Wright, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada; American concrete institution award, Richard L. Aldrich, East Barre.

Electrical Engineering: Sophomore award, Keith J. Budro, Arlington; Junior award, Douglas G. Smith, Burlington; IEEE award, John G. Lang, South Burlington; A. Atwater-Kent prize, Carey R. Brier, Swanton, and Romaine N. Tomlinson, Richmond.

Mechanical Engineering: Edmund F. Little Cup, Charles A. Hawley, Jr., Burlington; Society of Manufacturing Engineers award, Christopher Ten Haagen, Glen Head, N.Y.; Mathematics: Mathematics achievement award, Robert A. Orzell, West Rutland.

Physics: Charles Gordon Fraser award, Bruce Dugan, Stowe.

The departments of engineering: The Cyril G. Veinott prize, Michael S. Marshall, Winoski; UVM student engineer of the year, Romaine N. Tomlinson, Richmond; Tau Beta Pi award, Timothy F. Meyer, Wind Gap, Pa.

Allied Health Sciences Department of Dental Hygiene: Champlain Valley dental society award, Susan Burroughs, Swanton; Vermont state dental society award, Joanne Bugbee, St. Johnsbury; Dental hygiene honorary society award, Michelle Donofree, Bellows Falls; Martha Bonneau, Bradford; Barbara Massey, Dover, Del.; Jane Hoamer, Melrose, Mass.

Department of medical technology: Highest scholastic achievement (MLT), Nancy Baker, Burlington; Highest scholastic achievement award (MT), James Wilson, Essex Center; Kay Barron award (MLT), Debbie Chénaille, Pownal; Kay.

Department of physical therapy: Isola Braun award, Brian Reed, Montpelier; Margaret Corbin award, Hollis Smith, Beechhurst, N.Y.

Program in radiologic technology: Highest scholastic achievement award, Mary Groux, St. Albans; Special recognition - nuclear Med., Leo Larocque, Burlington; Special recognition - radiation therapy, Beverly Doyle, Barton; Special recognition - radiography, Diana Sleeper, Sarver, Pa.

School of Nursing Department of Technical Nursing, Achievement award Sue Hall, South Burlington; Technical nursing award, Sonja Foster, Burlington.

Department of Professional Nursing Achievement award, Mary Moran, Barre; Junior awards, Susan Coleman, Londonderry, and Carol Gilbert, Wilmington, Del.; Faye Crabbe award, Pamela Hinds, Bellows Falls.

HANG LOOSE IN SUMMERTIME

in SOFT SUEDE and assorted colors

IT'S NOT HOW MUCH BUT HOW GOOD

at the

COMPANY STORE

177 CHURCH ST.

OPEN M-F 9-9

SAT 9-8

Manhattanville College Summer 1973

Studies in Quantity and Quality of Life SESSIONS II AND III

The Journalism Institute SESSION II

The Publishing Institute SESSION III

THREE: I. June 11-July 27 (7 weeks)

SESSIONS: II. June 23-July 27 (5 weeks)

III. July 30-August 31 (5 weeks)

Manhattanville Offers:

• Day and Evening Courses in Art, Music, Sciences, Humanities

• For Undergraduates, Graduates, Qualified High School Students

• Interdisciplinary Programs, Teacher's Certification Courses

• Coeducation, Air-conditioned Classrooms

• Residential, Recreational and Cultural Facilities

• Summer Studies in Italy and Spain

For brochure write:

Director of Admissions, Manhattanville College, Purchase, N.Y. 10577 914/946-9000

MORE THAN ONCE UPON A TIME

ONCE A KNIGHT DID VENTURE FORTH FROM THE RAUCOUS KNIGHT'S HOSTELRY TO FIND A MORE PEACEFUL ABODE...

AND HE DID COME UPON A DRAGON WHO DID OFFER...

FOR THE PRICE OF TWO 6-PACKS OF SCHAEFER BEERE...

A LIFE OF PEACE AND BEAUTY AMONG THE BOUNTIFUL FRUITS OF NATURE.

AND SO THE KNIGHT DID ACCEPT THE DRAGON'S DIRECTION...

TO EARTHLY VALHALLA.

AND THERE HE MADE HIS CAMP.

WHEN YOU'RE HAVING MORE THAN ONE

nts ...

SPS Photo R. Ikey

Bonnie L. Thurber, Burlington Outstanding seniors in physical education, Gretchen VonBerg
Ithaca, N.Y., and Wayne R.
Davis, Essex Junction.

College of Technology

Chemistry: American

Institute of Chemists award,

Eugenia Legan, Clark, N.J.,

Dean Charles E. Braun award,

Barbara A. Allen, Somerset,

N.J.; Clinton D. Cook award,

Thomas H. Tulip, St. Albans;

Merck Index award, Suzanne

B. Bufton, Bristol, Conn.;

Society of UVM Chemists

award, Michael G. Morse,

South Burlington; and Vicky

A. Viens, Shelburne; Chemical

Publishing Company award,

Frederick Lux, III, Oakville,

Ontario, Canada.

Civil Engineering: Chi

Epsilon R.V. Milbank award,

Timothy F. Meyer, Wind Gap,

Pa.; Chi Epsilon D.P. Fay

award, Bruce E. Houghton,

Danville; American society of civil engineers faculty award,

Peter H. Cross, St. Albans;

Phelps prize, Patrick J. Wright,

Ottawa, Ontario, Canada;

American concrete institution award, Richard L. Aldrich,

East Barre.

Electrical Engineering:

Sophomore award, Keith J.

Budro, Arlington; Junior

award, Douglas G. Smith,

Burlington; IEEE award, John

G. Lang, South Burlington; A.

Atwater-Kent prize, Carey R.

Brier, Swanton; and Romaine

N. Tomlinson, Richmond.

Mechanical engineering:

Edmund F. Little Cup, Charles

A. Hawley, Jr., Burlington;

Society of Manufacturing

Engineers award, Christopher

Ten Haagen, Glen Head, N.Y.

Mathematics: Mathematics achievement award, Robert A.

Orzell, West Rutland.

Physics: Charles Gordon

Fraser award, Bruce Dorgan,

Stowe.

The departments of engineering: The Cyril G.

Venot prize, Michael S.

Marshall, Winoski; UVM

student engineer of the year,

Romaine N. Tomlinson,

Richmond; Tau Beta Pi award,

Timothy F. Meyer, Wind Gap,

Pa.

Allied Health Sciences

Department of Dental

Hygiene: Champlain Valley

dental society award, Susan

Burroughs, Swanton; Vermont

state dental society award,

Joanne Bugbee, St. Johnsbury;

Dental hygiene honorary society award, Michelle

Donofree, Bellows Falls;

Martha Bonneau, Bradford;

Barbara Massey, Dover, Del.;

Jane Hosmer, Melrose, Mass.

Department of medical technology: Highest scholastic achievement (MLT), Nancy

Baker, Burlington; Highest scholastic achievement award

(MT), James Wilson, Essex

Center; Kay Barron award

(MLT), Debbie Chénaille,

Pownal; Kay

Department of physical therapy: Isola Braun award,

Bryan Reed, Montpelier;

Margaret Corbin award, Hollis

Smith, Beechhurst, N.Y.

Program in radiologic technology: Highest scholastic achievement award, Mary

Giroux, St. Albans; Special recognition - nuclear Med.,

Leo Larocque, Burlington;

Special recognition - radiation therapy, Beverly Doyle,

Barton; Special recognition - radiography, Diana Sleeper,

Sarver, Pa.

School of Nursing

Department of Technical

Nursing: Achievement award

Sue Hall, South Burlington;

Technical nursing award, Sonja

Foster, Burlington.

Department of Professional

Nursing: Achievement award,

Mary Moulton, Barre; Junior

awards, Susan Coleman,

Londonberry; and Carol

Gilbert, Wilmington, Del.; Faye

Crabbe award, Pamela Hinds,

Bellows Falls.

FREE FLIGHT DEMONSTRATION

GO WITH THE BIG ONE

FLY NAVY

College students interested in flying with the Navy's finest as pilots and Naval Flight Officers are invited for a demonstration flight aboard the P-3 Orion

MAY 8
at
BURLINGTON AIRPORT

for more information:

call

or write

US Navy Federal Building
Burlington, Vermont
number 862-6377

Navy Officer Information Team
111 Washington Ave
Albany, New York 12210

SA FILMS SPECIALS

PLEASE NOTE SHOWING TIMES
AS SOME HAVE CHANGED!!

- APRIL 26 FRENCH CONNECTION with Gene Hackman
Shown at 7:15 and 9:30 pm and 1:00 pm and 7:15 pm Sunday, April 29
- APRIL 28 STRAW DOGS starring DUSTIN HOFFMAN
Shown at 7:30 and 9:30 pm and at 3:00 pm and 9:30, Sunday, April 29
- MAY 3 MEDEA directed by PIERO PASOLINI and starring MARIA CALLAS
Shown at 7:30 and 9:30 pm
- MAY 5 LAST MOVIE directed by and starring DENNIS HOPPER
Shown at 7:30 and 9:30 pm

Admission is $1.00 and Tickets will be sold at door only 235 LIFE SCIENCES
BENEDICT AUDITORIUM for informations call 656-2029

'Up With People'

Up With People will be in town again on May 8th in the Memorial Auditorium. Tickets are on sale at all Chittenden Trust banks and various other outlets $3, general admission and $5 reserved. It is a benefit for the Auxiliary of the Medical Center Hospital of Vermont.

Up With People is a world traveling musical show made up of high school seniors, an college freshmen.

Cryptoquote Solution

Good luck on your final and have a good summer. See you in September.

Closed Circuit Medical System To Be Dedicated

The nation's first interstate two-way closed circuit medical television system will be dedicated Thursday (April 26) in public ceremonies in four communities in two states.

In Vermont the ceremonies will be in the Rowell Nursing and Allied Health Sciences Building on the University of Vermont campus, and at the Central Vermont Hospital in Berlin.

At the same time, 4 p.m., other groups will gather at Claremont (N.H.) Hospital and the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Complex in Hanover, N.H.

The versatility of the system will be demonstrated by the program, as speakers at each of the four locations is seen and heard throughout the network.

Speaking at those four locations will be Dr. George W. Welsh of the University of Vermont and Dr. Dean J. Seibert of Dartmouth-Hitchcock, co-directors of the system; Dr. Alberto Miyara, president of the Claremont Hospital medical staff, and Dr. William E. Allard, coordinator of medical education at the Central Vermont Medical Center. Dr. Welsh is also director of continuing education for health sciences at the university.

Videotaped excerpts from network programs will be shown, and Dr. Welsh will explain the University of Vermont's role and the system's potential for the future.

The dedication address will be given by Dr. Kenneth G. Johnson, professor and chairman, department of community medicine, Dartmouth medical school.

Following informal comments among network participants, closing remarks will be made by Dr. Seibert and Dr. Welsh. Receptions will follow at each location.

Dr. Welsh explained, "The purpose of this network is to share the resources of the four institutions with one another, both in the interests of health professional education and patient care."

"The uses of the system are many, ranging from formal courses for academic credit to person-to-person consultations an exchange of ideas or expertise which is potentially invaluable for the improvement of patient care through education."

While the network has been in operation since October 1972, its beginning dates back several years. The first link was between Dartmouth Medical School and the Claremont Hospital, and was used for psychiatric consultations.

It grew to its present size when financial backing was received from the Lister Hill National Center for Biomedical Communications, a part of the National Library of Medicine. Officials of the network say that further funding will be required if they are to carry out their plans for expansion. These plans include links with more institutions in New Hampshire and Vermont, as well as reaching into New York and Maine.

Three other institutions will be added to the network during 1973. These are the Rockingham Memorial Hospital in Bellows Falls; the Vermont State Prison in Windsor and the Claremont, N.H., Vocational Technical College. The use of the network need not be only for health professional education. For example, the link to the State Prison may be for non-medical education programs, as well as for medical consultations. The Vermont participants schedule about 15 hours of programming each week. Thus far, physicians, nurses, medical technologists, physical therapists and speech therapists have been involved in a variety of educational programs, utilizing the system to mutual advantage.

The system is so arranged that any two of the four stations can communicate by both voice and vision, while the other two stations can receive both ends of the communication. Switching permits speedy changes of participants.

Network staff members, in addition to Dr. Seibert and Dr. Welsh, include Robert B. Lorenz, Ph.D., associate co-director at UVM, Harolf E. Pyke, operational director, Jacques Marquis, project manager at UVM, and Warren Kyrie, hospital coordinator at the Central Vermont Medical Center.

SPEND 270 DAYS ON A CAMPUS LIKE NO OTHER IN THE WORLD: YOUR JUNIOR YEAR IN NEW YORK... AT NEW YORK UNIVERSITY.

Music, art, poetry, theater, museums, libraries, archives, Wall Street, the United Nations, nationally known neighborhoods, Greenwich Village, film and television studios—New York City is an unmatched extension of the educational experience at New York University.

Junior Year in New York study is available at NYU's Washington Square Center, in Arts and Sciences, Business, and Public Administration, and Education. For detailed information, clip the coupon and mail today.

Actors Playhouse, Seventh Avenue between Grove and Barrow Streets.

Amato Opera Theater, Bowery and Second Street.

Bill Baird Puppet Theater, Barrow Street near Bedford Street.

Eight Street Playhouse, 32 West Eighth Street between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas.

Elgin, Eighth Avenue, near 17th Street. Film festivals and old favorites.

Henry Street Settlement Playhouse, Grand Street.

Judson Memorial Church, Washington Square South. Avant garde art, poetry, and dance.

Mercer Arts Center, Mercer Street, between 3rd and Bleeker Streets. Theaters named for Lorraine Hansberry, Bernard Shaw, Oscar Wilde, Bertold Brecht, and Sean O'Casey. The Blue Room Cabaret has jazz.

Provincetown Playhouse, MacDougal Street between 3rd & 4th Streets. Home of Ruffalo Opera.

Public Theater, Lafayette Street near Astor Place. Birthplace of Heir; home of New York Shakespeare Festival; also has film anthology.

St. Mark's-in-the-Bowery, Second Avenue at 10th Street. Poetry, drama, and music in church.

St. Mark's Playhouse, Second Avenue between 10th and 11th Streets.

Sheridan Square Playhouse, Seventh Avenue near Grove Street.

Theater Days, Christopher Street near Hudson Street.

Village Gate, corner of Bleeker and Thompson Streets.

Washington Square Methodist Church, West Fourth Street between Washington Square and Avenue of the Americas. Music, dance, drama, film.

Dauber and Pine Bookshop, Fifth Avenue near 13th Street. From plain and used books to rare and old books.

Eight Street Bookshop, West Eighth Street. Scholarly, difficult-to-find books, extensive paperback collection.

Oriental, Fourth Avenue near 10th Street. Eastern thought.

Little Italy: Bounded roughly by Houston and Canal Streets, the Bowery and Lafayette Street. Salamis and warm fresh bread; fresh fruit and vegetables and seafood. The festivals of San Antonio in the late spring and San Geronimo in the early fall.

Soho: The area south of Houston Street where a colony of artists lives and works in the spacious lofts. There are half a dozen galleries here, too.

Federal Hall Museum, corner Wall and Nassau Streets. Site of many historic colonial events—Washington's inauguration, Peter Zenger Trial, etc.

South Street Seaport, Fulton Street and Annex on Pier 16 facing John Street. Museum plus five events such as folk dancing and singing of sea chanteys.

Fulton Street Fish Market, Fulton and South Streets. Starts at 4 a.m.

Chinatown: The Bowery, Mulberry and Canal Streets enclose the tiny enclave. The Chinese Museum is at 7 Mott Street. The Eastern States Buddhist Temple is at 84 Mott Street. The Chinese New Year is celebrated the first day of the new moon between January 21 and February 19.

Financial District: Between the Battery and Fulton Street and between Pearl and Greenwich Streets. The New York Stock Exchange, the American Stock Exchange, the Commodities Exchange, the large insurance companies and the head offices of the leading banks of the U.S. are here. The Federal Reserve located here keeps the gold reserves of various countries of the world in vaults built into the rock which is Manhattan Island.

Carnegie Hall, 154 West 57th Street. Concerts, recitals, and performances.

Celli Irish Festival of Song and Dance, Cathedral High School, 560 Lexington Avenue, 50th to 51st Streets.

New York City Center, 131 West 59th Street. Dance and music recitals.

American Institute of CPA's, 686 Fifth Avenue, Room 403. Library offers books on accounting, taxation and rare books on accounting.

The Broadcasting network libraries. By appointment. ABC at 1926 Broadway near 64th; CBS at 524 W. 57th Street; and NBC at 30 Rockefeller Plaza.

Donnell Library, 53rd Street, between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas. Noted for books on the theater, has a regular schedule of films, concerts and lectures.

Hargill Music Press, 28 West 38th Street. Records and recorder music their specialty—the only music shop of its kind in the country.

Museum of Contemporary Crafts, West 53rd Street, between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas.

Museum of Early American Folk Arts, West 53rd Street, between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas.

Museum of Modern Art, West 53rd Street, between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas. Galleries, gardens, fountains—the very latest art, plus historic films.

Museum of Primitive Art, 54th Street between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas.

New York Cultural Center, 2 Columbus Circle. Variety of exhibits and events.

Pierpont Morgan Library, 26th Street, corner of Madison Avenue. Rare books and changing exhibits of art are splendidly displayed in this former home of an Italian palazzo.

Broadway: The central theater district is located in midtown along the streets that run East and West through Times Square.

Madison Square Garden and The Felt Forum, between 32nd and 33rd Streets and Seventh and Eighth Avenues. Concerts, circuses, rallies, sports, and other mass events. Home of the New York Knickerbockers and the New York Rangers.

The United Nations, First Avenue between 42nd and 47th Streets.

Central Park, 59th Street to 110th Street between Fifth Avenue and Central Park West.

Martha Graham School of Contemporary Dance, 63rd Street near Second Avenue.

Council for Inter-American Relations, Park Avenue at 68th Street. Exhibits, music.

El Museo del Barrio, Community School, District Four, 206 E. 116th Street.

French Institute, 60th Street near Madison. Lectures, movies, library—English and French.

Frick Collection, 70th Street at Fifth Avenue. Baronial mansion of an American industrialist, housing a private art collection, recitals.

Goethe House, Fifth Avenue between 62nd and 63rd Streets. Run by the Federal Republic of Germany, lectures, exhibits, displays and lectures.

Jewish Museum, Fifth Avenue at the corner of 92nd Street.

Metropolitan Museum of Art, Fifth Avenue between 80th and 84th Streets.

Museum of the City of New York, Fifth Avenue at 104th Street.

National Academy of Design, Fifth Avenue between 69th and 90th Streets.

Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum, Fifth Avenue between 58th and 60th Streets. The building itself a work of art by Frank Lloyd Wright.

Whitney Museum of American Art, Madison Avenue at 75th Street. Exhibits of American artists who are still living.

Lincoln Center, Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue, between 62nd Street and 68th Street. Home of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, the New York City Ballet, the Metropolitan Opera, and the New York City Opera.

American Museum of Natural History, Central Park West, 77th Street to 81st Street. Nearly twelve acres of exhibits.

The Cloisters, Fort Tryon Park, west of Broadway near 190th Street. Recreation of the medieval world.

Hispanic Society of America, Broadway between 155th Street and 156th Street. Goya's "Duchess of Alba," works by El Greco, Velasquez, Zurbarán and Rubens.

Museum of the American Indian, Broadway and 155th Street. Largest museum in the world devoted to the North American Indians.

Riverside Museum, 310 Riverside Drive. Features Tibetan and Oriental art.

New York Historical Society, Central Park West at 77th Street.

COAGULE
1301 Shalburne Rd.
So. Burlington, VT 05401
802-662-3712

INFORMS CYNIC artistic

If she doesn't say yes
it won't be our fault

PRICES START UNDER $109.00

YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A
PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT

A family of jewelers in Vermont since 1844

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

17 Upper Church Street

Member American Gem Society

Academic Affairs

Committee Meeting...

Continued from page one

between two physicians or other health professionals should they be deficient. The open part of the meeting also dealt with the

ROTC program and acceptance of credit in the different colleges. It was found that each college had a different policy towards ROTC credit. The College of Technology accepts up to sixteen hours, while Arts and Sciences accept none. Discussion centered on the disunity of the college policies and the difficulty in setting a norm as recommended by the subcommittee. There are also two other faculty committees similarly concerned with this problem. The committee decided to table this until the additional committee reports were ready and could therefore be utilized for more "needed information. It was "tabled for cause" in the words of Prof. Paul Brock. Professor Jones, however, stated that the committee would have to accept a bit of cowardice in its avoidance and postponing of the problem.

The subcommittee then went into executive sessions on the Klein and Stephany appeals and the student observers were asked to leave.

Boarding For Horses

The UVM Horse Club is now accepting horses for boarding at the Spear Street stables, for next semester. The barns including an indoor ring, are located within walking distance of campus.

The forty dollar monthly board includes grain, hay, and bedding. The students must muck their own stalls and arrange for the animal to be given its afternoon feed. (Morning chores are done by a paid volunteer.)

It is expected that those taking advantage of the low-rate stabling will become active club members. The Horse Club is a diversified group with members involved in dressage and combined training. Morgans and saddle-seat, western stock horses, hunter-jumpers, polo and of course, pleasure and family horses. Activities include clinics, field trips, movies, lecture demonstration by professionals and service projects for the community, especially youth groups.

Stabling will be assigned on a first-come basis. Contact Jeanie Hahn (862-4397) Summer address: Bradford, Vermont, 05033 (222-5795). There will be a meeting of the Horse Club Thursday, May 3, at 7:30 in the MAT Lounge. All interested people are urged to attend.

Office of Undergraduate Admission
100 York Hall
New York University
Washington Square, New York 10003

I am interested in spending my Junior Year in New York studying ☐ Arts and Sciences ☐ Business and Public Administration ☐ Education

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____

I am presently enrolled at _____

APRIL 26/1973

olution

Good luck on your trip to the State Prison

Be Dedicated

network need not be only for health professional education. For example, the link to the State Prison may be for non-medical education programs, as well as for medical consultations. The Vermont participants schedule about 15 hours of programming each week. Thus far, physicians, nurses, medical technologists, physical therapists and speech therapists have been involved in a variety of educational programs, utilizing the system to mutual advantage.

The system is so arranged that any two of the four stations can communicate by both voice and vision, while the other two stations can receive both ends of the communication. Switching permits speedy changes of participants.

Network staff members, in addition to Dr. Seibert and Dr. Welsh, include Robert B. Lorenz, Ph.D., associate co-director at UVM, Harold F. Pyke, operational director, Jacques Marquis, project manager at UVM, and Warren Kyprie, hospital coordinator at the Central Vermont Medical Center.

Affairs

Meeting...

ROTC program and acceptance of credit in the different colleges. It was found that each college had a different policy towards ROTC credit. The College of Technology accepts up to sixteen hours, while Arts and Sciences accept none. Discussion centered on the disparity of the college policies and the difficulty in setting a norm as recommended by the subcommittee. There are also two other faculty committees similarly concerned with this problem. The committee decided to table this until the additional committee reports were ready and could therefore be utilized for more needed information. It was "tabled for cause" in the words of Prof. Paul Brock. Professor Jones, however, stated that the committee would have to accept a bit of cowardice in its avoidance and postponing of the problem.

The subcommittee then went into executive sessions on the Klein and Stephany appeals and the student observers were asked to leave.

Boarding
For Horses

The UVM Horse Club is now accepting horses for boarding at the Spear Street stables, for next semester. The barns including an indoor ring, are located within walking distance of campus.

The forty dollar monthly board, includes grain, hay, and bedding. The students must muck their own stalls and arrange for the animal to be given its afternoon feed. (Morning chores are done by a paid volunteer.)

It is expected that those taking advantage of the low-rate stabling, will become active club members. The Horse Club is a diversified group with members involved in dressage and combined training, Morgans and saddle-seat, western stock horses, hunter-jumpers, polo and of course, pleasure and family horses. Activities include clinics, field trips, movies, lecture demonstration by professionals and service projects for the community, especially youth groups.

Stabling will be assigned on a first-come basis. Contact Jeanne Hahn (862-4397) Summer address: Bradford, Vermont, 05033 (222-5795.) There will be a meeting of the Horse Club Thursday, May 3, at 7:30 in the MAT Lounge. All interested people are urged to attend.

April 30 to May 5

Third Annual Student Appreciation Days

The University Store
on the campusGET
READY GO

Sale starts monday

Records at Big Discounts!

Save up to $3.00!

Major label LP's! Top artists!

Many, many selections in this special purchase. Classics included!

Hundreds of records! Come early for best selection!

What's happening this week!
Huge Record Saving Sale
All Books 20% Off
Gift Certificates 20% Premium
Selected Specials As Follows

Monday
All Art Supplies 20% off
Get the Monday coupon in.

Tuesday
All Stationary Supplies 20% off
Get the Tuesday coupon in.

Wednesday
Imprinted softgoods 20% off
Winter Jackets 50% off.
Custom imprinting FREE. Limit 5 letters decal.
Don't want to buy ours, bring your own in.
We'll do that for free too.
Get the coupon in.

Thursday
Health and beauty aids 10% off.
Winter Jackets 50% off.
Selected group of posters $25 ea.
All posters, graphics prints 20% off.
Get the Thursday coupon in.

Friday
Glassware, Ceramics, Jewelry 50% off.
Class Rings ordered today, deduct $5 from the ring of your choice.
Get the Friday gift certificate coupon in.

Saturday
Custom imprinting free. Don't want to buy ours, bring in yours. We will do that too. Limit 5 letters decal.
Last chance to buy books at 20% off.
Last chance at record sale.
Last chance at 20% off gift certificate.
Last but not least—
LAST CHANCE FOR US TO SAY THANK YOU DURING STUDENT APPRECIATION WEEK.

BOOKS BY THE POUND

Returned by Popular demand
All books in the special display, will be sold by the pound.
Come early so the supply is limited. All sales are final. No exchanges or refund.

CHECK OUR PRICES:

Books $7.99 lb	COLONY HAMBURG — $1.09 lb.	Books $7.99 lb
	GRAND UNION STEAK — $1.79 lb.
	OUR BOOKS — $7.99 lb.

Watch For These
Red Tag SpecialsUNIVERSITY
STORE
ON THE CAMPUS

MONDAY
THIS COUPON ENTERS YOU IN THE TUESDAY
DRAWING FOR A BLACK AND DECKER SAW OR SUNBEAM ELECTRIC MAKE-UP MIRROR
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
YOU MUST BE A UVM STUDENT TO WIN
YOU DO NOT HAVE TO BE PRESENT TO WIN
PRESENT THIS COUPON TO A CASH REGISTER
OPERATOR ON MONDAY

UNIVERSITY
STORE
ON THE CAMPUS

TUESDAY
THIS COUPON ENTERS YOU IN THE WEDNESDAY
DRAWING FOR 30 lbs. OF CANDY OF YOUR CHOICE
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
YOU MUST BE A UVM STUDENT TO WIN
YOU DO NOT HAVE TO BE PRESENT TO WIN
PRESENT THIS COUPON TO A CASH REGISTER
OPERATOR ON TUESDAY

UNIVERSITY
STORE
ON THE CAMPUS

WEDNESDAY
THIS COUPON ENTERS YOU IN THE THURSDAY
DRAWING FOR A DINNER FOR TWO AT THE PARK RESTAURANT AND TICKETS FOR TWO TO "APPLAUSE" ON MAY 3RD
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
YOU MUST BE A UVM STUDENT TO WIN
YOU DO NOT HAVE TO BE PRESENT TO WIN
PRESENT THIS COUPON TO A CASH REGISTER
OPERATOR ON WEDNESDAY

UNIVERSITY
STORE
ON THE CAMPUS

THURSDAY
THIS COUPON ENTERS YOU IN THE FRIDAY
DRAWING FOR A MAN'S WALTHAM WATCH OR SONY TFM 8100 AM/FM RADIO
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
YOU MUST BE A UVM STUDENT TO WIN
YOU DO NOT HAVE TO BE PRESENT TO WIN
PRESENT THIS COUPON TO A CASH REGISTER
OPERATOR ON THURSDAY

UNIVERSITY
STORE
ON THE CAMPUS

FRIDAY
THIS COUPON ENTERS YOU IN THE SATURDAY
DRAWING FOR A TWENTY-FIVE DOLLAR GIFT CERTIFICATE
NAME
ADDRESS
PHONE
YOU MUST BE A UVM STUDENT TO WIN
YOU DO NOT HAVE TO BE PRESENT TO WIN
PRESENT THIS COUPON TO A CASH REGISTER
OPERATOR ON FRIDAY

UNIVERSITY
STORE
ON THE CAMPUS

UVM SPORTS

College Professionalism Growing?

by Mike Schwartz

At UVM and all over the United States, college students and the general public flock to a variety of sports events to root their teams on. Sometimes they are overjoyed as their team wins a championship and sometimes they must accept a losing team. But these fans never realize what happens behind the scenes to college sports and college athletes.

College sports supposedly are an extra-curricular activity on a purely amateur level. Granted it is a stepping stone to a lucrative professional career for a superior athlete, but college sports is supposed to be for the student. Again this past week the frightening aspects of college professionalism returned. The nation's second ranked football team, Oklahoma, forfeited nine victories including the Sugar Bowl because of recruiting violations. The high school transcripts of two freshmen had been altered. These two players, quarterback Kerry Jackson, a starter, and center, Mike Phillips were ruled ineligible in 1973. If their records were not tampered with, they would have been ineligible to participate in 1972. With this ruling against Oklahoma, they will now face possible punishment from the NCAA from participation in post-season playoffs and NCAA sanctioned games. All this because two players' standings were altered. The coach of the team said he had no information that the tampering of the records had occurred.

Coach Joe Paterno of Penn State, the team Oklahoma played in the Sugar Bowl, voiced his concern over the scandal, when interviewed by a newspaper. He called it "another embarrassing situation for intercollegiate athletics." He also said, "This might be an appropriate time to again appeal to the NCAA governing bodies to get proper enforcement of our rules."

I can only agree with Coach Paterno. Such unnecessary violations upset the amateurism and the cleanliness which is usually associated with college sports. Yet this violation is just one recent example. The North Carolina State basketball team was 27-0 this past season, but didn't participate in college championships because of a suspension for recruiting violations. Southwest Louisiana participated in playoffs because the Courts issued a restraining order on numerous pending violations. The NCAA reluctantly allowed them to play. Such violations are almost commonplace. They blemish the appearance of college athletics. There must be tougher enforcement of rules to stop such foolish and unnecessary scandals which are done because schools want winning teams. The college sports fan should be aware and concerned that this can happen to his team, no matter if he wins or loses.

UVM Rescue To Play

St. Mikes In Softball

At 10:00, Sunday, May 6, at Centennial Field the first Annual UVM Rescue-St. Michael's Rescue Softball Game will be held. The purpose of the game will be to promote better relations between the two squads. The distinguished umpires will be Lt. D. Modica, from the Burlington Fire Department, and Mr. C. Gettinger Jr., the Director of Emergency Care Services for Vermont. The managers of the two teams are Bob Devlin, for St. Mike's, and Bob Wilkenfeld, for UVM. The public is invited to attend the game.

FOR RENT

Two Bedroom furnished apartment. Carpeted. Available from May 15 to Aug. 30. RENT NEGOTIABLE. Call 863-6807 between 4:30 and 8:30.

Looking for an inexpensive way to move home for the summer?

U - HAUL TRUCKS & TRAILERS - ONE WAY

for definite reservation of trailer call

JACK at 863-6669

P. J'S AUTO VILLAGE
2073 Williston Rd.

BOSE...
the next best thing to being there

With Bose Direct/Reflecting® Speakers, you're as close as you can be to the sounds of Kennedy Center, LaScala, Woodstock -- or wherever your favorite artists perform -- without leaving your living room.

Unlike conventional direct radiating speakers, the BOSE 901 and 501 project both direct and reflected sounds. Music surrounds the listener as it does at a live performance.

With an unprecedented series of rave reviews from major music and equipment critics, the BOSE 901, the nation's most popular loudspeaker, is the most highly reviewed speaker regardless of size or price. For copies of the reviews, write Dept. 8.

BOSE
The Mountain, Framingham, Mass.

tech hifi

150 Church St

862-2638

A Tribute To Coach Mickey Cochran

by Christopher Brown

Mickey Cochran is leaving his position as alpine ski coach at UVM to take over as head coach of the U.S. National Ski Team, the highest coaching position in the country. It is a good thing for Mickey and I wish him alot of luck; but most of all I think it is going to be a great thing for the National Team.

Mickey has been a part of this University for a long time. He is a graduate of UVM and among other things he played baseball, basketball and captained the football team.

Last week at the UVM ski team banquet I started to say something about him but I couldn't finish; I just stared at the floor with a lump in my throat. All I could say is that we are going to miss him. What could I say then to a bunch of ski team members from the fifties and sixties who had no idea what it means to work with him and to be part of a National Championship Slalom Team. And what can I say now to a college campus in an era when athletics is coming increasingly under fire and things like hard work and dedication sometime seem a little corny.

I just want to say what a truly great coach he is and say thank you to him. Thank you for standing out on Little Spruce and yelling at me to stay square and over my downhill ski when it was twenty below and the wind was blowing chunks of ice into your face and the gofers and turkeys were inside sipping hot chocolate; thank you for starting up the rope tow in your backyard when I was the only person there and watching me ski for an hour; for setting up a practice GS on your hill in the rain, salting it to make the snow hard and standing out there soaking wet and screaming PUSH! so when I thought I was already giving one hundred percent I found another ten. And thank you for the many leg rubs and slaps on the fanny before I climbed into the starting gate.

We are going to miss Mickey Cochran next year his dedication, desire, knowledge, kidding around and his laugh. I hope I'll be able to work with him again somewhere. Hopefully he'll be back at UVM again sharing his drive with future UVM teams.

Intramural Results

Volleyball

The Independent Volleyball championship was won by STUFF from Marsh Residence Hall defeating MARSH 3 and WILLS HALL in the playoffs.

The Fraternity volleyball championship was won by SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON who defeated DELTA PSI in the playoffs.

The all-campus championship game between SAE and STUFF was won by SAE, two out of three games.

STUFF TEAM ROSTER: John Bishop, Stewart Arnold, Robert Levine, Oliver Gardner, Tom Rooney, William Wright, Doug Ball.

SAE TEAM ROSTER: Harry Nesbitt, Steve Eckerson, Jon Hulme, Brad Gregory, Jeff Sadler, John Kiely, Rick Frederick, Ed Sherman, Don Weaver, Paul Aleskovsky, Andy Sumner, Tom Rupley, Fred Hunt, Gary Fifield, Doug Dalton.

Wrestling

130 lb. Wts.

Individual winners	Team
1. Barr, Randy	Chitt.
2. Aleskovsky, Paul	SAE

137 lb.

1. Nesbitt, Gary	SAE
2. Kuech, Robert	ATO

145 lb.

1. Bavis, Mike	LI
2. Collins, John	DP

152 lb.

1. Sabourin, Gary	DP
2. Rodin, Neil	SN

160 lb.

1. Cook, William	SAE
2. Iverson, Mark	DP

177 lb.

1. Gulbrandsen, Knut	DP
2. Kenney, John	DP

167 lb.

1. Sheriff, Rich	DP
2. Smith, Norman	Austin

191 lb.

1. Hughes, Gregg	Wills
2. Ackerson, John	DP

Heavy weight

1. Underhill, Chris	Davis
2. None

Team scores in order of rank

Team	Score
Delta Psi	79
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	40
Chittenden	18
Lambda Iota	18
Davis	15
Wills	13
Sigma Nu	11
Austin	10
Alpha Tau Omega	9
Sigma Phi Epsilon	3
Alpha Gamma Rho	1
Wasted	1

With the money you save on our clothes you can exert your male prerogative and pay for her Jethro Tull tickets for a change.

Wrangler Sportswear.
Remember the "W" is Silent.

Get your money's worth at Hill's Dept. Store, Burlington

Giant Stores, St. Albans

The weekend. And you've got a little time to spend. Any way you want. Good times, good friends. And Coca-Cola to help make it great.

It's the real thing. Coke.

Bottled under the authority of The Coca-Cola Company by COCA-COLA BOTTLERS OF BURLINGTON

continental tyroleans

dunham

For the Family, priced Mazel's way...to save you More!

* OPEN DAILY
9:00 am to 6 pm,
Thurs. & Fri. 'til 9 pm
* FREE PARKING

MAZEL'S...Your North Country Headquarters for Dunham Hiking, Biking, Camping and Mountaineering Boots...Campus or Anywhere
boots.

MAZEL'S

SHOE STORE
194 North St.
Burlington

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XXI

VERMONT CYNIC

NUMBER 14

Welcome to Vermont

Photo by Abbie Schaefer

UVM Hit By Housing Shortage; Burgess, Jeanne Mance To Open

by Margo Howland

About 190 freshmen and 100 transfer students will be affected by the housing shortage at UVM this fall, according to Dr. Keith Miser, Director of Residence Halls.

While the situation is not as drastic as last year, the University has been plagued with overcrowded residence halls and occasional off-beat rooming arrangements for at least three years in a row.

As of August 10, Dr. Miser said, "We have 190 more freshmen than we have space for. We will alleviate this in several ways. We will assign them to lounge spaces (unlike last year, there will be no triplexes on the whole campus and we are still getting some cancellations). When a cancellation comes in, we assign somebody to that room. We hope that by the time school starts, that figure of 190 people without a room will be cut significantly."

In the past, the freshmen and transfer students not assigned a room were put in lounges and triplexes, boarded at fraternities, made arrangements to stay in motels or were obliged to find apartments.

The problem arose in each case as a result of an unanticipated number of upperclassmen choosing to remain in a dormitory rather than moving off campus. The renovations of Chittenden, Buckingham and Wills Halls, the construction of the Living Learning Center, the scarcity and high cost of apartments and the increasing cost of food have all contributed to the decision of many more upperclassmen to remain in residence halls, Dr. Miser explained.

Each year, Housing researchers try to predict the number of upperclassmen who will choose to remain in residence halls using as a base the percentages of two years ago and adjusting for the increase in the number of students, additional residence halls available and other surveys. Each year they have underestimated.

What happened? "Often students will keep their residence hall contracts as a sort of insurance while looking for an apartment," said Dr. Miser. "Cancellations may be made until June 1 (without penalty). Usually we get hundreds of them. We got almost none this year. By the time we had our accurate figures, freshmen had been enrolled, room-choosing was over, and it was too late."

This year, as last year, the University will rent Burgess House and Jeanne Mance Hall for women's dormitories. The students living there last year were told at room-choosing time that the halls would be closed because the University no longer needed them. As "displaced" students, the Jeanne Mance and Burgess residents were given senior priority.

"I feel very badly about the Jeanne Mance and Burgess girls who wanted to return here," Dr. Miser sighed. "It will look very inconsistent. Estimates of research showed that we would have extra spaces. We are now 100% full."

How did one get to be one of the unlucky displaced persons? When it was realized that there would be a housing shortage, the Housing department made a list of all the incoming freshmen. The special program students were then eliminated. Those in the Experimental Program, Dining, Mason and Coolidge, those who would be in Slade, the French dorm, and those in Robinson, the ecology dorm.

Of the freshmen left, 190 were selected at random. Priority numbers were randomly designated and lounge spaces on Redstone campus and Harris Mills were assigned on the basis of the numbers, the least desirable lounges having the lowest priority numbers.

Dr. Miser explained what will happen next. "At the opening of the residence halls on August 28, we have what we call 'no-shows.' There are a certain group of students that do not arrive. There are usually 40 or 50 that just don't come. We will give the displaced freshmen their places. So, by the end of the first week we hope that another large number will be assigned rooms."

The freshmen aren't the only ones in this situation, Dr. Miser continues:

We have roughly 300 transfer students arriving to whom we will have no space at all. They have received warnings that housing will be impossible. We are working with local motel owners to work out a referral source and a special student rate. I would like to be able to refer them to a motel and have the arrangements be between the motel and the students without having the University in the middle.

Last year, fraternities were able to house 100 students (some of whom ended up rooming) but this year most are full. Several have a total of about twenty spaces.

We don't assign them there," Dr. Miser said, "but we tell the student looking for a place to stay what houses have space and he makes the arrangement with the fraternity that has room for him. Our job is to bring the frat and the boarder together."

In discussing the renovations of Chittenden, Buckingham and Wills, Dr. Miser said, "They will be much more than when they were first built in 1949. And at the time they were considered the finest dorm around." The renovations were 80% completed as of August 10. Buckingham and Wills will be 50% freshmen and 50% upperclassmen, and they will be co-ed by floors. The girls' floor will have more singles (one-third) to bring the toilet ratio into focus.

According to Vermont state law, there must be one toilet for every seven girls in a residence hall.

"At room-choosing time," Dr. Miser said, "Chittenden was the mystery hall. It was not available, as we wished to (continued on page three)."

Living/Learning Center, Concept In Community Life, Encourages Participation Of Entire University

by Barbara Frankel

The new Living Learning Center, an innovative concept in creating a sense of intellectual community, will open as scheduled on August 28, with facilities to accommodate all students living there.

The Center will encourage participation of students and faculty from all colleges in the university, whether or not they reside in the complex. According to Dr. H. N. Muller, Director of the Center, use of the facilities and programs by non-residents will be encouraged, while those residing in the complex will additionally take regular courses on main campus.

The Living Learning Center will house ninety-nine student apartments, each with facilities for five to seven students. Most rules and regulations pertaining to the complex will be decided by the students in September. Muller emphasized the flexibility of the program when he stated, "I don't really want to try and anticipate the students' desires. We'd like to let them participate in the program as much as possible. At four classes plus graduate and medical students are represented in the complex. Additionally, approximately 100 faculty families, four part advisors and a scholar residence will live in the center. Any person or group in the university who wishes to use a scholar or speaker hall at UVM may offer the guest free housing in the Center, with a $150 charge per night for linen. Interested persons are asked to contact the Living Learning Center offices in advance to secure reservations.

Dr. Muller was optimistic for the long-term success of the Living Learning Center, although he conceded that there may be mistakes at the onset. Each semester, certain programs will be offered to the students. If these programs meet with great success they will be transferred to the main campus, not let to offer them will be phased out of the complex. The general categories offered for this fall semester are: Intensive language study in German and Chinese; Early Childhood development; and early childhood education programs; Human nutrition study; Chemistry; and program. Cross-cultural studies; Student generated programs. The Living Learning Center will also offer poetry, photography and other courses of interest to students and the community.

Although 50% of the Center is housing allocated by the Office of Residence Halls, priority was given to those students of special interest groups. These students, now residing in the Living Learning Center, will have a priority next year when room-will again be distributed on the basis of special group interests. There will be one predominantly freshman dormitory, which will be aimed at orienting these new students towards joining more of UVM's extracurricular activities.

The Living/Learning Center will also feature a new dining hall, open to all UVM students with meal tickets. In order to ease the traffic flow and to make eating in a dining hall more pleasurable, plants will be situated throughout the room to screen the dish conveyor belt. Tables and chairs will be placed in a manner designed to facilitate pleasant eating and to be as far removed as possible from the lines of people receiving food. A new manager, Walter May, will be in charge of the dining hall. Despite the meat shortage, May has many ideas on improving food and eating conditions. The complex will also feature a SAGA snack-bar and room. "We think it's going to be the best dining hall on campus," commented Dr. Muller.

The Center is composed of six buildings located between Main Street and the Marsh - Austin - Tupper complex. The central building houses the dining facilities, administrative offices, recreational spaces,

SPS Barry Woodworth

(continued on page five)

Plan To Unite S.A., Faculty, Staff Offered By President Sig Heller

by Barbara Frankel

In a recent Cynic interview, Student Association President Sig Heller announced a plan to consolidate power in the university by uniting the Student Association, Faculty Senate, and non-Academic Employee's Council. Although Heller emphasized that his proposal was only in the planning stage and that he has not yet contacted either the Faculty-Senate, or the Non-Academic Employee's Council, he was optimistic for the future of this plan.

He also suggested the formation of committees within the present Student Association in order to increase the Senate's effectiveness and unity. Heller will submit his proposal for these committees to the Senate with the option that they can be modified or added to in any way the Senate deems appropriate. At present he has devised the following committees: an Academic Affairs Committee involving investigation and recommendations of university academic policies; an Athletics Committee concerning physical education and recreation on campus; a committee dealing with non-academic student services such as housing, dining, counseling, safety, etc., and a Resource and Development Committee which would study ways to develop and improve the UVM campus and surrounding areas.

Heller, a junior elected last April by a large plurality, also advocated several other innovations which will, he hopes, make UVM a total learning experience. He favors using funds of approximately $7000 left over from allocations to the S.A. organizations to set up an art acquisition program which would place paintings, prints and sculptures around the campus. This program, originally suggested by President Edward C. Andrews, could be most easily implemented by receiving financial support from other organizations in addition to the Student Association. Heller stated:

Additionally, Heller would like to see a successful "Big Weekend" at UVM, possibly built around the Winooski River Race in April. He suggested fiddler contests, craft shows, and other projects which would involve the community and the state more.

The S.A. Senate, plagued by problems of disunity and apathy last year will face an additional problem this semester: the loss of a great many seniors graduated in June.

And the fact that the Living Learning Center will have no representation until elections are held. Elections for vacant senatorial seats cannot be held until someone is found to replace former S.A. Secretary of Elections Paul Cillo, whose term expired in April. Amid much speculation, it appears that Senate Chairperson Jim Sloman will return in September. His term expires in October when all senate seats are up for election. Bill Root, former Resident Advisor of Converse Hall, has replaced Karen Wedge as Director of Student Affairs. (For further details, see next issue of the Cynic.)

Women Admitted To ROTC On An "Equal Basis" With Men

by Barbara Frankel

According to the Department of Military Studies, freshmen and sophomores will be able to join the ROTC program on an "equal basis" with men. The word "equal" however, appears to have different connotations.

Women in ROTC will be permitted to compete for ROTC scholarships, which pay tuition, fees, books, and a six-month stipend while they are in college. All cadets, male or female, who do not have scholarship by their junior and senior years receive $100 a month as a subsistence allowance.

Upon graduation, women in ROTC will be able to obtain commissions in the regular army.

According to a law passed by Congress, however, no women in the Armed Forces can be in ROTC. The Equal Rights Amendment, now before Congress, would allow women to be in ROTC.

For the present, time commented Captain Robert D. Walz of the ROTC program, women cannot technically participate in field combat. This means, among other things, that they can't fly or jump out of airplanes and are not required by law to fire any weapons.

Thirty-three freshmen are enrolled in ROTC for the fall semester. Of these thirty-three, eleven are women. Women in ROTC was previously successfully tried on ten other college campuses last year. According to Captain Walz, "It will certainly be a challenge for us to offer the kind of program which does justice to the ability of today's college students, both women and men."

Captain Walz did anticipate a few problems, such as whether or not a chaperone was necessary for overnight hikes. He feels the best solution is to let the girls decide for themselves in September. He has also had difficulty "fitting" a woman instructor as the demand is much greater than the supply.

Captain Walz is hopeful that the initiation of women in ROTC will act as a spur to male enrollment. This was not, however, the purpose of the plan. In the words of Colonel William C. Hapinski, Professor of Military Studies, "this change is long overdue and will be a great benefit to the ROTC program at the University of Vermont."

In March, students voted on a referendum which stated, "Shall ROTC remain on campus as it now stands?" 852 students voted yes, while 323 did not favor retaining ROTC in its present form.

Any questions women might have regarding this program should be addressed to the Professor of Military Studies, U.S. Army ROTC Instructor Group, phone 656-2966.

Hamilton Hall Unexpectedly Dropped From Experimental Program By New Director

by Margo Howland

In a relatively unforeseen development, Professor Morris Simon, new director of the Experimental Program, announced in a newsletter June 18 that Hamilton Hall has been dropped from the program. As a result of this, the size of the program has been cut by one-third, from 450 to about 300 students.

"The purpose of reduction is to create a deeper sense of community, since the community aspect of the Experimental Program is a vital element," Professor Simon told the Cynic in a recent interview. Simon, who took over as director for Jon Fackler on May 15, emphasized that the reduction did not affect the standing of Hamilton Hall residents in the program.

"Any E.P. student in good standing who lived in Hamilton will continue in the program, except that he will live in Mason or Coolidge," commented the new director.

The general reaction among E.P. students seems to have been very favorable. Many students "It that the Experimental Program had become too big and impersonal. A number of Hamilton residents, however, have understandably become quite upset, according to Professor Simon.

He further stated that the students continuing in the program, who previously lived in Mason, Coolidge or Hamilton would have priority and would all be guaranteed rooms in Mason or Coolidge before any new freshmen would be admitted. Mason holds about 144 students, Coolidge about 145, and there are a few students who commute from homes in the Burlington area.

While Professor Simon has told Experimental Program students not to expect any radical changes, "Much of what has been taking place I approve of and hope to continue." There have been a number of innovations in the program besides the reduction in size.

The Experimental Program has received a grant from the National Endowment of the Humanities to develop a core-course program in three areas: the sciences, the social sciences, and the humanities. A group of faculty members are engaged in the developing of this program of fall.

(continued on page three)

Professor Morris Simon, new director of the Experimental Program

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Cynic Announces Office Hours

Cynic office hours for the fall semester will be:
Monday, Wednesday 9 am - 5 pm
Tuesday 9 am - 5 pm - 7 pm
Thursday 10 am - 4 pm
Friday 10 am - 4 pm

Phi Beta Kappa Elects Officers

The Phi Beta Kappa chapter at the University of Vermont has elected its officers for the coming year. The officers are: President, [Name]; Vice President, [Name]; Secretary, [Name]; Treasurer, [Name]; and [Name].

Guest Apartment Available

There is a guest apartment available in the [Name] Learning Center. It is a one-bedroom apartment with a full kitchen, bathroom, and living area. It is available for rent on a long-term basis.

Personnel Needed

The [Name] department is seeking qualified individuals for the following positions: [Position 1], [Position 2], [Position 3]. Interested candidates should submit their resumes to [Address].

Bailey Library Hours

Thursday, August 30 - Tuesday, December 18, 1973

Monday, Friday 8:00 AM - 12:00 PM
Saturday 8:00 AM - 11:00 PM
Sunday 12:00 Noon - 12:00 PM

Please note exceptions:

Saturday, Sept. 1 8:00 AM - 5:00 PM
Sunday, Sept. 2 9:00 AM - 5:00 PM (Labor Day)
Monday, Sept. 3 9:00 AM - 12:00 PM
Tuesday, Sept. 4 9:00 AM - 5:00 PM
Wednesday, Sept. 5 9:00 AM - 5:00 PM
Thursday, Sept. 6 9:00 AM - 5:00 PM
Friday, Sept. 7 9:00 AM - 5:00 PM
Saturday, Sept. 8 9:00 AM - 5:00 PM
Sunday, Sept. 9 7:00 AM - 12:00 PM
INTERSESSION

Wednesday, December 19, 1973

Friday, January 11, 1974

ALL NIGHT STUDY: September 4, 1973 - December 18, 1973

Monday, Friday 8:00 AM - 5:00 PM
CLOSED weekends, Christmas and New Year's Days
Monday, Friday 10:00 AM - 8:00 AM
Saturday, Sunday 7:00 AM - 5:00 PM
Monday, Sunday 8:00 AM - 12:00 PM

CLOSED FOR INTERSESSION

December 19, 1973 - January 16, 1974

Med Library Hours

Eight hours begin Tuesday, September 4th
Monday, Friday 8:00 AM - 12:00 PM
Saturday, Sunday 10:00 AM - 12:00 PM

Audio Visual Department hours

Monday, Friday 8:00 AM - 5:00 PM
Saturday, Sunday 6:30 PM - 10:00 PM
Exceptions:

Thurs., Nov. 22 (Thanksgiving) CLOSED
Fri., Nov. 23 8:00 AM - 5:00 PM
Mon., Dec. 24 8:00 AM - 12:00 PM
Tues., Dec. 25 CLOSED
Wed., Dec. 26 - Sun., Dec. 30 8:00 AM - 10:00 PM
Mon., Dec. 31 8:00 AM - 5:00 PM
Tues., Jan. 1 CLOSED

Artist Supplies

"New England's Great Art Store"
Art-Draft-Frame-Craft
Boutiques
112 Church St.

Shakespeare Returns

The Champlain Shakespeare Festival at the University of Vermont is continuing its season through Sept. 29 for the benefit of returning students with repertory productions of "Romeo and Juliet," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and "Richard III."

Student Check Cashing Service

Student check cashing service is offered by the University Store as a convenience to the UVM community. No charge is made for this service. The following guide lines are offered:

1. Students must show their validated UVM ID card in order to cash personal checks.
2. The maximum amount cashed per student at any one time will be $100.00.
3. Only checks drawn on the student's personal account or on another party's account payable to the student, will be honored (e.g., only one endorsement is allowed).
4. Checks must be payable in United States funds.
5. Students who have one check returned to the Cashier's Office unpaid (insufficient funds, account closed, irregular signature, etc.) will be placed on the "no privileges" list and will not be allowed to cash another check until the matter is settled.
6. Students who have a second check returned will be placed on the "no more" list and advised that they will not be allowed to cash personal checks again at the University Store.

The above denial of privileges extends to all checks cashed by the student, whether drawn on his or her personal account or on another person's account with the student as payee.

8. Students will be charged a $2.00 fee for all checks returned unpaid to offset University administrative expenses. Requests to have check cashing privileges restored must be made in writing or in person to the Assistant Treasurer.

for the last time in the Arena Theatre in the lower level of Fleming Museum, a new theater in the renovated "Old Gym" will be ready soon and will house the Festival in years to come.

"Dream" and "Richard III" are being directed by Prof. Edward J. Feidner of the department of communication and theatre, who has been the Festival's producer-director since 1962. "Romeo and Juliet" is directed by Ada Brown Mather, formerly of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and the Meadow Brook Theatre in Rochester, Michigan.

Scene designer for the Festival's 15th annual season is Donald A. Rathgeb, who has been producer-director at the Cabaret Theatre at Marble Island and scene designer and managing director at the St. Michael's Playhouse for 15 years.

The costume designer is Nanalee Raphael, an instructor in costumeing at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

This season also continues the course in "Repertory Theatre Operation" offered by the UVM Summer Session in cooperation with the Festival. Eleven students are working as Festival apprentices with instructors from professional theater and from theater programs at other schools.

The apprentices also make up a substantial part of the work corps for the Festival.

The current season has been playing to full houses regularly, and a Festival spokesman urged that returning students who are interested in attending a production make their reservations at the Arena Theatre box office as early as possible. Each University ID card entitles a student to one reduced admission.

NAEC Elects New Officers

The University of Vermont Director of off-campus housing, William P. Ballard, was elected chairman of the UVM Non-Academic Employees' Council this summer. Gemma Jones and Pearlaine Learned will serve as vice chairwoman and treasurer.

Residence halls open next week (August 27 - Sept. 2) at the University of Vermont as the fall semester begins. Classes will start September 4, and registration is scheduled for Thursday and Friday, August 30-31.

The Champlain Shakespeare Festival's fifteenth season continues with productions of "Romeo and Juliet," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and "Richard III" at the Arena Theatre. Reservations and further information are available by calling the Arena Theatre box office 656-2094.

The current show at the Fleming Museum is entitled "Ways of Seeing" and is a new look at the Museum's permanent collection, from the attic to the Cannon Room. There is also a craft exhibit in the lounge, with some items for sale.

MONDAY, AUGUST 27

Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "Richard III" 8 p.m. at the Arena Theatre, box office 656-2094.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 28

UVM residence halls open for returning students at 12 noon.

Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "A Midsummer Night's Dream," 8 p.m. at the Arena Theatre, box office 656-2094.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 29

Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "Romeo and Juliet," 8 p.m. at the Arena Theatre, box office 656-2094. This performance will be preceded by the folk dance group "Kaval." Arrive early if planning to see the dancers.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 30

Registration at Patrick Gymnasium, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., for all new students. This includes freshmen who did not attend June orientation sessions, readmitted students, all new graduate students, and those freshmen with scheduling conflicts.

Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "Richard III" at the Arena Theatre, box office 656-2094.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 31

Registration at Patrick Gymnasium, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., for all currently enrolled students who wish to sign up for evening division courses, and for non-degree students plus any students unable to register Aug. 30.

Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "A Midsummer Night's Dream," preceded by the folk dance group "Kaval," 8 p.m. at the Arena Theatre, box office 656-2094. Arrive before 8 to see the dancing.

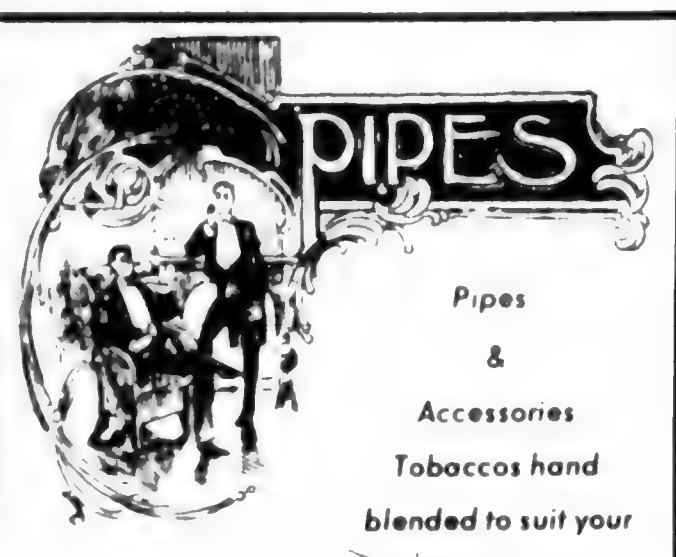

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1

Champlain Shakespeare Festival matinee performance of "Romeo and Juliet," 2 p.m., at the Arena Theatre, box office 656-2094.

Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "Richard III" 8 p.m., Arena Theatre.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 3

Labor Day holiday. Most University academic and administrative offices will be closed.

PIPES

Pipes & Accessories
Tobaccos hand blended to suit your personal tastes

The Pipe Rack

18 No. Winoski Ave., Burlington. Open daily 10 am to 9 pm.

Artist Supplies

"New England's Great Art Store"
Art-Draft-Frame-Craft
Boutiques
112 Church St.

WE LOVE YOU !!

Everything in General

CLOTHING - ALL TYPES !!

9 Mechanics Lane Burlington, Vermont 05401

10% OFF FOR ALL U.V.M. PEOPLE ..

for people who walk on this earth...

If you've walked barefoot on sand or soil you know how great it is. Your heels sink low and your feet embrace the earth. Then you put on your shoes, return to the city, and become another concrete fighter... but the concrete always wins. You yearn for the earth that lies buried beneath the city.

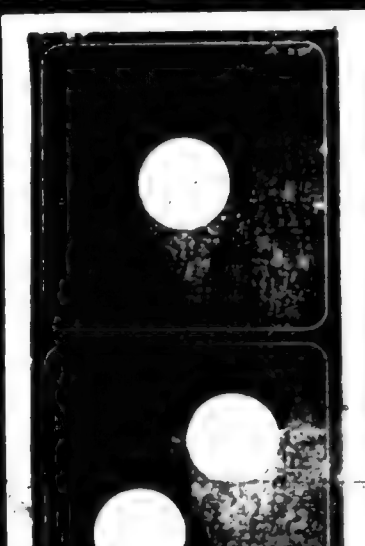

The Earth Shoe is the first shoe in history with the heel lower than the sole... this helps return you to nature though you are forced to live in a cement-coated world. The Earth Shoe's patented design gently guides you to a more erect and graceful walk, and reduces fatigue and the aches and pains caused by our hard-surfaced city.

For men and women in shoes, sandals and sabots.

Earth Shoe

139 BANK ST. BURLINGTON

DOMINO'S PIZZA

DOMINO'S IS NEVER HAVING TO EAT A COLD PIZZA

DOMINO'S IS NEVER HAVING TO LEAVE HOME TO EAT

DOMINO'S MAKES YOU AN OFFER YOU CAN'T REFUSE

DIAL HOTLINE

864-74444 WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333 NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

50¢ OFF A LARGE PIZZA
Expires September 13, 1973

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Void if not completed
1 Coupon per pizza

Joint Operations Coordinate

The six New England state university presidents this summer announced creation of a Joint Operations Committee to coordinate planning and collaborative academic and public service programs and named a former administrative assistant to Senator Edmund S. Muskie to chair the committee in its initial year of operation.

Donald F. Nicoll, who served as consultant to the six presidents on an inter-university competition study which led up to the committee's formation, is a native of Boston and a long-time Maine resident.

He began his service as chairman July 1 with administrative headquarters for the Joint Operations Committee at the New England Center for Continuing Education in Durham, N.H.

Nicoll is a graduate of Colby and earned the M.A. at Penn State. He was an administrative assistant to Sen. Muskie for nine years and during the same period served as secretary to the New England Senators.

Educational Severely N

WASHINGTON - Federal legislation dealing with education is "at the top of the list of neglected issues of importance" because of Washington's preoccupation with matters of political controversy, U.S. Sen. Robert Stafford said.

Stafford called on the government to work on the problems of education and other areas of concern at the same time it is trying to fix the issues of a political controversy.

One of the most disheartening side effects of the Watergate Affair and of the almost daily confrontations between the President and the Congress on the issue of balance of powers is that the federal government has failed to act in many areas of significant concern, Stafford said in his weekly radio report to Vermont.

The Vermont Senator, a member of the Senate Subcommittee on Education, said all "actions" are that there will be "no significant change" in either the level or method of federal aid to education in the coming year despite indications that there is a need for such changes.

"It is difficult to predict how long this period of legislative atrophy will continue," Stafford said. "But it is becoming clear that the nation will suffer if it is allowed to continue much longer."

"The needs of young Americans persist, even if they cannot get the attention of the federal government."

Stafford, who has previously expressed concern that the government would neglect other issues because of the Watergate Affair, added "The political issues that hold this capital and much of the nation in such a tight grip

Joint Operations Committee Created To Coordinate Programs For Six Universities

The six New England state university presidents this summer announced creation of a Joint Operations Committee to coordinate planning and collaborative academic and public service programs, and named a former administrative assistant to Senator Edmund S. Muskie to chair the committee in its initial year of operation.

Donald J. Nicoll, who served as consultant to the six presidents on an inter-university cooperation study which led up to the committee's formation, is a native of Boston and a long-time Maine resident.

He began his service as chairman July 1 with administrative headquarters for the Joint Operations Committee at the New England Center for Continuing Education in Durham, N.H.

Nicoll is a graduate of Colby and earned the M.A. at Penn State. He was an administrative assistant to Sen. Muskie for nine years and during the period served as secretary to the New England Senators' Conference.

The six presidents stated that they established the Joint Operations Committee to "provide continuing support and leadership" for their respective administrations and faculties in the "coordination of graduate programs, professional schools, specialized resident instruction, international studies, joint use of facilities and services, and public service activities."

Nicoll is now principal liaison on inter-university matters between the six New England state and land-grant universities and the New England Board of Higher Education.

The Joint Operations Committee works with the New England Continuing Education Center to facilitate a "greater exchange between regional education outreach and resident instruction," and Nicoll serves on "the principal inter-university committees dealing with continuing

SAGA Cancels Steak Night; Plans Majority Of Meatless Meals

by Margo Howland

SAGA Food Service has been forced, by the nationwide meat shortage, to plan a majority of meatless menus, including cancellation of the popular Saturday night steak dinners.

Dr. Keith Miser explained the present situation as reported to him by SAGA manager Robert C. Stetson.

"Basically, UVM is reflecting the problems of society; the meat shortage in the United States is equally reflected in the University. As of August 10 it looks as if SAGA will be unable to purchase, at any price, most cuts of beef (including Saturday night steaks), ham, bacon and pork. They might be able to get hamburger," Dr. Miser said.

SAGA will continue to have unlimited seconds, but there will be many meatless meals. SAGA has promised "to supply a quality menu with as much variety as possible, though they will have to cut down on choice; what they can get they will serve," Dr. Miser reported.

He continued, "Burlington is a poor location for supplying meat anyway. We are not a high meat-producing area and we have no stockyards. On August 9 the Burlington meat suppliers ran out of meat. Bob Stetson had bought enough for the UVM summer session." The SAGA managers have attended a menu-planning meeting in Kalamazoo, Michigan to cope with the problem of making ends meet.

Other items unavailable will be canned peaches and prunes. The peach crop was very poor and large, institutional-size containers are canned last. There won't be any this year. Poultry will also be difficult to obtain, and Dr. Miser concluded by saying the outlook was "very gloomy."

LITTLE PROFESSOR
BOOK CENTER

Downtown Burlington
+
Essex Junction

ON TRADERS' WAY...

FRYE BOOTS
HANDCRAFTED TO SUNDANCE DESIGNS

LEATHERWEAR
CANDLES • POTTERY
BUCKLES • SANDALS
BELTS • BEADS
GLASS
WOOD CARVINGS

GIFTS FROM THE HANDS OF VERMONT CRAFTSMAN

If there's a "hard-to-find" kitchen tool that you've been wanting, see us. We'll order it for you. A single piece or as many as you need. We'll call you when it arrives. We'll even gift wrap and mail it, if you like. Come in and browse. Pick up one of our fine recipes. $1.00 each. One every two weeks.

NORTH WINOOSKI AVENUE AT PEARL STREET, DOWNTOWN BURLINGTON

Board Of Trustees Finally Settles Task Force Question

At the June 2 meeting of the Board of Trustees, the question of the Task Force reorganization was finally settled, after almost a year of debate.

The Board of Trustees has changed the College of Technology to the College of Engineering, Mathematics and Business Administration. The College of Agriculture and Home Economics will now only serve as the College of Agriculture. Meanwhile, the Department of Home Economics will be a new academic unit, the School of Home Economics, which shall report to the Vice President for Academic Affairs. A new academic unit, the School of Natural Resources will also report to the Vice President of Academic Affairs.

There will be two major changes within the College of Arts and Sciences. The Department of Philosophy and Religion will form two separate departments; the Department of Philosophy will be headed by Dr. Steven M. Cahn while Dr. W. E. Paden will remain acting chairman of the Department of Religion. The Department of Economics and Business Administration will also separate into two new departments with Professor M. F. Severance acting as chairman of the former and Professor Lubomir A. Dellin serving as acting chairman of the latter. The department of Business Administration will now be in the College of Engineering, Mathematics and Business Administration.

In other colleges, the program in Radio Technology will form the Department of Radiologic Technology in the School of Allied Health Sciences, while the department of Forestry will be transferred from the College of Agriculture to the School of Natural Resources. Additionally, the department of Chemistry will leave the former College of Technology and join the College of Arts and Sciences.

Hamilton Dropped From E.P.

(continued from page one)

Professor Simon added that this three-area program will provide a little more structure in the Experimental Program. He expects that the plan will be implemented on a voluntary basis.

"We will ask students, 'Are you willing to go into a more structured program of sciences, social sciences and humanities?' We will integrate courses with team instruction and if that isn't favorable, through the subject matter itself," he commented.

Professor Simon announced another objective: an intensive Writing Workshop "for all EP students who need it. We will use a systematic approach. When a student writes a paper the professors will judge the quality of the writing and if they feel the person needs assistance, they will turn the paper over to the Writing Workshop. Students will receive notification of this and will work on improving their writing to the satisfaction of the instructor and then hand the paper back in. The workshop will concentrate on expository writing and should produce effective results."

Professor Simon mentioned several plans for other courses. "I want to implement the mini-course idea. At the moment, I am thinking of scheduling them on Saturday mornings on a strictly voluntary basis. I would like to see some sessions devoted to auto mechanics, basic electricity, canoe building, name but a few."

Professor Simon will continue the Independent Study and Internship Programs, but plans to limit participation to sophomores. "The Internship Program appears simple to organize and operate but that is not true. Indeed, Internships require more organization, student commitment, and continuous overseeing of the work than is the case with ordinary classroom performance; the same is true for Independent Study. At the moment, except in rare instances, I do not think freshmen should get involved in Internships or Independent Study."

Ever since grade-equivalents were added to Experimental Program files last year, chiefly for the use of graduate schools, students have suggested that such action detracts from one of the purposes of the program. In related areas, it has also been suggested (no doubt numerous times) that NP's and F's be replaced with an absence of credit, as if the failing course had never been taken. Professor Simon was asked to comment.

"The problem of grade equivalents requires further study before a decision can be made. There are a growing number of graduate and professional schools who want a transcript to show numerical or letter grades. Perhaps we owe it to the student seeking further study to provide him with a grade equivalent for the record. As for the psychological distraction of having grades placed on file, I would suggest that students begin a counterattack by holding grades in utter contempt.

Plans for formal reorganization began last August (1972) at the Trustees' request. Dr. Andrews originally appointed an eight member Task Force in September with a December 1, 1972 target date.

"The question of not recording failing grades on a student's transcript is one that the Curriculum Committee of the College of Arts and Sciences discussed briefly last year. It is my impression that the idea would have considerable support in the College."

"As for the Experimental Program, it is bound by a decision of the College in this matter. Personally, I favor not recording failing grades. The student knows he failed when he does not receive credit. There seems to be no need to broadcast failures."

Professor Simon was chosen by a search committee organized by Dean Weiger and consisting of Experimental Program faculty, staff, and students. Educated at Black Mountain College, the University of New Mexico, and Cornell University, Professor Morris Simon has taught at UVM since 1954. He and his wife Jeanne live in Burlington.

Educational Bills Severely Neglected

WASHINGTON Federal legislation dealing with education is at the top of the list of neglected issues of importance because of Washington's preoccupation with matters of political controversy, U.S. Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., said here.

Stafford called on the government to work on the problems of education and other areas of concern at the same time it is trying to resolve the issues of political controversy.

One of the most disheartening side effects of the Watergate Affair and of the most daily confrontations between the President and the Congress, on the issue of balance of powers is that the federal government has failed to act in many areas of significant concern," Stafford said in his weekly radio report to Vermont.

The Vermont Senator, a member of the Senate Subcommittee on Education, said all indications are that there will be "no significant change" in either the level or method of federal aid to education in the coming year, despite indications that there is need for such changes.

It is difficult to predict how long this period of regressive atrophy will continue," Stafford said. "But, now becoming clear that the nation will suffer if it is allowed to continue much longer."

The needs of young Americans, he said, even if they cannot get the attention of the federal government.

Stafford, who has previously expressed concern that the government would neglect other issues because of the Watergate Affair, added, "The political issues that hold this nation in such a firm grip

Housing Shortage

(continued from page one)

house graduate students there if we had the extra space. It will now house freshmen men only, as there are more men than women that need space. This year for the first time, incoming freshmen were allowed to indicate a preference for residence halls.

Dr. Miser was asked if there was any correlation between the number of students transferring from, dropping out of, or flunking out of UVM and the number of students last lived in triples or lounges last year. He replied that a survey finishing up a survey comparing the grade-point averages and dropout rates of students in lounges, students in triples, students in triples the whole year, and students in regular rooms.

While the entire results have not been fully completed, Dr. Miser is happy to report that no more students flunked out that were in lounges or triples than did those in a regular room.

So, you freshmen that start the year off stuck in a lounge or motel somewhere, take heart. Time is on your side and the situation is expected to be under control soon.

Editorial

The New Vermont Cynic

The Vermont Cynic, founded in 1983, has undergone numerous changes in format, style and content over the years. Once again we are planning several innovations in an effort to make the Cynic more relevant to student needs.

With the advent of Watergate, the role of the media in today's society has been questioned and re-evaluated. The media has emerged with a new dignity and, therefore, new responsibilities to the public. A college newspaper must also, to remain respected and effective, accept these responsibilities.

In the past, we have consistently stated our concern over the increasing number of students who are dissatisfied with the Student Association, faculty and administration. It is all well and good to observe, and comment upon the deficiencies in our system. A good newspaper, however, must do more. In order to be an effective means of communicating the truth to its readers, a good newspaper must be willing to investigate the causes of inadequacies.

In accordance with this view, the Cynic will try to increase the number of articles dealing with why things are happening and what the immediate and long term effects will be. We are also attempting some "investigative reporting," i.e. digging out and researching news which is relevant and important to students.

The Cynic will also implement a new editorial policy this semester. In the past year, all editorials were written by the editor or assistant editor and were unsigned in the belief that these editorials reflected the views of the entire editorial board. Although members of the board frequently agree on issues facing the campus and the nation, we are all unique individuals with differing knowledge and convictions. As of this semester, editorials, which will be initiated, will be written by any member of the board who wishes to do so. If the opinions expressed differ strongly with those of a majority of the board, the writer can, instead, state his opinions in a column.

This page, the editorial page, is the student's page. Any UVM student who wishes to write a column can do so. Although regular columnists have precedence, as many columns as possible will be printed each week, edited only for grammar and space. All letters to the Editor are welcome and will be printed. They must, however, be signed although the author can request to remain anonymous.

These are only preliminary changes in the Vermont Cynic. In order to introduce further improvements we need your help and support. The Cynic is making the effort to give students the necessary information and analyses to make constructive changes within this university. Whether or not these changes come about depends on the student body.

B.F.

Class Of 1977: A Day In The Life

by Scott Cahoon

"Shit," said Spaceman Richard, standing under the WELCOME CLASS OF '77 sign, "they call this a gym? My high school gym was bigger'n this."

Quentin Collier, trapped beside the Spaceman in the crowd, just blinked. The gym looked plenty big to him, compared to the telephone booth his high school basketball team had used, but he didn't say that to the Spaceman. Quentin's father had warned him very sternly against associating with people like Spaceman Richard. "Long-haired-punko faggots," his father had called them, and while Quentin wasn't sure what a "punko faggot" was, Spaceman Richard certainly fit the first part of the description and Quentin wasn't taking any chances. Besides, it seemed as if the Spaceman knew something he didn't, and he wanted to find out what it was before committing himself.

Quentin wasn't the only one who thought the Spaceman knew something. Spaceman Richard thought so, too. In fact, he figured that the questions he didn't have answers for weren't worth asking. "Anybody got a joint?" he said loudly to no one in particular.

"What a jerk," said Mary Beth, standing a few feet away. "He's just trying to show everybody how cool he thinks he is. A typical male show-off."

"Yeah, typical," Joan agreed halfheartedly. "He's kinda cute, though."

"Sure! With that pony tail he looks like a horse's ass on back wheels."

He's as cute as Freddy was.

"I told you not to mention him!" Freddy was Mary Beth's ex-steady who, while working for VISTA in West Virginia last summer, had fallen in love with a dirt-farmer's daughter whom he had first met when she stepped between him and the '30-'30 her Daddy was aiming. Mary Beth was so upset thinking about him that she didn't even notice the wolf whistle from the balcony.

"Hey, Andy. Check this one out," said Joel, pointing out Mary Beth.

Anderson looked down. He considered himself a connoisseur of the female form, and so paused a moment to consider fully the example now set before him. "Not bad," he said finally. "I'll take her; you can have her friend."

"Aww, thanks. Casanova takes the beautiful shiksa and leaves her tagalong friend to the poor Jewish boy who (he thinks) doesn't know any better. Well, no thanks, buddy. I know plenty of chicks that I'd much rather take home to Momma."

"But Joel," said Anderson, "She probably has a great personality."

"So? What do I care about her personality? The question is, does she know a bagel from a matzoh ball? Can she play mah-jongg? Is her chicken soup capable of restoring health and vigor to a child deathly ill with the 24-hour bug?"

"Man, you don't have to marry her, just go to bed with her."

"Anybody got a joint?" said Spaceman Richard.

It was 8 a.m. in 103 Lafayette.

"Good morning, class. This is English I. Written Expression, and my name is Mr. Peterkin. Anyone who is in the wrong room may leave now."

"That's the third prof in a row to use that same line," whispered Spaceman Richard to Joan.

"No imagination," she whispered back.

"Right. You know they get together at the start of the year and write out a script that they all use."

"You're kidding," said Joan.

"No, I'm not. Ya know what else? They got a script for us, too, that we gotta follow."

"Come on. How come I've never seen it?"

"That's it, they don't show it to us. We gotta guess what our part is from what they say."

Peterkin was still talking. "The text we will use for this course is Telling Writing by..."

"That's ridiculous," said Joan. She didn't believe the Spaceman.

"Sure it is," he said. "But that's the way they run things."

"So what if we don't follow their script?"

"Then it's all over. You're drawn and quartered, run through the meat grinder and flushed down the toilet. If you won't stay in line, they don't want to have anything to do with you."

Yes, this summer while you were away Chittenden, Buckham, and Wills were truly refurbished up almost to the point of becoming dorms once again (also for the first time since they were built in 1949).

You're probably all anxious to know some of the specific renovations that have been done as of this writing so I'll give them to you. First-off, the rooms, hallways, and bathrooms have all been painted. Five of the colors most asked for by students were used, according to officials. Personally, I've never seen any other rooms on campus that have been painted with any of these colors.

Also, all new furniture has been ordered - it hasn't all come, but it's been ordered. New beds that can be either bunks or not; chairs, desks, and bureaus, all modular and all in coordinated sizes, and shapes, and new closets. The pieces of the furniture that have arrived have not been painted - a do it yourself?

If you haven't taken a really good look at CBW (as they are affectionately known by all who have and all who will have to live there) lately, you really should, because, even on the outside visible improvements have been made. Yes, you guessed right - the windows. They're brand new (not second-hand) and they look like they will hold up against the elements - rain, wind, sleet, hail, booze. Unquestionably a great improvement.

Since Buckham and Wills are going to be used by floors and not by rooms this year, everyone wonders what's going to happen to the bathrooms on the women's floors. Have the planners thought of something original to do with the urinals, like planting flowers in them, or are they just going to call the plumber and have them removed?

So, the former army barracks are now going to be called home. I guess Women's Lib has taken one more great step towards equality of the sexes.

"In order that I may learn all of your names me quickly, I will ask you to sit according to a seating plan, which we will make up today," said Peterkin. "I'll pass around this chart and ask you to print your names in the appropriate blocks."

"That's ridiculous," said Joan.

Quentin Collier was upset. Everything had gone wrong. At breakfast, he had dropped his just-filled tray of food in the middle of the cafeteria. He was going to find someone to clean it up, but everyone had started applauding, which so flustered him that he just left without eating at all. Then he had spent over half an hour looking for a building that was newer than the campus map they had given him. A girl had given him directions, but he was so unnerved by her see-through blouse that he had forgotten what she had said. Returning to the dorm at noon he had discovered that his new roommate (replacing the upperclassman who had moved out) was none other than Spaceman Richard Now, to top it all off, he found that through a scheduling error, his PE course was not badminton, but basketball.

Quentin was an atrocious basketball player. His high school PE instructor had compared him unfavorably with a ruptured duck and had given him the job of keeping the extra basketballs from rolling away. He had stared in disbelief at this new coach had handed him, not a racket and shuttlecock, but a large, orange, bouncable sphere. Instead of protesting, however, he obediently attempted a lay-up as directed, tromping down the court grasping the ball firmly and, taking off on both feet, tossing it cleanly over the backboard.

Now Quentin was in the scrimmage. His side had possession, and the ball was thrown in to him. He put up his hands to catch it and it hit him in the mouth. After that his teammates were careful to keep the ball away from him, and it was some time before he got it again. That happened when the ball got loose and rolled to his feet. Not knowing what else to do, he picked it up and suddenly found himself surrounded by nine hot, sweaty, yelling bodies. He panicked, looking about wildly for rescue. A friendly, encouraging face appeared as if out of a mist. Give the ball to me, it said, and a grateful Quentin handed it over, realizing too late that the face belonged to a member of the other team. With his own team glaring at him and the other team snickering gleefully, Quentin felt like Charlie Brown losing a 100-0 ball game. Thank God there were only a couple of minutes left in the class. There was a jump ball, and as he took his place in the circle around the two jumpers he resolved to follow his father's advice to "do yer dundest 'til the end." The ball was tossed in the air, the tap bounced out of an opponent's hands and came to Quentin. He grabbed it, twisted away from an attempted steal and dribbled (My God!) dribbled out to the foul line (Havlicek at the top of the key!) Turning, he ignored the shouts and waves of everyone around him and, inspired, lofted the ball with both hands toward the basket, staring unbelievably as it swished through without touching the rim. Whooping joyfully, he raced out of the gym without giving anyone a chance to tell him that he'd hit the wrong basket.

"Pledge!" hollered the Crusher. "Hey, Pledge!"

Joel came in. "Yes, sir?"

"Gimme a light."

Joel produced a book of matches and lit the Crusher's cigarette, even though he knew the Crusher had his own gold-plated lighter.

"Get me a beer."

Joel ran to the cooler and returned with a beer. The Crusher took a swig.

"Pledge, this beer is warm."

"I just took it out of the cooler."

"You what?"

"I just took it out of the cooler, sir."

"That's better." The Crusher was enjoying himself. "I don't give a good goddam where you got it. I say this beer is warm. What do you say?"

"I don't see how."

"Are you disagreeing with me, pledge?"

"I..."

"Are you implying that I, a full brother of I Felts Th fraternity, am in the wrong? And that you, a low-down,

(continued on page nine)

SOMEDAY the SCISSORS will be recognized as the SYMBOL of our educational system!

You take them as SMALL CHILDREN and spend YEARS destroying their natural instincts! STIFLING their innate curiosity! SMOTHERING their creative talents!

Slowly, painstakingly you BEAT them into a featureless mold! POUND the mythology of the corporate-military state into their numbed minds! HOUND them into blind acceptance of AUTHORITY!

But ALWAYS you're ASKING yourself if it's REALLY WORKING? Am I REALLY DESTROYING their native capacity for HUMAN DIGNITY? Am I REALLY turning them into PAVLOVIAN AUTOMATONS?

And then one day some kid grows his HAIR long in a last, sputtering attempt at SELF-EXPRESSION! You grab your SCISSORS and HACK it off and watch him sink WHIMPERING back to class and (choke) you KNOW THAT YOU'VE WON!

You know why TEACHING is such a REWARDING profession? Because every so often something WONDERFUL happens that lets you know all the STRUGGLE and SACRIFICE has been WORTH WHILE!

Women's Lib Takes A Step Forward (?) Prepare For The Invasion Of The Shoeboxes

by Joan Westcott

If you haven't noticed, we're back at school, getting into the routine of things once again. Unlike most of you however, I didn't leave Burlington this summer, but stayed and watched some of the great changes take place around our beloved campus. So, since you haven't been around, I decided to pick one of these changes and let you know what's happening. You might think that it was hard to choose, or that once I'd made my choice it was a dull one. I must disagree with both thoughts because for the first time since Chittenden, Buckham, and Wills were built, they will be technically and officially coed, I being one of the first women to make the trek.

Yes, this summer while you were away Chittenden, Buckham, and Wills were truly refurbished up almost to the point of becoming dorms once again (also for the first time since they were built in 1949).

You're probably all anxious to know some of the specific renovations that have been done as of this writing so I'll give them to you. First-off, the rooms, hallways, and bathrooms have all been painted. Five of the colors most asked for by students were used, according to officials. Personally, I've never seen any other rooms on campus that have been painted with any of these colors.

Also, all new furniture has been ordered - it hasn't all come, but it's been ordered. New beds that can be either bunks or not; chairs, desks, and bureaus, all modular and all in coordinated sizes, and shapes, and new closets. The pieces of the furniture that have arrived have not been painted - a do it yourself?

If you haven't taken a really good look at CBW (as they are affectionately known by all who have and all who will have to live there) lately, you really should, because, even on the outside visible improvements have been made. Yes, you guessed right - the windows. They're brand new (not second-hand) and they look like they will hold up against the elements - rain, wind, sleet, hail, booze. Unquestionably a great improvement.

Since Buckham and Wills are going to be used by floors and not by rooms this year, everyone wonders what's going to happen to the bathrooms on the women's floors. Have the planners thought of something original to do with the urinals, like planting flowers in them, or are they just going to call the plumber and have them removed?

So, the former army barracks are now going to be called home. I guess Women's Lib has taken one more great step towards equality of the sexes.

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS M. NAGER Barbara Frankel '75
ASSISTANT JITOR Ruth Hay '74
MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74
NEWS EDITOR Bruce Maddern '76
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lisa Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Marjo Howland '75
ASSISTANT FEATURE EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
SPORTS EDITOR Loren Wilson '74
ADVERTISING MANAGER

NEWS: Deborah Cadwell, Mike Cote, Mary Gerwig, Daniel Haslam, Jill Markert, Wendy Nelson FEATURE: Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Allyson Davis, Jonathan Lief
COLUMNISTS: Gene Bergman, William Bowman, Steven Rice
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Steve Leipzig, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilenski
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Abbie Schaefer
PRODUCTION: Scott Cahoon, Fred Doten, Tom Farris, John Lunde, Debbie Valyon, Joan Westcott

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and business offices in Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1983. Subscription rate $5.00 per year, single copy, ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

UVM Forest Park Depart

A free-planting program carried out by the City of Burlington several years ago was highly successful, a survey by University of Vermont forestry students has indicated.

A high percentage of the trees are still alive, and are treasured by their owners. Most of the trees that have succumbed have been victims of man - of boy or girl. End rather than disaster or disease.

The program was carried on from 1967 to 1970 by the Burlington Park Department in an effort to plant substitutes for Burlington's dying, old trees. Dutch elm disease. The city paid them the same amount to homeowners, and planted them free.

Three University of Vermont students carried out the survey recently, with the assistance of Park Superintendent Sidney Baker, to find out how the trees fared, and how their owners felt about them. Participating were Sally R. Bassett of Faneuil, N.J., Ronald B. Lovaglie of Winoski, and Willard Mayo, Jr. of Holyoke, Mass., all in a forestry class taught by Asst. Prof. John R. Donnelly.

The students talked with the property owners of about 15

Professor Str To Se

The Center for Studies of Narcotic and Drug Abuse of the National Institute of Mental Health has awarded a $111,402 grant to Prof. Michael Strauss of the chemistry department at the University of Vermont.

The funds will be used to ac-

... Living/Les

(continued from page one) some classrooms and the heating plant. The five adjoining buildings house the student apartments, faculty and staff suites, cooking and laundry facilities, classrooms and offices. Each residential building has three sections which face three student suites on both the second and third floors. Approximately 40 students will reside in each of the fifteen wings of the five residential buildings. The first floor of each building wing has a common livingroom with cooking and laundry facilities, a faculty apartment, classrooms and office space. Each suite has a balcony or courtyard and Dr. Muller anticipates landscaping of the property surrounding the

As we begin a new term, we of the Cynic must again express our need for columnists, writers, and production help. Come down to the Cynic Office in downstairs Billings and see us, or call 658-4911. The following Editor's Lament appeared in the May 30, 1973 issue of the Cynic, written by M.W., of the Class of '81:

A WARNING

An editor sat in his easy chair,
And said as he tugged at his tumbled hair,
"If somebody doesn't get round to write
Some sort of a squib by Saturday night,
I'll pack my grip and set my face,
For some forsaken desert place,
And out of here I'll shortly light,
And turn a maudlin anchorite."

Well, nobody wrote and the paper failed,
So the very next week the editor sailed,
On a steamship bound for the unknown hole,
That washes the base of the great South Pole,
Where natives thrive on the desert air,
And live on babies broiled quite rare.
Then the editor said, as he laughed in glee,
"I've struck the place where I want to be."

L'envoi

Take warning, students, who read this page,
If you want things run in proper shape,
Get out your tablets and pen and ink,
And write the wisdom you love to think.
If you don't, sometime when you least expect,
You'll find the college paper wrecked,
And deep dismay will fill your soul
When the editors leave for the restful pole.

M.W. '81

If she doesn't say it won't be our fo

PRICES START U

YOU ARE INVIT

PRESTON'S CH

A family of Jewellers

E.J. PRESTON

17 Upper

Member Ameri

UVM Forestry Students Study Outcome Of Park Department's Tree-Planting Program

A tree-planting program carried out by the City of Burlington several years ago was highly successful, a survey by University of Vermont forestry students has indicated.

A high percentage of the trees are still alive, and are treasured by their owners. Most of the trees that have succumbed have been victims of man - or boy or girl - rather than disaster or disease. The program was carried out from 1967 to 1970 by the Burlington Park Department in an effort to plant substitutes for Burlington's elms, dying of Dutch elm disease. The city purchased the trees for $5, sold them for the same amount to homeowners, and planted them free.

Three University of Vermont students carried out the survey, recently, with the assistance of Park Superintendent Sidney Baker, to find out how the trees fared, and how their owners felt about them. Participating were Sally R. Bassett of Teaneck, N. J., Ronald B. Lovaglio of Wisconsin and William Mayo, Jr. of Holyoke, Mass., all in a forestry class taught by Asst. Prof. John R. Donnelly.

The students talked with the property owners of about 15 per cent of the 309 trees planted in 1969 and 1970. The trees included flowering crab, Norway maple, sugar maple, mountain ash and lindes.

The students found that trees planted along treebelts suffered the greatest amount of damage from car backing into them, from youngsters swinging on them in the North End, they found that due to the poor, sandy soils, trees showed little growth unless they had been fed.

They learned, too, that trees were proud of their owners, wanted more, and were saddened when they were hit by vandals in some instances the affection had extended into action. One well-fertilized crabapple tree had reached a vigorous 16-foot height, while neighboring tree, loved but hungry, had grown only inches beyond the six feet it was when planted.

Of the species observed the students found: Flowering crab: Quick-growing, beautiful in bloom, but with low branches that invite a youngster to swing on them. Poor for treebelts for the latter reason.

Maples: Slow-growing and susceptible to poor soil conditions. For these reasons, poor for new developments, but good for the patient owner who doesn't ask for instant shade, but plants for future generations.

Lindes: a favorite with Baker and the students of the species studied. Lindes was best suited for the treebelt, tall and straight, so not a lure to youngsters. Vigorous, with a dense, compact crown. A bonus: It has small, white and attractive in the winter, but it is susceptible to insect and disease attack.

Baker, who assisted the students before and during their poll, said the results fragment flowers in the spring.

European mountain-ash: Did well in treebelt, grows reasonably well in poorest of sites. Has a tall, straight stem, and its copper-colored bark is served several purposes. They showed the value of the city tree program. They could also be used by the city in comparing the old program with the new, which involves purchase of small trees, letting them grow in a nursery in Essex Junction, then setting them out on sections of specific streets, rather than scattered throughout the city.

Cryptoquote

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

For Example: Longfellow

WQRPDPWQK

In this example, W has been substituted for L, Q for O and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

HZTARPJ SZOPJ BT IR HPHGHC DQV KHZC IC

WZNOJIR WFRGCH

VQYPC DVQIC

Watch for the solution in the next issue of the Cynic!

Professor Struass Receives $111 Thousand Grant To Search For Morphine Addiction Cure

The Center for Studies of Narcotic and Drug Abuse of the National Institute of Mental Health has awarded a $111,482 grant to Prof. Michael Struass of the chemistry department at the University of Vermont.

The funds will be used to support research directed towards the chemical synthesis of new drugs of potential value in suppressing morphine abstinence phenomena.

The compounds to be synthesized, 8-hydroxy-4-amino-6, 7-benzomorphans, are related to other known drugs which have well documented pharmacological properties as opiate antagonists and analgesics, with potential use in treating addiction.

Drug addiction, particularly involving morphine-like compounds, is a major national health problem. In addition to supporting other types of programs to solve this problem, the NIMH supports research directed towards development of effective solutions to the physical aspects of addiction.

The present research to be carried out in the chemistry department at UVM involves a new and novel synthetic approach to new drugs which should provide many previously uncharacterized and valuable compounds which may be clinically effective.

The research directed by Dr. Struass will be carried out by four graduate students in the chemistry department doctoral program. Synthetic aspects of the project will be done by David Palmer, Stephan Taylor, and Robert Drawbaugh.

Detailed studies of mechanistic aspects of the synthetic reactions are presently being studied by Raymond Ward.

Miss Christina Detenbeck, a CVU junior, will be associated with the research program this summer as a laboratory technician. Miss Detenbeck, worked with Dr. Struass' research group during the year in project DUO and received course credit while obtaining experience in a University research laboratory.

Miles, Metcalfe Get National Posts

The University of Vermont Canadian Studies Program, which celebrated its tenth anniversary in March with a visit from the Hon. Marcel Cadieux, Canadian Ambassador to the United States, was accorded national recognition recently when its director and associate director were elected to important posts within the Association for Canadian Studies in the United States (ACSUS).

Prof. Edward J. Miles, who heads the UVM Canadian Studies Program and is professor of geography, was elected to the vice presidency of ACSUS, and Prof. William C. Metcalfe was named editor of the "American Review of Canadian Studies." Under his editorship the periodical will become a full-fledged scholarly journal. Associate director of the Canadian Studies Program, Prof. Metcalfe is a member of the UVM history faculty.

Prof. Miles has directed the Canadian Studies Program since its founding in 1963, and he was one of the founders of ACSUS in 1968. He served on the steering committee for the draft constitution, was a member of the provisional executive, and has just completed a two year term on the executive council.

In 1963, only one other university in the U.S. offered a recipient of a major grant from Canadian studies program, and the William H. Denner Prof. Miles said at that time Foundation. It is open to that he believed UVM to be in students from the New "an uniquely advantageous England states who want to position to remedy this lack." major in Canadian studies The University's delegation of through the regional compact nine faculty members in of the New England Board of attendance at the recent Higher Education. national meeting of ACSUS In addition to the program was, he said, "the largest on Canada, the University delegation from any college or offers programs in Asian university in the country." studies, Latin American Thirteen UVM faculty studies, and Russian and members representing nine Eastern European studies different disciplines teach in through the Center for Area the Canadian Studies Program, and International Studies.

... Living/Learning

(continued from page one)

Center. As far as Dr. Muller knows, the Living/Learning Center is a unique "development in the college cluster concept." Although they have borrowed ideas from other institutions, most of the concepts are original and new. In the words of the Center's directors, "The Living/Learning Center is committed to creating a sense of not-institutional living. Within the Center academic life and scholarly inquiry will co-exist with daily living patterns. The Center will provide a place for a natural fusion of social and academic living. The responsibility for the success of the Living/Learning Center rests with all of the participants in the community."

some classrooms and the heating plant. The five adjoining buildings house the student apartments, faculty and staff suites, cooking and laundry facilities, classrooms and offices. Each residential building has three sections which face three student suites on both the second and third floors. Approximately 40 students will reside in each of the fifteen wings of the five residential buildings. The first floor of each building wing has a common livingroom with cooking and laundry facilities, a faculty apartment, classrooms and office space. Each suite has a balcony or courtyard and Dr. Muller anticipates landscaping of the property surrounding the

We've put it
ALL TOGETHER..

VISIT OUR ALL NEW MAIN FLOOR
featuring a large selection of paperbacks, out-of-town newspapers and magazines

Church & College Streets
Downtown Burlington
658-4354

the corner bookstore
"one-stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

CORNER BOOKSTORE The CORNER BOOKSTORE

They say at night in the Underground...
When everyone is gone...

Little folks come out and work
Until the grayning dawn...

The sight of needles flying fast
Knit and weave and darn...

For tiny little stitches
In the heather-colored yarn...

They sew the pants in denim-blue
They ruffle ~~them~~ on the skirts...

And snap ~~the~~ the stretchy body suits
And plaid ~~the~~ and print ~~the~~ the shirts.

They're busy little folk allright...
And never make a sound...

Until the green door ~~the~~ opens
For the Underground ~~the~~

Beneath the mayfair sign...
A special place in time and space

For the little folk to shine

If she doesn't say yes
it won't be our fault.

PRICES START UNDER $100.00

YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A
PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT

A family of franchises in Vermont since 1944

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

17 Upper Church Street

Member American Gem Society

the doctor's bag

by Arnold Warner M.D.

QUESTION: Is a feminine deodorant spray dangerous when used by a woman engaging in oral sex? Having the safety of my partner in mind, I thought I would drop you this note.

ANSWER: Modern technology has improved our lives in many ways. However, aside from antibiotics and contraceptives, our genitals have not benefited that much from the mechanical and chemical contrivances that have recently been marketed. Some devices such as vibrating dildoes are relatively harmless, whereas other mechanical devices, including some penis expanders, seem as if they have been devised by a berserk and diabolical Rube Goldberg.

Feminine deodorant sprays are a misapplication of the idea of living better through chemistry. Superficial similarities between the armpit and the crotch have apparently led to treating them in the same fashion, which is a pity. The application of deodorant sprays to the sensitive tissues of the external genitalia and the vaginal area can lead to irritation and infection. I have no idea what they do to oral tissues, though the mouth seems to be much heartier than the vagina.

In the absence of a vaginal discharge, genital cleanliness is best handled by soap and water applied externally. If there is a vaginal discharge, this should be specifically treated according to what is causing the discharge. The vast majority of vaginas stay remarkably clean with relatively little attention. Another form of chemical assault is the use of harsh douches. Douching is rarely indicated except for the treatment of infections, although it may be helpful in preventing discharges associated with the birth control pill. A perfectly fine douche for general use is made of one tablespoon of household vinegar in a pint of warm water.

QUESTION: My father and I are very hairy. The hair is heavy and black. Every morning I try to get a close shave, but by evening the beard is well grown. I also made the mistake of shaving the hair on my chest, and now I can't stand to let it grow back. I absolutely don't want to grow a beard. I would be very happy if this heavy hair could be somehow reduced to light hair by a change in my chemical balance.

ANSWER: Reviewing the whole bunch of letters that I have received over the last few years from men concerned about the amount of their facial and body hair, I find that yours is in the minority. Overwhelmingly, the men who complain about these matters are looking for more hair, not less. As you indicate, your great natural resource appears to be genetic. In no way could the situation you describe be considered abnormal. Juggling chemicals to decrease the amount of body hair a man is endowed with sounds neat, but would also result in shriveling of your testes, decreased sexual drive and a high pitched voice. Your less hairy chest might also be graced by small breasts.

Speaking about your chest, you really did it when you shaved the hair off! One of the complaints that patients have following surgery is the tremendous itching waiting for body hair to grow back in. It passes in a couple of weeks once the hair gets long enough to lie down flat against the skin rather than stand up straight and be tickled. Men are sometimes told that struggling with something difficult "puts hair on your chest," it looks as if you have a chance to deal with the converse.

Your dislike of beards is unfortunate and I don't understand it. You could be saving yourself about two days a year shaving time if you had a beard. Your only choice appears to be to carry an electric razor with you and shave once during the day if it's that crucial that you are clean shaven.

QUESTION: My fiancé has been having sexual intercourse with a number of nameless women. This is not a sob story, but a desire for some facts.

Is it possible for a healthy man to have intercourse with what appears to be a healthy woman and become the transmitter of venereal disease subsequently? If so, what types of diseases could be transferred unknowingly? And, what is the probability of such an occurrence? Can a man be an unaffected and unknowing carrier of VD?

ANSWER: I find your letter absolutely offensive. In this day and age of the objective test, I have succeeded in writing only essay answers to questions I receive, and you have the nerve to send me something that you expect me to answer in multiple choice format. Very well, block in the space between the lines under number two.

You are right, abstinence is the best form of both control available and oral sexual contact is a perfectly harmless form of sexual activity. Some people find the idea upsetting and there seems to be a cultural bias against this sort of thing. Aside from its pregnancy-producing capabilities, semen is not an especially remarkable substance, being basically a bland fluid. There are no cases of poisoning or masculinization from injection and contrary to myth, mandrake roots don't grow where it strikes the ground.

QUESTION: Recently, I was examined by a physician because I had symptoms of a cold and temperature. He told me that it was necessary to remove my blouse and brassiere because there would interfere with the use of a stethoscope. And yet, when a male friend with the same symptoms was examined by the same doctor, he kept his shirt on throughout the examination. My question is, is it really necessary to remove all outside apparel for a stethoscope examination or is this doctor just a "dirty old man"?

ANSWER: It is virtually impossible to use a stethoscope adequately unless it is placed against bare skin. In haste, an occasional physician will slip the stethoscope up under clothing without asking a person to disrobe. This groping technique is not looked on with favor by those in the profession who pride themselves on their physical diagnostic ability.

Physicians generally become quite adept in handling the physical examination situation involving patients of the opposite sex in a non sexual fashion, sometimes almost too much so. The ethical prohibitions against the use of patients for one's own personal titillation are so strong that the exceptions are very far and few between. Although it is possible that you have met such an exception, it is also possible that your male friend was putting you on.

QUESTION: When my boyfriend and I have intercourse in the evening, I usually have an orgasm about 80 to 90% of the time. But, when we have intercourse in the morning, I rarely have an orgasm. The sensations do not seem as intense in the morning and I do not develop signs of sexual excitement. What could cause the difference between night and day? By the way, my boyfriend is just as virile in the morning.

ANSWER: There could be a number of plausible explanations for the situation you describe. Some people tend to wake up much more slowly in the morning and they are generally in a less alert state than they are at other times of the day. This might be due to fluctuations in hormone levels or a concomitant of the sleeping state. On the other hand, morning time is usually fairly rushed for a lot of people and you might be preoccupied with other things which do not allow you to relax sufficiently.

Sexual excitement for the man is capricious and seems to depend more on psychological factors than physiologic ones. Many men awaken with erections quite regularly and while not usually an indicator of sexual excitement, this serendipitous finding can be utilized in the traditional fashion.

Lane Series Announces Schedule

Four of Broadway's top musical successes will feature the 1973-1974 nineteenth annual Lane Series this year. "No, No, Nanette," "Two Gentlemen of Verona," "Grease," and a rebooking of last year's most popular concert, "Godspell."

The series opens on Oct. 1, with "No, No, Nanette." Tickets are now on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman.

The complete schedule follows:

"NO, NO, NANETTE," Oct. 1. The new 1925 musical, winner of four Tony Awards, with the great song hits "I Want to be Happy," "Tea for Two," and "No, No, Nanette."

"TWO GENTLEMEN OF VERONA," Oct. 9. The new pop musical produced by Joseph Papp's N. Y. Shakespeare Festival. Won all Broadway's prizes for Best Musical of 1972. Music by "Hair" composer Galt MacPherson.

"TWO GENERATIONS OF BRUBECK," Oct. 15. An evening of jazz, featuring the Dave Brubeck Trio and the Darius Brubeck Ensemble.

JULIAN BREAM, Oct. 25. "One of the really great orchestras" - London Daily Mail. "Great musical interpreter of our time" - N.Y. Times.

BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL, Nov. 6. With the Earl Scruggs Revue and Doc Watson & Son.

"COSI-FAN TUTTI," Dec. 3. Mozart's comic opera, in English, with full orchestra, by the Canadian Opera Co.

"GREASE," Jan. 21. The new Fifties musical comedy hit that has been acclaimed as "Broadway's musical knockout!"

GARRICK OHLSSON, Feb. 1. First American pianist to win the Chopin International Piano Competition.

HARKNESS BALLET, Feb. 7. Return engagement of one of the most popular classical ballet companies ever to appear on the Lane Series.

AMBAKAILA, Feb. 19. The Trinidad Carnival Ballet and Steel Band from the West Indies. A folk dance company of 60.

WARSAW ORCHESTRA, Feb. 26. Conducted by its artistic director, Witold Rowicki, with great soloist soprano Stefania Woytowicz.

All concerts are held in Memorial Auditorium and begin at 8:00 p.m. The 8:00 curtain represents a change from last year's 8:30 opening hour.

NETHERLANDS WIND ENSEMBLE, March 8. Members of the Concertgebouw and Rotterdam Orchestras, on their first American tour.

WELSH CHOIR OF CARDIFF, March 19. Mixed choir of 43 singers, on their third tour of the U.S.

"GODSPELL," date to be announced. The new musical based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew. Winner of a Grammy Award for LP album for a Musical (1971).

MAJOR POP SINGER, to be announced. As with last year's concerts, each subscriber may choose his own series of 6, 9, 12 or all 15 events. The low prices are $15, $21, and $24 for 6 concerts; $23, $32, $36 for 9 concerts; $30, $42, $48 for 12 concerts; $38, $53, $60 for 15 concerts.

Students and faculty staff have ticket priority provided orders are received by Sept. 17. Tickets for single events, if concerts are not sold out on a series basis, go on Sale Sept. 17. Prices are $3, $5 and $6.

The movies will be held on Friday evenings in Marsh Life Sciences Building Auditorium, with two showings: 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Season tickets, $5, and single film tickets, $1, are now on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman.

"Frankenstein," Oct. 12. With Boris Karloff.

"Dracula," Oct. 19. With Bela Lugosi.

"Fall of the House of Usher," Oct. 26. With Vincent Price.

"Hunchback of Notre Dame," Nov. 2. With Lon Chaney.

"Phantom of the Opera," Nov. 9. With Lon Chaney.

"King Kong," Nov. 16. Original uncut version.

VALUABLE COUPON

SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS

10% DISCOUNT

ON YOUR PURCHASES AT

CAMPUS PHARMACY

ACROSS FROM
The Medical Center

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE

(RETAIL OUTLET)

FANTASTIC SELECTION
OF BEERS, ALES, AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES
AT GREAT SAVINGS

115 EAST ALLEN STREET
WINDSOR, VT.

(at the rear of Frank's Texaco)

OPEN 10:00 TO 10:00 DAILY

655-2620

12:00-9:00 SUNDAY

NEW LOW PRICES

MATINEES 2 P.M. EVE. 8 P.M.

Now Showing

THE SOUND OF MUSIC

FLYNN

153 Main St., Downtown Burlington

TODAY - EVE. 7 PM-9:30

A wild raunchy rip-roaring yarn!

GEORGE C. SCOTT
FAYE DUNAWAY
JACK PALANCE

OKLAHOMA CRUDE

SHOWCASE 1 & 2

TODAY AT 2 P.M. 7:00-9:30

And now the movie

JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR

USE EXIT 140 INTERSTATE 89

COROLLA

Clothing from INDIA - MEXICO - AFGHANISTAN

Leather Bags, Hats & Belts

1344 Shelburne Rd.
St. Lawrence St.
802-864-3712

Hammocks - Rugs - Tapestry

ADM. NOW ONLY $2.00

Matinee Sat. & Sun.
at 2 P.M.
Every Evening Shown
7 pm - 9:30

STATE

THEATRE IN
DOWNTOWN BURLINGTON

LAST Tango in Paris

2 P.M. 7 P.M.

You'll never be the same after

SSSSSSSS

THE IMAGES OF LAST HOUSE WITH

WASH YOU MIND TO

KEEP REPEATING

"DON'T LOOK IN THE BASEMENT"

THE DAY THE BEASTS TOOK OVER THE WORLD

2-7-9:15 P.M.

They had the perfect love affair. Until they fell in love

GEORGE SEGAL - GLENDA JACKSON

A Touch Of Class

Shown Once 9:15 P.M. - 10

BURLINGTON PLAZA

CINEMA 1 & 2

At Courtland

Tendency To Tuition Rat

by Malcolm G. Scully
From the Chronicle of Higher Education

Pressures to raise the tuition at public colleges and universities in an effort to solve higher education's financial problems are increasing.

Most recently, the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education called for a "modest and gradual" increase in tuitions at public institutions in order to narrow the gap between charges at public and private colleges. The aim would be to make public institutions more competitive.

The proposal, made in a report issued last month, has already stirred strong negative responses from some spokesmen for public institutions. It is, however, only one indication of what may be a shift away from a commitment to low tuition by a significant number of educational groups.

The College Entrance Examination Board's committee on student economics has called for a program of massive aid for low-income students combined with increased tuitions for those who can afford them.

The committee noted that, despite opposition to high tuition among public institutions, costs to students rose significantly in the 1960's and can be expected to rise even more in the 1970's.

"It will be more and more

New "Supers Is Another

by Jill Markert

"Jesus Christ Superstar," the rock opera by Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice, was at the top of the charts a few years ago. It went on to become a hit on Broadway, and is now in the process of making it big on the screen.

The authors, or adapters to be more exact, took the last week of Christ's life and updated it for a better PR image. It should be billed as "an old story with a new twist." The character who benefits most from this version is Jesus; normally portrayed as a traitor to the cause, he becomes a victim in the gospel according to Andrew and Tim. Christ, played by Ted Neeley, is a dead ringer for all those pocket religious pictures, is seen as more of a human being, subject to earthly doubts and tempers.

The other roles are fairly traditional. Director Norm Jewson has manipulated the script so that what the viewer sees is a play within a play. The cast trooped out of a bus and stretches a bit before climbing into their roles. The setting, a crumbling fortress-like structure in the "final," encompasses some of the most dramatic things like jets and tanks that presumably pass for current social commentary, but

FOR FOOD

FOR FUN!

UPSTAIRS

CAFE "188"

REAL ITALIAN SPAGHETTI

HAPPY HOUR 4-7 P.M.
Drinks 75¢
Food 50¢

$7.00

STARS 7 P.M. - 10 P.M.
PLUS A COMPLETE MENU

Tendency To Higher Tuition Rates Noted

by Malcolm G. Souly
From the Chronicle of Higher Education

Pressures to raise the tuition at public colleges and universities in an effort to solve higher education's financial problems are increasing.

Most recently, the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education called for a "modest and gradual increase" in tuition at public institutions in order to narrow the gap between charges at public and private colleges. The aim would be to make public institutions more competitive.

The proposal, made in a report issued last month, has already stirred strong negative responses from some spokesmen for public institutions. It is, however, only one indication of what may be a shift away from a commitment to low tuition by a significant number of educational groups.

The College Entrance Examination Board's committee on student economics has called for a program of massive aid for low-income students combined with increased tuitions for those who can afford them.

The committee noted that, despite opposition to high tuition among public institutions, costs to students rose significantly in the 1960's and can be expected to rise even more in the 1970's.

"It will be more and more inappropriate to assume that low tuitions are low enough to encourage low-income students to attend college," the committee said.

William W. Jellema, executive associate of the Association of American Colleges, in a book scheduled to be published next month by Jossey-Bass, Inc., recommends steps similar to those proposed by the Carnegie Commission.

It is "clearly evident to many observers that a greater fraction of the rising cost will have to be shifted to the recipients of that education," Mr. Jellema writes.

Mr. Jellema's association, which has both public and private members, is generally seen as representing the viewpoint of private institutions.

In several states, including Florida and California, proposals to abandon low tuitions at public institutions have been considered but not adopted.

In New York, a legislator has announced plans to introduce a bill to eliminate public support of the state university and, instead, to provide direct aid to students. The proposal is given virtually no chance of succeeding—but it is a sign of the renewed interest in alternatives to low tuition.

New "Superstar" Film Is Another Big Hit

by Jill Markert

"Jesus Christ Superstar," the rock opera by Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice, was at the top of the charts a few years ago. It went on to become a hit on Broadway, and is now in the process of making it big on the screen. The authors, or adapters to be more exact, took the last week of Christ's life and updated it for a better PR image. It should be billed as "an old story with a new twist." The character who benefits most from this version is Jesus, normally portrayed as a traitor to the cause; he becomes a victim in the gospel according to Andrew and Tim. Christ, played by Ted Neeley (a dead ringer for all those "pocket religion" pictures), is seen as more of a human being, subject to earthly doubts and tempers. The other roles are fairly traditional.

Director, Norm Jewison has manipulated the script so that what the viewer sees is a play within a play. The cast troops out of a bus and stretches a bit before climbing into their roles. The setting, a crumbling fortress-like structure in the Sinai, encompasses this microcosm. There are some gimmicky things like jets and tanks that presumably pass for current social commentary, but luckily that is rare. The photography is good, but part of that must be attributed to the beauty of the Sinai... and to the sunsets. There are a lot of sunsets in this film. The choreography blends well with the music, and Herod's ragtime number is a bright spot—in more ways than one. The pace of the movie is steady, but the climax seems to come with Jesus' death rather than with that of Jesus. After a jazzy number starring Judas and a hybrid between the Mormon Tabernacle Choir and the Supremes, the film moves somberly on to the Crucifixion.

The music for the movie is the same as that of the original rock opera, with the exception of two new songs. One of the big successes of the film lies in the fact that the visual effect complements the music so well. Since there is no dialogue, the music and lyrics must take its place. This is done quite naturally and the spoken word is not missed. It's safe to say that if you liked the music, you will like the movie. This is one of the few movies where everyone sat through the credits and then left—very quietly.

Boulder Society Namesake Has Long History, Inspired Many Traditions

by Margo Howland

Every college has something distinctive about it, some treasure that cannot be matched. For UVM it is the great granite boulder resting on a pedestal in front of the Old Mill.

Behind the origins of the boulder and the evolution of the honorary society that bears its name lies a fascinating history wreathed in legend and tradition.

The boulder was discovered in the 1840's during the construction of the Vermont Central Railroad near West Hartford village. Various accounts give the date as 1846, 1847 and 1848. During construction of the road bed, a blast in the rock revealed an enormous "pot-hole" 17 feet deep. At the bottom of the hole, in a bed of gravel, were two boulders, one jagged in appearance, the other, a perfectly rounded "egg" worn by the forces of water to a near-spherical shape. The rocks were a geological rarity, of the glacial period. The best account is from the first Boulder Oration in 1905:

"Geology tells us that it was brought down from the far north by a glacier—a ragged bit of some granite cliff, wrenched from its mother rock by the mighty onward rush of a river of ice and with the melting of that ice deposited in what was once the head of the White River, hundreds or perhaps thousands of miles from its original home. There, whirled round and round by the onrushing waters, the once-ragged stone slowly ground its way into the rock and was itself in turn worn to its present form."

Professor Edward Hitchcock, of Dartmouth, brought his geology class to observe the rarity and decided to take it back to Dartmouth. However, the Oration informs us that Vermont's Governor Payne, at this time President of the Central Vermont Railroad, heard of this plan and at once claimed the Boulder, sending it by a two-horse team to the University of Vermont, where it guarded the campus from its place in front of the Old Mill.

The Boulder attracted a great deal of attention, being a UVM tradition valued with respect and viewed with awe. To it was attributed the sacred wisdom of the ages. Unfortunately it was also the subject of numerous practical jokes. The Oration continues: "During its first years in the service of the University, the Boulder became quite fond of midnight rambles, doubtless to explore and become acquainted with its new surroundings. Its curiosity being at last satisfied it settled down, in the 1850's, to a simple, peaceful performance of its duties and so continued for forty years."

"Fastened securely to a pedestal of sandstone, it was unable to move and in fact had no desire to do so, till disturbed in its quiet musings by the sounds of great commotion incident upon the moving of the Museum and the construction of the (William) Science Hall. Its curiosity was again aroused; it longed to roam as of old and to determine for itself the meaning of all the clatter and tumult. With mighty struggles it strove to free itself from its moorings, but in vain were its efforts. At last it appealed to the Freshman class of '94, who, unmindful of or unheeding the feelings of the "powers that be" lent their aid. "On the eve of All Saint's Day with the help of derricks and beams, the feat was accomplished and the boulder was once more free to stretch its cramped limbs and resume its midnight constitutional. For three successive years it made its annual tour of inspection at Halloween, in '97 going as far as the "Hash House," where it had such a feast as caused it to fall into a deep sleep and it failed to return to its post before the Mill. The faculty were prone to look upon these midnight rambles as in some way inspired by the Freshmen."

"The Freshies were variously punished for being the cause of these inspirations and the Boulder for yielding to them was this time securely imprisoned upon a pedestal beneath the museum window. Upon regaining consciousness after its nap, the sacred stone struggled fruitlessly to return to its home and, at last, after six months of solitary confinement, it besought aid from the Seniors, and one fine spring morning broke to reveal the Boulder back in its accustomed place."

"Only once since has the Boulder left its post of duty and that, in the fall of 1902 for the high purpose of receiving advanced instruction in mathematics from a noble Frenchman, the Marquis de Lafayette. Right manfully has it guarded the campus these many years and may it so continue, to a ripe old age."

In 1905, nine men from the Senior Class met for the purpose of organizing a Senior Men's Honorary Society, which was to serve as a guide and example to the rest of the student body. Thus, the UVM Boulder Society, the oldest senior men's honorary society on the campus, began its existence. The Boulder represented permanence, and the objectives of the Boulderers were to "promote college spirit, to maintain friendly relations among the fraternities, and between the fraternity and non-fraternity men, and to encourage any support whatever tends to the betterment of the conditions of undergraduate life in the University." The protection of the UVM Boulder was also a goal.

The members of the Boulder Society are men of the senior class, chosen at the end of their junior year by the members. They may number no more than thirteen, and the results are kept secret until May 1, Founder's day, on which their election is announced and a ceremony is held around the Boulder. Former Bishop Robert F. Joyce, Class of '17, a past Editor-in-Chief of the Cynic and member of Boulder, described some of the student activities traditionally delegated to the members.

"Whenever there were UVM events the Boulder Men served as head ushers, and organizers of student body participation. They enforced Freshman rules: Freshmen had to carry matches for the upperclassmen. One took off one's hat to the President; one tipped one's hat to a faculty member. Freshmen wore beanies until Thanksgiving. If you didn't wear yours you were apt to be thrown in the fountain! An unwritten rule was that non-university couples couldn't walk on the campus at night. Anyone seeing any infraction of the rules would yell 'Couple on the campus!' The unfortunate guy would be thrown into the fountain and the girl taken promptly to her home. It was pretty cruel, really, and it wasn't the Boulder people that did it, but anyone that saw them."

Dr. Donald Gregg, advisor to the Boulder Society, said that Boulder and other class societies got started because of an interest in class activities.

"This was before TV, or cars on campus, or Student Unions—before there was any room at all where all the college kids could go between classes. There was the library and the gym, but no lounges and no places for kids to get together."

"The Boulder Society once had charge of Pep rallies," Dr. Gregg continued. "Cane Rush was a part of these rallies. At the first football game of the season, the sophomores would line up at one end of the field, the freshmen at the other end, and light canes were lying at the 50-yard line. At a signal, freshmen and sophomores would rush for the canes. If the sophomores managed to get more of the canes, the freshmen would have a penalty—such as wearing their beanies for another two weeks!"

As time went by, the Boulder became the target for future indignities, especially the garish daubs of paint from rival colleges. In the 1930's a Nazi swastika appeared painted on the side. The Tuesday, October 22 Cynic reported an attack on the Boulder by, it was alleged, the Northfield Horsemen. "They were successful in painting it a bright crimson with a big N.U. on one side. Since Thursday, Boulderers have been busy as little beavers chipping paint from the Boulder and another ugly rumor has it that next year the entire Norwich Armory will be painted Green and Gold."

Feuds with Middlebury became common, with UVM Cat raiders painting the town green and Middlebury Panthers unseating the Boulder from its base and adding blue to red. However, nothing resulted in as much consternation—and indignation—outrage on the UVM campus and community at large as one fatal night in October, 1947.

That night can be described as the Great Rock Rip-Off. For, two denim-clad individuals in an old jalopy appeared on the UVM campus, approached the Boulder and coolly proceeded to roll it down the hill to their car. A passing student asked what they were doing. They told him they were "taking the Boulder to get it fixed. Incredibly, the student did not question further and went on his way. Very soon, the entire campus was forced to accept the horrible reality: the Boulder had been kidnapped! Various misuses of an anonymous and threatening nature began to appear in the Cynic office and elsewhere."

Dear Boulder Society: You will be pleased to hear that our "little" charge is well and happy. It is being well fed and has not been converted into crushed rock... as yet! Its safe return depends upon several things. Among these are your attitude, its behavior and your agreement to certain suitable terms...

The Rockaby Kids

It became evident that the malefactors were the members of a certain Middlebury fraternity, which shall remain anonymous. A phone call to the University's President managed to result in a few negotiations. Originally the Middlebury boys wanted to roll the Boulder onto the field at half-time, the day of the UVM-Middlebury football game. It was suggested that that might well cause a riot among loyal Catamount fans and protectors of Boulder.

After promising complete amnesty, UVM Resident John S. Millis arranged to have the Boulder left on his front lawn under a cover of darkness. The Boulder was returned to its nesting place; but alas! Middlebury won the game, 19-0!

WE'RE BOOK SPECIALISTS AT EVERYDAY

We know them. We offer you a huge selection of subject matter to choose from. And if it happens that we don't have a particular book in stock, we'll be pleased to order it for you.

FINEST SELECTION OF PAPER BACKS AND HARD COVERS

EVERYDAY BOOK SHOP

106 CHURCH ST. - 862-5191 - OPEN FRIDAY EVE.

A Jug of Wine.

A Hunk of Cheese Is Paradise Anon?

We apologize to Omar Khayyam, but not for our hundreds of WINE selections at LOW, LOW DISCOUNT PRICES!

Popular beers too.

LIKE CHEESE!!

Choose from over 50 of the world's best! We think you'll find a wine and cheese paradise at

GRAPES & HOPS

147 Elmwood Ave. One block North of the Post Office.

Open 10-6 Closed Sun. and Mon. PHIL MITE 'N 9

10% off cheeses to UVM students with ID

It must be twenty years since the place was painted. But you won't be able to tell it when the job's done. And while you're working, the great taste of Coca-Cola keeps everybody happy.

It's the real thing. Coke.

Bottled under the authority of The Coca-Cola Company, COCA-COLA BOTTLERS OF BURLINGTON

Last Tango in Paris

United Artists

BOOK MONT

Full on love

28

2

Av. Conditioned

FOR FOOD

FOR FUN!

CAFE "188"

UPSTAIRS

REAL ITALIAN SPAGHETTI

$7.00

HAPPY HOUR 5-7 PM

STRIPS 7-9 PM

PLUS A COMPLETE MENU

Photo by: Peter Magnus

Water Pollution Experts Will Speak At Sugarbush Inn

Leaders in the move for water pollution control in rural areas will speak at a three-day conference to be held at the Sugarbush Inn in Warren Sept. 26-28.

Some 150 pollution control personnel are expected at this session to discuss better ways to combat water pollution in small towns and rural areas.

This rural environmental engineering conference is sponsored by the Environmental Program and Water Resources Research Center of the University of Vermont and the Land and Water Research Center of the University of Maine, with an enabling grant from Union Carbide Corp.

Conference chairman is Dr. William F. Jewell, Department of Civil Engineering, University of Vermont. He said registration deadline is Sept. 4, and that Robert Law, Conference Center, Sugarbush Inn, Warren, is in charge of registration. A limited number of waivers of the $130 registration fee will be available to pollution control personnel.

Dr. Jewell calls water pollution in low population density locations "one of the most neglected areas of environmental protection" and said control of this pollution "may be the greatest technological challenge of the future." He said this is the first national conference on this subject.

Dr. Jewell said this conference "will bring together nationally known environmental engineers and scientists with consultants, planners, local county and state agency authorities for clarifying the magnitude of rural water associated pollution problems."

Some of the newer technologies available for controlling specific pollution problems will be discussed. The group will also formulate future problem-solving and research priority areas.

One of the speakers will be Carl Lindstrom of the National Swedish Environmental Protection Board, whose father invented the concept of the waterless toilet in Sweden.

Other speakers include: Prof. Raymond C. Loehr, director of the Agricultural Waste Management Program at Cornell and a leader in research in animal manure pollution;

Dr. P. H. McGahey, director emeritus, Sanitary Engineering Research Laboratory, University of California, Berkeley, and an authority on the effects of septic tank systems on the environment.

Dr. Jay H. Lehr, editor, Journal of Groundwater, and executive Director of the National Water Well Association;

Wilbur J. Whitsett, groundwater engineer, Water Supply Division, U. S. Environmental Protection Agency;

John R. Wright, water supply division, Environmental Improvement Agency of New Mexico;

Prof. Philip H. Jones, director, Institute of Environmental Science and Engineering, University of Toronto.

Entering Pre-Med Class Includes 36 Vermonters

Continuing its policy of giving first priority to qualified Vermonters, the University of Vermont College of Medicine will admit 36 in-state students in its September entering class of 83.

"There are several reasons for this policy," explained Dr. David Torney, associate dean. "We believe we owe this to the state because of the state support received. Too, we need physicians in Vermont, and experience has demonstrated that a greater proportion of Vermonters than non-Vermonters will eventually practice in the state."

"For these and other reasons

we accept all Vermonters whom we believe can reasonably be expected to complete the four years of study."

During the past 10 years the acceptance rate for Vermonters has been 54 per cent. This compares with 14 per cent for Maine applicants; 8 per cent, Rhode Island; 6 per cent, Massachusetts; and overall, and 2 per cent, out of New England.

Dr. Torney noted that others in the incoming class of 1977 include 21 from Massachusetts, 10 from Maine, 3 from Rhode Island and 13 from other states. The legislatures of those three New England states pay the University $5,000 per year per student under a longstanding contractual arrangement, so that none of their education costs is borne by Vermont taxpayers.

There will be 12 women among the 83 entering freshmen, and this will bring to 34 the total number of women students. Eighteen of the freshmen are married, and there is one husband-wife team.

Their average age is 22.2 years, about a year older than previous classes. Dr. Torney said many of the students had taken a year or more for non-academic activities, such as travel or the Peace Corps.

Over one-third of the class did their major undergraduate work in the humanities or social/behavioral sciences. 17 are UVM graduates, 48 are graduates of other New England universities or colleges, and 18 are from non-New England institutions.

Dr. Torney said that there were about 1,600 applicants for this class. 240 were interviewed by the admissions committee and 102 were accepted to form the class of 83 students.

Report Urges Rise In State College Rates

(continued from page seven)

Much of that interest has been generated by the financial plight of private colleges. Mr. Jellema notes that the average difference between public and private tuitions in 1964 was $650. By 1971, it was $1,250, and by 1976, he predicts, it will be $2,000.

In addition, however, there appears to be a growing feeling among many government officials and some economists that most of the benefits of higher education go to the individual. Therefore, the reasoning goes, the individual—not the society at large—should pay for it.

That feeling is a new expression of an old debate about financing higher education.

Those who believe that the benefits are primarily social and that students are forgoing income while in college have traditionally supported low tuitions.

Those who believe that the individual benefits—increased income over a lifetime, for instance—outweigh the social benefits have traditionally supported high tuitions.

Between those two extremes are people who think that it is virtually impossible to distinguish among the various individual and social benefits of higher education. They argue that a combination of contributions from tuition and rising costs of higher education and the increasing tendency to push a higher portion of those costs off onto students through tuition and fees have created a financial crisis for average income families for which no practical solution yet exists.

Circumstances today threaten to bring about a situation in which higher education will become limited to the very rich, the very brilliant, and the very poor.

Mr. Ostar and other spokesmen also say that the Carnegie Commission's suggestion is, in effect, an effort to bail out struggling private colleges at the expense of public higher education.

Edward J. Boling, president of the University of Tennessee, expressed "strong opposition" to the proposal, arguing that it says, "in effect, that tuition charges at public institutions should be increased to give private colleges and universities a better competitive position in the recruitment of students."

That "makes as much sense as forcing one person to undergo surgery because another person has appendicitis," Mr. Boling said.

Currently, however, sentiment among officials in Washington appears to favor aid to students, rather than institutional aid.

Allan W. Ostar, executive director of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, expressed shock at the recommendation. He said it would penalize middle-income students without guaranteeing support for low-income students.

He said that programs to aid low-income students would be subject to annual changes by state or federal legislators, but that once tuitions rose it would be virtually impossible to lower them.

Mr. Ostar, as well as John P. Mallan, the association's director of governmental relations, believes that middle- and lower-middle-income families need to be mobilized politically to prevent the Carnegie Commission's call for higher tuitions from succeeding.

Both men point to members of labor unions, students, and the alumni associations of public institutions as potentially strong political forces against high tuition.

Already, Mr. Ostar has indicated in The Federationist, a publication of the A.F.L.-C.I.O., the kind of arguments that could emerge if the political issue heats up.

The plain fact is that the governmental appropriations is most desirable.

The Carnegie Commission's latest report—Higher Education: Who Pays? Who Benefits? Who Should Pay?—while "advocating increased tuition at public institutions, does not call for anything near full support of higher education through such fees.

Rather, it represents a compromise between the principles of low tuition and full-cost tuition.

Specifically, the commission proposes that tuitions at public institutions be increased by 10 per cent to 12 per cent a year for the next decade, while holding constant at private institutions 5 to 6 per cent a year.

The increases at public institutions could mean that students would pay about one-third of the cost of their education, compared to one-sixth at present.

They would also reduce the gap between private and public tuition from the current ratio of four to one to two-and-a-half to one.

The commission attached two important riders to its proposals, as have many other groups that support increased tuition at public institutions:

That any increase in tuition must be accompanied by vast increases in aid for low-income students.

That tuition in lower divisions, especially two-year colleges, should be kept as low as possible to guarantee universal access.

The Carnegie proposal to increase public tuition drew a quick and negative reaction from some spokesmen for public colleges and universities.

UVM Students Out Rese

Nine University of Vermont forestry and wildlife students were associated this summer with a research project concerning the job performance of the Youth Conservation Corps. The Corps had the objective of accomplishing natural resources work, primarily on national forests, national parks, and wildlife refuges. The youth, from 15 through 18 years of age, are from all levels of society.

The UVM students collected and reported daily job performance data to Dr. Frank Harris Armstrong, UVM director of the research project. Dr. Armstrong believed that youth conservation programs can succeed if the youth are fully and patiently employed with the proper equipment for the job. He explored the use of

Dr. Manch Motion Pic

A comprehensive text for the serious study of motion pictures, written by Prof. Frank Manch of the University of Vermont, has been published by Fairleigh Dickinson University Press.

Coming at a time when the study of motion pictures is growing in thousands of U.S. schools and universities, "Film Study: A Resource Guide" is aimed at teachers and students "who recognize that film is more than a mere textbook, who see it as a major art form worthy of serious consideration in the schools and society."

Called by the publisher "a monumental undertaking," the book is organized so that the six most common approaches to film appreciation can be examined—the study of a significant period in film history, genres, stereotyping, thematic units, the relationship between literature and film, the history of motion pictures, highlighting the extensive

LEE LEEN FLARE

Your kind of jeans for your kind of world. For cycles, cars, girls, stars. It's me and Lee for being carefree.

DENIMS + CORD from $9.50

Also good selection of straight legs

ME & LEE

SHEPARD & HAMELLE

24 Church St.
Burlington, Vt.

FINE LEATHER GOODS

- *TRAVEL KITS
- *BRIEF BAGS
- *CLUB BAGS
- *ENVELOPES
- *ATTACHE CASES
- *BILLFOLDS
- *FLASKS
- *TRAVEL BARS
- *DECANTERS
- *HANDBAGS

Free Personalizing of all Leather Goods

Simpson's

7 Church St. Burlington

FURS • LUGGAGE

They say everything you feel

You're happy together! Life is alive and intense, calm and intimate. You're in love! Share wedding love rings that say everything you feel. by ArtCarved. You'll know you're sharing the best of everything!

The Diamond Store

D-40935 DEVOTION

D-35633 CONCERTO

PD-64199 VERNAIN

ArtCarved DIAMOND RINGS

NOW!...ARTCARVED

Small Down Payment - Small Weekly Payments

LIPPA'S JEWELERS

46 CHURCH STREET, BURLINGTON, VT.

Open Friday Evenings

FRESH GROUND Coffee House

Fine International food and a casual atmosphere at prices you can afford.

Mon-Thurs Noon-10 P.M.

Fri-Sat Noon-midnight

Class Of

(continued from page four)

scurvy, dirt-eating, brown-right?

"No, sir."

"Well?"

"The beer is warm, sir."

"Get me another one."

"There is no more," Joel said.

"Well go out and get some-good.

Outside Joel fell headlong

"Hey, man. Lemme give y-

Richard. "Where you goin'?"

"Oh, I've got to go and ge-

Joel replied.

"Man, you won't see me jo-

Those guys really hassle you."

"Oh, it's not so bad."

"Are you kidding? Every-an errand for 'em. And Andyou all had to clean the kitch-

"Yes, that's true, but we-Joel. "The reason we had to all the pledges got together fo-

the silver from the kitchen refrigerator, left in all the toaster with snow. Then we toilet seats, poured dirt do-stacked all the fluorescent li-

we brought up about 50 em-

the front doorway so no one electricity and set off the au-

The Spaceman was laugh-

"Man, they must have been

"Oh, yes, they were."

"Especially when they foucooler."

A room lit by a car-receiver. Soft music. Two pe-

UVM Students Carry Out Research Project

Nine University of Vermont forestry and wildlife students were appointed this summer with a research project concerning the job performance of the Youth Conservation Corps. The Corps had the objective of accomplishing natural resources work, primarily on national forests, national parks, and wildlife refuges. The youth, from 15 through 18 years of age, are from all levels of society.

The UVM students collected and reported daily job performance data to Dr. Frank Harris Armstrong, UVM director of the research project. Dr. Armstrong believed that youth conservation programs can succeed if the youth are fully and gainfully employed with the proper equipment for the job. He explored the use of questionnaire research approaches to facilitate the organization and the operation of the Corps.

Congressional measures are underway to establish the Youth Conservation Corps as a permanent program. Senator Jackson has introduced legislation (S. 662) that would create a year-round conservation program similar to the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930's, and legislation has been introduced to create a summer program of conservation work for youths in the 19 through 23 year age bracket. Hopefully the research that is being performed at UVM will enable the organization of future camps in a manner that will fully utilize the resources in the accomplishment of the work goals and minimize youth idle time.

Dr. Manchel Publishes Motion Picture Text

A comprehensive text for the serious study of motion pictures, written by Prof. Frank Manchel of the University of Vermont, has been published by Fairleigh Dickinson University Press.

The author of six other texts on motion pictures, Dr. Manchel is presently chairman of the American Federation of Film Societies and treasurer of the Society for Cinema Studies. He was recently appointed chairman of the Vermont Governor's Committee on Children and Youth.

Survey of film studies are the exhaustive annotated, critical biographies and filmographies of important books, articles and films.

The author, a member of the communication and theatre faculty at the University, included only films readily available to schools or film study groups in 16 mm prints, and which "demonstrate aesthetic quality."

Called by the publisher "a monumental undertaking," the book is organized so that the six most common approaches to film appreciation can be examined - the study of a significant period in film history, genres, stereotyping, thematic units, the relationship between literature and film, the history of motion pictures.

Highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

highlighting the extensive

SPS Photo: Barry Woodworth

Photo by: Marty Rowley

Students interested in Golf Team Participation must sign up in Room 204 in the Patrick Gym Athletic Office.

Tryouts will be arranged at the Burlington Country Club on September 7. Only students who sign up will be considered for team membership.

The fall schedule starts at Plattsburgh, September 15th. No golfers will be considered for spring play unless they participate in the fall program.

FALL SCHEDULE

September 15
Plattsburgh Invitational Tournament
New York

September 21
State Championships
Middlebury, Vermont

October 6
ECAC Qualifying
Dartmouth, Hanover, New Hampshire

October 13
ECAC Championships
Cooperstown, New York

October 20
Yale Invitational
New Haven, Connecticut

Furnishing a Room or Apt?

Check My Prices First If You Want To Save Money

Something for every room, particularly the kitchen. Pots & Pans, Dishes, Irons, Flatware, Toasters, etc. Lamps, Rugs, Chairs, Beds, Bureaus, Sports Equipment, Used Clothing.

Good Quality At Low Second Hand Prices

Armand Brisson - 893-2233 - on Route 7 in Milton village by the monument. Bring this ad. It is good for 10% off.

2 persons needed to share house - own bedroom - call 658-0727 between 9 am and 1:30 pm - rent 80.00/month - utilities included.

One of the finest
ITALIAN-AMERICAN CUISINE

Buono Appetito

TREAT YOURSELF TO

★ RAVIOLI ★ SPAGHETTI ★ ANTIPASTO ★ LASAGNE ★ FRESH VEAL
★ PIZZA ★ EGG PLANT ★ PARMIGIANA
★ SANDWICHES

COCKTAILS & WINE
NEXT TO CHAMPLAIN
MOTOR LODGE
ROUTE 7

985-2232

TAKE OUT SERVICE AVAILABLE
SHELburne RD. SHELburne, VT.

OUR SEPTEMBER POLICY

WE COULD GET IT FOR YOU WHOLESALE

...We will maintain the lowest regular price for single album purchases of any store in downtown Burlington.

...Anytime any person buys six or more $5.98 list albums at once these albums will cost no more than $3.68 each.

...We will meet or beat any 'advertised' price on any album from any store in downtown Burlington even if it is on special sale.

THE UPSTAIRS RECORD SHOP

44 CHURCH ST.
BURLINGTON

ABOVE THE LITTLE PROFESSOR
11:00AM-5:30PM, FRI. 'til 9:00PM

Class Of 1977: A Day In The Life ...

(continued from page four)

scurry; dirt-eating, brown-nosed runt of a pledge, are right?"

"No, sir."

"Well?"

"The beer is warm, sir."

"Get me another one."

"There is no more," Joel said.

"Well go out and get some!" The Crusher was feeling real good.

Outside Joel fell headlong on the icy sidewalk.

"Hey, man. Lemme give you a hand." It was Spaceman Richard. "Where you going?"

"Oh, I've got to go and get some beer for the Crusher," Joel replied.

"Man, you won't see me joining one of those fraternities. Those guys really hassle you."

"Oh, it's not so bad."

"Are you kidding? Every time I see you you're running an errand for 'em. And Anderson told me yesterday that you all had to clean the kitchen with toothbrushes."

"Yes, that's true, but we give as good as we get," said Joel. "The reason we had to do that was, the night before all the pledges got together for a night of sabotage. We stole all the silver from the kitchen, put a bag of dog turds in the refrigerator, salt in all the sugar bowls, and filled up the toaster with snow. Then we painted Ben-Gay on all the toilet seats, poured dirt down the bathroom drains, and stacked all the fluorescent lights in front of the door. Then we brought up about 50 empty beer kegs and piled them in the front doorway so no one could get out, turned off the electricity and set off the automatic sprinkler system."

The Spaceman was laughing so hard he couldn't move. "Man, they must have been puzed."

"Oh, yes, they were quite perturbed," Joel said.

"Especially when they found the padlock on the beer cooler."

A room lit by a candle and the glow of a stereo receiver. Soft music. Two people on a couch.

"Andy, please don't."

Silence.

"Andy, stop!"

"I'll stop whenever you say."

"Well I say stop now."

"Come on, Mary Beth, I won't do anything."

"You've already done plenty, now quit."

Silence. Heavy breathing.

"Andy, please don't."

"It's okay."

More heavy breathing.

"Oh, Andy."

Silence. Then, a pounding at the door. Light floods in from the hall. It is the Crusher. "Hey, Anderson! What's happening?"

"What's this?" asked Quentin.

"It's a cigarette," said Spaceman Richard.

"What kind of a cigarette?" Quentin wanted to know.

"Never mind that. Here. Take a drag."

"But I don't smoke."

"That's okay. This is good for ya."

Much later, Spaceman Richard asks Quentin, "how do you feel?" Quentin replies, "Hahahahahaha. Ah hahahahaha. Oh ho ho ho ho ho ho ho."

"That's great," smiles Spaceman Richard.

June, 1977. Joan, Quentin, Anderson, Joel, Mary Beth and Spaceman Richard are seated together at Commencement.

"Wow, it's hot in here," complains Joan.

"You aren't kidding," said Joel. "When we get married, it's going to be outside in the shade."

"Hey, who's that guy on stage?" asks Quentin.

"That's President Edwards, of course," Anderson replies.

"Really? This is the first time I've ever seen him."

"No, it isn't," Mary Beth informs him. "You saw him four years ago at Freshman Convocation in this very same gym."

"Shit," says Spaceman Richard. "You call this a gym?"

My high school gym was bigger'n this."

UND use
Couch
Thurs - noon - 10PM
Sat - noon - midnight

Denis Lambert Named New Director Of UVM Athletics

by Margo Howland
University of Vermont President Dr. Edward C. Andrews, Jr. has named Denis Lambert, 43, to the post of UVM Athletic Director, on July 1. Lambert, officially succeeded J. Edward Donnelly, who retired on May 31, after 21 years at UVM. Donnelly will continue to be on the University athletic staff as head golf coach.

In discussing the appointment of Lambert, UVM President Andrews stated:

"Lambert received a healthy consensus of support from the committee and we are very pleased that he was selected. The administration and the committee were particularly impressed with the strong support received from the coaching staff on behalf of Lambert."

Lambert is looking forward to improvements in every department of UVM sports, and cited many athletic achievements: "UVM won the Eastern Championship in skiing, we were third in the NCAA, and we won the Dartmouth Winter Carnival for the first time in over fifty years. Our hockey team is undefeated in Division II, and will be going into Division I a year from this winter. Competition will be harder."

Lambert had words of praise for every coach and an optimistic outlook for every team: "Jim Cross' achievements with hockey, Peter Salzberg's improvement with the basketball squad, and the hard work and enthusiasm in track, cross-country and tennis, and hopes for a better season in soccer."

Former Athletic Director Donnelly, who will continue as golf coach, recently received a service award from the Golf Coaches of America for his outstanding service to his school and for the sport of golf. Lambert also added that the UVM Golf team has won the State Championship.

"In football, we had a 4-5 record last year, the best record in seven years. We competed in the Yankee-Conference, which includes all New England colleges and Boston University. Carl Fairness and his staff are working hard."

"It is important that we have an outstanding working staff, interested in young people. Our whole objective is to have the best athletic program that is educationally sound and meets the athletic needs of the individual. That is the kind of program I'm interested in directing," said Lambert.

When asked about the change to Division I hockey, Lambert said, "The change to Division I hockey was made on the basis of several factors: first, we were rapidly becoming too strong for Division II; secondly, hockey recruits will want to be in Division I, and also it was getting difficult to schedule Division II games. Other teams would not care to play a stronger opponent. The choice was an improvement in the hockey program, a step in the right direction, discussed by the Athletic Director, the Athletic Council and President Andrews."

When asked about the possibility of baseball returning to the university someday, Lambert said that it involved a conflict in spring, to run a baseball program and also have students attend all their classes. The weather is not conducive to baseball in April; the NCAA does not recognize fall scores, and there was a conflict with other coaches as well.

"A number of people are interested in seeing baseball return to UVM," Lambert concluded, "and as soon as these limitations can be ironed out, I think we'll be in a position to reconsider it."

Lambert, who served for four years as assistant Athletic Director, is a native of Burlington. He graduated from UVM in 1954 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Education. He played three years of varsity football as well as basketball.

After graduation, Lambert served in the Air Force for two years. In 1956 he joined the faculty and coaching staff of Winoski High School, where he taught mathematics and served as head football coach. While at Winoski, Lambert's teams won three Vermont Class I Championships. He was named Vermont's Coach of the Year in 1958.

Lambert received a Master of Arts in teaching from St. Michael's College in 1960. In 1964 he came to UVM as the assistant football coach and gymnastic instructor. He was then director of basic instruction in the men's physical education program. He has served as assistant swim coach, diving coach, assistant ski coach, and head ski coach from 1970-72, and was named assistant athletic director in 1969.

Denis Lambert is looking forward with anticipation to the oncoming of the full sports season as UVM begins another year.

"In all our sports," Lambert said, "the selling point are the kids that participate."

Cats Defend Championship In Final Division II Season

A final 1973-74 University of Vermont hockey schedule has been released by Athletic Director Denis Lambert, and among the 28 games include nine ECAC Division I schools and a two-game set at St. Louis University in early January. Vermont will complete its last season in Division II before moving up to Division I status commencing with the 1974-75 campaign.

In addition to games with St. Louis, the defending Division II champions (perfect 19-0-0 mark) will meet Boston University twice, Clarkson, St. Lawrence, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Northeastern and RPI (twice). Also, Vermont will continue to play the best in Division II, opening with St. Anselm's Nov. 27 in Burlington. Vermont's season actually kicks off with the Bishop's University International Hockey Tournament in Lennoxville, Que., Nov. 17-18. Participating in the tournament are Merrimack College, University of Sherbrooke, Vermont and host Bishop's University.

The complete 1973-74 slate follows:

Nov. 17-18	International Hockey Tournament: Univ. of Sherbrooke, Merrimack College, Bishop's University and Vermont at Bishop's University, Lennoxville, Que.
Nov. 27	St. Anselm's (H)
Dec. 1	Boston Univ. (A)
Dec. 4	Norwich (A)
Dec. 8	RPI (H)
Dec. 10	St. Lawrence (H)
Jan. 4	St. Louis U. (A)
Jan. 6	St. Louis U. (A)
Jan. 8	Northeastern (A)
Jan. 9	Boston State (A)
Jan. 16	Middlebury (H)
Jan. 19	RPI (A)
Jan. 21	Salem State (A)
Jan. 24	Colby (H)
Jan. 26	Hamilton (A)
Jan. 30	New Hampshire (H)
Feb. 1	Boston U. (H)
Feb. 2	Boston State (H)
Feb. 6	Massachusetts (H)
Feb. 9	Connecticut (H)
Feb. 11	Clarkson (H)
Feb. 12	AIC (H)
Feb. 18	Pennsylvania (A)
Feb. 20	Middlebury (A)
Feb. 22	Colby (A)
Feb. 23	Bowdoin (A)
Feb. 26	Norwich (H)

Tough Basketball Schedule Ahead

With the addition of national powers North Carolina St. and North Carolina, Dec. 7 and 8, the University of Vermont basketball schedule suddenly becomes one of the toughest in New England. In addition to North Carolina St. and North Carolina, the rebuilding Catamounts will visit Vanderbilt and Georgia during the Christmas recess, Dec. 29 and 31.

Junior captain and All-New England candidate, Joe Greco, will lead Vermont as they open at Maine (Nov. 30 and Dec. 1), followed by the home opener with Yankee Conference rival New Hampshire, Dec. 5, two days before they head for the state of North Carolina and the meetings with the Wolfpack and Tarheels.

The complete 1973-74 schedule follows:

Jan. 2	Boston U. (A)
Jan. 5	New Hampshire (A)
Jan. 12	Connecticut (A)
Jan. 15	Massachusetts (H)
Jan. 24	Rhode Island (A)
Jan. 26	Connecticut (H)
Jan. 28	Dartmouth (H)
Jan. 31	St. Michael's (A)
Feb. 2	Northeastern (H)
Feb. 4	Norwich (H)
Feb. 7	Siena (H)
Feb. 11	Norwich (A)
Feb. 13	St. Michael's (H)
Feb. 16	Bates (H)
Feb. 19	Massachusetts (A)
Feb. 23	Boston U. (H)
Feb. 27	Middlebury (H)
March 2	Brandeis (A)
Nov. 30-Dec. 1	Maine (A)
Dec. 5	New Hampshire (H)
Dec. 7	North Carolina St. (A)
Dec. 8	North Carolina (A)
Dec. 11	Rhode Island (H)
Dec. 29	Vanderbilt (A)
Dec. 31	Georgia (A)

Former UVM Athletes To Be Inducted Into Hall Of Fame

BURLINGTON, Vt. — Six former University of Vermont athletes and a former basketball coach will be inducted into the University of Vermont Athletic Hall of Fame on Friday night (Oct. 12) of Homecoming Weekend.

The University of Vermont's Athletic Hall of Fame was established in 1969 with its prime purpose of "recognizing and honoring those individuals who have made significant contributions to the University of Vermont through their participation or involvement in athletics."

Selected for the honor this year are John C. Evans, Vermont basketball coach from 1940-65; Orson W. Jay, '32; Ralph P. Kehoe, '51; Kenneth K. Newton, '23; Winchenbach, '31.

Dr. H. M. Farmer, '33, of Burlington, a former star football player at the University of Vermont, was named chairman of the University's Athletic Hall of Fame Executive Committee at the committee's meeting, May 24. Dr. Farmer, who has served on the committee for one year, succeeds attorney Saul Lee Agel, who served as chairman for the past year.

In addition to Dr. Farmer, four new committee members began four year terms. The four, all UVM graduates, are: Arthur K. Tudhope, '26, of Grand Isle; Frank Varricchio, '33, of Burlington; Norman Strassburg, '41, of Essex Junction; and Arnold C. Piche, Austin H. Rom, '37; Henry Semans, '24 and Francis A. Winchenbach, '31.

Football Practice Underway; Cats Are Looking Good

by Jill Markert

The UVM football squad reported for practice Sunday, August 19, and started in earnest with double sessions on the 21st. This is the second season for Coach Carl Falivene, who has his hands full right now, shaping the team up for the first game against Maine on September 8.

The big question being asked is about the quarterback. Who is going to fill the hole left by Earl Olson, who graduated last year? Four candidates have been mentioned, including two freshmen, Bob Bateman, a sophomore, and Fran Baczek, a junior. Charlie Casella and John Margatta, the two freshmen, are among ten freshmen on the team.

The biggest problem Falivene faces is depth. Three veterans who should have returned will not be playing, and co-captain John Hemphill is the only returning defensive player. Co-captain Peter Trono will be a starter on offense, either as tackle (his usual position) or guard. The team in general will be pretty young and it looks like a building year, with some shuffling to find the best player for each position.

Right now the players are split up by position, each group working with a different coach. Falivene works with the quarterbacks, Gene Peck with the running backs, Dean Kent with the receivers, Mike Murphy with the defensive linemen, Bruce Craddock with the offensive linemen, Dick Franhman with the linemen, and Lynn Livelsberger with the defensive backs. Training will be intensive until school starts Sept. 4; the first game comes up soon after on the 8th.

The Cats are going into this season with a 4-5 record. They were third in the Yankee Conference last year with a 3-2 record. Their confidence in both themselves and Falivene is stronger this year. The fortunes of the team rest on the ability of the newer members to complement the more experienced ones. If they can put it all together, it should be a pretty good season.

Because of the need to test and select life guards for this fall semester, the Forbush Pool will not open until September 10.

PFJ RECREATIONAL SCHEDULE
Effective September 4, 1973
All Facilities except Pool STUDENTS

Mon. thru Fri. 8 to 9 p.m. and whenever a particular facility is not used for varsity practice, intramurals, special events, or shut down for repairs and maintenance. There will be some special events, too, between 8 and 9 p.m., but every effort will be made to keep this hour for students' free recreation.

Saturday, 1 to 5 p.m.; 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Hockey games and other activities will cut down on Saturday free time in the rink.

Sunday, Closed.

FACULTY AND STAFF
Mon. thru Fri. — 12 noon to 1 p.m.
Fri. — 7 to 8 p.m. — children under 15 accompanied by faculty or staff member; 8 to 10:30 p.m. — faculty and staff

There will be times when special events will interfere with these recreational periods, but here, too, every effort will be made to keep these times for faculty and staff use.

IF YOU LIKE TO GET AWAY FROM IT ALL.....

VALUGA SPORTS HAS A GREAT METHOD

WITH SUCH FAMOUS NAMES AS: PARIS SPORT PEUGEOT NORD FRANCE BEREIN

with the purchase of a bicycle you receive a day pack, great for carrying books and an arm safety light

Complete Selection Of Quality 10-Speed Bicycles
FULL RANGE OF COLORS AND SIZES,
FROM 19 to 25-inch FRAMES

ONE DAY EXPERT REPAIR SERVICE

One Mile South OF Burlington On Route 7

NEXT TO SWISS CHOCOLATE POT
OPEN 9-9 M.F.
SAT 9-6
BANKAMERICAN CARD
MASTERCARD

LOTUS CHINESE RESTAURANT

- LUNCH
- DINNER
- AFTER THEATER
- TAKE OUT ORDERS

144 CHURCH ST. BURLINGTON, VT. PHONE 862-1591

WELCOME STUDENTS!!

DELICIOUS ITALIAN PIZZA 24 VARIETIES! SUBMARINES 15 KINDS! NOURISHING COUNTRY STYLE BREAKFAST HOT MUFFINS 9 KINDS ASSORTED ITALIAN DISHES BEVERAGES

DO-IT-YOURSELF SUNDRIES COFFEE FROM FRESHLY GROUND ICE COLD DRAFT BEER

Call by phone! Take some home!

THE Tower RESTAURANT

1234 Williston Road, S. Burlington
Essex Junction Shopping Ctr. • Ethan Allen Shopping Ctr. • Gore Montpelier Road

We would

For Sale:
Kastle CPM Grand
Nevada Grand Pr
Never been used
Contact Steve Wood

LEVI'S JEANS FLARES

Leave it to Levi's to come up with the great look in jeans. Same built-to-last construction. Same lean fit. Same tough fabrics. But some fine new and a full flare to the leg. Fall into our place for a pair or two, with the famous Levi's tab.

- Corduroy Baggies
- Cuffed Flairs
- Denim Jackets
- Chambray Shirts
- Blue Jeans
- Corduroy Flairs
- Corduroy Straight Leg

Levi's

Nate's
Vermont
Burlington, M
St. John

Ship Season

National Hockey League, Merrimack and Vermont at the Que.
St. Anselm's (H)
Boston Univ. (A)
Norwich (A)
RPI (H)
St. Lawrence (H)
St. Louis U. (A)
St. Louis U. (A)
Northeastern (A)
Boston State (A)
Middlebury (H)
RPI (A)
Salem State (A)
Colby (H)
Hamilton (A)
New Hampshire (H)
Boston U. (H)
Boston State (H)
Massachusetts (H)
Connecticut (H)
Clarkson (H)
AIC (H)
Pennsylvania (A)
Middlebury (A)
Colby (A)
Bowdoin (A)
Norwich (H)

letes To Be All Of Fame

H. M. Farmer, '33, of ington, a former star all player at the University of Vermont, was chairman of the University's Athletic Hall of Executive Committee at committee's meeting, May Farmer, who has served committee for one year, s attorney Saul Lee who served as chairman
last year.
In addition to Dr. Farmer, new committee members for four year terms, are:
K. Tudhope, '26, of
ad. Isle; Frank schione, '33, of ington; Norman burg, '41, of Essex
ton; and Arnold C. Piche,
H. Ross, '37, Henry a, '24 and Francis A.
nback, '31.

Underway; ing Good looks like a building with some shuffling to the best player for each

on.
ht now the players are up by position, each working with a different Falvene works with the backs, Gene Peck with inning backs, Dean Kent the receivers. Mike ny with the defensive en, Bruce Craddock with offensive linemen, Dick am with the linemen, and Livesberger, with the ave backs. Training will ensive until school starts
'4; the first game comes on after on the 8th.
e Cats are going into this e with a 4-5 record. They third in the Yankee rence last year with a 3-2 9. Their confidence in themselves and Falvene is er this year. The fortunes e team rest on the ability e newer members to plement the more enced ones. If they can all together, it should be lly good season.

ed to test s for this ush Pool
September

m, and whenever a ot used for varsity petal events, or shut maintenance. There nts, too, between 4
fort will be made to
nts' free recreation.
7:30 to 10:30 p.m. e activities will cost me in the rink.

son to 1 p.m.
children under 15-or staff member, 5
and staff
when special events
recreational periods,
fort will be made to
ity and staff use.

We would like you to meet a couple of friends who will be with us for the rest of the year

- SLUSH -

AND WHEN I FINISH WITH THAT NASTY LITTLE EXAM...

- HOBO -

WOULD YOU HIRE THIS MAN?
WOULD YOU TRUST THIS MAN WITH YOUR DAUGHTER?
WOULD YOU WANT THIS MAN
FOR A SON-IN-LAW?

HE DOESN'T THINK SO EITHER.

For Sale:
Kastle CPM Grand Prix 210 cm.
Nevada Grand Prix - heel and toe
Never been used
Contact Steve Wood at 658-2833

Levi's
JEANS
FLARES

Leave it to Levi's to come up with the great look in jeans. Same built-to-last construction. Same lean fit. Same tough fabrics. But some fine new colors and a full flare to the leg. Fall into our place for a pair or two, with the famous Levi's tab.

- Corduroy Baggies
- Cuffed Flairs
- Denim Jackets
- Chambray Shirts
- Blue Jeans
- Corduroy Flairs
- Corduroy Straight Legs

Levi's

Nate's INC.

Vermont's Largest Men's Clothing
Burlington, Montpelier, St. Albans,
St. Johnsbury

Ed Levin of Bennington
the Soles family
Wink Hirschak
of Stowe
Mardi Zelmanoff
David Allen
Paula Gollhardt
Kathryn Downs
Whitehead Farms of Cabot
Roxanne Hall of Fairfax
Harriet Hemenway
Jackie Kehrman
Stanley Davidson

Reeta
Dean
Metzke
Haywire

A Jeweler For Your
Every Whim

Our jewelers are selected with the greatest of care ... so that you can satisfy that tames and wildest of fancies. Each has a distinct style all his or her own.

Ed Levin, Vermont's Master Jeweler, was our first. Then we gradually added others. And there will be more.

We now have domestic Silver from as far as New Mexico ... Turquoise directly from the Navajos ... the same Gold rings found in the most discriminating New York stores ... and many far-out exotic creations from Greenwich Village, the Rockies and elsewhere ... along with imports from Mexico, Africa and the South American countries.

Our jewelry is in Gold, Silver, Brass, Pewter, Wrought Iron, Quill, Semi-Precious Stones.

Feathers and Beads ... Generally starting at $3.00.

Decorative Things

In the Green Log Cabin
Corner of Williston and Hinckley Roads
South Burlington
Open weekdays 9:30-9:00, Saturdays Until 5:30

Special this week
LOW LEAD GAS 36 even

BRANIFF GULF
OPEN 24
HOURS

Complete car service

ELECTRICAL WORK

including Bosch equipment

864-6303

Across from the Ramada Inn
on Williston Road

SPECIAL RATES
TO PARENTS
OF STUDENTS

40 NEW MOTEL ROOMS

TICONDEROGA ROOM FOR OUTSTANDING FOOD

THE PUB FOR BEVERAGES

SHELBURNE INN
AND NEW MOTEL

Phone 985-3305 for Reservations
Shelburne, Vermont

RED DOG
PRESENTS

THE BEST IN LIVE ENTERTAINMENT

WOOL

THIS WEEK
THURS-SAT

SUNDAY TO THURSDAY 25¢ MUGS ALL NITE

LIVE ENTERTAINMENT SEVEN NITES A WEEK

EVERY SUNDAY :

DOWNPOUR

25¢ COVER

25¢ MUGS ALL NITE

LOCATED 165 CHURCH ST.

Just for openers we'll give you a FREE book of checks.

We'd like to get to know you, so the Howard will give you your first book of checks FREE when you open an account with us. A checking account is the safe, convenient way to handle your money. It's also a good way to keep a record of your expenses. Open a special student checking account with us, and be sure to ask for your free book of checks.

Turn to the Howard Bank

Main Office: Main and St. Paul Streets, Burlington
Offices at: Champlain, St. Albans, St. Johnsbury, Vergennes, Winooski, Waterbury, Montpelier, Middlebury, Rutland, Castleton, Newbury, and other locations.

Entry in last year's CYNIC PHOTO CONTEST

Rich Rollins

HANNIBAL'S INC.
152 Church Street, Burlington

PIZZA, HOTDOGS, SANGRIA, DRAUGHT.
GREAT SELECTION OF BOTTLED BEW

BEST JUKE BOX IN TOWN

HANNIBUL'S WHERE EVERY BEER HAS A GOOD HEAD

Above

HANNIBUL'S

on Church Street

OPEN 4pm,
6 DAYS/ WEEK

SANDWICHES SERVED
DAILY

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

7.38

COLUMBIA
WEATHER REPORT
SWEETNIGHTER

3.69

You Get More Here!

LARGEST SELECTION • LOWEST PRICES

WEA

CAPITOL

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

discount records

COMPLETE STEREO TAPE CENTER

3.69

3.69

3.69

7.38

3.69

VERMONT'S LARGEST RECORD AND STEREO TAPE STORE

CONVENIENTLY LOCATED IN DOWNTOWN BURLINGTON

FANTASTIC SELECTION

SUPER SPECIALS EVERY WEEK

3.69

7.38

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

COLUMBIA-EPIC

WEATHER REPORT
SWEETNIGHTER

3.69

SLY and the Family STONE
FRESH

3.69

JAMES JOPLIN'S GREATEST HITS

3.69

Roger McGuinn

including:
Time Cuts/Drum/It's So Real/No
Lost My Driver/Whoo/My New Woman

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

OPEN MON - FRI 10-9, SAT 10-6

93 CHURCH ST.

TELEPHONE 863-4587

discount records

BERTHA CHURCH INTIMATE APPAREL

One of New England's

Finest Specialty Shops

We welcome you to the area and invite you to meet such familiar names as Olga, Warners, Lily of France, Maidenform, Vassarotte, Formfit Rogers, Gossard, Fifth Avenue, Lanz, Mr. Jac and others.

Bras . Bikinis . Lingerie .
Sleepwear . Robes . Body Briefers .
Body Blouses . Long Skirts .

We are at 210 College Street
Downtown Burlington

That's only four blocks down from Waterman Building

— LIVE — ENTERTAINMENT

featuring the East's
most popular and best sounding rock groups

7 NIGHTS A WEEK

Great drinks and drafts at very reasonable prices!

THE
SILVER KEG

156 St. Paul St. Burlington
"Burlington's Most Popular Nightspot"

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE

INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

VW BRAKE JOB

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn
drums, rebuilt 4 wheel
cylinders. Discs $10 additional.

Spin Balance $2.50 per Wheel
Front End Alignment $10

VW Beetle Exhaust System

Complete

$24.95

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN

ROTC?

COURSES IN MILITARY
AFFAIRS?

Did you believe that by joining ROTC you were obligating yourself to military service?
Not so! There is no obligation for the first two years of ROTC.

HERE IS WHAT WE OFFER TO BOTH MEN AND WOMEN

For the ROTC Student:

- CHALLENGING LEADERSHIP TRAINING EXPERIENCES
- Interesting courses
- Chance to become an Army Officer
- Full Tuition Scholarships
- Civilian Career Enhancement
- $100 per month for 10 months subsistence (Juniors & Seniors Only)
- Extracurricular Activities (Pershing Rifles; Bobcat Team)
- Flight Instruction (Seniors Only)

For the ROTC and Non-ROTC Student:

- MS 1 (1st Semester) Introduction to Military Studies
An Introduction to the interaction of war and civilization components of military power, military theory, and contemporary military issues.
- MS 2 (2nd Semester) U. S. Defense Establishment
An in-depth look at the organization of the political/military/industrial complex in the United States.
- MS 12 (1st Semester) Contemporary World Military Scene
Military Policies of the U.S., Soviet Union, and China set against the background of long-range national concerns.
- One third of our last year's enrollment were not cadets. These students found the courses interesting. Perhaps you will.

For more information, visit the Department of Military Studies, Room 414 Williams Hall or call 656-2966/2967 and Come visit our open house 7:00 PM September 5 Room 301 Williams Hall

SERVICE

Special order to Film Processing
Check Cashing
Xerox Copies
Magazine Subsc
Wrapping Serv
Typewriter Rep
Fraternity Soro
Ski Tickets
Student Ticket
Tape Recorder

The Co

The University Store is a variety, provided for its fac its assets, obligations and p
University to help defray op

Hours

The University Store is open
8:30 to 5 and from 8:30 to 12 no
the year we are open additional
Evening Division Registration are open 8:00 to 4:30 and closed o

Purpose

The purpose of the Universit
with the library, the laboratory giving you the best education with the necessary tools for your stimulation of your continued
school days are over. In addition college-rated items that will ma more pleasant and enriching. Se smile — is the purpose — the al
University Store.

Services

The University Store is a se up to nine checkouts to provid vice. We ask that you leave yo attach cases in the bookdrop
free coin-return lockers which enter the sales area. This hab rassment for you and the cashi leaves.

Special Orders

With a small deposit we will not currently in our stock. We copies of BOOKS IN PRINT,
IN PRINT and SUBJECT G
PRINT, if at any time you would tion regarding price, published book published in the United service is also often used by for banquet favors and graduation

for ren

The perfect solu money . . . no more your own room . . . re
cost is split with your lightweight . . . hand
table . . . quick freezin
holds over 36 cans of free pick up and
unit today!

BERTHA CHURCH INTIMATE APPAREL

One of New England's

Finest Specialty Shops

We welcome you to the area and invite you to meet such familiar names as Olga, Warners, Lily of France, Maidenform, Vassarotte, Formfit Rogers, Gossard, Fifth Avenue, Lanz, Mr. Jac and others.

Bras, Bikinis, Lingerie,
Sleepwear, Robes, Body Briefers,
Body Blouses, Long Skirts

We are at 210 College Street
Downtown Burlington

That's only four blocks down from Waterman Building

— LIVE — ENTERTAINMENT

featuring the East's
most popular and best sounding rock groups

7 NIGHTS A WEEK

Great drinks and drafts at very reasonable prices!

THE
SILVER KEG

156 St. Paul St. Burlington
"Burlington's Most Popular Nightspot"

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE

INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 842-7686

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

VW BRAKE JOB

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn
drums, rebuilt 4 wheel
cylinders. Discs $10 additional.

Spin Balance $2.50 per Wheel
Front End Alignment $10

VW Beetle Exhaust System

Complete

$24.95

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN ROTC? COURSES IN MILITARY AFFAIRS?

Did you believe that by joining ROTC you were obligating yourself to military service?
Not so! There is no obligation for the first two years of ROTC.

HERE IS WHAT WE OFFER TO BOTH MEN AND WOMEN

For the ROTC Student:

- CHALLENGING LEADERSHIP TRAINING EXPERIENCES
- Interesting courses
- Chance to become an Army Officer
- Full Tuition Scholarships
- Civilian Career Enhancement
- $100 per month for 10 months subsistence (Juniors & Seniors Only)
- Extracurricular Activities (Pushing Rifles; Bobsled Team)
- Flight Instruction (Seniors Only)

For the ROTC and Non-ROTC Student:

- MS 1 (1st Semester) Introduction to Military Studies
An introduction to the interaction of war and civilization components of military power, military theory, and contemporary military issues.
- MS 2 (2nd Semester) U. S. Defense Establishment
An in-depth look at the organization of the political/military/industrial complex in the United States.
- MS 12 (1st Semester) Contemporary World Military Scene
Military Policies of the U.S., Soviet Union, and China set against the background of long-range national concerns.
- One third of our last year's enrollment were not cadets. These students found the courses interesting. Perhaps you will.

For more information, visit the Department of Military Studies, Room 414 Williams Hall or call 656-2966/2967 and Come visit our open house 7:00 PM September 5 Room 301 Williams Hall.

SERVICE

Special order by Film Processing
Check Cashing
Xerox Copies
Magazine Subsc
Wrapping Serv
Typewriter Rep
Fraternity Soro
Ski Tickets
Student Ticket
Tape Recorder

The Co

The University Store is a versity, provided for its fa its assets, obligations and University to help defray op

Hours

The University Store is open
8:30 to 5 and from 8:30 to 12 no
the year we are open additional
Evening Division Registration are open 8:00 to 4:30 and closed

Purpose

The purpose of the Universi
with the library, the laboratory
giving you the best education
with the necessary tools for your stimulation of your continued
school days are over. In addition college-rated items that will ma
more pleasant and enriching. N smile — is the purpose — the al
University Store.

Services

The University Store is a st up to make checkouts to provi
vice. We ask that you leave yo attach cases in the bookdrop
free coin-return lockers which enter the sales area. This has rassment for you and the cashi
leave.

Special Orders

With a small deposit we will not currently in our stock. We copies of BOOKS IN PRINT, I
IN PRINT and SUBJECT C
PRINT, if at any time you woul tion regarding price, publish book published in the United service is also often used by
for banquet favors and graduation

for

ren

The perfect solu
money . . . no more v
your own room . . . re
cost is split with your lightweight . . . hand
table . . . quick freezin
holds over 36 cans of
free pick up and
unit today!

SERVICES

Special order books
Film Processing
Check Cashing
Xerox Copies
Magazine Subscriptions
Wrapping Service
Typewriter Repairs
Fraternal/Sorority Favors
Ski Tickets
Student Ticket Sales
Tape Recorder Rental

UNIVERSITY
STORE

ON THE CAMPUS

HOURS

8:30-5:00

Monday thru Friday

8:30-12 Noon

Saturday

The Complete Campus Book Center at U.V.M.

The University Store is one of several service facilities which are part of the Auxiliary Enterprises of the University, provided for its family of students, faculty and staff. It is owned and operated by the University with all its assets, obligations and policies under administrative control. Earnings are placed in the general budget of the University to help defray operational expenses.

Hours

The University Store is open Monday through Friday 8:30 to 5 and from 8:30 to 12 noon on Saturday. During the year we are open additional hours for such events as Evening Division Registration. During the summer we are open 8:00 to 4:30 and closed on Saturdays.

Purpose

The purpose of the University Store is to cooperate with the library, the laboratory and the classroom in giving you the best education possible: to provide you with the necessary tools for your present learning and the stimulation of your continued learning long after your school days are over. In addition, it makes available the college-rated items that will make your stay at Vermont more pleasant and enriching. Service — with a friendly smile — is the purpose — the aim — the objective of your University Store.

Services

The University Store is a self-service operation with up to nine checkouts to provide you with efficient service. We ask that you leave your notebooks, books and attaché cases in the bookdrop at the entrance or in the free coin-return lockers which are provided, before you enter the sales area. This habit will eliminate embarrassment for you and the cashier when you are ready to leave.

Special Orders

With a small deposit we will order any book in print not currently in our stock. We have available the latest copies of BOOKS IN PRINT, PAPERBOUND BOOKS IN PRINT and SUBJECT GUIDE TO BOOKS IN PRINT. If at any time you would like to look up information regarding price, publisher, title or author of any book published in the United States. Our special order service is also often used by fraternities and sororities for banquet favors and graduation gifts.

Film Processing

The University Store offers 24-hour film processing to round out a complete selection of films and flashbulbs.

Check Cashing

A check cashing service is available at the University Store through most of the hours the store is open. It provides 2 full-time employees who render this no-charge service. An I.D. card is required to cash a check. Freshmen may present their temporary I.D. until the permanent card is issued.

Xerox

A Xerox copy machine is available for student and faculty use. It is coin-operated at 10c per copy.

Magazine Subscription

A complete magazine subscription service is available, and on many magazines students receive special rates amounting to as much as 50% off the original price.

Wrapping Service

A wrapping service is provided. You may have any package wrapped to send home at no charge. Gift wraps are furnished on purchases of $5.00 or more. There is a small charge for gift wrapping purchases under $5.00.

Stamps and Post Cards

Postage stamps are available from the lobby stamp machine. Post cards are available at the cash registers at the end of each term at regular post office rates so that grades will be sent home.

Ticket Sales

The University Store offers for sale tickets to various campus functions and performances. We sell these tickets to assist various student groups to promote their fund raising drives. We receive no commissions on these sales and charge only the prices established by the sponsoring students.

Book Department

Textbooks

Our most important service is providing you with your "tools of the trade" — the textbooks you will need to complete your course work. We trust that you will come to know that these books which have been selected by the faculty are the carefully chosen tools of your profession which, with proper use, will open new fields of knowledge and understanding. Seeking an education without books is like trying to build a house without a hammer. Tools are vital to any worthwhile endeavor.

Bookrush Procedure

Our textbook department is set up for self-service with the books shelved by course in course number order. You will notice signs which indicate each major area such as English, History or Zoology. Under each of these are grouped the books by course number. Copies of the book list are readily available in the book section and, of course, the store staff is always available to assist you should you experience difficulty.

Shopping baskets are provided to assist you. Please keep your register receipt which the cashier gives you. This is your proof of payment and must be presented with any request for adjustment or refund.

Do not make any sort of marks, including your name, in the books which you purchase until you have attended class and are absolutely sure you have purchased the proper ones.

Textbook Prices

Because the prices for your elementary and high school textbooks were, in many cases, lost in the total tax dollar your parents paid, paying cash for textbooks will be a new experience for you. You will discover, as thousands of college students have discovered before you, that textbooks are expensive. They are expensive because they are costly to write, to publish, to ship and to sell; and because the evergrowing body of knowledge in our atomic and space age gives most textbooks a shortened period of usability. Nevertheless, your textbook investment will represent less than 3% of the total cost of your education, while the knowledge you will gain from their proper use will have a value that cannot be measured in dollars and cents. The prices you will pay are established by the textbook publishers and not the store. Students all over the nation are paying the same price that you are for these books.

Used Books

In order to stretch your textbook dollar we attempt to have available used copies of current texts whenever possible. We purchase these from University students and from used book companies. The University Store buys used books at one-half the current new book price and sells them for three-fourths. This is a standard bookstore policy across the country. Should the same used book be sold back to us a second time the student is still paid one-half the current new book price. Thus he has paid only 25% for the use of a required book. Representatives of used book companies are at the University Store three times each year. They will buy back the books being dropped from course use providing the book has market value. Their prices are current market prices which will average 20 to 25% of the new price. We will buy dropped books for them during the balance of the year at the same rate.

The initial purchase of a text from the University Store carries no re-sale guarantee, for no faculty member is committed to use a text for more than the semester it has been assigned. Therefore, we would urge you to make every effort to obtain your money's worth through studying your texts. Then the ability to sell (those you do not care to add to your library) will be an added dividend.

Non-Textbooks

You will find thousands of books in the University Store you will not be required to buy as textbooks, but which will, nevertheless, become a vital part of your education — if you let them. We readily admit we will encourage, tempt and entice you to discover (if you have not already done so) the wonderful world of books. We believe that every college student should devote considerable time, thought, and at least a portion of his or her allowance in acquiring a carefully-selected personal library. We invite you to begin the selection of your library from the wide choice of great and good books (in both cloth and paper bindings) you will find on our shelves.

Other Merchandise

You will find a great many other items in addition to books at the University Store. Notebooks and pencils, stationery and book-ends, toothpaste and shampoo, art supplies and greeting cards, desk pads and study lamps, pennants and pupes, and those indispensable Vermont sweatshirts and jackets.

for the whole year.

rent a refrigerator.

The perfect solution for late night snacks, study breaks, and even a whole meal... save money... no more vending machines to gobble up your funds... save time... it's right in your own room... rent one for the whole year for only pennies per day... even less... when cost is split with your roommate... approved by the university for in-room use... compact... lightweight... handsome walnut exterior has a beautiful furniture appearance... doubles as a table... quick freezing... can freeze up a new tray of large size ice cubes in only 45 minutes... holds over 36 cans of canned drinks... if unit fails call representative for immediate replacement... free pick up and delivery included in rental fee... limited supply — call now to reserve your unit today!

PEDAL STUFF JERSEYS
PEDAL STUFF SHORTS
PEDAL STUFF SHOES
PEDAL STUFF SLACKS
PEDAL STUFF GLOVES
PEDAL STUFF TRAINING SUITS

The Grasshopper

ONE OF EUROPE'S HIGHEST QUALITY

10-SPEED BICYCLES

NOW AVAILABLE

EXCLUSIVELY ON CAMPUS

$99.50

STOP IN TODAY FOR FULL DETAILS

tech hifi

The "Do you really think you can get through another grueling nine months of school without a stereo?" sale.....

Why a stereo?

Tech Hifi's great "Back to School Sale" and other reasons, for and against, having a stereo at school.

Reasons for:

1. It plays music. And music is great any time, at home in bed or on a Greyhound bus rolling down the Interstate.
2. It provides a physical and emotional release - a means of easing tension.
3. It is available to all, whatever their physical appearance or personality problems - the most democratic and egalitarian entertainment source.
4. It requires no other party. No reservations, no table settings - you don't even need furniture.
5. It is easily listened to standing up.
6. It is quick - no complicated and time consuming warming up is required and afterwards there is no need to pass a half hour or so in social amenities.

7. At Tech Hifi you'll always find quality sound at prices you can afford. And that's especially true during our great "Back to School Sale!"

Reasons against:

1. You've read those newspaper articles about how listening to too much loud music is bad for your ears.
2. You believe that Spartan living promotes good character.
3. You can listen to your neighbor's through the wall.
4. You have elevated your level of consciousness to such a high degree that you can recall in complete detail the music of your choice without the aid of artificial devices.
5. None of the above.

Why Tech Hifi?

- Because Tech Hifi, New England's largest dealer, has the buying power and selection to provide you with the music system that's best for you at a good price.
- Because Tech Hifi, started at MIT five years ago, has been the leader in finding better ways to give you more sound for less money.
- Because Tech Hifi, a group of audio enthusiasts with over $70,000 of their own hifi equipment, has a pretty good idea of the service policies which make owning a fine music system a continuing pleasure.

What you can expect:

- 1) Excellent Selection
We stock over 100 name brands of fine stereo equipment. Why settle for "almost" what you want?
- 2) Low Prices plus Price Protection
We try our best to give you the lowest prices in town, and our 30 day Price Protection Plan guarantees that we won't be under-sold - even by ourselves.
- 3) Convenient Comparison
Our specially designed display units allow you to listen to any two of our components in A vs. B listening tests, and our separate listening rooms allow you to hear equipment as it will sound in your living room - before you take it home.
- 4) Several Financing Plans and Layaways
We accept both Bank Americard and Master Charge, and several other credit arrangements with up to 5 year payments, as well as a convenient layaway plan.
- 5) Money Back Guarantee
Our money back guarantee means you can try your new unit in your own home without risk.
- 6) Free Speaker Trial
If you decide to improve your speakers within the first year, the entire purchase price of your speakers goes toward the new pair.
- 7) Over The Counter Exchange
You don't have to worry about getting a defective unit because we exchange defective units for up to 60 days from the purchase date.
- 8) 100% Trade-in
If you decide to improve your system within 90 days of purchase, we'll give you the full purchase price of that system towards a new one.
- 9) Five Year Warranty
For your peace of mind a Tech Hifi five year warranty is available on recommended systems.
- 10) Liberal Trade-in
Any time you feel like improving your system, whether you bought it from us or not, you'll find that we offer substantial trade-in credits toward a new system.

the STARTER

For the newcomer to stereo components TECH HIFI has put together a little system that will get him started, and get him started right. The Sansui 210 AM/FM stereo receiver will pull in all your favorite broadcasts and push them out through the Studiocrast 110 loudspeakers with 10 rms watts per channel of real power. The music will have no distortion, it'll be clear, and all the notes will sound as they should - real high fidelity at a very modest price. For a Turntable we recommend the BSR 310A/X with Shure cartridge. Its simplicity of design combined with smoothness and reliability make the 310A/X a real value. The manufacturer's suggested list price is $347.95, but you can get it now at Tech Hifi for a savings of over $98.

List $347.95

$ 249

the SOOTHER

What will you have to look forward to after twelve hours in the library trying to grind out a 30 page monster that should have been in three weeks ago? A cold walk home to a lonely room? Just the thing for those grim days ahead, we think, is this system that we like to call the Soother. Featured in it are the famous Smaller Advent loudspeakers, well-known for smoothness and accuracy of response throughout the audio spectrum unheard of before in speakers of this size and price range. So that the Smaller Advents can give you all that they should, we have included the Nikko 5010 AM/FM stereo receiver. Rated at 22 watts rms per channel into 8 ohms, this receiver comes from a company noted for its conservative performance specifications and what may very well be the most rigid quality control in the business. To complete this fine system may we recommend the BSR Macdonald 510A/X with Shure cartridge, synchronous motor, damped cueing and excellent reliability. This fine system would be an excellent buy at the manufacturer's suggested retail price of $473.95, but you can get it at Tech Hifi for a savings of $74.95.

List $473.95

$ 399

the LEASE BREAKER

A crabby landlord can make life well nigh impossible for the earnest scholar. May we offer, in this system, a solution that comes easier than most. The Studiocrast 440 floor-standing loudspeakers offer the most accurate reproduction of bass notes and can produce the highest level of acoustic power radiation of all the Studiocrast line. The two tweeters mounted in a wide dispersion array significantly enhance the spatial character of music and enlarge the listening area. To drive the 440's we offer the Sansui 1000x AM/FM Stereo receiver, with 28 watts rms per channel into 8 ohms, an excellent tuner section, and the outstanding quality and care of production one expects from any piece of equipment bearing the Sansui name. We have not stinted on the turntable either, the Dual 1214 with base and cover, from a company known the world over for precision and quality. To make the sound complete we offer also the Audiotechnica AT-11E, a new design from a company new to this country but one that is already known by those committed to quality sound reproduction. The resulting musical experience approaches the realism of the original live performance. The manufacturer's suggested retail price on this system weighs in at a hefty $899.30, but we are prepared to offer it to you at a savings of $300.30.

List $899.30

$ 599

SHURE

MEMOREX

ROYAL SOUND

LOTS A NIFTY RECORDS: 1.98

M91E Cartridge, List $49" $16.00

90 Minute Cartridge

$2.79

"HPA" Headphones List $29" $19.95

150 CHURCH ST.
BURLINGTON,

862-2638
V.T.

AUGUST 29, 1973

WEL

FIRS

VER

WELCO

has every need to or
LOW, LOW, C

Tools, tools and more tools ginable tool is attractively your convenience at Wood ber to always use the right job. It may save a great de tion and we'll save you som the tool.

• BULLETIN B

A f SECUR
Locks, H

10% off to-st valid on

Charge your purchase with yo

ALWAYS L

Woodbu friendly

WO

L U

King Str
OPEN A
7:30 AM
7:30 AM
7:30 AM

VERMONT CYNIC

AUGUST 29, 1973

SECTION 2

PAGE SEVENTEEN

WELCOME BACK!!

from the

FIRST OF ITS KIND

VERMONT CYNIC

WELCOME BACK ISSUE

ADVERTISING IN THE VERMONT CYNIC

To: Open letter to the students
From: Loren Wilson, Advertising Manager, Vermont Cynic

Today's editorial in the Vermont Cynic tells of changes to come in the Cynic's format. The advertising in the Cynic is also undergoing change at this time.

Starting with this issue the following changes have been implemented in the Cynic.

Last year, the student was able to put a classified ad in the paper at a reduced rate of $1.00.

It is now the policy of the advertising department that any full-time student at the University may put in a classified ad at no charge.

The only requirements are as follows:

1. The student must be a full-time student who pays Student Activity fees.
2. The classified ad can not run more than 25 words.
3. The classified ad can not be for a student's own personal business endeavors.
4. The classified ad must be typed or printed clearly on a 3 X 5 index card with full information so that the Cynic receives no inquiries about the ad.
5. The classified ad must be submitted by noon the Monday before the Thursday publication.

Part II

As noted in this issue, the cynic advertising staff will seek discounts for students. We will negotiate advertising rates and space in order to do this. We are well aware of how much the college student spends in the Burlington area during the course of the year (well over a $1,000 per student), therefore it is our aim to increase his/her buying power. We urge the student to read the Cynic and take note of special discounts or coupons and to help us with this effort by telling the merchant that you saw his ad in the Cynic. We urge you to help us with these new policies but remind you that we still reserve the right to decide what constitutes a free classified ad or discounted display ad.

In closing, as many outside, non-university or student run forms of media try to claim they own your buying power, we only remind you that the students of the University of Vermont own and publish the Vermont Cynic. We are a non-profit student newspaper. Help us work for you!!

Sincerely
Loren Wilson '74

For sale: 1964 Buick
Special good condition
- call 863-5744 and
make an offer.

Roommates needed: 1 or 2 to share house, own bedroom - call
863-5744

Introducing...

10% off with your UVM I.D. Good until Sept. 22, 1973

di's PLUM

1085 Sohier Road

Across from Aunt Sarah's

GO BACK TO SCHOOL WITH

adidas

14 styles of tennis, boating, basketball,
and running shoes.

Priced
from only...

$6.50
TO $21.95

People the world over have found adidas leather shoes to be exceptionally comfortable. Whether for very active sports or everyday casual leisure, there is a style just right for you. Find out why so many people wear adidas.

30 Church St.
Burlington
864-4735

BankAmericard
Master Charge

"Vermont's Quality Shoe Store"

MILLARD
FILLMORE
4 NO. WINOOSKI AVE

DRAFT BEER
AND SANDWICHES

OPEN 11:30 FOR LUNCH

WOODBURY
LUMBER

has everything a student may need to improve a room or apartment at
LOW, LOW, CASH and CARRY PRICES!

Tools, tools and more tools. Every imaginable tool is attractively displayed for your convenience at Woodbury. Remember to always use the right tool for the job. It may save a great deal of frustration and we'll save you some money on the tool.

Adjustable Shelving

Full stock of brackets and standards in 4 colors and 2 woodgrains in stock. We also have dry native pine and particle board shelving in stock any width to 11 1/2 inches, any length to 16 feet.

Buy your shelving and stain it yourself for less than half the price of regular finished shelving.

- PLYWOOD cut to order
- FRATERNITY PADDLES
- PEGBOARD
- CORK PANELS
- BULLETIN BOARDS • PAINTS • STAINS

A full line of quality
SECURITY EQUIPMENT

Locks, Hasps and much more

10% off to students with this ad, not valid on sale items or after Sept. 20, 1973

True Value
HARDWARE STORES

Charge your purchase with your BankAmericard and Master Charge Card
ALWAYS LOW, LOW CASH & CARRY PRICES

Woodbury is always ready with friendly service and free advice for students!

WOODBURY
LUMBER

King Street, at the dock - Burlington
OPEN AND READY TO SERVE YOU

7:30 AM till 5:30 PM Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday
7:30 AM till 9:00 PM Thursday and Friday
7:30 AM till 5:00 PM Saturday

What to wear on Sunday when you won't be home till Monday.

magrams

From Burlington's "Now" Store
The "Way IN" and six other jam-packed floors for you, your friend, and your pad.
DOWNTOWN BURLINGTON

found in Cynic photo files credit unknown

Ski Rack

THE DOWNTOWN SHOP WITH SERVICE

THE BEST BUYS
AND WIDE SELECTION

DOWNHILL SKIIS

K2
ATOMIC
DYNAMIC
CABER
SIDERAL
NORDICA

TEN SPEED BIKES

ATALA
PEUGEOT
WHITCOMB
HERNEHILL
REYNOLDS
ZEUS
RALEIGH

CROSS-COUNTRY SKIIS

JARUINEN
BONNA
NORGE VILLON
ATOMIC
FISHER
JETTE

LOCATED OFF COLLEGE ST.
ONE BLOCK EAST OF CHURCH ST.

Ski Rack

15 CENTER ST

DOWNTOWN

OPEN WED & FRIDAY TILL 9:00

658-3313

HO HUM Another major breakthrough

Oh No! Not Again! Yes it seems that every year someone "re-invents" one of the discarded speaker designs of the past. Or they purport to modify the laws of physics by miniaturizing a 32-foot wavelength. They may even write a "technical" article on their revolutionary discovery and succeed in getting it published.

We customarily make an optimistic estimate that these speakers will survive five years. Some make it. Some even get re-invented all over again after a subsequent five years. In the meantime they sell. Because they sound different. Different from all other speakers. Different from the live performance.

We'd sort of miss them if they failed to show up. After all, what would spring be without a new major breakthrough? And would it really be fall without the letter edged in black? Pity!

So—aren't you glad you own KLIPSCHORNS?

Paul
Paul W. Klipsch
Klipsch and Associates, Inc.
P.O. Box 210
Hope, Arkansas 71801

P.S. We have a list of over 20 major breakthroughs that have appeared, died and were interred. Your Klipsch dealer will be glad to show it to you. We know some more good prospects for this list. You can't see those names—until next year.

KLIPSCH
Audio Den
12 No. Winoski
Please send me complete information on Klipsch speakers and Klipsch Wide Stage Stereo. Also include the name of my nearest Klipsch Authorized Audio Expert.
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____

audio den

12 No. Winoski Ave. Burlington & 50% Main St. Middlebury

AUGUST 29, 1973

LA RAD

How

Buying hi-fi today
hundreds of turntable
You just can't compare distortion, signal to to listen. Then once down a considerable
the best thing.

Well, we at Lafayette this. No one should helpless. Because when you feel comfortable about.

Stop By For Free TH

Record

When comparing and strength of their catalog items deserve the greatest
b) Signal-to-noise ratio. c)
d) Tone-arm tracking error cartridge). f) Tracking separation. h) Output vol
j) Load impedance.

Stereo

Compared to a turn mechanical device, a turn greater difficulties to the receivers, ask about the Signal-to-noise ratio. c)
e) Image rejection. f) Sp
g) AM suppression. h)
Output level.

C-90 $2

90 MINUTE

The "Be

CRITERION

JVC 55

ste

BSR 31

SHURE

These components

OUR SPECIAL SYSTEM

LAFAYETTE[®]

RADIO ELECTRONICS

Associate Stores
of
IES Inc.

370 SHELburne RD., BURLINGTON, VT.

Burlington
Barre-Montpelier

How to Select the Best Music System For YOU

Buying hi-fi today can be a bit bewildering. There are literally hundreds of turntables, receivers and loudspeakers to choose from. You just can't compare prices. You have to compare things like distortion, signal to noise ratios, RMS power ratings, and you have to listen. Then once you're thoroughly confused you have to lay down a considerable chunk of money and go home hoping you did the best thing.

Well, we at Lafayette Radio want to take the mystery out of all this. No one should have to walk around a hi-fi shop feeling helpless. Because when it comes to hi-fi, our business is to make you feel comfortable, by helping you understand what it's all about.

The majority of quality component purchasers find $200 to $600 the "right" amount to spend. Below $200, unless the system is designed for an extremely small room (like a car), which isn't high fidelity. High fidelity means "sounds like the real thing." Between $200 and $600, systems appropriate for small to large rooms and with less or more deep bass can be chosen according to your room needs and the type of music you like to listen to. Above $600, music systems are usually chosen by enthusiasts that are especially demanding and whose very flexible budget allows them their particular perfection.

Of course, the best way for us to answer your questions about hi-fi is to answer them in person.

So anytime something's bothering you, feel free to pick our brains. Just stop in at any Lafayette Radio or give us a call. You don't have to buy a thing. Our philosophy of giving people all the information they want has made us a success in the Burlington Area. Since we have the best service, merchandise and prices around, the more you know about hi-fi, the better it is for both of us.

Stop By For Free "How To Clean, Maintain And Protect Records" Booklet

FREE PARKING FREE PARKING

Record Player

When comparing and evaluating turntables on the strength of their catalog specifications, the following items deserve the greatest attention: a) Wow & flutter. b) Signal-to-noise ratio. c) Weight of turntable platter. d) Tone-arm tracking error. e) Compliance (of the cartridge). f) Tracking force. g) Stereo channel separation. h) Output voltage. i) Frequency response. j) Load impedance.

Stereo Receiver

Compared to a turntable which is chiefly a mechanical device, a tuner's spec sheet presents much greater difficulties to the layman. When looking at receivers, ask about the following: a) Sensitivity. b) Signal-to-noise ratio. c) Capture ratio. d) Selectivity. e) Image rejection. f) Spurious response or rejection. g) AM suppression. h) FM stereo separation. i) Output level.

Speakers

Loudspeakers in a hi-fi system are somehow like the last pages of a novel. The plot generally thickens as the parts of the puzzle fall into place, and from them emerges the solution and the revelation of the writer's intent. But, as in some stories, loudspeakers are not always a happy end, sometimes leaving questions unanswered, wishes unfulfilled.

The choice of speaker systems becomes rather tricky because the manufacturer's specifications say very little about the character of the sound. The ideal speaker, of course, would reproduce the entire sound range without arbitrarily adding or subtracting anything, but such a loudspeaker has never and may never be designed — all speakers have some individual habits and idiosyncrasies which are called "coloration" or "transparency" or other such abstract words. When purchasing speaker systems, the specifications should be used to determine the general size, type and power range, but the final choice must be made either after comparative listening tests, preferably with one's own amplifier and in one's own listening room or, if that is impractical, by trusting a well-reputed manufacturer.

HEAD PHONES

Pioneer SE50
List $49.95
NOW $29.95

Superex Sw1
List $24.95
NOW $15.95

Free Parking

Mura Open Air
List $12.95
NOW $9.95

Coupon

KOSS HEADPHONES

pro4AA

$36

with coupon
Expires
Sat. Sept. 8, 1973

Coupon

PICKERING CARTRIDGE

$7.00
with coupon
Pac
Reg. $17.95

LAFAYETTE

GUARANTEES SATISFACTION

30-Day Money-Back Guarantee

We guarantee you can return any stereo unit you buy at Lafayette within 30 days of purchase for any reason, for a full refund. Merchandise must be in original carton, like new condition, with your sales receipt.

60-Day Exchange Guarantee

We guarantee you can exchange any stereo unit you buy at Lafayette within 60 days of purchase for any reason, for an item of equal or higher price simply by paying the difference, if any. Merchandise must be in original carton, like new condition, with your sales receipt.

3-Year Lafayette Hi-Fi Guarantee

Three-year repair guarantee against defects in material and workmanship on all Lafayette amplifiers, tuners and receivers. Merchandise must be accompanied by your sales receipt.

5-Year Criterion Speaker Guarantee

Five-year repair guarantee against defects in material and workmanship on all Criterion speakers. Merchandise must be accompanied by your sales receipt.

During the sale period of any ad, should an item be sold out, we will get it for you as quickly as possible at the advertised price (items shown as "limited quantity" excepted).

Phone 658-4616

OPEN TIL - 9 PM MON. THRU FRI., SAT. TILL 6 PM

C-90 $2.00 each or 3 for $5.99

90 MINUTES PLAYING/RECORDING TIME

The "Begoia" Music System

JVC

CRITERION 50A SPEAKERS
JVC 5501 16-WATT RMS
stereo receiver
BSR 310X TURNTABLE
SHURE M75 CARTRIDGE

These components purchased separately cost $330
OUR SPECIAL SYSTEM PRICE $240

The "Contemporary" Music System

If you are shopping around for your first component music system, you want to purchase a system with which you won't be dissatisfied in a year — a system which will reproduce the lowest bass and the highest harmonics, and not leave you wanting. We at Lafayette Radio have such a system, with a big compromise on the price, but with none on the sound quality.

The system is based around the Interaudio 4000 loudspeakers. They are meant to be compared directly in every aspect of performance, including frequency response, to the most expensive and elaborate speakers available, and they sound clearly and dramatically better than many far more expensive systems. Countless owners and usually-bias equipment reviewers have all commented that they sound like twice the price.

To power the Interaudio 4000 we recommend the Sherwood S7200 amplifier; it can produce 40 watts RMS per channel with exceptionally low distortion. (RMS is the most rigorous and least flashy measure of power.) The Sherwood S7200 will fully realize the fine low-bass capabilities of the Interaudio 4000.

We include a Miracord 880 automatic turntable with base and Audio Technica AT11E magnetic cartridge with a diamond stylus. Tracking is less than 2 grams, this combination will take good care of your records; you will get the same undistorted sound on the forty-seventh playing as you did on the first.

The total price of this system is $946.20, but we at Lafayette Radio are offering it for only $690.00, with our full 3 years parts and labor guarantee. This is a system which will satisfy both an ear for music and a head for value. The music lover who has not had much experience with audio components as well as the seasoned audiophile will appreciate the uncompromising value of this system.

Our Sherwood, Miracord 880, Interaudio 4000 system

$690.00

ADVENT Chromium Dioxide tape in cassettes

at Special LOW Prices

And, with the 202, your worry about record breakage and wear are over. Cassettes last indefinitely. And there's a large selection of pre-recorded cassettes available to enjoy. All types of music. Many (over 400) are Dolbyized and have extraordinary sound quality! Storage and handling problems are far simpler, too with cassettes.

	LIST	OUR PRICE
C'60	$2.99	$2.25
C'90	$3.74	$2.99
C'120	$4.99	$4.00

OPTIONAL STORAGE ALBUM FREE WITH EACH PURCHASE OF SIX CASSETTES

FREE TUBE TESTING

Sherwood

The "TAKE-ME'HOMe" Music System

Interaudio 3000 SPEAKERS
Sherwood S7100A 54 Watts
RMS Stereo Receiver
BSR 510X TURNTABLE
SHURE M75 EC-CARTRIDGE

These components purchased separately cost $504.00
OUR SPECIAL SYSTEM PRICE $380.00

back to school

with an imaginative bag of right-on things for guys and chicks. what more could you want? we have that too!

featuring
Jeans + Slacks
by...

LEE METRO
LANDLUBBER
TOPS IN...
CHAMBRAY FLANNEL
KNITS
INDIA IMPORTS

JEANS
NORTH

Downtown Burlington - Rutland
Montpelier - Lake George

The CYNIC welcomes you back to long registration lines , overcrowding in the dorms and a CYNIC to read while things get straightened out .

THE LAST CHANCE

A NIGHTSPOT
OPEN NOW

ALL LEGAL BEVERAGE

OLD TIME MOVIES

NO COVER CHARGE

OPEN AT 7pm
7 DAYS A WEEK

47 MAIN ST.

COLLEGE STUDENTS PREFER

ThriftyCheck

TO KEEP
COLLEGE EXPENSES
IN LINE

Checkbook
Covers
Embossed with UVM
Seal

More than just a Bank!

Chittenden

TRUST COMPANY

Across from the Campus

navy INFORMATION TEAM WILL BE ON CAMPUS
SEPTEMBER 13 & 14

FREE PILOT VISION EXAM

DEMONSTRATION FLIGHT FOR QUALIFIED APPLICANTS IN NAVY'S T-4 AEROBATIC TRAINER

FLY NAVY

FOR MORE INFO SEND TO:

Lt. Dick Prutsman
111 Washington Ave.
Albany, N.Y. 12210

Please send information ☐
I would like a vision test ☐

Remarks

Name

Address

INDIAN
AND ASSORT

WELCOME STUDENTS

What do you do with a SUPER JACK?

Send it to a friend... take it out for dinner... give one to your old lady... file it under "S"... or be practical and make a meal of it all by yourself. LUMS Superjack... just for the ravenous... mountains of hot roast beef, imported ham, pastrami and melted cheese served on a toasted bun. Get one today.

LUMS

FAMILY RESTAURANTS

WILLISTON ROAD... TOWARDS THE AIRPORT

Mobil

SPILLANE'S

SERVICENTER

811 WILLISTON ROAD

Towing Service

Complete Repair Service

Alignment Machine

Complete Travel Information

OPEN 24 HOURS

ON WEEKENDS

863 2896

JUST DOWN THE HILL NEAR GAYNES

Charlestown MILL STORE

"Sweaters at Factory Prices"

MEN'S CREW NECK
SWEATERS - $6.99
SOLD ELSEWHERE
FOR $10
ASSORTED COLORS
AND FABRICS
SIZES S-M-L-XL

THE HOME OF 20,000
SWEATERS PLUS A COMPLETE LINE OF
L A D I E S
SPORTSWEAR AT FACTORY LOW PRICES

LADIES JEANS
MANY COLORS
ONLY $1.99

MEN'S FAMOUS
NAME SLACKS AND
JEANS $3.99 &
$4.99 PRE-TIC-
KETS $10 - $13.50
SIZES 29-40
SLIGHTLY IRREGULAR

LADIES SIZE 34-40
INDIAN PRINT JERSEYS
IMPORTED - NOW
AT $1.99 EACH
REG. $3.50 VALUE

CAPIES - LADIES
SLIGHTLY
IRREGULAR - $3.99
- IF PERFECT
VALUES TO $12.99

IMPORTED INDIAN
BEDSPREADS -
MANY COLORS &
PATTERNS -
STARTING AT $5.00

BLOUSES - FAMOUS
NAME - $4.99 EACH
- SIZES S-M-L -
PRE-TICKETED AT $10 EA

BOYS OR GIRLS
DOUBLE KNEE
SLACKS - $1.99
EACH - VALUES TO
$3.99 - SIZES 3-6X

LADIES JEANS AND
SLACKS - $3.99 &
$4.99 - SLIGHTLY
IRREGULAR

65 MAIN ST. OPEN 9 TO 9, MON. THROUGH FRI. 9 TO 5, SAT.

PHONE 862-1849

The COMPANY STORE

177 CHURCH STREET
BURLINGTON, VERMONT 05401
802/864-7379

INDIAN STUFF • SHOES • LEVIS • DRESSES •
AND ASSORTED ITEMS TO WASTE YOUR MONEY ON

DON'T FORGET OUR LEATHER GOODIES!

THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT
OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF WOMEN

September, 1973

To: Students, Faculty, Department Chairmen, Administrative Staff

From: Jackie M. Gribbons, Dean of Women

Re: Nominations for "Who's Who..."

As in the past, the University of Vermont will be eligible to submit a quota of 35 nominations of senior students to be recognized by "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities". As coordinator of a nominating committee comprised of faculty, students and staff, I am enlisting the assistance of members of the University community who are most knowledgeable of our students and their positive involvement and contribution. We would therefore be eager to receive recommendations of any men or women students who are currently seniors and who you feel meet the following qualifications:

1. Above average academic performance
2. Participation and leadership in academic activities
3. Participation and leadership in extra class activities
4. Positive contribution
5. Service to the University
6. Promise of future contribution

Because our nominations must be received by the national office by September 30, please forward your recommendations by Wednesday, September 12, 1973, by 12:00 noon. Please return the enclosed recommendation form for this purpose. My sincere appreciation for your assistance.

THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT
OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF WOMEN

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR "WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES"

I wish to recommend the following students for consideration of the nominating committee for "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities".

NAME:
QUALIFICATIONS:

NAME:
QUALIFICATIONS:

NAME:
QUALIFICATIONS:

NAME:
QUALIFICATIONS:

Signed

Department or Organization

University Address

NOTE: Recommendations must be received by no later than Wednesday, September 12, 1973, by 12:00 noon.

To: Miss Jackie M. Gribbons
Dean of Women
330 Waterman Building

FISH NETTING • PAPER LAMP SHADES • EXCLUSIVE SECTION OF HAND THROWN POTTERY BY NATIONALLY KNOWN POTTERS •

MUGS • MOBILES • INDIA PRINT SPREADS • BEADED CURTAINS • STAINED GLASS • CANDLES •

LARGEST SECTION OF HAND CRAFTED JEWELRY • VASES • PLANTERS •

SEMI PRECIOUS STONES • GLASS, STONE & WOOD BEADS •

IMPORTED COFFEE BEANS, TEAS & HERBS • DRY FLOWERS OF ALL TYPES • OVER 100 VARIETIES OF OILS & ESSENCE • IMPORTED SOAPS •

A world of intriguing objects from far away places and intricate creations from our foremost native craftsmen. Pleasant aromas, exciting designs, bountiful colors and an atmosphere designed to stimulate your imagination await you in one of Vermont's most exciting shops. Owned and operated by a native craftsman, Serendipity has become a local favorite and an attraction to visitors. Come, enjoy some time with us!

SILVER AND GOLD JEWELRY
DESIGNED AND CREATED IN
OUR SHOP BY OWNER
DICK BRUNELLE

EXCITING NEW CREATIONS ARRIVE DAILY AT BURLINGTON

Imports From

Israel
Poland
Italy
Ireland
Austria
Thailand
Bangladesh
Pakistan
Iran
Japan
China
Korea
India
Taiwan
Philippines
Turkey
Greece
Mexico
Haiti
Bolivia
Argentina
Paraguay
Ecuador
Peru
Guatemala
England
France
Spain
Portugal
Sweden
Denmark
Switzerland
Germany
Norway
Romania
Hungary
Czechoslovakia
Russia
Morocco
Australia
Canada

Serendipity

206 COLLEGE ST
DOWNTOWN BURLINGTON

'WHERE FINE CRAFTSMEN EXPRESS THEMSELVES'

VOLUME XC

Senate Hopes

by Barbara Frankel

Last Friday afternoon the Student Association President Sig Heller called a meeting of the Coordinating Committee to discuss the problem of Senate elections. By general consensus the committee decided to meet Friday, September 21, as a deadline for dormitory sororities and fraternities to submit the name of their representative. On the same day, voting booths will be set up in Billings Center and Bailey Library for election of town senators.

The first Student Association Senate meeting

Admission But UV

by Jim Bradley

Everybody knows there's an overcrowding situation at this fall. Those who stood in the cash register line for an hour at the bookstore know it. Those who study in the library know it. The transfer and readmission students who were told by the university couldn't provide them with any housing know it.

New Student Stresses

by Bruce Maddern

In a recent interview with the Cynic, Bill Root, director of Student Activities, discussed plans and a general outline for the S.A. Among more important topics were ideas for a more effective governing body for the S.A. and new uses and expansion for Billings Center.

In discussing the Student Association, Root stated that last year was frustrating, particularly for the Senate. He hopes that this year's Senate will question what happened last year by starting with a strong base of cooperative leadership. He stressed the importance of elections this year in creating a responsive and effective Senate. In addition to these reasons, Root commented that freshmen orientation, where students expressed deep interest in student government and many other student activities, but that by the fall came, interest was almost lost. Along with student involvement and responsibility, Root would like to be more involved with the Senate in trying to help curb the problems mentioned.

Censorship Declared

WASHINGTON

Articles for a school newspaper cannot be constitutionally screened by use of a Club test, a former Journalism teacher is in a $118,500 damages suit pending in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles.

Don Patrick Nicholson, living in Seattle, Wash., filed the suit against the Torrance (Calif.) School District where he was a journalism and English teacher before dismissal in July. The National Education Association is Nicholson's legal counsel through its Emergency Fund. In the case of court cases each year, 14 million members provides assistance to in the defense of the human rights.

Nicholson is seeking reinstatement as reparation, which includes back pay. The suit is to be heard late this year. Defendants include

In this

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XXI

SEPTEMBER 13, 1973

NUMBER 15

Senate Off To Slow Start ; Hopes Vary For S.A.'s Future

by Barbara Frankel

Last Friday afternoon, Student Association President Sig Heller called a meeting of the Coordinating Committee to discuss the problem of S.A. senatorial elections. By a general consensus, the committee decided to make Friday, September 21, the deadline for dormitories, fraternities and fraternities to submit the name of their S.A. representative. On the same day, voting booths will be set up in Billings Center and in Bailey Library for elections of town senators.

The first Student Association Senate meeting is scheduled for Tuesday evening, September 25. Heller seemed to feel a meeting of the current Senate would be useless due to the lack of Senators living in the same residence halls. Jim Sloman, last year's controversial Senate Chairperson, was supposed to retain his post until the Senate elected a new chairperson this October. Sloman, however, chose to resign last spring. There was some recent controversy as to whether or not this decision was binding. Sloman recently assured the Cynic that he has definitely resigned. Heller stated his belief that although a chairperson is necessary to run meetings, parliamentary procedure can only be really effective if all the participants are familiar with the rules.

The Coordinating Committee, which Heller would like to expand and utilize more, consists of Heller, Mary Ashcroft, President of the Inter-Residence Association (IRA), Nancy Danielson, President of Pan-Hell and Eric French, Fraternity Forum President.

Last year's Senate, plagued by fighting between dissenting factions, was condemned by many students as "ineffective" and "worthless." A few returning S.A. senators voiced the hope that this year's Senate would be less apathetic and more unified. The Student Association is under new leadership, as Sig Heller, beginning his year as president and Bill Root has replaced Karen Wedge as Director of Student Activities. In the words of one former senator, "We can only wait and see..."

Photo: Wynn Gold

Admissions Office Did Not Err! But UVM Dorms Still Overcrowded

by Jim Bradley

Everybody knows there's an overcrowding situation at UVM this fall. Those who stood in a cash register line for an hour at the bookstore know it. Those who study in the library know it. The transfer and re-admitted students who were told the university couldn't provide them with any housing know it.

They've found out when they can't find a suitable place to live off campus either. Some of them have had to turn down their acceptance to UVM as a result. The unfortunate freshmen and there are some 250 of them who are being housed in lounges or squeezed three into a double room may know it best of all. And the administration people who are being resented as the cause of the situation know it, too. They are being deluged with work and with complaints about a situation which they feel has always been beyond their control, and for which they feel they are not to blame.

Everybody knows there's an overcrowding situation here this fall, but few people seem to know exactly what has caused it. Some have blamed it on an increase in the number of new students, freshmen and transfers. Being admitted this fall, others have blamed it on an abnormally high percentage of returning upper classmen and readmitted students, while others have claimed that there really aren't too many students on campus this fall, but an abnormally high percentage of them have wanted to live in dormitories. In reality these factors have all contributed to the situation. The facts are these:

(1) Approximately 250 more new students - freshmen and transfers - were admitted this year than last. This was expected to increase the total undergraduate enrollment for this year to 7,100, up from last year's 6,800 total.

Contrary to some opinion, the Admissions Office, headed by Dr. Richard Steele, did not

(continued on page nine)

SAGA Caught In Meat Squeeze; No Improvement Anticipated

by Fred Doten

Beef prices have affected the living patterns of many people this past summer. In poor sections of the country, citizens whose incomes cannot keep a steady meat supply on the table have to go without, and substitute. Less dramatic, and closer to home, shoppers in the Burlington area face the meat freezers in supermarkets, shake their heads, and dazedly remember when prices were somewhat approachable, not too long ago. But perhaps the most relevant to students living on campus is how the prices will affect the food service.

Robert Stetson, the food service director on campus, discussed the problem. He saw part of the shortage as due to the export system, there is no freeze on exported beef, so farmers turn to foreign countries to sell beef, pork, poultry, eggs, and feed grains. Also many of the midwestern suppliers, who distribute to many Burlington area wholesalers, and who in turn distribute to SAGA and other area buyers, have closed off their beef in an attempt to force off the beef price ceiling. The food service is caught in a squeeze. The rate paid by the board in students' contracts was set at the last board raise to cover a 4% increase; prices at present have gone up 22%, according to Mr. Stetson. He doesn't feel the students want or can cover the rise in board that should cover this increase - an expected $140 per person. Along with the rise in prices for the food that SAGA must buy, there has been a proposed raise in the minimum wage, meaning that the employees may have to be paid more with the same fixed amount of money.

The result of this squeeze is that the menu that SAGA will offer this fall will change. Meat will be spread out over the week, said Mr. Stetson. Instead of 2 or 3 choices of meat-containing entrees at one meal, there may be only one. There will be no meatless days, Mr. Stetson hastened to say, but the number of choices at one meal with meat will go down. Also some of the entrees that used to be just a lunch choice, like pizza, will be moved up to a dinner choice. The beef and pork will be spread out more over the week in order to reduce the amount bought, and other entrees that have been popular with the students will be given more importance.

When the freeze goes off in September, Mr. Stetson said he expects the price of meat to rise by 40% until the supply and demand balance. Then the price of beef, along with pork, poultry, should drop back down.

In conclusion, Mr. Stetson, stated his confidence that the students of the University would understand the problems faced by the food service, as they are alert to the situation around them.

New Student Activities Director Stresses Needed For Effective Senate

by Bruce Madden

In a recent interview with the Cynic, Bill Root, new director of Student Activities discussed plans and a general outline for the S.A. Among the more important topics were ideas for a more effective governing body for the S.A. and new uses and expansions for Billings Center.

In discussing the Student Association, Root stated that last year was frustrating, in particular for the Senate. He hopes that this year's Senate will question what happened last year by starting with a strong base of cooperative leadership. He stressed the importance of elections this year in creating a responsible and effective Senate. In addition to these reasons he stressed freshmen involvement. Root commented that at freshmen orientation, many students expressed definite interest in student government and many other student activities, but that by the time fall came, interest was all but lost. Along with student involvement and responsibility, Root would like to become more involved with the Senate in trying to help curb the problems mentioned.

Bill Root SPS Photo: Greg Bobbin

In talking about Billings

Center, he stated that much more could be programmed into the cultural and social aspects. Additionally, Root studying is an important aspect of Billings but that it is by far not the only one. He

(continued on page fourteen)

S.A. Concert Bureau Unsure Of Plans ; Seek Student Support And Cooperation

by Lissa Charles

In addition to the various academic and cultural events planned for the fall semester, UVM will again offer a tentative schedule of rock concerts to appear on campus. Unfortunately, the schedule was not complete, not confirmed when the Cynic contacted the chairman of the S.A. Concert Bureau, Chip Towers.

Although Chip could not specify or promote a definite schedule of concerts for this semester, he did offer valuable information concerning the attitude and policy of the S.A. Concert Bureau. "Too many people understand the mechanics of organizing and booking a concert," Chip stated. "This is one of reasons why I plan to have an open meeting with students, sometime this month, in order to explain the position of the concert bureau."

During this meeting, Chip intends to discuss state regulations, security, student support and attendance, selection of performers, and any other comments, suggestions or criticisms from the students.

"Our main concern is to please the student body with enjoyable entertainment,"

Chip explained. "But the majority of students think that the bureau neglects the opinions or requests submitted to us."

This misunderstanding is, of course, a result of the aggravation and inconvenience on the part of the students before and during the UVM concerts. Due to certain contracts and/or state regulations, which most students are not aware of, the doors to the auditorium must remain closed until a particular hour (charts must be used) and smoking restrictions must be obeyed.

The bureau elects contracts various rock groups according to student request, availability of performers, convenient scheduling, and financial appropriations.

"Most students complain that they should receive some kind of discount on ticket prices, or that the groups that they want to hear are never booked at UVM," Chip reported. "But these people do not understand the process, or difficulty in securing a well known performer."

Consequently, Chip would like to explain these operations to all students wishing to attend the meeting which will occur later in the month. The concert bureau feels very strongly about student opinion and constructive criticism, but cannot function properly without student support and cooperation.

It has been suggested during various SA meetings that rock concerts should be cut entirely from student activities, since they create so many complaints and complications. Chip commented, "But as long as the students want these concerts, the bureau will continue to work hard at scheduling the best performers we can book," he finished.

Last year the bureau booked Chicago, Loggins and Messina, (continued on page fifteen)

Green Mountain Country Banjo Festival will be held on September 14 at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Auditorium.

Censoring Of College Press Declared Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Articles for a school newspaper cannot constitutionally be screened by use of a Rotary Club test, a former California journalism teacher is charging in a $118,500 damage suit, pending in U.S. District Court, Los Angeles.

Don Patrick Nicholson, now living in Seattle, Washington, filed the suit against the Torrance (Calif.) Unified School District where he was a journalism and English teacher before dismissal in June, 1970. The National Education Association is providing Nicholson legal support through its DuShane Emergency Fund. In hundreds of court cases each year, the 3.4 million-member NEA provides assistance to teachers in the defense of their civil and human rights.

Nicholson is asking for reinstatement as well as separation, which includes back pay. The suit is expected to be heard late this summer. Defendants include former

Supt. J. H. Hull, Carl Ahee, former principal of Torrance High School, and the school board of Torrance, which is in Los Angeles County.

Nicholson, who was advisor to The Torrance News Torch, charges in the suit filed June 21 that his rights under the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution were violated by his having to submit the student articles to Ahee for approval.

Ahee employed the four-point ethics test that the International Rotary Club demands of its members, the suit explains. If Ahee believed the articles by students failed to qualify under that test, they were not published, the brief indicates. Elements of the Rotary test are: Is it the truth? Is it fair to all concerned? Will it build good will and better relationships? Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

The student newspaper adviser was charged with insubordination after he printed, on several occasions, articles he had not cleared with Ahee. In doing this Nicholson asserted he was defending freedom of the student press, which he alleged was being infringed upon by the principal.

Among the student articles which the journalism teacher refused to submit for advance approval was a series examining the problems of Chicano living in Torrance's Pueblo. An article reporting a survey of police-student relationships (which Nicholson was ordered to prohibit students from conducting) was also printed with Ahee's approval.

The Rotary test is a splendid guide for business relationships but an impossible guide for press freedom, Nicholson's attorney, Roy Lucas, emphasized. He is a Rotarian and former Rotary Foundation Fellow.

"If the four-way Rotary test had been applied to the Watergate, news of the first

(continued on page fourteen)

In this week's Cynic :

First of a series on Department Chairmen—p.15
"The Good Times"—p.11

Table of Contents

Arts and Entertainment.....	p.6	Cryptoquots.....	p.3	Editorial.....	p.4
Calendar/Announcements.....	p.2	Doctor's Bag.....	p.7	Sports.....	p.12

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Placement Office To Host Grad Schools

The Career Planning and Placement Office will be hosting representatives from the following graduate schools: New York University Graduate School of Business Administration, November 2, 1973; Syracuse University School of Management, December 6, 1973.

Sign up now in the Career Planning and Placement Office, 1st floor, Mansfield House for these interviews.

Below are listed the hours Billings Center will be open this fall. They have been expanded over last year's hours in the hopes that the students will find this advantageous. There will be desk clerks on duty at the Student Activities Office at all hours listed with the exception of the first half hour each weekday morning. Also listed are the hours the Den will be open this fall.

Billings Center		7-10 am	11-30 pm
Monday	Friday	9-10 am	11-10 pm
Saturday		Noon	11-30 pm
Sunday

The Den		7-10 am	10-30 pm
Monday	Thursday	7-10 am	10-30 pm
Friday		7-10 am	3-10 pm
Saturday			Closed
Sunday		3-10 pm	10-30 pm

*Open Friday evenings if the Round House is open

NOTE: If there is a lack of interest in the extra hours they will have to cut back to last year's hours.

Forbush Pool Opens

The Forbush Pool opened for classes on September 10. Varsity team practice for men and women following the regular class schedule keep the pool occupied until 8:30 p.m. during the week. The recreational hours are as follows:

Student Recreation
Monday through Friday
10-10:30 p.m.
Saturday 1:00-5:00 p.m.
and 7:30-10:30 p.m.

Faculty and Staff
Monday through Friday
10-11:00 p.m.
Friday 7:00-8:00 p.m. for children under 15 accompanied by faculty or staff member
8:00-10:30 p.m.
Faculty Staff
Closed all day Sunday.

Military Officers On Campus

Representatives from the Navy Recruiting Office will be in Billings Center Thursday and Friday, September 13 and 14. A representative from the Dept. of the Army Medical Specialist Corps will be in the Placement Office to interview interested students in the Army Medical and Physical Therapy Programs on September 20. Interested students should call up now for an interview.

On September 16 and 17, a U.S. Marine Information Team will be in Billings Center to talk with interested students.

Drop Day Is Sept. 25

The last day to drop a course without penalty in the College of Arts and Sciences is September 25. In the past, students were allowed five weeks to drop a course, but last spring, the Faculty Senate passed a motion making it three weeks. Any student who voluntarily drops a course after that gets a failing grade of WF.

The last day to add a course was September 11. This was also the last day to submit an option to take a course pass/fail.

English Majors Meeting

There will be an important meeting for all English majors on Tuesday, September 18, at 4:30 p.m. in Dewey Memorial Lounge, 2nd floor Old Mill.

SA Needs

Organizational Info

In order for the Student Association Office to maintain an up-to-date file of all S.A. Organizations, it is essential that they be given all important information concerning the election of new officers, including their addresses and telephone numbers. This information is needed as soon as possible.

Schultz Assumes National Office

Dr. Herbert L. Schultz, associate professor of music at the University of Vermont, Burlington, has assumed office as 1973-1975 president of the Eastern Division of the Music Educators' National Conference, a 62,000-member organization representing men and women engaged in teaching music in schools, colleges and universities.

As of July 1, 1973, Dr. Schultz is serving as a member of the MENC National Executive Board which determines policies and programs for the organization.

Dr. Schultz will be responsible for the biennial convention of the Eastern Division, scheduled for May 25-26, 1975 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

The Eastern Division, one of six in the MENC organization, comprises over 16,000 members in the following states: Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, and the District of Columbia.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13

Receiving days begin and continue through Saturday, Sept. 15, for "Vermont '73: A Juried Exhibition of Work by Vermont Artists." Further information, entry blanks, etc. are available by contacting the Fleming Museum. Hours all three days are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

2 p.m., Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Arena Theatre; box office 656-2094.

4 p.m., auditions for the UVM Women's Chorus and the UVM Madrigal Singers, Room 107, Music Building.

8 p.m., Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "Romeo and Juliet" at the Arena Theatre; box office 656-2094.

8 p.m., Fleming Museum presents "FILMS: THE ART OF SEEING," with titles including "The Art of Seeing," "Light," "Space," "Color," "Movement," "Shape," "Abstraction," "Figures," and "Same Subject/Different Treatment." Place is Johnson Auditorium, Votey Building; admission free.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14

Last day to add Evening Division courses on campus.

8 p.m., Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "Richard III" at the Arena Theatre; box office 656-2094.

8 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick Building on the Redstone Campus for a special "Newcomers Program." Free! Attend if you're interested in learning folk dance.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15

"BE YOUR OWN JUDGE" at the Fleming Museum viewing of all works entered prior to the judging of "Vermont '73: A Juried Exhibition of Work by Vermont Artists." Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

5 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers picnic and dance at Mt. Philo State Park, Charlotte. See story in this issue or call

Poli Sci Meeting

There will be a meeting on Thursday, September 13 from 4-5 P.M. in Marsh Lounge, Billings Center for all political science majors.

Pre-law Student Meeting

All students planning to apply to law schools for Fall 1974 should meet in Marsh Lounge, Billings Center at 4 P.M., Thursday, September 20. At that time, Professors Gould, Grabowski, Hutton, Rosenbloom and Stanfield will speak on Law School admission matters. This meeting is only for those who are seeking admission for Fall 1974. Later on in the semester, there will be another general meeting for pre-law undergraduates.

UVM Horse Club Opens Stables

The UVM Horse Club announces the opening of its Spear Street stables. The barn is full at present, with sixteen horses owned by club members. Visitors are encouraged to tour the barn and indoor riding facilities, but it is hoped that visits will be limited to 9 A.M. - 5 P.M.

The first club meeting will be held at 8 P.M., Tuesday, September 18 in the lounge of Engleby House, 112 Williams Street, home of President and Mrs. Andrews. Members and newcomers are welcome. The club activities include dressage and combined training fanatics, and even two polo ponies. The barn also (this being Vermont) has a lovely and "aristocratic" token Morgan.

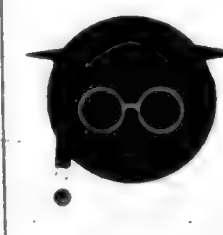

Plans for this year include: a polo demonstration and clinic, various clinics by locally and nationally acclaimed instructors, service projects (4-H and youth group lessons), a program for parents' weekend and a field trip to the Toronto Winter Fair or Madison Square Garden.

If anyone is interested in any phase of horsemanship, he/she is welcome to join the club. Members include pleasure riders, hunter-jumpers, dressage and combined training fanatics, and even two polo ponies. The barn also (this being Vermont) has a lovely and "aristocratic" token Morgan.

Questions may be directed to Jeanie Hahn, 862-4397.

Museum Presents Film

In conjunction with their current exhibition, "Ways Of Seeing," which provides a new way of looking at works from the collection, the Robert H. Fleming Museum, UVM, is presenting a film program called "The Art of Seeing" on Thursday evening, September 13th. The program is a series of 16mm films created by the American Federation of Arts, and developed by Dr. Rudolf Arnheim, a leading art critic and author of "Art and Visual Perception." "The Art of Seeing" investigates the fundamentals of vision and encourages seeing in new ways. Films will include: "The Art of Seeing," and "Same Subject/Different Treatment." The films will begin at 8:00 p.m. in Johnson Auditorium, 101 Votey Building. Admission is free.

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER®

Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction

Give her one of our engagement rings. Before someone else does.

PRICES BY APPROXIMATE VALUE

A family of jewelers in Vermont since 1844

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

17 Upper Church Street

Member American Gem Society

Ed Levin of Bennington
the Soles family
Wink Hirschak
of Stowe
Mardi Zelmanoff
David Allen
Paula Gollhardt
Kathryn Downs
Whitehead Farms of Cabot
Roxanne Hall of Fairfax
Harriet Hemerway
Jackie Kehrman
Stanley Davidson
Reeta Dean
Metzke Haywire

A Jeweler For Your Every Whim

Our jewelry is selected with the greatest care so that you can satisfy that tamest and wildest of fancies. Each has a distinct style all his or her own.

Ed Levin, Vermont's Master Jeweler, was out first. Then we gradually added others. And there will be more.

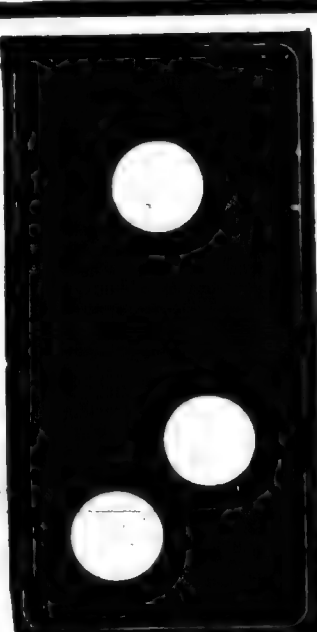

We now have domestic Silver from as far as New Mexico. Turquoise directly from the Navajos. The same Gold rings found in the most discriminating New York stores... and many far-out exotic creations from Greenwich Village, the Rockies and elsewhere... along with imports from Mexico, Africa and the South American countries.

Our jewelry is in Gold, Silver, Brass, Pewter, Wrought Iron, Quill, Semi-Precious Stones.

Feathers and Beads... Generally starting at $1.00

In the Green Log Cabin
Corner of Williston and Hinesburg Roads
South Burlington
Open weekdays 9-5:30, Saturdays Until 5:30

DOMINO'S PIZZA

YOU DON'T HAVE TO DO ANYTHING BUT CALL

864-7444 658-3333
WILLISTON ROAD NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

50¢ OFF A LARGE PIZZA
Expires September 20, 1973

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Void if not completed
1 Coupon per pizza

Give her one of our engagement rings. Before someone else does.

PRICES BY APPROXIMATE VALUE

A family of jewelers in Vermont since 1844

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

17 Upper Church Street

Member American Gem Society

S.A., Faculty Rumor

by Jim Bradley

There has been some talk about trying to consolidate the Student Association, Faculty Senate, and Non-academic Employees Council into one organization, in hopes of establishing a more powerful force. Sig Heller, NA President, announced the plan in a recent interview.

Now Faculty, Senate President Stanley Roth, registered his strong opposition to the idea. He maintains that faculty interests and the respective organization deal with these interests should remain separate and distinct.

Roth also expresses a desire to see the Faculty Senate become a stronger force in decision-making in the University. The faculty Senate

IRA Sponsor Coming To

Women of UVM and the Inter Residence Association are sponsoring a program aimed at bringing together members of the faculty and staff and the student body in an informal social setting. On Sunday, Sept. 23, interested faculty and staff will have one or more students to dinner in their homes.

"Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" is the name of the program. Women of UVM and IRA representatives will meet on Sept. 23 to pair off students, faculty and staff.

Please Count Coming

STUDENT FORM

Class _____ Cat _____

Campus Address _____

Best Time For Home Reach Me By Phone _____

FACULTY (FOR STAFF) FOR _____

Address _____

Phone _____

My Family Would _____

On Sunday, Sept. _____

NOTE TO PARTIES signing up will be _____ families signing up will be asked to _____ students he or she for times and travel _____ student guests for _____

Sailing Club Meeting

Monday, Sept. 17, 7:30 p.m. at the Cooks Bldg.
Purpose: Organization, Registration, Team selection, registration, etc.

Financiers Need

There are openings in the S.A. Finance Committee and for Assistant Sub-Treasurers. Any questions about these positions should be directed to Steven DeFazio, ext. 2053 or 4245.

Vermont

CAMEL

COLOR

by

CO

PRES

ABR

DRUG & C

111 CH

S.A., Faculty Senate, & NAEC Rumored To Be Merging

by Jim Bradley
There has been some talk about trying to consolidate the Student Association, Faculty Senate, and Non-academic Employees Council into one organization, in hopes of establishing a more powerful force. Sig Heller, SA President, announced the plan in a recent Cynic interview.

Now Faculty Senate President, Stanley Roth has registered his strong opposition to the idea. He maintains that faculty interests and their respective organizations dealing with these interests should remain separate and distinct.

Roth also expresses the desire to see the Faculty Senate become a stronger force in decision-making in the University. The Faculty Senate actually has no formal decision-making power. What power it can exert on the administration remains on the level of suggestion and influence.

Roth, professor of Electrical Engineering, is known as something of a hardnose. "He won't take shit from anyone, administration or teacher," said one faculty member. The same faculty member expected that as president Roth would likely be impatient with faculty reluctance in taking stands on administrative issues, and would push them to take a position.

The first major issue to come up in FS meetings, according to Roth, will be tenure. This is a matter of some controversy at UVM, as well as at other colleges with the faculty in danger of becoming entirely insulated in a few years if present policies in granting it persist. Providing job security, tenure was originally designed to insure against political firings of professors who espoused controversial or unpopular ideas, with a fully tenured faculty, the infusion of new ideas through new people would be uncommon, as there would be a very small turnover in faculty members. A tenured faculty member can not be removed from his job unless he shows gross incompetence or commits a heinous crime or something of the sort.

The first FS meeting will take place in Rowell Hall, Sept. 12 at they are open to any interested students now as well.

S.A. Office Will Publish Monthly Calendar

Starting this September, the Student Activities Office will publish a monthly information calendar, available free of charge to students, faculty, staff and the public. This calendar will include dates and times of all types of events being held in the area during the following month. Examples of events to be listed are academic dates, concerts, speakers, films, athletic events, symposiums, theatre, and general information.

Persons from any group or department should call the Student Activities Desk at 656-2060 and give whatever information they wish to be listed. The more people who use this information service, the better it will be, so please remember to let the Student Activities Office help you in your scheduling.

The calendar will be available at public places on campus starting the first of every month. Deadlines for information to be submitted shall be three days before the end of the month for the next month's calendar.

New Chaplain At St. Anselm's Chapel

St. Anselm's Chapel on Redstone campus is sporting a new young look for the '73-74 school year. It comes in the form of a new Chaplain who is trying to show the vigor, enthusiasm, and sensitivity which he says are vital to the badly needed "renaissance" of campus ministry at St. Anselm's. Robert William O'Brien, better known as "Odie", comes to UVM out of General Theological Seminary in New York City. He did his undergraduate work at Hobart College, getting his BA in psychology.

Chaplain Odie can be seen on the soccer field every afternoon where he is doubling as assistant coach for the UVM soccer team. He has also become involved with the Office of Volunteer Programs, working on the staff there a few hours each morning.

Some good news already from St. Anselm's is that it will be open for public use for the first time in two years. Starting immediately the doors to the chapel and all-purpose room will be open all day and night for anyone who wants to take advantage of a good place to study, cook, pray and just meet friendly people. Anyone interested in meeting space for a group or club should contact Chaplain Odie. Chaplain Odie promises that St. Anselm's will be raising many life and death questions while more actively meeting the needs and concerns of students, faculty and staff.

St. Anselm's will hold Holy Communion services on Sundays at 11 a.m. and Tuesdays at 10 p.m. A 15-minute innovative morning prayer service will be held

Mon-Fri at 8:30 a.m. Chaplain Odie can be reached anytime at St. Anselm's, 656-3882 or his home, 220 Pearl St., Apt. 4, 864-6354.

The Cynic welcomes writers and production workers. Stop in at our office in lower Billings Center or call 656-4911.

Billings Center Governing Board Has Openings

by Jeff Thaxter
The Billings Center Governing Board (B.C.G.B.) has several openings for students interested in becoming directly involved in the operations of Billings Center.

The Governing Board, one of the most active organizations on campus, is responsible for making all policies concerning Billings Center as well as providing an ongoing educational, social and cultural program within the building. Programs such as the Roundhouse, films, are different from student interest and their respective organizations to meet the varied needs of everyone in the UVM community.

New people and new ideas are needed so that the Governing Board can carry out creative and stimulating programs. If you're interested in becoming involved in the operations and activities of Billings Center, please stop in at the Governing Board Office in Billings Center, or leave a message at the Student Activities desk.

UVM Band Plans Activities

The University of Vermont Band, under the leadership of Dr. Herbert L. Schultz, is planning some exciting half time shows for the upcoming UVM home football games. Many spectators felt that last year's shows were the best in years, and Dr. Schultz has promised that they will be even better this year. In addition to providing entertainment for the football games, the band plays at pep rallies, hockey games and presents a concert each semester.

IRA Sponsors 'Guess Who's Coming To Dinner Night'

Women of UVM and the Inter Residence Association are sponsoring a program aimed at bringing together members of the faculty and staff and the student body in an informal social setting. On Sunday, Sept. 30, interested faculty and staff will have one or more students to dinner in their own homes.

Students who would like to participate may sign up at the main desk of any dormitory or at the Student Activities office in Billings Center. Interested faculty and staff may also sign up in person or by calling either extension 2060, or Mrs. Gail Feitelberg at 863-6184. The deadline is Friday, Sept. 21.

Staff, faculty and students may fill out the form on this page and send it to the Student Activities office.

Please Count Me In For Guess Who's Coming To Dinner Night

STUDENT FORM: Name _____

Class _____ Campus Phone _____

Campus Address _____

Best Time For Host To Reach Me By Phone _____

FACULTY (STAFF) FORM: Name _____

Address _____ Title _____

Phone _____

My Family Would Like To Host Student(s) On Sunday, Sept. 30

NOTE TO PARTICIPANTS: Students signing up will be matched with faculty-staff families signing up. The faculty or staff host will be asked to contact the student or students he or she is assigned and arrange for times and transportation with the student guests for Sunday, Sept. 30.

Boating Course Offered At UVM

Larry L. Snyder, Director of Administrative Resources, and one of UVM's avid sailors, will be instructor for the fall boating course of the Winooski Valley Power Squadron.

Classes begin Thursday, Sept. 27, and will meet in Room 118 of Patrick Gymnasium each Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. through Dec. 6. There is no charge for the basic boating course and it is free and open to the public.

With Lake Champlain offering the campus and community some of the finest boating waters around,

Squadron Commander Joseph Toffani urges boaters—both sail and power—"to seriously consider developing their nautical skills."

"The seamanship knowledge acquired in an off-season boating course will increase your pleasure and, more importantly, may, under adverse conditions, save your boat and the lives of those you love."

Further information may be obtained from Mr. Snyder or the Squadron's information officer, Edwin Granal, who may be reached at 863-5270 or 658-3774.

Communication Test Necessary For Teaching

Any University of Vermont upperclass student who wishes to be accepted in a program in a teaching field in Art, Elementary or Secondary Education, Home Economics, Music, Physical Education or Vocational-Technical Education, must pass a written communication test. Efficiency in the use and range of vocabulary, logical expression of ideas, paragraph arrangement, sentence structure and spelling is judged on the basis of a few paragraphs written on a suggested subject.

The test will be given Wednesday evening, September 26, and Thursday evening, September 27 in Room B106 Cook Building, beginning at 7:00 p.m. Students should sign up immediately in Room 311 Waterman for the evening of their choice.

E.P. Sponsors Teach-Out Smorgasbord

The Experimental Program of the College of Arts and Sciences is sponsoring a Teach-Out Smorgasbord, Saturday, September 15 from 9:30 A.M. to 11:30 A.M. on the green of Redstone Campus. Although the "intellectual bazaar", in the words of Dr. Morris Simon, head of the Program, is sponsored by the Experimental Program, it is open to everyone.

Contributing professors will sit on the green and interested participants are invited to wander from seminar to seminar.

Professor Virginia Clark of the English department and Professor Linda Rodd of the psychology department will discuss women's quest of identity: The Case of Zelda Fitzgerald. Professor Richard Warner and Professor David Rosenbloom of Political Science department will speak on the Watergate affair. Allan Broughton, poet and English professor will hold a session along with several other poets on Living Poetry. Carl Reidel, director of the Environmental Studies Program will discuss crucial issues about the environment. Professor Tony Bradley, of the department of English and a native of Ireland will face the issue of the present conflict in Ireland. Professor Ed Feidner, of the Communications and Theatre Department and director of the Champlain Summer Shakespeare Festival, will hold a talk on directing "Richard III". U.S. Relations with China, Japan and Southeast Asia will be the subject of a talk with Professor Peter Seybold and Professor Mark Stohler of the History department.

Everyone is invited to attend the Teach-Out Smorgasbord.

Alpha Chi Omega has a new telephone number: 863-3195.

CRYPTOQUOTE

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

For Example: Longfellow

twonmttwe

In this example, t has been substituted for L, w for o and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

MDMZG-THV GA LA PMIDMV ULM PQU, IVL

AWUMBQUMA IOZMB LMIT WZAM.

UQO CIT LM KNZMBVMA

Solution to Cryptoquote in August 29 issue of the Cynic: P-H-A-T-I-S-T

Happiness makes up in length for what it lacks in length.

Robert Frost

Museum Presents Film

In conjunction with their current exhibition "Ways of Seeing", which provides a new way of looking at works from the collection, the Robert Hull Fleming Museum, UVM, is presenting a film program titled "The Art of Seeing" on Thursday evening, September 13th. The program is a series of films created by the American Federation of Arts, and developed by Dr. Rudolf Arnheim, a leading art critic and author of "Art and Visual Perception". "The Art of Seeing" investigates the fundamentals of vision and encourages seeing in new ways. Films will include "The Art of Seeing" and "Same Subject/Different Treatment". The films will begin at 8:00 pm in the Johnson Auditorium, 101 Wesley Building. Admission is free.

LE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER

Downtown Burlington

Box Junction

OUR... else does.

...N & SON INC.

Sailing Club Meeting

Sailing Club meeting Monday, Sept. 17, at 7:30 p.m. B-106 Cook Bldg. Purpose: Organization, Racings Team selection, sailing registration, etc.

Financiers Needed

There are openings on the S.A. Senate Finance Committee and for Assistant Sub-Treasurers. Any questions about these positions should be directed to Steven DeCesznak, ext. 2053 or 4245.

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE

FINEST SELECTION OF BEERS, WINE AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES. AT GREAT SAVINGS. 10% OFF ALL SALES. 10% OFF ALL SALES. 10% OFF ALL SALES.

OPEN 10 to 10 DAILY 12 to 9 SUNDAY

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE

Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7680. FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS. Fine work on American cars. Firestone tires • Exide Batteries. Front and alignment • Spin balancing. Undercoating • Engine rebuilding.

VW BRAKE JOB. Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL VW Bug Exhaust $24.95 Spin Balance $3.50 per Wheel Front End Alignment $10

Vermont's largest CAMERA CENTER

COLOR PROCESSING by KODAK

COSMETICS PRESCRIPTIONS • HPES •

ABRAHAM'S DRUG & CAMERA CENTER 111 CHURCH STREET

for people who walk on this earth...

If you've walked barefoot on sand or soil you know how great it is. Your feet sink low and your feet embrace the earth. Then you put on your shoes, return to the city, and become another concrete fighter... but the concrete always wins. You yearn for the earth that lies buried beneath the city.

The Earth Shoe is the first shoe in history with the heel lower than the sole... this helps return you to nature though you are forced to live in a cement-coated world. The Earth Shoe's patented design gently guides you to a more erect and graceful walk and reduces fatigue and the aches and pains caused by our hard-surfaced city.

For men and women in shoes, sandals, and slippers.

earth shoe

139 BANK ST. BURLINGTON

ATTENTION UVM ART STUDENTS

10% DISCOUNT ON ALL ART SUPPLIES

ALL ART STUDENTS NOW CAN SAVE 10% ON ALL ART SUPPLY PURCHASES AT THE CORNER BOOKSTORE. WE'RE THE SERIOUS ART SHOP WITH A COMPLETE STOCK OF ALL THE MATERIALS YOU WILL EVER NEED. WE'VE A KNOWLEDGEABLE STAFF EAGER TO ASSIST YOU OR HAPPY TO LET YOU BROWSE ON YOUR OWN. INVESTIGATE OUR LOWER LEVEL ART SHOP TODAY AND SAVE.

"If you're interested in Art, we're interested in you!"

Church and College Sts. Downtown Burlington 658-4554

the corner bookstore

"one-stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

CORNER BOOKSTORE THE CORNER BOOKSTORE THE CORNER BOOKSTORE THE CORNER BOOKSTORE THE CORNER BOOKSTORE

Editorial: Showdown On Watergate

Millions of people in the US and throughout the world are hungrily waiting to hear the Watergate tapes, or to at least hear about what they say second-hand from some source other than the President and his henchmen.

The spotlight is on the government-appointed Special Prosecutor, Archibald Cox, and the chairman of the Senate Watergate Investigating Committee, Sam Ervin. Both seem to be operating under the distinct conviction that once the tapes are obtained from the President, the truth about Watergate and particularly about Mr. Nixon's own involvement in the affair will come shining through. After all, these are tapes of his private conversations, many of them with his closest advisers, men who have been tied to the Watergate mess by reams of testimony. Once his conversations with these advisers are made public and the contents become known, the thinking goes, the doubt about what really happened will be over.

But while it is probably true that the real facts will never come out without the content of the tapes becoming known, it is by no means a sure thing that the tapes will bestow the proverbial "light of truth" upon the people of the nation and the world. The light promised by the tapes' release may in fact be a member of the same family as the "light at the end of the tunnel" which became so famous in Vietnam.

For there are a number of persons, reputed to be experts on the subject, who maintain that at the present time there is no way in which a well-doctored tape recording can be detected. In a special news show dealing with the question on the Montreal radio outlet of the CBC, a panel of eight persons, chosen for their expertise in the field, agreed unanimously that with our present technology, a well-doctored tape cannot be distinguished from one which has not been fooled with.

As a result, even if the tapes are released, we have no assurance that they are the genuine article. We have no way of knowing positively that they have not been tampered with.

This is an aspect of the Watergate matter which has strangely been ignored for the most part by the American media, as well as by the Senate Committee.

But many people have wondered whether in fact the leak about the existence of the tapes was not part of an administration plot in the first place. According to this theory, it was planned from the beginning that the President would pretend to be extremely reluctant to release the tapes, citing executive privilege and national security but giving the public the distinct impression that he was trying to keep these conversations from getting out because he knew they would be damaging to him.

After a long hold-out, by which time nearly everyone would be suspicious, he would release the tapes—only they would be doctored tapes, and they would exonerate him completely of any knowledge of the planning or coverup. The public would then breathe an amazed and grateful sigh of relief, believing that the President was a man of high principle after all. Nixon's seventh crisis would be over, and through the dramatization of his "integrity" the American people would respect him more than ever.

This theory does not explain Nixon's nervousness over the demands for the tapes, the periodic hints that he is beginning to crack, except to say that it is all part of his act. If he's acting, he's a hell of an actor.

But still we had best recognize that the truth about Nixon and Watergate may lie a lot further down the road than the mere release of the famous tapes, for we can not be sure that they are even legitimate.

J.B.

One Student's View

The University, Inc.

by John Franco

University President Dr. Edward Andrews announced that UVM, because of the strict austerity measures undertaken in the past year, has not only erased its accumulated deficit, but will also find itself $90,000 in the black. President Andrews then proceeded to praise faculty and students for tightening their belts and pulling through the fiscal crisis of the past year.

Students have in the past few years become critical of higher education, claiming that its purpose and structure is more corporate than intellectual. This criticism seemed all the more valid for UVM after political science professor Michael Parenti was fired by the Board of Trustees for what amounted to an exercise of his First Amendment rights. In the course of the Parenti affair it became obvious that the governing structure of the University is in fact a body of relatively privileged individuals who remain pretty much unaccountable to students and faculty. The analogy was drawn between the board of directors of a corporation, and the Board of Trustees of the University.

Yet it seems to this student that the recent announcement by Dr. Andrews exposes the corporate nature of the University more than any event in the past. In that announcement, the President explained that the University had recruited 200 more students than usual last year for the expressed purpose of accumulating additional revenue. Many of these students, you may remember, ended up residing in dorm lounges, and the situation aggravated an already high student-instructor ratio. But what was most interesting about this admission was that it directly contradicted Dr. Andrews' justification for this year's increase in tuition and room and board fees. The reason for these increases, he explained last spring in both the Cynic and to the SA Senate, was the increased costs incurred by the jump in student enrollment! In other words it appears that this justification was as phony as the gasoline shortage. This contradiction also belies the University's pious platitudes about being operated for students with quality education as its primary goal. More students were sought last year for purely fiscal purposes much in the same manner that a corporation hires and lays off its employees—for motivations of profit.

One might quickly retort that it is absurd to claim that the University is out for a profit. But is it absurd? Didn't the University decide to put that expected $90,000 into reserves for future costs? And what will be the nature of the bulk of the University's future costs? Most likely an underground passageway under main street or another Spear Street trade-off. Certainly not increased enrollment of black students, which would only begin to establish a significant Third World population, a goal set by the University in 1969. Certainly not a significant Third World and Women's studies programs. Certainly not to cover a reduction in tuition or a raise in faculty salaries. Certainly not a new, probably more expensive system of student evaluation as a humane alternative to the alienating and pseudoeducational meatgrinder of the grading system. Instead we can probably expect a continuation of the policies which got UVM into the financial mess in the first place: continued capital expansion. The university budget has more than doubled since the late sixties, primarily because of an ambitious program of construction on campus. So enamored has the University been with the edifice complex that it automatically equates good education with gaudy new buildings of glass and steel, architectural mish mash, and traffic intersections, that resemble the course of the Grand Prix of Monaco. In fact we can probably expect the University authorities to reply that such investment is necessary for good education, for we must compete with the expanding facilities of other institutions, etc. But in light of increased tuition, housing shortages, more students per instructor, and the rat race of the grade-point-average scramble, this answer has, rather than the logic of enlightened educators in search of a meaningful learning environment, the hollow ring of the corporate capitalist mind which admonishes that the company must expand and compete or go bankrupt.

I am not one to criticize without putting forth a plan of action, or at least setting out the general outlines of what must be done. It seems that we must attack the corporation with a three point plan that will restructure the "industry". The first point is "wages", in the literal sense for faculty and staff, in the figurative sense for students, meaning lower tuition and costs and more services. The second is to increase the quality of the "product", meaning the creation of a non-alienating environment which takes seriously its responsibilities to women, minorities, and working people. And the third point is "industrial democracy", meaning student-faculty control of the entire university, a complete elimination of the ruling hierarchy known as the Board of Trustees; the establishment of a University Senate composed of the elected delegates of the students, faculty, and staff. I am fully aware that this outline has the same chances of immediate success as would a seizure of General Motors by workers and consumers, but the enormity of this task does not preclude effective transitional actions toward this goal. It is to these transitional actions students must devote considerable energies if we are ever going to get anywhere around here.

WE DECIDED TO STICK TO THE Z.P.G. RECOMMENDATION AND HAVE 14 CHILDREN.

by permission of BPC/Equilibrium

Democrats Admit Using "Just As Dirty" Tactics In 1972 Bugging Of Republican Officials

(AP) Gary Hart, chief mastermind behind Sen. George McGovern's unsuccessful bid for Presidency in 1972, has admitted informally that his committee employed tactics "just as dirty, but far more efficient" than those of the convicted "Watergate Seven." "The story never broke because we never got caught," says Hart, who also promised to issue a disclaimer if he were ever quoted on the matter.

Hart's comments are reported to have been made strictly "off the record", but come from an extraordinarily reliable source. He denied vehemently that the agents who trapped and apprehended the Original Seven were tipped off in advance thanks to a McGovern-team bug in the then-Attorney General John Mitchell's office. "He was too big—we'd never have risked it. Our targets were smaller and less paranoid people—those close enough to the President to have inside knowledge yet naive enough to be seduced by such matters as Secret Service protection. You know someone with an attitude like 'Why should I be bugged?'"

Hart admitted that bugs had been implanted in the McGovern camp, by Nixon aides and their families, but contended that no one so far involved in the Watergate scandal was bugged by Democrats.

"Our biggest target was the Eisenhowers—Julie (Nixon) and David. Though unethical as hell, our boys had their honeymoon entirely on tape—their wedding night in a Camp David suite and all four following days and nights on Abnaship's yacht. We got very little tactical information of a political nature from these bugs," he added. "One or two major record companies are presently bidding for distribution rights to those particular tapes," which he insists, "are not for sale—even for enough money to pay our campaign debts we wouldn't part with these tapes." Hart cited legal as well as ethical drawbacks. "Getting these bugs implanted was no small trick, considering the elaborate security measures taken to prevent human interference with the honeymoon activities. The suite at Camp David was locked and guarded by a special Presidential crew we nicknamed 'The Chastity Belt.' The only thing I can say is that—well—the Eisenhowers seemed to have had as normal a wedding night as possible, considering the security measures."

A major difference between Democratic bugging and that of the unsuccessful Waterbuggers was that the Democrats placed their bugs by using inside men. "For instance," claimed Hart, "we simply bought one of the key members of the Chastity Belt, gave him a brief course in electronics and provided the equipment. He delivered the tapes and we paid his fee."

"In retrospect I'm sorry we did it. We learned so little. It won't happen again," Hart concluded.

New Op. Ed. Page

The Cynic is starting an Op. Ed. (opposite editorial) page in the near future. All contributions, whether in the form of poetry, essay or whatever, are welcome. Faculty and administration members are also asked to participate. An always "Letters to the Editor" will appear on this page, page four. Deadline for Thursday's issue is the preceding Monday noon.

There Comes A Time When You Realize What You Left Behind

by Elliot Freeman

(early morning weariness) I stretch my eyes to see the road in front of me, I am leaving home, going away. I grew up here and now this place has nothing for me, just memories and dreams. This is where my dreams were dreamed, my visions of the future, fantasies molded and shaped, guaranteed to coincide with my every desire, all of them constructed here.)

Let me wrestle with the gearshift, glide onward as I guide and steer my wheels, see the highway flash below me, slick with oil, burning gas, forward to New England. Rolling hills with green trees that flame with fashion in the autumn, mountain streams clear and clean, blue sky, magnificent puffs of clouds that color with the sunset... beauty and the freshness of nature will seep through my eyes and pervade my soul. Now as I drive on this speed crazed rat tape city busy highway for the last time, I'd like to leave a message in the sky. Write it with an airplane, just out of reach of the tallest cement monster, big enough so every poor rotting miserable soul who still hangs trapped within the city limits could see and read it. I would not care if they understood it or not. I should drop to the airport now, just walk up to the skywriter's booth... be cool... let them know I'm an ordinary wag off the curb.

"Good Morning I'm quite in a hurry so please take down this message and get it up as soon as possible."

(shaken by my politeness and strong will the man reaches for a pen and pad) I clear my throat for an air of authoritative touch, then I begin, being concise and exacting in my use of the chosen words of wisdom.

"Early morning wonderment to all concerned citizens to whom it might be collaborated and justified within their souls. To me, it is found quite simply that in your emotions and knowledge of yourself there is no knowing unless you puke up. And believe me at first everyone will feel sick, but in time, that is with the movement into new space and position in the universal standing of you, a great feeling of uncontrollable relief will be... and everyone will know!

To clarify: To know is not to have possession of the Answer but it is to reveal (not to deceive or conceal) the immediate secrets which some people are known to hold. Foolishness is to die and never know. To die with all of you locked inside, protected by hung, frustrating complexes. Now isn't that a depressing thought?

"And do not be afraid of the consequences of future references to spoken matters of fact that fall from your lips to the room. They fall for that moment and hold their flavor only in relation to those particular circumstances that prevail. So take the finger of your personality and be brave and now stick it down the throat of your true self, your soul, your meaning and let all of these things up and out."

"Very good, we'll get this out and up as soon as possible" says the man behind the counter. He is most definitely taken back by my knowledge of the language and the candor of my delivery. I'm most anxious to get on to New England, so I quickly thank the gentleman and make for the door. As I am confronting the exit, he calls out to inquire if I might have a signature accompany the message. With but a second's delay I shout, a dignified shout, of course, "Sign it, Future, Seymour Future... OH BUT OF COURSE."

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS MANAGER Barbara Frankel '75
ASSISTANT EDITOR Ruth Hay '74
MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74
NEWS EDITOR Bruce Madden '76
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lissa Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75
ASSISTANT FEATURE EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
SPORTS EDITOR Loren Wilson '74
ADVERTISING MANAGER

NEWS: Dave Campaigne, Bill Campbell, Daniel Hadam, Jill Markert, Dawn McGinnis, Andy Morse, Laurie Rapp, Kelly Stassin, John Van Hoesen
FEATURE: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Carol Dufault, Barbara Friedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Olshan, Karen Trott
COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, John Franco, Elliot Freeman, Greg Guma, Ron McNeil, Steven Rice, Jim Slomig, Scott Sweeney, Jim Wimal
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Andy Morse, Alan Patahnick, Norm Robinson, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilenski
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Abbie Schaffer
PRODUCTION: Fred Doten, Tom Farris, John Lunde, Debbie Valyon, Joan Westcott

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College, Editorial and Business offices in Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1933. Subscription rate $3.00 per year, single copy, ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Women's Swim

Team Meeting

On Tuesday, October 1973, at 5 P.M. in the Lounge of Southwick Hall will be a meeting for all wishing to join the '73 Women's Varsity Swimming and Diving Team.

All who are interested, encouraged to attend. Previous competitive experience is necessary. Please bring your meal ticket to meeting. For further information or questions please contact Janet, Room Living/Learning 1, 252A, 4242 or Miss Farrell Southwick.

Diane Tara

Meat Prices might go up, but the price scholarships stays the same. Monday night, Sept. Tri-Delta sorority presents Diane Tara, a sophomore UVM, with a scholarship $400 for the '73-74 school year.

CLASSIFIED ADS

FOR SALE - Toyota 1600 Deluxe Station Wagon 1971. Runs Great. 3 New Tires. New Exhaust System. New Cylinders. Head. New Brakes. Clutch. Just Tuned. Call 864-2512 or 864-2511 and Ask for Scott 112.

FOR SALE - 1966 V. Dunebuggy - Fiberglass body. 36 HP - Motor. Purple. $600.00. Call Nick 457-2895.

FOR SALE - 1970 Triumph Motorcycles. Trophy, Model 500, 5 cc., purple, $750.00. Nick 457-2895.

FOR SALE: 1965 Karm Ghis - Good Condition. 30 Miles to the Gallon. Call Mitch - 425 Harrison. Phone 656-3894.

For Sale - 10 Speed 2. Grtone Grand Sport campy nuovo rec-changers T. A. Cotter. Crank. Quick. Rel. Brakes and Hubs. 862-7053. $110.00.

Wanted to buy: Good on car tape deck. Call Kevin - 655-2049.

FOR SALE: 1969 Citroen DS 21 - good condition. all offers considered. 862-9863, ask for Mark.

Used Manual Typewriter for sale - Smith-Corona excellent cond. Desks for A papers. $35.00 best offer - 863-4876-2686.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

...by phil frank

I ASK YOU... IS RADICAL ACTIVISM DEAD?... WELL, IS IT?

Shady Dealings In The Dorms: Superscoop Cracks The Case

by Scott Cahoon

Last week, whilst I was hanging out in the luxurious staff lounge of the Vermin Clinic, a big-time college newspaper on a small-time campus, I got a call on my two-way wrist TV from Ace, our fireball editor-in-chief. He wanted to see me in his office. Wondering what was up and knowing I wouldn't like it, I took the elevator to the fifth level, strodded down the carpeted hallway, showed my Class A security card to the guard outside the door and, flashing my sexiest smile at his secretary (former Playmate of the Month), entered Ace's plush inner office.

I sprawled into an overstuffed chair. "What's happening, Chief?"

"Don't be funny," he growled. "Drink?"

"No thanks. How 'bout a smoke?"

"Sure." He handed me a cigarette hand-rolled in Zig-Zag wheat straw. "Clark, we've got a problem."

"You're telling me," I said, breathing deeply. "That dyke you hired to do a women's lib column is giving the chicks in the secretarial pool some strange ideas."

"She's not a dyke, and that isn't the problem I'm talking about. Do you realize that for seven years in a row there has been a housing shortage in the dorms, and that as a result we've had the same lead story for each semester's opening issue?"

"So? Saves us having to write a new one each year."

"That's beside the point. It's not good journalism." Ace always was a good one for having ideals.

"Journalism, shmournalism," I said. "If that's what the story is, that's what we've gotta print. Right?" I always get rhetorical when smoking cigarettes wrapped in Zig-Zag wheat straw.

"Yes, but people get tired of reading the same thing," said Ace.

"Don't be silly. They read The Doctor's Bag every week." I was suddenly inspired. "Say! Who don't we forget about the housing shortage and run The Doctor's Bag on page one? Then we could..."

"Never mind that," snapped Ace. "Your assignment, should you decide to accept it, will be to infiltrate the dormitory system of this university and discover why they are constantly overcrowded. Should you be caught, the Clinic will disavow all knowledge of your actions, and your expense account will self-destruct in five seconds."

My pappy used to say, "Son, Son," he'd say. "When yew want sumthin' done, always go to the top man. Don't go messin' around with no bourgeois middle level administrative assistants." Keeping this in mind, I paid a visit to Keeth Pinchfist, Groovy Yuvy's Director of Dormitories and Shoeboxes. Sitting in his reception room in my high school graduation suit, I meditated on the two American flags, the pictures of Washington, Lincoln, Nixon and Agnew, the model of Old Ironsides and the incredibly long legs and large glands of Pinchfist's secretary.

"A Mr. Kent to see you," she breathed through purple lips as I entered his office.

"Good afternoon," I said to the crewcut individual behind the desk. "I'm from the Vermin Clinic."

"Whew! I'll say," winced Pinchfist. "Gloria, please bring in the room deodorizer and a can of Right Guard for this fifth estate flunky."

Figuring that he was just trying to unnervy me, I ignored this and proceeded with my interview. "We at the Clinic don't mean to criticize your department, Mr. Pinchfist, but we'd like to know just how you screwballs managed to bail it up this time."

"If you are referring to the situation in the dormitories, we did not, as you so crudely put it, 'bail it up.' As a matter of fact, everything went exactly according to plan."

I wasn't sure that I'd heard what he'd said. "Do you mean that you intended to overcrowd the dorms?"

"Didn't you hear what I said? Of course we did. Do you think that we can make any money when we're only charging $1873.27 per person per semester? If we only filled the dorms to capacity, your tuition would have gone up $50 this semester to make up the loss."

"My tuition did go up $50 this semester."

"Exactly! You see what I mean? Do you know what the price of electric enemas is this month?"

"What's that got to do with it?"

"Everything. Isn't it obvious?"

I confessed that I didn't know what he was talking about.

"I'll explain," said Pinchfist, getting out his blackboard and a full box of chalk. "We have 653 habitation units (H.U.) to be filled, which were originally designed to hold 1429 habitating individuals (H.I.); 715 males (H.M.) and 714 females (H.F.). Now, our total outlay (T.O.) for the semester is 138% of the normal H.I. level times the B.S. (board per semester). So to bring the T.O. into line with the B.R. (budget requirement) we increase the H.M.'s and H.F.'s in direct proportion to the H.U.'s capability of theoretically expanding according to Pinchfist's Formula U=VM, where U is the money, V is the B.S., and M is the price of electric enemas. Is that clear?"

By this time the air was full of chalkdust. Gasping, I groped for the deodorizer. Pulling off the cap I was about to spray the room when I heard Pinchfist scream,

"Don't touch that!" He dove for me but I dodged him and climbed on top of the desk where the air was clearer. Looking at the deodorizer cap, I noticed that it bore a startling resemblance to a miniature TV transceiver. Curious, I pressed the spray button. The inside of the cap changed colors, flickered, and then a man in a uniform and bushy mustache appeared. "Da, Comrade Pinchfist? Vat is it you vant?"

"Aha!" I cried. "Pinchfist, I've found you out, you commie pinko leftist pervert. You crowded the dorms on purpose, all right, but not for the university. You're a member of the International Communist Conspiracy, and you diverted the extra funds to them."

Pinchfist growled, "Smart, but not smart enough. You're not going to get me this easily." He pressed a button on his desk, and two campus cops with submachine guns appeared from behind the bookcase.

"You won't get away with this, Pinchfist," I dispatched one of the cops easily with a couple of well-placed karate chops, and I was zeroing in on the other when someone grabbed me from behind. It was Gloria the secretary. I would have struggled more except that it felt so good.

As they led me away, I heard an explosion in the distance. I didn't have to ask what it was. It was the sound of my expense account self-destructing.

Women's Swim

Team Meeting

On Tuesday, October 18, 1973, at 5 P.M. in the North Lounge of Southwick there will be a meeting for all those wishing to join the '73-'74 Women's Varsity Swimming and Diving Team.

All who are interested are encouraged to attend. No previous competitive experience is necessary. Please bring your meal ticket to the meeting. For further information or questions, please contact Janet Riley, Evening Learning C. 252A, ex. 4242 or Miss Farrell in Southwick.

Banjo Festival...

(cont. from page fifteen)

by the back country people of the South to accompany courting ballads and square dancing. Pete Seeger is the best known popularizer of this tradition.

Both types of country music will be featured this Friday at the Green Mountain Banjo Festival which is sponsored by the Next Thing for the benefit of the Shaker Mountain School.

College Reading Improvement Program

The College Reading Improvement Program (CRIP) will begin the week of September 17. Students may sign up for the session most convenient for them in Waterman 409. The group sessions will be held in that room.

READING RATE	Wednesday	2:45 - 3:30
VOCABULARY	Thursday	3:15 - 4:00
MEMORY & RECALL	Tuesday	12:30 - 1:15
COMPREHENSION	Wednesday	1:30 - 2:15
WRITING IMPROVEMENT	Thursday	12:30 - 1:15
STUDY SKILLS	Friday	1:30 - 2:15
	Monday	2:45 - 3:30
	Tuesday	3:15 - 4:00
	Monday	1:30 - 2:15
	Thursday	1:45 - 2:30
	Tuesday	1:45 - 2:30
	Friday	12:15 - 1:00

Diane Taran Tri-Delt Scholarship Awarded

Meat Prices might be going up, but the price of scholarships stays the same. Monday night, Sept. 10, Tri-Delta sorority presented Diane Taran, a sophomore at UVM, with a scholarship for $400 for the '73-'74 school year.

Throughout the year the girls earn money by doing service projects, and put it into their scholarship fund. One of their largest projects is selling hot dogs & drinks in the concession stands at all home football games.

The money is given as a scholarship, not a loan. The only requirement is that the receiver be a UVM woman student. She does not have to be a member of the sorority.

If interested, watch for applications later on, or contact Tri-Delta on campus.

CLASSIFIED ADS

FOR SALE: Toyota 1600 Deluxe Station Wagon 1971. Runs Great! 3 New Tires, New Exhaust System. New Cylinder Head. New Brakes + Clutch. Just Tuned. Call 864-2512 or 864-2511 and Ask for Scott 112.

FOR SALE: 1966 VW Dunebuggy. Fiberglass body. 30 HP Motor. Purple. $600.00. Call Nick 457-2895.

FOR SALE: 1970 Triumph Motorcycle. Trophy Model 500, 500 cc. purple. $750.00. Call Nick 457-2895.

FOR SALE: 1965 Karmen Ghia - Good Condition - 30 Miles to the Gallon - Call Mitch - 425 Harris - Phone 656-3894.

For Sale - 10 Speed 24" Gritone Grand Sport campy nuovo record changers T. A. Cotterless Crank Quick Release Brakes and Hubs. Call 862-7053. $110.00.

Wanted to buy: Good deal on car tape deck. Contact Kevin - 655-2049.

FOR SALE: 1969 Citroen DS 21 - good condition - all offers considered. Call 862-9863, ask for Mark.

Used Manual Typewriter for sale - Smith-Corona in excellent cond. Designed for A-papers. $35.00 or best offer - 863-4876 or 656-2688.

QUARTERDECK RESTAURANT

Church St
Every Saturday night 5-10 pm
Sunday night 5-11 pm
spaghetti and sauce

$1.25
spaghetti and meatballs
$1.75
entertainment every Fri & Sat nights

ARTCARVED DIAMOND RINGS CAPTURE THE SPARKLE OF LOVE

An ArtCarved diamond is the most special way of saying, this is it! Forever.

ArtCarved insures your diamond against loss or theft for one full year from date of purchase.

Small Down Payment - Small Weekly Payments

LIPPA'S JEWELERS

46 CHURCH STREET, BURLINGTON, VT.

CAT STEVENS FOREIGNER

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

COME TO VERMONT'S LARGEST RECORD & TAPE STORE

GREAT WEEKLY SPECIALS

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

GREAT WEEKLY SPECIALS

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

Roberta Flack Killing Me Softly

ATLANTIC 3.69

CHRYSLIS 3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

3.69

93 Church St. Burlington
between Magsams and the Hall Tree

discount records

open 10-9 Mon-Fri. 10-6 Sat
tel. 863-4587

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Shakespeare Festival Playing In 15th Season

by Joseph Orshan
The Shakespeare Festival was organized in 1959 to commemorate the 350th anniversary of the discovery of Lake Champlain. The festival was founded by Greg Well, the director of drama at U.V.M. Four years later, the production was taken over by Edward J. Feider. Dr. Feider has consistently held this position and has produced plays which have been cited among the finest and most innovative in North America. Awarded a New England Theatre Conference award, the festival has been associated with Actor's Equity since 1965. The festival and company became the first professional theatre in Vermont and the first major Shakespeare festival to perform in the round.

The frequent repetition of the season's plays provides the professionals with the opportunity of performing a variety of major roles while functioning under the repertory system. The theatre contains 245 seats centered around the stage and no one is seated more than five rows from the performers. The closeness of the stage provides an intimacy with the performance which greatly heightens the overall integrity and effect of each play. By the end of this season, 41 Shakespearean plays, Beckett's Waiting for Godot, Marlowe's Gammar Gurion's Needle, Edward II, and Moliere's The Miser will have been performed.

Dean Phillips of Grass Mountain, who was director of Summer Season in 1959, has consistently supported the festival since then and secured the financial support of the University at that time. Since then, the University has made up the difference left after money accrued by the box office. The festival is a non-profit organization; each year they barely break even. This year marks the fifteenth anniversary of the festival, and has been a particularly successful season. The productions are A Midsummer Night's Dream, Richard III, and Romeo and Juliet. Ada Brown Mather is the summer's special guest director of (continued on page 100)

"Lord Of The Rings" Author Dies At 81

by Professor Michael Stanton

On September 2, 1973, his publishers announced the death of J.R.R. Tolkien at the age of 81. Tolkien was known to a small audience of specialists as a respected scholar—a pioneer critic of Old and Middle English language and literature. To a somewhat larger audience he was known as a great teacher: "he could," said J.M. Stewart (no mean scholar himself), "turn a lecture room into a mead hall in which he was the bard and we were feasting, listening guests." To most of us, however, he was known as the writer of the most popular, and possibly the greatest, fantasy story of our generation, the epic of The Lord of the Rings.

Those few who are not familiar with Tolkien's book may wish to know that it deals with the end of the Third Age of Middle Earth, an end symbolized by the destruction of the One Ring, an ancient and potent instrument of evil power. Sauron, the Dark Lord of Middle Earth, naturally wishes to seize and use this Ring against the forces of Good. But by a series of accidents (or not) the Ring has fallen into the possession of Frodo Baggins, a member of the species called hobbits—uncomplicated, furry-toed, home-loving dwellers in the pastoral felicity of the Shire. The Ring, however, can be destroyed only by being cast into the fires of Mount Doom where it was forged, and Mount Doom lies in the very heart of Mordor, Sauron's stronghold. The Lord of the Rings tells of the journey of Frodo and his companions (who never asked to be heroes) toward Mount Doom, and a number of ancillary lines of action. Frodo is aided by the wizard Gandalf, Galadriel the Elven Queen, the exiled king Aragorn, by elves, dwarves, human beings, tree-like Ents, and a rich variety of other creatures. He is beset by orcs and goblins, by ghastly undead Ringwraiths in Sauron's service, by a deformed wizard, and by a monstrous spider called Shelob, among many others.

The Ring is finally destroyed, but not before Frodo has undergone such hardship and endured much evil, and not before the world he knew has changed forever.

Inelegantly summarized, this is the tale Tolkien spun. Of Tolkien himself it may be said that he lived the retired life of a scholar. He was born in South Africa, came to England at an early age, and grew up near Birmingham. After service in World War I, he finished his education and held several teaching posts, as well as serving as an assistant editor of the Oxford English Dictionary. Later he held the Merton Chair of English Language and Literature at Oxford until his retirement in 1959. By all reports, he was a burly, tweedy man, an inveterate pipe-smoker, as fond as any Englishman, or any hobbit, of his beef and ale. At his death he had been working for years on The Silmarillion, a long tale of the First Age of Middle Earth.

In America, at least, Tolkien became something of a cult figure after The Lord of the Rings appeared in paperback in 1965. (In fact, one garnered prestige if one had read the work at its original hardcover appearance in the early 50's.) People learned to write the Elvish script he devised, and learned to speak the Elvish tongue he invented. "Frodo Lives" buttons were everywhere, and few dormitory walls failed to display a poster or map of Middle Earth. Much of this fanatical activity (which amused Tolkien) has died down, but even in the midst of a cooler and more critical appraisal of Tolkien and his writings, the magic of Middle Earth continues to work.

It does so, among other reasons, because Tolkien created a world in which everything was named to a perfection of fittingness; magic operated nowhere better than in his language. His world came into being, carrying a carefully thought-out, and a body of tradition, history and legend. The rhetoric of his battle scenes and royal pomp in quieter matters, descriptions of nature and landscapes, for example, his prose attains an evocative quality which is almost always charming, and Maker.

often moving. Most striking of all, Tolkien's is a fully-realized world, minutely detailed, a rich gift to us from a richly endowed imagination.

The Lord of the Rings, a book which is massively conservative, hierarchical, and even imperialistic, became popular with the most liberated, rebellious, and even anarchical generation of students we have seen lately. This is no paradox but a logical outcome, for Tolkien's world partly represents what that unrest sought. His is a world where justice can be restored, where the individual and his efforts can be meaningful, where the greatest and the least acknowledge each other's rights, and all acknowledge the Highest Sovereignty. If that was a fantasy, it was also a vision.

The world that Tolkien's mind gave us has been objected to simply because it is fantasy, because it is escape as though to be able healthfully to escape were not a good thing, and as though Tolkien's world did not exist, by very contrast, as a silent commentary on what we cheerfully call reality. Tolkien's realm is simple and clear-cut, like a fine gem, but it moves and lives as no gem could. His writing is the external manifestation of the inward workings of a genuine creative faculty, and to Tolkien, who in private life was a deeply religious man, that ability to create was man's highest power.

"Fantasy," he wrote, "can of course be carried to excess. It can be ill done. It can be put to evil uses. It may even delude the minds out of which it came. But of what human thing in this fallen world is that not true? Men have conceived not only of elves, but they have imagined gods, and worshipped them, even deformed by their authors' own evil. But they have made perfection of fittingness; magic operated nowhere better than in his language. His world came into being, carrying a carefully thought-out, and a body of tradition, history and legend. The rhetoric of his battle scenes and royal pomp in quieter matters, descriptions of nature and landscapes, for example, his prose attains an evocative quality which is almost always charming, and Maker."

The Baroque Ensemble as it performed Sunday night at Fleming Museum.

Album Review:

It Looks Good And Sounds Good ... "Whatever Turns You On"

by Doug Collette

WHATEVER TURNS YOU ON West Bruce & Laing
(Columbia Windfall KC 32216)

Jack Bruce must be cackling up his sleeve. And why not? Since Cream made Clapton, Baker and him stars, Bruce is the only one that's produced consistently listenable and downright adventurous music. Sure, Clapton made Layla, but he also sang lead on a Delaney & Bonnie epee that came out under his name and for the last three years he's lived off re-hashes of earlier times.

We mustn't forget the great albatross Blind Faith that died halfway through the first album, but managed to coast through one tour. Ginger Baker was in on that one too, more or less, but his Air Force turned out to be more of a farce than the new army and now the drummer's off in the wilds of Africa looking for the studios he built.

Meanwhile, J.B.'s played with Larry Coryell, Tony Williams and John McLaughlin, loured with two bands of his own and made two of the most interesting albums I own.

Last year Jack helped usher in the new era of power trios by teaming up with ManMountain West and Corky Laing with whom he cooked up one hot'n'high-strung record. Their followup is almost evenly divided between heavy metal and more poignant pieces, but I'm certainly not complaining because I don't think I'll be skipping cuts like I have to do for Houses of the Holy and Beck, Bogert and Appice's debut.

"Backfire" is a tale of lost love that has such a classic feel it may deserve to be revered as "Why Doncha" is. In any case, it and "Token" MOVE, spurred on a Bruce bass that refuses to allow them to degenerate into soporific slabs of downer music. "Rock'n'Roll Machine" has more buzz-saw guitar and in general, lays rubber like any tune with that title should. "Been round since the fifties" But it move like a '73 'Yeah!!

A gruff Leslie West can display more tenderness and be more believable than you might think, simply because he doesn't try too hard. "Sifting Sand" is poetic in the true sense of the word as is Bruce's "November Song", a track dominated by piano and Highway 61 organ that will eventually rate with the most beautiful moments on Harmony Row. Jack squeezes a lot of changes into "Like A Plate", but it carries its weight as a multi-leveled production number. With a magnificent name like "Scottish Crotch" you might well expect a lusty piano-pounder and that's what you get.

Considering the whole of side two, with the exception of "Machine" of course, sounded like a throwaway at first, two near-fillers don't spell death. If Deep Purple can stick boogieblues on three successive albums, then W.B. & L. can do "Dirty Shoes"—these three got more class than those English punkos anyway. And I like "Slow Blues" because it's no formula shtick like "Third Degree" on Why Doncha. It sounds like Jack and Leslie got drunk and did it, but West's slide guitar will sear your cerebrum.

In the tried and true tradition of supergroups, West Bruce and Laing are no longer. Hopefully, Bruce hasn't left for good, but even if he has, this trio has given us two albums of music you can really get your teeth into.

What Ever Turns You On also has just about the best cover art of the year, right up there with Grin's All Out and Blue Oyster Cult's Tyranny and Mutation. An album that looks good and sounds good in these dreary times what more could a jaded rock and roll fan ask for?

On September 2, 1973, his publishers announced the death of J.R.R. Tolkien at the age of 81. Tolkien was known to a small audience of specialists as a respected scholar—a pioneer critic of Old and Middle English language and literature. To a somewhat larger audience he was known as a great teacher: "he could," said J.M. Stewart (no mean scholar himself), "turn a lecture room into a mead hall in which he was the bard and we were feasting, listening guests." To most of us, however, he was known as the writer of the most popular, and possibly the greatest, fantasy story of our generation, the epic of The Lord of the Rings.

MOVIE GUIDE

CINEMA 1 & 2

"A TOUCH OF CLASS"
7 + 9:15 PG
"STATE OF SIEGE"
7 + 9:15 R

FLYNN THEATER
SOUND OF MUSIC
8 P.M. G

SHOWCASE 1 & 2

"JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR"
7:10 + 9:30 G
OKLAHOMA CRUDE
7 + 9:30 PG

STATE THEATER

LAST TANGO IN PARIS
7 + 9:30

THE ABOVE THEATERS HONOR
CYNIC STUDENT DISCOUNT CARD

FREE SHOWING

'WALKING TALL'
FRIDAY AT 3:00

TICKETS AT CYNIC OFFICE

* BILLINGS LOBBY

NO TICKETS AT DOOR

SHOWCASE I & II
Williston Road

Sorry the Cynic Did Not Come Out

Thursday As Normally Scheduled,

But Breakdown Of Machines

Made The Deadline Impossible To Meet.

NOW SHOWING ... EVE 7:00 + 9:20

When was the last time
you stood up and applauded a movie?

When were you so impressed and involved that you spontaneously cheered?

In theaters across the country, audiences are standing up applauding and cheering "Walking Tall."

It is a deeply moving, contemporary film.

"Walking Tall" is based on the true story of a young man who wouldn't surrender to the system...

and the girl who always stood by him.

WALKING TALL

"Best American movie of the year" - Rolling Stone

"WALKING TALL" JOE DON BAKER
ELIZABETH HARTMAN ROSEMARY MURPHY

A BCP Production A Service of Cin. Broadcasting Corp. Inc. Color

R

SHOWCASE 1 & 2

PAT & MIKE'S
Discount Beverages Inc.
88 OAK ST. BURLINGTON
Open Seven Days a Week
10 A.M.-10 P.M.
K&G BEER - FREE DELIVERY (two or more kegs)
BOTTLED - IMPORTED & DOMESTIC SODAS - ALL POPULAR BRANDS
WINE - IMPORTED & DOMESTIC CHIPS AND SNACKS

A knockout of a movie
Brilliant
The utmost in suspense
Dynamite
Held Over!
2nd SMASH WEEK!
Met. Sat + Sun
2 P.M.
Tue. 7 + 9:15 P.M.
STATE OF SIEGE
BURLINGTON PLAZA
CINEMA 1 & 2

S.A. Films Leaders, B

by Barbara Frankel
S.A. Films will under several innovations semester due to change leadership and lack of fun. Eric Tabas and Don Adler taken over for Terry Dem who headed S.A. Films for years. Tabas and Adler face with the problem of a $24 deficit, largely caused expenses incurred by showing of "Big Name" on Saturday nights. He decided to make Saturday night a regular film night.

They further explained by stating that it costs $30 just to show each film and they lose money on almost every showing. He commented that a lot of films have been shown on television and are "just too recent" to draw a capacity crowd. S.A. Films has given enough money to run series both semesters, usually finance the semester with the profits from the first, but last year it wasn't enough.

On Saturday nights, almost other nights, the sponsor film series, Guinness and Peter Sellers will alternate on Monday nights at 7:30 and 9:10 P.M. The Living/Leaning Co. films will be shown on Wednesday nights. At Hitchcock movies will be in North Lounge of Bill Center at 7:30 and 9:30 P.M. These films will begin Hitchcock's earliest venture and continue up until his recent movies. An admission fee of $2.25 will be required. Bergman films scheduled for Friday nights 7:30 and 9:30 P.M. in Cook for a $5.00 admission. Saturday nights at 7:30 QUESTION: My fiancé with a number of names but a desire for some. Is it possible for a transmitter of venereal diseases could what is the probability of an unaffected and unknown?

ANSWER: Not only by two apparently people have no idea the transmittal VD. Apparently more likely for the disease than the man of syphilis could be undramatic vaginal gonorrhea. In the man usually immediately produces excruciating the time period before can certainly infect others. The probability of dependent upon who intercourse with, or woman had intercourse with him. From your already suspect so I choice of sexual partner. This brings me to of your letter. You number of major married. Venereal diseases are not by such a simple multiple a comedy.

QUESTION: A cure downy and smoke wondering if the harmful effects on us.

COLLECT
7
A cartoon illustration of a man in a suit and hat, holding a briefcase and looking at a large number 7.

S.A. Films Has Two New Leaders, But No Money

By Barbara Frankel
S.A. Films will undergo several innovations this semester due to changed leadership and lack of funds. Eric Tabas and Don Adler have taken over for Terry Deman, who headed S.A. Films for five years. Tabas and Adler, faced with the problem of a $2000 deficit, largely caused by expenses incurred by the showing of "big-name" films on Saturday nights, have decided to make Saturday night a regular film night instead.

They further explained this by stating that it costs over $350 just to show each film and they lose money on almost every showing. Tabas commented that a lot of films have been shown on television and are "just too recent" to draw a capacity crowd. He continued, "S.A. Films is not given enough money to run the series both semesters. We usually finance second semester with the profits from the first. But last year there wasn't enough."

On Saturday nights, as on most other nights, they will sponsor film series. At the University of Vermont, Peter Sellers films will alternate on Monday nights at 7:30 and 9:30 P.M. in the Living/Learning Center. These films will be shown free. On Wednesday nights, Alfred Hitchcock movies will be in the North Lounge of Billings Center at 7:30 and 9:30 P.M. These films will begin with Hitchcock's earliest ventures and continue up until his most recent movies. An admission fee of $.25 will be required. Ingmar Bergman films are scheduled for Friday nights at 7:30 and 9:30 P.M. in B106 Cook for a $.50 admission fee. Saturday nights at 7:30 and 9:30 P.M. will see a gangster festival, featuring the films of James Cagney and Edgar G. Robinson, also with a $.50 admission fee. The film series will begin on September 19, with the first Saturday night offering "Little Caesar" scheduled for September 23. Additionally Tabas and Adler plan several other possible film series, such as a Woody Allen festival or, in conjunction with the Living/Learning Center and WRUV-AM, a dance featuring Elvis Presley films and a live disc jockey.

Tabas, a junior from Wyncot, Pa. and Adler, a junior from New Rochelle, N.Y., added, "We're firmly convinced that film goes at this school must present two points of view, first good entertainment and secondly...to present both representative and artistic films."

They have other ideas for improving UVM film fare, including a series of science fiction films and the use of a senior majoring in market research to do a market analysis study of the university's faculty, staff and students to find out what the students particularly want in their films. This would also be applicable to incoming freshman classes. They also have an ever increasing film library, incorporating twenty feature films and ten or fifteen shorts which are available, free of charge for anyone's use, whether University or community member.

The S.A. Film Bureau needs staff to take tickets and handle administrative work. They can be reached at 656-2029 and have office hours on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 1-3 P.M. and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 2-3 P.M.

Evelyn Keyes leads a covey of "flappers and sheiks" in the '70's hit version of the 1925 musical "No, No, Nanette."

1973 Lane Series Starts October 1st

The Lane Series opens on October 1 with the new 1925 musical "No, No, Nanette," which won four Tony Awards, and which includes the great song hits "I Want to Be Happy," "Tea for Two," and "No, No, Nanette."

"Nanette" will be followed by the new pop musical "Two Gentlemen of Verona" on Oct. 15, "Two Generations of Brubeck" (jazz) on Oct. 15, and guitarist Julian Bream on Oct. 17.

Eleven other solo artists and group attractions round out the season's program. Tickets for all single Lane Series concerts go on sale on Monday, Sept. 17, in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. Tickets are priced at $3, $5, and $6.

Series tickets are also available in the Lane Office at $15, $21, and $24 for six, nine, and twelve consecutive concerts. All concerts are still open. Students, faculty and staff have ticket priority through Sept. 17.

The fall movie series, Classic Horror Movies, opens on Oct. 12 with "Frankenstein," starring Boris Karloff. The other movies include "Dracula" (Oct. 19), "The Fall of the House of Usher" (Oct. 26), "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" (Nov. 2), "The Phantom of the Opera" (Nov. 9), and "King Kong" (Nov. 16).

the doctor's bag

by Arnold Werner M.D.

QUESTION: My fiancé has been having sexual intercourse with a number of nameless women. This is not a sob story, but a desire for some facts.

Is it possible for a healthy man to have intercourse with what appears to be a healthy woman and become the transmitter of venereal disease subsequently? If so, what types of diseases could be transferred unknowingly? And, what is the probability of such an occurrence? Can a man be an unaffected and unknowing carrier of VD?

ANSWER: Not only is it possible for VD to be transmitted by two apparently healthy people but probably most people have no idea that they are infected at the time they transmit VD. Apparent anatomic considerations make it more likely for the woman to be a carrier of hidden venereal disease than the man. A painless sore that is characteristic of syphilis could be well hidden on a woman and an undramatic vaginal discharge can actually be a symptom of gonorrhea. In the man, the sore of syphilis on a penis is usually immediately recognized and a gonorrhea-infection produces excruciatingly painful burning on urination. In the time period before symptoms become obvious, the man can certainly infect other women.

The probability of contracting venereal disease is entirely dependent upon who the women are that he is having intercourse with, or rather, who the men were that the woman had intercourse with before they had intercourse with him. From your description, your fiancé's judgment is already suspect so I would not be optimistic about his choice of sexual partners.

This brings me to what is clearly the most difficult part of your letter. You and your fiancé appear to have a number of major issues to get settled before you get married. Venereal disease is usually easily treated with antibiotics once it is diagnosed, but a marriage threatened by such outside infections does not lend itself to nearly so simple a remedy.

QUESTION: A current trend on campus is to crush a downer and smoke it mixed with marijuana. We were wondering if the burning of the drug would have any harmful effects on us.

ANSWER: Any exalted high achieved with the technique you describe is probably as much related to reality as smoking banana peels was several years ago. On the other hand, there is always the possibility that toxic materials could be inhaled with the smoke and cause considerable pulmonary irritation. Aside from the use of marijuana and alcohol, other substances people are using to alter moods are potentially very dangerous. In addition, getting zonked on downers defies rational explanation. Not only is it on the dangerous side, but it sounds like a colossal waste of time.

QUESTION: Is the accidental injecting of contraceptive foam hazardous to my health?

ANSWER: My temptation to reply by simply stating that it would be an effective means of preventing oral pregnancies, was counteracted by a strong suspicion that a lot of people would think I was serious. Contraceptive foams are relatively simple chemicals and would not be harmful to you if they are ingested in small amounts. I cannot testify about their taste.

QUESTION: Is it true that the clitoris may be located in places on the body other than between the labia at the top of the vaginal opening?

ANSWER: The possibility of the clitoris appearing in a place other than where it is usually found is no greater than the likelihood of having a uvula in your armpit or a big toe in the middle of your forehead. Fantasies of pornographic film producers aside, the anatomy of human beings is generally well standardized.

QUESTION: After man has received a vasectomy, he must go back to the doctor's office for sperm count. How is the sperm sample obtained?

ANSWER: The sperm sample is obtained by masturbation. The general advice is for the man to masturbate into a wide mouth jar both for convenience sake, and for greater ease in capturing the entire ejaculate. Those concerned about this matter will be relieved to know that it is not necessary to get worked up in your doctor's office, you can do this at home and bring the sample in. Following a vasectomy it takes from six to ten ejaculations to clear the system of sperm. During this time it is obvious that pregnancy can occur unless contraception is used.

In the course of the evaluation of a man for possible sterility, a sperm sample is also examined. The same general rules apply that were previously mentioned, but it is essential that the man note the time he ejaculates so that the time lapse before microscopic examination for live sperm can be taken into account.

"Last Tango" Transcends Its Sexual Reputation

by Joseph Oleson

"Last Tango in Paris" follows the "neo" trend in film production to create an artistic theme which is attained by mood communication rather than through plot. The actual tale has been the medium upon which film and visual arts was based until such masters as Fellini and Bergman came into focus. Here we see a film transcending its sexual reputation to build to a higher emotional level which is its obvious purpose.

The romantic mystique of Paris is the first building block. This exotic world shows herself in a raw form, the blinds are opened upon dingy back streets and half hidden the formality of this world decide to partake in the dance and their dance is a perversion of the Tango which is dancing in its precise, almost intellectual form. Here is the final contrast between the world portrayed and the world real. When they are ushered outside, Brando "shoots the moon" or defecates on the moon which he has tried to escape in the movie. He begins a chase after a woman who wants no more of him yet in his only thread which holds him above the puddle from which he hides. When he follows her home, a relationship artistically begun is artistically ended.

Shakespeare...

(continued from page six)

Romeo and Juliet, while Edward F. Schneider directs the other two. Today's performance is Romeo and Juliet and there is a matinee besides the usual eight o'clock performance. Friday in Richard III and Saturday presents A Midsummer Night's Dream. There will only be one more week of performances, a delightful rarity which should be taken advantage of, for this is the first year in the history of the festival that the performances have run past the end of August and early September. All the performances have been reviewed as excellent and the intimacy of the theatre makes each performance stimulating and memorable.

The box office is open every day from 10 A.M. to 8 P.M. at the Arena Theatre on Colchester Avenue. The number is 656-2094. The festival is offering special student discounts for two dollars. Performances begin at 8 P.M. and matinees are at 2 P.M. Advance reserved tickets will be held only until twenty-four hours before the performance.

Marlon Brando, a machismo American male, forces Maria Schneider, his counterpart, to keep an anonymity between them. Since they know nothing about each other their relationship at first functions on the sexual level. Slowly the relationship begins to intensify as each's loneliness comes to the surface to confront the other's, and they fall in love without knowing each other. During a scene they speak guttural animal language which brings them closer than words do. All this peculiarity is the artistic intent for abstraction is allowed only in Art, the world of emotion and mood. The last scene places a final emphasis on the intent of the film and involves the lovers' reuniting after Brando's deliberate absence from their usual rendezvous. They go to a Tango Hall to have champagne and notice that a contest is going on. The dancers are formally dressed and make precise machine-like movements. The two misfits in Today thru Tues.

ONE EVE SHOW 8:45
ADM. ONLY $1.00
FLYNN
MAIN ST. DOWNTOWN BURLINGTON
LATE SHOW
EVERY FRI-SAT 7:15
THRU WED 12:15
Trinity Is Still My Name

"O'TOOLE IS FUNNY, DISTURBING, DEVASTATING!"
-Jay Cocks, Time Magazine
"A BRILLIANT FILM-STUNNING!"
-Judith Crist, New York Magazine
FLYNN ONE SHOW AT 9:45
PETER OTTOLE ALASTAIR SIM ANTHONY LANE
THE RULING CLASS
FRI-SAT IN COLOR

"JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR"
JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR is a controversial movie. IT IS NOW SHOWING AT OUR THEATRE. Some of the more conservative members of our community may think it's not so great. Some, perhaps, even that it is sacrilegious. I reserved my opinion until I saw it because I, too, was skeptical. Now that I have seen it (it's rated "G") I think it's one of the greatest motion pictures ever to play our theatre and I heartily endorse it for the appreciation of all. However, should any patron feel this picture not worth the admission we will cheerfully give them a "rain check" for a future movie. It has long been a policy of this theatre not to exhibit offensive motion pictures. However, we have never avoided controversial subjects. JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR has been endorsed by many leading publications throughout the United States as an important motion picture... indeed, great cinema. I invite you to be a judge. I respect the collective judgments of the various publications which have acclaimed the film, and I will most certainly respect yours. THE MANAGEMENT
Marshall's SHOWCASE 1 & 2
EVE: 7:15, 9:30

r Dies At 81

John Galsworthy was a fully-realized world, community detailed a gift to us from a richly endowed imagination.

The Lord of the Rings, a work which is massively imaginative, hierarchical, and even imperialistic, became popular with the most literate, rebellious, and even anarchical generation of students we have seen lately. This is no paradox but a logical outcome, for Tolkien's world is a world where justice can be restored, where the individual and his efforts can be meaningful, where the greatest and the least acknowledge each other's rights, and all acknowledge the highest Sovereignty. If that is a fantasy, it was also a vision.

The world that Tolkien's mind gave us has been objected to simply because it is fantasy, because it is escape, as though it were not a good thing, and as though Tolkien's world did not exist. By very contrast, as a poet's commentary on what we hereafter call reality, Tolkien's realm is simple and clear-cut, like a fine gem, but it shines and lives as no gem could. His writing is the external manifestation of the inward workings of a genuine creative faculty, and to Tolkien, who in private life was a deeply religious man, that ability to create was man's highest power.

"Fantasy," he wrote, "can of course be carried to excess, can be ill-done, it can be put to evil uses. It may even delude the minds out of which it came. But of what human thing in this fallen world is that not true? Men have conceived not only of elves, but they have imagined gods, and worshipped them, even worshipped those most deformed by their authors' own evil. But they have made false gods out of other materials, their notions, their banners, their motives, even their sciences and their social and economic theories have demanded human sacrifice. Abusus non tollit usum. Fantasy remains a human right; we make in our measure and in our derivative mode, because we are made and not only made, but made in the image and likeness of a Maker."

PAT & MIKE'S
Barages Inc.
BURLINGTON
5 a Week
P.M.
COMEST. DOMESTIC. SICKS

The utmost in suspense
Dynamite
F SIEGE
IN PLAZA A1 & 2

COLLEGE STUDENTS PREFER
ThriftyCheck
TO KEEP COLLEGE EXPENSES IN LINE
Checkbook Covers Embossed with UVM Seal
More than just a Bank!
Chittenden
TRUST COMPANY
Across from the Campus

NOW... ADM. ONLY '2
SHOW EVENING 7-9:30
Marlon Brando
Last Tango in Paris
STATE

Friday and Saturday
LOBSTER FESTIVAL
Our Fabulous Down East
CLAM BAKE
Whole Maine Lobster, Steamed Clams, Corn on the Cob, Baked Potato, Garden Salad, Demi Loaf Bread.
$4.95
or hit the Daily Double - Two whole Maine Lobsters $8.95
BLACK CAT
Restaurant and Lounge
160 Bank St. 864-9723
Credit Cards Honored

Fresh Ground Coffee House
123-125 Church Street
Menu
Monday Sept 17 - Tuesday Sept 18
Tuesday Sept 18 - Wednesday Sept 19
Wednesday Sept 19 - Thursday Sept 20
Thursday Sept 20 - Friday Sept 21
Friday Sept 21 - Saturday Sept 22
Saturday Sept 22 - Sunday Sept 23
Sunday Sept 23 - Monday Sept 24
Monday Sept 24 - Tuesday Sept 25
Tuesday Sept 25 - Wednesday Sept 26
Wednesday Sept 26 - Thursday Sept 27
Thursday Sept 27 - Friday Sept 28
Friday Sept 28 - Saturday Sept 29
Saturday Sept 29 - Sunday Sept 30
Plus Everyday: Chili con Carne, Potatoes, Apples, Salads, Sandwiches

Album Review:

Critic Looks Hard At 'Hard Nose'

By Jim Bradley

Van Morrison's newest album, Hard Nose, is something of a disappointment. Coming on the heels of the similarly mediocre Saint Dominic's Preview, it marks the second straight setback for him since the fabulous Tupelo Honey.

On Hard Nose the basic melodies have grown somewhat more complex, but they are neither as pretty nor as powerful as before. The tempo has slowed down, but reflectiveness and wisdom have not replaced enthusiasm and excitement. The old melodies of the Tupelo Honey and Moodswinger days were simple, but only in terms of the notes the melody followed. When Van sang a song the simplest tune was transformed into a wild trip through mirrors, mystery, tunnels and love.

Gone, too, are the old-style lyrics filled with clichés you could fall in love with, which filled his love songs and country living songs. On Hard Nose the lyrics are at best kind of interesting, and even then mostly just in so far as you can't quite figure out what the songs are about, if indeed they are about anything at all.

Now, a record review is obviously a very subjective thing. I think every reviewer owes it to his readers to tell them what music he really likes so that they'll have a frame of reference. Someone reading this review should be able to get an idea of whether he or she is interested in hearing the record or not; and knowing what I like should help.

So, he it known that when I put down this record, I do it as one who loves Van Morrison. To my mind, he's the best singer we have right now. My other favorites are Bob Dylan and The Band, but they've gone downhill. And though I am disappointed in it, Hard Nose is still not a bad album.

There was a time when I didn't think much of Van. There were people around—say three years ago—who would speak of him in the same breath with Dylan, talking about the poetry of his lyrics and "melodies." When His Band and the Street Choir came out, between Moodswinger and Tupelo Honey, he got the kind of write-up in Rolling Stone which is reserved for only the most important albums.

I could never understand that, and as one of the all-time Dylan fans I could never understand people concerning of Van and Bob in the same terms, at all. Over the years I would hear an occasional new Van song on the radio. I admired him as the writer and singer of "Gloria," an all-time great, and I kind of liked "And It Stoned Me," "Blue Money," and "Wild Night," but I never thought that much of them. They were too trite, too uninteresting, I thought. "And it stoned me to my soul," "Stoned me just like a jelly roll," a line I can now love. I then thought was a little too corny.

Then came Tupelo Honey. I heard that song on the radio a couple of times and it stoned me to my soul. That's right. I would turn on the radio just to wait for it to come on. It was the best song I'd heard in a year. He growled and hissed, his voice dripping the words: "She's as sweet as Tupelo Honey! She's an angel of the first degree." So I went out and bought the album. Tupelo Honey loved it, and bought Moodswinger, loved it, and bought the others.

On Tupelo Honey and (continued on page eleven)

Royall Tyler Theatre Will Open With Namesake's Play

by Margo Howland

The new Royall Tyler Theatre, the result of lengthy renovations on the Old Gym (also the former ROTC building) will not open its doors to the public until spring semester. Originally, the theatre was scheduled to open in the spring of 1972; then it was hoped that it would be ready for the 1973 summer Champlain Shakespeare Festival. So it will be that when the curtain rises on The Contrast, the first play to be performed in the new theatre, it will be the final realization of a long-anticipated event.

There is an interesting history behind the story of The Contrast and its author, Judge Royall Tyler, for whom the theatre is named. Judge Tyler was a distinguished American playwright, novelist, essayist, poet, and lawyer, born in Boston in 1757.

His play The Contrast, written in 1787, was the first American comedy and the second play to be written by an American.

In 1791, Tyler moved to Guilford, Vermont, where he continued his legal career. He received an honorary Master of Arts degree from the University of Vermont in 1811 and was a member of the Board of Trustees. He was the first (and only) Professor of Jurisprudence at the University of Vermont, from 1811 to 1814. Tyler was also a State's Attorney, a justice of the Vermont State Supreme Court, a Chief Justice and a Register of Probate for Windham County from 1815 to 1822. Royall Tyler wrote five other plays, four of which have never been performed. These also will be scheduled for performance in the new theatre.

The Contrast was privately printed by subscription. The first person to order a copy of the play was President George Washington himself!

When General Washington's estate was sold, Lucius Chittenden obtained his copy, complete with Washington's autograph. When he willed his library to the University of Vermont in the 1870's, the book was missing.

In the 1920's the book appeared in the library of James Wilbur. When UVM received the Wilbur Collection, the book was again missing.

In 1967, Washington's copy of The Contrast was discovered in the collection of Mr. Hall Park McCullough, of Bennington.

And finally, in 1967, Mr. McCullough's heirs presented the book to the University, nearly one hundred years after it had been originally donated. The Contrast is now in a glass display case in the Special Collections department of the Bailey Library. It has presumably finished its journey; for it is chained and locked inside the case. It is opened to the title page, and all may observe the handwriting of its first owner, George Washington. Reprints and later editions of the play are on the regular shelves.

When the Old Gym has fully become the new Theatre, it will once again have become the center of the theatre arts that it was at the beginning of this century. From 1900 to 1927 (when it was replaced by Memorial Auditorium) the Old Gym was a center of athletics during the day; a theatre at night.

In those days, the Gym was the scene of many a great performance by famous musical artists. Amelita Galli-Curci sang selections from Rigoletto; Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn and their troupe danced there; the great ballerina Anna Pavlova performed before a full house; George Gershwin played Rhapsody in Blue and the Burlington Symphony Orchestra was conducted there.

The only other theatre in town was the Strong, and it may have charged more for rent.

In 1927, Memorial Auditorium was built and the Gym was no longer used as a theatre, except for Kake Walk. In 1963 Patrick Gymnasium was constructed and the Old Gym was turned into a number of office rooms. Most recently it housed the headquarters of the Military Science Department and was known as the ROTC building; a couple of years ago it was the scene of the famous anti-war "sit-in".

As the new theatre, the stylish old brick building will consist of three levels. The first floor will have a box-office and a lobby. Going upstairs one finds an upper lobby and the seats for the theatre proper. The theatre seats 381 persons, and the farthest seats from the stage are but five rows away. In the center of the stage is a cleverly concealed, huge trap door — "for entrances from hell," Professor Ed Feidner, Dramatic Director, explains to curious visitors. There is also a backstage trap door to let down props and settings.

There are, on the first floor behind the lobby, the doorless exits for the actors, which slope down to the ground level, which is the theatre level. These exits go by the interesting Roman name of vomitoria which, of course means literally "to spew out"—hence, leave! and the building will also contain six rehearsal classrooms, offices, and costumes. There is an elevator for paraplegics and the building will also contain six rehearsal classrooms, offices, dressing rooms, restrooms, showers and locker space, the traditional Green Room, and other important areas of a theatre production and education unavailable in the cramped rooms of the old Arena Theatre.

An interesting sidelight concerns another play that will at some future date be performed in this gem of a theatre.

The Dumb Gent was written by Royall Tyler Jr., while he was a student at the University of Vermont. The play was performed at the University of Vermont Commencement in 1815. But young Tyler never lived to see it; he died in the Old Mill as a result of complications following an accident during winter vacation. Some day his play will be performed again, in the new, beautiful Royall Tyler Theatre.

Burlington

About 25 persons in the Burlington area have that a physical condition program carefully for results in major improvement in their lives.

The participants, hundreds of pounds of weight, they're enjoying more, doing things like and taking riding they always automatically run for themselves. They're more with people, and an interest in clothing, hide but to account figures.

The program was carried at Patrick Gymnasium, University of Vermont, during the past school. Persons from both off-campus made up the group up to 50 participants. 25 look part throughout year. These volunteers several things. They knew were overweight and condition, and they were do something about it.

Three faculty members assisted, and each had interest in the result. Edward S. Horton, Clinical Research Lab, wanted to follow the changes in persons who

Causes O

(continued from page 7) make an error and admit new students than was. Actually, Steele left the projection, prepared to administration and ap by the Board of Te almost on the nose.

(2) Some have blame abnormally high percent returning students, overcrowding. In preparation each incoming class university administration come up with an estimation of the new students who will be once they are admitted. number of old students will return, the number will, decide to re-admittance, and so number of variable studied, the most important what has been the past. Sometimes performance proves to be unreliable predictor.

But the Registrar's reports that the new returning students the actually exactly what expected.

(3) Unexpectedly more students than decided in re-admittance this taking time off. TB swelled the projected enrollment figure estimated 7300. The enrollment figure will known until October, a period for tuition set over.

(4) The complete opening of the Living/Learning Center its 600 new beds, officials to believe there be plenty of room to anticipated demand dormitory housing. The Jeanne Mance and halls, which the university from the hospital.

WHY BAWA

GRAY

OFFICE

SECRETARY

ATTORNEY

WAR

OVER

GR

for W

GR

& H

Thursday & Friday
LOW LEAD GAS 36¢ even

BRANIFF GULF
OPEN 24
HOURS

Complete car service
VW and VOLVO Repairs
ELECTRICAL WORK

including Bosch equipment

864-6303

Across from the Ramada Inn
on Williston Road

VALUABLE COUPON

SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS

10% DISCOUNT

ON YOUR PURCHASES AT

CAMPUS PHARMACY

ACROSS FROM
The Medical Center

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN

ROTC?

COURSES IN MILITARY AFFAIRS?

Did you believe that by joining ROTC you were obligating yourself to military service?

Not so! There is no obligation for the first two years of ROTC.

HERE IS WHAT WE OFFER TO BOTH MEN AND WOMEN

For the ROTC Student:

- CHALLENGING LEADERSHIP TRAINING EXPERIENCES
- Interesting courses
- Chance to become an Army Officer
- Full Tuition Scholarships
- Civilian Career Enhancement
- $100 per month for 10 months subsistence (Juniors & Seniors Only)
- Extracurricular Activities (Pershing Rifles; Bobsted Team)
- Flight Instruction (Seniors Only)

For the ROTC and Non-ROTC Student:

- MS 1 (1st Semester) Introduction to Military Studies
- An introduction to the interaction of war and civilization components of military power, military theory, and contemporary military issues.
- MS 2 (2nd Semester) U. S. Defense Establishment
- An in-depth look at the organization of the political/military/industrial complex in the United States.
- MS 12 (1st Semester) Contemporary World Military Scene
- Military Policies of the U.S., Soviet Union, and China set against the background of long-range national concerns.
- One third of our last year's enrollment were not cadets. These students found the courses interesting. Perhaps you will.

For more information, visit the Department of Military Studies, Room 414 Williams Hall or call 656-2966/2967.

ake's Play

interesting Roman name of vomitoria which of course means literally "to spew out" hence, level and the building will also contain six rehearsal classrooms, offices, and costumes) and classrooms and offices. There is an elevator for paraplegics and the building will also contain six rehearsal classrooms, offices, dressing rooms, restrooms, showers and locker space, the traditional Green Room, and other important areas of a theatre production and education unavailable in the cramped rooms of the old Arena Theatre.

An interesting sidelight concerns another play that will at some future date be performed in this gem of a theatre.

The Dumb Gent was written by Royall Tyler Jr. while he was a student at the University of Vermont. The play was performed at the University of Vermont Commencement in 1815. But young Tyler never lived to see it, he died in the Old Mill as a result of complications following an accident during winter vacation. Some day his play will be performed again, in the new, beautiful Royall Tyler Theatre.

ARY

components of ary/Industrial against the these students

Burlingtonians Prove Fitness Can Improve Your Life

About 25 persons in the Burlington area have proved that a physical conditioning program carefully followed, results in major improvements in their lives.

The participants lost hundreds of pounds of weight through diet and exercise. As a result, they're enjoying life more, doing things like hiking and bike-riding they had always automatically ruled out for themselves. They're mixing more with people, and taking an interest in clothing, not to hide, but to accent their figures.

The program was carried out at Patrick Gymnasium of the University of Vermont campus during the past school year. Persons from both off and on campus made up the group of up to 50 participants. About 25 took part throughout the year. These volunteers shared several things. They knew they were overweight and out of condition, and they wanted to do something about it.

Three faculty members assisted, and each had his own interest in the results. Dr. Edward S. Horton of the Clinical Research Laboratory wanted to follow the metabolic changes in persons who are losing weight. Dr. John S. Hanson of the Cardio-Pulmonary Laboratory followed the physiological changes in the body when the level of physical fitness was raised. William H. Nedde Jr., physical education instructor and head track coach, was collecting information for his doctoral dissertation on the self concept changes a person sees in himself as he loses weight and increases his fitness.

The program opened last fall with what is mandatory for persons embarking on either a reducing or exercise program — a complete physical examination. This examination went beyond what is normally required for protection of the individual, because the physicians involved wanted detailed information about the "before" condition of the volunteers.

Then came sessions with a dietitian at the Medical Center Hospital of Vermont. A diet tailored to the requirements of each individual was prepared. It wasn't a "fad" diet. "Most of such diets are impossible to live with on a continuing basis," says Nedde. Instead the diets aimed at reducing caloric intake without major disruptions in the individual's eating habits.

Then came the daily sessions, five noon hours or evenings each week. Each began with simple calisthenics. Then came a period of jogging and running. Participants weren't pushed, they were told to keep moving, either jogging or simply walking, for a minimum of three minutes.

"We had some remarkable improvements among the group," Nedde said. Some of the women at first could only walk or jog two-tenths of a mile. They worked up to jogging two or three miles without rest. One woman went from three-tenths of a mile on her first outing to five miles as a regular thing at the end of the year.

There were dramatic weight losses, such as going from 154 to 112 pounds, and a heavyweight cutting herself from 254 to 188 pounds. Pulse rates, an indicator of the fitness of the heart, showed healthy decreases, with the resting pulse dropping from the mid 80's and 90's to the 60's.

Nedde reported many changes in the participants as they shed those unwanted pounds.

When they began, many of them wore tent-type sweat suits that hid them from public view. They tended to stay apart from each other. They avoided looking in a full length mirror hung in the exercise room.

"By the end of the session, there were major changes in attitude," said Nedde. "They were feeling much better about themselves. The women were wearing blouses and shorts. They were more gregarious. Had opened up and were relating to each other. They were looking in the mirror at themselves, and were more interested in clothing than ever before."

Will they continue this new life, or tend to settle back to the life of fat up in front of the TV, and overeating?

Nedde isn't sure. "We may check some time next year and see how many have continued their new lives."

He believes many will continue. "At the end of the sessions, many said they were going out more, to dinner and to social events. Almost all said they simply feel better all of the time. They would hate to (continued on page eleven)

Jewish New Year Services At Congregation Ahavath Gerim

168 Archibald Street

Wednesday, Sept. 26
Thursday, Sept. 27
Friday, Sept. 28
Friday, Oct. 6
Saturday, Oct. 7
Ample seats are available and students are welcome to attend

Rosh Hashono Eve
1st Day Rosh Hashono
2nd Day Rosh Hashono
Eve of Yom Kippur
Yom Kippur

6:30 P.M.
8:30 A.M. and 6:25 P.M.
8:30 A.M. and 6:20 P.M.
6:00 P.M.
9:00 A.M.

AIM Sunday Church Transportation

NOTE: PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH HAS SERVICE ONLY ON FIRST SUNDAY OF EACH MONTH (FESTIVAL), EXCEPT IN SEPT. WHEN SERVICE IS SEPT. 9th.
TRANSPORTATION COURTESY OF LOCAL CHURCHES AND ASSOCIATES IN MINISTRY.

Cars leave from Coolidge Hall (Redstone Campus)
Return transportation provided.

CHURCHES
First Baptist
College Street Congregational
First Congregational
Ascension Lutheran
Faith United Methodist
First United Methodist
Christ Church Presbyterian

LOCATION
81 St. Paul St., Burl.
College & S. Union St., Burl.
38 S. Winslow Ave., Burl.
Allen Rd., South Burl.
899 Dorset St., South Burl.
S. Winslow & Buell St., Burl.
915 North Ave., Burl.

TIME OF SERVICE
10:00
10:00
10:30
9:00 (Sept. 2)
10:45 (Sept. 9)
10:00
10:00
9:30 (See note below)

CARS LEAVE COOLIDGE HALL
9:45
9:45
10:15
8:45
10:30
9:45
9:45
9:10

Causes Of Present Overcrowding In Residence Halls . . .

(continued from page one)
make an error and admit more new students than was desired. Actually, Steele hit the desired projection, prepared by the administration and approved by the Board of Trustees, almost on the nose.

(2) Some have blamed an abnormally high percentage of returning students for overcrowding. In preparing for each incoming class, the university administration must come up with an accurate estimation of the number of new students who will show up once they are admitted, the number of old students who will return, the number who will decide to accept re-admittance, and so on. A number of variables are studied, the most important of which is what has happened in the past. Sometimes past performance proves to be an unreliable predictor.

But the Registrar's Office reports that the number of returning students this fall is actually exactly what was expected.
(3) Unexpectedly some 200 more students than normal decided to accept re-admittance this fall after taking time off. This has swelled the projected 7100 enrollment figure to an estimated 7300. The exact enrollment figure will not be known until October, after the period for tuition refunds is over.

(4) The completion and opening of the new Living/Learning Center, with its 600 new beds, prompted officials to believe there would be plenty of room to meet the anticipated demand for dormitory housing. Therefore, many places, including the new dorms, which the university had in many places, were rented from the hospital, were consequently had to close to be dropped as dorms. But the demand for dormitory housing was far greater this year than had been expected. In fact, 800 more room contracts were turned in this year than last year, according to Dr. Keith Miser, Director of Residence Halls. The explanations offered for this tremendous demand include:

(a) The lure of the new Living/Learning Center, causing many people to stay on campus who would otherwise have moved off.

(b) The improved quality of dorms and dorm life, making them more desirable places to live.

(c) Changing life styles on the part of students, with a return to a preference for the style of dormitory living to that of off-campus living.

(d) The scarcity of off-campus housing. Many people who suffered through the indignities of a frustrating and maddening search for an apartment last year — an apartment which often did not exist — chose not to go through that again and signed up for a dorm room.

In the last five years, from 1968 to 1973, the undergraduate enrollment at UVM has been increased from 4700 to this year's estimated 7300, an increase of 55%. Off campus housing, particularly of the kind students can afford, has decidedly not kept pace.

Interestingly, the trend in the nation has been precisely opposite that at UVM, with students in most state university towns moving away from the dorms in large numbers. A situation of 40% dormitory housing, therefore, has been maintained in many places, including the new dorms, which the university had in many places, were rented from the hospital, were consequently had to close down some residence halls.

(5) The off-campus housing situation at the present is looking gloomy, according to Miser. About the only quarters available are with a family, or as an extra person in an apartment already being rented by students.

(6) There are some 250 men and women, as of last Friday, who are living in emergency university housing. Some of these people are in lounges and some are being housed three in a double room. According to Miser, probably 70 of these people will be housed shortly in regular room situations as the number of empty spaces due to no-shows becomes evident. The rest will continue to live in emergency housing.

All students in emergency housing have been assigned to random a number on the waiting list for regular assignment. As of last Friday, the women's list has moved along to number 32 of 152, and the men's list to number 15 of 147. If there are in fact 70 empty spaces due to no-shows as is estimated, this means that the women's list would move on to somewhere in the neighborhood of No. 65 and the men's to somewhere around No. 50.

(7) Those people who are required to stay in emergency dormitory housing, which is defined by the Board of Trustees as three people living in a double room or four people living in a lounge, for more than six months will receive some sort of refund, says Miser. Exactly how much it will be is still undetermined.

Last year students who lived three in a double room each ended up paying $398 instead of the normal $465. This year the cost of dorm rooms was increased to $590, so the adjusted figure will be considerably higher than $398.

A little multiplication reveals that 3 X $398 = $1194 — what the university got for a three-in-a-room double — is more than 2 X $465 = $930 — what the university got for a normally occupied double. Miser says the difference went into paying for the extra administrative work necessary to handle the situation. Students were required to foot this bill, and will be required to do so again this year.

This marks the second straight year that UVM has run out of dormitory space. What Anyone interested in playing table tennis — contact Mike Schwartzman, room No. 407, Austin, X 2913.

It must be twenty years since the place was painted. But you won't be able to tell it when the job's done. And while you're working, the great taste of Coca-Cola keeps everybody happy.

It's the real thing, Coke.

COCA-COLA BOTTLERS OF BURLINGTON

WELCOME STUDENTS!!

DELICIOUS
ITALIAN PIZZA
24 VARIETIES!
SUBMARINES
15 KINDS!
NOURISHING
COUNTRY STYLE
BREAKFAST
HOT MUFFINS
9 KINDS
ASSORTED
ITALIAN DISHES
BEVERAGES
DO-IT-YOURSELF
SUNDAYS
COFFEE
FROM FRESHLY GROUND
ICE COLD
DRAFT BEER

Call by phone!
Take some home!

THE Tower RESTAURANT
1234 Williston Road, S. Burlington
• Essex Junction Shopping Ctr. • Essex Allen Shopping Ctr.
• Barre-Montpelier Road

SEPT 22 - SEPT 29

CHARIOT COMPETITION
FRATERNITY OPN HOUSES & PARTIES GREEK GAMES

greek week

WHY BUY WINE IN A WAREHOUSE?

GRAPES & HOPS

GRAPES & HOPS for WINE & CHEESE

GRAPES & HOPS

tech hifi

The "Do you really think you can get through another grueling nine months of school without a stereo?" sale.....

Why a stereo?

Tech Hifi's great "Back to School Sale" and other reasons, for and against, having a stereo at school.

Reasons for:

1. It plays music. And music is great any time - at home in bed or on a Greyhound bus rolling down the Interstate.
2. It provides a physical and emotional release - a means of easing tension.
3. It is available to all, whatever their physical appearance or personality problems - the most democratic and egalitarian entertainment source.
4. It requires no other party. No reservations, no table settings - you don't even need furniture.
5. It is easily listened to standing up.
6. It is quick - no complicated and time consuming warming up is required - and afterwards there is no need to pass a half hour or so in social amenities.

7. At Tech Hifi you'll always find quality sound at prices you can afford. And that's especially true during our great "Back to School Sale!"

Reasons against:

1. You've read those newspaper articles about how listening to too much loud music is bad for your ears.
2. You believe that Spartan living promotes good character.
3. You can listen to your neighbor's through the wall.
4. You have elevated your level of consciousness to such a high degree that you can recall in complete detail the music of your choice without the aid of artificial devices.
5. None of the above.

Why Tech Hifi?

- Because Tech Hifi, New England's largest dealer, has the buying power and selection to provide you with the music system that's best for you at a good price.
- Because Tech Hifi, started at MIT five years ago, has been the leader in finding better ways to give you more sound for less money.
- Because Tech Hifi, a group of audio enthusiasts with over $70,000 of their own hifi equipment, has a pretty good idea of the service policies which make owning a fine music system a continuing pleasure.

What you can expect:

- 1) Excellent Selection
We stock over 100 name brands of fine stereo equipment. Why settle for "almost" what you want?
- 2) Low Prices plus Price Protection
We try our best to give you the lowest prices in town, and our 30 day Price Protection Plan guarantees that we won't be undersold - even by ourselves.
- 3) Convenient Comparison
Our specially designed display units allow you to listen to any two of our components in A vs. B listening tests, and our separate listening rooms allow you to hear equipment as it will sound in your living room - before you take it home.
- 4) Several Financing Plans and Layaways
We accept both Bank Americard and Master Charge, and several other credit arrangements with up to 5 year payments, as well as a convenient layaway plan.
- 5) Money Back Guarantee
Our money back guarantee means you can try your new unit in your own home without risk.
- 6) Free Speaker Trial
If you decide to improve your speakers within the first year, the entire purchase price of your speakers goes toward the new pair.
- 7) Over The Counter Exchange
You don't have to worry about getting a defective unit because we exchange defective units for up to 60 days from the purchase date.
- 8) 100% Trade-in
If you decide to improve your system within 90 days of purchase, we'll give you the full purchase price of that system towards a new one.
- 9) Five Year Warranty
For your peace of mind a Tech Hifi five year warranty is available on recommended systems.
- 10) Liberal Trade-in
Any time you feel like improving your system, whether you bought it from us or not, you'll find that we offer substantial trade-in credits toward a new system.

the STARTER

For the newcomer to stereo components TECH HIFI has put together a little system that will get him started, and get him started right. The Sansui 210 AM/FM stereo receiver will pull in all your favorite broadcasts and push them out through the Studiocrast 110 loudspeakers with 10 rms watts per channel of real power. The music will have no distortion, it'll be clear, and all the notes will sound as they should - real high fidelity at a very modest price. For a Turntable we recommend the BSR 310A/X with Shure cartridge. Its simplicity of design combined with smoothness and reliability make the 310A/X a real value. The manufacturer's suggested list price is $347.95, but you can get it now at Tech Hifi for a savings of over $98.

List $347.95

Sansui BSR Studiocrast
McDONALD

$ 249

the SOOTHER

What will you have to look forward to after twelve hours in the library trying to grind out a 30 page monster that should have been in three weeks ago? A cold walk home to a lonely room? Just the thing for those grim days ahead, we think, is this system that we like to call the Soother. Featured in it are the famous Smaller Advent loudspeakers, well-known for smoothness and accuracy of response throughout the audio spectrum unheard of before in speakers of this size and price range. So that the Smaller Advents can give you all that they should, we have included the Nikko 5010 AM/FM stereo receiver. Rated at 22 watts rms per channel into 8 ohms, this receiver comes from a company noted for its conservative performance specifications and what may very well be the most rigid quality control in the business. To complete this fine system may we recommend the BSR Macdonald 510A/X with Shure cartridge, synchronous motor, damped cueing and excellent reliability. This fine system would be an excellent buy at the manufacturer's suggested retail price of $473.95, but you can get it at Tech Hifi for a savings of $74.95.

List $473.95

ADVENT BSR
McDONALD

NIKKO

$ 399

the LEASE BREAKER

A crabby landlord can make life well nigh impossible for the earnest scholar. May we offer, in this system, a solution that comes easier than most. The Studiocrast 440 floor-standing loudspeakers offer the most accurate reproduction of bass notes and can produce the highest level of acoustic power radiation of all the Studiocrast line. The two tweeters mounted in a wide dispersion array significantly enhance the spatial character of music and enlarge the listening area. To drive the 440's we offer the Sansui 1000 AM/FM Stereo receiver, with 28 watts rms per channel into 8 ohms, an excellent tuner section, and the outstanding quality and care of production one expects from any piece of equipment bearing the Sansui name. We have not stinted on the turntable either, the Dual 1214 with base and cover, from a company known the world over for precision and quality. To make the sound complete we offer also the Audiotechnica AT-11E, a new design from a company new to this country but a one that is already known by those committed to quality sound reproduction. The resulting musical experience approaches the realism of the original live performance. The manufacturer's suggested retail price on this system weighs in at a hefty $899.30, but we are prepared to offer it to you at a savings of $300.30.

List $899.30

Sansui Dual Studiocrast
AUDIOTECHNICA

$ 599

SHURE

M91E Cartridge, List $49.95 $16.00

MEMOREX

90 Minute Cartridge

$2.79

ROYAL SOUND

"HPA" Headphones List $29.95 $19.95

LOTS A NIFTY

RECORDS: 1.98

150 CHURCH ST.
BURLINGTON,

862-2638

V T.

THE GOOD

FACT: 95% of all people owning a stereo are happy. 85%
are very happy.
2.5% are not.

Van Morris

(continued from Page eight) Moundance Van was master of the country club much as Dylan was Nashville Skyline. His image was often hackneyed, ev-oking pictures of the dog, riverbeds, bridges, the railroad, tracks - but in context of the mood of songs they became rich and lovely. Van was to pull this off because words and images he used and are symbolic.
represent not only rivers bridges and railroads but whole frame of mind toward way of life which a million us share. It might be called country fantasy - we believe the simpler, easier, to reality, better way of life we associate with these words.

Most singers could not do it. Elton John and B.
Taupin tried but they never do it. The same would come out and fall floor like an embarrassing pass. But Van not only away with his clichés - he them into art. In Woodstock he sings: "He come a slidin' / Way on over ridge / Hear the water flow way beneath the bridge woman's waiting by kitchen door / Me and alone in my old beat up car." It's a cliché Van drive a beat up car, but okay. It isn't phony offensive. It's just a symbol where his head is at.
through a perfect blend music and lyric we recognize it intuitively as and we share his frame of happily.

His songs at that time songs of love even when weren't ostensibly love songs.
His love for Janet seemed to extend into whole life, and in every we saw a man who was alive, and who reveals feeling. He could turn his into a brand new dimension the song he was singing, and could do it over and over for really different kinds songs. He still can. He can around, and through not well as on them. He can

It

Have The

Mon-Fri

Daily sub

THE GOOD TIMES

FACT: 95% OF ALL PRESIDENTS GOVERN THE COUNTRY AFTER THE FIRST TERM, 85% AFTER THE SECOND, AND APPROXIMATELY 25% AFTER THE THIRD.

THE 'SPIN OF SPIN' CONSIDERATION FALLS TO MAKE ANY INFERENCES ON THESE STATISTICS.

by Has

Van Morrison's Latest Proves Somewhat Of A Disappointment

(continued from page eight)

Moondance Van was the master of the country cliché, much as Dylan was, on Nashville Skyline. His images were often hackneyed, corny, meaningless by themselves, evoking pictures of hound dogs, riverbeds, bridges, ridges, railroad tracks—but in the context of the mood of his songs they became rich and deep and lovely. Van was able to pull this off because the words and images he used were and are symbolic. They represent not only rivers and bridges and railroads but a whole frame of mind toward a way of life which is a million of us share. It might be called the country fantasy—we believe in the simpler, easier, truer, realer, better way of life which we associate with these catch words.

Most singers could not pull it off. Elton John and Bernie Taupin tried but they could never do it. The same words would come out and fall to the floor like an embarrassing faux pas. But Van not only gets away with his clichés—he turns them into art. In "Old Woodstock" he sings: "Here I come a glidin' / Way on over the ridge / Hear the water flowing way beneath the bridge / My woman's waiting by the kitchen door / Me I'm driving along in my old beat up car." It's a cliché Van doesn't drive a beat up car, but it's okay. It isn't phony or offensive. It's just a symbol for where his head is at. And through a perfect blending of music and lyrics we can recognize it intuitively as such, and we share his frame of mind happily.

His songs at that time were songs of love even when they weren't ostensibly love songs. His love for Janet Planet seemed to extend into his whole life, and in every song we saw a man who was glad to be alive, and who reveled in feeling. He could turn his voice into a brand new dimension of the song he was singing, and he could do it over and over again for really different kinds of songs. He still can. He sings in, around, and through notes, as well as on them. He can sing loud songs and soft songs, gentle ones and tough ones. His timing and rhythm are superb. But by now he and his crazy love are over, he and Janet Planet are divorced, and on Hard Nose The Highway the old love songs, with one exception are gone. That one exception is "Warm Love," which Van sings in his softest, highest, sweetest voice. "The sky is crying and it's time to go home / And we shall hurry to the car from the foam / Sit by the fire and dry out our wet clothes / It's raining outside from the skies up above / Inside it's warm love / And it's everpresent everywhere / Warm love."

It's the best song on the album, though it doesn't hold a torch to his really good stuff, from "Madame George" to "Moondance" to "You'll Come Running to me" to "Domino" to "Tupelo Honey" to "Old Woodstock" to "Moonshine Whiskey". And actually "Warm Love" sticks out like a sore to out like a sore thumb on this album.

Side One begins with "Snow in San Anselmo," one of the record's better songs. Musically it is based on a somber descending VI—IV chord pattern, like "All Along the Watchtower." It's one of the more interesting on the album. You can actually tell what he's trying to do. He juxtaposes images of deer and a mission and cascades and silence with those of a massage parlor and an all-night pancake house, where he sits. Outside it's snowing where it never snows. "My waitress said it was coming down / Said it hadn't happened in over 30 years / But it was laying on the ground / But it was laying on the ground."

The only serious flaw to the song is his use of the Oakland Symphony Chamber Chorus, apparently to give it a religious effect. Van has tried a number of different things in the past—he now tours with a four-piece string section for instance—and that is admirable, but this is one which to my mind doesn't work at all. The effect is overkill because the song is already religious.

Following "Snow in San Anselmo" is "Warm Love", and following "Warm Love" is the title song, "Hard Nose The Highway". It's an interesting title and an interesting idea, and it's got some good lines, but it's still somewhat obscure. The opening lines are about Frank Sinatra and Nelson Riddle, and is he talking about himself or what? Still one of the better songs on the album, though.

"Wild Children" is another slow, sad song, this one about Van's generation, "the war children / Born 1945 / When all the soldiers came marching home / Love looks in their eyes." The song has possibilities, but it is only half-baked, and is full of clichés which don't work about Tennessee Williams, Rod Steiger, Marlon Brando, and James Dean.

Side one closes with "The Great Deception", which is as close to a rocker as the album comes. And it's really a long shot away. This is another one filled with clichés that don't make it. It's also the only outright social commentary he's done. The idea is decent and honest enough, but it somehow rings hollow, without punch or fire. "Did you ever hear about the rock and roll singers / Got three or four Cadillacs / Saving power to the people / Dance to the music / Wants you to pat him on the back." And later, "Did you ever see the people / With the tear drops in their eyes / Just can't stand it no how / Living in this world of lies." Admirable enough in conception, but it sits there empty.

Side Two opens with a jazzy cut called "Green" which Van didn't write unlike everything else on the album. It's vaguely interesting in that the lyrics don't rhyme. In concert he does many songs he didn't write which are much better than this one.

The rest of side two is comprised of two long cuts—"Autumn Song", which runs over 10 minutes; and "Purple Heather", which lasts almost six. Van has proven he can write poetry before. "Madame George", on the very early "Astral Weeks", is one of the finest poems in rock. But these two "poetic" cuts don't have it. I've listened to the album ten times now and I can still sit here and not remember a single thing about either of them, except that they're long and slow and they don't touch me. I saw Van in concert not long before this album came out and he was fantastic. He did a number of the songs which appear here, and I must say that in the mood of the concert they were very good. On the album, though, most of them are lacking in fire or apparent reason for having been recorded.

He has a fine band, (I especially like guitarist John Platania) but they have little room to let go on this album. An innovation is his use of strings.

The record comes in a far out cover with surreal tenements and street people engaged in survival and thrills.

Van has apparently turned his back on that world and is gazing thoughtfully across a field peopled with three anti-matter cows, a shrouded shepherd, and a Vietnamese peasant. Doves fly overhead. Both worlds are drifting two-dimensionally in the cosmos. Inside you'll find, quite mundanely again, the words to the songs, a record company policy I strongly dislike. It must be very hard for an artist, in this case a singer-songwriter, to keep coming up with outstanding stuff. This makes two disappointing albums in a row for Van, but that in no way makes me want to give up on him. He has never made the same album twice and he continues to experiment. The next one could be his best ever. But then it seems to be true in art that success breeds failure.

If you're crazy about Van Morrison you'll want to have this record. It is pretty good even though it falls far short of what he is capable of doing. If you merely like Van you'll probably want to skip this one. And if you don't know his stuff but this review has interested you in him, I suggest you start by listening to Tupelo Honey or Moondance. If you don't like Van and this review hasn't interested you in him, there's no reason for you to still be reading this far anyway.

Linguists Wanted

If you can speak a foreign language, with good proficiency, the Center for Area and International Studies would like to include you on a listing for the Vermont State Language Bank. By being listed, you might be called upon to use your language ability in an emergency situation perhaps, for example, interpreting for a foreign visitor.

We especially need listing for people who know some of the more rare, or exotic languages. If you are interested in being listed in the Language Bank, please call 656-2602 or write Area and International Studies, 479 Main St.

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

"ENOUGH ABOUT LAUNDRY FACILITIES AND PROXIMITY TO CLASSES - WHICH DORM HAS THE LOWEST BIRTH RATE?"

© COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES-BOX 8411-BERKELEY CA 94708

Physical Fitness...

(continued from page nine)

lose all of that. Needle stressed the need for both diet and exercise to achieve both weight loss and improvement in physical condition.

First, losing weight through exercise alone is difficult. "You have to walk about 12 miles to lose a pound of fat." Dieting is the easier route for weight loss.

Then why exercise? To improve muscle tone and flexibility and to increase strength—and that doesn't necessarily mean increasing the size of muscles. A lot of women in the program had wanted to take part in outdoor activities, but couldn't. Now for the first time they are hiking, bicycling and camping and enjoying those activities.

WOODBURY LUMBER

$299 AKRO-MILS 10 DRAWER CABINET with Jumbo Drawer
Reg. 4.99

Adjustable Shelving
Full stock of brackets and standards in 4 colors and 2 woodgrains in stock. We also have dry native pine and particle board shelving in stock any width to 11 1/2 inches, any length to 16 feet.
Buy your shelving and stain it yourself for less than half the price of regular prefinished shelving.

FIX UP YOUR PAD

Quantum Self-Stik Natural CORK PANELS
DO-IT-YOURSELF/EASY TO APPLY
$3.25

STANLEY Kitchen Drawer Set
Seven practical tools that the housewife will appreciate and use for many household jobs.
$8.99 Reg. $9.49

Win this Honda

3 First Prizes: HONDA Super Sports
50 Second Prizes: Columbia 10-speed bikes
Guess the number of staples in the jar.

The jar is approximately 8 1/4" high and 10" in circumference. It's filled with Swingline Tot staples. (Look for the clue about Tot capacity in the coupon.)

The Tot 50® stapler is unconditionally guaranteed. It staples, tacks, mends. Only 99¢ with 1,000 staples at your stationery, variety or college bookstore.
Cub® Desk and Hand staplers are only $1.99. And the Super Cub® stapler with no-slip, no-scratch base, only $2.67.

It goes to your head
Have The New York Times reserved on campus

Contact
University Store
University of Vermont

Mon-Fri	Fall Term $7.70	Full Year $15.70
---------	------------------	-------------------

Daily subscription rates are 20% below the newsstand price.

We Custom Cut Bedboards
10% off to students with this ad, not valid on sale items or after Sept. 20, 1973

WOODBURY LUMBER
King Street, at the dock - Burlington
OPEN AND READY TO SERVE YOU
7:30 AM till 5:30 PM Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday
7:30 AM till 9:00 PM Thursday and Friday
7:30 AM till 5:00 PM Saturday

Sports of Vesterpear

Reprinted From September 1922

The University of Vermont football eleven opened its 1922 football season with a hard earned victory over the strong University of Maine eleven, 9-0. The game was spectacular throughout, and replete with thrills during every quarter. Midsummer weather prevailed, and the game was played under a broiling sun.

Maine won the toss, and elected to receive the kick-off. After Maine had been unable to penetrate the Vermont line they punted deep into Vermont territory. The Green and Gold men then pushed their way to their opponents' five-yard line by repeated runs by Yarnell, Beck and "Suede" Johnson. Maine showed strength at this point, and held the visitors for downs. Small punted but the ball failed to go far, and Vermont once more headed for the Maine goal posts. A fumble on the five yard line spoiled their chance, and the quarter ended.

Maine did fair to score in the second quarter, for long gains by Blair, right half-back, and Small, left half-back, and short forward punted the ball in mid-field, where it was lost by a fumble. Vermont, still intent upon scoring, once more headed for the enemy goal. Runs by Beck and Driscoll, aided by splendid work by the line, brought the ball to the Pine Tree State's three yard line, but Maine was saved by the close of the half.

Vermont's tally came on the second play of the third quarter. Beck received the kick-off and dodging nearly the whole team, made a brilliant 70-yard run until he was stopped on the Maine 10 yard line. On the next play "Pee Wee" Driscoll carried the ball over, darting through the hole made on the Pine Tree line by the hard working Vermont linemen. A minute later he placed a drop kick squarely between the Maine goal posts for the extra point.

Maine started off with a number of long gains around end and by passes, but were never able to break through the stonewall defense of the Vermont line. On the fifteen yard line Maine met stubborn opposition from the Green and Gold, and were forced to relinquish the ball. The quarter ended Vermont set out in the last quarter to score again, but a costly 15-yard penalty took them from their opponents' ten yard line. The game ended with the ball in Vermont's hands in Maine's territory.

UVM SPORTS Bears Stop Cats In Season Opener

by Rick Steinberg
This past Saturday the University of Vermont football team opened their season with a disappointing 14-0 defeat at the hands of the Maine Black Bears. The game which appeared to bring together two evenly matched teams turned into a mismatch as the Bears displayed an aggressive defense to complement the offensive exploits of quarterback Rich Prior and halfback Jack Lamborghini.

It was a day of frustration for the Catamounts. On offense they had great difficulty establishing a running game which greatly reduced the effect of their talented receivers Billy Looker and Tony Jones. The offensive line was also having great difficulty containing the Black Bear rush. Quarterbacks Bob Bateman and Fran Baczek were constantly pressured which resulted in a rushed and ineffective passing game.

On defense the Cats had trouble controlling Maine quarterback Rich Prior whose speed and deception kept the Cats off balance all afternoon. Mixing his plays well, Prior used the strong running of Lamborghini and Brusso while establishing a potent passing game. The Bears amassed 211 yards on the ground and 229 yards in the air for a total offense of 440 yards.

This figure could have been reduced considerably had the Cats been able to corral Prior. The UVM defense, which displayed a fairly good pass rush, had Prior scrambling all afternoon but were unable to sack the quarterback. Instead of trapping Prior for big losses the Cats allowed him to run for extra yardage or throw 10 to 20 yard passes to his receivers. This was an important factor throughout the game enabling the Bears to gain numerous first downs and continue their ball control offense.

Quarterback Carl Clockum attempting to slow down Maine halfback Jack Lamborghini in Cats' 14-0 loss.

The Bears opened the scoring at 5:28 of the first period as a Prior pass was deflected by defensive back Mark Delorme into the hands of Al Marquis at the Vermont 5. Marquis took the ball in and DeGregorio kicked the point after to give Maine an early 7-0 lead.

After the score Maine continued to move the ball well but could not score. They were in Catamount territory throughout the second quarter but were thwarted by penalties and an unyielding Vermont defense on fourth down.

Despite being outplayed in the half, it appeared as if the Cats would leave the field only one touchdown behind. But on the final play of the half Marquis scored his second touchdown of the day on a pitchout from Prior. The play covered four yards. DeGregorio's conversion made it 14-0.

On the previous play John

Thompson had intercepted a Prior pass at the goal line but was called for pass interference allowing the Bears one final play. Thompson played an outstanding game defensively with 19 solo-tackles and an interception.

In the second half the Bears moved the ball well but were once again plagued by penalties. They also ran into a determined Catamount defense that continually came up with the big fourth down play. The UVM defense held Maine scoreless in the second half only giving up 14 points for the game despite having allowed Maine to gain over 400 yards on offense.

Prior ended the game completing 15 of 27 passes for 229 yards while throwing two interceptions. On the other side of the ledger Bateman was 5 of 8 for 33 yards while Baczek completed 7 of 17 for 82 yards with one interception.

Senior halfback Jack Lamborghini also had an outstanding game for Maine. He rushed for 100 yards on quick bursts up the middle and delays. Fullback Bill Brusso filling in for injured Don Cote also had a fine day gaining 49 yards.

SPS Photo: S. Frowenfeld

All in all it was a long tough afternoon for the Cats. But despite their problems they still only lost by 14 points. A hard and productive week of practice coupled with the experience of one game under their belts, could rectify the situation. There were problems with their timing along with many mental errors but nothing that hard work and concentration could not solve.

The Cats next oppose AIC

on Saturday at one o'clock at Centennial Field. This will be an extremely important game for the Cats. If they let the Maine game keep them down it could be a long season. But if they can bounce back and learn from their past errors, they could take a step in the right direction with a victory over

AIC.

Statistics

Maine Vermont

First Downs 24 25

Yards Rushing 211 21

Yards Passing 229 115

Total Yards 440 93

Passes 15-27-2 12-26-1

Fumbles 0-0 1-0

Yards Penalties 8-96 8-64

Points 4-32.7 11-32.0

Burlington To Sponsor Grand Prix Cycling

by Frowenfeld

This is it. Sport-fans! Big time cycling is finally coming to the Queen City with top amateur competitors pedaling in from all over the East Coast and Canada to take part in the First Annual Grand Prix of Burlington bicycle race. Long an established sport throughout Europe and South America, organized cycling is currently enjoying a tremendous renaissance in the U.S. where the increasing popularity and sales of light-weight ten-speed bicycles has created a class of fanatical racing enthusiasts. Known as "bikes", these massive-thighed athletes spend their summers traveling from city to city in search of glory and a crack at winning top prizes like televisions, bicycles and varying amounts and types of merchandise.

The Burlington race features an Atala bicycle donated by the Ski Rack for first prize and additional bicycle merchandise for the first ten finishers in the feature thirty-mile senior event. The race is known as a "critérium" or closed circuit race in which the riders cover twenty laps of a 1.5-mile course through and around Battery Park. Included in each tricky lap is a long climb over the Battery Street "wall" and a hair-raising descent down Depot Street to the lake front. Spectators will be able to view all parts of the course by walking it during the progress of the twenty-lap test. In addition to the feature senior (licensed riders aged 18 and over) event, there will be a four-lap "stock bike" race open to any local youngsters between ages 12 and 18 and an eight-lap Junior and Ladies race open only to licensed amateur competitors. The whole show begins at 10 a.m. with the Grand Prix scheduled to start at noon.

The promoting Green Mountain Bicycle Club is expecting one of the best fields of racers ever assembled in Northern Vermont. In addition to top local skier-cyclists Charlie Kellogg and Mike Gallager, current national champion and two-time Olympic cyclist Dave Chauner will be competing. Dave recently won the New England Championships and has just moved to Burlington to work for Valuga Sports. UVM hopes will ride on the shoulders of student John Williams who competes for the Green Mountain Club and stars in most local events. Stowp Bicycle Club ace, Jack Nash, is also entered along with out-of-town heavies from all parts of the East and Canada.

For a day of excitement and a rare chance to see cycling at its best, be sure to take in the thrilling First Annual Grand Prix of Burlington. A completely unique experience.

Booters Prepare For Contest Vs. Bridgeport

After an impressive scrimmage with the Green Mountain soccer team (made up of former UVM players), Don Soderberg's booters now are busy preparing for their opener with strong Bridgeport University, one of the top teams in the nation. Vermont defeated the Green Mt. soccer club, 4-1, with "sharp passing and excellent overall team condition." "At this stage of the season, I'm very pleased with the team's development," said Soderberg. The varsity roster has been narrowed to 23 players (nine lettermen) for the opening of the season this Saturday.

Following Saturday's opener, Vermont hosts Yankee Conference rival, Connecticut, Sept. 22, at the A.T. Post Field, at 10:30 a.m.

UVM Golfers Favored For Plattsburgh St. Invitational

The University of Vermont reported to golf coach, J. golf team will be one of the Edward Donnelly, as fall drills favorites at the Plattsburgh St. Invitational this Saturday, began last week. "Titus Sept. 15. Over 25 candidates. Plomarius is the team captain.

The fall golf schedule as follows:
Sept. 15 Plattsburgh Invitational
Sept. 21 STATE MEET at Middlebury (Course: Club)
Oct. 6 ECAC Qualifying Tournament, Ellington, Conn.
Oct. 13 ECAC Championships, Cooperstown, N.Y.
Oct. 21-21 Yale Invitational, New Haven, Conn.

Athletic Ticket Books Are Still Available In All Categories!

Purchase of a ticket book assures the holder of admission to all remaining events in football, hockey and basketball!

Reserved Adult, General Adm. $50
Faculty/Staff, Gen'l Adm. $40
Students with I.D. $30
Students with I.D. $20

Books are available at the Athletic Office, Patrick Gymnasium. Ticket book holders will be given priority in the event of a play-off or tournament.

Applications will be filled while they last! PLEASE - There are some books to be picked up by students who made the "down-payment" or paid in full.

FREE

SKIING IS DYNAMITE

"RAD RAUDIE" - DEMONSTRATING HER BUMP-AND-GRIND TURNS WEAKLY AT CATCH-N-EDGE, COLORADO.

ARRIVING EVERYDAY

SKIS:	Reg. Price	Sale	CROSSCOUNTRY:
K-2 Four	$185.00	$149.00	Jarvinen $ 28.00 $ 22.00
K-2 Three	$160.00	$129.00	Rossignol $ 40.00 $ 32.00
K-2 Two	$135.00	$ 99.00
K-2 One	$120.00	$ 89.00
K-2 Holiday	$ 95.00	$ 75.00
K-2 Junior Four	$125.00	$ 99.00
K-2 Junior Two	$ 85.00	$ 69.00
Spalding Sideral	$180.00	$135.00
Spalding Mystere	$150.00	$115.00
Spalding Chapral	$ 95.00	$ 75.00
Spalding Junior Sideral	$120.00	$ 85.00
Spalding Starboards	$150.00	$ 75.00
Head XRI Comp	$215.00	$160.00
A & T Daves Wood	$ 40.00	$ 20.00
A & T Aspen Wood	$ 30.00	$ 15.00
Rieser Junior Metal	$ 60.00	$ 30.00
SKI BOOTS:
Hanson International, Wax	$160.00	$120.00
Hanson Prima, Wax	$140.00	$105.00
Rieser	$ 45.00	$ 20.00
Nordica Velox Foam	$ 95.00	$ 75.00
Nordica Butterfly Foam	$ 85.00	$ 65.00
Nordica Butterfly Flo	$ 65.00	$ 50.00
Nordica Alpina	$ 40.00	$ 30.00
Caber Comp	$150.00	$110.00
Caber Pioneer	$ 85.00	$ 64.00
Caber Cobra	$ 48.00	$ 35.00

One Mile South Of Burlington On Route 7

1250 SHELBOURNE RD.
South Burlington, VT
802-249-1

NEXT TO SWISS CHOCOLATE POT

OPEN 9 A.M. - 5 P.M.
SAT 9-5

Complete Cross-country Ski Package: $64.00

Light touring skis from Finland or Sweden
Norwegian Bamboo Poles
Norwegian Leather Boots
Pin Binding Installed
BANKAMERICAN CARD
MASTER CHARGE

Total Value $85.00

REMEMBER TO PICK UP YOUR STUDENT MOVIE THEATER DISCOUNT CARD
AT THE
CYNIC OR BILLINGS LOBBY

THIRDEEN MOUNTAIN ANNUAL COUNTRY BANJO FESTIVAL
Vermont's finest fiddlers and banjo pickers with special guests
ERIC WEISSBERG DUELING BANJOS
and the DELIVERANCE band
★BANJO DAN and the MIDNIGHT PLOWBOYS
★GREEN MOUNTAIN BOYS
★NORTH EAST KINGDOM BLUEGRASS ALLIANCE
★PINE ISLAND STRING BAND
★CHAMPLAIN VALLEY STEAM ROLLERS
THIS FRIDAY NIGHT 7:30 PM
BURLINGTON MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM
TICKETS $5.00
Sponsored by Mack King for the benefit of Chorus Mts. School

(YOU CAN WEAR GLASSES AND STILL FLY!)

New Student Activities Director

(Continued from page one) further commented that programming work could take place around the study center.

When asked what he was going to do or drop from the program, Root said that he wasn't going to drop or add anything. He was rather going to develop a concern for the Senate at Wedge did.

Concerning long range plans, his basic objective was to get the S.A. "on its feet" as a group, i.e. by being more involved and responsible in general, he said "to put what we have into focus and then see what to change." Also, Root favors using Billings Center all the time by adding

Saturday night to the schedule and then having some programming afterwards.

In discussing his position, Root stated that the students created the position and the students should decide how to use it. He feels one of his principal functions is advising students and administration, besides being a major liaison between students and administration.

Bill Root further commented that it is up to the students to realize the importance of student representatives in all organizations. Additionally, Root feels it is the responsibility of students to cultivate good student organizations.

Censorship Declared Unconstitutional . . .

(Continued from page one)

story of the burglary would never have been published because it would have been unfair to the burglars," says Lucas, whose Washington, D.C. office is in this apartment complex that has become a household word throughout much of the world. He also has an office in San Francisco.

Nicholson's ability as a journalism teacher was never questioned, Lucas points out. The student newspaper won awards from the National Scholastic Press Association in 1969 and 1970 when he was advisor. Nevertheless, he has been unable to get another job in his field since being fired, Lucas adds.

Volunteers Participate On And Off Campus In OVP And UYA

Hal Woods, OVP Director, David Osgood, UYA Field Coordinator and Sharon Williams, UYA Volunteer working as Interviewer Coordinator at OVP are pictured at UYA training of new UYA/UYA student volunteers, Isle La Motte, Vt.

by Becky Burr
OVP Communication Coordinator

For Action Pre-Service Training at Isle La Motte,
Vermont.

While many UVM students were still following summer work or play schedules, forty-five of their peers were participating in University Year

University Year For Action was set up during the summer of 1971 by ACTION, the new federal agency coordinating federal and domestic volunteer programs. These programs had formerly functioned individually as the Peace Corps and VISTA.

UYA allows college students to spend one full year living and working with low-income people and community agencies, while earning credit toward a degree.

The Office of Volunteer Programs, under the direction of Harold Woods, serves as the coordination center for UYM/UYA activities. Last spring the OVP staff and present UYM volunteers interviewed UYM students for the 45 new UYA positions available this fall. Those who were accepted agreed to commit twelve months to full-time volunteer service. Though UYA's, like VISTA volunteers receive a monthly living allowance, they are not paid a salary for their jobs.

The Isle La Motte training session for the new volunteers was designed to create greater understanding of themselves as people serving the human needs of the community.

The activities of the five-day session which lasted from August 24-29, included analytical workshops in the four primary areas where UYA volunteers work: The University, The Community, Human Agencies, and Legislative jobs.

Dr. Joan Babbott, Pediatrician and past Director of the Office of Child Development was one of the 39 resource people who received an enthusiastic welcome from the UYM student volunteers. Other resource people included Madeleine Kunin, state legislator from Burlington, Bud Meyers, Director of Professional Laboratory Experience and Teacher Placement at UYM, Jim O'Rourke, Deputy Commissioner of Social Welfare, and Tim Pitkin, Past President of Goddard College.

Mark Stechbart, a Vermont VISTA supervisor and community organizing specialist was on hand to show Saul Alinsky movies on community organizing and help the volunteers facilitate their own plans for organizing in their own communities.

OVP had its own staff there including Hal Woods, the Director, David Osgood, UYA Field Coordinator, John Engraff, UYA Coordinator for Academic Affairs and Mark Smith, Instructor in the Education Department and Resource Specialist with UYA/OVP.

One of the highlights of training for most of the UYA student volunteers was the last day's "Treasure Hunt" which was presented by Mark Smith as "an experiment in just how much learning-growth development each volunteer can do for himself." Some of the suggestions for the individual treasure hunts included getting a job for a day doing something you've never done before. Now UYA Volunteer Chris Gombert took the suggestion literally and went into Isle La Motte and applied at the General Store for work for a day. His UYA job is working at the Lyman C. Hunt Youth Center.

Williams walked around the island, making a circle of local acquaintances. Her job is at OVP as the Interviewer Coordinator. Some girl volunteers pumped gas and experimented with jobs that have formerly been outside their experience. Other volunteers took the day to be personally creative, writing poetry as Katherine January, Media Coordinator at Corrections did. Ken Provan, UYA volunteer at the Winoski Mobile classroom and a Vietnam veteran spent his treasure hunt day composing a letter to President Nixon.

UVM's University Year For Action student volunteers are beginning a year of experiential education by working at Youth Centers, on Mobile Medical and Dental Vans, in Vermont Legal Aid, with the Vermont Public Interest Research Group (VPIRG), at the Burlington Housing Authority, with the Visiting Nurses, at the Neighborhood Youth Corps, at the Department of Corrections in Montpelier and at the Office of Volunteer Programs here at UVM.

OVP is also recruiting part-time volunteers for many of these projects. More information about the projects and about volunteering at any of the community service agencies in the city can be obtained by stopping by at the OVP office on the first floor of Mansfield House or by calling 656-2062.

One of the finest
ITALIAN-AMERICAN CUISINE

Buono Appetito

TREAT YOURSELF TO

★ RAVIOLI ★ SPAGHETTI ★ ANTIPASTO ★ LASAGNE ★ FRESH VEAL
★ PIZZA ★ EGG PLANT ★ PARMIGIANA
★ SANDWICHES

COCKTAILS & WINE
NEXT TO CHAMPLAIN
MOTOR LODGE
ROUTE 7

985-2232

TAKE OUT SERVICE AVAILABLE
SHELBURNE RD. SHELBURNE, VT.

RECORDS
CASSETTES - 8 TR TAPES

at
$1.00 OFF
our everyday
LOW PRICES

Select from the largest selection that you will probably see anywhere! If we don't have it... we'll order it!

BAILEY'S MUSIC ROOMS

88 Church St., Downtown, Burlington
863-3210

Jazz-Rock
Soul-Blues
Classical-Humor...
You name it!

No one can match our service

We invited a few friends for dinner and they helped clean up the Genesee River.

With the aid of a few thousand pounds of microorganisms, we're helping to solve the water pollution problem in Rochester. Maybe the solution can help others.

What we did was to combine two processes in a way that gives us one of the most efficient water-purifying systems private industry has ever developed.

One process is called "activated sludge," developed by man to accelerate nature's microorganism adsorption. What this means is that for the majority of wastes man can produce, there is an organism waiting somewhere that will happily assimilate it. And thrive on it.

The breakthrough came when Kodak scientists found a way to combine the activated sludge process with a trickling filter process and optimized the combination.

We tested our system in a pilot plant for five years.

(At Kodak, we were working on environmental improvement long before it made headlines.) And the pilot project worked so well, we built a ten-million-dollar plant that can purify 36 million gallons of water a day.

Governor Rockefeller called this "the biggest voluntary project undertaken by private industry in support of New York State's pure-water program."

Why did we do it? Partly because we're in business to make a profit—and clean water is vital to our business. But in furthering our own needs, we have helped further society's. And our business depends on society.

We hope our efforts to cope with water pollution will inspire others to do the same. And, we'd be happy to share our water-purifying information with them. We all need clean water. So we all have to work together.

Kodak
More than a business.

UVM's Department Hilberg S

by Margo Howland
Editor's Note:

This is the first of a series of interviews with the Department Chairmen of various areas of study presented in the University. The purpose of these interviews is to provide an opportunity for faculty members to explain the departmental subjects we regard as important.

They are also invited to express views and opinions on any aspect of their department or anything relating to the University, the community, the country.

It is also a way of introducing them to students—students new to the University, students interested in their particular department or even students hunting for something to major in and familiar with the various areas. It is not only important to become acquainted with the

Manager C Saga Fo

by Dawn McGinnis

"Saga Food Services is the finest college food program, bar none, of a major operation and independently-operated colleges," commented Stetson, Manager of Saga Food Services.

Brushing away the flies began my interview with Stetson. After fighting persistent creatures for a half hour I asked him if they were in the kitchen. He said, yes, on occasion, but both kitchen and dining areas are regularly sprayed with non-toxic bug killer.

The most important topic of our conversation was the shortage and how it affects UVM meal ticket holders. The last issue of the CYNIC painted a very dismal picture, saying there were a majority of meatless meals at the campus cafeterias. Mr. Stetson was more optimistic, saying the most meat problems should be over by October 15. Until then, some meat will be served every day, mostly chicken, turkey, and pork.

The meats not appearing on the menu for the next weeks are roast beef, steak, beef stew, and popular Saturday night steaks. Mr. Stetson explained that reason for the beef shortage is that it's just not available in the large quantities he has ordered. The meat which is purchasable is going for what he calls "black market" prices which he refuses to pay.

SAGA is implementing changes in their menu. Several new recipes have been added since school started. They include a vegetable pie, clam sauce over sea shells, a tomato rice casserole. Stetson says he eats in cafeteria 15 or 16 meals a week and these new meat casseroles are his favorite.

The cost of raw food increased 23.3% in the year. The price of all plans have remained the same, however, and although food selections may be limited, the value is still there. Mr. Stetson says that because UVM is less than a year old, other New England colleges and most students who attend elsewhere feel the food better here.

As far as profits go, at SAGA makes less than 10 cents on the dollar. A lot of money, students pay for food going to the upkeep of the hall, payment of personnel, replacement of equipment (last year

LAFAYETTE®

RADIO ELECTRONICS

Associate Stores
of
TES Inc.

370 SHELburne RD., BURLINGTON, VT.

Burlington
Barre-Montpelier

How to Select the Best Music System For YOU

Buying hi-fi today can be a bit bewildering. There are literally hundreds of turntables, receivers and loudspeakers to choose from. You just can't compare prices. You have to compare things like distortion, signal to noise ratios, RMS power ratings, and you have to listen. Then once you're thoroughly confused you have to lay down a considerable chunk of money and go home hoping you did the best thing.

Well, we at Lafayette Radio want to take the mystery out of all this. No one should have to walk around a hi-fi shop feeling helpless. Because when it comes to hi-fi, our business is to make you feel comfortable, by helping you understand what it's all about.

The majority of quality component purchasers find $200 to $600 the "right" amount to spend. Below $200, unless the system is designed for an extremely small room (like a car), which isn't high fidelity. High fidelity means "sounds like the real thing." Between $200 and $600, systems appropriate for small to large rooms and with less or more deep bass can be chosen according to your room needs and the type of music you like to listen to. Above $600, music systems are usually chosen by enthusiasts that are especially demanding and whose very flexible budget allows them their particular perfection.

Of course, the best way for us to answer your questions about hi-fi is to answer them in person.

So anytime something's bothering you, feel free to pick our brains. Just stop in at any Lafayette Radio or give us a call. You don't have to buy a thing. Our philosophy of giving people all the information they want has made us a success in the Burlington Area. Since we have the best service, merchandise and prices around, the more you know about hi-fi, the better it is for both of us.

FREE PARKING FREE PARKING

Stop By For Free "How To Clean, Maintain And Protect Records" Booklet

SUPERSCOPE

Interaudio

HITACHI

Sansui

Technics Dual

Advent

SANYO

JBL

James B. Lansing

ElectroVoice

TEAC

maxell.

PIONEER

KOSS REVOX

MGA

SHURE

audio-technica. SHERWOOD

JVC
Hi-Fi

TEAC

ESS

AMPEX

SONY

PHILIPS

BOSE

Garrard

BSR

PICKERING

OPEN TIL - 9 PM MON. THRU FRI., SAT. TILL 6 PM

LAFAYETTE GUARANTEES SATISFACTION

30-Day Money-Back Guarantee

We guarantee you can return any stereo unit you buy at Lafayette within 30 days of purchase for any reason, for a full refund. Merchandise must be in original carton, like new condition, with your sales receipt.

60-Day Exchange Guarantee

We guarantee you can exchange any stereo unit you buy at Lafayette within 60 days of purchase, for any reason, for an item of equal or higher price simply by paying the difference, if any. Merchandise must be in original carton, like new condition, with your sales receipt.

3-Year Lafayette Hi-Fi Guarantee

Three-year repair guarantee against defects in material and workmanship on all Lafayette amplifiers, tuners and receivers. Merchandise must be accompanied by your sales receipt.

5-Year Criterion Speaker Guarantee

Five year repair guarantee against defects in material and workmanship on all Criterion speakers. Merchandise must be accompanied by your sales receipt.

During the sale period of any ad, should an item be sold out, we will get it for you as quickly as possible at the advertised price (items shown as "limited quantity" excepted).

Phone 658-4616

C-90 $2.00 each or 3 for $5.99

90 MINUTES PLAYING/RECORDING TIME

The "Begoia" Music System

JVC

CRITERION 50A SPEAKERS
JVC 5501 16-WATT RMS
stereo receiver
BSR 310X TURNTABLE
SHURE M75 CARTRIDGE

These components purchased separately cost $330
OUR SPECIAL SYSTEM PRICE $240

The "Contemporary" Music System

If you are shopping around for your first component music system, you want to purchase a system with which you won't be dissatisfied in a year - a system which will reproduce the lowest bass and the highest harmonics, and not leave you wanting. We at Lafayette Radio have such a system, with a big compromise on the price, but with none on the sound quality.

The system is based around the Interaudio 4000 loudspeakers. They are meant to be compared directly in every aspect of performance, including frequency response, to the most expensive and elaborate speakers available, and they sound clearly and dramatically better than many far more expensive systems. Countless owners and usually-blame equipment reviewers have all commented that they sound like twice the price.

To power the Interaudio 4000, we recommend the Sherwood S7200 amplifier; it can produce 40 watts RMS per channel with exceptionally low distortion. (RMS is the most rigorous and least flashy measure of power.) The Sherwood S7200 will fully realize the fine low-bass capabilities of the Interaudio 4000.

We include a Miracord 650 automatic turntable with base and Audio Technica AT11E magnetic cartridge with a diamond stylus. Tracking is less than 2 grams, this combination will take good care of your records; you will get the same undistorted sound on the forty-seventh playing as you did on the first.

The total price of this system is $946.20, but we at Lafayette Radio are offering it for only $690.00, with our full 3 years parts and labor guarantee. This is a system which will satisfy both an ear for music and a head for value. The music lover who has not had much experience with audio components as well as the seasoned audiophile will appreciate the uncompromising value of this system.

Our Sherwood, Miracord 650, Interaudio 4000 system

$690.00

ADVENT Chromium Dioxide tape in cassettes at Special LOW Prices

And, with the 202, your worry about record breakage and wear are over. Cassettes last indefinitely. And there's a large selection of pre-recorded cassettes available to enjoy. All types of music. Many (over 400) are Dolbyized and have extraordinary sound quality! Storage and handling problems are far simpler, too, with cassettes.

LIST	OUR PRICE
C'60	$2.99 $2.25
C'90	$3.74 $2.99
C'120	$4.99 $4.00

OPTIONAL STORAGE ALBUM FREE WITH EACH PURCHASE OF SIX CASSETTES

FREE TUBE TESTING

The "TAKE-ME'HOME" Music System

Interaudio 3000 SPEAKERS
Sherwood S7100A 54 Watts
RMS Stereo Receiver
BSR 510X TURNTABLE
SHURE M75 EC CARTRIDGE

These components purchased separately cost $504.00
OUR SPECIAL SYSTEM PRICE $380.00

VOLUME XCI

Faculty To Establish

by John VanHoesen

A proposal to establish criteria for tenure was quickly thrown back into the hands of the Faculty Affairs Committee at the Senate's meeting for September 12, 1973-1974 September 12. Chairman of the Faculty Affairs Committee, Dr. James Schoonmaker, explained that presently, no section of the faculty handbook devoted to criteria for tenure in an effort to combat the possibility of an overzealous faculty the committee proposed the following criteria for tenure: 1) position of the highest earned available in the member's area or discipline; 2) teaching effectiveness; 3) scholarship and research; 4) continued professional growth; 5) helpfulness to students; 6) participation in the governance of the university and in the life of the community.

Dr. H. Nicholas found the committee's definition of scholarship narrow and suggested that the entire proposal be referred to the committee. Commenting that the Faculty Affairs Committee considered the problem of granting tenure to the university and the historian under of criteria, Dr. Walter Gibbons, a member of the Ad Group of Under Professors, felt the committee did not propose a loose definition of scholarship research to satisfy the Gibbons, summing up action, stated that the

UVM's De Haponski

by Margo Howell

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the ROTC Corps (ROTC) that have been admitted as on a regular Lieutenant Colonel Haponski, head of the Department of Studies, stated recently two years ago there was program of admitting to ROTC in ten universities. "Unfortunately UVM one of them. But the program was successful to warrant opening the program to women nationwide. I like to think the University of Vermont helped to accomplish have been very supportive women in ROTC. Out were relayed by Vermont Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army, Mr. Martin, and along with from other quarters, had some effect, Haponski said.

Continuing in the Colonel Haponski discussed favorable enrollment in "In our freshmen have twenty-two in twelve women student a jump of over 100% year. Also, we had another class section

In this

ington
Montpelier

YOU

free to pick our give us a call. You people all the
in the Burlington
hand and prices
ter it is for both of

FREE PARKING

YETTE
SATISFACTION

any store until you buy at purchase for any reason, for not be in original carton, like receipt

Guarantee
against defects in material and workmanship. Merchandise must be accompanied by your sales
receipt

Guarantee
against defects in material
and workmanship. Merchandise must be accompanied by your sales
receipt

8-4616

ape in cassettes ces and wear are over. Cassettes but cassettes available to enjoy. All the extraordinary sound quality cassettes

FREE WITH CASSETTES

NG.

herwood

E'HOM"

tem

D SPEAKERS

A 54 Watts

eo Receiver

RNTABLE

CARTRIDGE

arately cost $504.00
$380.00

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XXI

SEPTEMBER 20, 1973

NUMBER 16

Faculty Senate Rejects Proposal To Establish Criteria For Tenure

SPS Photo: Greg Bobbin

by John VanHosen

A proposal to establish criteria for tenure was quickly thrown back into the hands of the Faculty Affairs Committee at the Senate's opening meeting for academic 1973-1974 September 12.

Chairman of the Faculty Affairs Committee, Dr. N. James Schoonmaker, explained that presently, no section of the faculty handbook is devoted to criteria for tenure.

In an effort to combat the possibility of an overruled proposal, the committee proposed the following prime criteria for tenure: 1) possession of the highest earned degree available in the faculty member's area or discipline; 2) teaching effectiveness; 3) scholarship and research; 4) continued professional growth; 5) helpfulness to students; 6) participation in the governance of the university and in the life of the community.

Dr. H. Nicholas Muller found the committee's definition of scholarship too narrow and suggested referral of the entire proposal back to the committee.

Commenting that the Faculty Affairs Committee considered the problems of granting tenure to the sculptor and the historian under one set of criteria, Dr. Walter Gibbons, a member of the Advisory Group of Untenured Professors, felt the committee did not propose a loose enough definition of scholarship and research to satisfy the Senate.

Gibbons, summing up the action, stated that the faculty of UVM is not highly neurotic about tenure, that the committee was not necessarily crushed or surprised by the refusal, and that he expects a revised proposal to be on the Senate floor within a month.

Ultimately, the Senate can only propose such a list of criteria to the administration.

President Edward Andrews and Vice President Alfred Rollins addressed the faculty.

"Speak out," Andrews told the faculty, echoing Chairman Wilfred Roth's message. UVM's number one problem is long-range planning. Andrews told the faculty, the president foresees a good year economically, partially because of the excess of students. He announced the increased productivity of the faculty as the reason for the 1972-73 surplus and "the good shape we're in today."

Dr. H. Nicholas Muller found the committee's definition of scholarship too narrow and suggested referral of the entire proposal back to the committee.

Commenting that the Faculty Affairs Committee considered the problems of granting tenure to the sculptor and the historian under one set of criteria, Dr. Walter Gibbons, a member of the Advisory Group of Untenured Professors, felt the committee did not propose a loose enough definition of scholarship and research to satisfy the Senate.

Gibbons, summing up the action, stated that the faculty felt the duties of the new library counsel fell under the jurisdiction of his committee. The administration stated that Jones' committee would not have the time for an extensive study.

Faculty and students will also begin to see the result of a $25,000 investment extended last spring. New supportive educational equipment, such as audio-visual equipment, will soon be seen in the classroom. Also related to the classroom, Rollins described a new faculty incentive fund established for what Rollins called the "development of new ideas for institutional improvement."

Vice President Rollins, promised the faculty that 1973-74 would be "an exciting and disturbing year."

Chairman of the Faculty Senate, Dr. Wilfred Roth, outlined general areas of concern for the new year. They are: 1) ceremonies not attended by faculty and students; 2) the criteria for tenure; 3) a proposal for an early retirement plan; 4) UVM grading standards; 5) class size and the student-faculty ratio; 6) a library bulging at its seams; 7) an optimum fringe benefit package; 8) the budget surplus and low faculty salaries.

In other action the Senate unanimously voted to include in their minutes a memorial resolution to the late Benjamin Booth Wainwright, former professor of English at UVM.

The next Faculty Senate meeting will be held on September 27.

Role Of Women In Faculty Enlarged Although Discrimination Still Prevalent

by Jim Bradley and Barbara Frankel

In the last three years, individual perceptions and insights. The person's scholarship cannot be separated from this outlook and these perceptions.

"There are all forms of excellence," she pointed out. "Why should you only look for a national reputation or a mass of publications? When I was a student, a teacher's individual outlook and way of approaching the field were more important to me than what research they were doing."

A survey by the American Council on Education found that there was an important difference in attitudes of male and female faculty members toward their jobs and students. Of female professors, 58% considered it essential or very important to provide for the emotional development of their students, but only 36.5% of the males did. The figures were 73% and 52.5% for males and females respectively on giving high priority to helping students achieve a deeper level of self-understanding.

According to the New York Times, women professors and staff members earn $1500-$2000 a year less than their male counterparts. Kaye Felt, a history instructor in the Experimental Program, stressed the growing need to hire more women at equal pay. Female students, she stated, need role models of all kinds to pattern themselves after.

Another problem women faculty members have experienced is the inferior status of part-time female faculty. At present, part-time female instructors do not receive equal proportional pay or regular pay raises, nor are they eligible for fringe benefits such as retirement plans. On the other hand, males working part-time receive better treatment.

Additionally, Felt commented, "it is very acceptable for male professors to be part-time, if they do other professional work." Part-time females, however, are considered low person on the totem pole.

Felt advocated hiring more females on a part-time basis "to carry reduced teaching loads which enables them to combine family duties and a career."

She also suggested treating part-time faculty members as "true members of the academic community with full faculty rights." At this time, part-time staff must wait until August 15 each year to see how many hours they will teach. Felt recommended creation of a special tenure position for part-time workers. She also favored improving day care center facilities for part or full time working mothers.

Another inequality which concerned Kaye Felt personally was the current "nepotism rules" which do not allow women to work in the same departments as their husbands. Ms. Felt's husband, Dr. Jeremy Felt, is chairman of the UVM History Department.

"Faculty wives tend to be role-typed as wives. The fact that they often possess valid academic credentials is overlooked," she commented. Ms. Felt added that frequently, hiring two people from the same family is beneficial to the university, as they can work together. For example, her husband and she have signed a joint contract as co-authors of a forthcoming book on the Progressive Era. They also would like to teach a course, together and run conferences and seminars jointly. Ms. Felt summed up her belief by stating, "People should not be discriminated against, in attitude or fact, simply because they are married."

All the women interviewed emphasized the need for a change in attitudes on the part of their male counterparts and on the part of the administration.

"Our biggest problem is making people see there is an important role in having a woman professor and a particular educational value in having women on the faculty," commented Dolores Stocker.

"What kind of education do you have if the people you come in contact with are like the people you've always come in contact with? The administration and faculty need to be more sensitized to this issue," she continued.

(continued on page eleven)

University Health Service Moves; East-Avenue Site Finally Approved

by Dawn McGinnis

Last week the City Planning Commission finally approved the use of the East Avenue site as a student health center. Dr. Richard Amidon, Director of University Health Services, revealed last Thursday.

The University of Vermont takes possession of the building, which is presently a nursing home, on January 1, 1974. Soon after that time the residents of the building will be relocated in some portion of the DeGosbriand, but not until their new quarters have met rigid state and government standards.

Dr. Amidon explained that the plans are to make rooms in the part of the facility where stills are now. Only minor changes need to be made in the ground-level area. All construction will be done by private contractor; the bids for which will be taken relatively soon.

The area which is to be built had already been designated as the outpatient area. On this floor will be two waiting rooms, two emergency rooms, nine examining rooms, an x-ray and dark room, a laboratory, and a pharmacy.

There will be two clinics which accept patients by appointment only. The gynecology clinic will be open

SPS Photo: R. H. Lew

Monday and Wednesday mornings and Friday afternoons. The orthopedic clinic will take patients on Tuesday and Thursday. The remainder of the time it will be used as a physical therapy clinic. There will be two registered physical therapists and a pharmacist.

Also on the lower level will be new facilities for the rescue squad. The ambulance will be housed in a garage and the squad members will have a ready room, a bunk room, and a bathroom.

The inpatient area already exists and very few changes have to be made. The kitchen will be removed and Sags will bring the food in from one of the dining halls. A small area will be made, however, for the preparation of special foods.

There are plans to have nine double rooms and two single rooms for contagious patients on one wing of the floor. The other wing will provide offices for the doctors and administrators, locker rooms for the doctors and nurses and rooms for the psychiatrist and his assistant. The lounge will serve as a visit/study area for patients.

There will be an entrance and outside there will be enough

(continued on page eleven)

UVM's Department Chairmen: Haponski Cites History, Goals Of ROTC

by Marge Howland

This year marks the first year in the history of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) that women have been admitted as cadets on a regular basis. Lieutenant Colonel William Haponski, head of the UVM Department of Military Studies, stated recently that two years ago there was a pilot program of admitting women to ROTC in ten universities.

"Unfortunately UVM wasn't one of them. But the pilot program was successful enough to warrant opening the ROTC program to women nationwide."

"I like to think that the University of Vermont ROTC helped to accomplish this. We have been very supportive of women in ROTC. Our wishes were relayed by Vermont's Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army, Mr. Stuart Martin, and the Army Chief of Staff, and along with urging from other quarters, may have had some effect," Colonel Haponski said.

Continuing in this vein, Colonel Haponski discussed the favorable enrollment situation: "In our freshmen class we have twenty-two men and twelve women students. This is a jump of over 100% from last year. Also, we had to add another class section because of the number of non-ROTC students taking courses. There are sixteen non-ROTC students taking military studies; five are women. Our enrollment in one course, Military Studies I, is 48 students!"

He continued, "There is such a big demand, we have already started a third section. No more than twenty students per section; if we have more, we add sections. Last year we had one non-ROTC student, Lucille Morrill, who has now joined the program and will be the first woman cadet to graduate from the University if she stays in the program."

(The four introductory Military Studies courses, MS I, MS 2, MS11 and MS12 are taken by both cadets and non-ROTC students.)

In discussing changes in the Military Studies curriculum, including the change-of-name from that of "Military Science" Colonel Haponski commented: "I revised the curriculum last year partly with the idea of approaching the subject matter more from an academic standpoint. When I came here two years ago, one of the problems I noticed was that the department was not offering enough to the University. I simply wanted to representative department of the University and in order to do that you have to offer something to all students."

"The introductory courses offered to non-ROTC students do that you have to offer

SPS Photo: Wynn Gelm

Bookstore Nets 3% Profit Each Year On Higher Priced Items

by Carol Dufault

The University Store, owned and operated by the University of Vermont, nets a 3% profit each year. According to store director F. Owen Henry, the income is used to offset the expenses of the store, and employees receive no commissions or bonuses.

The store deducts expenses for utilities such as light, heat, and telephones, as well as maintenance and salaries from its annual income. The 3% profit netted yearly by the store is also used to repay its mortgage, which dates back seven years.

Items carried in the store are there because they are used in the classroom, and not because they net profits, according to Henry. "Even items you can't make money on such as butterfly nets and dissecting kits are available at the bookstore."

But aside from materials used directly in the classroom, the bookstore carries a line of "convenience items," such as health and beauty aids. Last week the Cynic went on a comparative shopping spree. Miscellaneous "convenience items" available at the bookstore were priced against the same items available at the Canteen Discount Store on Church St.

Mr. Henry stressed that these health and beauty aids were sold as a "convenience item" to students, and he added "if you know where you can buy them cheaper, buy them there!"

In regard to paper supplies, UVM students are still paying last year's prices. Henry attributed this to the fact that the paper was ordered early in May before Phase IV was unveiled. He also added that with the relaxed-price controls and the general paper shortage manufacturers have raised their prices as much as fifteen cents a spiral notebook.

"I don't know what will happen to the prices next year," declared Henry.

It is textbooks, rather than paper supplies and convenience items, that comprise the bulk of student purchases at the bookstore. Used textbooks are especially in demand by students. The bookstore buys used books on what is known as the 50-75 system from students and from wholesalers who advertise in catalogues. In the 50-75 system, the bookstore pays the student or the wholesaler 50% of the current list price for the book, and resells it to other students for 75% of the current list price. For example, a book valued at $10 will be bought from the student or wholesaler for $5 and resold to other students for $7.50. This is a standard procedure at college and university bookstores, Henry stated. He assured the Cynic that if the value of the book increases while the

(continued on page nine)

The date for elections of Student Association senators has been changed to Monday, October 1, due to a constitutional stipulation that elections must be held in October. The first official Senate meeting will be held on Tuesday, October 2, at 6:30 p.m. in Marsh Lounge, Billings Center. An unofficial meeting of all those interested in the Student Association will take place on Tuesday, September 25 in Marsh Lounge, Billings Center at 6:30 p.m.

In this week's Cynic

The Devil's Advocate . . . p.5
Start Of S.A. Films . . . p.6

Table of Contents

Arts and Entertainment . . . p.6
Calendar/Announcements . . . p.2

Crossword Puzzle . . . p.8
Editorial . . . p.4
Cryptocodes . . . p.2
Sports . . . p.12
Doctor's Bag . . . p.8
"The Good Times" . . . p.11

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Roundhouse Rolls Again

When Friday night rolls around and you're looking for a new experience, the Roundhouse in Lower Billings Center is in its third year. The Roundhouse is a place where the "it happens" most every Friday night, starting around 9 p.m. throughout the school year. Varying flavors of music are performed centering around a coffeehouse type atmosphere. But music is not the limit. Last year a belly dancer performed and color slide shows with piano accompaniment were viewed. Next talent originates from the local area and perform without a stipend. Everyone usually has a good time. The Catamount Den is open to catch a snack or a late-meal meal. And a piano is just off stage for those who wish to play during available time. We usually have scheduled performances for the site, but always try to find room for those who want to play, but are not scheduled. Bring your guitar if you wish. We welcome all to the Roundhouse. This Friday, September 20, at 9 p.m. and every Friday for a good relaxing time.

Home Ec Meeting Sept. 20

There will be a Student Home Economics Association meeting at 7:00 this Thursday, Sept. 20 in the Vermont Room, Terrill Hall. There will be a slide show and make-your-own-sundae type dessert. All freshmen are invited to attend.

Seminar on Jewish History Thursday evenings at 8 P.M. Hill House, 389 College St. All are welcome. This week: Creation—Abraham

OVP Sponsors

Slide Show

In big business in development in Vermont really a "drama racket?" To find out, come see... "Vermont Speaks For Itself." A slide-tape presentation by the Vermont Media Project, of interviews, photographs, and country music, will be shown in Billings Student Center, Marsh Lounge, Thursday, Sept. 20 at 1 p.m. Sponsored by the Office of Volunteer Programs fair.

St. Anselm's

St. Anselm's Chapel Services Holy Communion Sunday - 11:00 a.m. Tuesday - 10:00 p.m. (Services Episcopal, all denominations welcome) Morning prayer - 8:30 Mon-Fri (Ecumenical service sponsored by the Episcopal and Protestant Chaplaincies)

BAHA'I Club Meets

U.V.M. BAHAI Club welcomes all U.V.M. students and faculty to an informal presentation of the BAHAI FAITH-BASIC FACTS. Monday Sept. 24-7 PM. Billings Center, Conference Rm. "C."

Collectable Cans

Cans are being collected and recycled by the American Primary Experimental Program (APEX) of the College of Education. Money will be used to fund projects in early childhood education. Look for collection boxes in Billings Den and on ground floor Waterman.

September 30, "Indian Dialogue" and "The Ballad of Crowfoot" may be seen. "The Ballad of Crowfoot" was made by a member of the National Film Board and recalls some of the tragic incidents where the Indian people suffered.

All films are free and will be shown at 7 PM in the Anthropology Department, 5th Floor, Williams Science Hall. Any interested student, faculty or staff member is welcome and encouraged to attend.

C&T Announces New Play

The Department of Communication and Theatre announces the first major play of the 1973-74 season. THE LADY IS NOT FOR BURNING by Christopher Fry will be presented in the Arena Theatre in the Fleming Museum on November 1 through 6. Open tryouts will be held in the Arena Theatre on Monday and Tuesday evenings September 24 and 25 at 7:30 p.m. The production is being directed by Dr. Nancy Haynes to the Department of Communication and Theatre and will be her debut as a director on the campus. Tryouts are open to any interested members of the university family.

Music Dept.

Sponsors Lecture

The UVM Music Department is sponsoring a Monday afternoon lecture series this fall by oboist Melvin Kaplan.

Mr. Kaplan, a noted musician and distinguished member of the Juilliard faculty is also founder/director of the N.Y. Chamber Solists.

His lecture series at UVM, not on consecutive Mondays, will deal with "Elements of Musical Interpretation in Performance," and the first lecture September 24 will focus on phrasing and rhythm.

Time will be 3 p.m. and place: Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 20
12 noon-5 p.m., "UVM Community Art Program Registration at Fleming Museum. Open to all ages.
2 p.m., Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Arena Theatre, box office 656-2094.
8 p.m., Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "A Midsummer Night's Dream," at the Arena Theatre, box office 656-2094. Arrive prior to 8 if you'd like to see dancing by the UVM folk dance group known as "Kaval."

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21
Annual Leader's Week-end, a two-day workshop for the various volunteer fundraisers for UVM, opens today.
12 noon - 5 p.m., UVM Community Art Program Registration at Fleming Museum, open to all ages.
8 p.m., Champlain Shakespeare Festival presents "Romeo and Juliet," Arena Theatre, box office 656-2094.
8 p.m., The Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick Bldg. for a series of workshops. Admission is free, and newcomers/beginners are especially invited.
9 p.m., "Roundhouse" in Lower Billings Center - a coffeehouse atmosphere with good music. All are welcome to listen or entertain.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 22
8 p.m., final performance of the Champlain Shakespeare Festival's 15th season, "Richard III," at the Arena Theatre. Box office is 656-2094.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 23
2-5 p.m., Grand Opening at Fleming Museum of "Vermont '73: A Juried Exhibition of Work by Vermont Artists." Admission free.

Don't forget "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner Night," Sunday, Sept. 30. Faculty/staff and students who have yet to sign up for this event are urged to do so - a form is provided elsewhere in this issue.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 24
3 p.m., music lecture, first in a series dealing with "Elements of Musical Interpretation in Performance," by oboist Melvin Kaplan. Place is Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. See story in this issue.

1:15 p.m., "Why Man Creates," a 25 minute film sponsored by the Billings Center Governing Board, will be shown in North Lounge, Billings Center.

7 p.m., UVM Bahai Club welcomes guests to an informal presentation of "Bahai Faith - Basic Facts," conference Room C, Billings Center.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25
Last day for changes from credit to audit and for withdrawal from day courses without academic penalty.

1 p.m., The Billings Center Governing Board presents "Why Men Create," a 25-minute film, North Lounge, Billings.

4 p.m., meeting for all Political Science majors, Marsh Room, Billings Center.

6:30 p.m., first meeting of the Student Association Senate, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters (gospel music and bible inquiry) meet, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls; further information from Lynn Ricketts, Ext. 2952.

7:30 p.m., first class in a free boating safety course sponsored by the Winooski Valley Power Squadron and taught by Larry Snyder, director of administrative resources. Classes and Dec. 6 and further information is available from Mr. Snyder, Ext. 2038 or Edwin Granat, 863-5270 or 658-3774. Place is 118 Patrick Sym.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26
8 p.m., introductory lecture on Transcendental Meditation and the Science of Creative Intelligence, Marsh Room, Billings Center; sponsored by Students International Meditation Society.

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets at Southwick Bldg.; free, open to all.

8:30 a.m., Dr. Robert Tysbir of the home economics faculty will give a seminar on "The Effect of Maternal Dietary Protein Levels on Enzymatic Activity in Developing Rat Brain," Room 305, Terrill Hall.

Anthro Meeting Sept. 23

All students interested in anthropology are invited to a meeting and special showing of ethnographic films on American Indians. The Anthropology Club will discuss this year's activities. Meeting place and time: 5th floor Williams Hall, Sunday, Sept. 23rd at 7:00 p.m.

CLASSIFIED

ADS

FOR SALE: Jeepster, Commando Roadster 1968 - Never plowed. New roof. New battery. Radio. 41,000 miles. Will sell for $1,195. Call evenings 864-7266.

FOR SALE: Ford - 1969 Mustang Conv. Red, with white top and white interior, 302 cu. in. - 3 sp. std. Call 878-5920 - afternoons or evenings.

Guitar For Sale, 1928 Gibson LO with Martin D-28 neck, hard case. Excellent condition, recently refretted. Call Don Kaminsky 864-8210.

FOR SALE: 1970 blue Chevrolet Malibu: 360 4-speed, buckets, 1 owner excellent condition. After 6 call 863-1258. $1595.00.

FOR SALE: 2 KLH Model 23 stereo speakers in superb condition - only six months old. Sell for $160.00 each. Will sacrifice for $70.00 each. Speakers may be heard by calling 864-5333.

If she doesn't say yes it won't be our fault.

Prices start from under $100

E.J. PRESTON & SON INC.
2700 AMERICAN BEM SOCIETY
17 UPPER CHURCH STREET - BURLINGTON

DOMINO'S PIZZA

MOM TOLD ME TO

DRESS WARM,

WEAR MY RUBBERS

BUT SHE NEVER TOLD

ME ABOUT DOMINO'S

CALL

864-7444 658-3333
WILLISTON ROAD NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

50¢ OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Expires September 27 1973

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Void if not completed
1 Coupon per pizza

CRYPTOQUOTE

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

For Example: Longfellow
twonmttwe

In this example, t has been substituted for L, w for o and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

ORUV RH QFHG LMV WZNMVW GSRMT ZUGVI ZMLGSVI.

VOYVIG SFYYZIW

Solution to Cryptoquote in the Sept. 20th issue of the Cynic:

"Every man is as Heaven made him, and sometimes a great deal worse."

Miguel de Cervantes

PLANTASIA

10:30-6:00 107 St. Paul St.

small plants for shady rooms
macrame hangers and clay pots

It must be twenty years since the place was painted. But you won't be able to tell it when the job's done. And while you're working, the great taste of Coca-Cola keeps everybody happy.

It's the real thing. Coke.

Bottled under the authority of The Coca-Cola Company by COCA-COLA BOTTLERS OF BURLINGTON

So
Organi
Mon
Next Sign

VPIRG

The Vermont Public Interest Research Group Inc. (VPIRG) has opened a second office in Burlington at 49 Prospect Street, to coordinate all the student-based research in Burlington was a likely candidate for an office because of high concentration of students who do research. VPIRG which is a non-partisan, student-run organization working toward broad change in Vermont.

Gene Beaudoin, a graduate of UVM, is the VPIRG member presently in charge of the Burlington office, who received his B.S. in Ecological Sciences at UVM. Environmental Engineers will serve as one of the environmentalists on VPIRG staff, while also as coordinator of research of the key projects that coordinate will be a project to conserve energy at the colleges of VPIRG.

The theory behind VPIRG, according to Beaudoin, is to bring the energy, drive, idealism of the students together with the experience, staying power, and professional staff, to workable vehicle for effecting change. The benefits are many and varied. There is scientific accomplishment, the staff, hired and directed by the student body. Additionally, Beaudoin commented, there is educational benefit to students who learn that with tools and hard work, effective work on public questions can be done, and that research high quality need not be irrelevant to the world on the campus.

Scott Skinner, Director of the Vermont Public Interest Research Group, a graduate of Dartmouth and Columbia Law, worked with the Vermont Citizens Action Group.

VPIRG's first operation was "Downhill in Warren," an early report dealing with the interface between industry and the ski industry. The ski industry attempted to answer such as whether the local town. Another early report was on the conflicts of interest in the Vermont New.

FOR SALE:
2 KLH Model 23 stereo speakers in superb condition—only six months old. Sell for $160.00 each. Will sacrifice for $70.00 each.
Speakers may be heard by calling 864-5333.

Campus Crusade For Christ Holds Its First Meeting

Picnic for all Early Childhood and Human Development majors in School of Home Ec at Blondell House on Sunday, Sept. '23 at 3 pm. All majors and their families are invited.

organization based in San Bernardino, California. The staff members here at UVM are four among 4000, scattered across the country. They have academic interests that vary from chemistry to music. The one thing that unites them, they say, is their dedication to

After describing the general philosophy of the Campus Crusade, Jay Moreland went on to say, "We are not here to offend people, or to badger them into accepting Jesus' teachings. We are committed to Christ and to His ideals. We are here to serve. We intend to put these ideals into action, and not just offer empty words. We are doing this because we love Christ, and we want to share that love."

There are two phone numbers open to anyone who wants guidance or has a question about the Crusade. Call 985-3578 or 985-2156 for information.

TECH HIFI 150
CHURCH ST.

Editorial

The S.A. Returns

It is with great hesitancy that we write about the Student Association after all, what is there to write about?

The S.A., as we have said many times before, continues to be an ineffectual organization bogged down by petty feuds and masses of red tape. Contrary to the belief of many, this is not the fault of any one person or group of persons. Who then is to blame? Perhaps one could say the fault lies within the structure of a university which does not give its student body any real power.

The S.A. leaders, as always, work long, hard, futile hours. The Cynic, for once, will not bemoan their mistakes nor will we scream out against student apathy. These are things about which we can do nothing. Instead, we suggest that the future S.A. senators, and indeed every student look at the basic constitutional framework of the Student Association. The problem is inherent to the whole university.

"Every nation has the government it deserves."

Joseph de Maistre 1811
B.F.

Editorial

Riggs Vs. King

When Muhammed Ali and Joe Frazier clashed a couple of years ago, we were witness to not only a match of great boxers, but also a match that was truly a symbolic confrontation between the major ideas of the age.

For millions of us Ali stood for militancy and individuality and black pride against Frazier's unwitting Tomism. It was human grace versus the machine, the artist against the technician.

Now we are presented with another symbolic confrontation in the Bobby Riggs Billy Jean King tennis match. Riggs, who is making a new career for himself by proudly wearing a pig suit, has attained enormous publicity and money for himself through exploiting his male chauvinism. By beating King he hopes to prove his contention that women can't play tennis and therefore should be "in the kitchen serving meatballs instead of tennis balls," a ridiculous premise in the first place.

Riggs is a hustler and probably doesn't believe half of what he says anyway. But he has come to represent the anxieties and neuroses of many American men whose conceptions of themselves and their relation to others have been shattered in recent years by the ideas of the women's movement.

King has come to represent that movement, being one of the few women athletes to publicly associate herself with the movement, and if she beats Riggs it will strike something of a blow for women's rights in a symbolic sense. It certainly won't mean that women can play tennis better than men. In that sense the match is meaningless. But there's no good reason why women playing as well as men should be an issue anyway.

But unlike Ali-Frazier, it is a symbolic match that is hollow at the center. It is largely a contrived match designed to make money, a media event, an advertisers' rip-off, a mutually profitable exploitation of the public.

King may stand for women's liberation, but ad men have exploited that to sell deodorant. While we hope that King whups the bastard, we can't help but feel that a victory for her will largely only be exploited to try to sell us the idea that equality between men and women really means being able to combat sweat together with the same spray can.

J.B.

'EXCUSE ME - BUT DOES THAT INFORMATION COME FROM AN IMPEACHABLE SOURCE?'

Are Faculty Evaluations Inflated?

I am concerned about evaluation inflation on campus. Nearly 1/3 of our faculty was evaluated as excellent by the students last semester. While we all like to be appreciated by our teachers we must be aware of the ramifications of our actions.

There is no need to go over all the figures as we all know that some colleges are worse offenders than others. The only one I would mention is the College of Arts and Sciences, where the figures for excellence are way out of line.

We all know that these ratings of excellence can only lower our standings in the eyes of other institutions of higher learning. When we no longer reward our faculty appropriately by discriminating more finely in our judgement and by maintaining our high standards we are doing a disservice to ourselves as well as to our faculty.

I need not remind you that many faculty members leave UVM and take jobs elsewhere. Their performance here plays an important role in determining how they are evaluated by future employers. Our ratings of excellence should be meaningful and they cannot be if too large a number of faculty are rated as excellent by you.

We all know of institutions which lose status because their faculty are rated too well; the evaluations become meaningless and faculty from those universities cannot compete with others.

Only if we give ratings of excellence where they are truly deserved, as long as the distribution fits a normal curve, can we expect to be taken seriously by the outside world. This is a problem we must all work on.

One solution, (I'm sure there are others that will come to mind) would be to import some poorer quality faculty onto campus in order to adjust our averages so that they come more into line with those at other colleges and universities.

I am sure that you will all take this warning seriously and will take appropriate action.

More On Watergate

by Randy Jansen

The Watergate Scandal has caused one of the gravest crises in the American governmental system. Political sabotage, enemies lists, illegal breaking and entering, and other illegal and immoral acts have been charged against the administration. Some problems arising from the Watergate Scandal include loss of power for the executive branch of the government, and lower prestige for politics and especially politicians.

Before Watergate, there was a danger of the executive branch of the government becoming too dominant. Now, after Watergate the pendulum has turned the other way with the Legislative branch becoming too strong.

Checks and balances are important to our democratic system, and if one branch becomes too strong, the system is thrown out of wack.

How was the power of the executive branch weakened? President Nixon, who as head of the executive branch has more of the power. The fact that most of the people implicated or convicted in Watergate were close advisors, cabinet members or friends, reflects heavily on Nixon.

If Nixon is guilty, he has done more than any other president in trying to assume dictatorial powers. Demanding campaign money from corporations in exchange for favors, sabotaging the opposition's campaign, forming the "dirty tricks" department, making an "enemies list" and his many other activities, places the president on the same line as fascism and Stalin.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and Business offices in Killings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy, ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Letters To The Editor

The Overthrow Of Allende

To the Editor:

I have just returned to UVM after a year as Visiting Fulbright Lecturer at the University of Guyana in Georgetown, Guyana, South America.

The overthrow of Dr. Salvador Allende, Chile's constitutionally elected President, is a catastrophe for us all and I thought that you might wish to re-publish the enclosed article which I wrote for The Progressive in November 1970 just after his election to the Presidency of Chile. I think that the article is as applicable today as it was three years ago.

All those who abhor injustice and inequality must lament the death of this good man who fought the good fight in the interest of Chile's deprived majority. I might note that we were in Santiago in January and February of 1970 when Dr. Allende was selected as the candidate of the Popular Unity movement.

Sincerely yours,
Thomas J. Spinner, Jr.
Professor of History

The victory of Dr. Salvador Allende in Chile's presidential election September 4 is a breakthrough of historic magnitude for progressive forces throughout the world. Chile-watchers in the State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency were surely hysterical as they watched Allende, a dedicated Marxist, pile up a small plurality in the popular vote. (U.S. investments in Chile copper and nitrates among them are valued at more than $500 million.)

Nominated by a leftist coalition which is dominated by his own Socialist Party and the well organized Communist Party, Allende is pledged to land reform, the nationalization of basic industries, and the resumption of diplomatic relations with his good friend, Fidel Castro.

Allende and his closest opponent, the conservative, former President, Jorge Alessandri, polled just more than one million votes, with Allende ahead by some 40,000. Radomiro Tomic was a poor third for the Christian Democrats with slightly more than 800,000 votes. This was Allende's fourth campaign for the presidency. In 1958 he was narrowly defeated by Alessandri; in 1964 he received a drubbing at the hands of Eduardo Frei, the incumbent Christian Democratic president, whose six years in office have not produced the degree of change and transformation which had been expected.

But Allende's thirty-six per cent of the popular vote is not enough to make him president-elect. Chile's constitution provides that if no candidate receives fifty per cent of the votes, both Houses of Congress must meet in joint session and choose between the two men who led the field. In the past, Congress has always selected the front runner, and there seems little doubt that Allende will be confirmed October 24. With eighty of the 200 legislators already certain, Allende should easily pick up enough Christian Democratic votes to make him Chile's new President on November 4.

The gravest weakness of the Left in the world has been that tragic split between Communist and Socialist which goes back to 1917. It is possible that Allende's administration may be able to provide a model for other states which seek to deal with their national problems in a national fashion without neglecting their international obligations. He is no more likely to take orders from Moscow, Peking, or Havana than he is to take them from Washington. He is both a nationalist and an internationalist in the finest sense of those two much abused words. But more than anything else, Salvador Allende is a Socialist who takes socialism seriously and who has never lost sight of the fact that you do not build a socialist society by capitulating to either Stalinism or free enterprise capitalism. Chile's Communist Party may discover that he is too radical for its taste.

Although there have been some rumblings of discontent in Chile's army these past few years, it seems unlikely that the army would intervene without advance pledges of support from Washington; though the wretched military regime which continues to stagger along in neighboring Argentina must also be appalled by the prospect of an Allende presidency. Chile's army last intervened in a decisive fashion some forty years ago, but since then there has been relative political stability and a fairly general acceptance of the ballot rather than the bullet.

After a rather crude analysis which argued that Allende's victory was "a heavy blow at liberal democracy," a New York Times editorial of September 6 concluded: "Whatever troubles Chile may face would only be compounded by even the appearance of American interference."

It is more imperative than ever that we not merely liquidate our intervention in the Vietnamese civil war but that we fully explore and reject the distorted reasoning which took us there in the first place. If we do not, we shall soon be fighting in Vietnam all over Latin America.

Thomas J. Spinner

SAGA Apologize

To the Editor:

Since the Cynic is read by all residence hall and commuter students, I wish to use this communication vehicle to thank all students holding meal tickets who were cooperative and understanding of our problems on Wednesday, September 12th. As many of you know a water line burst in Marsh at 3 p.m., but we still intended to serve using paper, but at 4:10 p.m. a power line was cut at Harris-Mills, Marsh and Living & Learning, but Living & Learning continued to serve because we have gas equipment. The other three halls stayed open late and I hope everyone was able to make it to another hall and all the managers appreciate your understanding.

Thank you,
Bob Stetson
Food Service Director

Harris-Mills,

Guilty Or Innocent, The Consequences Remain

If, on the other hand, he is innocent, his ability as an administrator must be seriously questioned. He has terribly misjudged his associates. Those under investigation include his White House Chief of Staff, H. R. Halderman, John Ehrlichman, his Chief domestic advisor, his former attorney general, John Mitchell and even Herbert Kalmbach, his personal lawyer.

Guilty or innocent? Both questions cause one to shudder at the thought of the implications and consequences.

The consequences we know. The executive branch, through loss of respect from both the Congress and public is at its lowest point since the birth of this country. The loss of power in turn upsets the delicate equilibrium of power between the branches of government. A growing paralysis of the government increasingly concerned with the scandal, and again the loss of respect for many government agencies from the C.I.A. and I.R.S. to the Attorney General's office.

In the case of his innocence, a very important question arises. Who actually runs the government? Can persons beside the president order work done by the C.I.A. or F.B.I.? Is the president a man who is just a figurehead for his lower subordinates? Whatever the case, the thoughts are frightening.

Another important impact of Watergate is the use (or misuse) of governmental power and institutions.

Perhaps the hardest hit institution is the F.B.I. Under J. Edgar Hoover the F.B.I. had remained impartial to politics. However, after his death, L. Patrick Gray (acting head of the FBI) used the FBI to co-operate with the White House in defrauding the public to protect high officials in the Watergate Scandal.

The CIA has been said to be involved in Watergate by more than one witness (of Sam Ervin's Committee.) in supplying electronic equipment and know-how.

The IRS was used to "screw" political enemies by especially scrutinizing the "enemies" tax audits.

Perhaps the saddest involvement in Watergate was that of John Mitchell, Attorney General. The fact that the Attorney General is supposed to represent law and order causes great concern when the Attorney General is involved in criminal activities.

The loss of prestige of government officials has affected many politicians especially Republicans. The best example is that of Nixon whose popularity has plummeted since the Watergate investigation.

Though the Watergate Scandal has caused many problems, it also has been beneficial. First, the most prominent lesson that can be learned from Watergate has been the role of the press. Watergate showed that freedom of the press is absolutely necessary for a democratic government. Only an independent and free press could have uncovered the Watergate Scandal.

Second, it destroyed the security bubble around Nixon which had kept him sheltered. A president must be open to all ideas in order to make a sound judgment, not just to those his appointment secretary or advisors might think best for him. And thirdly it has proved a check against encroaching presidential power. Congress has again gained a more equal voice in government.

The full extent of Watergate will probably never be known, but what is known has brought governmental corruption into the public view. We can learn from the harsh lessons of Watergate.

The people must exert their voting power to elect honest hard-working men and women. Difficult, yes, impossible, no. People must show they care; that they won't tolerate criminal influence in the government. If we the people don't care about our government, no one else will.

That whenever any form of government becomes destructive to these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its power in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness.

Night comes upon this hill
as I prepare my fire.
My sheep are quiet.
I look below, unable
to hold my tears.

I grow old, and my land disappears.
The builders, they come in suits,
smoking cigarettes, short-winded fools.
They know not the music of morning wind,
nor the music of autumn crickets.
They know not the feel of the earth
as seasons come and go with time.
With their machines, the builders dig:

And the people, they come in cars.
They are in a hurry, sending their children to school, working their nine to five shift, eating their meals in haste, staring at their neighbor's yard, wondering what's going on, forgetting.

And the builders, they say:
"Move on. This is progress.
Old man, you don't belong here.
When I don't answer, they cry:
"Fool! You'll die soon anyway."
And the builders, they are right.

Night comes upon this hill
as I prepare my fire.
My sheep are quiet.
I look below, unable
to hold my tears.

I weep.

Steven C. Rice

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS MANAGER Barbara Frankel '75
ASSISTANT EDITOR Ruth Hay '74
MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74
NEWS EDITOR Bruce Maddern '78
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lissa Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75
ASSISTANT FEATURE EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
SPORTS EDITOR Loren Wilson '74
ADVERTISING MANAGER

NEWS: Dave Campaigne, Bill Campbell, Daniel Haslam, Randy Jansen, Jill Markert, Dawn McGinnis, Andy Morse, Laurie Rapp, Kathy Stasianni, John Van Hoesen
FEATURE: Sam Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Carol Dufault, Barbara Friedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Olshan, Karen Trott
COLUMNISTS: Scott Caboon, John Franco, Elliot Freeman, Greg Gupta, Ron McNeil, Steven Rice, Jim Sloman, Scott Sweeney, Jim Wimsel
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Andy Morse, Alan Patashnick, Norm Robinson, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilenski
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Abbie Schaefer
PRODUCTION: Fred Oaten, Tom Farris, John Lunie, Debbie Valtou, Joan Westcott

CH

147

Superscoop Checks Out A Pipe Dream And Gets The Old Runaround

by Scott Cahoon

Here at the Vermont Cynic we receive many requests for information concerning university life. Students call up to find out where their classes are. Professors call up to find out where their students are. Fraternity men want to know where the women are. Women want to know where the fraternities are. Students from New York City are curious as to why the air smells so funny, and when the next subway leaves for downtown.

But one of the most intriguing questions we've received lately is this: What is the purpose of those pipes (five shiny black ones flanked by two fat green ones) which are sticking out of the ground between Billings Center and Votey? Armed with my Reporter's Notebook (marca registrada) and my Nose (patent pending), I set off into the wilds of Groovy Yuray to find the answer.

From a habit picked up from an occasional visit to the principal's office while in high school, I headed for the closest substitute, the Dean of Students. He seemed friendly but a little confused, apparently he gets to be very few students. He said he had no idea what the pipes were for, but suggested I ask at the Maintenance Department. Unfortunately, they were even more unhelpful than the Dean. No student ever took an interest in them - so they sent me to the Registrar who directed me to the Student Association, who in turn sent me to the Academic Affairs Office and so on through the Department of Extracurricular Affairs and the Department of Social Affairs, the Department of Anatomy, the Safety Committee, the Director of Athletics, the Extension Service, the Co-ordinated Placement Department, the Health Services.

When I came to I was lying on a beaten-up mattress in what looked like an old, abandoned storage room. Coming toward me was what looked like an old, abandoned filing clerk. By her pale complexion she hadn't been out of the place in nine years. Silently, she beckoned to me with a crooked and withered finger, then turned and scrobbled away from me. I followed her to a door on which was written:

BERNARD BURGBACHE
Director of Physical Plant

Opening the door I beheld an office occupied by a short, bald, gnome-like individual sporting a graying goatee, a gold tie, peacock blue jacket and fuchsia shorts. He looked up and beckoned to me, saying, "Come in, dear!" I took the proffered chair while he finished writing "Now then, suppetie. What can we do for you?"

Deciding to ignore such inconsequential matters as where I was and who he meant by "we", I explained that I was Joe Pulitzer from the Vermont Cynic, and that I was seeking the purpose behind the pipes between Billings and Votey.

"Oh, dear, yes! That should be easy enough to explain. Follow me." He rose and exited through a door adjacent to his desk. I noticed that he had a run in his nylon. Following him, I found myself in the open air. Although it was night, I recognized the place: a short concrete ditch with three doors marked DANGER - EXPLOSIVES. We had just come out the left door, and Burgbache was inserting a key into the lock of the one in the center. I noticed only one light visible in Cook.

Burbache had the door open, so we entered and were met by a security guard standing in a long hall. We walked the length of it to a door in the right-hand wall, my way-backed farm boy stride contrasting sharply with Burgbache, who skipped the whole way humming. "I am the Queen of England." On the other side of the door was another corridor, this one with two doors on the left wall and another at the end. Burgbache led me to the nearest door. The tremendous clattering we could hear came from the huge printing press and bookbinding machine we found inside. I started to ask Burgbache the obvious question, but he beat me to it.

"What's this?" he demanded.

"Looks like a print shop," said I.

"Good! You win the prize, suppetie."

"So? What do you print here?"

"Books," Burgbache looked like he'd just won Final Jeopardy.

"You're kidding."

"Where do you think all those lovely books in the library come from? We write and print them here. It's much cheaper than buying them from those awful publishers."

"Who writes them?"

"An old, abandoned filing clerk. We get plenty of mileage out of her, because the way she writes we can just rearrange the pages and we've got a whole new book. And we don't get into any of those dirty little ideas that make students act so disgustingly."

The Devil's Advocate:

Trustees Save Money, Not Students, With New Infirmary

by Alan H. King

There are two sides to every story, and everyone has his own idea of how things should be. Perhaps by presenting one side of a particular issue, enough people will become concerned so that they will also want to express their views. This then is the purpose of "The Devil's Advocate". Each week I would like to bring up a local, campus-oriented issue and invite you to respond. I will try to be as accurate as possible in details, but several of my sources may be unreliable from time to time and I may have to rely upon hearsay. Once again, though, let me state that the opinions contained herein are my own and do not represent those of the student body at large, necessarily, nor the executive board of the Cynic.

Classified

Ads

FOR SALE - 1966 VW Dunebuggy - Fiberglass body, 36 HP Motor, Purple. $800.00. Call Nick. 457-2895.

FOR SALE - 1970 Triumph Motorcycle, Trophy Model 500, 500 cc, purple. $750.00. Call Nick 457-2895.

THE LAST CHANCE

A NIGHTSPOT OPEN NOW

- ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES
- OLD TIME MOVIES ON SUNDAY
- NO COVER CHARGE
- OPEN AT 7pm 7 DAYS A WEEK

147 MAIN ST.

BURLINGTON

Just a few of the many weekly specials at Vermont's Largest Record Store

93 Church St. Burlington
between Magsams and the Hall Tree

discount records

open 10-9 Mon-Fri. 10-6 Sat.
tel 863-4587

FOUND In The CYNIC Files

by Sari Bodi

A BACKWARD GLANCE SEPTEMBER 20th

Freshmen Take Notice

1. Freshmen must not smoke on the campus.
2. Freshmen must remain seated after chapel until upperclassmen and sophomores have left the room.
3. Freshmen must not walk on the grass of the College Green.
4. Freshmen must not walk on the north side of College Street unless accompanied by an upperclassman.
5. Freshmen must not wear stiff hats except on Sunday.
6. Freshmen must not wear preparatory school numerals, letters, or pins.

Their orders were drawn up by the sophomore class in accordance with the usual college customs, and are approved by the upperclassmen.

The Vermont Cynic Sept. 20, 1905
The annual Freshman Mixer will take place on Saturday evening from 8:30 until 12:00. This is the first event in the social life of a college freshman. The evening will be spent in getting acquainted by means of games and in dancing to the tune of a good orchestra.

From 8:30 till 10:00 the Mixer will be open to freshmen only. The names of the freshmen will be checked at the door as they come in. At ten o'clock upperclassmen will be admitted for the price of ten cents which is the regular admission fee for a Razz-Dazz. It is the only strictly class function and upperclassmen are urged to resist the strains of music until ten o'clock.

Sept. 20, 1935

Hello Freshman

Thus you are greeted by your fellow classmates, upperclassmen and instructors alike. There's something contagious about that "Hello" with its accompanying smile; it can almost be called a campus institution.

So the Vermont Cynic extends to the class of '39 cheery "Hello." It is glad to welcome the new college men and women and to wish them with every sincerity, lots of luck and happiness. We are glad you came to this campus. We know you will like it and hope you will find a prominent place in its halls. Let's shake it a "Hello" for the year: "The Spirit of 1939"

We are not here in the customary role of praising the entering class. It is neither the largest nor the finest class that ever entered this institution. Its numbers do not shine forth with any unusual splendor. We think the group is well up to average, perhaps not far above or below.

But the exhibition of spirit at both Freshmen Camps, (orientation took place at Y.M.C.A. Camps) at the fountain fight the other night, and in the wearing of freshman colors is certainly much above the average.

Many will doubtless look on the wearing of freshmen caps and armbands as a sort of penalty for being an underclassman. Common sense will tell them that they should wear them for their own good. Nothing brings a group of new faces and names together in mutual recognition and friendship like a common article of wearing apparel. Not only does it aid in recognition of classmates but it also greatly stimulates cooperation in various class scrapes with the sophomores.

So freshmen, for your own sakes wear these colors for at least the first few weeks until you are acquainted with freshmen.

Sept. 20, 1942

To celebrate the opening of the football season, the Boulder Society will present the annual Cane Rush, competed in by freshmen and sophomores only. The rush will be held between halves of the first home football game. The following are the rules set forth by Boulder:

Rules for the Cane Rush

1. Contestants enter the field as soon as the first half of the game is over but not before.
2. Sophomores will line up on the ten yard line at the west end of the field.
3. Freshmen will line up at the east end.
4. At the sound of the gun both teams will rush to the 50-yard line.
5. The battle will last five minutes.
6. At the final gun everyone will leave the field immediately.
7. Cans will be counted at the west end of the field.
8. Scoring:
 - a. A full cane counts 5 points.
 - b. A complete crook counts 3 points.
 - c. The lowest portion counts 1 point.

Sept. 20, 1948

Well here we are back to school again, and of course the principal thing in the minds of all the sport-minded students is the football situation. We've only seen a couple of practice sessions, so perhaps we can't criticize too well. The situation at a glance seems to be summed up well in the phrase that the squad is "green but willing."

Sept. 20, 1935

Sports Editor

September 6, 1973
Whatever troubles this may be, it would only be a temporary setback to the progress of American literature.
It is more imperative than ever that we not merely tolerate our intervention in the Vietnamese civil war but that we fully explore and respect the distorted reasoning which led us to this, in the first place, and that we then turn to fighting in Vietnam all over again.
Thomas J. Spinner.

SAGA Apologize

to the Editor

Since the Cynic I read by all evidence hall and commuter students I wish to use this communication vehicle to thank all students holding meal tickets who were cooperative and understanding of our problems on Wednesday, September 12th. As many of you know a water line burst in lunch at 3 p.m., but we still managed to serve using paper. At 4:10 p.m. a power line was cut at Harris Mills. Marsh & Living & Learning, but Living & Learning continued to serve because we have gas equipment. The other three halls stayed open late and I hope everyone was able to make it to another hall and all managers appreciate your understanding.

Thank you
Bob Stetson
Food Service Director
Harris-Mills.

main

back against encroaching gain gained a more equal will probably never be brought governmental. We can learn from the ing power to elect honest officials, yes impossible, that they won't tolerate ment. If we the people no one else will and government becomes the right of the people to elect a government, people, and organization in itself seem most likely to aration of Independence appears, suits, blind fools of morning wind, the earth with time, considers dig in cars, working, and pondering

here, city, way, right

-Steven C. Rice

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

'Richard III' An Exciting Tale Of Woe And Fate

by Joseph O'Brien

A tale of woe and fate, Richard III is a thrilling performance of a difficult level to obtain in Shakespeare.

The 245 was there in full, taken advantage of, for the play works from all different sides of the arena and lures the audience into a fantastic tale of a power hungry York who aspires to the throne and to the harm of power in England. The lights dim and dark back and forth to produce mood effects which need no more backdrop than the stage itself. The round is a great asset for the switching lights and character entrances, from different directions produce a unity in the reality of the play.

Randy Kim carries his great reputation from A Midsummer Night's Dream through his performance as Richard. His facial expressions are fantastically disciplined and he easily establishes the rapport that his character must make with the audience. His power with words earns him a position of great stature even before he begins to reveal his villainous character. He portrays Shakespeare's anti-hero who greatly believes in his own immortality as a human.

Finally defeats Richard and his allies after Richard has become king.

Jennifer Reed (Elizabeth, queen of Edward IV) plays a tremendous role and was her fantastic emotional sensitivities to portray a woman who is heckled by Richard and a scornful mother whose only children have been stolen from her, heirs to the throne before Richard.

Admission is $3.50

Bergman has been described as "the most fascinating personality in modern Swedish film and one of the most talked-about film directors anywhere in the world." As an artist, he has interested himself in the struggle between good and evil in the lives of people today. He has given voice to the desperate and affection-hungry younger generation of the post-war years and often his films show a tense idealism and the search for a way of life.

Bergman used film as a means of personal expression; with few exceptions he scripts the films he directs and throughout these films his own personality and outlook on life is reflected. He made his debut as a film director in 1945 with CRISIS. During his very first years in films his works were full of harmony and a lyrical beauty. In the main, these films show the moving patterns of everyday life and range from the documentary-like PORT OF CALL (1948) and MONIKA (1952) to the exquisite SUMMER INTERLUDE (1950).

Bergman has received many international awards including the special prize by the Cannes Film Festival in 1955 for SMILES OF A SUMMER.

THE SEVENTH SEAL, a symbolic drama set in the plague-ridden Middle Ages. Then in 1957, BRINK OF LIFE was given the Best Director award, making Bergman the first and only director to achieve important awards three years running at Cannes. In 1960, Bergman was awarded his first "Oscar" in the United States for THE VIRGIN SPRING, which depicted a father's vengeance for the rape-murder of his daughter. The following year brought another "Oscar" for THROUGH A GLASS DARKLY.

THREE STRANGE LOVES was made in 1949 and tells of the intertwining lives and loves of three women. There is an hysterical young wife unable to bear children, a disturbed widow in the hands of a cruel psychiatrist, and a lesbian dancer who sets her sights on the widow John Donner, in his book on Bergman remarks that THREE STRANGE LOVES "concerns fear of old age and sterility, which in the last analysis is fear of loneliness. It deals with people who never have time for love, they are too busy suffering. The possibility of death is always present. The characters in the film lack understanding of their own possibilities. They are, in a transferred meaning, too adult. This state of being grown-up, in contrast to a child's openness and sensuality, is the central element in Bergman's artistic world. To be an adult and an intellectual is to lose something of the contact with the world, the strength of intuition. At the same time, the yearning for the child is typically romantic, impossible to realize."

A Flower For Shakespeare's Grave

Big Audience Sees A Pucking Good Play

by Ted Cohen

Monday football and a bottle of beer has fallen in love with their beautiful queen. Her play, A Midsummer Night's Dream, the play begins, he proclaims, that their wedding day is five days away. Then, Egeus, a wealthy Athenian, brings his daughter Hermia before the Duke. Hermia doesn't want to marry Demetrius, she has fallen in love with Lysander. Naturally, her father is upset and demands judgement on his daughter. She must either marry Demetrius or die. Her only other alternative is a life of chastity as a virgin-priestess. Well, Hermia and Lysander decide to split and get married, Helena, who's hopelessly in love with Demetrius, suddenly as he exits to stop the elopement.

In another part of Athens, a group of laboring men, led by Theseus the reigning duke, have conquered the Amazons and Peter Quince, dutifully played by Chip Towers), are preparing a play to be given at the wedding feast of Duke Theseus (Thomas Wagner also does a bang up job in his part as Nick Bottom, a weaver.)

Now, come the fairies, by putting the juice of a magic flower on the sleeping Lysander, Puck, (Randy Kim—he is amazing), causes him to fall in love with Helena and forsake Hermia. Enter Bottom and his amateur acting troupe of common laboring men. Puck, really Randy Kim, who's a pucking good actor—turns Bottom's head into a donkey's head; and Bottom and his donkey head wake up the Queen of the Fairies, Titania. Also being high on that magic juice, she falls in love with a human being with a donkey's head. Eventually, Lysander and Hermia are united, and more of that magic love juice (?) makes it possible for Demetrius to rediscover his love for Helena, everyone gets married to their respective lovers, and Puck takes a toke.

(continued on page seven)

A film you won't see on television for a long, long time.

THE BEST OF THE NEW YORK EROTIC FILM FESTIVAL

Eve 7-9 NOW SHOWING. Rated X.

FLYNN

In color from SONY Picta Films.

MOVIE GUIDE

CINEMA 1 & 2

"VISIONS OF EIGHT"

7:00-9:15 G

"STATE OF SIEGE"

7:00-9:15 R

FLYNN THEATER

THE BEST OF NEW YORK "Friday + Saturday EROTIC FILM FESTIVAL" "FELLINI'S ROMA"

7:00-9:00 11 PM

STATE THEATER

"LAST TANGO IN PARIS"

7:00-9:30 X

SHOWCASE 1 & 2

"JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR"

7:10-9:15 G

"WALKING TALL"

7:00-9:20 R

THE ABOVE THEATERS HONOR CYNIC STUDENT DISCOUNT card

NOW... ADM. ONLY $2
SHOWN EVENINGS 7 & 9:30

Marlon Brando Last Tango in Paris

HURRY... DON'T MISS "TANGO" FINAL WEEKS

SPECIAL DOLLAR SHOWINGS

SLAUGHTERHOUSE 5
CINEMA 1 + 2
THURSDAY 9/20
3:00 PM

O LUCKY MAN
PLAZA 1 + 2
TUESDAY 9/25
7:00 PM

$1.00 $1.00

"A Touch Of Class" Hasn't Any

by Susan Edwards

It took me a while to formulate an opening sentence for this review because there's not much to be said for "A Touch of Class." It started out rather dull and ended in the same light. Not to say it was out and out terrible—there were some redeeming features but these were few and far between.

Set in cosmopolitan London we have two urbanites, George Segal as a sexist insurance salesman Stanley Blackburn, and Glenda Jackson as a cool, unpretentious designer, Vicki Alessio. The duo meet when she catches a fly ball meant for him during a baseball game. Then coincidentally they keep bumping into each other while jaunting around London (after all it's only one of the world's largest cities) and when you're fated to love things like that happen. Not to sound like a staunch cynic but these meetings though possible are highly improbable and only struck me as being facetious. Anyway they finally decided to have an affair simply because he wants it and as the frankly states she needs it. Included in this blissful arrangement is the fact that he is happily married with two kids and can only get away for a "quickie" on pretense of walking the dog.

This sort of arrangement of course can only lead to unadulterated love and Stanley Blackburn is in a dilemma. Does he love Vicki enough to give up his wife and family for her, does he love his wife enough to give up Vicki for her, or the overriding question of the evening, does he love Vicki enough to give her up for herself? Stanley comes to his decision. He sends Vicki a telegram saying it is all over then twenty minutes later after some heavy thinking (this is probably the only time he does any) cancels the telegram. The clincher to this though is that it was never really cancelled and Vicki upon receiving this packs up and leaves. Stanley arrives at the flat just in time to see her walking off into the glitter of London's Chinatown, knowing he did it all for her.

I did say that there were some redeeming features in the movie (though you may find it hard to believe after reading the above) but nevertheless I will go into them. The acting was good on George Segal's part and excellent on Glenda Jackson's. There was a definite sense of awareness about their characters and I for one liked the character of Vicki. She was reserved yet not stuffy in the least, in fact she was most frank and intelligent. Stanley Blackburn was a character which I've seen George Segal portray in about ten other movies. The typical, virile American male, get it all while you can. I didn't find anything about Stanley Blackburn particularly interesting, nor particularly sexy. Another point in the movie's favor was photography. About fifteen minutes is spent on the Spanish Coast overlooking the Rock of Gibraltar, and many of the angled shots of London gave its hugeness a quaint sense of beauty.

This movie left me hanging—not in the sense of an unresolved ending but rather I was suspended... it wasn't funny, it wasn't sad it was just blah. And one thing it certainly wasn't was classy.

SALTY DOG PRESENTS
SECRET SAM'S BAND
THIS FRI & SAT
SUNDAY
JOHN CASSEL

Just off route 108 half way between Smugglers notch & Jeffersonville

FLYNN
"FELLINI'S ROMA"
Fri. LATE SHOW 11 PM
& Sat. SHOW 11 PM

Stunning, breathtaking.
A triumph. A major event.
An incredible feat.
One of the best films of the year.

August 1972, the Olympics
8 directors capture what the naked eye cannot see
ARTHUR PENN MILOS FORMAN KON ICHIKAWA CLAUDE LELOUCH
JURI OZIEROV MICHAEL PFLEIGHAR JOHN SCHLESINGER MAI ZETTERLING

VISIONS OF EIGHT

Produced by Stan Margules - Executive Producer: David L. Wolper - Original Music by Henry Mancini

BURLINGTON PLAZA
CINEMA 1 & 2

Mat.
Sat. + Sun. 2 P.M.
Eve. 7-9:15 PM

Inexperie
Banjo F

by Jeff Blum

On Friday, the 13th of September, the third Banjo Festival was held in Burlington's Mc Auditorium. Riddle this: what would expectations of one set well publicized, cost of American banjo featuring the illustrious Weissburg Pickers and naturally along with of yahoos, hand clapping stompers, not to mention of banjo, perhaps?

The concert on the did not meet up to the might anticipate. This evident in the way in

Album Rev

by Doug Collette

WE'RE AN AME BAND
Grand Funk Railroad
(Capitol/SMAS 11207)

When I first heard single from this band sounded like another oasis amidst the over-dreck that infects AM couldn't really believe Grand Funk and I the my prejudice against that stopped me from as I do now.

The same's true album as a whole. Grand Funk Railroad is all about, could not those feelings into their That carries over here, but We're An American leagues ahead of Phoebe to tell you the honest truth, it's one of the records of the year. The has shed most pretention that helps their music more un- than it actually was. Farmer-chips in with a consoling new song "Loneliest Rider" "Creepin'" which is electric piano and mid-section sounds previous favorite "Mean Mistrater." The songs deal with booze, sex, and of being in a rock and roll band that's not the most successful.

Modern Miracle
Transporta

ECOLOGY MINDED ECO MIND

Pedal like a bike. Of the motor for fun and a Vespa Ciao has 2 speed drive systems that you Great for exercise. E-ride. Exhaust and noise. Almost entirely of. Fantastic mileage.

Scooter Sh

16 Austin Dr.
Rutland, Vt.
Burlington, Vt.
Telephone 658-22

The fun is...
Tues. - Thurs. 12-5
Sat. 9-5

Age Loves" Series

psychiatrist, and a lesbian dancer who sets her sights on the widow John Donner, in his book on Bergman remarks that "HIS STRANGE LOVES" concerns fear of old age and fertility, which in the last analysis is fear of loneliness. It deals with people who never have time for love. They are too busy suffering. The possibility of death is always present. The characters in the film lack understanding of their own possibilities. They live in a transferred meaning, to adult. This state of being is a contrast to a child's openness and sensuality. The central element in Bergman's artistic world is the adult and an intellectual who lose something of the contact with the world, the strength of intuition. At the same time, the yearning for the child is typically romantic, impossible to realize.

Isn't Any

During a baseball game, when coincidentally they keep bumping into each other while sitting around London (after it's only one of the world's great cities) and when you're dead to love things like that happen. Not to sound like a bunch of cynics but these things though possible are pretty improbable and only look like as being facetious. Anyway they finally decided to have an affair simply because he wants it and as she shyly states she needs it. Included in this "blissful engagement" is the fact that he happily married with two kids and can only get away for "quickies" on pretense of taking the dog. This sort of arrangement of course can only lead to adulterated love and Stanley Blackburn is in a dilemma. Does he love Vicki enough to give up his wife and family for her, or does he love his wife enough to let her go? Vicki for her, or the burning question of the evening, does he love Vicki enough to give her up for himself? Stanley comes to his decision. He sends Vicki a telegram saying it is all over in twenty minutes later after she's been thinking this is Stanley's last time he'll love her. Stanley's thought is that he was never really captivated by Vicki upon receiving this news and leaves Stanley Blackburn at the flat just in time to see her walking off into the heart of London's Chinatown, knowing he did it all for her. I did say that there were some redeeming features in the movie (though you may find it hard to believe after reading the above) but nevertheless I'll go into them. The acting is good on George Segal's part and excellent on Glenda Jackson's. There was a definite sense of awareness about their characters and I for one liked the character of Vicki. She is reserved yet not stuffy in the least, in fact she was most likable and intelligent. Stanley Blackburn was a character which I've seen George Segal play in about ten other movies. The typical, virile American male - get it all while you can. I didn't find anything but Stanley Blackburn particularly interesting, nor particularly sexy. Another point in the movie's favor was the photography. About fifteen minutes is spent on the Spanish last overlooking the Rock of Gibraltar, and many of the best shots of London gave its genuine a quaint sense of beauty. This movie left me hanging in the air of an unresolved ending but rather I was suspended. It wasn't bad, it wasn't bad it was just plain. And one thing is certainly true, it wasn't class.

Inexperience And Bad Acoustics ; Banjo Festival Doesn't Live Up To Expectations

SPS Photo: R. N. Law

On Friday, the 14th of September, the third annual Banjo Festival came to Burlington's Memorial Auditorium. Riddle yourself this: what would be the expectations of one attending a well publicized, costly, good old American banjo festival, featuring the illustrious Eric Weissburg's Pickers and grinders naturally along with choruses of yahoos, hand clappers, foot stompers, not to mention a lot of banjo, perhaps? Ah, if only...

The concert on the whole did not meet up to what one might anticipate. This was very evident in the way in which the audience reacted to the country musicians. Yes, there were those who clapped their hands and stomped their feet, but there were also those who wiggled in their seats, looked at their watches and wondered if they hadn't wasted $3.00.

Unfortunately for the paying customers as well as the performers, the acoustics of Memorial Auditorium last Friday night left much to be desired. The traditionally American banjo, having not the acoustic capacity to carry its tone past the 20th row, barely reached the last, despite numerous amplifying paraphernalia. The familiar twang could barely be heard at times, having to compete with various whining, straining country voices. Again unfortunately, let it be here mentioned that Tim Mackenzie of the Pine Island String Band was not an offender in this capacity. Although to an extent inaudible, his voice was a pleasant change and his guitar picking at times surpassed that of the accompanying banjo.

It was a relief for the seat wigglers, the watch watchers, and for those who wondered why it had been called a banjo festival to learn that their money would be put to good use. The individual members of the performing groups, then between the groups and the audience, except for an occasional joke.

"State Of Seige" Should Not Be Missed

by Jim Bradley

State of Seige, playing at Cinema 1 & 2 on Shelburne Road, is a gripping and important film built around the kidnapping of a U.S. official by Uruguayan revolutionaries. Starring Yves Montand, it is directed by the Greek exile Costa-Gavras, the man who made Z and The Battle of Algiers, which like this are powerful tales of police state terror.

The film works on different levels: As a powerful and suspenseful drama which sucks you right in; as a portrayal of the underground of a parliamentary government by an encroaching police state; as an indictment of U.S. foreign policy.

Like Costa-Gavras' other films, State of Seige purports to be almost a documentary, depicting real events as they actually happened. The action centers around Philip Michael Santori, an American AID official (Agency of International Development) in Uruguay. He is there ostensibly as a Communications and Traffic Safety advisor to the government. The Tupamaros, a left revolutionary group, kidnap him and hold him as a hostage, saying he will be released in exchange for the release of political prisoners. The government says there are no political prisoners.

Through the course of his interrogation while being held, we learn by means of flashbacks that Santori is in fact not a Communications and Traffic Safety advisor but a teacher of improved control tactics and methods to the police, including the use of torture. He has come to Uruguay from Brazil, where he was involved in the police takeover of that country, and where torture became an accepted method of interrogation and control. And Santori is not operating as a private citizen, but rather as a U.S. official, carrying out his part of U.S. foreign policy.

Further, he is saying that his film not only represents the kind of role U.S. officials play in foreign countries, but that it actually brings to the screen events which really happened.

It would be difficult for anyone not to take the side of the Tupamaros while watching this movie, though there are those who don't. Of course, Costa-Gavras intends you to take their side.

He does this without portraying Santori as a brutal thug who takes sadistic pleasure in torture. Rather, Santori, as played by Yves Montand, is a technician, an expert in police methods who believes strongly in social order, and who believes strongly in doing his job well.

His job as a police chief in the U.S. was to preserve order and his job with AID is to teach others how to do it most efficiently.

The trouble with social order is that it is hard to attain if you allow people choices and freedoms. If you allow workers the freedom of petitioning and assembling to protect their interests, for instance, you put social order in danger. For brought back to the outside world and this reporter asking questions, questions which tie the action together and give us perspective on what's going on.

The rest of the cast is neither especially good nor especially bad. The Tupamaros are represented as attractive young men and women who are clean and neatly dressed, and who are stalwart, determined, serious, sober-minded, and capable. They stand for justice, truth, and equality, as far as I can tell. They are kindly too, offering Santori drinks of water when the questioning is over for the day, and even taking the risk of smuggling him into a hospital for precautionary X-rays after he is accidentally shot. The portrayal of the Tupamaros is definitely incomplete and weak, and is the film's major flaw.

Holding the film together thematically are the interrogation sequences. In them Santori's claims of blamelessness and non-involvement in a growing police state are revealed as lies, hypocrisy, and blindness. All of Santori's arguments and explanations are expertly rebutted by the logical, analytical masked interrogator. Their exchanges are quite unrealistic, with Santori hushing up like a showman under the more precise arguments of his opponent.

The Tupamaros' psyches are not investigated. The only conflict occurs when the decision must be made whether to kill Santori or not. A number of the revolutionaries are captured by the police, and the remainder issue an ultimatum that they will kill (continued on page eight)

Album Review: Believe It Or Not, A Good Grand Funk Album

by Doug Collette

WE'RE AN AMERICAN BAND
Grand Funk Railroad
(Capitol SMAS 11207)

When I first heard the title single from this album, it sounded like another blessed oasis amidst the overproduced druck that infects AM radio. I couldn't really believe it was Grand Funk and I think it was my prejudice against the band that stopped me from loving it as I do now.

The same's true of the album as a whole. Grand Funk always struck me as the kind of band that, even assuming they knew what rock and roll music is all about, could not translate those feelings into their music. That carries over here in spots, but We're An American Band is leagues ahead of Phoenix and, to tell you the honest-to-God truth, it's one of the most fun records of the year. The group has shed most of the pretension that helped make their music more unbearable than it actually was; Mark Farner chips in with only two consciousness-raising

With the addition of Craig Frost's keyboards, Farner no longer has to carry the whole load and between the swells and crackling electric piano, contributes to the point hard rock leads. The group's song of themselves, "The Railroad," best exemplifies the suspense and drama Grand Funk is now capable of injecting into their playing.

I don't think Don Brewer's enlarged role can be minimized. Aside from pouring out the best, he composed the single and co-authored with Farner most of the album's material. "Stop lookin' Back," "Black Lioness," "Ain't Got Nobody" and "Walk Like a Man" are smart moves all. The drummer's macho honcho vocals give the music much of its bite and Brewer's obviously helped steer Farner away from that adolescent yelp of his.

Apart from capturing the group cleanly on tape and adding some few production touches—nice on headphones—producer Todd Rungren's kept himself quite unobtrusive on this endeavor. Perhaps just his presence in the studio kept GFR from recording their usual crassly derivative holocaust of volume.

But why question it? I'd rather just enjoy it. 1973 will be known for many things, including the year Grand Funk made a decent rock and roll record. Maybe someday they'll even make one that lives up to their name.

LEON LIVE
Leon Russell
(Shelter STCO 8917)
The trend in live albums looks to be a complete representation of the artist in concert and that's exactly what Leon attempts to achieve. Apart from the visual aspect (That'll have to wait until video cassettes are commonplace), this three record set, recorded in one night in Long Beach, California, does more than an adequate job of conveying the frenzied, revivalist spirit of Russell's show.

Unfortunately, it doesn't convey enough of that atmosphere to completely mask the sameness that runs through the music. Minus the variety of "imaginative arrangements" to be found on his studio recordings, Leon's songs tend to run together almost indistinguishably.

I wouldn't recommend this album as a sampler for those who want a cross-section of the man's music and, as a matter of fact, if Leon Live were my introduction to Leon Russell, I don't think I'd be impressed enough to go see him.

A Pucking Good Play

(continued from page six)

The University Folk Dance Club is a group of artisans in their own right, for it was their lively performance that prefaced the Midsummer's Night Dream. They provided the "icing on the cake" with their presentation of folk dances from Europe. Not being one that often kicks up his heels, this writer would have a difficult (impossible) time of identifying each dance as to its national origin. But a good fairy landed on my shoulder during the dancing, and told me what was occurring. The Dance Club presented the Balkan Suite, English Set, French Bouree, a medley of Russian dances, and an Irish Reel. On that note, I think I'll cast again and see what else I can catch...

Richard III

(continued from page six)

productions that I have seen and should be viewed so that the masterwork of every aspect of the stage can be studied. The Champaign Shakespeare Festival should be congratulated, for their play rates as a professionally sculptured masterpiece.

SEPT 22 - SEPT 29

Sept. 22nd	Chariot Competition at football games
Sept. 22nd	Garbage Collectors Cotillion Lambda Iota 9:00 PM
Sept. 27th	Exchange Dinners Dr. Gregg, Speaker 235 Life Science 7:30 PM
Sept. 28th	Open Parties at Fraternities
Sept. 29th	Greek Games

greek week

SWISS HOUR
weekdays
3 to 6 pm.

ALL DRINKS AT HALF PRICE

Swiss Chocolate Pot
1242 Shelburne Rd.
next to Value Sports

FLYNN Coming Wed, Sept. 26th

More from the makers of "Fritz The Cat"

HEAVY TRAFFIC

Modern Miracle Transportation

ECOLOGY MINDED ECONOMY MINDED

VESPA CUB
(Unintroduced Class)

Pedal it like a bike. Or enjoy the motor for fun and comfort. Vespa Cub has 2 separate drive systems that you select. Great for exercise. Easy to ride. Exhaust and noise pollution almost entirely eliminated. Fantastic mileage.

Now available at:

Scooter Shoppe
16 Austin Drive
Redstone Park
Burlington, Vermont
Telephone 686-2356

Scout The fun way to go!
Don't build reputation by oversteering. Scout is built by Scout. 1980. Call Auto - San Francisco, Ca 94060.

Tues. - Thurs. 12:30 - 5:30
Sat. 9 - 5

all students a dollar off!

Catamount Stadium

presenting

The Green Mountain Bicycle Club

Catamount Cup

course de prime bicycle race

"Ruling Class" Spoofs English Lords

by Peter Campbell

The Flynn Theatre has a gift for all lovers of farce. The Ruling Class is a film in the style of which is "vividly English," but so anti-English in content. The movie is a long, rambling spoof of England's upper class that aims for great heights and manages to make it there, despite a lot of technical clumsiness.

Peter O'Toole as "Jack," the 14th Earl of Gormey, who comes back from the asylum, where he believes he is Jesus Christ (who doesn't think days), in claim his father's estate, is the typical English eccentric gone just a bit too far. His relatives immediately set out to steal the estate away from him.

The movie is in the best of the high comedy genre. The aristocracy of England is an easy and oft-used target for satire. But The Ruling Class succeeds in the rightness of the acting, fast pacing, and good, funny lines, within the comic formula. The Butler (David Howe) who privately fantasizes himself as a revolutionary; the quivering Anglican bishop (Alister Sim) who is forced to convoke an illegal marriage for convenience; a lady Henry VIII: Jacques Fattier, "Fighting Jack" of the House of Lords as the typical British warlord are all fine comic scenes.

Not all is comic though. There is another motif in the story. Jack undergoes a psychological transformation brought about through clinical stage encounters with some other nut who (jokes) is the "God of Electricity."

The whole movie is interspersed with outbursts of song and dance. It comes off awkward times, but is never seems gimmicky. It is refreshing to see the at awkward times, but it never seems gimmicky. It is refreshing to see the at awkward times, but it never seems gimmicky.

Living In The Lounges: "It Was A Big Rip-off"

by Andrew Morse

"We have no privacy. It's like a barracks around here."

These were the comments of one student over on the Redstone campus, who is being housed in emergency quarters because of the overcrowding situation in the dorms.

Emergency housing there means being put into a lounge with two or three others.

Another student said, "Instead of trying to get along with one roommate you've got to deal with three."

In the Harris-Mills lounges there were varied reactions, including:

"It's better than three or four in a lounge like over on Redstone."

"The furniture's pretty shitty, but for Salvation Army special they'll do."

"It's quiet over here in these suites. At least you can study."

"The upperclassmen are great. They don't seem to mind freshmen in their lounges."

At the Housing Office, Gloria Thompson, Assistant Director, says that overcrowding has not resulted in very many complaints from emergency-housed students.

"People have been very understanding and helpful in working with this problem," she stated.

But one person who is now in permanent housing but was originally put in a lounge boomed, "It was a big rip-off. The college has given us no retribution. And when they ordered us out of their lounges within 48 hours they added insult to injury."

Another person said, "The bitch of the whole thing is having to change roommates after making friends with your first one."

Another added, "You don't know what dorm you're going to wind up in so you can't really get involved in your dorm's activities and government. You've got to remain aloof about the whole thing."

All students housed in lounges with three or four occupants and all those living in temporary triples (which are rooms designed for only two people), for more than six weeks will receive a partial refund, according to Keith Miser, Director of Residence Halls. While the exact amount of money that will be refunded is not yet known, Miser estimates it will be $85-90.

As of Monday, Sept. 17, 103 men and 58 women remained in emergency housing. Any more room openings which should appear from now on will be due to people moving from dorms into apartments or fraternity or sorority houses. Last year all men were out of emergency housing by Thanksgiving and all women by the end of the first semester, but Miser said he could not say when they would all be out this year.

I am thinking particularly of A Clockwork Orange which The Ruling Class has similarities to, especially in its message—that human behavioral engineering can backfire. Stanley Kubrick used a dazzling display of pyrotechnics to convey this simple but profound warning for our time. Here the writer used an old theatrical device of going from one absurd to the other—Jesus Christ to Jack the Ripper.

Thus, the movie turns out to be more than "jolly good fun." The ending is heavy. But go see it.

crossword puzzle

1 Being	14 Claret by	25 Tapered, for example	41 Greeting
4 Capital of	15 Drama: An —	26 Being (Lat.)	42 Travel on this
8 Ocean	16 Day	27 Building's	43 runners (var)
12 Tantalizing	17 Flounder	28 Grind	44 Love Spanish
13 Suburban	18 Used with	29 One time	45 style and the Red	shift and less	30 A certain	46 World's
Baron	21 Cooperative	31 Deep ingrained	47 greatest
14 Claret by	22 Bag	32 Symptom	48 Spoken
15 Drama: An —	23 Shade of	33 Church	49 Remains
16 Day	green	34 Church	50 Any number
17 Flounder	24 Powdered	35 Character from	divided by itself
18 Used with	flour	36 Gobi, for one	51 Period of time shift and less	25 Tapered,	37 Polka
21 Cooperative	for example	38 Character
22 Bag	26 Being (Lat.)	39 From Pagan
23 Shade of	27 Building's	40 Grind
green	28 Grind	41 Greeting
24 Powdered	29 One time	42 Travel on this flour	30 A certain	43 runners (var)
25 Tapered,	31 Deep ingrained	44 Love Spanish
for example	32 Symptom	45 style
26 Being (Lat.)	33 Church	46 World's
27 Building's	34 Church	47 greatest
28 Grind	35 Character from	48 Spoken
29 One time	36 Gobi, for one	49 Remains
30 A certain	37 Polka	50 Any number
31 Deep ingrained		divided by itself
32 Symptom		51 Period of time

Dist. by Puzzles, Inc. No. 128 C

the doctor's bag

by Arnold Warner M.D.

QUESTION: Supposedly if you keep trimming your hair, it will grow at a faster rate than if you just leave it alone. If you keep filing your fingernails will they tend to grow faster?

ANSWER: The growth rate of hair and fingernails is determined by factors other than how much you keep trimming them. There can be seasonal and other variations in growth rate leaving one to get cause and effect mixed up.

QUESTION: My boyfriend and I have chosen not to engage in sexual intercourse for a number of reasons. For one thing, we believe that abstinence is the best form of birth control available.

We were wondering if a woman could become pregnant if sperm was swallowed? We have heard a number of conflicting answers such as (1) yes, if sperm is transferred from the digestive tract somehow, (2) absolutely no, (3) yes, if a living sperm is passed from the body and remains near the vaginal opening and swims upward and fertilizes an egg. Please set us straight.

ANSWER: I find your letter absolutely offensive. In this day and age of the objective test, I have succeeded in writing only essay answers to questions I receive, and you have the nerve to send me something that you expect me to answer in multiple choice format. Very well, block in the space between the lines under number two.

You are right, abstinence is the best form of birth control available and oral sexual contact is a perfectly harmless form of sexual activity. Some people find the idea upsetting and there seems to be a cultural bias against this sort of thing. Aside from its pregnancy producing capabilities, semen is not an especially remarkable substance, being basically a bland fluid. There are no cases of poisoning or masculinization from injection and contrary to myth, mandrake roots don't grow where it strikes the ground.

"State Of Seige"...

(continued from page seven)

Santori unless their comrades are released. If they do kill him, they will come across publicly as immoral murderers, and if they don't they will show themselves to be ineffectual.

One question about the film is whether or not it accurately portrays events which really took place. Costa-Gavras and his writer reportedly spent several months researching the story and claim it does.

It is true that a U.S. AID official named Dan Mitroni was sent to Uruguay, and that he was kidnapped by the Tupamaros. Santori fits him in details of family and experience. The U.S. government says he was a Public Safety advisor, whatever that's supposed to be, and was innocent of any wrongdoing.

But whether or not the details of the film are accurate is beside the point on one level. The film attacks U.S. foreign policy as imperialistic, meaning that the U.S. exploits every country into which it goes. By making "the other countries' interests and growth subordinate to its own, preventing an indigenous economy based on native industry from developing, and by exploiting native work forces, the U.S. and the governments it supports come under attack by those who demand national self-determination and individual rights.

While these are ideal the U.S. considers worthy, we find we must increasingly support repressive governments and policies if we are to protect our own position. This breeds revolutionary movements, and puts the U.S. in the position of withdrawing or taking a counter-revolutionary stance, which means increasingly supporting police states and Gestapo tactics. This is the U.S. role in Uruguay in State of Seige. Santori is the tool of this policy.

William A. Williams, a famous historian, has written that U.S. foreign policy is, and has long been, guided by three major conceptions. One is the humanitarian impulse to help other people solve their problems. This is still one of the reasons U.S. official personnel and agencies, like AID, are sent to other countries. We sincerely want the people of other countries to "eat better, to grow more food, to build better factories, and the like, so we send our experts to show them how."

A second ideal is to help these countries reach a position of independence and political self-determination according to goals and objectives they establish.

But at the same time we operate under the conviction that other peoples can't really solve their problems unless they do it our way. Feelings of nationalism are misunderstood or resented. The desire on the part of people to do it without us or do it another way is often taken by us as the ravings of a tiny and irresponsible group of radicals, probably Communist-inspired.

These three conceptions, coupled with U.S. economic interests which we decide have to be preserved and protected, have led us into a foreign policy which is represented accurately by State of Seige in at least a metaphorical sense, if not in a literal sense. We commonly condone police state tactics tacitly. We support police state governments.

State of Seige may represent U.S. foreign policy accurately in a literal sense, too. It definitely should not be missed.

New Faces Appear

At OVP Offices

by Becky Burr

September often brings evidence of change in many departments and offices at the University. Long familiar faces disappear and are replaced by new ones bringing with them new ideas and energy.

The Office of Volunteer Programs has said goodbye to their graduate assistant, Mike Weinberg, now working as a counselor/teacher at Rock Point School, Gene Beaudoin, former Publicity Director now Director of the Burlington VPIRG office, and Chris Maylahn, former Recruitment Coordinator, now returned to full-time academic pursuits.

To continue the valuable work which those people began are a new group of OVP Staff Members. Three graduate students in the College of Education have taken over the coordination of Interviewing, Recruitment, and Publicity/Communication.

They are: Interviewer Coordinator Sharon William (UVM '73), now a graduate student in Student Personnel.

Recruitment Coordinator Pat Torpie, a Loyola University graduate and now a graduate student at UVM in the same program, and Communications Coordinator Becky Burr (UVM '73) a graduate student in Teacher Education. She is also the former OVP Project Director of Bell, Book and Candle and former Chairman of OVP's Project Coordinator's Council. All the Coordinators are full-time OVP Staff members under the University Year For Action Program. (UYAP)

Dawn Andrews, a Junior in the APEX Program in the College of Education is starting her second year as a UVA Volunteer in the Office of Volunteer Programs as a Resource Assistant. Her job last year as a UVA was at the UVM Daycare Center. Dawn is continuing her experiential learning working out of the office-developing resources for the UVA Projects.

Louise Piche, a senior in the Votec Program has the UVA job of Coordinator of Information, Storage and Retrieval working especially with computers and facilitating that operation.

Mark Smith, Instructor in the College of Education is the new Resource Specialist at OVP. His time and talents will be spent doing field work with the UVA Volunteers as well as helping with the coordination of OVP Projects.

At the heart of the OVP operation are two of the most important newcomers, Sue Trela, (UVM '73) OVP's new administrative secretary, and Caroline Spear, also a new secretary. Sue comes to OVP bringing with her the experience of a year as secretary in the Student Activities Office. Because OVP is the student activity with the largest number of students presently participating, Sue's experience and background are invaluable to OVP. Caroline comes to OVP from the YMCA where she worked as a counselor. Her background is also an asset to OVP because of the people to people nature of the work which is carried on.

The new staff members at OVP are looking forward to meeting old and new volunteers. OVP is located on the first floor of Mansfield House, the yellow stone building with red trim behind Ira Allen Chapel.

All the OVP services are coordinated by Director Hal Woods who has been with OVP since its inception here four years ago.

Haponski

(continued from page one)

west very well last year. Colonel Haponski continued. "End-of-course evaluations reflected considerable enthusiasm, both for the courses themselves and for the instructors. On a scale of 'superior, above average, average, below average, and inadequate' our instructors were rated 'above average' by the students. The introductory classes are small and the students get to talk often with the instructors, two young, highly gifted captains."

The Military Studies Department moved from the Old Gym to the Third Floor of Williams Science Hall when renovations were due to begin in turning the Gym into the Royal Tyler Theatre. Along with the relocation came work on redecorating the surroundings. "We feel that surroundings are important. We have gone to a great deal of trouble making our area attractive and it's even more important now that women are in ROTC." Colonel Haponski explained.

Colonel Haponski furthered his point by giving a tour of the ROTC department. One result of the effort to make the surroundings more attractive is the Cadet Lounge, painted and decorated with the help of students, faculty and faculty wives. They also pooled furnishings and bought other needed items.

Students use it quite a bit and study cubicles have been ordered for the room. In addition to the lounge there is a room for Pershing Rifles, a extra-curricular activity, and Battalion headquarters.

Colonel Haponski indicated that he thought there might be more participation in ROTC extracurricular activities, such as Pershing Rifles, than customary with student activities signifying that ROTC cadets are a "close-knit group."

"We have to program a budget, to the extent of saving paper-clips. Everything we have been able to do regard furnishings is the result of efforts and planning across years. I think it's important that we make it an attractive place to gather socially and study," he added.

There is a big echo problem in the classrooms, often doors are kept open to alleviate this.

One very important aspect of ROTC is of course what purpose it and how it became established.

In 1862 Justin S. Morrill Land-Grant Act was passed. Congress. One provision of the bill was that military training was required to be taught participating educational institutions. It is uncertain when this program of military studies was first started at University of Vermont, but 1868 it was known to be operation. 1974 marks 106th annual Military Ball. Military awards ceremony UVM.

In 1916 the Modern Reserve Officer's Training Corps established as a provision the National Defense Act. Legislation was enacted by Elihu Root, the Secretary of War, who needed the law to be passed by Congress. The Civil War ended

VERMONT ANSWERS TODAY'S BIGGEST PROBLEMS

Ecology Economy Transportation

Exhaust and noise pollution almost entirely eliminated. Safe, maneuverable, and needs little space to park. Perfect for day to day and maintenance. Choose from 3 models.

Now available at Scooter Shop
16 Austin Drive
Redstone Park
Burlington, Vermont
Telephone 656-2356

The fun way to...
Burlington, Vermont
Tue. - Thurs. 12:30 - 5
Sat. 9 - 5

UVM men and women are eligible to enroll in Air Force ROTC at St. Michael's College

The Air Force ROTC College Program has 3 things to offer that other college programs don't.

1. 6,500 scholarships.
2. $100 monthly allowance.
3. Free flying lessons.

Enroll in Air Force ROTC.

Contact Department of Aerospace Studies.

At Saint Michael's College, Telephone: 655-2000, extension 251.

Find Yourself A Future In Air Force ROTC.

LITTLE PROFESSOR
BOOK CENTER

Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction

One of the finest
ITALIAN-AMERICAN CUISINE

Buono Appetito

TREAT YOURSELF TO

★ RAVIOLI ★ SPAGHETTI ★ ANTIPASTO ★ LASAGNE ★ FRESH VEAL
★ PIZZA ★ EGG PLANT ★ PARMIGIANA
★ SANDWICHES

COCKTAILS & WINE
NEXT TO CHAMPLAIN
MOTOR LODGE
ROUTE 7

985-2232
TAKE OUT SERVICE AVAILABLE
SHELBURNE RD. SHELBURNE, VT.

Cozy

Clothing from India, Mexico,
Afghanistan

Rugs, tapestries, weavings

802 862-3412
1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.

Antique mirrors chairs sets

Seige"

porting police states and... This is the... role in Uruguay in '73... (Sgt. Santon) is the tool of... policy... Williams, a... U.S. foreign policy is, and... long been, guided by three... One is the... to help... people solve their... This is still one of... reasons U.S. official... and agencies, like... are sent to other... We sincerely want... people of other countries... better, to grow more... to build better factories... the like, so we send our... to show them how... A second ideal is to help... countries reach a position... independence and political... determination according to... and objectives they... But at the same time we... under the conviction... other peoples can't really... their problems unless... do it our way. Feelings of... are misunderstood... The desire on the... of people to do it without... or do it another way is often... by us as the ravings of a... and irresponsible group of... probably... These three conceptions... U.S. economic... which we decide have... to be preserved and protected... led us into a foreign... which is represented... by State of Seige in... at a metaphorical sense, if... in a literal sense. We... condone police... tactics tacitly. We support... state governments. State of Seige may represent... foreign policy accurately... a literal sense, too. It... should not be... used.

Appear P Offices

recruitment Coordinator Pat... a Loyola University... student at UVM in the same... program, and Communications... Coordinator Becky Burr (UVM... '73) a graduate student in... Teacher Education. She is also... former OVP Project... Director of Bell, Book and... and former Chairman... OVP's Project Coordinator's... Council. All the Coordinators... full-time OVP Staff... members under the University... For Action Program... (UYA). Dawn Andrews, a Junior in... the APEX Program in the... College of Education is starting... second year as a UYA... Volunteer in the Office of... Volunteer Programs as a... Resource Assistant. Her job... last year so a UYA was at the... UVM Daycare Center. Dawn is... continuing her experiential... learning working out of the... office developing resources for... the UYA Projects. Louise Piche, a Junior in the... Voice Program has the UYA... Coordinator position. She is... working specifically... with computers in facilitating... that operation. Mark Smith, Instructor in the... College of Education is the... new Resource Specialist at... OVP. His time and talents will... be spent doing field work with... the UYA Volunteers as well as... helping with the coordination... of OVP Projects. At the heart of the OVP... operation are two of the most... important newcomers, Sue... Trella, UVM '73 OVP's new... administrative secretary, and... Caroline Spear, also a new... secretary Sue comes to OVP... bringing with her the... experience of a year as... secretary in the Student... Activities Office. Because OVP... is the student activity with the... largest number of students... presently participating, Sue's... experience and background are... invaluable to OVP. Caroline... comes to OVP from the YMCA... where she worked as a... counselor. Her background is... also an asset to OVP because... of the people to people nature... of the work which is carried on. The new staff members at... OVP are looking forward to... meeting old and new... volunteers. OVP is located on... the first floor of Mansfield... House, the yellow stone... building with red trim behind... its Allen Chapel. All the OVP services are... coordinated by Director Hal... Woods who has been with OVP... since its inception here four... years ago.

Haponski Discusses ROTC...

(continued from page one)

most very well last year. Colonel Haponski continued, "End-of-course evaluations reflected considerable enthusiasm, both for the course themselves and for the instructors. On a scale of superior, above average, average, below average, and inadequate, our instructors were rated 'above average' by the students. The introductory classes are small and the students get to talk often with the instructors, two young, highly gifted captains."

The Military Studies Department, moved from the Old Gym to the Third Floor of Williams Science Hall when renovations were due to begin—turning the Gym into the Royall Tyler Theatre. Along with the relocation came work on redecorating the surroundings. "We feel that the surroundings are important, we have gone to a great deal of trouble making our area attractive and it's even more important now that women are in ROTC," Colonel Haponski explained.

Colonel Haponski furthered his point by giving a tour of the ROTC department. One result of the effort to make the surroundings more attractive is the Cadet Lounge, painted and decorated with the help of students, faculty and faculty wives. They also pooled furnishings and bought other needed items.

Students use it quite a bit, and study cubicles have been ordered for the room. In addition to the lounge there is a room for Pershing Rifles, an extra-curricular activity, and a Battalion headquarters. Colonel Haponski indicated that he thought there might be more participation in ROTC extracurricular activities, such as Pershing Rifles, than is customary with student activities, signifying that the ROTC cadets are a "close-knit group."

"We have to program our budget, to the extent of saving paper-clips. Everything we have been able to do regarding furnishings is the result of efforts and planning across two years. I think it's important that we make it an attractive place to gather socially and to study," he added.

There is a big echo problem in the classrooms; often the doors are kept open to alleviate this.

One very important aspect of ROTC is of course what its purpose is and how it became established.

In 1862 Justin S. Morrill's Land-Grant Act was passed by Congress. One provision of the bill was that military tactics were required to be taught in participating educational institutions. It is uncertain just when this program of military studies was first started at the University of Vermont, but in 1868 it was known to be in operation. 1974 marks the 106th annual Military Ball and annual awards ceremony at UVM.

In 1916 the Modern Reserve Officer's Training Corps was established as a provision of the National Defense Act. This legislation was passed because

World War I saw the need for a formal base for citizen-soldier participation in the armed forces. The Civil War indicated the difficulty of obtaining properly trained personnel.

The United States Army, Navy, and Air Force Reserves were established by the 1916 National Defense Act. ROTC was to provide the trained officers for those reserves. UVM and Norwich were among the first universities to do so.

When asked "What exactly is ROTC?" Colonel Haponski detailed it in the following manner: "It is a course of studies like any other. It equips any University graduate with the basic knowledge of military affairs and leadership skills necessary to become an officer. Our students major in whatever they are interested in. ROTC plays the part of a minor. Cadets would also graduate with a commission. It is an important ingredient. The program gets students with many interests. The result is an officer corps that is more representative of the citizens as a whole."

Paraphrasing, the Colonel added: "The activists against ROTC have failed to understand this when they militarize against military things. ROTC is going to insure the continuance of our military armed forces, if anything does. Until someone devises a way of wishing away war, then in this country we had better continue to support the ROTC program."

When a student enrolls in ROTC, there is no military obligation associated for the first two years. The person may drop it at any time. The military obligation is incurred when a cadet joins the third year of the program and takes advanced courses. The cadet agrees to complete the course of studies leading to a degree, and accepts a commission. The cadet will serve a period of active duty—either three months or two years—followed by a period in the reserves. He or she can elect to continue in the reserves as a second profession, or may end the obligation. The period of active duty for three months consists of a basic officer's course in whatever branch of the army the person chooses. There are three combat branches, Infantry, Armor, Artillery.

Women cadets do the same types of military duties. However, Colonel Haponski added that at the present time "We cannot require them to participate in rifle firings or field tactical training. They may be allowed to do so if they wish, and here all do participate."

If the Equal Rights Amendment is ratified, women will be required to do all that men do as trainees. Colonel Haponski concluded: "I can envision a lawsuit in which some woman will want to be an Armor Tank Commander and will sue the United States. And she'd win, too! I can see no reason why women may not be able to function just as well or better in any capacity. There is no reason, for example, why my successor can't be a woman. And, I think that UVM will soon find women faculty members in ROTC."

There are Engineering Corps, Air Defense Artillery and the Signal Corps. Other areas include those of military intelligence, transportation, military police, quarter master (supplies), medical service corps, adjutant general, finance corps, etc.

Cadets go initially to a branch school, such as Fort Benning or Fort Knox. Those in a two-year program of active duty go to a unit which may be anywhere in the world. Only the ones who do the best in ROTC program of studies will be accepted in the two year active duty service. They are then assigned to the Reserves. While in the Reserves the cadets maintain themselves in a varying degree of readiness according to the directives of the Secretary of the Army. Should there be a national emergency when the Reserves would be called up, they would become units in the active Army.

The Reserves spend two weeks of summer training at a major training center, such as Fort Dix. During the rest of the year they train in their hometowns.

Vermont has a very active Reserve and National Guard. Colonel Haponski commented, "We have a history of strongly supporting the Reserves and Vermont has high-quality units." A freshman in the ROTC starts out as a cadet private. A certain number of students will be promoted to cadet private first class, depending on the excellence of performance. Further promotions are those of cadet, corporal, cadet sergeant, senior grade sergeant, and the ranks of an officer: cadet second lieutenant, first lieutenant, captain, major, and lieutenant colonel, as the student graduates and continues on in his course of training. "We actually commission our officers in May at Commencement," Colonel Haponski said. "They hold the rank of an officer when they graduate."

As officers in the Reserve Units, they attend weekly or monthly sessions which train with their particular unit, functioning as if they were on active duty. The officers teach courses, perform maneuvers, take courses, and help train other reservists who may be students.

Women cadets do the same types of military duties. However, Colonel Haponski added that at the present time "We cannot require them to participate in rifle firings or field tactical training. They may be allowed to do so if they wish, and here all do participate."

If the Equal Rights Amendment is ratified, women will be required to do all that men do as trainees.

Colonel Haponski concluded: "I can envision a lawsuit in which some woman will want to be an Armor Tank Commander and will sue the United States. And she'd win, too! I can see no reason why women may not be able to function just as well or better in any capacity. There is no reason, for example, why my successor can't be a woman. And, I think that UVM will soon find women faculty members in ROTC."

There are Engineering Corps, Air Defense Artillery and the Signal Corps. Other areas include those of military intelligence, transportation, military police, quarter master (supplies), medical service corps, adjutant general, finance corps, etc.

Cadets go initially to a branch school, such as Fort Benning or Fort Knox. Those in a two-year program of active duty go to a unit which may be anywhere in the world. Only the ones who do the best in ROTC program of studies will be accepted in the two year active duty service. They are then assigned to the Reserves. While in the Reserves the cadets maintain themselves in a varying degree of readiness according to the directives of the Secretary of the Army. Should there be a national emergency when the Reserves would be called up, they would become units in the active Army.

The Reserves spend two weeks of summer training at a major training center, such as Fort Dix. During the rest of the year they train in their hometowns.

Vermont has a very active Reserve and National Guard. Colonel Haponski commented, "We have a history of strongly supporting the Reserves and Vermont has high-quality units." A freshman in the ROTC starts out as a cadet private. A certain number of students will be promoted to cadet private first class, depending on the excellence of performance. Further promotions are those of cadet, corporal, cadet sergeant, senior grade sergeant, and the ranks of an officer: cadet second lieutenant, first lieutenant, captain, major, and lieutenant colonel, as the student graduates and continues on in his course of training. "We actually commission our officers in May at Commencement," Colonel Haponski said. "They hold the rank of an officer when they graduate."

As officers in the Reserve Units, they attend weekly or monthly sessions which train with their particular unit, functioning as if they were on active duty. The officers teach courses, perform maneuvers, take courses, and help train other reservists who may be students.

Women cadets do the same types of military duties. However, Colonel Haponski added that at the present time "We cannot require them to participate in rifle firings or field tactical training. They may be allowed to do so if they wish, and here all do participate."

If the Equal Rights Amendment is ratified, women will be required to do all that men do as trainees.

Colonel Haponski concluded: "I can envision a lawsuit in which some woman will want to be an Armor Tank Commander and will sue the United States. And she'd win, too! I can see no reason why women may not be able to function just as well or better in any capacity. There is no reason, for example, why my successor can't be a woman. And, I think that UVM will soon find women faculty members in ROTC."

There are Engineering Corps, Air Defense Artillery and the Signal Corps. Other areas include those of military intelligence, transportation, military police, quarter master (supplies), medical service corps, adjutant general, finance corps, etc.

Cadets go initially to a branch school, such as Fort Benning or Fort Knox. Those in a two-year program of active duty go to a unit which may be anywhere in the world. Only the ones who do the best in ROTC program of studies will be accepted in the two year active duty service. They are then assigned to the Reserves. While in the Reserves the cadets maintain themselves in a varying degree of readiness according to the directives of the Secretary of the Army. Should there be a national emergency when the Reserves would be called up, they would become units in the active Army.

So, You Want To Be A Teacher

by Jeff Ryback

The summer swept by, a good summer, lots of sun, a few women, and of course the typical job. I guess summers are meant to be that way, ephemeral, like candlelight in the night. And before long that interminable day strikes and it's back to the grindstone, back to planning a date now and then around a barrage of words and labs, for survival sake. Least that's how it struck me when I was a student, and now that I've left those hallowed halls to fend for myself at the front of the classroom September strikes an even more frightening note... it really does. I guess it was those frightening bouts with starvation that scared me into teaching, and I suppose it will be the anti-stimulation that will drive me out again... time will tell.

Anyway, September 4th marked the day, orientation, time to meet the new teachers, time to see who had the guts to quit. And perhaps as expected, one went to graduate school, one was pregnant, one was teaching in some other outpost of vacuity, so, outside the five new smiling faces, all was about the same. In fact, a video tape of last year's first day would be hard pressed to find deviations from this year's activities. So it came to pass that all the rhetoric about buses and detentions and corporal punishment and pay checks and discipline and gum chewing and the rest slipped high above my head and I gave full attention to the five new student teachers—the five smiling

Bookstore Charges Higher Rates...

(continued from page one)

BOOKSTORE	PRICE	CANTEEN	PRICE
ITEM
Breck Shampoo - 7 oz.	$3.99		$3.91
Breck Shampoo - 15 oz.	$1.99		$1.66
Prel Shampoo - 3 oz.	$8.99		$8.87
Head and Shoulders - 3 oz.	$8.99		$8.84
Head and Shoulders - 4 oz.	$12.27		$11.12
Alberts Balsam Shampoo - 7 oz.	$9.99		$9.69
Foamy Shaving Creme - 7 oz.	$8.99		$8.89
Foamy Shaving Creme - 3 1/2 oz.	$13.33		$13.23
Buflerin (100 count)	$14.47		$14.29
Anacin (100 count)	$14.47		$14.42
Excedrin (100 count)	$7.79		$8.83
Crest-7 oz z	$5.57		$5.53
Close Up - 3 oz.

student owns it, the bookstore will allow him more than 50% when he sells it back.

Regarding the subject of textbook prices, Heney stated, "The total book income divided by the number of undergraduates is only equal to between $25 and $30 per student." He went on to state that last year 37% of the required books were never purchased, and when these books were returned to the purchasing houses UVM was given a credit slip for the value of the books but not the hard cash. Often times credit slips cannot be used right away, and the University actually ends up losing interest which would be given if the credit slip was cash.

He suggests that professors order books that WILL be used, and that students not only use the books, but more importantly buy them.

"Students are inclined to overstate money spent on books and understate money spent on beer, cigarettes, and entertainment," Heney ruminated.

They appeared like most others I had seen, some pretty, some intellectual, some totally engrossed in the education game, and idealists all of them. Still I felt confident that the trend would continue, that is, the waiting trend that seems to destroy words like "motivation," "ideal," and "sensitivity" in favor of the naturalist's world of hard reality. So it's always wise to meet them in those first weeks before the disillusionment sets in, when their minds are still in touch with the world of ideals. It's quite refreshing.

I remember one student teacher in particular. She was shy that first day and quite contented with listening to the cutting jabs from the teacher or that throw around about different students. And it was no secret to me that her quietness was masking their reticence. In fact, I'm sure she was throwing daggers those first days or swearing that "American educators knew nothing about educating." It took two weeks for the irony to set in, two weeks for "those adorable young minds" to turn into "rancid monsters". She followed the trend to a tee. The interesting thing about the whole relationship was that every now and then we could get together over a beer and mull over the slew of sociological happenings (television, parents, permissiveness) causing educational problems; and one day we finally reached the same awkward conclusion, namely, none. When you come down to it I guess that's why most of "us teachers" treat teaching somewhat as Hemingway treated writing, that is, not as an artist or sentimentalist, but rather as a craftsman, as if it were a nuts and bolts endeavor with "Aquarian Children".

So, after four years of struggling what do you do? You can do what I did and lope off to Africa, but you can starve just as easily here and it's cheaper; you can go to grad school—but more often than naught it's simply an escape mechanism; you can become an auto mechanic; or sky on the flying trapeze; or you can try to change attitudes???? Hey, it's up to you. But let me tell ya, "it don't come easy." In case you're interested, I dabble in Biology.

SPILLANE'S MOBIL SERVICENTER

Open 24 hours on weekends
811 WILLISTON ROAD
JUST DOWN THE HILL NEAR GAYNES
863 2896

- | | | | |
|--|--|--|--|
| 1 Dial Soap 2 Excedrin 3 Active Tooth Polish 4 Flair Pen 5 Bath for Men Shampoo 6 Breath Pleasers 7 Sea & Ski Lipsaver 8 Contac Cold Capsules 9 Trac II Razor 10 Foamy Shave Cream | FOR MEN SEMI FREE! | 1 Lady Trac II Razor 2 Lemon-Up Shampoo 3 Active Tooth Polish 4 Jean Nate 5 Woolite 6 Midol 7 Contac Cold Capsules 8 Breath Pleasers 9 Aqua Fresh 10 At Least One Bonus Product 11 Tame Balsam & Body Instant Conditioner 12 Playtex Deodorant Tampons | FOR WOMEN SEMI FREE! |
|--|--|--|--|

AT LEAST 10 PRODUCTS FOR YOU THAT WILL SAVE YOU MONEY! HANDY FOR TRAVEL

Available Friday
Sept. 21

VEPA ANSWERS TODAY'S BIGGEST PROBLEM

Ecology Economy Transportation

Safe and reliable pollution-free, quiet, economical, safe, maneuverable, and needs little space to park. Provides a day for gas and maintenance. Choose from 5 models.

Now available at:

Scooter Shoppe
10 Austin Drive
Rosedale Park
Burlington, Vermont
Telephone 658-2336

The best way to go!

Authorized dealer for Vespa Scooters in Vermont.
1000 North Ave. - Burlington, Vt. 05401
Tues. - Thurs. 12:30 - 5:30
Sat. 9 - 5.

LUMS FRISBEE OFFER

GET AN OUT OF THIS WORLD TREAT

ORDER 'THE WORKS'

(LUMS hearty beefburger served open face with all the trimmings, topped to perfection with melted cheese)

Served with french fries and a large Pepsi and have the meal served to you on a free

FRISBEE (YOURS TO TAKE HOME)

$1.99

LUMS FAMILY RESTAURANTS

WILLISTON ROAD 11:30 am - 1:00 am TOWARDS THE AIRPORT

SPEAKERS

HAVE YOU HEARD THE 3 BEST SPEAKERS IN THE WORLD?
IT IS IRONIC THAT ALL 3 ARE HERE IN BURLINGTON AND NOT IN THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE WHERE THEY SURELY BELONG.

THERE ARE MANY OTHER CLAIMS. PERHAPS YOU'VE HEARD SOME OF THE FOLLOWING:

"- OURS HAS THE LOWEST RESONANCE POINT",

"- OURS HAS TERRIFIC HIGHS",

"ACOUSTIC SUSPENSION IS BETTER THAN BASE REFLEX
LE. TRANSMISSION LINE TYPE OR OPPOSITELY, BASE REFLEX IS BETTER THAN."

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN AT A STEREO STORE WHERE THE SALESMAN IS PUSHING HIS OWN BRAND OF SPEAKERS?
HIS SPEAKERS ARE THE ONES WITH ANY OF THE ABOVE
DESCRIPTIVE PHRASING AND OBVIOUSLY HAVE THAT RAZZLE-DAZZLE SOUND WITH THAT WONDERFUL 80% MARK-UP!

IN ONE DAY OUR REPAIRMAN HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO WORK ON 3 DIFFERENT CHAIN STORE, PRIVATE LINE, SPEAKERS, NONE OF US WERE AMAZED TO LEARN THAT REPLACEMENT
PARTS WOULD COME FROM THE SAME MANUFACTURER
(WE'VE OMITTED NAMES TO PROTECT THOSE TRADE SECRETS)

AUDIO DEN HAS A NEW SPEAKER, IT IT'S NAME ISN'T IMPORTANT; HOWEVER HOW WELL OR PRECISELY IT REPRODUCES
MUSIC OR VOICE IS IMPORTANT! IN OUR TESTS WE FOUND THE SPEAKER
TO PERFORM NATURALLY THROUGHOUT THE AUDIO RANGE-IT'S RESPONSE
WAS MEASURED AT 40 Hz TO 20,000 Hz -3db (THAT'S FAIRLY LINEAR) DISPERSION IS A FULL 160°, PRESENSE WAS GOOD (WITHOUT THE MIDRANGE BUMP THAT USUALLY MAKES VIOLINS SOUND LIKE GUITARS),
WE HOPE YOU'LL LIKE THESE SPEAKERS AS MUCH AS WE DO. BY THE WAY
10 WATTS WILL DRIVE THEM. THE NAME IS

SPECIFICATIONS MODEL A-100

Drivers:	10" inch high compliance woofer, 3" inch foam damped cone midrange, 2" inch wide-dispersion tweeter.
Frequency response:	40-20,000 Hz plus/minus 3 dB (free-field) down 10 dB @ 30 Hz
System resonance:	1 Hz plus/minus 1 Hz
Dispersion:	160 degrees
Maximum power input:	60 watts
Nominal impedance:	8 ohms
Cross-over frequencies:	1,500 Hz, 7,500 Hz
Cross-over type:	L/C
Controls:	Midrange level switch and tweeter level switch.
Cabinet:	Oiled walnut
Dimensions:	24-3/8 inches high 13-3/4 inches wide 12 inches deep
Shipping weight:	37 lbs.
Warranty:	6 years

Audioanalyst

THE MODEL A-100

AUDIO
DEN

burlington & middlebury

THE GOOD

MAW-LIKE EYES FOR
FARE... THE ANATOMY
ALMOST CAME... STEEL
HEAD... STING!
THE SHIP!
ACTION!

Role Of Women Faculty

(continued from page five)

for students to indicate their satisfaction.
Meanwhile, student interest is increasing, as evidenced by the formation of a new women's group led by Suzanne Goulet. Felt emphasized the growing recognition among women that "there is no shame in being a brainy female." It is according to her, documented fact that most women with high grade averages do not aspire to graduate school.

Some people have, however,
detected changing attitudes.
Dore Andrews, a student who

Absence...

(continued from page nine)

6. A leave of absence distinct from withdrawing for medical reasons and is not granted for medical reasons.

7. A leave of absence does not guarantee housing upon the student's return.

8. A leave of absence guarantees readmission to the student's college in the University, if the student confirms his or her intent to return by the closing date for normal readmission application (October 31 and March 15 preceding the appropriate semester.)

9. While on a leave of absence, an individual's student status is temporary terminated. A leave of absence guarantees an individual readmission only if he or she takes the appropriate action.

10. A leave of absence should be confirmed by an appropriate form signed by both the student and the dean of the college involved.

11. When a leave of absence is granted, the University recognizes an intention to resume future student status.

leave of absence does constitute evidence continuing Vermont domicile for residency purposes.
Approved, Academic Council
September 6, 1973

M

COL TY

Men's Size

★ CAMP

Charge It

THE GOOD TIMES

Role Of Women Faculty Examined...

(continued from page one)

for students to indicate their dissatisfaction. Meanwhile, student interest is increasing, as evidenced by the formation of a new women's group led by Suzanne Goulet. Felt emphasized the growing recognition among women that "there is no shame in being a brainy female." It is, according to her, a documented fact that most women with high grade averages do not aspire to graduate school.

Some people have, however, detected changing attitudes. Dale Andrews, a student who Absence...

(continued from page nine)

8. A leave of absence is distinct from withdrawing for medical reasons, and is not granted for medical reasons.

9. A leave of absence does not guarantee housing upon the student's return.

10. A leave of absence guarantees readmission to the student's college in the University, if the student confirms his or her intent to return by the closing date for a normal readmission application (October 31 and March 31 preceding the appropriate semester).

11. While on a leave of absence, an individual's student status is temporarily terminated. A leave of absence guarantees an individual's readmission only if he or she takes the appropriate action.

12. A leave of absence should be confirmed by the appropriate form signed by both the student and the dean of the college involved.

13. When a leave of absence is granted, the University recognizes an intention to resume future student status. A leave of absence does not constitute evidence of continuing Vermont domicile for residency purposes.

Approved: Academic Council September 6, 1973

had an individually designed major in Women's Studies for a while, felt that the situation has improved in her three years here.

"Men have more respect for women now," she stated. "Professors are now more aware of their prejudices. In a lot of classes there has been discussion of the problem."

While the exact figures are presently unavailable (the Cynic will print them in two weeks) there are reportedly more women now being hired.

"Courses on women now exist in many departments. They include 'Women in Literature' in English, 'Psychology of Women' in psychology, 'Rhetoric of the Women's Movement' in Speech and 'Women in Politics' in Political Science.

The Experimental Program has offered courses in women's history, including a biography course on Outstanding American Women of the 19th Century, the History of American Feminism and Women in American History.

A UVM committee of the American Association of University Professors is working on informing students about these courses. Led by Mary Wilson, it consists of faculty members from various colleges. They are: Linda Rodd, Signe Betzinger, Norma Woodruff, Virginia Clark, Kaye Felt, and Jane Greenberg. They have been active in getting new women's courses and in informing students about these courses. They are available to all students for counseling and complaints.

There are problems, however. As Kaye Felt commented, "We need to encourage women with excellent minds that a career which uses their intellectuality is compatible with marriage and family. We have to convince people that it is not wrong for a woman to aspire to a career."

Devil's Advocate On Infirmary...

(continued from page five)

concerned (all one floor), better parking facilities and a headquarters for the ambulance.

Last of all there is the plan to add on to the present infirmary. Most of the opposition to this plan has come from two factors. The initial cost would be higher than the East Avenue site, and the addition might detract slightly from the historical value of the house. Yes, believe it or not, a great deal of opposition has come from the fact that Wheeler House (Wasson Infirmary) is a historic site. The plans would have called for a low level addition in back of the house stretching to the garage in back. A genuine attempt was made to plan so that the house would still stand out as the landmark, but this was not enough for the Trustees. The advantages? The location would be convenient to the entire university. Students from immediately off campus would be the same distance as those in the dorms. Students would be able to come from their classes and go back to them without a long walk. The ambulance squad would have quarters and there would be parking available.

Those were the choices. As you probably know, the East Avenue site was chosen. The reasons given were monetary. The trustees felt they were doing someone a favor by trying to cut the costs down. For whom were they acting? It wasn't the Vermont citizenry. No tax dollars will be spent on the new infirmary. The money will come directly from an increase in the Health Fee! Well, then, they must have been acting in the student interest. This sounds unusual, for the Student Association Senate voted unanimously for the present infirmary site even after Dean Powers had given them all the details of each alternative. My heart is warm thinking about the great concern the Board of Trustees has for us lowly students. This kind of concern we could do without. I am willing to wager devalued dollars to Dunkin' Donuts that by the time all the additions and renovations are done over at East Avenue, the cost will be more than that planned for enlarging Wasson.

Every week the Trustees delay in starting the conversion of East Avenue is costing money in terms of higher construction rates. In case you haven't noticed, absolutely nothing has been done yet. The Trustees have proved, once again, that they are penny-wise and pound foolish. But there may be another reason for this odd move. Perhaps the Trustees have made a very shrewd move here. They have found a way to buy a tract of land without using a cent of Vermont tax money. Let the students foot the cost. Over 50% of it is going to come from out of state anyway, right? Right! Then the old Wasson Infirmary can be used for administrative offices without buying a new building. Fantastic!

Make your own decision on the matter. Do you think the Trustees made the right decision? I don't. Your response is welcome.

Infirmary Moves...

(continued from page one)

new facility. Also on the increase will be the health fee, going up between $6 and $10 a year for the next few years. The staff "in the immediate university is looking into future." But right now even one doctor is hard to find. The person desired is someone young and capable of living on the low salary that is being offered. At the present time there are no likely prospects.

There are no plans to add new nurses. The already existing ones are evolving into what Dr. Amidon calls "nurse-practitioners." They are capable of doing many things a doctor does, thus eliminating the need for so many patients.

Right now the Infirmary is seeing an average of 100-150 patients a day. The record stands at 198 and was set weeks ago. Dr. Amidon says a 35% increase is expected at the new facility. However, if everything progresses according to the schedule, the new Infirmary will be opening on September 1, 1974.

Simple, straight-forward, classic—out of step with today's throwaway culture. Refillable cartridge, ballpoint or fiber tip marker in basic tan or navy blue. $1.98 not bad for a pen you may use the rest of your life.

$1.98

HEWLETT-PACKARD WORLD-WIDE A COMPANY

Superscoop...

(continued from page five)

"You mean ideas like freedom and justice?" "I beg your pardon?" Burgbache was busy examining his fingernails.

"Forget it."

"Very well. Shall we move on?"

We moved on down to the next door and through. "This is our model student project, and these," proclaimed Burgbache with a sweep of the hand, "are our prototype model students."

Apparently the project was not yet finished, for both students—blond-haired, blue-eyed, clean finger-nailed, male and female—were as yet unclothed. Burgbache examined them both closely (in an objective manner, of course), then asked, "Do they talk?"

"Certainly!" said Burgbache. "Ask them anything." Pausing a moment to determine which was which, I asked the male, "Do you drink?"

"What kind of drink do you mean?" he asked in a flat, unemotional voice with but a rising tone on the last word. Hoping for better luck with the female I asked her, "Do you like to ball?" This proved too much for her nervous system (or whatever she had inside) and she tottered away chanting, "Not tonight, I've got a headache."

"What's the matter with them?" I asked Burgbache, who seemed to be upset about something.

"You didn't ask the right questions, you silly ass. I don't know what possessed me to let such a vulgar person as you in here. My stars and garters!"

By this time I was smelling something fishy, so I headed for the door at the end of the corridor. Burgbache skipping along behind.

So this is where all the steam comes from, I mused. We were in a huge circular chamber, the floor about 50 feet below us. A gigantic cauldron about 30 feet deep and 20 feet across full of a bubbling, steaming liquid sat on the floor. It was being stirred by eight zombie-like males in harness circling on an endless track attached to the wall just below where we were standing. They looked like so many horses working an old-fashioned wine press. They were futilely chasing a young girl clad only in an apron with a large red "A" printed on it. Above us I could dimly see the bottoms of the infamous pipes.

"What's going on here, Burgbache?" I demanded, as self-righteously as I could.

"This is the grading room," he mused. "At one time or another, all the students at the university pass through here. Unbeknownst to them, naturally. We kidnap them and give them a special drug. They never know what hits them."

"It is here that your final status at school is determined. Of course, with the women students we don't use a girl in an apron for the 'bait,' but an elderly gentleman in a jockstrap. The top students are those who succeed in kissing the 'bait' on the—ahem—posterior."

"That's ridiculous, Burgbache. It's not only ridiculous, it's insane. It's not only insane, it's revolting, it's obscene. It's... it's... it's a no-no! How can you get away with this?"

"Simple, sweetie. We run things."

Beat the numbers...

The world's first calculators that challenge computers and fit into your pocket.

Are you spending too much time solving problems the old-fashioned way—with slide rule, ordinary calculator or paper and pencil?

Solve problems in seconds, with one of the same calculators used by professionals in your field—the HP-35 Scientific Pocket Calculator, the HP-45 Advanced Scientific Pocket Calculator, or the HP-80 Business Pocket Calculator. Hewlett-Packard calculators give you more power, more accuracy, more storage registers and more features than ordinary calculators. For example, the HP-35 gives you up to 10 digit accuracy, a floating decimal point, and a range of 200 decades (10⁻²² to 10⁹⁹). The HP-45 also gives you automatic conversions, offers you a choice of fixed or scientific notation, and performs register, and vector arithmetic. And the HP-80 is pre-programmed with 3 dozen financial functions.

Right now, an HP calculator can help you get better grades, because it...

- SAVES TIME in solving problems—just press the keys!
- GUARANTEES ACCURACY for fewer mistakes
- OFFERS COMPUTER-LIKE POWER (no waiting for school machine)
- REPLACES TABLES AND PAPER-AND-PENCIL CALCULATIONS
- OPERATES SILENTLY for use in classroom, library or dorm
- GOES ANYWHERE (fits in pocket or purse; weighs but 9 ounces)

COME IN TODAY FOR A FREE DEMONSTRATION of the complete line of Hewlett-Packard pocket calculators

Sales, service and support in 172 centers in 65 countries

MAZEL'S
FAMILY SHOE STORE
194 North St. Burlington

CONTINENTAL TYROLEANS®

DUNHAM'S

The North Country's Favorite All-around BOOT...

Men's Sizes 6 to 13, Ladies' Sizes 5 to 10
★ CAMPUS BOOTS ★ HIKING BOOTS ★

★ Mazel's Open Daily 9 am to 6 pm, Thurs. & Fri. 'til 9 pm
★ Free Parking Next to Store

Charge It...

pliance woofer cone midrange
speaker tweeter
plus/minus 3 dB
0 dB at 30 Hz
plus/minus 1 Hz
160 degrees
60 watts
8 ohms
0 Hz, 7,500 Hz
L/C
high and tweeter level switch
Oiled walnut,
3 1/8 inches high
3 1/4 inches wide
12 inches deep
37 lbs
6 years

bury

Catamount Football
Clippings

Although Vermont was Saturday (Sept. 15), 1973, Faltene admits there was a game which Vermont did have to improve during Connecticut, after lead committed numerous mistakes. Kickoff for the game, is set for 1 p.m. There are still a limited Saturday's game, and Athletic Ticket Office, Gymnasium. The tickets (656-3074) and picked opened from 9 a.m. to General admission waits game.

"I was extremely pleased," Pete Trono and Mark K. Dave Hibma and center half and early in the Steve Coon really did a Mike McAllister (halfback) Faltene. McAllister ran first half. Coon, the fullback, in addition to his Baczek mixed his play, gainers on his own, and Vermont only threw came in big bucks on the yards.

Defensively, the Vermont satisfied in the way they rated by many as one of the best in New England. AIC was with 52 yards coming in for their offense. The co-captain and All-New shut off their attack, and an outstanding day was Glenn Thigpen and Johnny Thompson.

The Vermont Boston night, Sept. 29, original field, has been switched. May. The time of the game is the Terrier's home with their Astro-Turf, Foxboro.

Cats Beat A

(continued from page twelve) pounced on the loose pig and Vermont took over on own 12 yard line.

Once again the Cat's field and had to give up football. Billy Looker had another good punt and had one last chance with time remaining. Reidy forced to go into the air, the Cats were up to the and left the field with first victory of the 1973 season. This season's record is Offensive standouts UVM were tackle Mark Roy, co-captain and guard P. Trono, and center Bob W. The powerhouse running was led by Mike McAllister, who carried 21 times for 147 yards.

Defensive standouts

UConn And U Vermont's soccer team added by a power Bridgeport University 10 D. last weekend (Sept. 15) Connecticut Saturday home opener, beginning 10:30 a.m. at A T Post P. ated behind the Gutie old House on Spear Connecticut, according to Coach Don Soderberg, with of the teams to con

(continued on page thirteen)

E & E

Complete retreaded winter tire Front end Official V Inspection

E & E T 152 RIV 264-7759

U.V.M. SPORTS

UVM defense, led by Gary Gottfried and Bob Brand, closing in on AIC quarterback Jim Reidy.

SPS Photo: S. Frowentfeld

UVM Bounces Back With 14-7 Win

by Al Patashnick

Lack of mental errors and a vastly improved offensive line that allowed running backs Mike McAllister and Steve Coon to find daylight, enabled the University of Vermont to defeat AIC 14-7 this past weekend. The victory avenged last year's final game loss which cost the Catamounts a winning season, and also showed everyone that the opening defeat to Maine would not keep them down for long.

Last week the Maine Black Bears amassed a total offense of 440 yards to Vermont's 93. Against the Yellowjackets, the hungry Cats had a total offense of 285 yards while surrendering only 211 yards to a strong AIC offense. The biggest improvement was the running attack that was completely bottled up the week before. Vermont plowed over the Springfield, Mass. contingent for 249 net yards as compared to 21 against Maine.

The defense, led by co-captain John Hemphill and Billy Rudkin, completely shut off the Yellowjacket attack by allowing the visitors only 20 plays in the first half. AIC perked up their offense after halftime but could only score seven points on the motivated UVM defense. Hemphill continually made a nuisance of himself hemming in AIC runners for small gains.

After forcing AIC to punt on its first series, Vermont ground out chunks of turf only to fall short of scoring on its opponent's 13-yard line. The drive had started on the Cat's own 13, and was highlighted by the bruising running of Mike McAllister and Steve Coon.

AIC never did gain momentum during the first quarter which ended scoreless. But at the outset of the second quarter, the UVM offense, under the helm of quarterback Fran Baczek, moved 55 yards in ten plays. With just 1:21 gone Steve Coon capped the drive by plowing over from the one, giving Vermont its first touchdown of the young season. George Brunst kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead that lasted until halftime.

Vermont completely dominated the first half as shown by its total offense of 204 yards to only 96 for AIC. The Cats ran 42 plays and garnered 12 first downs, while the visitors managed to run 20 plays and only muster two first downs.

The Cat's offense slowed down in the second half but still had enough left in store for AIC. UVM's last good drive of the day, began on their own 34 yard line. Thirteen plays and 66 yards later, freshman running back Larry Lockwood scored his first career touchdown. The extra point was good and the score increased to 14-0, with a little under seven minutes having elapsed.

After an exchange of fumbles, AIC finally got on the scoreboard and back into the game. Their drive was set up by a fumble recovery of Vermont's 42. Fran Baczek was hit behind the line of scrimmage, as he set up to pass and the ball was jarred loose. AIC did not waste time moving in for a score. With the help of a holding call near the goal line, AIC struck for its first touchdown of the afternoon as Jerry Stellmack popped over from the one yard line. Quarterback Jim Reidy booted the extra point and the Yellowjackets closed the margin to 14-7 with 3:51 left in the third period.

With the Cats rushing attack stymied throughout the final period, AIC once again began to jell. Using the legs of Jerry Stellmack and Willie Hunt, and the fine hands of tight end John Zilch, AIC made a last quarter push that looked like trouble for the home team. With just 3:05 remaining Stellmack rushed into a wall of bodies at the line of scrimmage and fumbled the football. Defensive tackle Bill Rudkin (continued on page thirteen)

B Team Downs
VTC Booters

Last Friday the UVM soccer "B" team kicked off the season with a stunning 4-3 victory over Vermont Technical College, last year's Junior College National Champions. UVM was impressive as they did it the hard way, coming from behind after spotting VTC a 3-0 lead. But by the middle of the first half the momentum began to change when Don Posen but in a goal from his left wing position. The half ended 3-1 but UVM rooters could sense good things were coming as the first, second and third teams all seeing action, had begun to outplay VTC.

The second half saw the green and gold booters come on like a locomotive. It was a rare moment to see VTC cross the midfield line. Jack Graham made it 3-2 with a goal after 12 minutes had elapsed. The "B" squad proved overpowering with its relentless attack. The tying goal was scored by Don Smith with 15 minutes left to play, and inevitably six minutes later Greg Bartlett put in the winning goal. The "B" squad displayed a great passing game and teamwork as well as guts and determination in coming from behind.

Coaches Paul Reinhart and Chaplain Odie were extremely pleased, noting that the team had only 8 days of practice before this first game. They gave credit to the players for their dedication and willingness to work hard and to grow together as a team. The soccer program has been geared toward conditioning, enjoyment, unity, learning, and as Friday's results clearly indicated, winning.

The "B" squads next contest is Friday, September 21st vs Champlain College on our home field. Come see a winning tradition continued!

Purple Knights Defeat Cats 4-0

This past Saturday the University of Vermont soccer team lost their season opener 4-0 to a strong and poised Bridgeport team. The Purple Knights of Connecticut played in front of a home crowd of almost 300 and showed why they are the eleventh ranked team in the nation.

The Cats, after a five hour bus ride, took to the field hoping to bring home a win. The Vermont eleven played well in the first half, keeping constant pressure on the Connecticut goalie, but the Cats were unable to score, despite hitting the goal post twice.

The Purple Knights scored 36 minutes into the first half on a close chip shot from the right side. Much to the dismay of the Bridgeport fans, the first half ended with the score 1-0.

In the second half, the Purple Knights showed their maturity as the 11th ranked team in the nation, displaying aggressive and poised play. In an attempt to even the score, UVM physically outthrusted their opponents. But the Bridgeport defense proved too strong for the Catamounts.

The very physical Bridgeport team weaved through UVM's defense with exceptionally sharp passing, quick ball handling, and uncanny anticipation, all of which were strangers to the Catamount offense. Intense pressure was put on sophomore UVM goalie Jeff Jonas, who was replacing the injured James Taft. Jonas performed admirably under the circumstances, coming up with 19 saves. Supported by a strong defense, the goalie had an easy afternoon stopping 10 shots. Bob Cleverdon and Wells Cunningham played well for UVM goalie Jeff Jonas surrounded by a host of Bridgeport booters in Saturday's 4-0 loss.

SPS Photo: R. R. Lew

the Cats throughout the contest.

After the game assistant coach Chris Harris stated that, "This team has the physical ability to run with any team in the country. Coach Soderberg and I have seen to that, but whether they have an aggressive desire to beat the other team remains to be seen."

A defeat by a superior Bridgeport squad may be just the shot in the arm that the Cats need to find themselves as a team. The Cats will be looking for their first victory this Saturday at 10:30, when they host the University of Connecticut at Archie Post Field.

Soccer Schedule

Sept. 22 (Sat.)	Connecticut*	3 p.m.
Sept. 25 (Tue.)	Plattsburgh	10:30 a.m.
Sept. 29 (Sat.)	Boston Univ.*	3 p.m.
Oct. 3 (Wed.)	at Norwich	3 p.m.
Oct. 10 (Wed.)	St. Michael's	10:30 a.m.
Oct. 13 (Sat.)	Rhode Island*	3 p.m.
Oct. 17 (Wed.)	Norwich	10:30 a.m.
Oct. 20 (Sat.)	at New Hampshire	3 p.m.
Oct. 24 (Wed.)	Middlebury	10:30 a.m.
Oct. 27 (Sat.)	Maine*	3 p.m.
Oct. 30 (Tue.)	at St. Michael's	10:30 a.m.
Nov. 3 (Sat.)	at Massachusetts*

The Insider

by Frank Luisi

Since January of last semester the Vermont Football team has been dedicating themselves to what most people would term a comeback, a rebound, and maybe in a way, a kind of "rebirth" for UVM football. And that "rebirth," or let us say, a "Catamount Renaissance" has begun. In many ways and for many reasons, it has been achieved.

The first sign of the "Cat Renaissance" is the belief and spirit that was in all of us on Saturday against AIC. We met a hustling and well-coached team, but I feel there was too much of that "rebirth" and that spirit in us to give them that game. We showed in a very simple way that we were there to play, and that when the game was over our respect would be earned and deserved. Our offensive and defensive lines both showed tough drive and relentless hitting.

On defense, co-captain John Hemphill played with excellence in spite of a hand that had to be taped up into a "stump". He, along with Dave "Incline Plane" Alberico, Billy Rudkin, Fred Fournier, Bob "Salty" Brandt, Mike "Hands" Johns, John Anderson, "Big Jim" Walton, Barre Vison, and "Steady" Ed Salengo, all pursued, hit, and stayed with A.I.C. the whole day. Coach Murphy and Coach Farnham were proud of the effort made by our defensive front. Because of these men, the Cat defense is building a reputation in the Yankee Conference as a group of tough hitters, relentless "pursuers" and "gang tacklers." Their pride is evident, and it has grown with the maturing of the defense, something for which Coach Mike Murphy has been an inspiration.

The "Cat Renaissance" is evidenced not only by the dedicated, hard-working defensive-line but by many "heavy hitters" and outstanding leaders throughout our defense and offense. Our linebackers, one of whom is happily married, Glenn Martel, and another who is known to "hunt heads" with abandon, Glenn Thigpen, both work together, as tough support for our linemen. With them in the "linebacking corps" are Joe Reinhart and George Brunst, our "lucker," both of whom have contributed outstanding desire and hustle to our defense. In the secondary, there is also outstanding pride and spirit. Led by "J. T.", John Thompson, Gary Gottfried (who made a tremendous come-from behind tackle that saved a touchdown on Saturday), "shifty" Mark Delorme, "fine hands" Dan Wyand, the "Duke", Duke Snodgrass, not to mention an up and coming "Rookie", Steve Ernst - all are working together with a special pride to make our defense tops. We are coached by a man of "spirit" who has been a great example to all of us with his own tremendous dedication and effort. He is Coach Lynn Livelsberger from Akron, Ohio. However, all the coaches have helped us not only by their coaching of techniques and team defense, but even more by their personal example of dedication and effort which I'm sure all of the guys would agree is second to no group of coaches in the Yankee Conference.

(continued on page thirteen)

WATERBEDS
COMPLETE STOCK OF MATTRESSES, FOAM
PADS, HEATERS, AND LINERS

PURPLE COW INC.

878-3857

5 pm - 9 pm - Mon - Fri

10 am - 5 pm Sat

GET HIGH
THIS WINTER

Glen Ellen has the highest peak in the Green Mountain National Forest, 2,646 vertical ft. with some of the most challenging skiing anywhere. Special week day rates for all UVM students and extra-low rates for Outing Club and Student-Ski Association members (weekends and holidays included).

*Special UVM Season Pass Rate Prior to Oct. 1...$140.00.

*With Glen Ellen Pass, ski 1/2 weekend rate at Mad River on weekdays.
Contact: Jim Pietrovito, Mills Hall, 656-3484, or Steve Brown, Mills Hall, 656-3645.
Time payment plans are available.

A CIVILIAN PILOT'S LICENSE

FOR A FEW GOOD COLLEGE MEN.
WE PAY.

Learn to fly while you're still in college. The Marines will pay the full amount $900 worth of tuition for qualified students of the Pilotless Aircraft License. You will be earning a Marine officer's commission through PLC while training at Quantico, Virginia. And after graduation, you will be one of the few good men who go on to Marine pilot or flight officer training. Get the details from the Marine officer who visits your campus.

DATE: 26 & 27 September 1973

TIME: 9:00 AM to 3:00 PM

LOCATION: Student Union - Billings Center

PLC

THE MARINES ARE LOOKING

FOR A FEW GOOD MEN.

Burlington's only specialty
ski shop.

Ski equipment becomes more refined and technical each year. Stop in and discover a ski shop designed with this idea in mind.

Located within The Ski Shop
at
Shelburne Road
862-7472

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE

Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

• Fine work on American cars
• Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
• Front end alignment • Spin balancing
• Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

VW BRAKE JOB

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn
drums, rebuilt 4 wheel
cylinders. Discs $10 additional.
$39.95
OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL. Spin Balance $2.50 per Wheel. Front End Alignment $10.

Catamount Football Clippings

Although Vermont won its first game of the season last Saturday (Sept. 15), 14-7 over AIC, head coach Carl Falivene admits there were "too many mental mistakes" in a game which Vermont dominated most of the way. "We'll have to improve during the week before our game with Connecticut, a very sound football team," said Falivene. Connecticut, after leading Lehigh 20-0 at halftime, committed numerous mistakes in the second half, and lost 21-20. Kickoff for the Connecticut (0-1) - Vermont (1-1) game, is set for 1 p.m., with the gates opening at 12 noon. There are still a limited supply of reserve seats left for Saturday's game, and they may be purchased at the Athletic Ticket Office, Room 206, Roy L. Patrick Gymnasium. The tickets may also be reserved by telephone (656-1074) and picked up at a later date. The office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. General admission seats will only be sold the day of the game.

"I was extremely pleased with our offensive line (tackles Pete Trono and Mark Rowse, guards Dave Iannone and Dave Hibma and center Bob Weiler), particularly in the first half and, early in the third quarter, Weiler and Fullback Steve Coon really did a job on the AIC linebackers, giving Mike McAllister (halfback) plenty of running room," said Falivene. McAllister ran for 130 yards, including 95 in the first half. Coon, the fullback, raced for 101 yards and one TD, in addition to his outstanding block. Quarterback Fran Baczek mixed his plays "very well" and ran for some long gains on his own, most of them of the option variety. Vermont only threw nine times, as most of the yardage came in big hunks on the ground. Vermont rushed for 249 yards.

Defensively, the Vermont coaching staff was very satisfied in the way they choked off AIC's running game, rated by many as one of the best in the small college ranks in New England. AIC was held to 85 yards on the ground, with 52 yards coming in the second half. "We prepared well for their offense. The interior of the line, headed by co-captain and All-New England candidate John Hemphill, shut off their attack," added Falivene. Others credited with an outstanding day were linebackers Glenn Martel and Glenn Thuppen and defensive backs Gary Gottfried and Johnny Thompson.

The Vermont-Boston University football game Saturday night, Sept. 29, originally scheduled for BU's Nickerson Field, has been switched to Schaefer Stadium in Foxboro, Mass. The time of the game is still 7:30 p.m. The game with BU is the Terrier's home opener, but because of problems with their Astro-Turf, the game was forced to move to Foxboro.

Cats Beat AIC For First Victory...

(continued from page twelve)
pounced on the loose piskin and Vermont took over on its own 12 yard line. Once again the Cat's were held and had to give up the football. Billy Looker booted another spot punt and AIC had one last chance with little time remaining. Reidy was forced to go into the air, but the Cats were up to the task and left the field with their first victory of the 1973 season. This evened their record at 1-1.

Offensive standouts for UVM were tackle Mark Rowse, co-captain and guard Peter McAllister, and center Bob Weiler. Defensively, displayed finer overall play. Last week the running game was held to minus yardage, while this week

Action From Cats' 14-7 Victory Over AIC

Running backs Mike McAllister and Steve Coon running around and over the AIC defense. McAllister finished with 130 yards while Coon rushed for 101.

The Insider...

(continued from page twelve)

On our defense, like on all teams, there is a group of guys who are "no names". They don't always get to suit up for games, but they are there every day at practice, and they work as hard or harder than anyone else. Our team is not an elite of guys who suit up and guys who don't. We are "one", and because of that unity, we are all important to each other. Without guys like "Ralphie" Phil Remillard, Jerry "Birdy" Hadeka, and Tim Richards in the Secondary, Bill Sweeney at Linebacker, Phil Vrana on the line, Dave Brown, and even injured Greg D'auria and Mike Paternoster - our spirit, our team would be missing something very important to us.

All of these men, (and I feel they have earned the right to be called men), have been sacrificing and disciplining themselves to make the "Cat Renaissance" a reality. The guys playing second and third string, not to mention the regular starters - are making the attitude and spirit of our football team one that cannot be beaten. They are buying a spirit that will be in every quarter, on every play, of every game.

There is another half to the "Catamount Renaissance," and that is our spirited offense, whose ground game and toughness will be the key to our control of our remaining games.

Next week I will discuss and analyze the role of the offense in helping construct the "rebirth" of UVM football. The "Catamount Renaissance" began last January, when we initiated our efforts with a demanding and dedicated off-season workout program. To use a jock metaphor, we have paid the price. We believe the victory on Saturday was no fluke, but was something we earned, something we will continue to earn each Saturday this year. Last winter we earned it with 5 days a week in Patrick Gym, with wrestling, cal, weights, sprints, and miles of running. On those days we began to pay and will continue to pay the price for our goal.

The "Cat Renaissance" will not die next Saturday, nor on the Saturday after, nor for that matter will it die after this, for it is something based on us, on our spirits, on what we "are" and what we want to "be-come". It has been honestly, sincerely and totally, from us.

In my opinion that is a quality which really makes things worthwhile not only in sports, but in life. And by that standard we "are", and we shall always strive to be, "winners", both on the field and off.

We ask you to support us, as we work for this goal.

Catamount Football Stats

	Vt.	Opp.
First downs	22	34
(rushing)	17	22
(passing)	3	13
(penalty)	2	4
Total plays	120	136
(rushing)	85	93
(passing)	35	43
Rushing yardage	228	296
Passing yardage	151	362
TOTAL OFFENSE	379	658
Passes att./comp.	35-16	43-22
Passes had int.	2	2
Fumbles	3	5
Fumbles lost	1	3
Penalties	16	14
Yards penalized	110	141
Punts	15-500-33.3	9-292-32.4
Kickoff returns	4-53-13.2	4-60-15.0
Punt returns	3-10-3.3	8-33-4.1

Cats To Face Black Bears In Cross Country Meet

Vermont's cross country team, home after a trimet win at Keene St. (Boston St., the third team), opens its home schedule Saturday (Sept. 22) against Yankee Conference rival, Maine, beginning at 11 a.m. behind the Gutterston Field House.

Sept. 22	Maine	11 a.m.
Sept. 29	at New Hampshire	1 p.m.
Oct. 6	at Connecticut	10 a.m.
Oct. 10	State Meet at St. Michael's College, Winoski, Vt.	3 p.m.
Oct. 17	RPI - Williams	3:30 p.m.
Oct. 24	at St. Michael's College	4 p.m.
Oct. 27	at Yankee Conference Meet Durham, N. H.
Nov. 5	at New England's Franklin Park, Boston, Mass.

LOWEST PRESCRIPTION PRICES IN VERMONT

YOU KEEP THE SAVING

(ask your doctor about us)

Present your ID with Your Prescription

Grandway Pharmacy

Grandway Shopping Plaza
Shelburne Road

GARBAGE COLLECTORS COTILLION

OLDEST AND LARGEST GREEK OPEN FUNCTION EVER ON CAMPUS

LAMBDA IOTA
440 PEARL ST.
SEPT. 22, 1973
8:30 pm

LIVE BAND
COUPLES ONLY
BYOB

E & E TIRE CO.

Complete line of new and retreaded summer and winter tires
Front end alignments
Official Vermont Inspection Station

E & E TIRE CO., INC.
152 RIVERSIDE AVE.
864-7759 BURL.

Automotive

CAR REPAIR
ALISTS

Spin balancing Engine rebuilding

WAKE JOB
$39.95

Additional $10.00 per wheel

Mackinnon Featured On Cover Of Hockey Guide

Mackinnon as he appears on the cover of the 1974 Ice Hockey Guide

Hockey player, Willie Mackinnon, became the first University of Vermont athlete to be featured on the cover of the Official National Collegiate Athletic Association Ice Hockey Guide. The guide, recently released by the NCAA Publishing Service in Shawnee Mission, Kansas, highlights the national collegiate scene as well as all high school hockey playing institutions. In addition, there is an "Official Rules Section" in the text. The guide is available ($2.00) by Bowdoin.

Golf Schedule

Sept. 21 STATE MEET at Middlebury Country Club
Oct. 6 ECAC Qualifying Tournament, Ellington, Conn.
Oct. 13 ECACC Championships, Cooperstown, N.Y.
Oct. 21-21 Yale Invitational, New Haven, Conn.

TORTILLA FLAT

317 Riverside Avenue

ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD

- Tostadu Plate With Rice $1.95
- Combination Plate Taco, Enchilada, Rice and Beans $2.35
- Special Combination Chicken Taco, Beef Taco, Cheese, Enchilada, Quacamole Salad, Rice & Beans $3.45
- Tamale Plate Chili, Rice and Beans $1.95
- Taco Plate (3) Beef and Chicken $1.95
- Enchilada Plate (3) Plate Cheese, Beef and Chicken $2.00
- Two franks and chili $1.95
- Chicken and rice $1.95

We Have Take Out Service
Telephone 863-9230

TORTILLA FLAT

SURPLUS ELECTRONICS

Your Choice $1.50 per pound

- Power Supplies
- Resistors
- Condensers
- Heat Sinks
- Fans
- Relays
- Transistors
- Component Boards
- Transformers

Burlington Paper Stock Co.
116 Archibald Street
8-5 Mon.-Fri. 9-1 Sat.

LAFAYETTE®

RADIO ELECTRONICS

Associate Stores
of
IES Inc.

370 SHELburne RD., BURLINGTON, VT.

Burlington
Barre-Montpelier

How to Select the Best Music System For YOU

Buying hi-fi today can be a bit bewildering. There are literally hundreds of turntables, receivers and loudspeakers to choose from. You just can't compare prices. You have to compare things like distortion, signal to noise ratios, RMS power ratings, and you have to listen. Then once you're thoroughly confused you have to lay down a considerable chunk of money and go home hoping you did the best thing.

Well, we at Lafayette Radio want to take the mystery out of all this. No one should have to walk around a hi-fi shop feeling helpless. Because when it comes to hi-fi, our business is to make you feel comfortable, by helping you understand what it's all about.

The majority of quality component purchasers find $200 to $600 the "right" amount to spend. Below $200, unless the system is designed for an extremely small room (like a car), which isn't high fidelity. High fidelity means "sounds like the real thing." Between $200 and $600, systems appropriate for small to large rooms and with less or more deep bass can be chosen according to your room needs and the type of music you like to listen to. Above $600, music systems are usually chosen by enthusiasts that are especially demanding and whose very flexible budget allows them their particular perfection.

Of course, the best way for us to answer your questions about hi-fi is to answer them in person.

So anytime something's bothering you, feel free to pick our brains. Just stop in at any Lafayette Radio or give us a call. You don't have to buy a thing. Our philosophy of giving people all the information they want has made us a success in the Burlington Area. Since we have the best service, merchandise and prices around, the more you know about hi-fi, the better it is for both of us.

Stop By For Free "How To Clean, Maintain And Protect Records" Booklet

FREE PARKING FREE PARKING

SUPERSCOPE Interaudio HITACHI Sansui Technics Dual

Advent TEAC PIONEER

SANYO JBL maxell. KOSS REVOX

MGA SHURE audio-technica. SHERWOOD JVC

TEAC SONY Hi-Fi

PHILIPS Garrard BSR PICKERING

BOSE

LAFAYETTE

GUARANTEES SATISFACTION

30-Day Money-Back Guarantee
We guarantee you can return any stereo unit you buy at Lafayette within 30 days of purchase for any reason, for a full refund. Merchandise must be in original carton, like new condition, with your sales receipt.

60-Day Exchange Guarantee
We guarantee you can exchange any stereo unit you buy at Lafayette within 60 days of purchase, for any reason, for an item of equal or higher price simply by paying the difference, if any. Merchandise must be in original carton, like new condition, with your sales receipt.

3-Year Lafayette Hi-Fi Guarantee
Three-year repair guarantee against defects in material and workmanship on all Lafayette amplifiers, tuners and receivers. Merchandise must be accompanied by your sales receipt.

5-Year Criterion Speaker Guarantee
Five year repair guarantee against defects in material and workmanship on all Criterion speakers. Merchandise must be accompanied by your sales receipt.

During the sale period of any ad, should an item be sold out, we will get it for you as quickly as possible at the advertised price (items shown as "limited quantity" accepted).

Phone 658-4616

OPEN TIL - 9 PM MON. THRU FRI., SAT. TILL 6 PM

MEMOREX

C-90 $2⁰⁰ each or 3 for $5⁹⁹

90 MINUTES PLAYING/RECORDING TIME

The "Begoia" Music System

JVC

CRITERION 50A SPEAKERS
JVC 5501 16-WATT RMS
stereo receiver
BSR 310X TURNTABLE
SHURE M75 CARTRIDGE

These components purchased separately cost $330
OUR SPECIAL SYSTEM PRICE$240

The "Contemporary" Music System

Interudio Sherwood Miracord

If you are shopping around for your first component music system, you want to purchase a system with which you won't be dissatisfied in a year - a system which will reproduce the lowest bass and the highest harmonics, and not leave you wanting. We at Lafayette Radio have such a system, with a big compromise on the price, but with none on the sound quality.

The system is based around the Interudio 4000 loudspeakers. They are meant to be compared directly in every aspect of performance, including frequency response, to the most expensive and elaborate speakers available, and they sound clearly and dramatically better than many far more expensive systems. Countless owners and usually-bias equipment reviewers have all commented that they sound like twice the price.

To power the Interudio 4000 we recommend the Sherwood S7200 amplifier; it can produce 40 watts RMS per channel with exceptionally low distortion. (RMS is the most rigorous and least flashy measure of power.) The Sherwood S7200 will fully realize the fine low-bass capabilities of the Interudio 4000.

We include a Miracord 650 automatic turntable with base and Audio Technica AT11E magnetic cartridge with a diamond stylus. Tracking is less than 2 grams; this combination will take good care of your records; you will get the same undistorted sound on the forty-seventh playing as you did on the first.

The total price of this system is $946.20, but we at Lafayette Radio are offering it for only $690.00, with our full 3 years parts and labor guarantee. This is a system which will satisfy both an ear for music and a head for value. The music lover who has not had much experience with audio components as well as the seasoned audiophile will appreciate the uncompromising value of this system.

Our Sherwood, Miracord 650, Interudio 4000 system

$690.00

ADVENT Chromium Dioxide tape in cassettes at Special LOW Prices

And, with the 202, your worry about record breakage and wear are over. Cassettes last indefinitely. And there's a large selection of pre-recorded cassettes available to enjoy. All types of music. Many (over 400) are Dolbyized and have extraordinary sound quality! Storage and handling problems are far simpler, too with cassettes.

	LIST	OUR PRICE
C'60	$2.99	$2.25
C'90	$3.74	$2.99
C'120	$4.99	$4.00

OPTIONAL STORAGE ALBUM FREE WITH EACH PURCHASE OF SIX CASSETTES

FREE TUBE TESTING

Sherwood

The "TAKE-ME-HOME" Music System

Interaudio 3000 SPEAKERS
Sherwood S7100A 54 Watts
RMS Stereo Receiver
BSR 510X TURNTABLE
SHURE M75 EC CARTRIDGE

These components purchased separately cost $504.00
OUR SPECIAL SYSTEM PRICE$380⁰⁰

VOLUME XCI

Traffic B UVM CH

by Jill Market
Driving by the field House
VDW, have you notice anything new? (Besides secret team or home theory.) Those traffic de which have been upset many people, were put according to... Univer sources, for good reasons

Women High

by Douglas Beardsley
Jane and Ann are fictitious female students together in Tupper Hall.
and Pepper, two fictitious students, are roommates on
4th. One Friday night, Pe empties a bottle of beer the top drawer of Cra dresser (where Craig keeps underwear), while on the side of campus, short-sheets Jane's knowing full well that planned to sneak her boyfriend into the room that night.
next morning both Craig
Jane realize they're fed up their roommates
immediately wants out, her RA OKs her request room change; Craig
Pepper's $40.00 Frye with shaving cream and the year through in the room.

According to Assistant of students, Keith within any single year, he change dormitory rooms frequently than men.
years ago, when the Ho Office kept track of the students moving from ro room with one - Unit Housing system, the fre ratio was 80 to 1 - that every one dorm-change
by a man, 80 changes made by women. Dr contends that today's would be pretty close to 1 - ratio. The dramatization about Ann, Craig, and Pepper
perhaps, an easy explan
this phenomenon.

The obvious interpreta that, because women are emotional than men, a would be, more ap impulsively move out roommate conflict like created by the practice described above. Ho such an interpretation, fair, and, although, p constituting one expla definitely not the final fact, due to the co
and-bogging nature of motivation, there can real word-at least extensive research, in speculation, though, telling to pass up links must be given
ada. Rood of the Psychology Dept for n this

Burlington
Montpelier

YOU

feel free to pick our or give us a call. You of giving people all the
in the Burlington
merchandise and prices better it is for both of

FREE PARKING

AYETTE
Satisfaction

Guarantee
return any stereo unit you buy at
of purchase for any reason, for must be in original carton, like sales receipt

Guarantee
exchange any stereo unit you buy days of purchase, for any reason, higher price simply by paying the
must be in original carton, like
sales receipt

Guarantee
return any stereo unit you buy at
of purchase for any reason, for
must be in original carton, like
sales receipt

Guarantee
return any stereo unit you buy at
of purchase for any reason, for
must be in original carton, like
sales receipt

658-4616

to tape in cassettes
Prices
tape and war are over. Cassettes last double cassette available to enjoy. All have extraordinary sound quality!
with cassettes

FREE WITH CASSETTES

STING

Shewood

ME'HOMER system
OO SPEAKERS
OOA 54 Watts
ereo Receiver
URNTABLE
C CARTRIDGE

separately cost $504.00
$380.00

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XCI

SEPTEMBER 27, 1973

NUMBER 16

Traffic Dips Cause Dismay; UVM Claims "Good Reasons"

by Jim Markert

Driving by the field house or WDW, have you noticed anything new? (Besides the "new" team of women's hockey?) Those traffic dips, which have been upsetting many people, were put there, according to University sources, for good reasons.

When WDW first opened, in 1969, there were traffic dips installed in the driveway in front of those dorms. There was, however, much controversy, and adverse opinion was strong. The dips were removed. Since then, the University has had reason to reconsider, and so has reinstated them, along with some new ones in the road beside the field house.

The reason that the traffic dips are there is quite simple: the safety of the students. Cars have been clocked at 45 mph on that stretch of road. That is a definite hazard in a densely populated, residential area, where there are many pedestrians and cyclists, who aren't always concerned with watching for oncoming traffic. The dips were installed to protect the student and to handle the increase in traffic.

A traffic study was done this summer, to help to determine the use of this stretch of road. The study, which ran for four days, was done when school was not in session. From 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., on May 29 through June 1, 3360 vehicles used the road. The heaviest use came between 3 and 6 p.m., with a total of 1280 vehicles. 73.8% of these were non-University personnel.

The study team decided that, since such heavy use occurred even without students around, some sort of safety measures were in order. They had three alternatives. One was to close the road. This would have been very inconvenient for the student themselves. (Contrary to popular opinion, the University doesn't go out of its way to hassle us.) The second suggestion was to install

SPS Photo: Alan Soodak

Women Switch Rooms At Higher Rate Than Men

by Douglas Beardsley

Jane and Ann are two fictitious female students living together in Upper Hall. Craig and Pepper, two fictitious male students, are roommates on Willis 4th. One Friday night, Pepper empties a bottle of beer into the top drawer of Craig's dresser (where Craig keeps his underwear), while on the other side of campus, Ann short-sheets Jane's bed, knowing full well that Jane planned to sneak her boyfriend into the room that night. The next morning both Craig and Jane realize they're fed up with their roommates. Jane immediately wants out, and her RA OKs her request for a room change. Craig fills Pepper's $4000 Frye house with shaving cream and sees the year, through in the same room.

According to Assistant Dean of students, Keith Miser, within any single year, women change dormitory rooms more frequently than men. Three years ago, when the Housing Office kept track of the actual numbers moving from room to room within the University Housing system, the frequency ratio was 80 to 1—that is, for every one dorm change made by a man, 80 changes were made by women. Dr. Miser contends that today's figures would be pretty close to that 80 to 1 ratio.

The obvious interpretation is that, because women are more emotional than men, a woman would be more apt to impulsively move out and leave a roommate because of a roommate conflict like the one created by the practical joke described above. However, such an interpretation, like the entire story itself, is purely unfair, and, although, perhaps, constituting one explanation, is definitely not the final word.

In fact, due to the complex, mind-boggling nature of human motivation, there can be no final word—at least without extensive research. Harmless speculation, though, is too enticing to pass up. (Here, thanks must be given to Ms. Linda Rodd of the UVM Psychology Dept. for her help in this speculation.)

Why then, do women seem to have more ants in their pants than men. In discussing this subject, Dr. Miser tells a story about the Harris/Mills complex when it first opened a few years ago. At the time, Mills was all men and Harris was all women, and the students living there were asked to report any problems with the new buildings so that they could be remedied while the contractor was still around. Dr. Miser received a flood of complaints from the Harris women, while hardly any problems were reported by the Mills men. This is not to imply that Mills was built better than Harris, for, the next year, when the complex turned over by suites, Dr. Miser began to hear from the new girls in Mills about defective electrical outlets and the like, which, as it turned out, had not worked since the complex opened.

Simply were not reported by the men the year before. One might conjecture from this story, that, although the sterile, cold, un-homely dorm atmosphere is probably unappealing to both sexes, the stereotype woman has been socially conditioned to feel comfortable only in comfortable, cozy, home-like surroundings, whereas a man is taught to endure and not go running home to mother at the slightest discomfort. Women conventionally played dolls and served tea to their dolls, while the men were dying out in the dirt (like so many LGT-loes fantasizing blood, guts, and gore. In this light, it's no wonder that women are quick to report building faults and generally seem restless with dorm life. Dr. Miser points out that Converse Hall, which is considered the most un-dorm-like dorm on campus, has the highest return of residents each year.

An off-shoot theory explains that men, being more group oriented, tend to form a strong feeling of fraternity among the floor members, whereas the girls, although permitted by society to be open and express their more intimate feelings publicly (which you'd think would facilitate group friendship), tend to shy away from large groups, and consequently fail to create the strong communal bonds which help to make a dormitory feel like a home. Then, there's the security contradiction. Uneasy in one place, the woman seeks out another spot which, hopefully, will bring her more security (and a husband?). But, if women are, indeed, more insecure than men (which seems doubtful) why wouldn't they cling to that which is already familiar and stay in the same room? Who knows.

Perhaps the only valid impetus behind all this moving around lies with the UVM Housing Office. They have purposely made it childishly simple to change dorm rooms, feeling that a student should have the freedom to try out the wide variety of living experiences available on campus. (1/3 of all University housing is all men, 1/3 is co-ed, and 1/3 is co-ed by building, 1/3 by floor, and 1/3 by suite.)

To change rooms, one has only to notify the Resident Advisor of the music department. This facility, with added faculty, could also make it possible for the University to grant a professional degree in music. The present situation forces Vermont students to seek a degree elsewhere, often at poorly qualified institutions.

Now, with the Royall Tyler

Music Department's Dream Of Expansion To Be Reality By 1974

by John Van Hoesen

Dreams turned into realities and frowns turned into smiles at 86 South Williams Street, the present housing for UVM's Music Department, when construction began on a new music facility late this summer.

The 1.5 million dollar edifice will boast three levels, some 26 practice rooms, a 300 seat acoustically tunable recital hall, and a custom-built tracker action organ.

Dr. William Metcalfe, Acting Chairman of the Department of Music, lauded the administration for planning a "fine building built within obvious financial restraints." Metcalfe, an accomplished performer of baroque music, predicted that "the new organ will be one of the glories of Burlington for years to come." Charles Fiske, of Boston, will design and build the instrument. His work represents the best in contemporary organ making in the States.

Director of Administrative Resources, Mr. Larry Snyder, commented on the high level of sophistication in the structure. He noted that Bolt, Beranek and Newman, of Cambridge, Massachusetts are responsible for the acoustical engineering of the building. The firm, considered by many to be the foremost in its field, provided for acoustical ceiling clouds in the recital hall. These and other features allow the room to be tuned. The firm also engineered New York's Lincoln Center.

The addition will join Southwick's east side and extend into the old Redstone parking lot. The existing Southwick Gymnasium will house some of the practice rooms, classrooms, and a badly needed rehearsal hall. Dr. Metcalfe noted the proximity of evening practice facilities to university housing as an added plus.

For those who find unfinished cement aesthetically unacceptable, a pleasing change will be the millwork type wooden siding that will accent the exterior walls of the new addition. The building was designed by Burlington Associates, Architects and Planners, Inc.

Thousands of dollars worth of quality pianos will be needed to furnish the center once it is erected, but Dr. Metcalfe was optimistic that the financial problems involved could be solved with a minimum of lack. Expressing his belief that the administration recognizes the needs of the department, Metcalfe further stated that the music hall will be a quality equipment office in new buildings such as this one, many instruments are donated by those wishing to contribute to the arts in a concrete manner. Metcalfe, calling this

THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT MUSIC CENTER

BURLINGTON ASSOCIATES ARCHITECTS & PLANNERS

"a golden opportunity for arts lovers," said no donations will be refused. The appellation of the new structure is still under consideration.

The new structure could significantly influence a decision by the University to increase the size of the faculty of the music department. This facility, with added faculty, could also make it possible for the University to grant a professional degree in music. The present situation forces Vermont students to seek a degree elsewhere, often at poorly qualified institutions.

Now, with the Royall Tyler

Theater nearing completion, and construction of the music building underway, the older plans for a fine arts center behind the Fleming Museum were described by Metcalfe as a "dead letter."

Those passing by the site would be unaware that 90,000 unforeseen dollars have been invested in the removal of ledge from the area. The obstacle has slowed construction considerably, but the department hopes to occupy the music center in the fall of 1974. However, in their anticipation of more space and better facilities, very little could dampen the enthusiasm in the department of music.

President Andrews Analyzes Budget "Surplus", Rising Grade Point Averages

by Jim Bradley

Grade point averages have skyrocketed in recent years in some departments, reported UVM President Dr. Edward Andrews in an interview last week.

The possible reasons for this, he said, are either that students are doing better or that faculty members have eased up in evaluating them. The situation is being investigated.

Andrews expressed his own feeling that "the average student here is better now than five years ago. He is more concerned with pursuing his studies, and not so much with external issues like the war in Vietnam." Involvement, he continued, is good, but it does take time and attention away from studying. This could explain why there are higher GPAs now.

Andrews also touched on another subject being discussed on campus—the budget surplus. UVM spent $5.5 million less than expected during the last fiscal year. Andrews maintained that the term "surplus" is misleading. Metcalfe further stated that only $90,000 was left, which the Board of Trustees voted to put into the reserve fund.

The surplus came as a surprise, for administration officials had predicted a deficit. Some observers have wondered if the surplus might not hurt the administration when it presents its new budget to the state legislature for appropriation this year. Legislators, the argument goes, might say in effect that they don't see why they should give UVM so much money when it didn't need as much as it asked for before.

This will not be the case, Andrews declared. "We've been assured by state officials that we won't be penalized for good management."

He reported that his relations with Governor Salmon and the appropriations committee are good. "The credibility of the university administration in Montpelier has really improved through a conscious effort to be open and honest, he maintained.

S.A. Considers Resolution On Governor's Education Commission

by Dan Haslam

The UVM Student Association Senate met for the first time this year on September 25 and considered a resolution presented by Dick Cassidy in support of the establishment of a post-secondary education board, as outlined in the Governor's Commission on Higher Education draft.

Cassidy outlined the proposed resolution, as consisting of four points, the first two concerning the need for a state-wide study into the amount of competition present in receiving monies by a state-funded, post-secondary institutions, such as UVM and the other state colleges. Furthermore, according to Cassidy, a member of the present Governor's Commission, students would be acceptable on the board as full voting members.

Although Cassidy came to the S.A. meeting in hopes of getting the resolution approved, criticism was expressed by some of the senators present over "railroading techniques" in view of the small attendance. Dean of Students Richard Powers suggested further study into the resolution for what he had termed "controversy" surrounding the resolution. Further action over the issue has been postponed until after a new Senate has been elected. A special introductory meeting of the new Senate will take place on Thursday, October 4, during which the resolution will be discussed. On Tuesday, October 9, the first regular meeting of the Senate will be held in the form of a public hearing in the Rowell Building over Cassidy's resolution and other student concerns. The first meeting will commence at 6:45 p.m. and the latter at 7:30.

In other Senate business, the new Concert Bureau was approved Tuesday night. The confirmation was deemed necessary to conclude negotiations for the first S.A. concert, Roberta Flack, on Oct. 13. Tickets for UVM will be $4 and $5, for the public

Asst. Comm. Pasquale expressed his concern over the UVM relocation of the UVM Infirmary. He asked Powers, "Is there any way we can 'stop it'?" referring to a possible method of blocking the transfer of health care facilities from Watson to the nursing home on East Avenue. Powers responded that the University has decisively acted, eliminating from the choices the most costly and least practical alternatives. Initially, Powers relayed, he was in favor of renovation of the Watson building, but after witnessing the objections of the Burlington Planning Commission over the conversion of the nursing home, he is convinced that the Watson plan would have been rejected. "It's this move, or no move," Powers concluded, summing up the chances of blocking the transfer.

One returning S.A. senator, Gary Marsh, from Acadia, summed up his feelings, "I urge the incoming senate of 1974-4 to get on with the constructive body, working for the benefit of all the students. In the past, the senate has been labeled as ineffective. While this may be true, it is the only avenue of input into the administration that we students have; so, students might just as well try to make it as effective as possible."

This calls, however, for cooperation, not diversification. So let's get it together this year and make the Student Association Senate the effective body it should be.

Student Association Elections

The date for elections of Student Association senators is October 1. Voting for each living unit's senator will take place at that living unit's main desk between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on that day. Candidates names will have been posted on Thursday, September 26 in their living unit. Voting for the ten town senators will take place at the Bailey library and the bookstore between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on October 1. Billings. This date was changed from October 2.

All people who wish to run for town senator are asked to call 656-2053 and submit their name. It would be helpful if those who call within the last week prior to the election would call again to make sure their name hasn't been excluded.

The first Senate meeting is scheduled for 6:45 p.m. October 4 in Marsh Lounge Billings. This date was changed from October 2.

Calendar/Announcements p.2
Cryptograms p.3
Arts and Entertainment p.6
The Good Times p.8
Crossword Puzzle p.9
Sports p.12

Your $25 double ice-cream cone starts here. Story on page 11.

SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

Interview With Randy "Puck" Kim p.6

Roberta Flack To Appear At UVM p.9

Department Chairman Series Dr. Malcolm Severance p.3

In this week's Cynic

Table of Contents

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Group Experience Offered

The staff at the Counseling and Testing Center, 146 South Williams Street, are again offering a number of group experiences to UVM students. Maybe you want to learn how to relax more freely in a social situation, maybe you would like a clearer picture of how you come across to others, be able to speak more comfortably in a class discussion, rap with others about what it means to be a male or female, or other goals which can be facilitated in a group situation.

If you are interested in a group experience or have questions about groups, please call Phyllis at 656-3340 or stop in the Center and talk with a counselor.

Students Needed For Committee Work

The members of the College of Education Curriculum Committee are seeking students (graduate and undergraduate) who are interested in working with them on the committee. They have been charged with the task of examining the undergraduate curriculum of the College of Education, with the general purpose being to improve the quality of undergraduate education in the College. This includes the programs in elementary and secondary teacher education, social services, special education, and physical education. The extent of the task will probably require the committee to function for a minimum of two semesters.

Since the work of the committee will include a systematic analysis of current and possible new approaches to curricular development, there are possibilities that those students working on the committee could receive academic credit for their work under the College's contract system. If you are interested and willing to devote some of your time to a difficult task, contact Phil Kirchner, in the Dean's Office of the College of Education, 311 Waterman, Ext. 3424.

You will fail the Person Component if:
You don't hand in a completed contract at the end of the term, or
You don't remove any past incompletes before Dec. 1973. As of Dec. 1973, all past incompletes will be changed to fail.

Check the list on the bulletin board outside Room 533 Waterman to see if you have an incomplete. See Dave Shiman, 314 Waterman if you do.

S.A. Presents Professor Popkin

The S.A. Speakers Bureau will present Professor Samuel L. Popkin, Tuesday, October 9, at 235 Life Science. Professor Popkin, the first American Scholar to be arrested for refusing to name his sources in connection with a grand jury investigation of the Pentagon Papers Case, will discuss "Grand Juries and the People's Right to Know." Admission is free to U.V.M. students with I.D. and $1.00 for the public.

Scandinavian Study Program

Students interested in the possibility of spending the academic year 1974-75 in one of the four Scandinavian countries under the auspices of the Scandinavian Seminar should contact Professor J.P. Felt at the Center for Area and International Studies, 479 Main Street. A number of U.V.M. students have participated in this program in the last three years with good results. It is possible to receive a full year's credit for the work, subject to evaluation by U.V.M. Interested students are urged to contact the center for Area Studies as soon as possible. Call extension 4063.

Discussion On Yoga And Meditation Oct. 1st

Acharya Yatisvarananda Avadhuta, disciple of Shri Shri Anandamurti will be visiting the Burlington area on October 1st. Dadyan Yatisvarananda will give a talk at the Unitarian Church at the head of Church Street, on that date at 7:30 p.m. He will discuss yoga and meditation and will answer questions on all aspects of spiritual growth. The Ananda Marga Society is a worldwide spiritual and social organization which will be offering a series of Hatha Yoga and meditation classes this semester. On Monday nights at 7:00 p.m. Hatha Yoga will be instructed by Evelyn Carter at the Unitarian Church. Another yoga class will be held on the U.V.M. campus at the Living-Learning Center, 105A, each Wednesday at 6:00 p.m. Both classes will include instruction of basic yoga postures and are free and open to the public. Further information may be obtained from Amy Demarest at 656-4260.

Plant & Soil Science Meeting

The Plant and Soil Science departmental majors are forming a society for those interested in horticulture, agronomy, gardening, and landscaping. An organizational meeting will be held in Room 17, Hill Building, on October 1 (Monday), at 4 p.m. Non majors are welcome.

Lamplighters Begin Meetings

The Lamplighters (a Penicostal Youth Group) have begun weekly meetings in the MAT Lounge on Tuesdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Lamplighters is a new group "eager to bring Christ close to the hearts of U.V.M. students." Tuesday night meetings are unstructured, focusing on God primarily on song service and Bible inquiry, and flexible enough for discussion on what is useful in people's lives today. All students are welcomed.

English Major's Seminar

Professor Bill Stephany will discuss "The Joker's Greatest Triumph: Pop Art As Myth" at an English majors' evening seminar. The date is tonight, September 27th, at 7:30 p.m. in Dewey Lounge, 2nd floor Old Mill. Coffee will be served.

Faculty Senate Needs Students

The Faculty Senate's Student Affairs Committee needs seven students to serve as full members. The Committee would also appreciate suggestions on issues which affect student life that the committee could study. Please contact Zander Pohzo (656-3888).

To all S.A. Organizations: If you have a consolidated account, you must follow the rules and procedures applicable to S.A. Accounts. For further information, please see either Ruth Reiter or Steven de Czesnak at the S.A. Office, Billings Center. Thank you for your cooperation.

St. Anselm's Chapel Services

Holy Communion:
Sundays: 10:00 a.m.
Tuesdays: 10:00 p.m.
(Services: Episcopal denominations welcome)
Morning Prayer:
8:30 Mon.-Fri.
(Ecumenical service sponsored by the Episcopal and Protestant Chaplains.)

Philosophy Discussion

John O'Connor, Associate Professor of Philosophy and former Chairman of the Department at Case Western Reserve, will give a talk entitled "Medical Experts and Moral Ethics: A Study in Medical Ethics," on Wednesday, October 10 at 8 p.m. in Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.

It must be twenty years since the place was painted. But you won't be able to tell it when the job's done. And while you're working, the great taste of Coca-Cola keeps everybody happy.

It's the real thing. Coke.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

Don't RUN AROUND

Trying to Kill the

MUNCHIES

JUST SIT BACK

AND

CALL

864-7444
WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333
NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

50¢ OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Expires OCT. 4, 1973

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Void if not completed
1 Coupon per pizza

DID YOU EXPECT AN ART GALLERY ON CHURCH STREET

PRINTS
50¢
UP TO
$5.00

ART REPRODUCTIONS from old masters to the most modern

VERMEER RENIOR
BREUGHLE HOMER
WYETH DEGAS

and many more

ORIGINAL PRINTS

from $15 to $75

10% off on supplies for all art students

Church and College Sts.
Downtown Burlington
658-4554

the corner bookstore

"one-stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

Anthro Club Film Festival

The Anthropology Department presents the following films as part of the Anthropology Club film festival:

"Indian Dialogue" Canadian Indians discuss many problems that cause them concern, particularly the threat to their own culture by the predominant white society. Some of the most forthright views are expressed by the younger generation, who seem more aware of the economic poverty and spiritual deprivation. It is a candid film that reveals the white man's predicament as well as the Indian's.

"Crowfoot's Made" by member of a National Film Board film crew composed of Canadian Indians, this film recalls some of the tragic incidents where the Indian people suffered from the coming of the white man. Illustrations and photographs are from various private and public archive collections. Words and music of the song that forms the film's commentary are by Willie Dunn, the film maker.

The date is Sunday, September 30 at 7:00 p.m.

There will be a Harvest Dance at Memorial Auditorium, Friday October 5 from 8:30 to 12:00 p.m. The band will be The Music Messengers. Admission will be $2.00, to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Volunteers are needed to help sell tickets and put up posters. For information please call Mrs. Houle, at 655-3880.

Bible Study At Harris

A Bible Study seminar in the Book of Romans is to be held on Thursdays. The meeting place is the Harris Conference Room, at 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

Spencer Dehurn

There is time to reverse trend toward a dehumanized society. James Spencer, of Detroit will tell a audience this Monday.

We're not yet dehumanized society, we're racing toward space-age speed," he will say. The gap seems to continually widening between our increasing technical skill and the inadequacy of personal and social performance. There's still time to reverse the trend. Still, to see that it's not too late, that really shapes out lives, thinking that does it.

A Christian Science lecturer and teacher, Mr. Spencer speak at 7:00 p.m. in Memorial Lounge Waterman.

The public lecture is presented under the auspices of the Christian Science Organization at U.V.M.

St. Anselm New Studio

St. Anselm's Chapel, located on the Redstone campus, appears to be on the move. New, growing community becomes increasingly important to the chapel. According to Chaplain Odie notes the start of important groups at the chapel. A group which will be instrumental in the life of the Chapel is the new St. Anselm's Chapel Advisory Committee. Members have been appointed by the Chaplain. Chaplain feels it's a big step in keeping St. Anselm's in touch with what's happening on campus. Its functions will help advise the Chaplain of activities and life of the Anselm's Community, provide helpful criticism, suggestions for the work, doing, and especially provide feedback on the concerns of students. People thus far appointed are Brenda Meyer, Dave Jette, graduate student Elaine Anderson and Traver, seniors Tim McRae and Roxanne Dairy Juniors, Diane O'sophomore, Judy O'sophomore, and Laurie O'sophomore at large. One person from both sophomore and freshman still needs to be appointed. Other news.

St. Anselm's is reorganization of a which has been on existence for four years. Anselm's has just hired organist, Gary Town, medical student, who's taking over the directing choir. If you are interested in singing and would like to be in the St. Anselm's choir, rehearsal is Thursday p.m. in the Chapel.

This past Sunday Anselm's kicked off expected to be a happening. Interested and faculty all gathered house of Prof. Don Grune, cheese, talk and friends. Interest was expected to be a happening.

THE

C

147

Spencer Will Discuss Dehumanization

There is time to reverse the trend toward a dehumanized society, James Spencer, C.S.B., of Detroit will tell a campus audience this Monday.

"We're not yet a dehumanized society, but we're racing toward it at space-age speed," he will say. The gap seems to be continually widening between our increasing technological skill and the inadequacy of our personal and social performance. There's still time to reverse the trend. Still time to see that it's not technology that really shapes our lives. It's thinking that does it."

A Christian Science lecturer and teacher, Mr. Spencer will speak at 7:00 p.m. in Memorial Lounge Waterman.

The public lecture is being presented under the auspices of the Christian Science World Organization at UVM. It is open to the college community without charge.

"We've got to find a way to live together freely, but without greed, without exploitation, without hunger or war. The very mass of our social, environmental, and political problems has squeezed out the lead time for solving these problems," he will say.

Mr. Spencer graduated from Principia College in Elmhurst, Illinois, and also attended the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Havana.

After serving for nine years as Christian Science Minister for the Armed Services in Miami, he was named to the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. In 1970 he became a teacher of Christian Science. "Our Thinking and Our World" is the title of his local lecture.

Greek Week Is Well Underway

by Tony Lyman

Greek Week, September 24th thru 29th, is now upon us. It began last Saturday with a warm-up chariot race at Centennial Field. Sigma Phi Epsilon had a convincing win over Sigma Alpha Epsilon, second, and Phi Gamma Delta, third.

The major part of the festivities began this Thursday night with exchange dinners among the Greeks. Dr. Donald Gregg is scheduled to speak after the dinners at 7:30 p.m. in 235 Marsh Life Science. He will be discussing the Greek System.

Friday evening several of the Greeks will be opening their houses to the entire campus. Times and places will be announced in the usual manner.

activities will begin with a fire-up at Lambda Iota at noon. From there will be a beer relay race to Archie Post Field behind Guterson Field House where at 1 p.m. the Greek Games will begin. The events will include a tug of war, a pie eating contest, a bicycle and a VW lifting race, a chariot race and various other relays. A barbecue will be held at Delta Psi at 4 p.m. or one half hour after the end of the games at which time the winners will be announced.

This year the Greek Week Committee is headed by Gary Haslam of Sigma Phi Epsilon. The Games Committee is coordinated by Tom Hunt of Sigma Phi and Linda Weldy of Alpha Chi Omega. Last year's winners, Alpha Delta Pi and Sigma Phi, are preparing to defend their titles. So all are invited to come cheer on the Greeks!

The highlight of the week is the Greek Games, on Saturday, September 29th. The day long

Open Tryouts For Yeats' Plays

There will be open tryouts for three plays by William Butler Yeats, On Baile's Strand, The Death of Cuchulain, and The Herne's Egg, directed by Professor Sidney Poger of the English Department, to be presented November 29 - December 2 in the Apse of the Billings Center. Needed: twenty-five actors, ten actresses, one dancer, one singer, one pipe player, and one drummer. Tryouts will be held at Memorial Lounge, Waterman, at 7:30 on Tuesday, October 2. If you are interested but cannot attend at this time, call Professor Poger at 656-3056. Scripts may be borrowed overnight from the English Department office. Tryouts are open to any interested members of the University community.

St. Anselm's Sponsors New Student Groups

St. Anselm's Chapel, located on the Redstone campus, appears to be on the move as a new, growing community there becomes increasingly active, according to Chaplain Odie. Odie notes the start of two important groups at the chapel.

A group which will be very instrumental in the life of the Chapel is the new Student Advisory Committee, whose members have been appointed by the Chaplain. Chaplain Odie feels it's a big step in keeping St. Anselm's in touch with what's happening around campus. Its functions will be to help advise the Chaplain on the activities and life of the St. Anselm's Community, to provide helpful criticism and suggestions for the work he is doing, and especially to provide feedback on the needs and concerns of students. The people thus far appointed by Odie are Brenda Myer and Dave Jette, graduate students, Elaine Anderson and Terle-Travel, seniors Tim Marshall and Roxanne Dalrymple, Juniors, Diane Orvis, sophomore, Judy Clarke, freshman, and Laurie Ginter, member at large. One more person from both the sophomore and freshman classes still needs to be appointed.

Other news from St. Anselm's is the reorganization of a choir, which has been out of existence for four years. St. Anselm's has just hired an organist, Gary Towne, a medical student, who will be taking over the directing of the choir. If you are interested in singing and would like to join the St. Anselm's choir, the first rehearsal is Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Chapel.

This past Sunday night St. Anselm's kicked off what is expected to be a regular happening. Interested students and faculty all gathered at the house of Prof. Don Gregg for wine, cheese, talk and new friends. Interest was expressed

Anthro To Organize

All persons interested in Anthropology are invited to attend an organizational meeting on Sunday, September 24. The purpose of this meeting will be to elect officers for the current year, and nominations for president, vice president, and corresponding secretary-treasurer may be addressed to: Dr. Peter Woolfson in care of the Anthropology Dept., 5th floor Williams Science Hall.

Bahai Discussion

Oct. 1 at 7 P.M. U.V.M. Bahai Club presents informal discussion - "What is the Bahai Faith" - Billings Center Conference Room C.

Calendar...

(continued from page two)

Professional Women's Club will discuss "Women and Money." All are welcome to attend. 7:30 p.m., Lamplighters (gospel music and bible inquiry) meet, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper. Halls; further information from Lynn Rickes, 656-2952.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 3

8 a.m. - 5 p.m., "Your Money's Worth in Foods," an exhibit on consumer buying and nutrition sponsored by the School of Home Economics, Building A, Room 140, Living/Learning Center.

12 noon, Dr. Dolores Stocker, assistant to President Andrews for human resources, invites all faculty and professional women to meet for lunch in the President's Dining Room, 5th floor, Waterman Building. Bring your own lunch or purchase one at the nearby faculty/staff cafeteria. See story in this issue.

8:30 - 11 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets at Southwick Building, free and open to all.

THE LAST CHANCE

A NIGHTSPOT OPEN NOW

OLD TIME MOVIES ON SUNDAY

NO COVER CHARGE

PREMIUM DRAFT BEERS

OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK

147 MAIN ST. BURLINGTON

Anthro Club Film Festival

The Anthropology Department presents the following films as part of the Anthropology Club - film festival.

"Indian Dialogue" - Canadian Indians discuss many problems that cause them concern, particularly the threat to their own culture by the predominant white society. Some of the most forthright views are expressed by the younger generation who seem more aware of the economic and social changes. It is a candid film that reveals the Indians' predicament as well as the Indian's.

"The Ballad of Crowfoot" - Made by a member of a National Film Board film crew composed of Canadian Indians, this film recalls some of the tragic incidents where the Indian people suffered from the coming of the white man. Illustrations and photographs are from various private and public archive collections. Words and music of the song that forms the film's commentary are by Willie Dunn, the film maker.

The date is Sunday, September 30 at 7:00 p.m.

There will be a Harvest Dance at Memorial Auditorium, Friday October 5 from 8:30 to 12:00 p.m. The band will be The Music Messengers. Admission will be $2.00, to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Volunteers are needed to help sell tickets and put up posters. For information please call Mrs. Houle, at 655-3880.

Bible Study At Harris

A Bible Study seminar in the Book of Romans is to be held on Thursdays. The meeting place is the Harris Conference Room, at 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

'Critical Faculty Shortage Apparent,' Business Administration Head Explains

by Margo Howland

Dr. Malcolm Severance, Chairman of the Department of Business Administration has indicated that the jump in enrollment in the program, up 40% from last fall, demonstrates a growing tendency of students to connect academic courses with potential job opportunities. Unfortunately it is difficult to handle the volume of students with the present number of faculty and staff members.

"We have 425 Business Administration majors and eleven full-time staff members," Dr. Severance told the Cynic. This isn't counting a greater number of non-majors enrolled in one or more business courses.

About 60 or 70 students in each freshman class have declared their intention to major in Business Administration before arriving at UVM.

However, a number of students transfer to the Business Administration Program once they arrive. Some transfer as sophomores, some even as juniors.

"A person may graduate as a business administration major in four years as long as he has completed the Principles of Economics and Principles of Accounting before the beginning of his junior year," Dr. Severance explained.

The department of Business Administration has undergone several significant changes in the past year. One is the switch to a different College. Dr. Severance discussed the changes and the reasons behind them.

"It was the department of Economics and Business Administration, and it was in the College of Arts and Sciences. The Department of Economics and Business Administration decided two years ago to separate. The timing of the split was delayed to coincide with the Collegiate Reorganization which took place July 1, 1973."

Dr. Severance underlined the reasons for the changes. "The Business Administration Program is a professional program in which the student is more technically trained for a specific type of job. Those that major in this program graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree. The philosophy is one that is more in tune with technical training.

"In contrast, Economics is one of the Social Sciences in the Liberal Arts. The philosophy is consistent with the Bachelor of Arts degree—a broad, general, liberal education."

"The belief was that the Business Program, being more professional, was being constrained and compressed while being administered in a College where the prevailing philosophy was Liberal Arts."

"That's basically the situation; also the size in the terms of number of students enrolled is certainly large enough to justify two surviving departments. This provides the opportunity for the program to develop along the lines necessary to have a viable program."

"The College we transferred to did have Engineering, Mathematics, and Chemistry. Chemistry went back to the arts college and Business Administration came from the Arts College to the College of Technology. This formed the new College of Engineering, Mathematics, and Business Administration," Dr. Severance concluded.

Dr. Severance then outlined the curriculum format. "Students who major in Business Administration choose in their studies to specialize in one of four areas: accounting, financing, marketing, and management. All students are required to take a combination of core courses in Economics and Business which include: Principles of Economics, Introductory Accounting, Introductory Statistics, and Data Processing, and beginning courses in Marketing, Management and Finance."

"Then they specialize in one of those fields by taking 12 additional credit hours in their chosen field."

The exception is Accounting, where the requirements are more extensive. The Accounting Program is designed to prepare the student for public accounting and to take the CPA exams. These are administered by the State and are offered two or three times a year.

SPS Photo: Doug Hunt

"The student takes a total of 50 hours in this major area. The balance of the 120 hours is used in fulfilling college distribution requirements. Students are required to take the same distribution requirements as in the Arts and Sciences: Language and Literature, Social Sciences, Math and Sciences, or Fine Arts and Philosophy."

"The rest is free electives. We advise students in making curriculum decisions. Our philosophy of business education is that the student has to have exposure to a breadth of disciplines as an undergraduate. He should have exposure to the areas of history, philosophy, social sciences and generally some exposure to the fine arts. He can't be a good businessman without it," Dr. Severance declared.

There is a program leading to a Master of Business Administration degree in which both full-time students and part-time students from the community participate.

This semester the department is employing students in an in-service training program. Teams of students work with business firms in the area on specific problems faced by that firm. Students under the guidance of faculty examine the problems and using their technical training make recommendations as to possible solutions. The firms involved are local Vermont firms and the project for the time being at least is sponsored by the Small Businessman's Association of Vermont (SBA).

"SBA provides a modest sum of money to defray expenses involved with each of the areas of study. Students involved are usually seniors or graduate students," Dr. Severance continued.

Dr. Severance indicated that there will be a number of curriculum changes effective next fall.

"We will be expecting (continued on page eight)"

THE LAST LOUDSPEAKER IS NOW AVAILABLE AT TECH HIFI.

The news may already have reached you. We're a young company named Ohm Acoustics and we've developed the last loudspeaker.

We believe it's the last loudspeaker in the same sense as the wheel was the last device for transmitting rotary or rolling motion.

Of course, the wheel has been greatly improved since its debut in the Bronze Age. But only in construction. The design itself is unimprovable because it's inherently perfect.

The new Ohm F has the same mathematical finality. It's the absolute loudspeaker, utterly simple and complete. Only its physical makeup can evolve further; the concept is terminal.

The last loudspeaker was invented by a little-understood engineering genius, Lincoln Walsh, who patented it in 1969 (U. S. Patent 3,424,873) and died less than three years later. As exclusive licensees of the Walsh patent, we've spent the past two years developing construction techniques for the invention. The end result is the Ohm F.

The originality and stark simplicity of the Walsh design are apparent at a glance. A single, very steep 12-inch cone, oriented with its apex up and convex side out, is used to reproduce the entire audio range from 30 to 20,000 Hz without crossovers. (Not to be confused with the 2-inch Walsh tweeter made by another company under license from Ohm.)

The cone is made of titanium, aluminum and beryllium, and it acts as a wave transmission more completely discarding the classic piston theory of speaker design. Its output is a unique cylindrical wave front, which is kept in perfect phase with the input audio signal at all frequencies. This is "coherent sound", analogous to coherent light from a laser.

No other full-range speaker is a totally coherent sound source, with 360° direct radiation to boot. It's the theoretical ultimate.

The Ohm F comes in a striking, tapered column cabinet, about 3 1/2 feet high, and is priced at $400. (Also available is the $1000 laboratory prototype Ohm A, with an 18-inch Walsh driver that goes down to 20 Hz but requires 350 watts of power.)

As the years go by and the history of the wheel is repeated, the Walsh idea will inevitably filter down to the lowest price ranges.

Meanwhile, the Ohm F is here for those who want to be the first to own the last loudspeaker.

HEAR IT NOW AT

TECH HIFI 150 CHURCH ST.

The Devil's Advocate : The University's Athletic Fee Is Unjust

by Alan King

There are two sides to every story and everyone has his own idea of how things should be. Perhaps by presenting one side of a particular issue, enough people will become concerned so that they will also want to express their views. This is the purpose of "The Devil's Advocate." Each week I would like to bring up a local, campus-oriented issue and invite you to respond. I will try to be as accurate as possible in details, but some of my sources may be unreliable from time to time and I may have to follow-up on some items. I will accept full responsibility for this. Once again let me state that the opinions contained herein are my own and do not, necessarily, reflect those of the student body at large, nor the executive board of the Cynic.

THE ATHLETIC FEE

I have often wondered, during my three years at UVM, how the administration has been able to get away with the "athletic fee" all these years without any word of protest from the students. What I'm talking about is $80,000 of student money which doesn't get used every year. But I might as well set the story straight and try to offend the least number of people.

Back in 1962 when the gym and fieldhouse were built, the Trustees and the Vermont Legislature decided that the complex would be financed by a multi-year mortgage, with the students paying the yearly installments of that mortgage. That was fine. The University needed the facilities and the mortgage was the best way to spread the costs over a long period of time. In order to raise the money for the mortgage installments, the administration levied a $30.00 per year ($15 each semester) athletic bond fee. That was ok too. The problem with the whole deal is that in 1962 there were slightly less than 4500 students at UVM. There are now almost 8500 students. The mortgage payments haven't changed; the athletic fee hasn't changed; but the student population has doubled. This means that the University has been collecting twice the amount that is actually needed to make the yearly payments! Well then, where has the extra 70-80 thousand dollars gone? Not for new footballs! Up until last year, all this money was reverting to the general fund of the University, to be used for any special projects or unforeseen expenses of the university.

Here is my beef: For years now, the university has been collecting this fee, calling it an "athletic fee", then using half of it for non-athletic projects. Combine this with the $1.50 admission price to the games and the student really gets the shaft. I believe that the athletic fee should have been reduced years ago when the student population rose over 4500. I further believe that the increase in the price of game tickets was grossly unjustified when the funds were sitting right in front of everyone's nose.

During the past two years the administration has wised up. Having collected the unjust fee for eleven years, they have decided that it would be more appropriate if the extra money was put into an escrow account to be used for enlarging the present facilities. Perhaps they were wary of getting caught! But this was too little too late. Last year when the issue of keeping the gym and fieldhouse open on Sunday came up in the S.A. Senate, the argument was put forth that it would be too expensive to operate. After all, it might cost upwards of three to four hundred dollars each extra day. But then, the university was only collecting $80,000 dollars a year extra. They can't afford $4,500 to keep the gym open? But I must admit they are trying. They did put the money into escrow. I guess with Southwick being turned into the new music building something had to be done about increasing Phys. Ed. space. But why have they waited until 1973 to do this? The world may never know!

Since I don't believe in complaining about things unless you can offer a better suggestion, I will not hesitate to suggest to the Phys. Ed. department (and the student association senate) the following: Take some of the money left from the athletic bond fee and use it to open the gym on Sundays. This could be on a trial basis, if necessary. At least it would be using the money in a manner similar to its intended use. If the administration refuses, then someone should raise a little hell on behalf of the students. This money has been collected in a shady manner too long! If it says "athletic fee" then it should be an athletic fee, not a general fund fee. Also, try to bring down the cost of games. If we can't use this money to open the gym on a trial basis on Sundays, then the S.A. Senate should use some of that $7000 left over from last year to finance such an effort. It is only logical that Sunday is the one day of the week when students have the most free time.

Mr. Dennis Lambert, Chairman of the athletic department, claims that the university tried this many years ago but not enough students utilized the facilities to make it worthwhile. Well, I have spent many Sundays sneaking into the gym or fieldhouse and playing paddleball or tennis. I know of several others who would have been interested in going, had the building been open legally (sneaking in is no longer profitable since the electricity in the courts is now shut off on Sundays). Mr. Lambert said that many non-university students attempted to use the facilities when it was open Sundays long ago. To this I say "fine"! Let the High School students use the area if they wish, but charge them admission. This money might help defray the cost of keeping the place open! Another point is that the faculty use the gym without paying an "athletic fee". If I am correct, they qualify as "non-UVM students" also. Why does the faculty pay no fee?

Both Mr. Lambert and Mr. Christensen have said that the operation of the athletic facility is wholly dependent upon the will of the students. If this is so, then let's exercise our will. Try to lower the cost of tickets! Get the gym open on Sundays; use our athletic fee for athletic purposes! You could have a student administrator on the weekends, and students employed at the cage, pool, and door guards. It's up to you and me. If that gym happens to get opened on Sundays, and we don't use it, then it's your own fault if the administration ignores us when we make demands regarding athletics.

If you don't care how your $30 is spent every year, I would suggest that you just read the "Doctor's Bag" and nothing else in the Cynic. You'd avoid all these issues and perhaps learn something while you're at it. But if you want the administration of the P.E. monies improved, then talk to your S.A. Senator. Chances are he/she/it (choose one) will be voting on this issue before the semester is out! Your response is welcome.

I would like to commend Mr. Christensen and the others on the P.E. Budget staff for installing the new tennis courts beside the gym, and for their plans to resurface the Southwick courts and Centennial Field courts next spring. I would also like to thank Mr. Lambert and Mr. Christensen for their sincere concern for the issues I have put forth here.

The Botswanan Express: Trucking In Africa

by Jeff Ryback

It had been a matter of years before the journey became a reality, and even then it was hard to fathom tearing down an idea that had settled on my brain much like a billboard, plastered with a dozen "Barnum and Bailey" posters. But it finally happened. Africa. Of course my friends, the ones afflicted with the "hitch hike through Europe syndrome", never quite understood my passion for Africa and were rather relieved when the smoke came billowing out of the 747 engines and they could forever kiss good-bye to the babbling about the grandeur of the wildlife or the Kikuyu uprisings or the archaeological paradise at Olduvai Gorge. Little did I know I would see none of those treasures and would instead experience a barrage of battering impressions from a foreign people.

The trip was mind boggling: fog at Heathrow, delays in Frankfurt, visa problems in Johannesburg; and if it wasn't for the myriad of different faces and personalities I met I could easily imagine myself convulsing violently 'til the end of time on some London pub floor. I remember one fellow in particular. He sat beside me on one plane forever complaining in his "awfully British" accent about the service. I swear the whole plane could hear him. I tried to hide for awhile but that didn't work, in the eyes of the passengers I was guilty through association. So I decided to try and shut him up by talking to him. He turned out to be a fascinating character. He had no home, instead he had offices all over the world. His job was finding sites suitable for mining operations. He told me about beating through the bush on different islands using bands of local natives as guides, and explained about some kind of tests he ran at the various sites. Then I asked him if he ever thought about marriage, and he said he had once when he was working on his Ph.D. in England, but he didn't have time anymore; he was always in and out of somewhere.

I could go on about the different characters I met, but it was the African people and their ideas that affected me most. I had read enough of Robert Ruark to know that the Mau Mau were high in Kenya. Kenyatta, jailed during the "Mau Mau" uprisings, was president and I felt somehow influenced the atmosphere of distrust that permeated the air. I remember landing in Nairobi to a host of black policemen who get their kicks strutting up and down the aisles of the plane, hand on hips, I guess genuinely enjoying their independence. And another time, I was delayed so that everyone's luggage could be frisked for Kenyan money. Still, in view of their ex-patriot history, it was understandable. I left Kenya on a rather dismal day and landed at Jan Smuts Airport-Johannesburg, South Africa to what I would call a "Florida chudness." I had never been to South Africa and felt a bit apprehensive in view of that anathematic word I would never dare say (i.e. apartheid). My time there was rather short so my attitudes towards the apartheid, while appalling were more subjective than objective. It wasn't until I got to Botswana and met and lived with refugees from S. Africa that my convictions became concretized.

I fail to remember the name of the fellow I lived with. He was a native Botswanan who was lucky enough to be one of two chosen to study in the United States. After graduating from the University of Minnesota he returned to his country to do work in artificial insemination. We talked about a number of things and surprisingly enough he knew more about American politics than half the people I knew in the states. I asked him if he had seen much of the states and he said he had been through every state except Alaska and Hawaii, and felt Vermont was the prettiest (that's the truth).

His house was in Gaborone, Botswana, fringing the Kalahari Desert. It had five rooms made of cinder block construction. The living room was loaded with books ranging from the philosophies of Kierkegaard to the plays of Ibsen and Chekov. On one of the walls was a giant poster of his hero, Che Guevara. Evenings, after dinner, we generally gathered around the coffee table below the poster with three or four of his black friends and drank beer. It was at these beer sessions that I learned some of the feelings these Africans had towards imperialism and the ex-patriot whites. The following is one of my journal entries, January 2, 1973:

(continued on page eight)

come

have not overcome democratic across our land. The music of the 1950's is in the wind bread crumb, discolored. Human attributes like are replaced with reception this summer during the hanging over Washington. It nation Dean's call that the chilling

Lincoln declared nearly a the people, for the people, Tracy becomes a mockery, comes a nation of silent the presidency. It will be a weapons. Our war will not be the jungles and hamlets fought with break-ins into into a political party's need for enemy lists. There who confuse loyalty to a ve for humanity, and the respect for an individual's quality will fight? The time demands

Remember playing saftly swaying braces

ives

sidewalk

the streetlamps

used me

is me

you

some key to remember

Elliot Freeman

03

systems the chief executive is very ed. Governments come and go domestic affairs are completely ve foreign policy is non-existent, his kind of turmoil possibilities could never occur. ng can happen. Who could have the Weimar Republic and the w witnessed the rise of Marxist to have committed "high crimes" and is not impeached? This the American Judicial System. It the final decay of the American age of the president would be and would no longer carry the complex situation there can only answers power and, after his term, be seen. The thought may be bizarre, ms. It would leave the institution ut damaged. It would remain on the other hand, it would solve the that not even the president is been discussed here is speculative occur. But, these remains the case of Nixon's guilt. This can thought of the short and long depends on the investigations in elusions; and the court's ntitutional questions.

one may hope that a better w, one that is more responsive to ends, one that puts the nation's s it's own; one can only hope and ion.

Found In The CYNIC Files

by Sari Bodi

A BACKWARD GLANCE: Greek Week

Open house is now the order of the day. Freshmen, here is your chance to go around and see different fraternity houses, get acquainted with upperclassmen and see another side of college life. We recommend that you see each of the houses at least once. Smoke the free cigarettes and make friends with the men at all the houses.

However bear this in mind. You are not obligated at all to join the fraternity. Remember that this show being put on by the frat men is not the real picture. They are putting their best foot forward. How different they are after rushing, in real life.

Do not be quite as much a sap as they would like to have you be. They may seem to be your friends, and treat you as an old pal. But after all, they haven't known you for long, only a few days. A man normally would not treat you as they are treating you. Act accordingly.

Attend the open house nights, as many as you wish. You are through at ten o'clock and there is still time left for studying. However we suggest that you accept with caution bids for rushing dates. You will find no time for studying on any night which you promise, because you will not get back into the city before twelve o'clock.

September 29, 1936

The Social Week

As for parties, the Owls will hold their semi-annual beach party. That's right, a beach party in October. The catch is that this one's inside, the house, complete, with sand and beach umbrellas in the game room. The last time the Owls had a B.P. it was (BRRR) cold and (GRRR) great!

The "hoots" are looking forward to another that will be equally successful. Or if you're feelin' real gone it's BE-BOP at the SAE house for Saturday night. Outlandish dress is the move. A different sort of affair.

Looking into the future but not too future, we find the IFC dance informal—that is, we mean gather up your gray flannel combo and best repp tie, and for the gals any slick dressy little number will be just fine—and that's it. Men get your dates early! This is going to be a big night.

October 1, 1953

Chaperones—A Problem

Under last year's code, faculty personnel hesitated to take on the responsibility of chaperoning a fraternity party. For if they did so they almost invariably would be presented with a situation where a university regulation was being broken. The reason for this was that although fraternity parties were considered university-sponsored social functions, drinking nevertheless was continued. Thus a chaperone had the alternative of reporting a frat for a violation of the rules or closing one eye to the situation.

October 1, 1953

Blue Book

By the way, we gave a list of "A" ranking freshman gals last week for the benefit of the men and the gals put up an awful kick—they want a list of eligible freshman males—a certain Peter Patch seems to head the list—he hails from Windsor (not a former inmate)—Sally Kinney—Vanderbilt—just another one in that long line of Rutland smoothies—the local gals don't have to be introduced to Murray Mills, a tall-blond Burlington boy who has already made himself well known—long Island also has its contribution—Huey Gasperini and Hank Middleworth—two city slickers who haven't had any trouble finding their way around—they were both quite in evidence at the gym on Saturday night.

September 29, 1936

Freshmen Rules to be Enforced by Gold Key

Henceforth, freshmen are prohibited to attend games with the opposite sex. They must wear their caps at all college festivities. These rules will be strictly enforced.

September 27, 1935

Institute Card Cheering

One hundred fifty card-waving freshmen will be sitting on the fifty yard line this Saturday as the Pep Committee starts its campaign to lift student spirit at Catamount athletic clashes.

The group has been practicing for the past week in an effort to perfect the difficult technique of synchronized card cheering. If the practice is a success and continued, UVM will be the only school in the New England area employing this system.

An investment being made by the Pep Committee comes in the nature of a custom tailored Catamount costume. The wearer of the costume will be unknown to the student body. The "Custom Catamount" will serve as a mascot and be on the gridiron during halftime and before the game to "loosen up the crowd."

September 30, 1954

The UVM Athletic Council approved the use of "Rink" as the official school mascot. "Rink" is a six month old Puma (also known as a cougar, mountain lion or catamount.)

September 27, 1968

The Mystic Pen

At the college mixer held last Saturday night, the Freshman singing was led by—well by four upperclassmen. These gentlemen resurrected for the enjoyment of their audience what was announced as an ancient song called "The Sport". Upon the audience's settling down to listen, the four carolled the following verses, inserting the chorus between each verse. The musical legend was written in '96 and its original promulgator has thus far remained "Anonymous". (The so called music is the same as that of the revered classic: "I'm a Rambling Wreck from Georgia Tech") Here it is:

The Sport

When I was in my freshman year, I was a dear good boy.
I kept within the narrow way and never did annoy;
I got my lesson day by day, I studied very hard.
And I never used the filthy weed, I played in my backyard.
When I was in my sophomore year, I was a son of a gun,
(continued on page eight)

The Sony Guide to preserving your individuality

Even in this bubble-packed, pre-recorded, artificially-flavored world, it is possible to express yourself. To make it clear to one and all just what order of being you are. With, for example, some of the things you've sold and to be a part of your daily living such as your choice of hi-fi gear. The type and quality of the sound that comes from your room is one of the most noticeable things about you. Which brings us to Sony receivers.

There are five models. Features in common. For example, the FM front end includes newly developed junction FET's in its mixer and RF stages, to bring in the weakest of stations without intrusion by the stronger ones. The IF section has the permanently aligned, solid-state filters and a high gain IC limiter for excellent selectivity and superb capture ratios.

And Sony receivers deliver clean, distortion-free power from low, low bass (where you need it), right through the highest frequencies. Our 7065, 7055, 6046A & 6036A deliver their rated power with both channels driving 8 ohm loads from 20Hz to 20KHz.

Direct coupling means no output coupling capacitors stand between you and the music. A wide variety of conveniences make it easier for you to shape the music to your tastes, record, monitor, dub directly, mix microphones. And the 7065, 7055, and 6046A have a handy preamp-out/amplifier-in connection. Our STR-7065 (60+60W RMS with less than 0.2% distortion) plucks stations from even the most crowded dials. It has a remarkable capture 1 dB ratio! Click in your choice of three speaker pairs, monitor two tape recorders, dub directly and mix one or two stereo microphones. Function indicator lights on the front panel are a welcome convenience. $499.50*

The 7055 has all the features of the 7065 except mic mixing, function lights and signal strength meter. A bit less power (35+35 watts with less than 0.2% distortion), and an exceptional tuner section. $399.50*

The STR-6046A sets the new standard in its power and price category (20+20W RMS, THD less than 0.8%) $249.50*. Our STR-6036A is conservatively rated at 15+15W RMS. Its 1.5 dB capture ratio is a clue to the tuner's impressive performance. $199.50*

An all-around, 4 channel performer, the SQR-6650. It's for SQ, the other matrix systems and discrete (with quad tape deck.) Double-Stacked Differential circuitry delivers the extra power in stereo. $329.50*

So, visit your Sony audio dealer. He's quite an individual, too. Sony Corporation of America, 9 West 57th Street, New York, New York, 10019.

*Prices include the walnut finish cabinet. *Suggested retail.

Make yourself heard with a receiver by SONY.

DAVE YETTE RADIO

OWNED and OPERATED by I.E.S.

Open House to 5pm

458-4616

370 SHELburne ROAD

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Vermont Artists Exhibit At Fleming Museum Until Oct. 14

by Bill Campbell
The Fleming Museum's first showing of native visual arts opened Sunday, September 23. Entitled "Vermont '73: A Joint Exhibition of Work by Vermont Artists," the exhibit of 56 paintings and works of sculpture by 48 Vermont artists are those judged the best of an original 184 entries.

The judge was art historian and critic Edward Fry, formerly the associate curator of the Guggenheim Museum in New York. He is presently head of the Art Department at York University in Toronto.

The museum granted an award of $500 for first prize, with purchase awards of $100 going to runners-up. A member of the UVM faculty, Francis R. Hewitt of Burlington, was awarded Best in the Show for his acrylic on canvas entitled "Artists' Earth and Earth Colors on Old Ground."

The show has a wide variety of exhibits, as there were no limitations placed on medium. There were no limitations as to size either, except that works which were too large for the front door or too heavy for the floors had to remain on the front lawn. An enormous sculpture has been seen there for a couple of weeks.

The majority of Fry's choices, whether abstract or representational, are interesting primarily for their concerns with the classic formal problems of sculpture and painting—color, structure, design, and so on.

Except for two landscapes of identifiable subjects, there seems to be nothing conspicuously Vermontish in what Mr. Fry took to be the best works entered.

In selecting Hewitt's seemingly non-objective painting as Best in the Show, however, Fry unwittingly also picked a work fondly rooted in the Vermont experience. The pigments were in part taken from the soil and the patterns modulated according to the border points of the artist's retreat in Orange County.

A good jury show depends on the willingness of artists to put their work on the line in face of tough odds, particularly

Randy Kim Conversations With Richard III

SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

by Joseph Oshon
I found Randy Kim in his dressing room putting on makeup for his role in Richard III. He was halfway into his character likeness, and I had come too late to see what he really looked like, his own character. He was very easy to talk to and I stayed a while, saw some other Shakespeare performers and agreed to return Saturday at five o'clock for the interview.

Mr. Kim was discovered in his native state, Hawaii, where he and a friend had started a theatre group. The director of Hair caught him doing his own man show of Mark Twain and offered him a job in the original production which finally materialized in the United States. Mr. Kim started out in this performance, and then went on to bigger and better things.

He was always into Shakespeare, but feels that Americans do not form their own interpretations of the parts. Because of this, Americans are called second rate actors. The reason for this is there are two schools in the United States. One is the technical school which has strict guidelines placed on acting. Every performance turns out the same, and every actor interprets his part the same. The other extremity is the school of method. This school enables the actor to be completely at his own whim. Variation is allowed and performances sometimes can differ. This is good for personal identity, but horrendous for producing a tight working production. Marlon Brando is an example of this school and on the same level is a superb actor.

There has just recently been a school created which bridges the gap between these two extremes. The School was started by Edwin Sherin, the producer of the fantastic play The Great White Hope. Mr. Kim starts rehearsals this week on his new play, Nourish the Beast. This school allows the actor to keep an identity while keeping within the technical guidelines of the role. The school works around a principle exemplified by ones that Tolstoy describes in his novels; very complex and with being in complete touch with one's feelings. For being in touch with oneself enables one to be in complete touch with one's character. Then it is possible to become, to feel, to react all in the personality of the character. Such is the ultimate goal of the actor. Mr. Kim was modest and said that he was on the road to this goal, but I must say I feel that he is very close. Last week he did a one-man show of Mark Twain at South Burlington High School, and I talked to him before the performance. To my surprise, he talked to me in character. I asked him about that later and he explained that when he puts on make up he slowly undergoes a transformation that he cannot completely understand, fantastic.

Randy greatly enjoyed his role in Ham in Endgame. The play requires a great deal of discipline because the characters are so abstract. He over Beckett and he agrees with many of his philosophies of human existence. He also likes Pinter and Albee. One cannot ask him if he likes them as much as Shakespeare. "It would be like asking me which beer I liked better—San Miguel or Ocktoberfest. Each has its own flavor, appealing and different."

Randy once did an adaptation of The Idiot in which he played Myshkin. He did a lot of research on epileptic fits, because it was necessary for him to portray them. There is a state of ecstasy before the epileptic plunges into a fit. It seems that epileptics are sensitive people, I think he will agree. It was a fascinating experience for him.

Sometimes, as father Capulet, he contemplates his part before he enters to find Juliet dead. The expression on his face is so brilliant, it tells of his sadness in losing his daughter because of his honor and selfishness. It tells of many fathers who lose their children because they do not try to understand them. His expression reminded me of ones that Tolstoy describes in his novels; very complex and revealing. Randy Kim is an empathizer.

Dregs Of Society Are Portrayed In "Roma"

by Jonathan Lief

More than any other film I have seen, Federico Fellini's Roma displays simultaneously the tremendous vibrancy and fascinating ugliness of our world. Fellini has made it his trademark to bring before our eyes the dregs of society, but the decadence of his characters, not so surprisingly, attracts rather than repels us. Through his scenes of brothels, with their sergeant-like madames parading the raucous whores past the clientele like so many cattle up for auction, one is brought face to face with the Roman underworld in all its glory. Prostitutes with ghoulishly painted faces mingle with matrons of magnificent obesity, and families of several generations eat their pasta so lustily and messily that one's senses are inundated with tomato sauce and garlic.

In Roma, Fellini switched back and forth from the nineteenth forties to the present, from the era of Mussolini, who made the trains run on time, to the era of massive traffic jams surrounding the Colosseum. Past and present are interwoven in other ways. The building of the subway is interrupted daily by newly discovered ancient ruins. Engineers come across two-thousand year old frescoes, which are consequently spoiled by the fresh air rushing in from the tunnel. Fellini has a strong sense of history and he is obviously concerned about the effects of today's world on the relics of ancient times.

In another scene, an elderly princess, a remnant of Rome's once powerful aristocracy, holds an "ecclesiastical fashion show" for members of the clergy. In a wildly funny satire of the Church, nuns and priests model new concepts in habits, frocks, robes and the like. This and other sequences are highly surrealistic, yet his depictions of real people are so fresh and themselves that it becomes nearly impossible to differentiate from what is and what is imagined. This is certainly a major theme in the film, we are constantly thrust into scenes from Fellini's past, memories, but these are often far more believable than the documentary-like shots of what is actually happening today, shots that Fellini simply had to film as they occurred.

Fellini has the most amazing eye for faces that I've ever seen; where does he find the grotesque characters that constantly pop out of doorways or windows, or that sit slumped at tables bloated with wine, staring defiantly at the camera as it rolls by? His people are often terribly pathetic, yet they have a powerful sense of humor. Through Fellini the Italians bring bickering and insulting and carping to the level of high art.

The photography in Roma is exquisite. A shot of a frightened woman running through a barely lit tunnel is breath taking. Lightning and rain have silvered the sides of the tunnel so that the impression is like a photographic negative, and the woman's shadow moves along side of her mockingly. In the final scene, Fellini films a troop of motorcycle cops as they race through the city late at night; their headlights illuminating monuments and buildings as they swerve by, like an army of helmeted Gauls sacking Rome.

My one complaint (it's inevitable) is that several of the scenes were too long, and the discomfort from this is aggravated by the exhausting nature of the material. It is one thing to watch an overlong sequence; it is another when what you're watching unhinges you in two minutes, let alone fifteen. This is overall brilliant in light of the overall brilliance of the film. It is a panorama not only of Rome but of life at its most bizarre.

The Flynn Theater should definitely be commended for the fine run of films they have been showing recently. In the last few weeks they have

CLASSIFIED ADS

Students are reminded that classified ads are free to them but they must be limited to 25 words or less.

USED DOWN SLEEPING BAG WITH NYLON CASE. 3 1/2 pounds. $20. CALL DEE DEE 864-5229

FOR SALE: 1970 SAAB Steel Belled Radial Tires Nearly Rebuilt Engine - 862-0022

FOR SALE: 1970 blue Chevrolet Malibu: 350 4-speed, buckets, 1 owner excellent condition. After 8 call 863-1258. $1995.00

FOR SALE: 1971 Toyota Corolla 1600: Deluxe Station Wagon, 33,000 mls. No Rust, runs excellent, $1600 sacrifice. Call Scott AFTER 7:30 - 656-2511 or 656-2512. Come see me at 112 Davis Hall.

MUST SELL - 1 pr. DYNAMIC UR17 SKIS - 72/73 MODEL, 207 cm. Skis out - Skied on one week, like new! Retail Price: $195.00; WH Sell for $85.00. Contact Paul Perrino at Sig. Ep. Between 5:00 and 6:00 PM - 863-9881

Contentment Farm Riding Stable, Open Year Around - Trail Riding - Instructions - Hay & Sleigh Rides - Task Shop - Shoeing - Sales - Boarding - Removable Rides - Indoor Arena. South Hero 372-4067

EARN TOP MONEY! Part time promoting student travel. Call or write (include your telephone number): VAGABOND TOURS, 242 East 89th Street, New York, N.Y. 10021 (212) 536-9840.

MOVIE GUIDE

Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

CINEMA 1 & 2

"HAIL TO THE CHIEF" EVE 7-9 PM

"PRIVATE SCHOOL GIRLS" EVE 7-9 PM

MAT, SAT, & SUN 2 PM

Special Preview

GODSPELL Friday, Sept. 28 at 11:30 P.M.

FLYNN THEATER

HEAVY TRAFFIC

7-9 PM FRI. & SAT.

7, 9, & 11 PM

STATE THEATER

"LAST TANGO IN PARIS"

7:00 & 9:30

SHOWCASE 1 & 2

"JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR"

7:10 & 9:15, G.

"WALKING TALL"

7:00 & 9:20 R

$1.00 SPECIAL $1.00 DOLLAR SHOWINGS

THURSDAY NIGHT

TONIGHT

7 P.M.

MONEY MONEY MONEY

PLAZA 1 & 2

DORSET STREET

TUESDAY NIGHT

OCT. 2

7 P.M.

CLEOPATRA JONES

PLAZA 1 & 2

Thursday

Oct. 4, 1973

HELLSTROM CHRONICLE

Cinema 1 & 2

Shelburne Road

8:30 PM

SNEAK PREVIEW
GODSPELL
A MIRACLE OF A MOVIE MUSICAL
BURLINGTON PLAZA
CINEMA 1 & 2

"HAIL TO THIS MOVIE!"

—Jeffrey Lyons, WPIX-TV

"★★★. It tackles, with the zeal of Joe Namath throwing one of his aerial bombs, the very subject that America is most touchy about—Presidential abuse of power. As hilarious as it is harrowing." —Kathleen Carroll, Daily News

"A remarkable political satire." —Vincent Canby, N.Y. Times

"A comedy shocker... extremely funny... with laughs that stick in your throat." —William Wolf, Cue

"So irreverent that it would be treasonable if the country were a dictatorship." —Frances Herring, N.Y. Post

"A far-out take-off of a present or future president. Definitely done." —Frances Herring, N.Y. Post

"Tickles the ribs while chilling the blood." —Norma McLean Stoop, After Dark

'HAIL TO THE CHIEF'

BURLINGTON PLAZA
CINEMA 1 & 2

EVE 7-9 PM. SUN. 2 PM.

More from the makers of "Fritz The Cat"

"When ever we show a film such as 'Heavy Traffic' at The Museum of Modern Art someone is sure to ask us 'Did you really like that?' I'd like to say right now that I did not like it, but that is because I would prefer not to be faced so brilliantly, so forcefully, with some of the things it presents. But this is a time for us to face problems squarely, and to allow nothing to stand in the way of free expression by our artists, no matter how distasteful. In passing, if you are not offended by some part of 'Heavy Traffic' perhaps you are not offendable. Make no mistake, however, it is a brilliantly executed, very important film."

Willard Van Dyke
Director, Department of Film
Museum of Modern Art, New York City

"...as brilliant as anything in recent movies." —Roger Greenbaum, New York Times

HEAVY TRAFFIC

FLYNN

NOW SHOWING
EVE 7:00 & 9:00
Plus a Late
Showing Fri.-Sat. At 11 P.M.

Romeo And

by Joe Oshon

Only on the level of renovated play, Romeo and Juliet had some nice touches which added up to produce a lacquered performance. The rendition contained some touches which interpreted the parts quite professionally. This play suffered from lack of proper staging, confused crowd scenes, and a mediocre Romeo.

When the play begins, dazzling fight scenes ensue between the Capulets and Montagues. The entrances cause a chaos which is needed in this scene. The brilliant costumes of Capulets and Montagues in a little more interpretation of the use which has often been portrayed more gracefully. This method does have disadvantages because everything happens so fast, the audience is not given enough to understand impact of the fight with intense emotions of the houses of Verona behind it.

Romeo, played by DeBoutakaris, physically fits the conception of a Romeo; excellent character likeness. Boutakaris escape with a scant performance. Character portrayal lacks emotional depth needed. Romeo, he seems to miss element of confusion in lines, which constantly influences his character. In the Balcony Scene,

Album Review

by Doug Collette

BROTHERS AND SISTERS
The Allman Brothers Band
(Capricorn CP 0111)

The Allmans' strength human beings' goes without question, just to hold the together would have been task in itself. The addition of Chuck Leavell and D. Williams however, has been a musical restructuring from resulting in any so disjointed resignation, as natural an evolution of band could wish to a under normal circumstances. Brothers and Sisters designed to exhibit strength the Allman Band possess. Each track travels different idiom while maintaining the unmistakable group identity. Like a band's previous recordings, this new one lapses, but its high point than compensate for records overall unevenness. "Wasted Words" is at Greg Allman classic book, right up with "Don't Keep Wondering and 'Ani Time No More." The cooks, determinably on that contains terrific embodying a slightly jaunty feeling. And the are as no-nonsense music.

I ain't no saint
Sure as hell ain't no
Every other Chr practice good behav
That was then, this

1546 Shallowford
Burlington
862-662-372

APPEAL

ONLY

TR

Wed

ALWAY

THE

156 St. Po

ty Are Roma"

a major theme in the are constantly thrust from Fellini's past, but these are often believable than the very-like shots of actually happening as they occurred as the most amazing faces that I've ever seen done by him. He does find the characters that pop out of the windows, or that stand at tables, blasted with stars, definitely at the level of high yet they have a sense of humor. Fellini the Italians looking and insulting to the level of high photography in Rome is a shot of a woman running in a tunnel is barely lit. The lighting and the silhouettes of the sides of the tunnel is like a negative, and the shadow moves along her body in the scene. Fellini films a motorcyclist as they rough the city late at night. Their headlights ring monuments and as they swirl by, a army of helmeted Gauls one complaint (it's the) is that several of the were too long, and the fort from this is by the exhausting of the material. It is one to watch an overlong; it is another when you're watching unhinged two minutes, let alone. This is minor, however, of the overall brilliance of the film. It is a panorama of Rome but of a life at bizzare.

Flynn Theater should be commended for the run of films they have showing recently. In a few weeks they have

CLASSIFIED ADS

ents are reminded classified ads are free but they must be to 25 words or

DOWN SLEEPING WITH NYLON 3 1/2 pounds. $20. DEE DEE 6229

SALE: 1970 SAAB 1600 Belted Radial Tires Rebuilt Engine - 0023.

SALE: 1970 blue Pontiac, 1500, 350, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971, 1972, 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976, 1977, 1978, 1979, 1980, 1981, 1982, 1983, 1984, 1985, 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994, 1995, 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024, 2025, 2026, 2027, 2028, 2029, 2030, 2031, 2032, 2033, 2034, 2035, 2036, 2037, 2038, 2039, 2040, 2041, 2042, 2043, 2044, 2045, 2046, 2047, 2048, 2049, 2050, 2051, 2052, 2053, 2054, 2055, 2056, 2057, 2058, 2059, 2060, 2061, 2062, 2063, 2064, 2065, 2066, 2067, 2068, 2069, 2070, 2071, 2072, 2073, 2074, 2075, 2076, 2077, 2078, 2079, 2080, 2081, 2082, 2083, 2084, 2085, 2086, 2087, 2088, 2089, 2090, 2091, 2092, 2093, 2094, 2095, 2096, 2097, 2098, 2099, 2100, 2101, 2102, 2103, 2104, 2105, 2106, 2107, 2108, 2109, 2110, 2111, 2112, 2113, 2114, 2115, 2116, 2117, 2118, 2119, 2120, 2121, 2122, 2123, 2124, 2125, 2126, 2127, 2128, 2129, 2130, 2131, 2132, 2133, 2134, 2135, 2136, 2137, 2138, 2139, 2140, 2141, 2142, 2143, 2144, 2145, 2146, 2147, 2148, 2149, 2150, 2151, 2152, 2153, 2154, 2155, 2156, 2157, 2158, 2159, 2160, 2161, 2162, 2163, 2164, 2165, 2166, 2167, 2168, 2169, 2170, 2171, 2172, 2173, 2174, 2175, 2176, 2177, 2178, 2179, 2180, 2181, 2182, 2183, 2184, 2185, 2186, 2187, 2188, 2189, 2190, 2191, 2192, 2193, 2194, 2195, 2196, 2197, 2198, 2199, 2200, 2201, 2202, 2203, 2204, 2205, 2206, 2207, 2208, 2209, 2210, 2211, 2212, 2213, 2214, 2215, 2216, 2217, 2218, 2219, 2220, 2221, 2222, 2223, 2224, 2225, 2226, 2227, 2228, 2229, 2230, 2231, 2232, 2233, 2234, 2235, 2236, 2237, 2238, 2239, 2240, 2241, 2242, 2243, 2244, 2245, 2246, 2247, 2248, 2249, 2250, 2251, 2252, 2253, 2254, 2255, 2256, 2257, 2258, 2259, 2260, 2261, 2262, 2263, 2264, 2265, 2266, 2267, 2268, 2269, 2270, 2271, 2272, 2273, 2274, 2275, 2276, 2277, 2278, 2279, 2280, 2281, 2282, 2283, 2284, 2285, 2286, 2287, 2288, 2289, 2290, 2291, 2292, 2293, 2294, 2295, 2296, 2297, 2298, 2299, 2300, 2301, 2302, 2303, 2304, 2305, 2306, 2307, 2308, 2309, 2310, 2311, 2312, 2313, 2314, 2315, 2316, 2317, 2318, 2319, 2320, 2321, 2322, 2323, 2324, 2325, 2326, 2327, 2328, 2329, 2330, 2331, 2332, 2333, 2334, 2335, 2336, 2337, 2338, 2339, 2340, 2341, 2342, 2343, 2344, 2345, 2346, 2347, 2348, 2349, 2350, 2351, 2352, 2353, 2354, 2355, 2356, 2357, 2358, 2359, 2360, 2361, 2362, 2363, 2364, 2365, 2366, 2367, 2368, 2369, 2370, 2371, 2372, 2373, 2374, 2375, 2376, 2377, 2378, 2379, 2380, 2381, 2382, 2383, 2384, 2385, 2386, 2387, 2388, 2389, 2390, 2391, 2392, 2393, 2394, 2395, 2396, 2397, 2398, 2399, 2400, 2401, 2402, 2403, 2404, 2405, 2406, 2407, 2408, 2409, 2410, 2411, 2412, 2413, 2414, 2415, 2416, 2417, 2418, 2419, 2420, 2421, 2422, 2423, 2424, 2425, 2426, 2427, 2428, 2429, 2430, 2431, 2432, 2433, 2434, 2435, 2436, 2437, 2438, 2439, 2440, 2441, 2442, 2443, 2444, 2445, 2446, 2447, 2448, 2449, 2450, 2451, 2452, 2453, 2454, 2455, 2456, 2457, 2458, 2459, 2460, 2461, 2462, 2463, 2464, 2465, 2466, 2467, 2468, 2469, 2470, 2471, 2472, 2473, 2474, 2475, 2476, 2477, 2478, 2479, 2480, 2481, 2482, 2483, 2484, 2485, 2486, 2487, 2488, 2489, 2490, 2491, 2492, 2493, 2494, 2495, 2496, 2497, 2498, 2499, 2500, 2501, 2502, 2503, 2504, 2505, 2506, 2507, 2508, 2509, 2510, 2511, 2512, 2513, 2514, 2515, 2516, 2517, 2518, 2519, 2520, 2521, 2522, 2523, 2524, 2525, 2526, 2527, 2528, 2529, 2530, 2531, 2532, 2533, 2534, 2535, 2536, 2537, 2538, 2539, 2540, 2541, 2542, 2543, 2544, 2545, 2546, 2547, 2548, 2549, 2550, 2551, 2552, 2553, 2554, 2555, 2556, 2557, 2558, 2559, 2560, 2561, 2562, 2563, 2564, 2565, 2566, 2567, 2568, 2569, 2570, 2571, 2572, 2573, 2574, 2575, 2576, 2577, 2578, 2579, 2580, 2581, 2582, 2583, 2584, 2585, 2586, 2587, 2588, 2589, 2590, 2591, 2592, 2593, 2594, 2595, 2596, 2597, 2598, 2599, 2600, 2601, 2602, 2603, 2604, 2605, 2606, 2607, 2608, 2609, 2610, 2611, 2612, 2613, 2614, 2615, 2616, 2617, 2618, 2619, 2620, 2621, 2622, 2623, 2624, 2625, 2626, 2627, 2628, 2629, 2630, 2631, 2632, 2633, 2634, 2635, 2636, 2637, 2638, 2639, 2640, 2641, 2642, 2643, 2644, 2645, 2646, 2647, 2648, 2649, 2650, 2651, 2652, 2653, 2654, 2655, 2656, 2657, 2658, 2659, 2660, 2661, 2662, 2663, 2664, 2665, 2666, 2667, 2668, 2669, 2670, 2671, 2672, 2673, 2674, 2675, 2676, 2677, 2678, 2679, 2680, 2681, 2682, 2683, 2684, 2685, 2686, 2687, 2688, 2689, 2690, 2691, 2692, 2693, 2694, 2695, 2696, 2697, 2698, 2699, 2700, 2701, 2702, 2703, 2704, 2705, 2706, 2707, 2708, 2709, 2710, 2711, 2712, 2713, 2714, 2715, 2716, 2717, 2718, 2719, 2720, 2721, 2722, 2723, 2724, 2725, 2726, 2727, 2728, 2729, 2730, 2731, 2732, 2733, 2734, 2735, 2736, 2737, 2738, 2739, 2740, 2741, 2742, 2743, 2744, 2745, 2746, 2747, 2748, 2749, 2750, 2751, 2752, 2753, 2754, 2755, 2756, 2757, 2758, 2759, 2760, 2761, 2762, 2763, 2764, 2765, 2766, 2767, 2768, 2769, 2770, 2771, 2772, 2773, 2774, 2775, 2776, 2777, 2778, 2779, 2780, 2781, 2782, 2783, 2784, 2785, 2786, 2787, 2788, 2789, 2790, 2791, 2792, 2793, 2794, 2795, 2796, 2797, 2798, 2799, 2800, 2801, 2802, 2803, 2804, 2805, 2806, 2807, 2808, 2809, 2810, 2811, 2812, 2813, 2814, 2815, 2816, 2817, 2818, 2819, 2820, 2821, 2822, 2823, 2824, 2825, 2826, 2827, 2828, 2829, 2830, 2831, 2832, 2833, 2834, 2835, 2836, 2837, 2838, 2839, 2840, 2841, 2842, 2843, 2844, 2845, 2846, 2847, 2848, 2849, 2850, 2851, 2852, 2853, 2854, 2855, 2856, 2857, 2858, 2859, 2860, 2861, 2862, 2863, 2864, 2865, 2866, 2867, 2868, 2869, 2870, 2871, 2872, 2873, 2874, 2875, 2876, 2877, 2878, 2879, 2880, 2881, 2882, 2883, 2884, 2885, 2886, 2887, 2888, 2889, 2890, 2891, 2892, 2893, 2894, 2895, 2896, 2897, 2898, 2899, 2900, 2901, 2902, 2903, 2904, 2905, 2906, 2907, 2908, 2909, 2910, 2911, 2912, 2913, 2914, 2915, 2916, 2917, 2918, 2919, 2920, 2921, 2922, 2923, 2924, 2925, 2926, 2927, 2928, 2929, 2930, 2931, 2932, 2933, 2934, 2935, 2936, 2937, 2938, 2939, 2940, 2941, 2942, 2943, 2944, 2945, 2946, 2947, 2948, 2949, 2950, 2951, 2952, 2953, 2954, 2955, 2956, 2957, 2958, 2959, 2960, 2961, 2962, 2963, 2964, 2965, 2966, 2967, 2968, 2969, 2970, 2971, 2972, 2973, 2974, 2975, 2976, 2977, 2978, 2979, 2980, 2981, 2982, 2983, 2984, 2985, 2986, 2987, 2988, 2989, 2990, 2991, 2992, 2993, 2994, 2995, 2996, 2997, 2998, 2999, 3000, 3001, 3002, 3003, 3004, 3005, 3006, 3007, 3008, 3009, 3010, 3011, 3012, 3013, 3014, 3015, 3016, 3017, 3018, 3019, 3020, 3021, 3022, 3023, 3024, 3025, 3026, 3027, 3028, 3029, 3030, 3031, 3032, 3033, 3034, 3035, 3036, 3037, 3038, 3039, 3040, 3041, 3042, 3043, 3044, 3045, 3046, 3047, 3048, 3049, 3050, 3051, 3052, 3053, 3054, 3055, 3056, 3057, 3058, 3059, 3060, 3061, 3062, 3063, 3064, 3065, 3066, 3067, 3068, 3069, 3070, 3071, 3072, 3073, 3074, 3075, 3076, 3077, 3078, 3079, 3080, 3081, 3082, 3083, 3084, 3085, 3086, 3087, 3088, 3089, 3090, 3091, 3092, 3093, 3094, 3095, 3096, 3097, 3098, 3099, 3100, 3101, 3102, 3103, 3104, 3105, 3106, 3107, 3108, 3109, 3110, 3111, 3112, 3113, 3114, 3115, 3116, 3117, 3118, 3119, 3120, 3121, 3122, 3123, 3124, 3125, 3126, 3127, 3128, 3129, 3130, 3131, 3132, 3133, 3134, 3135, 3136, 3137, 3138, 3139, 3140, 3141, 3142, 3143, 3144, 3145, 3146, 3147, 3148, 3149, 3150, 3151, 3152, 3153, 3154, 3155, 3156, 3157, 3158, 3159, 3160, 3161, 3162, 3163, 3164, 3165, 3166, 3167, 3168, 3169, 3170, 3171, 3172, 3173, 3174, 3175, 3176, 3177, 3178, 3179, 3180, 3181, 3182, 3183, 3184, 3185, 3186, 3187, 3188, 3189, 3190, 3191, 3192, 3193, 3194, 3195, 3196, 3197, 3198, 3199, 3200, 3201, 3202, 3203, 3204, 3205, 3206, 3207, 3208, 3209, 3210, 3211, 3212, 3213, 3214, 3215, 3216, 3217, 3218, 3219, 3220, 3221, 3222, 3223, 3224, 3225, 3226, 3227, 3228, 3229, 3230, 3231, 3232, 3233, 3234, 3235, 3236, 3237, 3238, 3239, 3240, 3241, 3242, 3243, 3244, 3245, 3246, 3247, 3248, 3249, 3250, 3251, 3252, 3253, 3254, 3255, 3256, 3257, 3258, 3259, 3260, 3261, 3262, 3263, 3264, 3265, 3266, 3267, 3268, 3269, 3270, 3271, 3272, 3273, 3274, 3275, 3276, 3277, 3278, 3279, 3280, 3281, 3282, 3283, 3284, 3285, 3286, 3287, 3288, 3289, 3290, 3291, 3292, 3293, 3294, 3295, 3296, 3297, 3298, 3299, 3300, 3301, 3302, 3303, 3304, 3305, 3306, 3307, 3308, 3309, 3310, 3311, 3312, 3313, 3314, 3315, 3316, 3317, 3318, 3319, 3320, 3321, 3322, 3323, 3324, 3325, 3326, 3327, 3328, 3329, 3330, 3331, 3332, 3333, 3334, 3335, 3336, 3337, 3338, 3339, 3340, 3341, 3342, 3343, 3344, 3345, 3346, 3347, 3348, 3349, 3350, 3351, 3352, 3353, 3354, 3355, 3356, 3357, 3358, 3359, 3360, 3361, 3362, 3363, 3364, 3365, 3366, 3367, 3368, 3369, 3370, 3371, 3372, 3373, 3374, 3375, 3376, 3377, 3378, 3379, 3380, 3381, 3382, 3383, 3384, 3385, 3386, 3387, 3388, 3389, 3390, 3391, 3392, 3393, 3394, 3395, 3396, 3397, 3398, 3399, 3400, 3401, 3402, 3403, 3404, 3405, 3406, 3407, 3408, 3409, 3410, 3411, 3412, 3413, 3414, 3415, 3416, 3417, 3418, 3419, 3420, 3421, 3422, 3423, 3424, 3425, 3426, 3427, 3428, 3429, 3430, 3431, 3432, 3433, 3434, 3435, 3436, 3437, 3438, 3439, 3440, 3441, 3442, 3443, 3444, 3445, 3446, 3447, 3448, 3449, 3450, 3451, 3452, 3453, 3454, 3455, 3456, 3457, 3458, 3459, 3460, 3461, 3462, 3463, 3464, 3465, 3466, 3467, 3468, 3469, 3470, 3471, 3472, 3473, 3474, 3475, 3476, 3477, 3478, 3479, 3480, 3481, 3482, 3483, 3484, 3485, 3486, 3487, 3488, 3489, 3490, 3491, 3492, 3493, 3494, 3495, 3496, 3497, 3498, 3499, 3500, 3501, 3502, 3503, 3504, 3505, 3506, 3507, 3508, 3509, 3510, 3511, 3512, 3513, 3514, 3515, 3516, 3517, 3518, 3519, 3520, 3521, 3522, 3523, 3524, 3525, 3526, 3527, 3528, 3529, 3530, 3531, 3532, 3533, 3534, 3535, 3536, 3537, 3538, 3539, 3540, 3541, 3542, 3543, 3544, 3545, 3546, 3547, 3548, 3549, 3550, 3551, 3552, 3553, 3554, 3555, 3556, 3557, 3558, 3559, 3560, 3561, 3562, 3563, 3564, 3565, 3566, 3567, 3568, 3569, 3570, 3571, 3572, 3573, 3574, 3575, 3576, 3577, 3578, 3579, 3580, 3581, 3582, 3583, 3584, 3585, 3586, 3587, 3588, 3589, 3590, 3591, 3592, 3593, 3594, 3595, 3596, 3597, 3598, 3599, 3600, 3601, 3602, 3603, 3604, 3605, 3606, 3607, 3608, 3609, 3610, 3611, 3612, 3613, 3614, 3615, 3616, 3617, 3618, 3619, 3620, 3621, 3622, 3623, 3624, 3625, 3626, 3627, 3628, 3629, 3630, 3631, 3632, 3633, 3634, 3635, 3636, 3637, 3638, 3639, 3640, 3641, 3642, 3643, 3644, 3645, 3646, 3647, 3648, 3649, 3650, 3651, 3652, 3653, 3654, 3655, 3656, 3657, 3658, 3659, 3660, 3661, 3662, 3663, 3664, 3665, 3666, 3667, 3668, 3669, 3670, 3671, 3672, 3673, 3674, 3675, 3676, 3677, 3678, 3679, 3680, 3681, 3682, 3683, 3684, 3685, 3686, 3687, 3688, 3689, 3690, 3691, 3692, 3693, 3694, 3695, 3696, 3697, 3698, 3699, 3700, 3701, 3702, 3703, 3704, 3705, 3706, 3707, 3708, 3709, 3710, 3711, 3712, 3713, 3714, 3715, 3716, 3717, 3718, 3719, 3720, 3721, 3722, 3723, 3724, 3725, 3726, 3727, 3728, 3729, 3730, 3731, 3732, 3733, 3734, 3735, 3736, 3737, 3738, 3739, 3740, 3741, 3742, 3743, 3744, 3745, 3746, 3747, 3748, 3749, 3750, 3751, 3752, 3753, 3754, 3755, 3756, 3757, 3758, 3759, 3760, 3761, 3762, 3763, 3764, 3765, 3766, 3767, 3768, 3769, 3770, 3771, 3772, 3773, 3774, 3775, 3776, 3777, 3778, 3779, 3780, 3781, 3782, 3783, 3784, 3785, 3786, 3787, 3788, 3789, 3790, 3791, 3792, 3793, 3794, 3795, 3796, 3797, 3798, 3799, 3800, 3801, 3802, 3803, 3804, 3805, 3806, 3807, 3808, 3809, 3810, 3811, 3812, 3813, 3814, 3815, 3816, 3817, 3818, 3819, 3820, 3821, 3822, 3823, 3824, 3825, 3826, 3827, 3828, 3829, 3830, 3831, 3832, 3833, 3834, 3835, 3836, 3837, 3838, 3839, 3840, 3841, 3842, 3843, 3844, 3845, 3846, 3847, 3848, 3849, 3850, 3851, 3852, 3853, 3854, 3855, 3856, 3857, 3858, 3859, 3860, 3861, 3862, 3863, 3864, 3865, 3866, 3867, 3868, 3869, 3870, 3871, 3872, 3873, 3874, 3875, 3876, 3877, 3878, 3879, 3880,

Robinson Hall Concerned With Of The Environment Issues

by Carol Dufault
and Bob Haynes

Robinson Environmental Hall on Redstone Campus is a small, coeducational residence hall which serves as a gathering point for students actively concerned with environmental problems.

Although similar in many respects to other residence halls, Robinson is unique both as a physical entity and a special interest dorm. Originally built as a home for the late 19th century, the building now houses approximately forty-five men and women who interact freely in the general university community, and at the same time, live in a community within a community, sharing close friendships not often possible in larger residence halls.

According to Bob Haynes, Resident Advisor, the basic philosophy behind Robinson Hall is an environmental dorm. It is a place where knowledge is important in confrontation of problems such as those related to environmental quality, much can be learned and accomplished by approaching a problem without previous factual expertise.

In keeping with this basic philosophy, each resident of Robinson is required to undertake a three credit project each semester which in some way relates to the environment. This basic requirement has met with some problems. Importantly, many advisors felt that freshmen do not have a sufficient background to undertake such a project. This year, a six member dorm board was set up to iron out problems and to evaluate individual student projects some of which reap no academic credit.

Because almost every discipline is related to the environment, students enjoy a wide range of choices regarding the nature of their projects, which may be undertaken as individual or group activities. Individual student projects this year include: supervising a Girl Scout ecology study at Red Rocks Park; volunteer work with Planned Parenthood;

constructing ecology trails in Centennial Woods (behind the football field), writing a pamphlet in collaboration with the Home Economics Department; and participating in a bicycle rack project. Even the R.A. is required to participate in a project. At present, Bob Haynes is working under a grant in Montpellier for the Population Commission, for Vermont. About six students are also working on a project entitled "Save the Elm," headed by Sue Kessler, a graduate student.

Several group projects have begun to enhance the living conditions at Robinson. With the aid of funds from the Environmental Program, a seventy gallon aquarium was purchased during the summer, and this semester, several students plan to stock the tank with fish and plants found in Vermont rivers and lakes. An attempt will be made to balance the tank with plant and animal life which will grow well with limited natural light.

Work has already begun on the constructing of a greenhouse in one of the skylights in Robinson. With donated insulation, ingenuity, and a lot of creativity, several Robinson residents anticipate a year-round growing season on Redstone Campus.

With funds made available from the Student Association and the Inter-residency Associations, the conversion of the second story kitchen into a reading study library will begin this week. It is hoped that books and periodicals relating to nature and the environment will be obtained and used during future years at Robinson.

Robinson is not only a dorm where one sleeps and studies. It is a dorm devoted to the pursuit of special interests in the field of ecology. It is a community on the campus.

UVM Farm Embraces More Than Cows' Udders

by John Van Housen
If it ever occurred to you why Vermont remains the most rural of the New England states, a visit to the University of Vermont Farm will begin your education in this area.

For high on 200 years Vermonters have scattered themselves through the countryside in rural communities to make their livings as farmers. Now, an education is necessary to learn the trade, if indeed, farming can be called just one trade.

Dr. Albert Smith, Director of the UVM Farm, is aware of Vermont's heritage and its relationship to students in the college of agriculture, he said. "Our first business is education. The farm is primarily for teaching, but it serves as a research center to solve the agricultural problems of the state," he reflected. Not only does the farm help to educate students, but it educates adults on a demonstration level.

Though the farm is by no means living in the past, a very human thing is happening on Spear Street. Dr. Smith made it clear when he pointed out that, "If you're active with your animals, that's where your love is."

The farm has a great deal to offer students. Approaching the whole animal kingdom is part of the college's business. To experiment with and improve upon that kingdom is to improve man.

Smith believes that students have noticed that the agrarian way of life has much to offer. "Students get to know themselves through the study of animals," he stated.

"We are becoming more aware of the role that the department of animal sciences can play to meet the needs of the University," Smith explained. How does the college do it? In several ways the college and the farm relate very closely to the University family.

The farm nets some 4000 pounds of milk daily; that is, 500 gallons of milk that supplies the University community with the cheapest form of protein per pound on the market today. At 16 cents per pound, milk certainly has an advantage over steak.

The dairy bar is not a profit maker, Smith revealed; the bar provides an opportunity for students to gain practical experience at the pasteurizer or in the ice cream laboratory. The 25 cent double cone is, in other words, a bargain for the university students, faculty and staff.

Further, the farm has recently initiated a horse club into the barn. The farm makes horse stalls available to the club, but Smith stressed that this is not a riding club and that the educational aspect of the club is a must.

The college offers an evening division course for the person who wants to be a hobby farmer. Smith explained that the philosophy of the College of Agriculture is a philosophy of the total environment, embracing more than a cow's udders. He cited, for example, the fundamentals of a nutrition course that presently enrolls 125 students.

Commenting on the revival of cattle rustling practices here in Vermont, Dr. Smith reported that eight heifers were stolen from Weybridge last year. UVM houses its herd in this community. Recently, 24 calves were rustled from a dairy farm in Weatherford, Bow, Vermont. High point prices pose a threat to UVM's cattle as well, if rustlers should pick the farm as a target.

With the straw ready to harvest, and 37,500 bales of hay under cover, the UVM farm is ready for the 25,000 to 30,000 visitors they receive each year. There are regularly scheduled tours of the farm, but students are welcome to view the operation almost any time.

The University Farm milks their cows at 5 a.m. each morning. They also milk at 4 p.m. each afternoon for those who prefer to rise after the sun.

crossword puzzle

Across

- 1 Sign of the Zodiac
- 4 Key meeting
- 11 Colors radiate from
- 12 Tiresias' place
- 14 Continent (abbr.)
- 16 Sign of the Zodiac
- 17 Service
- 18 "La-La" is
- 20 South African
- 21 South African
- 22 Dutch river
- 23 Combining form: pertaining to
- 24 Word
- 25 Sign of the Zodiac
- 26 Helix
- 28 Contaminable person
- 29 Verbal's Captain
- 30 Shakespeare (abbr.)
- 31 Elementary
- 32 Revolution
- 33 Polytechnic Institute (abbr.)
- 34 Prefix: not
- 35 Reported
- 36 Man's nickname
- 38 Poet
- 40 Animals of a certain sort
- 42 Pampers and
- 43 Pouches

Down

- 1 Rubens
- 2 Turkish sea
- 3 Poles
- 4 Research (abbr.)
- 5 Curves
- 6 And (abbr.)
- 7 Sign of the Zodiac
- 8 Spanish (abbr.)
- 9 Epic poem
- 10 Name of Houston
- 12 God of dance
- 13 Mass hall register
- 14 Old Portuguese name
- 15 West sea stream
- 16 Oxford monster
- 17 function for
- 18 change of
- 19 "It is necessary to use the knife"
- 20 Week's bathes
- 21 Liquid part of any fat
- 22 Sprocket
- 23 Long -- of the
- 24 High pitched
- 25 streptococci
- 26 Deep black
- 27 ally
- 28 Outburst
- 29 Transits
- 30 Sign of the Zodiac
- 31 Egoism
- 32 carefully (abbr.)
- 33 A certain body
- 34 Baby bed
- 35 South to learn
- 36 Old French coin
- 37 Air Force (abbr.)
- 38 State (abbr.)

Sorority Draws Rush Draws Large Number Of Participants For Varied Activities

by Laurie Rapp

Fall 1973 Sorority rush is well under way, with approximately 119 girls participating in this formal rush period.

The festivities began September 5th with the annual Pajama Barbecue which was held on Redstone Green. The following Sunday and Monday, September 9th and 10th the six sororities held an open house for all rushees. Friday, September 14th, the registration period ended, giving UVM women 10 days to sign up.

In a series of three parties, the first of which were held

September 16th through 18th, the sororities put into gear a full fledged mardi gras in the way of food, skills, songs, plenty of gab, and all-round fun. The purpose of the parties is to acquaint both the rushees and the sororities with each other's idiosyncrasies.

The fourth and final parties, this semester held on October 14th through 16th, have many of the same activities as the previous parties. Yet for the most part it is considered by the sororities as a very sobering time which is filled with the rituals of each house. With the sororities putting their best foot forward, on the morning of October 17th, the rushees go to Southwick to ballot and make their final decision.

The ballots are given to the Dean of Women who will then match the rushee's preferences to the choices presented to her by the sororities. In each case the rushee is given her first choice whenever possible.

Every sorority has a quota which sets the number of pledges each house is allowed to pledge. This is set at a number which seems reasonable to permit each house to perpetuate themselves and fluctuates according to the number of rushees and the sizes of the house.

The sororities present their bids to Dean Bribbons in two lists. On the first list is alphabetically listed the house's first choice girls to fill their quota. If a house's first list does not match the ballots of the rushees, the quota for the house is not filled and therefore the second list is put into use.

This list puts the houses second bids in numerical order in order of their preference. The suicides on the list, girls choosing only one house, are given first preference. If they do not fill the quota, then the girls are taken according to their numerical standing. This process is used for each house until every rushee is placed. At the end of the day the bids are distributed to the new pledges and formal rush for this semester comes to a close.

Fellini Film...

(continued from page six)
shown Slaughterhouse Five, and The Ruling Class, to name just two, at their late shows. In the near future, they will have American Graffiti and Heavy Traffic, both of which should be of special interest to the university students.

Express...

and drink beer with three. The talk was fantastic. I was escorted at their the winter. They had a great birds running their country. I can whites for bringing a country - they believe it is me about prisoners of war. When they spoke Swahili, at night because one Key Dis some crime but nothing like. Holiday Inn Casino will bring country.

left for a trip through the. African blacks moved in to. S. Africans later.

Files...

page five) key straight I ing book, I lost my

the sporty bunch.

for year I ar, sweetheart, she

by knee and swear

as Kate, for I'd gh rior year, and

ough college here-or two-get drunk, to

at the Arcade, and at Earl's.

son of a son of a

son of a son of a ow I drink my poverty, the son of

September 30, 1932

tration...

more staff members, rather than deny him the opportunity to take the course. The student has paid his fees; we want to accommodate him. The faculty of the department hoped that the University Administration would be able to supply the necessary staff essential to effectively carry out the many demonstrations - of - the undergraduate and graduate programs," Dr. Severance said.

Seminar on Jewish History
Tuesday evenings at 8 p.m. at Hillel House, 389 College St.
All are welcome. This week:
Joseph Through Moses.

SWEATERS

imports

bags, scarfs & belts

ANNEL SHIRTS

estown

STORE

actory Prices

BURLINGTON

Bank Americard

9 Sat. 9-5

TIRE CO.

ne of new and ummer and alignments

rmont

Station

READS accompanied

RE CO., INC.

RSIDE AVE.

BURL.

UVM Concert Bureau

presents in concert

ROBERTA FLACK

"HOMECOMING"

8 p.m. Sat. Oct. 13

Patrick Gym

Tickets $4 with UVM ID

$5 general admission available at Baileys & UVM Bookstore

greek week

WEEKEND EVENTS

TONIGHT

5:30 PM EXCHANGE DINNERS

7:30 PM SPECIAL GUEST SPEAKER

DR GREGG

235 LIFE SCIENCE

FRIDAY AFTERNOON

LAMBDA IOTA - FADC 3:00

PHI DELTA THETA - FADC - 3:00

THETA CHI - SOUR HOUR - 4:00

SIGMA PHI EPSILON - DRINKING 4:00

FRIDAY NIGHT

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON - RUSH PARTY 7:00 PM

SIGMA PHI EPSILON - DRINKING 8:00

TAU EPSILON PHI - OPEN HOUSE 8:00

SATURDAY MORNING
SATURDAY NIGHT

GREEK GAMES 11:00 AM LAMBDA IOTA

CAMPUS WIDE BAND PARTY featuring ATLANTIS

8-12 MAT LIGHT SHOW

admission 50¢

advance tickets at University Store on the campus

SUNDAY 2:00 PM

TURTLE RACES - OPEN TO ALL

ACACIA FREE BEER

OVP Anoth

by Andrew Morse
We've gotten more unteers than I expected. This was the mark of a recruiter at the Adopt-a-Grandparent bonning the Office Of Volunteer Programs Fair held last week in Billings Center.
Decky Burr, Fair
ordinator, explained the purpose of the fair was to provide publicity for the unteers projects and community agencies. It was a means of recruiting both
M students and artists to work in ongoing

Reorgani

by Bruce Madden
Beginning with the Terence of Fall 1972, a wave discussion concerning reorganization arose and finally culminated in the June 19
Board of Trustees meeting.
This led to the present organizational structure. Under the new plan, the basic change is the splitting of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics into two organizations: the College of Technology and the shifting of splitting of various departments in the various colleges.
Specifically, the old College of Agriculture and Home Economics was split into the College of Agriculture and
School of Home Economics.
The reasons being that Home Economics has grown to be larger than a department and Agriculture and that it is thought that both Agriculture

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Department of Animal Pathology
Department of Animal Science
Department of Botany
Department of Microbiology
Department of Plant and Soil
Department of Resource Ecology
Department of Vocational Education and Technology

Program in Biological Sciences

Related Services
Experiment Station
Extension Service

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND

As is, except:
-Repeate Departments of and Religion created
-Department of Chemistry in from former College of Business Administration and Economics and transferred

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

As is, except that Social Work transferred in from Home Economics

DIVISION OF HEALTH SERVICES

As is, except that Radiology from Program to Department

Moving...

As is, the real reason girls around more than guys is because they played with when they were young because the University
them move.

FOR SALE: 19
Porsche 911
Burgandy, T mechanical conditi
863-4536 da
864-6404 evenings weekends.

TRUCKING
863-6567

DUNHAM'S

campus
boots

MAZEL'S SHOES
100 North Street

OVP Fair Proves Successful; Another Planned For January

by Andrew Morse

"We've gotten more volunteers than I ever expected." This was the remark of a recruiter at the Adopt-a-Grandparent booth during the Office of Volunteer Programs Fair held last week in the Billings Center.

Becky Burr, Fair co-ordinator, explained that the purpose of the fair was to provide publicity for the volunteer projects and community agencies. It was also a means of recruiting both UVM students and area residents to work in ongoing programs and projects. Burr explained that as a result of this fair and the one held last January, over one thousand volunteers have been placed in projects throughout the Burlington area.

Tony Blake, Chairman of the Project Co-ordination Committee, said there were 25-30 projects at the Fair. They ranged from human service agencies such as Vermont Legal Aid to the student founded projects like Free Breakfast. Blake explained that the projects are funded by a seven thousand dollar baseline fund from the Student Association.

Richie Sobel, a UVM student who is project leader for the UVM Big Brother/Sister Program, expressed the feelings of the volunteer agents at the Fair when he explained, "I've been looking for a year and a half for a Big Brother for one of my kids who was difficult to place, and today at the Fair I had enough time and met enough good people to find someone who was really the right person."

The Office of Volunteer Programs serves as a clearing house for Volunteer agencies and projects. It was conceived as "a partnership between students and the University of Vermont administration to make full use of facilities and human resources to meet the pressing human needs that exist in the Burlington area community," in the words of Director Harold Woods.

Becky Burr exclaimed that this September's Fair was the most successful so far and that there would definitely be another in January.

Reorganization Plan Explained

by Bruce Mackinnon

Beginning with the Task Force of Fall 1972, a wave of discussion concerning reorganization arose and finally culminated in the June 1973 Board of Trustees meeting. This led to the present organizational structure. Under the new plan, the basic changes are the splitting of the old College of Agriculture and Home Economics into two colleges: the College of Agriculture and the College of Home Economics. The College of Technology and the shifting of various departments in the various colleges.

Specifically, the old College of Agriculture and Home Economics was split into a College of Agriculture and a College of Home Economics. The reasons being that Home Economics has grown to being larger than a department under Agriculture and that it is thought that both Agriculture and Home Economics could further develop in a more natural environment.

In addition to the split a new School of Natural Resources was created taking the Department of Forestry from Agriculture and then creating or transferring programs such as Resource Economics and Wildlife Ecology. Two programs, Land Management and Water Resources Management are still to be created.

The College of Technology has also been recognized. Now it is called the College of Engineering, Mathematics, and Business Administration. Business Administration was added and Chemistry was transferred to "Arts and Sciences. The reason being that a college needed to be created for the applied versus the theoretical disciplines and hence the new college. The philosophy of applied and theoretical as a criterion for reorganization was started by the Task Force and then continued through the organizational plan approved by the Board of Trustees. Also under the Applied Sciences College will be two new programs: Computer Science and Statistics.

Progress was made in reorganization, but not all the problems were solved. Programs such as biological science and early childhood still exist in two colleges and other crossovers and inefficiencies have not been taken care of yet. However, one of the more important results of the reorganization is the more natural relationships that were created such as the School of Natural Resources and the various splits.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Department of Animal Pathology
Department of Animal Sciences
Department of Botany
Department of Microbiology and Biochemistry
Department of Plant and Soil Science
Department of Resource Economics
Department of Vocational Education and Technology

Program in Biological Sciences

Related Services
Experiment Station
Extension Service

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

As is, except:
Separate Departments of Philosophy and Religion created
Department of Chemistry transferred in from former College of Technology Business Administration split from Economics and transferred out.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

As is, except that Social Welfare Program transferred in from Home Economics.

DIVISION OF HEALTH SCIENCES

As is, except that Radiologic Technology changed from Program to Department

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING, MATHEMATICS AND BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Department of Business Administration
Department of Electrical Engineering
Department of Mathematics
Department of Civil Engineering
Department of Mechanical Engineering

Program in Computer Science Program in Statistics

SCHOOL OF HOME ECONOMICS

Program in Clothing, Textiles and Design
Program in Home Economics Education Program in Housing and Home Management Program in Human Development and Early Childhood
Program in Human Nutrition and Food

SCHOOL OF NATURAL RESOURCES

Department of Forestry
Program in Civil Engineering
Program in Recreation Resources Management Program in Resource Economics
Program in Wildlife Ecology
Program in Land Use Planning Program in Water Resources Management

The Insider ...

(continued from page thirteen)

speed, and moves. Tony Jones, I think that with the right breaks, Tony might be in the green someday. With him is another guy who gives defense a fit, Billy Looker, who has great speed and miraculous agility. Looker is also the team's punter. At tight end there are Lew Hatch, Craig "Leaf" Erickson, and Rick Bennis, who is presently out with a shoulder injury. All three have size and good speed and are developing into fine receivers. Backing these men up at the wide-end spot are Paul Jerry, Billy Hadeke, and Zach Ramsey. At flanker there is Mark Byrne, Mike Brace, and an up-and-coming rookie Ralph "Rocky" Thompson.

All in all, the offense and defense under Coach Falvone are working and building, and getting better every day. There is definitely a tremendous dimension of dedication and faith between the men of this team. Our concentration and spirit are growing stronger each day we are together, in spite of any temporary loss or defeat. In sum, the "Cat Renaissance" has come, and it is part of a team that will never lay down and give up in the things which they believe in.

Action from UVM's cross country triumph over Maine. (Photo: R. R. Low) Record Set In Harriers' Triumph Over Maine

by Tim Marx

Last Saturday, despite chilling temperatures and a driving rain, the UVM cross-country team outdistanced Yankee Conference rival, Maine, by a convincing 23:36 score. The one bright light for the improved Maine squad was transfer student Gerry La Flamme of Haverhill, Mass., who blazed through the 4.4 mile Vermont course in a record time of 22:24, despite drifting off course a few times. La Flamme broke the previous course record of 22:23, held by John McNulty, formerly of Middlebury College.

Stan Dunklee was again top runner for the Cats, finishing second in 22:47, followed closely by Bob Graves and Lynn Capen, both of UVM. Pete Weith and Dave Milligan rounded out the top five for Vermont, placing sixth and seventh, respectively. Ten of the top fifteen runners were Vermont's, attesting to the team's incredible depth. Now 3-0 on the season, UVM's next meet is at Durham, N.H., on September 29, when they clash with UNH.

SCORING: 1. LaFlamme, Me., 22:24; 2. Dunklee, Vt., 22:47; 3. Graves, Vt., 23:00; 4. Capen, Vt., 23:03; 5. Warner, Me., 23:21; 6. Weith, Vt., 23:22; 7. Milligan, Vt., 23:26; 8. Berry, Vt., 23:27; 9. Balatine, Me., 23:28; 10. Whalen, Me., 23:33.

This past weekend UVM's Rugby teams beat Middlebury and St. Michaels by identical scores of 6-0. (Photo: R. R. Low)

Speed Dips...

A rate, which a (registered) vehicle could open by means of a card. This however, would have proved expensive and time-consuming. The third alternative, the dips, was hit upon as the most practical. Also, by installing traffic dips, the road remains open to anyone who wishes to use it.

So if your head is sore from bumping the roof of your car after crossing one of those "dips", remember this is being done for the good of the students. It's your safety they have in mind.

To Avoid Future Tragedies...

(continued from page four)

be punished for what others have gotten away with. A precedent must be set, however, some sort of action which will be powerful enough to serve as a deterrent for similar future transgressions.

Most people believe that impeachment is much too strong a measure and that it would be disastrous for the country, especially trust abroad and at home. I say it is absolutely necessary for impeachment to occur, or at the very least be objectively considered, in order to make at least an effort, one which I think would prove effective, to restore our government to a respectable equilibrium, to erase at least part of this American hypocrisy. Certainly fiscal election controls should be promptly implemented, but we should go further in trying to avoid future tragedies.

Richard Nixon has been effective in several areas of the presidency, but the sheer implications of Watergate makes his impeachment necessary.

The UVM Horse Club will meet at 7:45 p.m. Thursday, September 27 in the MAT lounge. Plans will be made for the Parent's Weekend Program. Also the possibility of having clinics for Club members and the general public will be discussed. Anyone interested in horses is urged to attend this meeting to help with the planning of fall activities for the Club.

Environmental Forum Tomorrow Night

An Environmental Forum will be held September 28, 1973 at 8:00 p.m., Memorial Lounge, Waterman. The topic is "Current Issues in Environmental Health" by Larry J. Gordon, sponsored by the Environmental Program, University of Vermont.

Larry J. Gordon is an environmental administrator of national reputation. Until July 30 this year he was Director of New Mexico State Environmental Improvement Agency. Only one of the many activities in the wide scope of environmental improvement was to tackle the giant four corners generating consortium to reduce to almost zero the particulate, SOx, and NOx emissions.

Hockey

This coming season the University of Vermont Ice Hockey Program will field a junior varsity squad as well as a varsity team. All freshmen, sophomore, or junior students interested in trying out for the squad should report to Coach Jim Crois in Patrick Gym as soon as possible. Forms and further information are available at the location mentioned above.

THE SKI RACK STANDS ALONE IN EVALUATING ALL TYPES OF CROSS COUNTRY SKIS, DOWNHILL SKIS, AND BICYCLE COMPONENTS TO DETERMINE WHAT'S MADE THE BEST AND WHAT IS THE BEST VALUE.

CROSS COUNTRY SKI PACKAGES START AT $54.95.

THE SKI RACK
15 CENTER ST.
DOWNTOWN
658-3313

OPEN THURS. & FRIDAY TILL 9:00

Moving...

Go, the real reason girls move around more than guys is not because they played with dolls when they were young but because the University lets them move.

FOR SALE: 1970 Porsche 911, Burgandy, Top mechanical condition. 863-4536 days, 864-6404 evenings and weekends.

TRUCKING
863-6367

DUNHAM'S

campus boots

MAZEL'S shoes

BLANTASIA

10:30-6:00 107 St. Paul St

small plants for shady rooms
macrame hangers and clay pots

GET HIGH THIS WINTER

Glen Ellen has the highest peak in the Green Mountain National Forest, 2,645 vertical ft. with some of the most challenging skiing anywhere. Special week day rates for all UVM students and extra-low rates for Outing Club and Student Ski Association members (weekends and holidays included).

*Special UVM Season Pass Rate Prior to Oct. 1...$140.00.
*With Glen Ellen Pass, ski 1/2 weekend rate at Mad River on weekdays.

Contact: Jim Pietrovito, Millis Hall, 658-3848, or Steve Brown, Millis Hall, 658-3845. Time payment plans are available.

Used Rare and Out of Print Books
Book Finders Service & Appraisals
WE BUY QUALITY BOOKS
PREFACE BOOKSHOP
94 CHURCH STREET UPSTAIRS
862-3032

Booters Post First Victory After 1-0 Defeat

Bruce Norton scores on one of his two goals during Cats' victory over Plattsburgh.

Mark Heidrich attempting to dribble around UConn defender in 1-0 loss.

Plattsburgh Victims In 6-1 Romp

by Norm Robinson
The University of Vermont soccer team, led by two goal performances from both Bruce Norton and Gary Griffith, romped over the Plattsburgh State Red Cardinals Tuesday by the score of 6-1.

Mark Heidrich got the Cats going by taking a pass from Norton and slamming one home, just two minutes into the game. Norton scored just four and a half minutes later with the assist going to Tim Taylor.

UVM failed to score for the rest of the half, even though Plattsburgh was passing poorly and were seemingly a bit confused. Twice the Cardinals had the wrong number of players on the field, once with too many and the other time with too few. At the end of the half it was 2-0 in favor of UVM.

The Catamounts really got things together in the second half, scoring three times in the first twenty minutes. Gary Griffith scored at 7:27, followed by Norton's second goal of the day at 12:10. Griffith scored again with Norton assisting and it looked like goalie Jeff Jones would get a shut out. But it was not to be. A handball gave Plattsburgh a penalty shot and Mohamed Abdella put it past Jeff to make it 5-1.

Jim Taft scored the sixth and final goal at 39:40 and the Cats had won their first game of the season.

Hustle and good passing, on a slick field from the rain over the weekend, were the keys to the victory that enabled coach Soderberg's squad to run their record to 1-2 on the season.

They will face Boston University this Saturday at A.T. Post Field. Game time is 10:30 a.m.

UConn Too Strong For UVM

by Gene Goldberg

With rain falling throughout the contest, UVM opened its home soccer season last Saturday dropping a tough 1-0 decision to a well-drilled UConn squad.

Both teams, looking for their first victory of the season, came out fired up. The damp, cold rain didn't deter the fans either. A brave crowd of 250 was on hand to witness the first half.

Connecticut, coming off two one-goal losses and UVM looking for their initial score of the season, played evenly in the first half. Both teams had numerous chances to score but neither club was able to finish off their plays. UConn's superior skills were obvious but the Cats held strong. The half ended 0-0.

In the second half, the play grew sloppier as was evidenced by the Huskie goal. On a corner kick, UVM failed to cover all the UConn booters and Bill Cook nudged the ball into the corner of the net past outstretched goalkeeper, Jeff

Jones. Tim Hunter was given an assist on the goal at 8:25. It must be mentioned here that Hunter was a thorn throughout the day. His half-handling and speed kept the Cats perplexed all morning.

Except for the goal-glaring error, the UVM defense performed admirably. Goalie Jeff Jones, in his second start, came up with 13 saves while the UConn netminder, Jon Demeter, registered 10. Bob Cleverdon was the field star for the Cats, playing consistently throughout.

The main problem now for Coach Soderberg's troops is to find someone with the finishing foot. You can't win if you don't score. The Cats didn't even hit the post this week.

The defeat by Bridgeport was supposed to be the shot the Cats needed to propel them. Now add UConn, and maybe the two losses together will comprise the booster the team needs.

The Insider

by Frank Luni

Though last Saturday was tainted by our 26-14 loss to UConn, I would like to finish the second half of this article on the "Cat Renaissance." In spite of that loss, I would like to explain that we will not stay down because there are just too many of us who believe that we are "winners."

Last week I spoke of the defense, though there were two people I failed to mention—Mike Smith, a Freshman linebacker, and Carl Clackson, an outstanding athlete in the secondary. I apologize for leaving them out, as they are very important to all of us.

This week I would like to focus on the offense, beginning with Coach Craddock's "Trenchman" on the tough offensive line. Starting at center is "hard-core" Bobby Weiler. At the guards are Peter Trono (co-captain), a tough "Italian," and the hustling and always articulate Dave Humba. The tackles are Mark Rowe and Dave Iannone, both consistent and reliable players. They are backed up by Ted White, Bob Neal, Chris Henry, Peter Schiller, Gary Orloff and Gifford Hart. These men deserve a great part of the credit for any success the offense has. Without Craddock's "Bruisers," even the best quarterback or running back could not do much. They deserve praise, for they are a hard-working and dedicated group, who continue to improve day after day under the watchful eye and "Marine-like hand" of their spirited coach Bruce Craddock. His exhortations are by far the most colorful ever heard on Centennial Field.

In the backfield, Coach Gene Peck has a diverse talented group of running backs. The corps is led by Mike McCallister, an outstanding junior from the North Country, and senior Steve Conon of St. Albans. Both are good, hustling, hard-hitting backs with range and speed. Right behind them are "agile" Tom Scherrer, quick Sam Blood, freshman Larry Lockwood, hard-hitting Stu Jones, who moved over from defense, and Warren Seaver.

There is another runner I feel I should mention although, due to a back injury, he was sent home during our August double sessions. Gary Van Decar is a senior, and unfortunately will be unable to play his final year at UVM. But Gary's spirit and hustle were, and still are, missed by those of us who knew him during the past three years. He displayed a spirit and savvy both on and off the field which helped all of us. The "man" was always there at his locker, ready to go out and hit. Particularly in the mud, I thought Gary excelled. But even more, Gary excelled by being the person he was. His enthusiasm, dedication, and friendship were very special. He is one individual who has given so much to his team, although he is not playing. "Keep hustling man, cause you'll make it."

At quarterback there has been good competition between Junior Fran "Bunny" Baczek, and sophomore Bob Bateman. Both have passing abilities which rate with any quarterback in the conference. Behind them are two outstanding freshmen prospects in John Margarita and Chuck Casella.

Last but not least, are the receivers coached by Dean Kent. They are a talented group with tremendous potential which I believe, will emerge as the season goes on. They are led by a guy who not only has "soul" but great hands. (continued on page eleven)

Cats Bow To Huskies...

(continued from page twelve)

But the Cats would not give up. Falsene replaced Baczek with Bob Bateman, who ignited the UVM offense.

Bateman came in to complete 7 of 13 passes for 149 yards, while leading the Cats to their final touchdowns. The touchdown came on an eight yard pass to Tony Jones who made a diving catch deep in the end zone. Brunst's conversion closed out the scoring with UConn emerging a 26-14 victor.

Torkelson finished the game with 151 yards on 33 attempts, while Palmer threw for 119 yards leading the Huskies to their impressive victory.

For the Cats, their next game versus Boston University will be extremely important. A loss would drop the Cats deeper into the Yankee Conference cellar with their third straight conference defeat. A victory would give them their first conference victory and could lead them to a successful campaign.

The key to the Catamounts' success will be consistency. The personnel and coaches are there, it is just a question of whether the Cats can put together two halves of solid football. They have shown that they are capable of playing well, but only sixty minutes of well played football will lead to a Catamount victory.

Statistics C UVM
First Downs 15 6
Yards Rushing 175 175
Yards Passing 119 119
Passes 19-10-Q 24
Total Yards 294 168
Return Yards 33 21
Plays 74 57
Fumbles 1-1 4-2
Yards Penished 3-35 4-50
Punts 4-32 S 4-28 R

Soccer Schedule

Sept. 29 (Sat.)	Boston Univ.*	3 p.m.
Oct. 3 (Wed.)	at Norwich	3 p.m.
Oct. 10 (Wed.)	St. Michael's	10:30 a.m.
Oct. 13 (Sat.)	Rhode Island*	3 p.m.
Oct. 17 (Wed.)	Norwich	10:30 a.m.
Oct. 20 (Sat.)	at New Hampshire	3 p.m.
Oct. 24 (Wed.)	Middlebury	10:30 a.m.
Oct. 27 (Sat.)	Maine*	3 p.m.
Oct. 30 (Tues.)	at St. Michael's	10:30 a.m.
Nov. 3 (Sat.)	at Massachusetts*

Golf Schedule

Oct. 6	ECAC Qualifying Tournament, Ellington, Conn.
Oct. 13	ECACC Championships, Cooperstown, N.Y.
Oct. 21-22	Yale Invitational, New Haven, Conn.

Why you should buy the best turntable you can afford.

Chances are you've already put more money into your record collection than into the rest of your entire component system.

That's reason enough to make sure that nothing happens to your records when you play them.

Remember, records are made of soft vinyl, and they're played with a diamond-tipped stylus. And there's nothing harder on this earth than a diamond.

If that stylus can't respond easily and freely to all the contours of the record groove, there's trouble. Especially with the sharp and fragile curves which produce the high frequencies. Instead of going around these peaks, the stylus will simply lop them off. And with those little bits of vinyl go the high notes, your record and your investment.

There's still more to consider. The record must rotate at precisely the right speed, or pitch will be off. The motor must be quiet and free of vibration, or rumble will be added to the music.

In short, the turntable should neither add sounds to a record, nor take any away. And that's the kind of turntable you should want. To get that kind of turntable, we suggest you ask someone you know and trust who really knows components. A friend. A record reviewer. An audio engineer.

Better yet, just visit us.

We'll be pleased to demonstrate the turntable preferred by most serious music lovers. And if you'd like to read about turntables, we'll give you two interesting booklets. One was written by a leading music magazine, and tells you what to look for in turntables. The other was written by various independent test labs, and tells you what they found when they tested Dual automatic turntables.

Then we'll leave it to you to decide if you can afford anything less than a Dual.

Dual 1214 $109.50

Dual 1216 $139.50

Dual 1218 $169.50

Dual 1229 $225.00

~~$498.80~~
$379.95

AT THIS PRICE, YOU CAN JUMP INTO STEREO NOW AND GROW INTO 4-CHANNEL LATER.

For $379.95, you get a Harman/Kardon 30+ Multichannel receiver, Garrard 408 record changer with base, Shure magnetic cartridge with diamond stylus and two Harman/Kardon HK20 loudspeakers. This stereo system normally lists at $490.80. You save over $110.00. If, later on, you want to go quadraphonic, your savings will add up as your channels multiply.

Our 30+ receiver is Multichannel. You won't need to buy an amplifier or a decoder to be quadraphonic. All you'll need is two more loudspeakers. (If you don't have a couple around the house, we'll make you a good deal on an additional pair of HK20's.) By making your buying decision now, you can make your stereo-or-quadraphonic decision later. Harman/Kardon's 30+ lets you switch from two channels to four in as fast as you decide to do it. (The switch is on the back.) You'll find this 30+ system at your nearest Harman/Kardon dealer. Bring in your favorite record and listen to it. If you like the sound of our price on stereo, wait till you hear Harman/Kardon's 4-channel music company.

AUDIO DEN

burlington & middlebury
12 NO. WINOOSKI AVE.
&
50 1/2 MAIN STREET

FISH NETTING • PAPER LAMINATES • EXCLUSIVE SELECTION OF HAND THROWN POTTERY BY NATIONALLY KNOWN POTTERS •

MUGS • MOBILES • INDIA PRINT SPREADS • BEADED CURTAINS • STAINED GLASS • CANDLES •

IMPORTED COFFEE BEANS TEAS & HERBS • DRY FLOWERS OF ALL TYPES •

OVER 100 VARIETIES OF OILS & INCENSE • IMPORTED SOAPS •

LARGEST SELECTION OF HANDCRAFTED JEWELRY •

• SILVER • PLANTERS • VASES •

• POSTERS •

• SEMI PRECIOUS STONES •

GLASS STONE & WOOD BEAMS

A world of intriguing objects from far away places and intricate creations from our foremost native craftsmen. Pleasant aromas, exciting designs, bountiful colors and an atmosphere designed to stimulate your imagination await you in one of Vermont's most exciting shops. Owned and operated by a native craftsman, Serendipity has become a local favorite and an attraction to visitors. Come, enjoy some time with us!

N
W E
S

College St

Union St

Willard St

Winooski Ave

Center St

Western Bldg

UVM Green

SILVER AND GOLD JEWELRY
DESIGNED AND CREATED IN
OUR SHOP BY OWNER
DICK BRUNELLE

EXCITING NEW CREATIONS ARRIVE DAILY AT BURLINGTON'S

Imports From

Israel
Poland
Italy
England
Austria
Thailand
Bangladesh
Pakistan
Iran
Japan
China
Korea
India
Taiwan
Philippines
Turkey
Greece
Mexico
Haiti
Bolivia
Argentina
Paraguay
Ecuador
Peru
Guatemala
England
France
Spain
Portugal
Sweden
Denmark
Switzerland
Germany
Norway
Romania
Hungary
Czechoslovakia
Russia
Morocco
Australia
Canada

Serendipity

206 COLLEGE ST

DOWNTOWN BURLINGTON

'WHERE FINE CRAFTSMEN EXPRESS THEMSELVES'

Four Popular Philosophy Professors May Get The Axe!

News Analysis

Hint Of University Conspiracy

by Jim Bradley

Professors Anderson and Corcoran SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

It was one of those fine fall mornings last week, and Bob Rice was walking to his first class, saying to a friend, "Wow, what a fine day. It's a little overcast, but underneath because you know that pretty soon there will be winter in the breeze." It was one of those fine fall mornings last week, and Bob Rice went to his office in the Philosophy Department. He didn't know that his chairman, Steven M. Cahn, had just been hired by the University and who began his duties at the start of the semester would eliminate 40% of the present Philosophy faculty and the move has raised a storm of controversy and accusations. The four professors, Alan Paskow, Bob Rice, Jerry Anderson, and Jim Corcoran, they didn't know this new chairman had the same thing in mind for them. Rice didn't know, nor did they, that it was just a normal day, a fine fall day, and Rice sat down at his desk and did some work for "The Philosophy of Death," one of the courses he teaches. It's one of the most popular courses on campus.

But the season is new still so you go outside wearing no coat over your shirt, biding time till mid day when it gets warm and real comfortable. It's exhilarating. You go to your first class saying to a friend, "Wow, what a fine day. It's a little overcast, but underneath because you know that pretty soon there will be winter in the breeze." It was one of those fine fall mornings last week, and Bob Rice went to his office in the Philosophy Department. He didn't know that his chairman, Steven M. Cahn, had just been hired by the University and who began his duties at the start of the semester would eliminate 40% of the present Philosophy faculty and the move has raised a storm of controversy and accusations. The four professors, Alan Paskow, Bob Rice, Jerry Anderson, and Jim Corcoran, they didn't know this new chairman had the same thing in mind for them. Rice didn't know, nor did they, that it was just a normal day, a fine fall day, and Rice sat down at his desk and did some work for "The Philosophy of Death," one of the courses he teaches. It's one of the most popular courses on campus.

New Chairman Charges Shoddy Scholarship

by John Francis

Four UVM philosophy professors have not been recommended by Department Chairman Steven M. Cahn for re-hiring in the academic year 1973-74. The action by the Philosophy Department Chairman, who was recently hired by the University and who began his duties at the start of the semester would eliminate 40% of the present Philosophy faculty and the move has raised a storm of controversy and accusations. The four professors, Alan Paskow, Bob Rice, Jerry Anderson, and Jim Corcoran, they didn't know this new chairman had the same thing in mind for them. Rice didn't know, nor did they, that it was just a normal day, a fine fall day, and Rice sat down at his desk and did some work for "The Philosophy of Death," one of the courses he teaches. It's one of the most popular courses on campus.

complaints that they have had little contact with their new chairman, and that it is difficult to see how the chairman could have delivered impartial evaluations of this magnitude in such a short period of time. The recommendations by Professor Cahn have charged each of the professors with academic incompetence. Paskow, Rice, Anderson, and Corcoran maintain that the evidence submitted was highly selective. Also central to the affair is the fact that the four professors involved were in opposition to Professor Cahn's appointment in the first place. The four were successful in mobilizing much of their departmental opposition to the University, specifically Academic VP Al Rollins, and Arist College Dean John Weiger, close to hire Professor Cahn despite the Philosophy faculty's 9-1 vote last spring no confidence in him. The main bone of contention in Cahn's recommendations has been with the written scholarship of the four professors. Evaluations are supposedly made on the basis of three criteria: teaching ability, scholarly endeavor, and community service. In the case of all four professors the recommendations have dealt primarily with unfavorable criticisms of their scholarship. Rice, Paskow, Anderson, and Corcoran have complained that Cahn's evaluations of their written work have been very biased and that he has deliberately ignored the other two criteria: teaching skills and service to the community. Rice's response to Cahn's recommendations has been quite emphatic. He charges that Cahn's evaluation of his teaching skills is "singularly uncharitable," noting that to date 264 students have been admitted to the course and that 104 have requested it. The course, Rice maintains, does have significant intellectual merit, pointing out that he has been invited to present a paper to the American Academy of Religion at their national meeting in Chicago, November 8-11. Rice maintains that the paper on Unamuno of which

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XXI

OCTOBER 4, 1973

NUMBER 18

Senator Proposes New State Board On Higher Education

by John Van Hoesen

Well aware of the politicking that is verbalized between the legislators and the University administration at each legislative session, Sen. Frank Smallwood, R-Windor, has issued a new proposal from the Governor's Commission on Higher Education.

The new proposal would establish a state coordinating board of Post Secondary Education "to provide for more effective planning and coordination of Vermont's postsecondary education programs. The new board would not be set up to plan every detail on each campus, we're not getting into internal details," Smallwood said, "but we're looking at the whole system."

The board would be set up in addition to the University Board of Trustees, and the Vermont State Colleges Board and the new board would either emascuate or eliminate many functions of the two existing boards. For example, the Post Secondary Education Board would make approve new buildings, new programs, and long-range planning. The board would take over student financial assistance programs, presently operated and controlled by the Vermont Student Assistance Corporation.

Additional power could be delegated to the board once it was established, accomplishing the same end as a previous proposal by Smallwood to merge UVM and the state colleges.

A hearing on October 9 at 3:30 pm in Rowell Auditorium will give students a chance to voice their opinions on this issue. The turnout will reflect the need for student participation on the Governor's Commission on Higher Education. In the proposal Smallwood has left the question of who should be involved in the staffing of the new board wide open. The powers and duties of the proposed board as expressed in the Commission's draft proposal of Sept. 11 are as follows:

(1) To collect and disseminate information and statistical data regarding all aspects of postsecondary education in Vermont.

(2) To identify needs and establish state-wide goals and priorities for postsecondary education in Vermont, and to evaluate and report annually to the governor, the general assembly and the public the extent to which public institutions and agencies in Vermont are meeting these needs and goals.

(3) To approve new construction and new degree programs at public postsecondary educational institutions in Vermont.

(4) To review annually the budgets of public postsecondary educational institutions and programs in Vermont and to make recommendations to the governor and the general assembly on these budgets.

(5) To plan and administer all state support programs of postsecondary education, if assistance from Vermont students.

(6) To coordinate enrollment, information, and counseling programs describing educational opportunities available at public and private postsecondary institutions and programs in Vermont.

(7) To plan and administer public postsecondary education programs sponsored by the Community College of Vermont, Educational Television, and Vocational Technical, Grades 13 and 14.

(8) To certify and award degree granting authority to new postsecondary institutions.

and programs in Vermont.

(9) To facilitate the coordination of centralized purchasing by public postsecondary institutions in Vermont and the use of other management practices designed to increase the effectiveness of postsecondary educational services.

(10) To plan and recommend how the state can best assist and utilize private postsecondary institutions and programs in Vermont to help meet the state's needs.

(11) To maintain liaison with the State Department of Education in order to plan and recommend how elementary, secondary and postsecondary programs in Vermont may be related most effectively.

(12) To recommend how Vermont can cooperate with other states and with the federal government in meeting postsecondary educational needs and to allocate funds received under state administered federal and regional grants which are designed to strengthen postsecondary educational programs in Vermont.

That plan, Smallwood contended, is simply designed to create a new planning mechanism. It would not mean a merger between UVM and the state colleges. A merger he stated, would avoid creating a new bureaucratic board.

Looking generally at state coordinating boards, one finds that in order to operate successfully, the board would have to be seen by state officials and legislators as a control over the University. On the other hand, University officials look to the board to cap their operations for programs and funds. The degree to which one is satisfied in this case the board might rapidly become ineffective.

A tendency of such a board could be to push toward uniformity, which could doom all institutions involved to mediocrity.

In collapsing the institutional budget to one figure a coordinating board could limit direct friction between state legislators and University administrators. However, this implies close scrutiny of University

(continued on page eight)

Student Association Senatorial Elections Undermined By Apathy, Lack Of Time

by Barbara Frankel

Marred by apathy and a shortage of time to organize, Student Association elections were held on October 1. Chris Milanesi, newly appointed secretary of elections and, literally, a "staff of one," blamed the lack of student interest on poor timing and organization.

Elections had originally been scheduled for the end of September, but due to a constitutional stipulation pointed out by Senator Dick Cassidy, elections had to be held in October. Milanesi, who only assumed office a few weeks ago, felt the S.A. President, Sig Heller, should have appointed someone last semester. Milanesi also placed part of the blame on the lack of publicity over the summer. He favored stressing the Student Association and S.A. election at Freshman orientation.

Only 800 students voted in the dormitories this week, although Milanesi commended one dorm, Jeanne Mance Hall, for its enthusiasm. Jeanne Mance, an all female dorm which is predominantly freshmen, had five candidates running for senator. Out of 140 residents, 99 voted in the election. Unfortunately, other dorms were not quite so interested. Christie Hall is notable for having only one person vote in the election in which one student ran unopposed. There were nine dorms in which candidates were not opposed. Milanesi was happy about one thing—the first time in several years every person vote in the election in which one student ran unopposed. There were nine dorms in which candidates were not opposed. Milanesi was happy about one thing—the first time in several years every person vote in the election in which one student ran unopposed. There were nine dorms in which candidates were not opposed. Milanesi was happy about one thing—the first time in several years every person vote in the election in which one student ran unopposed. There were nine dorms in which candidates were not opposed. Milanesi was happy about one thing—the first time in several years every person vote in the election in which one student ran unopposed. There were nine dorms in which candidates were not opposed. Milanesi was happy about one thing—the first time in several years every person vote in the election in which one student ran unopposed. There were nine dorms in which candidates were not opposed. Milanesi was happy about one thing—the first time in several years every person vote in the election in which one student ran unopposed. There were nine dorms in which candidates were not opposed. Milanesi was happy about one thing—the first time in several years every person vote in the election in which one student ran unopposed. There were nine dorms in which candidates were not opposed. Milanesi was happy about one thing—the first time in several years every dormitory will have a representative in the senate. Only ten senators competed in the race for the ten positions of town senator. Possibly dormitory will have a representative in the senate. Only ten senators competed in the race for the ten positions of town senator. Possibly dormitory will have a representative in the senate. Only ten senators competed in the race for the ten positions of town senator. Possibly dormitory will have a representative in the senate. Only ten senators competed in the race for the ten positions of town senator. Possibly dormitory will have a representative in the senate. Only ten senators competed in the race for the ten positions of town senator. Possibly dormitory will have a representative in the senate. Only ten senators competed in the race for the ten positions of town senator. Possibly dormitory will have a representative in the senate. Only ten senators competed in the race for the ten positions of town senator. Possibly dormitory will have a representative in the senate. Only ten senators competed in the race for the ten positions of town senator. Possibly dormitory will have a representative in the senate. Only ten senators competed in the race for the ten positions of town senator. Possibly dormitory will have a representative in the senate. Only ten senators competed in the race for the ten positions of town senator. Possibly

Blood Drive

The fall semester Blood Drive will be held in North Lounge, Billings Center, 4pm October 8-10. The Drive, sponsored by Ethan Allen Rifles and Pershing Rifles, will run from 10 AM through 4 PM each day.

All students, faculty staff, and University employees are urged to participate in this event. Each pint of blood will be needed, and may help to save a life.

In this week's Cynic

More On The Philosophy Four—pp.3, 10
Cynic Creative Writing Contest Details—p.5

Table of Contents

Calendar/Announcements	p.2
Cryptquote	p.3
Arts and Entertainment	p.6
"The Good Times"	p.8
Sports	p.12

Photo by Alec Marshall

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar Presents...

October 8 is a day of classes as usual. There is no Columbus Day Holiday this year.

Advance enrollment information will be mailed on the 10th of October to your local address if you haven't turned in a local address to the Registrar yet. Please do so at once.

The Common Hour Exam schedule for this semester has been posted on the Bulletin Board outside the Registrar's Office in Waterman.

Go Fly A Kite

Join us for a kite festival at the UVM campus on Saturday, October 6, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The UVM Flying Kite Club is sponsoring the event. Prizes will be awarded for the largest, smallest, and most unusual kites, and the largest, smallest, and highest flying balloons. Winners must be 18 and be home-made. Even if you don't make one, you are invited to buy one and fly it anyway. Additional information would first be on Wednesday, the 4th, at 6 p.m.

UVM Band Holds Carwash

The University of Vermont Band will hold a fund raising car wash the Saturday, October 6, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at two locations in Burlington. One location is behind the Carrigan Dairy Science Building near Main Street on campus. The other is Ron's Super North Street and North Avenue.

Bike Away For Cancer Society

On Sunday, afternoon, October 7, there will be a "Bikeathon" bicycle riding race for funds for the American Cancer Society. The bicycle race will cover 16 miles and will be a group of own pace event suitable for all the family. The objective is to have many riders and to have each rider secure as many pledges as possible. Each pledge representing so much per mile. Checkpoints will be located at the Lower Restaurants in S. Burlington and Essex Junction and in Colchester. Volunteers are needed in early October to assist in distributing posters and check cards around the area. Chairman for the event is Keith Gardner, 863-4898.

Homecoming At St. Anselm's

The Weekend of October 13th and 14th is Homecoming and Parents' Weekend all rolled into one, and St. Anselm's plans to do its share in greeting the alumni and parents. To start things off, Chaplain Odie will give the Invocation at the University's Welcoming Dinner Saturday evening in Simpson Hall. Then on Sunday, St. Anselm's will have a Sherry Hour after the 11:00 a.m. Holy Communion. Service to welcome and meet all the parents and alumni. Fine chaises and crackers will be served with the wine. Well, it looks to be a high note for the parents and alumni to end their weekend on. Plan now to join in the Eucharist and festivities to follow.

Grants For Foreign Study

The 1974-75 competition for grants for study abroad offered under the Fulbright-Hays Act and by foreign governments, universities and private donors will close shortly. Only a few weeks remain in which qualified graduate students may apply for one of the 500 awards which are available. Full grants, which provide round trip transportation and maintenance are available to 33 countries. Fulbright-Hays Travel Grants are offered to 12 countries, and private donor awards to 33 countries.

Candidates must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, hold a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by the beginning of the date of the grant, have language ability commensurate with the demands of the proposed study projects, and good health. Preference is given to applicants between 20 and 35 years of age. Application forms and further information for students currently enrolled at UVM may be obtained from the campus Fulbright Program Advisor, Dean William H. Macmillan. He is located in 335 Waterman Building. The deadline for filing applications on this campus is October 19, 1973.

Baha'i Club Will Meet

Monday, October 8 at 8 p.m. Introduction to the Baha'i Faith presented by the UVM Baha'i Club. Billings Coal Rm. C All Welcome.

Jewish History Seminar

Seminar on Jewish History. Tuesdays, 8 p.m. Hill House, 389 College Street. Everyone welcome. This week: Moses.

A "Tribute to W. H. Auden" sponsored by the English department will be held on Tuesday, the 9th. Everyone is welcome in Deane's Lounge Old Mill at 8:30 p.m.

St. Anselm's Chapel

Choir Thursday 6:30 p.m. Services Holy Communion Sunday 11:00 a.m. Tuesday 10:00 p.m. (Services Episcopal All denominations welcome) Morning Prayer: Mon-Fri 8:30 a.m. (Ecumenical Service sponsored by the Episcopal and Protestant Chaplaincies).

The Billings Center Governing Board presents the film "Why Man Creates" tonight, October 4, at 7:00 and 8:00 p.m. The film deals with man's creativity—what drives him to create, why he creates, how he creates. Although only a half-hour in length, "Why Man Creates" outlines the process to creativity and does include applied creativity. This film may indeed stimulate your own creativity. Admission is free.

Newman Center Schedule

CUNNINGHAM NEWMAN CENTER. MASS SCHEDULE: Monday-Friday 4:15 p.m.; Monday-Friday 7:30 p.m. and Tuesday: 10:00 p.m. WEEKEND SCHEDULE: Saturday: 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.; Sunday: 9:00 and 11:30 a.m. and 4:15 and 6:30 p.m. BASIC CATHOLICISM Tuesday evening from 7:30-8:30 p.m. TOPIC: continuing with "Who is Jesus?" INSTRUCTOR: Fr. Omer

Homecoming and Parents' Weekend and the fall blood drawing sponsored by Ethan Allen and Pershing Rifles honoraries are on the UVM Calendar for Oct. 8-14.

Lane Series tickets are available for the week's attractions: the horror film "Frankenstein" on Friday, Oct. 5, and the concert, "Two Gentlemen of Verona," on Tuesday, Oct. 9. Film tickets are $1 each or $8 for the series of six films and good seat for "Verona" are still available at $1 and $5. Reservations may be made by calling the Lane office at 656-3418. It might be wise to reserve tickets for the Oct. 15 concert "Two Gentlemen of Verona" a little early.

Vermont's 7th Annual Exhibition of Work by Vermont Artists will remain on view at the Fleming Museum through Oct. 14.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4

4:15 p.m. meeting of Graduate College Faculty; 108 Rowell Building.

7:00 p.m. Prayer, praise and fellowship meeting of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship Room 131, A Building Living Learning Center.

7:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. "Why Man Creates" in North Lounge, Billings, sponsored by Billings Center Governing Board.

Group Encounters Offered

The staff at the Counseling and Testing Center, 146 South Williams Street, are again offering a number of group experiences to UVM students. Maybe you want to learn how to mix more freely in a social situation, maybe you would like a clearer picture of how you come across to others, be able to speak more

Bible Study At Harris

A Bible Study seminar in the Book of Romans is to be held on Wednesdays. The meeting place is the Harris Conference Room, at 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

FADC

Phi Delta Theta is having F.A.D.C. (Friday Afternoon Drinking Club) this Friday and every Friday at 3 p.m. Kegs will be tapped at 3:00 and tequila is served at $2.50. All are invited for a $5.00 donation.

To all S.A. Organizations: If you have a consolidated account, you must follow the rules and procedures applicable to S.A. Accounts. For further information, please see either Ruth Reiter or Steven de Czesnak at the S.A. Office, Billings Center. Thank you for your cooperation.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5

Last day for changes from credit to audit and for withdrawal from Evening Division courses without academic penalty.

1:30 p.m. Sociology majors and potential majors get together at Sociology Building.

4:00 p.m. "Friday at Four" open house at the Arena.

Theatre admission free.

4:00 p.m. Chemistry Colloquium, Prof. C.R. Brundage, University of Bradford, Bradford, England. "Electron Spectroscopy and Surface Chemistry." B 112 Cook Physical Sciences Building.

8:00 p.m. Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick Building for a newcomers workshop. Admission is free and beginners are welcome.

9 p.m. 11:30 p.m. "Roundhouse" is open at Billings Center. This is a regular Friday evening entertainment program in the Catamount Den, basement of Billings Center Folk Guitar.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6

8:30 a.m. regular meeting of the UVM Board of Trustees, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Committee meetings are held the day before the regular meeting of the full board.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 8

10 a.m. 4 p.m. blood drive, North Lounge, Billings Center, sponsored by Ethan Allen and Pershing Rifles honoraries.

1:45 p.m. Radiology conference, Drs. Lincio and Haslow, "Cancer of the Skin," classroom, Mary Fletcher Unit Medical Center Hospital.

7 p.m. introduction to the Baha'i Faith, presented by UVM Baha'i Club, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

7:45 p.m. Women of UVM Home Arts group panel, "The Family in a World of Change," Memorial Lounge.

Waterman Panelists include Dr. Jeanette Folta, assistant dean, College of Arts and Sciences and associate professor of sociology; Dr. Armin Grams, professor of human development; and Dr. Samuel F. Sampson, professor of sociology. Open to all.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9

10 a.m. 4 p.m. blood drive, North Lounge, Billings Center, sponsored by Ethan Allen and Pershing Rifles.

10:50 a.m. Chemistry colloquium, Prof. Schank, Universität des Saarlandes, Saarbrücken, Germany. "Recent Results in the Chemistry of a-Sulfonylethers." B 112 Cook Building.

4:10 p.m. College of Agriculture faculty meeting, 108 Terrill Hall.

7 p.m. Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship study Building A, Room 131, Living Learning Center.

7:30 p.m. SA Speakers Bureau presents Dr. Samuel Popkin, 235 Marsh Life Sciences Building.

7:30 p.m. Lamplighters meet (gospel music and bible inquiry), lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper Halls. Further information from Lynn Rickes, Ext. 2952.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 10

10 a.m. 4 p.m. third and final day of Ethan Allen and Pershing Rifles sponsored blood drawing, North Lounge, Billings Center.

4:5 p.m. Radiology conference, Dr. Peter Holm, "Some Troublesome Fractures," G-300, DeGoesbrand Unit, Medical Center Hospital.

4:30 p.m. Faculty Senate meets, Room 103, Rowell Building.

8 p.m. philosophy lecture, John O'Connor, associate professor of philosophy and former chairman of that department at Case Western Reserve, "Medical Experts and Moral Experts: A study in Medical Ethics," Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.

8 p.m. Con Brio Chamber Ensemble concert, Room 115, Living Learning Center. Adults $2.50, students 75 cents.

8:30 p.m. UVM Folk Dance Club meets at Southwick, free and open to all.

F. O. G. Organizes

The first "F.O.G." Friends of Geology meeting will take place tomorrow, October 5th, at 4 p.m. The organizational meeting in room 101, Geology Building, will be followed by a social hour at Dr. Drake's. All welcome.

Help! Oboist needed desperately for the UVM Symphony Orchestra. If interested contact Dr. Read, music department, 656-2148 or 862-3650.

Ecology Economy Transportation

Exhaust and noise pollutants almost entirely eliminated. Safe, maneuverable, and needs little space to park. Pennies a day for gas and maintenance. Choose from 5 models.

Now available at Scooter Shops 16 Austin Drive Redstone Park Burlington, Vermont Telephone 658-2356

The fun way to go! Distribution nationally by WESTERN SCOOTER DISTRIBUTORS 1800 Camp Ave. - San Francisco, Ca 94116 Tues. - Thurs. 12:30 - 5:30 Sat. 9 - 5

Big play of the game.

It's the real thing. Coke.

Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

Charlestown MILL STORE

Ir. JEANS 3.99-4.99 new shipment Irregular SLACKS 3.99-5.99

Macrame Belts factory prices Main St.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

COLUMBUS WOULD NOT HAVE HAD TO LEAVE

SPAIN IF

DOMINO'S

DELIVERED THERE!!!

CALL

864-7444 WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333 NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

50¢ OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Expires OCT. 10, 1973

Name _____ Address _____ Phone _____

Void if not completed 1 Coupon per pizza

Mckenzi

Dr. Hugh McKenzie

by Margo Howland

Dr. Hugh McKenzie, Chairman of the Special Education Program Area of the College of Education and Dr. Wayne Fox, Coordinator of the Responsive Teacher Program, stated recently that public schools, teachers and the community all share the responsibility of educating their children.

"Our area of study stresses that public schools, teachers and the community must hold accountable for the education of every child. We see our role in special education as helping them. We elevate the teacher's responsibility to this level because we feel that the teacher is capable of the responsibility with appropriate training and support services. We believe that there are unteachable children, declared Dr. McKenzie.

Dr. McKenzie described Special Education as one of the Program Areas in the College of Education. The College Education is made up of Program Areas rather than departments. Dr. McKenzie position thus parallels that of

Pentagon Participates

On Tuesday, October 9, 7:30 p.m. in 235 Marsh Life Sciences, S.A. Speakers Bureau will present Prof. Samuel Le Popkin of Harvard University. Dr. Popkin will speak "Grand Juries, and the Public Right to Know."

Dr. Popkin earned both B.A. in 1963 and his Ph.D. in 1968 from MIT, specializing in mathematical and methodological methods of political analysis. At 30, Popkin is a specialist in Vietnamese village life. He visited Vietnam several times since 1966.

Popkin has, as of November 1972, become the first American citizen scholar to be jailed for disclosing information, now the government believed would have been useful to the successful prosecution of Daniel B. Ellsberg's Pentagon Papers case. Even good friend Henry A. Kissinger

THE

CI

147

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar Presents...

October 8 is a day of classes as usual. There is no Columbus Day Holiday this year.

Advance enrollment information will be mailed on the 10th of October to your local address if you haven't turned in a local address to the Registrar yet please do so at once.

The Common Hour Exam schedule for this semester has been posted on the Bulletin Board outside the Registrar's Office in Waterman.

Go Fly A Kite

Come fly a kite or a hot air balloon! Saturday, October 6, at 1:00 p.m. sponsored by the UVM Outing Club in the field south of Patrick Gym. Prizes will be awarded for the largest, smallest, and most unusual kites and the largest smallest and highest flying balloons. Winners must fly, and be home-made. Even if you don't make one, you are invited to buy one and fly it anyway. Additional info. no word firs are allowed. Stores are ok. The rain date is Sunday, the 7th at 1:00.

UVM Band Holds Carwash

The University of Vermont Band will hold a fund raising car wash the Saturday, October 6, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at two locations in Burlington. One location is behind the Carrigan Dairy Science Building near Main Street on campus. The other is Ron's Sunoco, North Street and North Avenue.

Bike Away For Cancer Society

On Sunday, afternoon October 21st, there will be a Bike-a-thon. Bicycle outing to raise funds for the American Cancer Society. The basic route will cover 16 miles, and it will be a go-your-own pace event, suitable for all the family. The objective is to have many riders, and to have each rider secure as many pledges as possible. Each pledge representing so much per mile. Checkpoints will be located at the Lower Restaurants in S Burlington and Essex Junction and in Colchester. Volunteers are needed in early October to assist in distributing posters and check cards around the area. Chairman for the event is Keith Gardiner 86-1-4898.

Homecoming At St. Anselm's

The Weekend of October 13th and 14th is Homecoming and Parents Weekend all rolled into one and St. Anselm's plans to do its share in greeting the alumni and parents. To start things off Chaplain Odie will give the invocation at the University's Welcoming Dinner, Saturday evening in Simpson Hall. Then on Sunday, St. Anselm's will have a Sherry Hour after the 11:00 a.m. Holy Communion Service to welcome and meet all the parents and alumni. Fine cheeses and crackers will be served with the wine as well. It looks to be a high note for the parents and alumni to end their weekend on. Plan now to join in the Eucharist and festivities to follow.

Grants For Foreign Study

The 1974-75 competition for grants for study abroad offered under the Fulbright-Hays Act and by foreign governments, universities and private donors will close shortly. Only a few weeks remain in which qualified graduate students may apply for one of the 590 awards which are available. Full grants, which provide round-trip transportation, tuition and maintenance, are available to 33 countries. Fulbright-Hays Travel Grants are offered to 12 countries, and private donor awards to 33 countries.

Candidates must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, hold a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by the beginning of the date of the grant, have language ability commensurate with the demands of the proposed study projects, and good health. Preference is given to applicants between 20 and 35 years of age.

Application forms and further information for students currently enrolled at UVM may be obtained from the campus Fulbright Program Advisor, Dean William H. Macmillan. He is located in 335 Waterman Building. The deadline for filing applications on this campus is October 19, 1973.

Baha'i Club Will Meet

Monday, October 8 at 7 p.m. Introduction to the Baha'i Faith presented by the UVM Baha'i Club. Billings Conf. Rm. C All Welcome.

Jewish History Seminar

Seminar on Jewish History. Tuesdays, 8 p.m. Hill House, 389 College Street. Everyone welcome. This week Moses.

A. "Tribute to W. H. Auden," sponsored by the English department will be held on Tuesday, the 9th. Everyone is welcome. In Dewey Lounge Old Mill, at 4:30 p.m.

St. Anselm's Chapel

Choir: Thursday 6:30 p.m. Services: Holy Communion Sunday 11:00 a.m.; Tuesday 10:00 p.m. (Services Episcopal. All denominations welcome). Morning Prayer: Mon.-Fri. 8:30 a.m. (Ecumenical Service sponsored by the Episcopal and Protestant Chaplains).

The Billings Center Governing Board presents the film "Why Men Create" tonight, October 4, at 7:00 and 8:00 p.m. The film deals with man's creativity-what drives him to create, why he creates, how he creates. Although only a half-hour in length, "Why Men Create" outlines the process to creativity and does include applied creativity. This film may indeed stimulate your own creativity. Admission is free.

Newman Center Schedule

CUNNINGHAM NEWMAN CENTER. PRE CANA: MARRIAGE PREPARATION: Wednesday evening, October 3, at 7:30 p.m. TOPIC: Budgeting and Finance; SPEAKER: Mr. Stephenson Walten. FRESHMEN "CREATIVE DISCUSSIONS": Opportunity for Freshmen to create discussions or other group programs that will be helpful to them in their first few months on Campus. Next gathering, at the Newman Center, Monday, October 8, at 8:30 p.m. MORNING PRAYER: Monday - Friday: 8:30 a.m. in the lobby.

Homecoming and Parents Weekend and the fall blood drawing sponsored by Ethan Allen and Pershing Rifles. Honorary are on the UVM Calendar for Oct. 8-14.

Lane Series tickets are available for the week's attractions: the horror film "Frankenstein" on Friday, Oct. 12, and the concert, "Two Gentlemen of Verona," on Tuesday, Oct. 9. Film tickets are $1 each or $3 for the series of six films, and good seats for "Verona" are still available at $3 and $5. Reservations may be made by calling the Lane office at 656-3418. It might be wise to reserve tickets for the Oct. 15 concert, "Two Generations of Brubeck" - a little early.

"Vermont '73: A Juried Exhibition of Work by Vermont Artists" will remain on view at the Fleming Museum through Oct. 14.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4: 4:15 p.m. meeting of Graduate College Faculty, 103 Rowell Building.

7:00 p.m., Prayer, praise and fellowship meeting of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship Room 131, A Building, Living/Learning Center.

7:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. "Why Men Create" in North Lounge, Billings, sponsored by Billings Center Governing Board.

Group Encounters Offered

The staff at the Counseling and Testing Center, 146 South Williams Street, are again offering a number of group experiences to UVM students; maybe you want to learn how to mix more freely in a social situation, maybe you would like a clearer picture of how you come across to others, be able to speak more comfortably in a class discussion, rap with others about what it means to be a male or female, or other goals which can be facilitated in a group situation.

If you are interested in a group experience or have questions about groups, please call Phyllis at 656-3340 or stop in the Center and talk with a counselor.

Bible Study At Harris

A Bible Study seminar in the Book of Romans is to be held on Wednesdays. The meeting place is the Harris Conference Room, at 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

FADC

Phi Delta Theta is having F.A.D.C. (Friday Afternoon Drinking Club) this Friday and every Friday at 3 p.m. Kegs will be tapped at 3:00 and tequila is served at 3:25. All are invited for a $5.00 donation.

To all S.A. Organizations: If you have a consolidated account, you must follow the rules and procedures applicable to S.A. Accounts. For further information, please see either Ruth Reiter or Steven de Czesnak at the S.A. Office, Billings Center. Thank you for your cooperation.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5

Last day for changes from credit-to-audit and for withdrawal from Evening Division courses without academic penalty.

3:30 p.m. Sociology majors and potential majors get-together at Sociology Building.

4:00 p.m. "Friday at Four" open house at the Arena Theatre, admission free.

4:00 p.m., Chemistry Colloquium, Prof. C.R. Brundie, University of Bradford, Bradford, England. Electron Spectroscopy and Surface Chemistry. R. 112-Cook Physical Sciences Building.

8:00 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick Building for a newcomers workshop. Admission is free and beginners are welcome.

9 p.m.-11:30 p.m. "Roundhouse" is open at Billings Center. This is a regular Friday evening entertainment program in the Catamount Den, basement of Billings Center, Folk Guitar.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6

8:30 a.m., regular meeting of the UVM Board of Trustees, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Committee meetings are held the day before the regular meeting of the full board.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 8

10 a.m.-4 p.m., blood drive, North Lounge, Billings Center, sponsored by Ethan Allen and Pershing Rifles.

3:4 p.m., Radiology conference, Dr. Liseto and Haxlow, "Cancer of the Skin," classroom, Mary Fletcher Unit, Medical Center Hospital.

7 p.m., introduction to the Baha'i Faith, presented by UVM Baha'i Club, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

7:45 p.m., Women of UVM Home Arts group panel, "The Family in a World of Change," Memorial Lounge, Waterman.

Panelists include: Dr. Jeanette Foltz, assistant dean, College of Arts and Sciences and associate professor of sociology; Dr. Armin Grams, professor of human development; and Dr. Samuel F. Sampson, professor of sociology. Open to all.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9

10 a.m.-4 p.m., blood drive, North Lounge, Billings Center, sponsored by Ethan Allen and Pershing Rifles.

10:30 a.m., Chemistry colloquium, Prof. Schank, Universität des Saarlandes-Saarbrücken, Germany. "Recent Results in the Chemistry of a-Sulfonyl Ethers." R-112 Cook Building.

4:10 p.m., College of Agriculture faculty meeting, 108 Terrill Hall.

7 p.m., Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship bible study, Building A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

7:30 p.m., SA Speakers Bureau presents Prof. Samuel Popkin, 235 Marsh Life Sciences Building.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet gospel music and bible inquiry, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper Halls, further information from Lynn Ricketts, Ext. 2952.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 10

10 a.m.-4 p.m., third and final day of Ethan Allen and Pershing Rifles sponsored blood drive, North Lounge, Billings Center.

4:5 p.m., Radiology conference, Dr. Peter Holm, "Some Traumatic Fractures," G-300, DeGoesbriand Unit, Medical Center Hospital.

4:30 p.m., Faculty Senate meets, Room 103, Rowell Building.

8 p.m., philosophy lecture, John O'Connor, associate professor of philosophy and former chairman of that department at Case Western Reserve, "Medical Experts and Moral Experts: A study in Medical Ethics," Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.

8 p.m., Con Brio Chamber Ensemble concert, Room 115, Living/Learning Center. Adults $2.50, students 75 cents.

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets at Southwick; free and open to all.

F. O. G. Organizes

The first "F.O.G.", Friends of Geology, meeting will take place tomorrow, October 5th, at 4 p.m. The organizational meeting in room 104, Geology Building, will be followed by a social hour at Dr. Drake's. All welcome.

Help! Oboist needed desperately for the UVM Symphony Orchestra. If interested contact Dr. Reed, music department, 656-2148 or 862-3650.

Ecology Economy Transportation

Exhaust and noise pollutants almost entirely eliminated. Safe, maneuverable, and needs little space to park. Provides a day for gas and maintenance. Chassis from 6 models. Now available at Scooter Shoppe, 10 Austin Drive, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone 656-2385.

The fun way to go! Scooter Shoppe, 10 Austin Drive, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone 656-2385. Opened exclusively by Vermont Government. 1980 Custer Ave. - San Francisco, CA 94104. Tues. - Thurs. 12:30 - 5:30 Sat. 9 - 5.

Big play of the game.

It's the real thing. Coke.

Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

Charlestown MILL STORE

Ir. JEANS 3.99-4.99
new shipment Irregular SLACKS 3.99-5.99

Macrame Belts factory prices Main St.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

COLUMBUS WOULD NOT HAVE HAD TO LEAVE

SPAIN IF

DOMINO'S

DELIVERED THERE!!!

CALL

864-7444 658-3333
WILLESTON ROAD NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

50c OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Expires OCT. 10, 1973

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Void if not completed
1 Coupon per pizza

Mckenzie

Dr. Hugh McKenzie

by Margo Howland
Dr. Hugh McKenzie, Chairman of the Special Education Program Area of the College of Education, and Dr. Wayne Fox, Coordinator of the Responsive Teacher Program, stated recently that public schools, teachers, and the community all share the responsibility of educating their children. "Our area of study stresses that public schools, teachers, and the community must be held accountable for the education of every child. We see our role in special education as helping them to elevate the teacher's responsibility to this level because we feel that the teacher is capable of the responsibility, with appropriate training and support services. We believe that there are unteachable children," declared Dr. McKenzie. Dr. McKenzie describes Special Education as one of the Program Areas in the College of Education. The College Education is made up of Program Areas - rather than departments. Dr. McKenzie points out that parallels that

Pentagon Participates

On Tuesday, October 9, 7:30 pm in 235-Marsh Life Sciences, S.A. Speakers Bureau will present Prof. Samuel Le Popkin of Harvard University. Dr. Popkin will speak "Grand Juries, and the Public Right to Know."

Dr. Popkin earned both B.A. in 1963 and his Ph.D. in 1968 from MIT, specializing in a thesis on a critical methodological methods political analysis. At 30, Popkin is a specialist in Vietnamese village life - he visited Vietnam several times since 1966.

Popkin has, as of November 1972, become the American citizen, scholar, critic to be jailed for disclosing information so the government believed would have been useful to successful prosecution of Daniel Ellsberg. Pentagon Papers case. Even good-friend Henry A. Kissinger.

THE

CI

147

Mckenzie And Fox: There Are No Unteachable Children!

Dr. Hugh McKenzie (left) and Dr. Wayne Fox

by Margo Howland
Department Chairman
Dr. Hugh McKenzie, Chairman of the Special Education Program Area of the College of Education, and Dr. Wayne Fox, Coordinator of the Responsive Teacher Program, stated recently that public schools, teachers, and the community all share the responsibility of educating their children.

"Our area of study stresses that public schools, teachers and the community must be held accountable for the education of every child! We see our role in special education as helping them. We elevate the teacher's responsibility to this level because we feel that the teacher is capable of this responsibility, with appropriate training and support services. We believe that there are no unteachable children," declared Dr. McKenzie.

Dr. McKenzie described Special Education as one of the Program Areas in the College of Education. The College of Education is made up of Program Areas rather than departments. Dr. McKenzie's position thus parallels that of a Department Chairman. "The College of Education made several changes in our program areas last year," Dr. McKenzie began. "Reorganization in the College of Education led to the development of a new undergraduate program to prepare regular classroom teachers with special educational skills. This is the Responsive Teacher Program (RTP). The reasons for the development of the Responsive Teacher Program are threefold. First, the need that the public schools have for teachers with special education skills. For example, in Vermont there are two children in every class who need special education services! Secondly, the interest of students coming to UVM suggested such a program would be utilized. Thirdly, our philosophical position is that most students eligible for special education services can be more humanely educated in the regular classroom with their more fortunate peers."

Dr. McKenzie then discussed the sort of problems that made a child eligible for special education. "Traditionally this procedure that has been referred to as 'labeling' certain children, that will allow him to move from where he is to where he should be, is an emotionally disturbed, or an accelerated rate! The final step examples. Our position, however, is to avoid the use of labels and we do this for several reasons; the major reason being the stigma that may come to the child and his parents with such a label."

"The fact is that the labels do not help us in determining an effective educational program for the child. We have developed a system over the last five years, a non-categorical system, whereby we develop capabilities for achievement in academic and social areas that become standards against which we judge the effectiveness of the educational program for any child."

"If a given child is not achieving at his expected level and the teacher has tried everything within his or her power, then we say that the child is eligible for special services provided by a consulting teacher, a special education professional that our graduate program prepares. In regard to the Responsive Teacher Program, an undergraduate program, one goal would be to increase the responsibility of the graduates of this program to the point at which there would be fewer children in their classes eligible for special services."

"Hopefully they would be able to serve the majority of children inside the classroom without additional professional help," said Dr. Fox, and Dr. McKenzie agreed. "Certainly the goal is to reduce the amount of outside professional help that would be required."

Dr. Fox continued. "Our process of special education involves the implementation of a behavioral model of education. Students in our program learn to apply the behavioral model within their classrooms. The behavioral model includes determining where the child is in a given area of learning, then determining where he should be. The third step is to develop and implement a teaching/learning

Backgrounds Of Anderson, Rice, Paskow, Corcoran Given

by Ron MacNeil

Following are capsule academic biographies of the four philosophy instructors (Gerry Anderson, Bob Rice, Alan Paskow, and Jim Corcoran) whose reappointments have been denied by their department chairman, Gerry Anderson. He has been an instructor at the University of Vermont since 1970. He has also taught courses at Kendall College and Northwestern University while attending graduate school at Northwestern and Garrett Theological Seminary. Gerry was awarded his Ph.D. from Northwestern this past August. His graduate studies have included philosophical theories, Kantian ethics, philosophy of religion, Philosophies of Non-violence, R. G. Collingwood, G. W. F. Hegel and Karl Marx.

His dissertation is entitled "Society and the Individual: A Problem of Social Change and Human Consciousness (with Special Reference to the Philosophies of G.W.F. Hegel and Karl Marx)". Works in progress include an analysis of the Metaphysical Considerations of Non-violence, Individual Freedom in a Technological Age, and a Philosophical Analysis of the Topsy (a comparison of Rousseau's noble savage with the recent anthropological discovery of the Topsy).

Gerry has taught many courses in a wide range within the discipline including Ethical Theory, Social and Political Philosophy, Heidegger on Freedom, etc. He has also taught in the Experimental Program and The Adult Education Program. His departmental duties have included director of the graduate program, advising graduate students, conducting tutorials and directing thesis research.

Jim Corcoran has been teaching at UVM since September 1970 and taught at the University of Illinois for two years before coming to Vermont. Jim received his Bachelor of Architecture in 1965 from the Illinois Institute of Technology. He received his M.A. in philosophy from the University of Chicago in 1967, 1968 to 1970; Bob taught at Western Connecticut State College where he attained the rank of Assistant Professor and was tenured.

Bob received his B.A. from Bowling Green State University in 1964. He received his M.A. and Ph.D. from Brandeis University.

His Ph.D. dissertation is entitled "Joseph Priestley's Materialist Theory of Cognition: Its Evolution and Historical Significance."

Bob's fields of specialization are History of Philosophy and History of Science, especially 18th century psychology and 19th century materialism.

included A.B. magna cum laude Bowling Green, tuition fellowships Bowling Green, "The Outstanding Student" Bowling Green, fellowship Brandeis University.

Bob has taught courses in Epistemology, Introduction to Philosophy, Ethics, History of Modern Philosophy, Intellectual Backgrounds of Modern Life, Introduction to Problems of Philosophy, Education and Propaganda. Bob has been active in student adviser to both graduate and undergraduate students. Additional information and supporting documents are available at the Philosophy Department located at 481 Main Street.

East Asian Cultural Exchange

Tuesday, October 9th, East Asian Cultural exchange will meet in Living Learning Center, building B, room 132. Meeting time is 8 p.m.

Ride Wanted to Hartford, Conn. Area, Friday, Oct. 5. Please call: Nancy, 321 Tupper Hall 056-2953.

The Whole Earth Catalogue calls it-

"A masterpiece. If you don't think you have any questions about your body, you'll probably be surprised. And if you're looking for a stronger, clearer sense of yourself as a woman, you'll be satisfied." — Diana Shugart, The Whole Earth Catalogue

Saturday Review says-

"It's one of those rare books that truly make a difference."

One wants to urge: copies and read with women — and men, too, most of them equally ignorant of the female body — to read it, study it, discuss it with friends, use it as a reference, and perhaps even lend it to a doctor. — Genevieve Stultford, Saturday Review

First prepared and published locally by The Boston Women's Health Book Collective — this great underground bestseller — now published for general distribution — covers such subjects as anatomy, sexuality, birth control, abortion, nutrition, exercise, childbearing, common medical problems of women, and much, much more — all of it carefully researched, clearly illustrated and presented from the women's point of view.

OUR BODIES OURSELVES A BOOK BY AND FOR WOMEN. Touchstone paperback $2.95 • Simon and Schuster.

Pentagon Papers Participant To Speak

On Tuesday, October 9 at 7:30 pm in 235 Marsh Life Science, S.A. Speakers Bureau will present Prof. Samuel Lewis Popkin of Harvard University. Dr. Popkin will speak on "Grand Juries and the Public's Right to Know."

Dr. Popkin earned both his B.A. in 1963 and his Ph.D. in 1968 from MIT, specializing in mathematical and methodological methods of political analysis. At 30, Dr. Popkin is a specialist on Vietnamese village life — he has visited Vietnam several times since 1966.

Popkin has, as of November of 1972, become the first American citizen, scholar and critic to be jailed for not disclosing information sources the government believed would have been useful to the successful prosecution of the Daniel Ellsberg Pentagon Papers case. Even good friends Henry Kissinger and Harvard President Derek Bok, who spoke in his defense, were unable to reverse Judge W. Arthur Garrity's ruling on prison.

Dr. Popkin was originally scheduled to visit UVM last April.

CRYPTOQUOTE

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

For Example: Longfellow
twnonmttwe

In this example, t has been substituted for L, w for o and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

KORR, DP D XERROT MQO KZFWV WNSHOZ, KQJ
TDT JFN EYWKQZ MQO DQFWO?

UESOY MQNZHOZ

Solution to Cryptoquote in the Sept. 27th issue of the Cynic

One man's truth is another man's insanity.
Schaefer and Steinberg

THE LAST CHANCE

A NIGHTSPOT OPEN NOW

OLD TIME MOVIES ON SUNDAY

NO COVER CHARGE

PREMIUM DRAFT BEERS

OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK

147 MAIN ST. HUNTINGTON

THE LAST LOUDSPEAKER IS NOW AVAILABLE AT TECH HIFI.

The news may already have reached you. We're a young company named Ohm Acoustics and we've developed the last loudspeaker.

We believe it's the last loudspeaker in the same sense as the wheel was the last device for transmitting rotary or rolling motion.

Of course, the wheel has been greatly improved since its debut in the Bronze Age. But only in construction. The design itself is unimprovable because it's inherently perfect.

The new Ohm F has the same mathematical finality. It's the absolute loudspeaker, utterly simple and complete. Only its physical makeup can evolve further; the concept is terminal.

The last loudspeaker was invented by a little-understood engineering genius, Lincoln Walsh, who patented it in 1969 (U.S. Patent 3,424,873) and died less than three years later. As exclusive licensees of the Walsh patent, we've spent the past two years developing construction techniques for the invention. The end result is the Ohm F.

The originality and stark simplicity of the Walsh design are apparent at a glance. A single, very steep 12-inch cone, oriented with its apex up and convex side out, is used to reproduce the entire audio range from 30 to 20,000 Hz without crossovers. (Not to be confused with the 2-inch Walsh tweeter made by another company under license from Ohm.)

The cone is made of titanium, aluminum and paper, and it acts as a wave transmission line, completely discarding the classic piston theory of speaker design. Its output is a unique cylindrical wave front, which is kept in perfect phase with the input audio signal at all frequencies. This is "coherent sound", analogous to coherent light from a laser.

No other full-range speaker is a totally coherent sound source, with 360° direct radiation to boot. It's the theoretical ultimate.

The Ohm F comes in a striking, tapered column cabinet, about 3 1/2 feet high, and is priced at $400. (Also available is the $1000 laboratory prototype Ohm A, with an 18-inch Walsh driver that goes down to 20 Hz but requires 350 watts of power.)

As the years go by and the history of the wheel is repeated, the Walsh idea will inevitably filter down to the lowest price ranges.

Meanwhile, the Ohm F is here for those who want to be the first to own the last loudspeaker.

HEAR IT NOW AT

TECH HIFI 150 CHURCH ST.

F. O. G. Organizes

the first "F.O.G." Friends Ecology meeting will take place tomorrow, October 5th, 7 p.m. The organizational meeting in room 101, Geology Building, will be followed by a 2-hour at Dr. Drake's. All come.

Other: Friends of the UVM Symphony Orchestra. If interested contact Dr. Read, department, 656-2148, 362-3650.

Ecology Economy Transportation

Efficient and noise pollution almost entirely eliminated. Safe, maneuverable, and needs little space to park. Powers a day for gas and maintenance. Choice from 3 models.

Now available at Scooter Shoppe 16 Austin Drive Redstone Park Burlington, Vermont Telephone 656-2304

The fun way to go! Distributor courtesy of Vermont Greenways Association, 100 Main St., Burlington, VT 05401. Phone: 725-3000, 7-3000, 7-3000.

Editorial: The Philosophy Four

Philosophy Chairman Steven Cahn's recent recommendation not to renew the contracts of professors Anderson, Corcoran, Paskow, and Rice must be overridden by the students, faculty, and administration. Cahn's actions, if not countered, could further tarnish the reputation of the university as well as set a precedent for future unwarranted firing of professors.

Professor Cahn was selected as chairman of the philosophy department despite the protest and condemnation of nine of the ten professors in the department. The hiring of Cahn represents the administration's continuing policy of disregarding the views and opinions of the faculty and student body.

In 1972 a similar situation arose when political science professor Michael Parenti was denied tenure by the University Board of Trustees. Following this decision objections were raised throughout the university community. But the trustees stood firm on their decision, totally ignoring the judgment of the faculty and student body. Many believed this to be an isolated incident and let this issue die. But recent developments in the philosophy department could prove that the Parenti case was not an isolated event but, in reality, university policy.

The initial action of hiring Cahn in itself appears to be a questionable decision. If the department was so adamantly opposed to Cahn's appointment, what purpose could it serve? From the outset it should have been clear that this was an unwise decision. Then why was Cahn hired? The differences between Cahn and the department are not only political but philosophical as well. Cahn represents analytical philosophy whereas the majority of the department concerns itself with the socio-political school of thought. His appointment could only foster dissension and greatly reduce the effectiveness of the department.

If this hostility and opposition was recognized, only one other conclusion can be drawn - Cahn was brought in to "clean up the department." But how can he evaluate the effectiveness and abilities of professors Anderson, Corcoran, Paskow and Rice in such a relatively short period of time? From student enrollment in their courses it should be clear that these professors stimulate the students and are, in fact, quite effective. Students are extremely critical of professors who do not measure up to standards, and they are quite capable of evaluating their mentors.

Is the University here merely to spoon feed the students with uncontroversial and "appropriate information?" If Cahn's recommendation is not overturned our Institution of Higher Learning will soon be an Institution of Indoctrination. This must be halted before it reaches unmanageable proportions. If not properly handled, this situation could open the doors to future injustices. Professors will no longer express their true beliefs and will inhibit their individual contributions to the University. The University community must stand up and ardently oppose the unnecessary and unfair decision of Cahn.

RS

Change Needed In Collegiate Athletic Scholarship Policy

by Randy Jansen

Athletics have long played an important part in American life and the college scene. It has provided good healthy exercise for the players and wonderful entertainment for the spectators. It would indeed be difficult to imagine UVM without athletics. But the time has come to re-evaluate athletics' role at UVM.

When athletic competition began between colleges, it was often on a friendly basis requiring little time and money. Today athletics is big business with all the financial and personnel problems and high pressure so often associated with big business.

Like big business, the athletic department has a budget involving thousands of dollars. Perhaps the biggest item on the budget is athletic scholarships.

The original purpose of athletic scholarships was to provide financial relief for athletes who without the scholarships might not otherwise have a chance to go to college. For some, this is true today, but for many, athletic scholarships are just an inducement to come and play at UVM and are not based on need.

What exactly is involved in athletic scholarships? What are the rules and limitations?

The Yankee Conference has established certain criteria for its member colleges. UVM being one. Recognizing that all colleges do not have equal spending power, the Yankee Conference limits each member in the number of scholarships it can give out for football and basketball, traditionally the big money sports. The limit for these sports is 20 "units" worth of scholarships between them, with a unit defined as the total of the out-of-state and in-state tuition divided by two, plus the cost of room and board and fees. In the case of UVM, a unit works out to about $2800. UVM can thus give out 20 times this figure for scholarships in football and basketball. There are no unit limits imposed by the Conference for other sports. A unit of scholarship can be divided to cover more than one student athlete. By the same token, one athlete might receive more than one unit's worth of aid.

This policy is designed to curtail the possibility of a monopoly on players by any school and is supposed to equalize the teams.

Athletic Director Dennis Lambert reports that UVM only utilizes 15 units of scholarships for football and basketball combined, rather than the limit of 20.

While there is no limit on scholarships going to athletes in other sports besides football and basketball, UVM gives out only 6 units worth for other sports - 4 in hockey, and 2 in skiing. No scholarships are given in any other sports.

The football and basketball scholarships are on a non-need basis while hockey and skiing are on a need basis.

What does it mean when football and basketball are based on a non-need basis? It means basically that vast amounts of money are spent to induce athletes to play here at UVM. Sure some players need the financial benefit, but many others don't. It has been stated before by some people that no one gets a free ride, but when $3000 is handed out to some individuals it's hardly a "free ride."

As might be expected, football has the highest budget. (In this article the 1972 figures will be used.) Last year $116,000 was spent for football athletic scholarships. The other figures were: basketball - $21,672; hockey - $15,840; and skiing - $15,825.

Can UVM afford this? When UVM has the highest in-state tuition in the Union, one would hardly think so. Is winning the Division I (rather than Division II) championship in football worth over $100,000? Hardly.

Athletics are good, but we must get back to sensible funding. After all, the primary reason UVM exists is to provide an education for its students, especially the Vermonters.

And who are the chief beneficiaries of these scholarships? Of the $116,000 spent on football, only 16 Vermonters are aided. Only two Vermonters share in basketball's budget of $21,672. And in hockey and skiing, eight foreign students and a grand total of three Vermonters are helped.

Should so much money be spent on athletics? I don't think so. Many Vermonters can't even attend UVM due to financial problems while some out-of-staters are encouraged to come here with monetary benefits. A sad situation, but true.

What can be done? For one thing, if scholarships must be given, they should be based on need alone. UVM should have enough good athletes to be able to compete favorably. More Vermont athletes should be aided. This would definitely help support the athletic program of Vermont, especially the high schools. It would encourage high school athletes to attend UVM.

The best solution would be to cancel out all athletic scholarships and give the money to Financial Aid. In this way, students who need financial help would have a better chance of receiving aid. Perhaps some qualified persons would be given a chance for a college education who otherwise would not be able to attend.

Athletics are enjoyable both for the participants and viewers. But is it right to support athletics at the detriment of other programs? What is needed is that we set our priorities to define the role of athletics in terms of what is best for UVM and its students.

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frankl

© COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES-BOX 9411-BERKELEY, CA 94709

Requiem For A Heavy Wait

by Elliot Freeman

Kansas, a motorcycle fiasco, races all night long up and down and all around the main street. Everybody's eyeballs dart and quickly catch the outline of this modern mechanical cowboy as he rides his black marauder through the darkness. He never sees them. There is a movie in his head that he alone is watching. He is the star. Wishing he were dead, he imagines in his head the thrill of seeing himself killed and die the hero. Although the straights would call him scum, all his friends would come, smiling with respect and watch the hero be laid to rest. And that moment of glory would end the story he'd been acting his whole life.

Dick & Bryn & Lisa: A Love Story

by Scott Cahoon

Hello?
Hello, Bryn?
No, this is Lisa.
Could I speak to Bryn, please?

Just a second.
(THUNK...)
Hello?
Hello, Bryn.
Yes?
This is Dick.

From Abnormal Psych.
Oh yeah. How are you?
Fine. Uh, how's it going with you?

Oh, fine.
That's all right, uh, good... uh, I was wondering, uh, would you like to take in a movie tonight?

Hmmmmmm! What movie?
Uh, well I was thinking about going to see The Last Spanish Fly in Acapulco.

Oh, good! Yes, I'd like to. Great. Uh, I guess. The movie starts at 9, so I'll pick you up around 8:30?

Okay.
I guess I'll see ya then, then.
Okay.
See ya.
Bye.

Bye.
(Click... Hummm... mmmmm...)

Hi Bryn.
Hi Dick. C'mon in. I'm just about ready.
You have a nice place here. Yeah. Have a seat.

That's a nice blouse you're wearing.
Thanks. Would you like a drink?

I like your jeans, too.
Uh, yeah. Did you say you wanted a drink?

Wow! With a job like that, your old man must be loaded.
No, thanks. Gee, what nice engravings.

Yeah, uh, why don't you sit down and I'll get ready.
All right. This is a really nice chair.
(Gag...)

And when the regular designers are stuck on a certain problem, they get him to come down and help them out, and he solves their problem and gets them started again. Last month they figured out how to build some bridge in Brazil that four other firms had given up on.

My father has saved up a little money, yes.
I'm sorry, Bryn, I didn't mean to... I mean, I always call my father the old man.

Well, Mother says it shows a lack of respect. What does your father do?

He's a sanitation engineer.
Oh, that must be interesting. You mean he designs sewage treatment plants?

No, he loads garbage.
Well, how was the movie?
Oh, hi Lisa. I didn't think you'd be back yet.

Yes, Paul had to study for a test tomorrow, so I came back early.
Lisa, this is Dick from Abnormal Psych. This is Lisa, my roommate.

Dick?
Whew! Hi, Lisa.
Hello Dick. Bryn, your parents called downstairs while you were gone. They wanted you to call them as soon as you got back.

Oh, dear. I wonder what they want. I'll go down right now. I guess... We don't have our own phone yet... Dick? Are you still with us?

What? Oh, yeah! What'd you say?
I'm going downstairs to call my parents.
Oh, that's nice. I'll be right back.
That's nice.
(Click... click... thud-thud thud-thud thud...)

Well, Dick. How's school going?
Beautiful!

Really? I never heard someone so enthusiastic about school before.

No, I mean you're beautiful. Oh, why thank you. Beautiful hair, beautiful eyes, beautiful nose, beautiful lips.

Now let's not get carried away.
-beautiful legs, beautiful breasts, beautiful thighs-
Watch it, buddy!

-beautiful arms, beautiful hands, beautiful toes, beautiful ass-
I'm sitting down; you can't even see my ass.
Let me kiss it.
What?!

Let me kiss you. Oh, you are the most fantastically beautiful broad I've ever seen!

Kiss my ass!
Oh, please, yes, yes, yes, yes.
Listen. I'm engaged, practically married.

We'll have an affair. I'm not sure you know how. Yes I do. I practice every night.

I'll bet you do.
Go to bed with me, Lisa. Please! I love you!
Be serious. What about Bryn?

I can't go to bed with her. She's Jewish.
I've got news for you, kid. So am I.
Yeah, but you don't look Jewish.

The Devil's If You Think

by Alan

There are two sides to every coin. One side of a particular issue concerns to that they will view. This is the purpose of week I would like to bring up and invite you to respond. It is possible in details, but not reliable from time to time. I will accept full responsibility for the opinions and do not, necessarily, reflect large, nor the executive board.

I have been noting, with October 12th at the University what I mean? This is the time weekend but has now been Parents Weekend. I suspect football fan in the administration field filled before he die outrageous idea of combining Faculty Senate helped out the usual one day Columby keeping the students on camp.

Let me pause here for a schedule rearrangement by a calendar serves me correct, celebrating Columbus Day on day (in fact, all the nation Day, inspired by an act of why in the world don't we You can't blame football, a Faculty Senate actually took which is a shame as I feel mid-semester break. To make day, the Faculty Senate need end of the semester? If this let's bag spring vacation and May (or would that be Apr two days could have been scheduled in the first place? about coming back. And if tradition, I'll bet you at weekend at the same time as Montreal!

I know of others who should Your response is, as usual, w

Girls Will Get Their Ch...

It all started y'ass ago of the earliest settler of D was the homeliest gal in all On her twenty-first birthday, "Pappy, Ah is (w other gal in Dogpatch mah hain'?

"Have patience, dotter! any day now," the old boy Fifteen years later, Sadie got a offer yet! Yo' gotta on yo' hands for the rest of Hekehar replied, "Dotter got a plan!"

So the next day her papp bachelors of Dogpatch and yo' has been man enough take firm measures! Ah de When Ah fires again - at starts a-runnin'. The one Let's go!"

Well, Sadie did catch on of Dogpatch reckoned it Hawkins Day was made an to commemorate the Committee is happy to ad dance on Saturday event the year 1950 to be held

This dance is going to going to ask the fellows at it. Each gal who wants to known only to the few committee. She then or, may phone the guy she stating simply that she (example), and that she w her. He is forced by regu sportsmanship, and by accept the first offer be he is picked up on the Hawkins he has drawn.

A severe infraction Patterson's office relat stockings has been con have been in the habit almost totally nude leg well heed this prematu has always been consid real warm weather has p commented on the slar present. This is ascribed had the entire summer sloven. The freshmen-b to college, and it will correct their faults for by the upperclassmen.

This issue of the Per University. Co-eds swa library, pre-empt the w pursuit of knowledge force us to change ou commerce and econo psychology. When A

The Watergate Affair Has Been Grossly Overrated By All

by Tom E. McCormick, '75

It makes you wonder, it really does. People have been running about in a daze, calling Watergate such nonsense as a "tragedy," and a "governmental crisis." If Watergate is the Great American Crisis, then the turkey should be our national bird.

The Great Depression was a tragedy. And World War II certainly was a national crisis. But describing Watergate in the same terms is mistaking acne for leprosy.

The media have over-reacted to the situation. Bugging isn't right, and composing an "enemies list" is silly-you certainly shouldn't have to run to a list to discover who your enemies are. But to call it a "tragedy" is, let us say, hyperbole.

Worse sins are being committed, in the name of Justice, on behalf of the Watergate Inquiry. For instance, name ten (10), or even five (5), people you know who maintain that Mr. Nixon is innocent. Point: Only one man has implicated him—John Dean—the very same John Dean who authored the "enemies list." Point: The French believe that the burden of proof is on the accused, but the French have also accepted bugging as an arm of government.

Or take Spiro Agnew. He has infuriated the liberal establishment with his hard-hitting speeches. He accused the news media of bias and of prejudicial reporting. But he is now paying for his free speech. The press, the biggest kangaroo court in the country, is conducting a trial-by-news-leak. Remember that a) he has not been indicted and b) there is an indictment behind every "not guilty" decision. But whether or not he is convicted (or even indicted), he will, thanks to the news media, stand as much chance as Pat Paulsen of being the next president.

Or take Howard Hunt. His sentence for attempted burglary is forty years. Forty years! The maximum term for a rapist in Vermont is twenty years. Given the choice, women would rather be overheard than raped. Obviously, Mr. Hunt's term is "cruel and unusual punishment." With law and order sentencing like that, it won't be long before castration is the penalty for rape, and amputation of a hand is the punishment for shop-lifting.

The real tragedy of Watergate has been the miscarriage of Justice in the name of Justice. But it's understandable. A proper response to a serious situation can easily be a gross over-reaction to a petty situation. What's right for the crisis is not necessarily right for the boo-boo.

And, although called a grave situation, Watergate was a boo-boo.

Our New V.P. ?

by Mark Butterfield

The talk of finding a suitable replacement for Mr. Clean has reached the stage of the media attempting to predict who The President will nominate to sit in the office of the Vice-President. One such report has considered "all potential political variables" in an effort to determine the inner workings of The President's mind. The report contends that The President has four possible contenders on a "supporters' list" from which to choose. The results:

- 1) JOHN CONNALLY 57% (of the President's mind)
- 2) RONALD REAGAN 23% (of the President's mind)
- 3) NELSON ROCKEFELLER 19% (of the President's mind)
- 4) HOWARD BAKER 1% (of the President's mind)

The article contends that Mr. Connally is the most likely choice because of his ample experience in avoiding possible indictments. Further, it is seen that The President desires a man who has not been in Court lately, no matter whether it was a criminal or divorce court.

The obvious short-coming of this report is that The President's mind is not functioning as it had in the past. It assumes that The President is capable of making an appointment based on "all potential political variables." His hospital-stay and isolation following John Dean's plea for all citizens to forgive and forget, was necessary to rehabilitate his spirit, in order to hold a press conference and push his enemies around. What happened, however, was that The President's mind got confused during rehabilitation. He treated the enemies' reporter, Dan Rather, to some friendly joshing, but treated his own pressman, Ron Ziegler, to a couple of right crosses.

Because of The President's example, an argument between Land and Seaweed started, and with reports (continued on page five)

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS MANAGER Ruth Hay '74
ASSISTANT EDITOR Barbara Frankel '75
MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74
NEWS EDITOR Bruce Maddern '76
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lisa Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75
SPORTS EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
ADVERTISING MANAGER Loren Wilson '74

NEWS: Doty Andrews, Doug Beardsley, Dave Campaigne, Bill Campbell, Fred Doten, Dan Haslam, Randy Jansen, Jill Markert, Dawn McGinnis, Andrew Morse, Wendy Nelson, Laurie Rapp, Kathy Stammel, John van Housen.

FEATURE: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Carol Dufault, Barbara Friedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Ohlan, Karen Troit.

COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, John Franco, Elliot Freeman, Greg Guma, Ron McNeil, Steven Rice, Jim Stoman, Scott Sweeney, Jim Wisnet.

SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Andy Morse, Alan Patachnick, Norm Robinson, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilenski.

ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Abbi Schaefer, Debbie Vallyou, Joan Westcott.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and Business offices in Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy, ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

The Devil's Advocate:

If You Think This Is Bad, Wait For The Olympics!

by Alan King

There are two sides to every story and everyone has his own idea of how things should be. Perhaps by presenting one side of a particular issue, enough people will become concerned so that they will also want to express their views. This is the purpose of "The Devil's Advocate". Each week I would like to bring up a local, campus-oriented issue and invite you to respond. I will try to be as accurate as possible in details, but some of my sources may be unreliable from time to time and I may have to rely upon hearsay. I will accept full responsibility for this. Once again let me state that the opinions contained herein are my own and do not, necessarily, reflect those of the student body at large, nor the executive board of the Cynic.

I have been noting, with interest, the events surrounding October 12th at the University of Vermont. You know what I mean! This is the time that was once Columbus Day weekend but has now been declared Homecoming and Parents Weekend(s). I suspect it was some ardent UVM football fan in the administration, wishing to see Centennial Field filled before he died, who came up with the outrageous idea of combining these two occasions. The Faculty Senate helped out this poor old soul by dropping the usual one-day Columbus Day vacation in hopes of keeping the students on campus for the weekend.

Let me pause here for a moment and dwell on this schedule rearrangement by the Faculty Senate. Now, if my calendar serves me correct, a great part of this nation is celebrating Columbus Day on the Monday before the actual day (in fact, all the nation is). This means that Columbus Day, inspired by an act of Congress, is October 8th. Now why in the world don't we get the usual October 8th off? You can't blame football, as this is an open date! So the Faculty Senate actually took off the 8th and not the 15th, which is a shame as I feel we really need some kind of mid-semester break. To make up for the dropped vacation day, the Faculty Senate next dropped two days from the end of the semester? If this two for one policy is universal let's bag spring vacation and get out two weeks earlier in May (or would that be April?). My point is this: If these two days could have been dropped, then why were they scheduled in the first place? The whole thing sounds as if it about coming back. And if this combining thing becomes tradition, I'll bet you someone suggests holding the weekend at the same time as the 1976 Summer Olympics in Montreal!

I know of others who share my opinions. What's yours? Your response is, as usual, welcome.

was cooked up because some faculty member had to go somewhere in December and the only flight left two days earlier than he had planned. Why did the Faculty Senate wait until Fall to inform the students of this move? Did it ever come up that some students (myself included) have to plan their activities well in advance and may have had other plans for October 8th? Ponder these thoughts while I go on.

I consider the schedule thing the second best doo-dah perpetrated this semester. The best doo-dah is, of course, scheduling the two weekends which I mentioned earlier, for the same time. Now I would be happy if the parties in question were to write a nice, verbose letter to the Cynic explaining the logic behind the move so that we could all know together. But until that time, I feel justified in bringing to light the darker side of the 12th. By making this move, the parents and alumni have been forced to fight tooth and nail for motel space in the Burlington area. A recent poll of some of the lodging establishments (taken by a fraternity brother of mine feverishly trying to find a place for his parents one whole month in advance) revealed that a significant (p is less than .05) number of establishments would be unable to provide space at this time. In other words, forget about finding a place in the Burlington or South Burlington area. I have been told that there is no vacancy in Williston or Shelburne. I didn't bother asking about Winoski as I didn't know if anything would be left standing by then. Where then were my friend's parents to go? He was directed to the Holiday Inn in Waterbury (not bad if you like long drives and state hospitals). This was a month ago! I admire those who have gone through all the hassles finding a room for this weekend. I don't blame anyone who doesn't want to come back next year. I think that a very poor example has been set in creating these hassles! For the amount of money coming from the Family Assoc. and the Alumni Association, they should be treated better. Go back to separating the weekends!

This will be the first time my parents will have been able to come up for Parent's Weekend. They usually find a room at the Sheraton whenever they come up to Burlington. When they tried the Sheraton on August 10th they found it was booked solid (as was the Holiday Inn, Howard Johnson's, The Ramada, etc., etc., ad infinitum). They were lucky, however, and found a place on Shelburne Road. They were indeed fortunate to try back at the beginning of August!

Next year I will, hopefully, be an alumnus. But if the situation is the same, I'm going to think three or four times

My Reflections On A Decade

by Jeff Ryback

I left Massachusetts not without circumstance, rather, with full knowledge that the conservatives "Hawks call" would somehow affect actions that were once second nature to me. My father was the first to warn me, "son, those small states are like little countries, they don't give a damn about bombs and wars or about the garbage heaped pile upon pile on a Boston sidewalk, they all live in a little dream world." Those were the words I left with, words that hung like a veil of mist, empty, lethargic. "But Burlington has the University," Dad. That's what I told him figuring there was hope that the winds of change were being disseminated more freely in a college town or the availability of newspapers or a television news clip would have some power to chip away at such a nauseating apathy.

The other day I pulled out an old tape I recorded off WBCN in Boston, a tape about the "sixties". Walter Cronkite narrated the tape. It was a haunting recollection, one that evoked ghosts of my undergrad days in Massachusetts. One minute Watts was drenched in a sea of flames and another the "Beatles" were singing "I Want to Hold Your Hand" and there was more. I can remember walking to a radio account of Bobby Kennedy's death and rushing to throw some clothes on to see what was happening at school. No one attended classes on such days and the coffee shops and bars thronged, and noises droned off the walls and fists smashed on tables and people cried. And before Bobby there was Martin and on and on. It seemed there was genuine concern then; maybe it was because we were all vulnerable to the draft, or maybe because Massachusetts was just that way.

I can remember Chicago and the weathermen and the hippies and peace protesters, and I can remember hearing Senator Rubicoff of Connecticut condemning "Gestapo" tactics in the Streets of Chicago; and Bob Dylan's song, "The Times They are a Changing", gave prophetic warnings. And there was more: Vietnam, Civil Rights, Agnew attacks on the media, Columbia, Berkeley, and lies and more lies. Still there were some who found it hard to imagine Nixon's claims in 1968 concerning the war and mending divisive wounds as purely political. Then it came: Nixon (or should I say the United States) invaded Cambodia. I recall driving to school the next day. The first thing I saw was my brother with his hand clenched in a fist in the then "power to the people" symbol. And all the buildings were draped with government condemning banners, and there was an absence of joy. The coffee shop buzzed with revolutionary talk, and the atmosphere was thick with heat. And one by one, college after college shut down.

But the government was not to be denied, so there were court actions against Daniel Ellsberg (Pentagon Papers) and the "Chicago Seven". I remember the "Chicago Seven" lawyer, Kunstler, speaking at our school shortly after the Hoffman trial fiasco. At the time the administration was in the process of dismissing a Spanish professor and a group of students were fighting to take the administration building in protest. In the middle of Kunstler's talk one of the students occupying the administration building burst on stage to condemn the audience for not siding in the fight. Then he said the police were trying to throw them out. It's hard to pin the blame on Kunstler, but he and the whole crowd left the hall to occupy the administration building. Police from three communities, helmeted, carrying night sticks came to the scene. When it was over, the professor was reinstated.

In some ways most of this is past history, memories, depicting a decade drenched in violence, memories most would just as soon forget. And, I must admit, it's easy to do. But then someone will say, "I'm sick of Watergate. Politicians have always been crooks," or "it's just another professor. Ya, he was good but what can I do?" Then it's good to look back the carpet and meander along the blood smeared river of the sixties, and contemplate the fall of the Roman Empire.

FRANKLY SPEAKING...by phil frank

'BUT, MY DEAR SWEET GIRLS, HOW CAN YOU DARLING LASSES THINK I DEAL WITH YOU IN A CONDESCENDING WAY?'

©COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES-BOX 9411-BERKELEY, CA 94709

Vice President...

(continued from page four)

indicating that The President was jubilant over this new White-House-spirit.

Perhaps, then, we should ignore the political expert's illuminations of the possible contenders for Mr. Clean's White House position.

Indeed, a prominent psychiatrist, Dr. Fielding by name, has taken only these mental variable and made these predictions:

1) JOHN DEAN 99%

2) OTHERS 1%

(divided among those on the "enemies list")

Dr. Fielding concluded, that after five years of waiting, we finally have seen the New Nixon at work.

Found In The CYNIC Files

by Sari Bodi

Girls Will Get Their Chance at Sadie Hawkins Dance

It all started y'ass ago—Sadie Hawkins was the daughter of the earliest settler of Dogpatch, Hekzebiar Hawkins. She was the homeliest gal in all them thar hills.

On her twenty-first birthday Sadie complained to her father, "Pappy, Ah is twenty-one y'ass ole today! Ev'ry other gal in Dogpatch mah age is married up. How come Ah hain't?"

"Have patience, datter! Yo'll prob'ly be gittin' a offer any day now," the old boy replied.

Fifteen years later, Sadie tried again, "Pappy, Ah hain't got a offer yet! Yo' gotta git me a husband or yo'll have me on yo' hands for the rest a yo' natcheral life!"

Hekzebiar replied, "Datter, that she would be awful! Ah got a plan!"

So the next day her pappy called together all the eligible bachelors of Dogpatch and announced, "Boys since none o' yo' has been man enough t' marry mah-datter, Ah got t' take firm measures! Ah declares t'day 'Sadie Hawkins Day'. When Ah fires this heah gun—all o' yo' kin start a-runnin'. When Ah fires agin'—after givin' yo' a fair start—Sadie starts a-runnin'. The one she catches 'il he her husband."

Well, Sadie did catch one of the boys! The other spinsters of Dogpatch reckoned as well, which a good idea that Sadie Hawkins Day was made an annual affair.

To commemorate this great day, the Sophomore Class Committee is happy to announce a gala Sadie Hawkins Day dance on Saturday evening the 11th day of November in the year 1950 to be held in the Gym.

This dance is going to be different because the girls are going to ask the fellows and this is how they are going to do it. Each gal who wants to go to the dance is given a number known only to the few persons handling this particular committee. She then or, through an intermediate contact may phone the guy she would like to take to the dance, stating simply that she is Sadie Hawkins, number 41 (for example), and that she wishes him to attend the dance with her. He is forced by regulation, common decency, and good sportsmanship, and by threat of dire consequences to accept the first offer he receives, and does not know until he is picked up on the night of the dance which Sadie Hawkins he has drawn.

October 12, 1950

Beware These Pitfalls

A severe infraction of a rule issuing from Dean Patterson's office relative to the wearing of full length stockings has been commented on. Several young ladies have been in the habit of strolling about the campus with almost totally nude legs displayed. Freshmen girls might well heed this premature warning for this state of undress has always been considered immodest especially after the real warm weather has passed by. English teachers have also commented on the slang expressions which are the rage at present. This is ascribed to the fact that the undergraduates had the entire summer to allow their speech to become sloven. The freshmen have brought their high school slang to college, and it will be extremely difficult for them to correct their faults for they will be given little instruction by the upperclassmen.

October 13, 1933

The Periscope

This issue of the Periscope is dedicated to the men of the University. Co-eds swarm about us in the hall, infect the library, pre-empt the walks and sometimes make our serious pursuit of knowledge a difficult thing. In rare cases they force us to change our courses of study from engineering, commerce and economics or pre-med to one in feminine psychology. When this happens they prove themselves merciless teachers. Sometimes they drop us from their courses and sometimes the University drops us from all other courses. A sad, sad state. Men, let us rebel against it!

October 5, 1928

Letter to the Editor

Isn't it about time to abolish the tradition which frowns upon participation by the women of the University in cheering for our athletic teams, at games?

The chief arguments against vocal support from the women, seem to be that it would indicate a lack of maidenly decorum and mar the strikingly sonorous affect achieved by the masculine section. As for the first—much as we may regret in general the breaking away from conventions—silence is not necessarily one of the essential characteristics of a gentlewoman. The feminine half of Vermont is just as keen for a green and gold victory as are the men, and the martyrdom of silence is almost unbearable since apparently it has no purpose. And to answer the second argument—could we not with advantage sacrifice a little harmony for the evidence of college spirit everywhere on the Vermont bleacher even such an evidence of college spirit as the Middlebury men and women gave us last year?

October 6, 1923

49ers Introduced to Campus
The first Pleasant Freshman Mixer in three and a half

I walk along the streets
the steps I have travelled before,
and will again, perhaps

whistling a soft tune with the evening wind, hearing

somewhere, but who knows where I sleep, tonight?
remembering

last evening's dance with the silent wind.

I walk along the streets,
the steps I have travelled before,
and will again, perhaps

—Steven C. Rice

Cynic Creative Writing Contest

Deadline: Monday, November 12, 1973 12 Noon

Rules

1. Three categories—short story, essay and poetry
2. All UVM students, full and part time, may enter.
3. All entries must be typed, double spaced.
4. All entries to be handed in to Cynic office with name and address on separate paper.
5. Limit of 15 pages on short story, 7 pages for essay.
6. Judges will be 3 faculty members from the English Department: Professors Tom Simone, Alan Broughton, and Alan Shepherd.
7. Winners will be announced in first issue after Thanksgiving vacation, Nov. 29.
8. First prize in each category: $25.00

years, complete with a full quota of ash became a reality last Saturday night, October 6 when UVM's student body gathered en masse at 8 o'clock in the student lounge of Waterman Building.

Midst a deluge of University banners, flowers, musical notes and bobby sox, four hundred students gathered together, warmed to the occasion by Paul Jones, shoe dances, and Sadie Hawkins dances.

October 10, 1945

I WAS IN LOVE WITH A GIRL NAMED CATHY. I KILLED HER.

"It was last summer, and I was 18. Cathy was 18 too. It was the happiest summer of my life. I had never been that happy before. I haven't been that happy since. And I know I'll never be that happy again. It was warm and beautiful and so we bought a few bottles of wine and drove to the country to celebrate the night. We drank the wine and looked at the stars and held each other and laughed. It must have been the stars and the wine and the warm wind. Nobody else was on the road. The top was down, and we were singing and I didn't even see the tree until I hit it."

Every year 8,000 American people between the ages of 15 and 25 are killed in alcohol related crashes. That's more than combat. More than drugs. More than suicide. More than cancer.

The people on this page are not real. But what happened to them is very real.

The automobile crash is the number one cause of death of people your age. And the ironic thing is that the drunk drivers responsible for killing young people are most often other young people.

DRUNK DRIVER, DEPT. Y*
BOX 1969
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20013

I don't want to get killed and I don't want to kill anyone. Tell me how I can help. *Youths Highway Safety Advisory Committee.

My name is _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____

STOP DRIVING DRUNK.
STOP KILLING EACH OTHER.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION - NATIONAL HIGHWAY TRAFFIC SAFETY ADMINISTRATION

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Yes! Yes! To
'No, No, Nanette'

by Karen Trott

How can a touring company, battling against Memorial Auditorium's obvious acoustic setbacks, barely audible singers, dragging tunes and still actors possibly capture their audience within an allotted two and a half hour time span? Monday night's performance made it all quite clear.

More than any old magazine, or old lampshade, or old wig, Nanette possessed the power to transport people back in time. It could carry them back to an earlier day, a nicer day — a day when the air was clean, and young men wore neckties, and orange juice was fresh, and a skeptical maiden would turn aside her boyfriend's compliments with "banana oil!" rather than "bullshit!"

How well said, Mr. Donald Dunn. Nanette is truly an escape of the most irrelevant kind, in which an important issue is whether Nanette will make it to Atlantic City for a hot dog week-end and the air is filled with fiery retorts such as "Oh crackerjack!" and "None of your business!"

In spite of and as a result of the above-mentioned and more, Nanette was lively, entertaining, and truly delightful. The revised 1925 plot centers around Susan Smith (played by Evelyn Keyes) in much the same manner as the ex-Mrs. Al Jolson, Ruby Keeler had in the '71 Broadway revival, wife of Bible publisher Jimmy Smith, who "wants to be happy." He acquires this by spreading his wealth, not only among his wife, word Nanette, nephew-lawyer and legal clerk (who is, incidentally, sweet Nanette's beau), but also among three lovely Gold-diggers, whose presence had to this point been unknown.

Their appearance at the Smiths' Atlantic City cottage scene changes all that, and a merry mix-up ensues, temporarily injuring all parties concerned. With the songs swiftly reeled, the show ends on a naturally happy note: Nanette and her beau become engaged, Sue and Jimmy as well as the nephew-lawyer and his wife are reconciled, and the Gold-diggers exit with a satisfactory profit. In between, there is much singing and dancing on beach balls, in tap shoes, in aqueduct dresses and flouncy skirts. Flappers and their beau lit through the incomparable classic "Tea for Two," and Evelyn Keyes, along with boys, girls and ukeleles, tap away furiously through another all-time favorite, "I Want To Be Happy."

Betty Kean won everyone's heart as the spunky maid Pauline with her explosive vacuum cleaner and quips. With her heels kicking and skirts flying, she added much to the closing dance number, "Take a Little One-Step" ("Eat your heart out!" she bellows over to Sue during her energetic soft shoe.) Also endearing was the innocent, jolly Santa Claus face (sans beard) of Benny Baker, as the extravagant, loveable happy-maker, Jimmy Smith. Although their vocal renditions were disappointing, Denny Shearer and Loni Zee Ackerman, as the lawyer and wife team, moved gracefully within their roles and handled their dancing with the same ease (Miss Ackerman, daughter of the show's controversial "sole" producer Cyrus Rubin, played one of the Gold-diggers in the Broadway run).

Unfortunately, Nanette's sparkle was slightly dimmed in two ways: one being weak voices, often drowned out by the brass orchestration and the other, disappointment in the lack of more tap numbers. After the astounding reception of "I Want To Be Happy," more toe tapping was eagerly awaited in the ensuing acts, which never occurred.

However, thunders of applause did burst out often during the variety of dances, (for which choreographer Donald Saddler won a Tony).

All in all, Nanette was a splendid evening of pure whimsical entertainment. What Mr. Dunn described of its opening night performance still rings true: "Like a bubble, Nanette was designed to float on air, shimmering and spinning in the warmth of the pink and blue floodlights. Let a suggestion of crime in the streets, or drug addiction, or raw sex, for example, make its way into the theater, and the audience would be jerked back to reality. It would be Nanette for what it was — a foolish, mindless, momentary dream. The bubble would burst."

O Lucky Man Found
To Be Tiresome

by Jonathan Lief

O Lucky Man, Lindsay Anderson's film of a young man's adventures in a corrupt world, is predictable, unoriginal, and at times, tiresome. I found myself, simply sitting waiting for one episode to end and for the next to begin, feeling no surprise at what happened. It struck me as yet another counter-culture movie about youth, being disillusioned by unfeeling, materialistic adulthood. Those enamored of this idea are the same people who agree with the establishment, used, and the establishment's belief that Senators and Presidents are no better than legitimized Mafia bosses, men who stop at nothing in their all-consuming quest for power.

As in A Clockwork Orange (I may as well draw the comparison now as later), Malcolm McDowell is raped by the establishment, used, and abused by those with whom he becomes involved. There is even a research clinic, directly reminiscent of the mental institution which so brainwashes Alex in Clockwork; it seems he enjoys playing characters who are experimented with.

The similarity between the two movies is further increased by the use of many of the same actors: I think all the droogs are there incoherent. Of course, the characters of the two heroes, Travis and Alex, are on the surface at least very different. One is a go-getter, a man who wants to make it in the traditional sense (he's a salesman), while the other is the ultra-hood, certainly not a sympathetic figure. Yet Travis is not a likeable person; he is weak, willing to be carried along by the powers that be, and later, too eager to become a part of them. But what happens to Alex occurs with such violence and hammer-like force that one is very easily moved and affected; it is hard not to feel sorry for him, despite his evil. The pace of O Lucky Man is leisurely in comparison, and I was more bored than shocked or frightened at the horrible things that are done to him.

It is probably unfair to compare the two movies in the first place, as it is unfair to expect Lindsay Anderson to be able to bring about on film what Stanley Kubrick does with such eccentric flair. Yet O Lucky Man does not do so well when studied by itself, either. It is far too long, and it does not have the excitement necessary to carry off three hours of often redundant sequences. The progression is from young, hopeful capitalism to equally idealistic Marxism; what could be older than that, what could be less arresting a theme? How original to use as your targets the military, government, and industry, not to mention a roomful of supposedly upright public figures decadently enjoying live pornography and classy whores.

Anderson does add some gimmicks to lighten the viewer's burden. After every scene, and sometimes within one, he blacks out the screen, presumably to indicate the passing from one idea to another (Cries and Whispers?). He also has, at different points, a band playing some fairly good music; of course, all the songs are about injustice and corruption, and, of course, the way the world is, so you'd better learn to screw the other guy first, but at least it's entertaining. Probably the most positive aspect of the movie is the magnificent Scottish scenery, worth seeing the movie for if you're that much of a nature lover.

Wise, Anderson has many of his actors playing several roles, so that the same cruel faces appear throughout — this lends a continuity to the film, and helps to tie it all together. His supporting actors are quite good; Rachel Roberts plays a past-prime seductress with silky smoothness, and Ralph Richardson, though he seems like Ralph Richardson in any other movie, plays an interesting mixture of a mysteriously kind old man, and later, the culmination of all that is ruthless, rich, and cold in our world.

I found the end rather silly, but that's probably my own idealism showing through. At the risk of ruining for some (if you last through the whole thing), Travis finally finds glory and happiness by smiling at all that is wrong; in other words, he accepts the state of things and thus compromises his newly acquired love of mankind. But, of course, this is the basic message of O Lucky Man, assuming that Travis is actually viewed as a hero rather than — as just another corruption; don't fight the system, but instead take advantage of it until you reach the point at which you will be left alone. But do you ever reach that point?

Musical Version Of
Two Gentlemen Of Verona

Joseph Papp of the New York Shakespeare Festival brings his musical version of Shakespeare's "Two Gentlemen of Verona" to Memorial Auditorium on Tuesday, October 9, as the second event in this year's Lane Series.

A limited number of excellent tickets, $3 and $5, are still available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. Reservations may be made by telephoning the office at 656-3418.

Current Lane patrons are reminded that the new curtain hour for all of this year's concerts is 8:00 p.m. (and not 8:30 p.m., as in previous years).

"Two Gentlemen of Verona", the third play that Shakespeare wrote, was his least popular for 380 years — until 1971, when it became one of the biggest hits among his thirty-seven stage productions.

Along with this remarkable hit that was being scored in New York, a national touring company similarly stirred fevers of excitement on its nationwide itinerary — when, at the end of August, 1973, the 15th week of this touring company's engagement drew $181,000 to the box office of the Ammanon Theatre in Los Angeles.

This history of sold-out houses for "The Two Gentlemen of Verona" both in New York and in other cities, should be a warning to theatregoers here that the appearance of another company at Memorial Auditorium may also be an occasion for standing room only.

Will Shakespeare was a young man when he wrote "Two Gentlemen of Verona", which may explain why it's about love. In 33 songs with a modern beat, ranging from rock, calypso to ricky tick, the musical version of the Bard's play celebrates love in all its variations: love requited, love unrequited, love driven away, love found, love of country, love of money, love of way, love of friends and strangers.

Though this may sound as if "Two Gentlemen of Verona" is on the cloyingly sentimental side, it is actually brash; contemporary, unselfconscious. What the Bard wrote nearly 400 years ago has been truly turned into a show of the cynical Seventies.

A company of thirteen principals, plus sixteen singers and dancers, and an onstage group of rock musicians, has been recruited by the New York Shakespeare Festival to bring the show to Burlington as part of a coast-to-coast tour to an even hundred cities this season. The players include Carlos Cestera as one of the gentlemen who depart Verona in search of fortune in Milan, Louis Shaffer as the girl Julia he leaves behind him (but who follows him to Milan), Rozza Wortham as the seductive Silvia he meets in Milan, Judd Jones as the dictatorial Duke; her father, and Alvin Lumm as Silvia's defeated, bitter Egeon.

The show's 33 rousing songs were written by Galt MacDermot, who won international fame through his music for "Hair". The lyrics and adaptation were written by John Guare, award-winning author of the New York hit of 1971 "The House of Blue Leaves"; his co-adaptor and director is Mel Shapiro, who also directed "House of Blue Leaves".

A funny thing happened to the Bard on his way to Broadway: He turned into a thoroughly modern Willie, whose youthful, lightweight comedy — that had never before been done on Broadway (in contrast to the dozens of productions of such other plays as his "Hamlet", "King Lear", "As You Like It", and "Twelfth Night") — this neglected play of Will's became the most delightful musical in town from late 1971 to late spring of 1973.

Lane Film Society Begins
With Original 'Frankenstein'

The 1931 original version of the film "Frankenstein" will open the "Classic Horror Movies" series of the Lane Film Society on Friday evening, October 12, in Marsh Life Sciences Building.

There will be two showings: 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Following "Frankenstein", the series will offer "Dracula", October 19; "The Fall of the House of Usher", October 26; "The Hunchback of Notre Dame", November 2; "The Phantom of the Opera", November 9; and "King Kong", November 16.

Series tickets for the six films are $5, while tickets for individual films are $1. They are on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and at the door. Reservations may be made by telephoning 656-3418.

Starring in "Frankenstein" are Boris Karloff as the Monster and Colin Clive as Dr. Frankenstein. The movie, based on John L. Balderston's stage conception of the Mary Shelley classic, is done by James Whale.

$1.00 SPECIAL $1.00
DOLLAR SHOWINGS

THURSDAY
OCT. 4, 1973
HELLSTROM CHRONICLE
CINEMA 1 + 2
SHELburne ROAD
3:30 PM

TUESDAY
OCT. 9, 1973
LAST TANGO IN PARIS
STATE THEATER
DOWNTOWN
3:00 PM

Living-Lear
Fourth Ann

by Karen Trott

The Con Brio Chamber Ensemble, which met with such great success in the Billings Center last year, will soon present its fourth annual series of concerts in the Commons Building of the new Living-Learning Center. The Ensemble, consisting of faculty members from UVM, Middlebury, Trinity, Castleton State and Johnson State, has prepared a repertoire of pieces ranging from late 18th Century Baroque to 20th Century Urb, hoping eventually to include works by people on the campus or from Vermont.

The selected pieces will require wind and string instruments, along with the harpsichord and piano in a

Apathy In

(continued from page one)

because the election was only held in Billings Center, a total of sixteen votes were cast.

Milanesi had several hopes and suggestions for next year, including holding elections in January instead of September. He advocated this because, "People would then know everyone in their dorms or fraternities and sororities and people interested in running for senator can attend meetings to get a better idea of how the S.A. works." Milanesi further suggested that all people interested in running be required to submit petitions with a certain percentage of their constituents.

One of Milanesi's major complaints was the fact that there was no way of checking who voted how many times since the university no longer issues manila I.D. cards which can be punched.

The first S.A. meeting will be tonight at 6:45 p.m. in Marsh Lounge, Billings Center. Subsequent meetings will take place Tuesday nights at 6:30 p.m. also in Marsh Lounge, Billings.

Milanesi, commenting that a staff could help help help, offered assistance. He added, "If the S.A. was more involved, voting would become more easy to talk someone into being a senator, whether or not they attend meetings is a different story."

Following is a list of new senators:

guy cheng's
CHARLOTTE, VERMONT

Has Expanded

Indian Imports
blazers, pants
Danskis tops
Sweaters

Unusual jewelry

9 - 5:30 Mon. - Sat.
9 - 9 Fri.
1 - 5:30 Sun.

BankAmericard
Mastercharge Welcome

Directions To The Wind Harp

by Carol Dufault

Vermont's Wind Harp, located in Chelsea, is the product of the ingenious creativity of a Goddard College student. Located on a hill overlooking rolling country-side stands the gigantic harp which produces musical tunes as the wind blows. To get to the Wind Harp, take Interstate 89 south to Montpelier, and from Montpelier follow Rte. 302 south to East Barre. In East Barre take a right hand turn onto Rte. 110, which takes you into Chelsea. Turn left at the General Store, and then right 100 yards later passing in front of the Old Court House. Right after the Court House bear left, up the hill to Highland Cemetery, and park your car at the entrance. Follow the dirt road to the left of the cemetery until you reach the top, approximately 20 minutes walking time, and you will be at the Wind Harp. A windy Autumn day, with brilliant foliage is a perfect setting for this 140 mile sound trip outing.

MOVIE GUIDE

Theaters honoring
Cynic Discount Card

CINEMA 1 & 2

BANG THE DRUMS SLOWLY

7:00 - 9:15

GOD SPELL

7:00 - 9:15

FLYNN THEATER

HEAVY TRAFFIC

7:00 PM FRI. + SAT.

7, 9, + 11 PM

STATE THEATER

ROMEO AND JULIET

7:00 - 9:30

SHOWCASE 1 & 2

DOUBLE FEATURE

LADY SINGS THE BLUES

CABARET

continuous from 7:00

"WALKING TALL"

7:00 - 9:20 P

SHOWN EVENINGS 7 & 9:15

The State Theatre presents the return of the greatest love story of all times

PARAMOUNT PICTURES presents

A FILM BY

FRANCO ZEFFIRELLI

Production of

ROMEO

& JULIET

STATE For special group showings and prices call Miss Leary 862-0017

Godspell
A MIRACLE OF A MOVIE MUSICAL
BURLINGTON PLAZA
CINEMA 1 & 2
Eve. 7:00 + 9:15 PM
Mat. Sat. + Sun. at 2:00

Fresh Ground Coffee House
175 Church St. Burlington, VT.
Mon-Sat: 10:00 - 10:00 PM
Sun - 10:00 - 12:00 PM
Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
1.45 Mushrooms Brussels Knickerbocker Bean Soup	1.45 Chicken Stir fry Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Eggplant Pasta Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Sourbraten Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Crisp Potatoes Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Chinese Beef & Pork Mushrooms Barley Soup
Oct. 8	Oct. 9	Oct. 10	Oct. 11	Oct. 12	Oct. 13
1.45 Chicken Casseroles Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Beef Stew Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Lasagna Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Crisp Potatoes Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Enchiladas Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Ham & Cheese Mushrooms Barley Soup
Oct. 15	Oct. 16	Oct. 17	Oct. 18	Oct. 19	Oct. 20
1.45 Sweet & Sour Pork & Vegetables Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Crisp Potatoes Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Hungarian Goulash Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Chicken Potatoes Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Enchiladas Mushrooms Barley Soup
Oct. 22	Oct. 23	Oct. 24	Oct. 25	Oct. 26	Oct. 27
1.45 Sweet & Sour Pork & Vegetables Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Crisp Potatoes Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Hungarian Goulash Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Chicken Potatoes Mushrooms Barley Soup	1.45 Enchiladas Mushrooms Barley Soup

Swiss Chocolate Pot
RESTAURANTS S. Burlington + Stowe Village

Seen above are Mr. and Mrs. James Fayette of Vermont Fruit Company, enjoying dinner at the Swiss Chocolate Pot, which hosted the first dinner of the Vermont Chapter of Les Amis du Vin, a French wine taster's organization. The Swiss Chocolate Pot is open daily 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. all year. Specialties include onion soup maison, escargots, steaks, swissburgers, cheese, beef, lobster and chocolate fondues and our famous chocolate desserts. Also daily luncheon specials. Fully licensed and plenty of parking. Tel. 862-2432-1342 Shelburne Road, South Burlington, next to Valuga Sports. And in Stowe Village, Tel. 253-4622. Bring your appetite... we'll supply the tradition.

THURSDAY
OCT. 4, 1973
HELLSTROM CHRONICLE
CINEMA 1 + 2
SHELburne ROAD
3:30 PM

TUESDAY
OCT. 9, 1973
LAST TANGO IN PARIS
STATE THEATER
DOWNTOWN
3:00 PM

SPS Photo by Chris Groves

Living-Learning Center To Host Fourth Annual Con Brio Concerts

by Karen Trotter

The Con Brio Chamber variety of combinations including two sonatas, two trios, three quintets and a sextet. All four Wednesday evening concerts will appear on the Center's first floor, Commons Building of the new Living-Learning Center. The ensemble, consisting of faculty members from UVM, Middlebury, Trinity, Castleton State and Johnson State, has prepared a repertoire of pieces ranging from late 18th Century Bach to 20th Century Erb, hoping eventually to include works by people on the campus or from Vermont.

The selected pieces will require wind and string instruments, along with the harpsichord and piano in a variety of combinations.

Some open rehearsals have been planned, presenting an exciting opportunity for anyone interested in seeing the musicians at work, along with promoting a true understanding and appreciation of the literature.

At present, the Living-Learning Center is providing the space and handling the management for the musicians. Dr. Brian Lloyd hopes that eventually students and members of faculty of the music department will arrange future recitals here. As for now, the Con Brio, (Latin for "with life"), is indeed a fitting "first" for the Center. And, as Dr. Lloyd points out: "This is just one facet of life in the Living-Learning Center."

Apathy In Senatorial Elections . . .

(continued from page one)

because the election was only held in Billings Center, a total of sixteen votes were cast.

Milanesi had several hopes and suggestions for next year, including holding elections in January instead of September. He advocated this because, "People would then know everyone in their dorms or fraternities and sororities and people interested in running for senator could attend meetings all first semester in order to get a better idea of how the S.A. works." Milanesi further suggested that all people interested in running be required to submit petitions with a certain percentage of their constituencies.

One of Milanesi's major complaints was the fact that there was no way of checking who voted how many times since the university no longer issues manilla I.D. cards which can be punched.

The first S.A. meeting will be tonight at 6:45 p.m. in Marsh Lounge, Billings Center. Subsequent meetings will take place Tuesday nights at 6:30 p.m. also in Marsh Lounge.

Milanesi, commenting that "a staff could've really helped" thanked those few who did offer assistance. He added, "If the S.A. was more involved, voting would be greater. It's easy to talk someone into being a senator, whether or not they attend meetings is a different story."

Following is a list of new senators:

	Proportional Vote
Austin	1.71
Buckham	1.71
Burgess	1.26
Chittenden	1.94
Christie	2.50
Converse	2.17
Coolidge	1.99
Davis	2.41
Hamilton	1.99
Harris	3.27
Jeanne Mance	2.03
Living/Learning A	1.68
Living/Learning B	1.68
Living/Learning C	1.51
Living/Learning D	1.68
Living/Learning E	1.68
Marsh	1.58
Mason	1.99
Mullis	3.63
Patterson	1.96
Redstone	.48
Robinson	.59
Simpson	2.17
Slade	.35
Tupper	2.57
Wilks	2.30
Wills	1.78
Wing	2.30
Wright	2.09
Alpha Chi Omega	.56
Alpha Delta Phi	.69
Delta Delta Delta	.56
Gamma Phi Beta	.34
Kappa Alpha Theta	.72
Pi Beta Phi	.63
Acacia	.39
Alpha Gamma Rho	.20
Alpha Tau Omega	.20
Delta Psi	.63
Kappa Sigma	.07
Lambda Iota	.35
Phi Delta Theta	.31
Phi Gamma Delta	.28
Phi Mu Delta	.21

(continued on page eight)

Music Review:

Tull In Multi-Media Show

by Bruce Madden

Jethro Tull has got to be one of the best performing groups today — a dynamic coupling of musical and acting talent as well as visual effect.

The last stop of their career was Friday and Saturday night at the Boston Garden. Because of the many bad reviews given Passion Play their newest album, they are stopping all their concerts and are going to start work on a film.

The stage was set all in black with the backdrop a huge movie screen. The lights went out and out came Livingston Taylor as a backup to Jethro Tull. Taylor played for half an hour and showed the talent and mastery of guitar and banjo. After a standing ovation and 15 minutes of stage preparation the arena was set for Jethro Tull. The show started with a white pulsing beam of light at the screen and a rhythmic thumping in the background. The intensity of sound and light climax in balls of red and orange. A ballerina then appeared on the screen lying on her back, just like the one on the cover of Passion Play.

The pulsing still continued as she began to move and perform on the screen. In the meantime Jethro Tull snuck on stage in the darkness. The ballerina plunges through a window and the band strikes up for a solid hour of Passion Play. Because the acoustics of the Boston Garden leave something to be desired, the group didn't sound as good as they should. But the addition of multicolored spotlights and short movies of the ballerina on the screen overcame the deafness of the acoustics and turned it into a total experience of the senses. Passion Play concluded in a thunder of applause that would scare anybody away from writing a bad review about their concert.

Taking his bows, Ian Anderson, Mr. Jethro Tull, announced his next selection as the narrative about Gerald Bostock, Thick as a Brick. They played at least half an hour of this, with Ian Anderson oscillating between superb performances on folk guitar and flute.

After allowing for some ego-boosting applause, Jethro Tull whipped into Aqualung as the audience sat entranced (probably just drunk and stoned) throbbing and clapping to every beat of the music. Their performance concluded, the group left in an onslaught of cheering, clapping and foot-stomping.

Out of the darkness appeared 5,000 matches, lighting the whole garden. Jethro Tull returned for the encore in another tumult of clapping. They whip into cuts of My God, Hymn 43, Wind-Up and Locomotive. After a heavy first encore they returned again for a second one featuring John Evan on piano and organ.

Jethro Tull took their final bows and the lights go on, revealing the smoke and carnage of the ecstatic audience after three and a half hours of solid music.

Anderson, Mr. Jethro Tull, announced his next selection as the narrative about Gerald Bostock, Thick as a Brick. They played at least half an hour of this, with Ian Anderson oscillating between superb performances on folk guitar and flute.

After allowing for some ego-boosting applause, Jethro Tull whipped into Aqualung as the audience sat entranced (probably just drunk and stoned) throbbing and clapping to every beat of the music. Their performance concluded, the group left in an onslaught of cheering, clapping and foot-stomping.

Out of the darkness appeared 5,000 matches, lighting the whole garden. Jethro Tull returned for the encore in another tumult of clapping. They whip into cuts of My God, Hymn 43, Wind-Up and Locomotive. After a heavy first encore they returned again for a second one featuring John Evan on piano and organ.

Jethro Tull took their final bows and the lights go on, revealing the smoke and carnage of the ecstatic audience after three and a half hours of solid music.

No, Folk Dancing Isn't Square ; Club Plans Trip To Yugoslavia

by Jeff Blum

If someone were to ask you what folk dancing was, what would you say? Most people would probably say it had something to do with a guy crying out above the sounds of clapping hands and a awkward accordion player: allemande left, allemande right, swing your partner, dosido, promenade around to go. In this case that description might not hold true. Contrary to popular belief, it's not always square dancing and it doesn't take place in a barn or grange hall, but in the Southwick ballroom on Wednesday nights from 8:30 until 11:00.

The program is of a recreational nature, designed to take on new people who have little or no knowledge in the field of European or Slavic dance. The group is very active within the community, giving shows for area functions. The performing part of the group appeared in A Midsummer Night's Dream for the Shakespeare Festival held at the Arena Theater, and this Friday there will be those going to the Octoberfest which is being held in Stowe, Vermont.

SPS Photo: Greg Bolbin

The group is in the process of planning a costume Halloween party, and are looking into the possibilities of a trip to Yugoslavia next year.

So, for those of you who are interested, you might drop into Southwick some Wednesday night. If you'd like to know a little bit more about folk dancing, maybe you could catch Ben Bergstein when he's not too busy. He can be found in the graduate office on the first floor of Waterman. It's a great way to meet people. Dancing as a means of communication — did you ever think about that?

entertaining as they are varied. Anyone wishing to make suggestions or propose a performance may see Dr. Feidner, whose office is presently located in the Arena. The University Players, a group of interested theater people on campus, will be meeting weekly to discuss new possibilities. All meetings are open, and the only major qualification is interest. The next scheduled meeting will be Sunday, September 30 at 11 A.M. with news of future meetings also posted on the board.

The aura of excitement will remain at high pitch with second semester's newest addition to the UVM campus. In January, a Royal Tyler Symposium is scheduled for the grand opening of its namesake's theater. In addition to regular theater operation, that of moving involved yet another area for students wishing to participate. In any case, one thing is certain: either as spectator or participant, theater this year is not to be missed.

Players Prepare Final Arena Productions

by Karen Trotter

Someday soon, instead of catching five winks at the library or a cup of coffee at the Den, walk on past...to where the pavement is painted, and inside a darkened theater lies in waiting. —Chaplain's own Shakespeare has been tucked away for one very last time below Fleming Museum's portals as the Arena prepares its final semester of student productions. Having run the gamut from Mephistopheles' menage to Mount Sinai, the now empty stage will glitter in Fifteenth Century style with the opening of Christopher Fry's The Lady's Not for Burning, Nov. 1 through 5. Although tryouts have already taken place, much help will be needed from this time to that in other areas, including lighting, costuming and stage construction.

Unfortunately, many will shun such jobs, considering them to be less glamorous and less important. Unfortunately, indeed, they may be missing out on one of the most valuable and memorable experiences any college can offer. Only in the theater can boards and paint turn a barren stage into a castle, bolts of cloth into a queen's ensemble and a network of wires and bulbs into a sunset. True, it's not that simple; it takes ingenuity and hard work to perform such feats, and the magic of the end result will last only a few nights. What will last however, are the memories, experiences, knowledge and above all, friends—for no one in the theater works alone.

One need not be an upperclassman, theater major or University Players member to try out or work behind a production. Indeed one with such qualifications will find he has no precedence, for performances are not credited. Although unnecessary, scripts are usually available for pre-readings, and all who try out will be heard.

In addition to The Lady's Not for Burning, which will be Dr. Nancy Haynes' directing debut, a record of eleven one act plays will be produced within the first semester, with tryouts in early November. These will require a variety of settings as well as up to forty different characters. For information about rehearsal, construction and costuming schedules, check the bulletin board (past the double doors and down the hall) for time, place, locations and names of people to see. Another opportunity outside of one-two-three act plays presents itself in "Friday at Four", where a number of theatrical and musical experiments take place, as entertaining as they are varied. Anyone wishing to make suggestions or propose a performance may see Dr. Feidner, whose office is presently located in the Arena. The University Players, a group of interested theater people on campus, will be meeting weekly to discuss new possibilities. All meetings are open, and the only major qualification is interest. The next scheduled meeting will be Sunday, September 30 at 11 A.M. with news of future meetings also posted on the board.

The aura of excitement will remain at high pitch with second semester's newest addition to the UVM campus. In January, a Royal Tyler Symposium is scheduled for the grand opening of its namesake's theater. In addition to regular theater operation, that of moving involved yet another area for students wishing to participate. In any case, one thing is certain: either as spectator or participant, theater this year is not to be missed.

Who's Roberta Flack? She's Coming To UVM

"Roberta who? Never heard of her," is how Les McCann introduced Roberta Flack on her first album, First Take. That opening, however, no longer applies, because who hasn't heard of Roberta Flack? Since then First Take has won a Grammy and two more fabulous albums have been added to an already sparkling career—a career which is soon to include an unforgettable evening right here in UVM's own Patrick Gymnasium. Roberta Flack is coming to Burlington!!! The date is Saturday, October 13th; showtime is 8pm; and the tickets will be available at the door until 8:30 the night of the concert. The incomparable McCann sings her praises: "Roberta possesses both as a singer and a pianist that rare quality which carries the listener beyond every barrier as though it never existed, to that level at which every human can truly hear..." "I was in love," says McCann, "we all were in love, she has the voice...and her voice touched, tapped, and trapped and kicked over every emotion I've ever known. I laughed, cried and screamed for more. And more—and more—and more—more—more." When Les McCann first heard Roberta Flack sing he was glad to be sitting down because, as Committee HEW has exerted pressure on UVM to hire more women and minority groups, so the Administrative Policy Committee recommended setting aside a sum of money to fill vacancies with women and minority members.

London explained that the incentive fund would bar no one, but act as a prize for individual departments. Several questions were raised with respect to the constitution of the committee, tenure, positions and unfair advantages existing because of the nature of specialization in each department. The issue was described by London as a continuing one, and no decisive action was taken.

The Administrative Policy Committee is also seeking information on long-range planning for the University and would appreciate the faculty's views on the subject. The Financial Policy Committee recommended to Prevailing Problems In Faculty Senate . . .

President Andrews that salary letters should spell out increases due to the rise in the cost of living and other natural increments. Dr. Robert Sinclair, reporting for the committee, set down seven premises concerning early retirement. They are: 1) Early retirement is a desirable fringe benefit; 2) Early retirement is a privilege and all employees should contribute to its funding; 3) Early retirement should be available to all eligible faculty and staff; 4) The plan should be mandatory; 5) Misuse of an early retirement plan to replace tenured faculty would be a mistake; 6) Funding by removing high salaried professors and hiring low salaried professors would save money; 7) The early retirement age desirable would be 55 to 58 years.

The Fringe Benefit Committee conveyed that work was progressing on an increased coverage insurance program. Tenure will be delayed a while longer, Dr. N. James Schoonmaker reported, because of detailed reappointment procedures. In other routine deliberations, Dr. G. Roy Horst, Assistant Professor of Anatomy, was elected secretary of the Senate. Also degrees were approved for those students who completed degree work this summer. Before adjourning, Chairman Roth announced that the next meeting on October 10 would see the election of a new chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee.

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER
Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction

of Verona

The players include Costers as one of the men who depart Verona rich of fortune in Milan, as the girl Julia sees behind him (but who is him to Milan), Rozza as the seductive Silvia in Milan, Judd Jones as dictatorial Duke, her and Alvin Lumm as a defeated suitor show's 33 rousing songs written by Galt MacPherson, who won national fame through his for "Hair". The lyrics adaptation were written by Galt, award-winning of the New York hit of "The House of Blue". His co-adaptor and is Mel Shapiro, who directed "House of Blue".

any thing happened to hard on his way to work. He turned into a highly modern, witty, youthful, lightweight play — that had never been done on Broadway contrast to the dozens of sections of such other as his "Hamlet", "King Lear", "As You Like It", and "Twelfth Night" — this adaptation of Will's became most delightful musical in from late 1971 to late of 1973.

Frankenstein

Film "Frankenstein" will series of the Lane Film October 12: in Marsh Lounge, 9:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. The series will offer of the House of Usher, "Notre Dame," November November 9, and "King are $5, while tickets for on sale in the Lane Office. Reservations may be made

AL $1.00
OWINGS

IRONICLE

AD

PARIS

R

guy cheng's
CHARLOTTE, VERMONT
Has Expanded
Indian Imports
blazers, pants
Danskis tops
Sweaters
Unusual jewelry
9 - 5:30 Mon. - Sat.
9 - 9 Fri.
1 - 5:30 Sun.
BankAmericard
Mastercharge Welcome

TUT'S
248 North Street
Burlington, VT 05401
"A NICE LITTLE JOINT"
SALTY DOG
PRESENTS
JOHN CASSEL
OCT. 5 & 6
JOHN CASSEL & BAND
OCT. 7
Just off route 100 half way between Smugglers notch & Jeffersonville

TORTILLA FLAT
317 Riverside Avenue
ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD
*Tostada Plate With Rice $1.95
*Combination Plate Taco, Enchilada, Rice and Beans $2.35
*Special Combination Chicken Taco, Beef Taco, Cheese Enchilada, Guacamole Salsad, Rice & Beans $3.45
*Tamales Plate Chili, Rice and Beans $1.95
*Taco Plate (3) Beef and Chicken $1.95
*Enchilada Plate (3) Plate Cheese, Beef and Chicken $2.00
*Two drinks and chili $1.95
*Chicken and rice $1.95
We Have Take Out Service
Telephone 863-9230
TORTILLA FLAT
317 Riverside Avenue

FRESH MUSIC for HOMEMADE JAMS
We sell all musical instruments
35% off
Call Kenny - Flip 656-3084 after 5:00

Auden, 'Genuine Poetic Voice,' Is Dead At 51

by Sidney Poger

W. H. Auden, universally acknowledged as the best living poet in English, became a poet, as he tells it, almost by accident. He was on his way to becoming a mining engineer. "One afternoon in March at half-past three / When walking on a ploughed field with a friend / I was turned to me / And said, 'Tell me, do you write poetry?' / I never had, and said so, but I knew / That very moment what I wished to do." The remark may have been casual but Auden's dedication never wavered from that remark in 1922 until his death last Saturday.

Auden was one of the genuine poetic voices of the century from his early interest in poetry through his interest in psychology and Freud and less well-known practitioners such as Freud to his conversion to Christianity in 1946. His intellectual journeys were matched by his physical ones, for visiting Berlin, Ireland, Spain, China, and the United States in which he settled in 1939 and where he became a citizen in 1946. Since 1957, he spent half the year in the Austrian town of Kuchelstein, population 800, and the other half in New York City, whose bustle and polyglot population he dearly loved.

Auden's poetry, the center of a highly varied work which included criticism, plays, songs for highly acclaimed film scripts, is marked by a sense of highly-developed play. Auden was one of the most facile technicians in poetry. Christopher Isherwood once remarked, "You could say to him: 'Please write me a double ballad on the virtues of a certain brand of toothpaste which also contains at least ten anagrams on the names of well-known politicians, and of which the refrain is as follows: 'Within twenty-four hours, your ballad would be ready - and it would be good.'"

This facility led him into problems, the temptation to make a rhetorical point sometimes proving too much for his highly developed sense of truth. Thus he often revised his poetry, throwing poems which people highly approved of but of the canon of his work, and keeping poems, which his defenders would gladly have

Auden also said what every teacher in college must often think:

Just the same, I am very glad I shall never be twenty and have to go through that business again. The hours of fuss and fury, the conceit, the expense. A poet who describes the human condition without the concomitant emotion runs the risk of being read only for his wit and not for his insights and sympathies. And that would be a great loss. Auden is best known nowadays for one title which characterizes our recent post: The Age of Anxiety. But words of a dead man / Are modified in the guts of the much more. And the only way to discover that is to read his poems. When a poet dies, he becomes his poems. And "The Higher Education Board.

THE GOODTIMES

(continued from page one)

departmental roles. If initiative and creativity could be stifled, and mediocrity established in an institution, caution should be stressed.

The ultimate problem is that the institution wants more money and the legislators shout for more efficiency. How to mediate the two is a crucial development for any institution.

A coordinating board could be successful if its members were carefully chosen. It could be successful if it refused to concern itself with day to day campus activities and events.

Smallwood, expressing rather cheerfully that "hopefully you learn by your mistakes," urged the University community to attend the October 9 hearing.

Senatorial Elections

(continued from page seven)

Sigma Alpha Epsilon	46	Mike Henry
Sigma Nu	53	Paul Bogosian
Sigma Phi	42	Steve Burk
Tau Epsilon Phi	28
Theta Chi	17	Andy Seiple
Sigma Phi Epsilon	59
TOWN SENATORS
3.64	Thomas Bird	3.64	Fred Lager
3.64	Mark Casella	3.64	Bruce Lashlev
3.64	Dick Casady	3.64	Sue Smallwood
3.64	Priscilla Elder	3.64	Earl Thorgalsen
3.64	Paul Goodman	3.64	Frank Von Turkovich

Students Donate Meals To Hungry Children

by Andrew Morse

UVM students responded favorably to the need of the undernourished children of the Burlington area by donating 8000 meals in the September pledge drive and at the recent O.V.P. Fair. SAGA credited $2,747.00 (the total cash value of the meals) worth of surplus food to the Free Breakfast Program.

The free meals are the result of many efforts. Local merchants donate paper products (plastic utensils, paper plates). Money from banks and private donations combines with SAGA's surplus food supplies (eggs, milk, flour) for breakfasts for undernourished children.

Volunteers prepare and serve the meals every school day from 7 am to 9 am at schools: Edmund, Thayer and The Mobile Classroom. There are thirty active members now but more are needed.

The Free Breakfast Program was conceived last year by Mario Macias and Jean Sausville. The Bread and Law Task Force (an organization which helps nutritionally underprivileged people acquire food coupons and meals) aided Macias and Sausville in organizing Free Breakfast and students feared their meals were not being used.

Sausville emphatically pointed out that "absolutely no meals were wasted." But due to misconceptions about this procedure, a new pledging system was installed this year.

Now meals are pledged at prescribed times, namely during drives and at OVP Fairs. Sausville expressed hope that the next drives, planned for the first weeks of October and November will have as much success as did the September drive and the O.V.P. Fair pledging so far this year.

Administrators Find Out Who Came To Dinner

"Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" is now "guess who came to dinner" for most of the participants. The program, sponsored by Women of UVM and IRA, seems to have been a success for all concerned. The reaction was very enthusiastic and many voiced hopes to see it continued in the future.

The general idea for such a dinner originated in Public Relations, with Larry Van Benthayen. The three people instrumental in the organization of the evening were Gail Feitelberg, from Women of UVM, Mary Ashcroft of IRA, and Bill Root, director of student activities. They compiled lists of faculty, lists of students, master lists and cross-check lists. The faculty members indicated the number of students they wanted and these people matched up each one by number. The selection was done randomly in the hope that each faculty member would get a good cross-section of students. The committee covered itself by sending each faculty member a list of students and their phone numbers, with the request that they get in touch with them to set the hour of the dinner. In turn, each student should have gotten notification of the faculty member to whom he was assigned.

Unfortunately, there were some students who signed up too late and could not be placed. The publicity for GWCD didn't really hit until the second week in September, according to Mrs. Feitelberg, and that hurt the response. On the whole, though, everyone was pleased with the number of people that participated.

Approximately 70 faculty (including members of the Board of Trustees, Dept. Chairmen, secretaries, medical residents, and officials of the Administration) volunteered, while the students numbered about 300.

The accent of the evening was informality. Sandy Forsman, a freshman, and guest of Vice-President and

Mrs. Rollins, said the evening was "comfortable... a good way to make contact with the administration. It was much easier to talk than in an office - and the food was good - quite a change from SAGA!" Bruce Schukman, a junior and guest of the Drs. Coffin, commented on the food too, noting "the Coffins are people I would never see around UVM since one is in the College of Medicine and the other is a pediatrician. I enjoyed the evening very much."

There are others who haven't had the chance to go yet. Marcie Vasquez, a freshman, and a foreign student, said she was looking forward to it sometime this week, as did Mary Ann Merrill. John Garvin, a grad student, had some thought-provoking comments. He and his wife were guests of the Don Wilsons. John was "pleased with the co-ordination of the entire program. It also provides access to people you would not normally see... you tend to become too restricted in your own little world at UVM. Since this dinner was not associated with a formal school setting, questions could be posed and answered much more candidly." He would like to see the dinners continued on a monthly basis.

The faculty had comments too. Anne MacMillan, wife of Dean MacMillan, said she "had a great time. I was impressed by the students. We had an opportunity to meet undergrads, (Dean MacMillan heads the Graduate College) and we thoroughly enjoyed it."

John Woodson, whose husband is in the Anthropology Dept. felt it was a good thing - "good for the beginning of the semester and good for new students. One of our guests suggested that it be a reciprocal dinner - that the students should have the faculty over to eat with them."

Marilyn Osborne in Home Ec. has been doing this on her own, but Sunday "I had five students who were absolutely new to me. It's good to meet people from outside and we had a good time." Dr. Case, in Education, had "a delightful evening - good fellowship and good conversation. I would like to see this continued. It's a chance to meet a cross-section of students that you normally would not run into on campus."

Mrs. Feitelberg expressed the hope that "Guess who's coming to dinner" would become a tradition. She felt that although there is no reason it can't be a friendly place, and that this type of event would help to make it that way. Since this year's dinner proved such a success, plans are already underway for one next year.

TIME Magazine reports: "Gallo's Pink Chablis recently triumphed over ten costlier competitors in a blind tasting among a panel of wine-industry executives in Los Angeles."

Time Magazine November 27, 1972 page 81

More than a Rosé.

CLASSIFIED ADS

"Help! Beach Boys' 'Smiley Smiles', 'Kinks' 'You Really Got Me', 'The Kinks' 'You Really Got Me'. Know where they're sold? Will even take mono. Call Al, evenings 864-5673."

Found Dog: Black Labrador 1 year old, found Sat. outside Simpson, Jim Andrea 307 Mason 656-3007.

Neil of Springfield Vt. Long Trail 9/3 contact Steve Leach 821 Cambridge Rd. Colchester Ohio 43812 614-622-3024

Wilson T2000 tennis racket frame 1 year old, hardly used, excellent condition - $20 firm - call Jane 862-1724 after 6.

What do you own? Do you know? (furniture, china, etc.) I am equipped to make photographs, inventory, for insurance. David Widen, 863-2466.

Roommate wanted for two bedroom apartment with kitchen, living room, bath. A 4 minute walk from UVM campus, 53 Brooks Ave. Call anytime 864-5059.

Artists-Inexpensive studio space available. Central Burlington location. All mediums, for information contact workshop co-operative 425-3203.

For Sale: 1967 Ford Van, big engine, excellent condition. Needs owner for $650.00. Call Chris Brown at 864-7007.

Pianist Wanted. UVM's Women's Gymnastic team desires services of a skilled pianist to play short pieces for floor exercise routines. Should be able to read sheet music, modulate, develop transitions from one piece to another, keep steady rhythm, and so some improvisational work. Knowledge of gymnastics and dance desirable but not necessary. Mrs. Szabo 866-3240 or 866-3241.

FOR SALE: 1970 Porsche 911, Burgandy. Top mechanical condition. 863-4636 days, 864-6404 evenings and weekends.

Hobbyists-Experimenters...for the FIRST TIME EVER from MOTOROLA HEP LED 7-Segment Numerical READOUTS

Only $9.98 per kit!

In addition to four readouts, the HEP-5 kits include custom circuit designs and parts lists for a digital clock, a voltage converter and a digital stop watch. All of this for $9.98 per kit.

SEE YOUR NEAREST HEP SUPPLIER TODAY for a de-lightful surprise.

LAFAYETTE RADIO • OWNED and OPERATED by L.E.S. • Now Open 10 am to 9 pm • 370 SHUTBURN ROAD • 658-4616

The Issues In The Recommendations Of Philosophy Faculty Dismissal

(continued from page one)

Cahn was an critical, was a rough draft, a point which Cahn ignored, and was circulated as such in order to elicit constructive criticism from colleagues before its completion. The final version of this paper will be used in his presentation to the American Academy of Religion.

Rice also claims that Cahn has neglected the fact that he is now working on another paper concerning death entitled "Socrates and English Natural Religion" which will be presented at the UVM Symposium this December.

Rice contends that the charge that he is too enamored with the subject of death is also unfounded. He points out that he also offers courses in Philosophy and the Theory of Organic Evolution, and in Education and Propaganda. Rice also maintains that the interdisciplinary nature of his courses further belies the contention that he has a fetish for death courses.

Professor Rice served as the de facto head of the department last year, services to the University for which he asked no compensation, and which, he contends, Cahn completely ignored.

PASKOW Chairman Cahn's criticisms of the performance of Professor Alan Paskow were also, directed at Paskow's written work. Paskow, unlike the other three professors reviewed, is up for tenure consideration, and, thus, his review was even more rigorous.

Cahn reviewed two of Paskow's three written works, the third of which he refused to consider because it was not a "strictly philosophical" work. The article "Are College Students Educable" indeed wasn't pure philosophy, Paskow admits, but it was favorably received by the noted philosopher Robert Raul Wolf as a serious attempt to reflect on the methods of teaching world philosophy and other subjects as well. Whereas Cahn accused Rice of being too parochial, he reversed himself and accused Paskow of not being parochial enough.

The first of Paskow's papers that Cahn did consider is entitled "The Meaning of My Own Death." Cahn referred the work to a Professor Rachels, a colleague, and to Professor Harries of Yale whom Paskow recommended review it. The paper was, according to Cahn, "considered extremely questionable by my outside reader (Rachels)." Professor Harries, states Cahn, "considered the paper questionable in some aspects of its presentation... and weakest in its critical section."

Paskow maintains that it is not surprising that Rachels gave the work a poor review because Rachels is of the Analytic school and the paper was a Phenomenological work. These two schools of thought, Paskow contends, are as incompatible as oil and water, and thus he feels that Rachels' judgement most likely would have been unfavorable.

Paskow points out that Robert Paul Wolff, who is not of the Phenomenological school, read the paper but refused to comment on it, questioning his own ability, given his own philosophical orientation, to give fair and meaningful remarks. Paskow maintains that Rachels should have done the same. He also maintains that Cahn was very selective in interpreting Professor Harries' comments, that he chose only Harries' negative criticisms and not his positive comments. The paper, says Paskow, will be published in the International Philosophical Quarterly, a prestigious publication which is, in terms of its circulation, among the top six philosophical journals in the recommendation. "I disagree with Professor Wolff. UVM cannot afford to take such a gamble. The time for gambling is over." Paskow points out that Cahn ignored the section of Wolff's statement which said "because tenure decisions are made early in a philosopher's career it is always necessary to make a gamble," thus misconstruing its context.

Anderson

The ostensible rationale for refusing to grant Professor Gerry Anderson another year at UVM was the "mordant" amount of time Anderson required in order to complete his doctoral dissertation.

Anderson planned to have the work completed in June of 1970, but was able to do so only this past August. Chairman Cahn felt that given the length of time required for his work, the end product was "devoid of philosophical or scholarly value," and "disappointing." Professor Anderson responded to these remarks with dismay, for his dissertation, which he was completing under the aegis of Northwestern University, was not due until 1975. Anderson also remarked that it was read and accepted at Northwestern and was considered quite good by the Philosophy Department there, which has a considerable reputation in the nation.

Anderson's formal remarks

As a final point, Paskow maintains that Cahn's summary remarks in the recommendation are grossly misused. In that summary, Cahn quoted Professor Wolff's letter, which read, "I do not know Paskow... but I think you would be well advised to take a gamble on him." Says Cahn in the recommendation, "I disagree with Professor Wolff. UVM cannot afford to take such a gamble. The time for gambling is over." Paskow points out that Cahn ignored the section of Wolff's statement which said "because tenure decisions are made early in a philosopher's career it is always necessary to make a gamble," thus misconstruing its context.

Anderson

The ostensible rationale for refusing to grant Professor Gerry Anderson another year at UVM was the "mordant" amount of time Anderson required in order to complete his doctoral dissertation.

Anderson planned to have the work completed in June of 1970, but was able to do so only this past August. Chairman Cahn felt that given the length of time required for his work, the end product was "devoid of philosophical or scholarly value," and "disappointing." Professor Anderson responded to these remarks with dismay, for his dissertation, which he was completing under the aegis of Northwestern University, was not due until 1975. Anderson also remarked that it was read and accepted at Northwestern and was considered quite good by the Philosophy Department there, which has a considerable reputation in the nation.

Anderson's formal remarks

As a final point, Paskow maintains that Cahn's summary remarks in the recommendation are grossly misused. In that summary, Cahn quoted Professor Wolff's letter, which read, "I do not know Paskow... but I think you would be well advised to take a gamble on him." Says Cahn in the recommendation, "I disagree with Professor Wolff. UVM cannot afford to take such a gamble. The time for gambling is over." Paskow points out that Cahn ignored the section of Wolff's statement which said "because tenure decisions are made early in a philosopher's career it is always necessary to make a gamble," thus misconstruing its context.

Anderson

The ostensible rationale for refusing to grant Professor Gerry Anderson another year at UVM was the "mordant" amount of time Anderson required in order to complete his doctoral dissertation.

Anderson planned to have the work completed in June of 1970, but was able to do so only this past August. Chairman Cahn felt that given the length of time required for his work, the end product was "devoid of philosophical or scholarly value," and "disappointing." Professor Anderson responded to these remarks with dismay, for his dissertation, which he was completing under the aegis of Northwestern University, was not due until 1975. Anderson also remarked that it was read and accepted at Northwestern and was considered quite good by the Philosophy Department there, which has a considerable reputation in the nation.

Anderson's formal remarks

As a final point, Paskow maintains that Cahn's summary remarks in the recommendation are grossly misused. In that summary, Cahn quoted Professor Wolff's letter, which read, "I do not know Paskow... but I think you would be well advised to take a gamble on him." Says Cahn in the recommendation, "I disagree with Professor Wolff. UVM cannot afford to take such a gamble. The time for gambling is over." Paskow points out that Cahn ignored the section of Wolff's statement which said "because tenure decisions are made early in a philosopher's career it is always necessary to make a gamble," thus misconstruing its context.

Anderson

The ostensible rationale for refusing to grant Professor Gerry Anderson another year at UVM was the "mordant" amount of time Anderson required in order to complete his doctoral dissertation.

Anderson planned to have the work completed in June of 1970, but was able to do so only this past August. Chairman Cahn felt that given the length of time required for his work, the end product was "devoid of philosophical or scholarly value," and "disappointing." Professor Anderson responded to these remarks with dismay, for his dissertation, which he was completing under the aegis of Northwestern University, was not due until 1975. Anderson also remarked that it was read and accepted at Northwestern and was considered quite good by the Philosophy Department there, which has a considerable reputation in the nation.

Anderson's formal remarks

As a final point, Paskow maintains that Cahn's summary remarks in the recommendation are grossly misused. In that summary, Cahn quoted Professor Wolff's letter, which read, "I do not know Paskow... but I think you would be well advised to take a gamble on him." Says Cahn in the recommendation, "I disagree with Professor Wolff. UVM cannot afford to take such a gamble. The time for gambling is over." Paskow points out that Cahn ignored the section of Wolff's statement which said "because tenure decisions are made early in a philosopher's career it is always necessary to make a gamble," thus misconstruing its context.

Anderson

The ostensible rationale for refusing to grant Professor Gerry Anderson another year at UVM was the "mordant" amount of time Anderson required in order to complete his doctoral dissertation.

Anderson planned to have the work completed in June of 1970, but was able to do so only this past August. Chairman Cahn felt that given the length of time required for his work, the end product was "devoid of philosophical or scholarly value," and "disappointing." Professor Anderson responded to these remarks with dismay, for his dissertation, which he was completing under the aegis of Northwestern University, was not due until 1975. Anderson also remarked that it was read and accepted at Northwestern and was considered quite good by the Philosophy Department there, which has a considerable reputation in the nation.

Anderson's formal remarks

As a final point, Paskow maintains that Cahn's summary remarks in the recommendation are grossly misused. In that summary, Cahn quoted Professor Wolff's letter, which read, "I do not know Paskow... but I think you would be well advised to take a gamble on him." Says Cahn in the recommendation, "I disagree with Professor Wolff. UVM cannot afford to take such a gamble. The time for gambling is over." Paskow points out that Cahn ignored the section of Wolff's statement which said "because tenure decisions are made early in a philosopher's career it is always necessary to make a gamble," thus misconstruing its context.

Anderson

The ostensible rationale for refusing to grant Professor Gerry Anderson another year at UVM was the "mordant" amount of time Anderson required in order to complete his doctoral dissertation.

Anderson planned to have the work completed in June of 1970, but was able to do so only this past August. Chairman Cahn felt that given the length of time required for his work, the end product was "devoid of philosophical or scholarly value," and "disappointing." Professor Anderson responded to these remarks with dismay, for his dissertation, which he was completing under the aegis of Northwestern University, was not due until 1975. Anderson also remarked that it was read and accepted at Northwestern and was considered quite good by the Philosophy Department there, which has a considerable reputation in the nation.

Anderson's formal remarks

As a final point, Paskow maintains that Cahn's summary remarks in the recommendation are grossly misused. In that summary, Cahn quoted Professor Wolff's letter, which read, "I do not know Paskow... but I think you would be well advised to take a gamble on him." Says Cahn in the children

shared their meals
ing usual.

le, emphatically nt that "absolutely were wasted." But conceptions about ature, a new pleading is installed this year is are pledged at times, namely es and at OVP Fairs expressed hope that gives, planned for the e of October and will have as much did the September
the OVP Fair
of this year.

Dinner

restricted in your world at UVM. Since was not associated mal school setting, could be posed and much more
He would like to see continued on a basis.

Sully had comments
MacMillan, wife of Millan, said she "had me. I was impressed students. We had an ity to meet
(Dean MacMillan Graduate College)
oroughly enjoyed it."

Woodson, whose it is in the ology Dept felt it was ing -- "good for the
of the semester and new students. One of s suggested that it be al dinner. What the er to eat with them."
Osborne in Home Ec.
doing this on her Sunday. "I had five who were absolutely ne. It's good to meet from outside and we id time." Dr. Case, in n, had "a delightful good fellowship and versation I would like this continued. It's a to meet a cross-section nts that you normally not run into on reality expressed e that "Tracy, who e dinner, would a tradition. She felt though UVM is a community there is on it can't be a friendly and that this type of ould help to make it

ay. Since this year's proved such a success, is already underway for year.

Modern Miracle Transportation

LOGY ECONOMY
DED MINDED

VESPA C50
(unimoped)
Class!

It has a bike - Or enjoy for fun and comfort - Give her V motorcycle systems that you select for exercise - Easy to adjust and reuse pedal almost entirely automated basic mileage

Motor Shoppe

18 Austin Drive
Redstone Park
Burlington, Vermont
phone 858-2336

The fun only is just beginning!

Special delivery by the delivery department to the - San Francisco, CA, 94111

THURS 12:30 - 9:30

CLASSIFIED ADS

"Help! Beach Boys"
"Smiley Smile", Kinks
"Kinda Kinda", Kinks
"Kinda Kinda", Kinks
Know where they're sold?
Will even take more. Call
Al, evenings 854-5673.

Found Dog: Black
Labrador 1 year old,
found Sat. outside
Simpson. Jim Andres 307
Mason 656-3007

Neil of Springfield Vt.
Long Trail 9/3 contact
Steve Leach 621
Cambridge Rd.
Conchoctony Ohio 43812
614-622-3024

Wilson T2000 tennis racket frame- 1 year old-hardly used excellent condition - $20 firm - call
Jane 862-1724 after 6.

What do you own? Do you know? (Furniture, china, etc.) I am equipped to make photographic inventories. For details call David Wilden, 863-2466.

Roommate wanted for two bedroom apartment with kitchen, living room, bath. A 4 minute walk from UVM campus, 53
Brooks Ave. Call anytime
864-5059

Artists-Inexpensive studio space available. Central Burlington location. All mediums, for information contact workshop
co-operative 426-3203.

For Sale: 1967 Ford Van, big engine, excellent condition. Needs owner for $850.00. Call Chris Brown at 864-7007.

Pianist Wanted: UVM's
Women's Gymnastic team desires services of a skilled pianist to play short pieces for floor exercise routines.
Should be able to read sheet music, modulate, develop transitions from one piece to another, keep steady rhythm, and be some improvisational work.
Knowledge of gymnastics and dance desirable but not necessary. Mrs. Szabo
856-3240 or 856-3241.

FOR SALE: 1970
Porsche 911.
Burgandy. Top
mechanical condition.
863-4536 days,
864-6404 evenings and weekends.

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics
$2.75 per page

Send for your up-to-date, 160-page,
mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage. Delivery time is 1 to 2 days.
RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2
LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold for research assistance only.

DUNHAM'S

campus
boots

MAZEL'S SHOES
194 North Street

"They do not love
that do not show their love."
William Shakespeare

Choose Keepsake
with complete confidence,
because the famous
Keepsake Guarantee
assures a perfect
engagement diamond
of perfect cut and superb color. There is no finer diamond ring.

Keepsake
REGISTERED DIAMOND RINGS

HOW TO PLAN YOUR ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING

Send one 24 page booklet, Planning Your Engagement and Wedding, plus full color booklet and 44 page Bride's Book gift offer all for only 25¢. F-13

Name _____
Address _____
City _____
State _____
Zip _____

KEEPSAKE DIAMOND RINGS, BOX 99, SYRACUSE, N.Y. 13201

When this 25-year-old researcher wanted to investigate a possible cancer treatment, we gave him the go-ahead.

We also gave him the right to fail.

At Kodak, it's not unusual for a 25-year-old like Jim Carroll to win the title of senior research physicist. Like any company involved in a lot of basic research, Kodak has felt the pressure of modern technology and the need for young, fresh thinking. So we hire the best talent we possibly can, and then give them as much responsibility as they can handle. Whatever their age.

We have departments and divisions, like any company. What we don't have are preconceived ideas about how an expert scientist's time should be spent. So when we received a request from the medical community for assistance in experimenting with lasers as a possible cancer treatment, we turned to 25-year-old Jim Carroll, who is deep in laser technology, and gave him the go-ahead. He built two half-billion watt laser systems, one of which Kodak has donated to the National Institute of Health.

The lasers proved unsuccessful in treating cancer, but we'd make the same decision all over again. We entered laser technology because we have a stake in business. We let a young researcher help the medical community look for a means of cancer treatment because we have a stake in the future of mankind.

To put it another way, we're in business to make a profit. But in furthering our own needs, we have often furthered society's. After all, our business depends on our society. So we care what happens to it.

Kodak
More than a business.

FALL CLEARANCE

We sound better
Audioanalyst

Marantz Model 2230 AM/FM Stereo Receiver is unmatched for superb FM, clean power, and sophisticated control. With utter reliability, it offers 40 Watts continuous RMS into 8 ohm speakers from 30 Hz to 15 kHz with under 0.5% THD and IM distortion and 2.0 dB frequency response. The professional preamp control system includes stepped 1-zone tone controls for BASS, MID, TREBLE, provisions for tape decks, phono, 4-channel adapters, etc. and precision control over virtually every audio variable.

Behind the Model 2230's gold-anodized front panel are Ultra-low noise low distortion 12T, 12T and 12T circuitry, massive heat sinks, and automatic protection for internal circuitry and associated speakers. Hear for yourself the Model 2230 — and all the Marantz family of stereo receivers, with professional quality in every price range.

The Beogram 3000 Turntable

As a turntable must function in concert with the cartridge, the Beogram 3000 has been engineered to utilize the Bang & Olufsen SP-12A or the SP-14A. This integration of tone arm and cartridge permits the amount of force required to move the stylus tip — the effective tip mass (ETM) — to be greatly reduced and eliminates unwanted resonances.

Specifications:
Speeds: 45 and 33 rpm
Anti-skating: Built-in automatic Cueing: Mechanical
Drive System: Idler wheel and belt
Motor: Asynchronous
Fine Speed Adjustment: ± 3%
Stroboscopic Scale: Built-in 33 rpm
Wow & Flutter: Less than 0.15%
Pulse: 4000
Suspension: Pendulum springs
Cartridge: SP-12A

AUDIOANALYST Model A-100 Loudspeakers
Drivers: 10 inch high compliance woofer, 3 inch foam damped cone midrange, 2 inch wide-dispersion tweeter.
Frequency response: 40-20,000 Hz plus/minus 3 dB (free-field)
System resonance: down 10 dB @ 30 Hz
Dispersion: 48 Hz plus/minus 1 Hz
Maximum power input: 160 watts
Nominal impedance: 8 ohms

AUDIOANALYST LOUDSPEAKERS

SYSTEM PRICE

Receiver 2230 $739
Turntable 3060 $110
Speakers A-100 $910

Marantz Model SD-1 Stereo Headphones

List $29.95
Audio Den
Price $20.00

PIONEER
marantz

Dual

Receiver Turntable Speakers List $715 $499

The SX-626 stereo receiver is one of Pioneer's great. In one attractive, well-designed package, it offers the hi-fi everything he could possibly desire in a medium-range power unit. Including up to 110 watts of power (at 4 ohms), an FM tuner section of excellent selectivity and sensitivity, high signal-to-noise ratio, and two tape monitor circuits that permit tape-to-tape duplicating. The SX-626 is powerful enough to operate a pair of large speakers yet it's also versatile enough to handle small and medium-range speakers for the man whose investment in stereo must be budgeted.

Marantz Imperial 5G speakers

Specifications:

Frequency Response: 15 Hz to 20 kHz
Sensitivity: 85 dB SPL (1W/1m) 1 kHz
Power Rating: 110 Watts continuous
40 Watts integrated program material
Tuning: 100 to 108 MHz
S/N Ratio: 60 dB
Tape Monitor: 2 channels
Dimensions: 17 1/2" x 12 1/2" x 10 1/2"

marantz We sound better

PIONEER

marantz We sound better

KLH Model 17 SPEAKERS...

The Model Seventeen probably the most efficient acoustic suspension loudspeaker system on the market. It has become one of the best high fidelity values ever introduced. It will not only deliver its outstanding performance with the most modest of amplifiers but even 10-watt-per-channel receivers can comfortably drive it to full, satisfying volume levels.

42M-5 Turntable
Audio Den's favorite in an "economy-line" turntable.

Receiver 42M-5 Turntable Speakers List $485 $379

Marantz Model 1060 solid state amplifier is craftsmanship and engineering excellence at its best. With total reliability, the Marantz 1060 delivers 40 watts continuous RMS into 8 ohm speakers from 30 Hz to 20,000 Hz with less than 0.5% THD and frequency response of ±0.5 dB. Professional features include: Two Front-Panel VCR inputs, Stepped, Three Zone, Tone Controls, Separates/Preamp Outputs and Power Amp Inputs, Built-In Automatic Protection for Output Circuits, and Associated Speakers to provide years of trouble-free service. Gold anodized front panel.

Hear for yourself the Model 1060 — and all the Marantz component family, with professional quality in every price range.

Pioneer's SX-424 solid state stereo receiver, with AM/FM reception, is proof-positive that stereo on a limited budget doesn't have to mean limited stereo sound. In a handsome package of quality circuitry and reasonable price, the SX-424 offers up to 30 watts of music power at 4 ohms, very sensitive FM reception, a wide linear type state for fine FM tuning, and highly respectable specifications both for the FM tuner section and the audio section. It's a versatile unit, too, because you can use it with almost all music sources available today, including records, tape, FM and microphone. Best of all, it's Pioneer-made — which means that, for its price, there is probably nothing available today that can compare with its quality.

marantz

Imperial 4G LOUDSPEAKERS

Specifications:

Frequency Response: 20 Hz to 20 kHz
Sensitivity: 85 dB SPL (1W/1m) 1 kHz
Power Rating: 40 Watts continuous
40 Watts integrated program material
Tuning: 100 to 108 MHz
S/N Ratio: 60 dB
Tape Monitor: 2 channels
Dimensions: 17 1/2" x 12 1/2" x 10 1/2"

Receiver 42M-5 Turntable Speakers List $410 $289

AUDIO DEN

burlington & middlebury

12 North Winooski Ave.
Burlington, Vermont
Phone 863-3498

50 1/2 Main Street
Middlebury, Vermont
Phone 388-6788

Greek Week Culminates With Games & Barbeque

by Margo Howland

Greek Week 1973 drew to a close with the traditional Greek Games held on Saturday, September 29. To begin the festivities there was a "warm-up" at Lambda Iota from 11-1. At 1 o'clock the Beer Relay started. From Lambda Iota and finished up at Archie Post Field, where the rest of the games were held.

In the fraternity division of the Beer Relay, SAE won first place, Sigma Phi second and Delta Psi third. The winners in the sorority division were Alpha Chi, first, Alpha Delta Pi, second, and Gamma Phi, third.

Greeks got a chance to put a few muscles out of place in the Tug O'War. Fraternities placing were Sigma Nu, first and SAE, second. Tri-Delt won first and Alpha Chi second for the sororities.

The Egg-Ducking contest was the only all-sorority event. Placing first, second, and third were Alpha Chi, Gamma Phi, and Tri-Delt.

In the Pie eating contest, (fraternities only) Sigma Phi was first (Time: 2 minutes), Lambda Iota was second and Sig Ep and ATO tied for third. Following this, the Emcee, Gary Hadam, accepted a pie for his outstanding enthusiasm (he really had no choice!) He got it on the side of his head.

The Volkswagen Relay was another anticipated all-fraternity event, but Tri-Delt appeared unexpectedly with a makeshift VW (Front half courtesy of McNash Motors.) constructed of car hood and cardboard and painted in yellow blue and silver. They didn't place, but they did win five points!

Driving (?) this singular vehicle were Candy Lovely, Debbie Sample, Kathy Mullen and Linn Murdoch.

The relay length was six yards (from a speed control dip to a fire hydrant) and contestants had to carry their car for that distance, then pile into it and drive it back to the starting line. Everyone helping to carry a car had to fit inside. There were many who and there were many who stuck out of windows. The winner was Theta Chi with a time of 33 seconds, followed by Sigma Phi in 35 seconds. There was a slight collision between Sigma Phi and Sig Ep (Sigma Phi was driving).

The most popular event, the Domino Races, were held last. Sig Ep edged Sigma Nu in a finish almost too close to call, and Sigma Phi came in third.

The Champion in the sorority division was Alpha Chi, winning by two points over Tri-Delt, and Pi Phi pulled in third. In a very close competition Sig Ep captured the trophy from last year's winner Sigma Phi (by 1 point).

Tied for third place were Tau Epsilon Phi and SAE. Mirth and merriment continued as Delta Psi hosted the first annual Greek Week Barbeque. A Greek-sponsored dance was held at MAT, and the 1973 Greek Week was over.

Charges Against Philosophy Four 'Flabbergasting'

Four UVM philosophy students delivered what was described as "eloquent" testimony in defense of four philosophy professors recently recommended to be rehired. Bringing their presentation to the Philosophy Review Committee, whose function is to review actions of the newly acquired Philosophy Chairman Steven Cahn, the students contended that the negative evaluations of Alan Paskow, Bob Rice, Gerry Anderson, and Jim Corcoran by Chairman Cahn were "flabbergasting." The four students, Sue Amadon, Mike Morton, Linda Morrison, and Greg Velpy all agreed that Cahn's actions were at best hastily and ill drawn, and they expressed fears that the actions could be indicative of a departmental "coup."

Greg Velpy stated that the recommendations by Cahn were in direct contradiction to the classroom performance of the four professors. "These are men who excite students," Velpy contended, citing the enrollment growth in the department. "Given my experiences with these four professors," said Velpy, "the recommendations by Cahn were simply unbelievable."

Mike Morton explained the predominance of Analytic Philosophy in the nation's colleges, contending that the orientation of the UVM department towards social and political philosophy was "unique." It has been postulated that the recommended dismissals are possibly due to an incompatibility between the social-political and the Analytic schools. Morton contended that the unfavorable recommendations could have sprung from this conflict, but felt that if this were the case, the recommendations were unfair and that much of the U.V.M. department's uniqueness would be jeopardized. A possible consequence of this, he explained, would be a drop in the department's enrollment. Morton also praised the teaching acumen of the four professors, citing their creativity and diversity as their most notable assets.

A former UVM graduate student, Linda Morrison, presented a formal letter of concern to the committee. Ms. Morrison, who had worked with Anderson and Corcoran on her thesis, felt they are "the best philosophy professors she had ever encountered." Formerly a political science major, she credited Gerry Anderson for drawing her interest to a philosophy career.

She too praised the UVM department for its fresh and unique approach to philosophy, which, she contended, contrasts sharply with the "dry, and lifeless" approach used by so many other colleges and universities. She found Corcoran and Anderson especially competent members of the department, and praised them for "meticulous and encyclopedic" knowledge of their fields.

Ms. Morrison also made an articulate case of the seriousness of Cahn's recommendations. Cahn's significant weight on the written work of the four professors, she claimed, however the reviewers of their written work remain anonymous. She questioned the validity of the unfavorable remarks, noting that Anderson, Rice and Paskow were praised for their dissertations, received from eminent scholars. There is the possibility, she claimed, that the reviews presented by Cahn are biased and self-serving. In fairness, she continued, the reviewers should be given the opportunity to defend their remarks, or, if they choose to remain anonymous, their remarks no longer be considered as evidence.

Sue Amadon summed up the sentiments of the four students, noting that she too was flabbergasted by Cahn's recommendations. She questioned how Cahn who has been at UVM for four weeks, and who had barely a chance to talk with the four professors, could have made such a sweeping decision with the careful thought and impartiality required. She contended that Cahn's evidence was poorly substantiated, and expressed hope that his recommendations are not supported. She also expressed hopes that the administration would consider the significance that these recommendations could have on the academic future of the professors, and that it would be concerned with more than simply saving face over their choice of Philosophy Department Chairman.

Oct. 6 - North Billings Lounge - The Asian Studies Program is sponsoring an evening of Classical Indian, Music and Dance. Avangar, reputed to be the best in his field, will be playing an instrument called a Veena. The performance will be accompanied by dancing, and will begin at 8:00 pm. It is being sponsored in conjunction with the Ananda Marga Society. Everyone is invited to attend.

Was Cahn's

(continued from page one)

In his new position only three weeks and who Rice hardly knew at all, had hardly seen at all, told him that in his function as chairman he was recommending that Rice not be rehired to teach at UVM next fall. He similarly informed Paskow, Anderson, and Corcoran — he was recommending they not be rehired either. In all four cases the reasons he cited centered around alleged shoddy scholarship.

Shocked, dismayed, and angered both by the decision and by the way in which it had been dropped like a bombshell on them, the four soon began spreading the news around. In the space of a week's time a large number of students and faculty members have mobilized in opposition to Cahn's recommendations, claiming they result from philosophical bias on his part, and may represent an attempt at a departmental purge.

Cahn's recommendations do not constitute law. They represent the first step in a longer administrative process which, according to Alfred Rollins, Vice President for Academic Affairs, one of the top positions in the administration, essentially runs as follows:

The department chairman puts his recommendations in writing, and shows them to the professors involved. The recommendations then go to the Faculty Standards Committee of the College involved, in this case Arts & Sciences. There are three members of this committee, all of whom are elected by the Dean of the College, in this case John Weiger. The Dean may ask for the opinions of other members of the department involved, but he is not required to do so. These recommendations are all made on forms known as Green Sheets, so named because of their color. The Green Sheets then go to the Graduate Dean, who reviews them, and to the Faculty Affairs Committee of the Faculty Senate, which reviews all appointments cases. All members of this committee are elected by the Senate. Then all the Green Sheets with all the recommendations go to President Andrews.

The final decision for rehiring for next fall must be made by Dec. 31 as law requires the university to give faculty members six months notice. Department chairmen were supposed to have their recommendations made a couple months ago, but Cahn was allowed extra time because he was a new man and hadn't had the opportunity to

Creating a better impression

The Good
Student rates for Doubles • Good
— Stop action
— courts • Attr
• Attended
Pro Shop
Expert A
— 6 AM
Reserv

Was Cahn's Selection Part Of "Cleaning Out" Plot?...

(Continued from page one)

in his new position only three weeks and who Rice hardly knew at all, had hardly seen at all, told him that in his function as chairman he was recommending that Rice not be rehired to teach at UVM next fall. He similarly informed Paskow, Anderson, and Corcoran. He was recommending they not be rehired either. In all four cases the reasons he cited centered around alleged shoddy scholarship.

Shocked, dismayed, and angered both by the decision and by the way in which it had been dropped like a bombshell on them, the four soon began spreading the news around in the space of a week's time a large number of students and faculty members have mobilized in opposition to Cahn's recommendations, claiming they result from philosophical bias on his part, and may represent an attempt at a departmental purge.

Cahn's recommendations do not constitute law. They represent the first step in a longer administrative process which, according to Alfred Rollins, Vice President for Academic Affairs, one of the top positions in the administration, essentially runs as follows:

The department chairman puts his recommendations in writing, and shows them to the professors involved. The recommendations then go to the Faculty Standards Committee of the College involved, in this case Arts & Sciences. There are three members of this committee, all of whom are elected by the Dean of the College. In this case John Weiger, the Dean may ask for the opinions of other members of the department involved, but he is not required to do so. These recommendations are all made on forms known as Green Sheets, so named because of their color. The Green Sheets then go to the Graduate Dean, who reviews them, and to the Faculty Affairs Committee of the Faculty Senate, which reviews all appointments cases. All members of this committee are elected by the Senate. Then all the Green Sheets with all the recommendations go to makes his recommendation to President Andrews.

The final decision for rehiring for next fall must be made by Dec. 31 as law requires the university to give faculty members six months notice. Department chairmen were supposed to have their recommendations made a couple months ago, but Cahn was allowed extra time because he was a new man and hadn't had the opportunity to formulate opinions. Rollins refuses to comment on Cahn's recommendations at this point. He explains, "I don't know or want to know about individual cases before I can review all the information and all the recommendations which will come to me."

But he expressed confidence in Cahn. "I think he will be a good chairman. He has impressed me as an outstanding philosopher and scholar, and his students at his old school evaluated him as a fine teacher."

Administration officials are confident that if Cahn's recommendations are unfair, as those involved claim, the process of review will uncover it. "A chairman's recommendations carry a lot of weight, but they are by no means automatic," states Rollins. "The university's process of reviewing these cases is complicated and is designed to insure against injustice. In any disputed case there are 30 to 35 people involved in the process."

But the four philosophy professors and many others do not share that confidence. Many feel the events surrounding Cahn's selection as the new chairman in the first place offer evidence that some members of the administration may have an interest in "cleaning out" the Philosophy department.

Will Miller, a tenured member of the department, relates the story of Cahn's selection this way: "A couple of years ago the department (then the department of Philosophy and Religion, but since split two departments) voted to ask Dean John Weiger for a review of the chairman, Robert Hall, and his policies. Weiger selected seven faculty members and two students for a Review Committee and President Andrews okayed it. George Albee of the Psychology Department was the chairman. Members of the department were dissatisfied with Hall, claiming he was undemocratic and made all tenure and rehiring decisions himself without regard to the opinions of his colleagues."

There were a number of disputes within the department. One faculty member, David Sobers, when he came up for tenure, was the source of animosity. Miller says Sobers was really not rehired because "he exercised his academic freedom." In May, 1972, Hall resigned as chairman, but stayed on as a member of the faculty. A Search Committee was then formed in the fall of 1972 for the purpose of finding a new chairman. This committee consisted of the old

Review Committee, with some changes in membership, plus two faculty members from the Philosophy department—Miller and Paskow.

Weiger instructed the committee to look for a senior philosopher, a person with experience as a chairman, who could provide leadership for the department. According to Miller, Weiger said whoever was hired would not be given tenure right away but would be tried out for a while first, and he assured the department that it would have a veto power over any selection.

The committee spent a long time reviewing applications. In all consultations with Weiger and Rollins during this time, the committee strangely defined itself as the "old Review Committee," thus excluding Miller and Paskow, and two students as well. The two who had been on the Review Committee had graduated. The full Search Committee never met with Rollins, but, Miller says, he and Paskow assumed the committee would be just.

Three candidates were finally recommended to Weiger. Of the three, two were voted acceptable by the Philosophy department. The third was voted unacceptable by a nearly unanimous vote of 9-1. This third was Steven M. Cahn, 31 years old and Assistant Professor at N.Y.U., and it was he who was hired.

When Cahn was hired he was immediately given tenure and elevated to the rank of full professor, states Miller. This was perceived as the crowning evidence of possible administration conspiracy.

Miller thinks there are reasons why the administration might want to "clean out" the Philosophy department. Some observers feel Cahn was hired as a hatchet man, and that he is now doing what he was hired to do. These reasons revolve around the political and academic activity and beliefs of many people in the Philosophy department, which Miller feels may be a source of irritation and embarrassment to some in the administration. He includes these:

(1) Three years ago a suit against the university requirement that all employees sign a loyalty oath was brought against UVM by a dozen or so faculty members. Half of them were members of the Philosophy Department and they were largely responsible for organizing the suit. Alfred Rollins argued for the loyalty oath, which was eventually upheld by the courts.

(2) In Oct. 1970, President Nixon came to Burlington. The Philosophy department was publicly accused on the radio by a member of the Board of Trustees of planning to disrupt the speech. The man's source was apparently a poster in the department which said "President Nixon is coming to Burlington. Let's give him a welcome he deserves."

(3) They supported Michael Parenti, who had carried a Viet Cong flag in a demonstration downtown, in his fight for tenure.

(4) Three Philosophy professors were arrested during the May Day demonstrations over the Cambodian invasion in 1971, and two were arrested at the Federal Building in Burlington during the May, 1972 protests.

(5) The administration may worry that if the Philosophy department is successfully democratized, other departments will attempt to democratize.

Unfortunately, neither Steven Cahn nor John Weiger has been available for comment. Cahn has been observing the Jewish New Year, and Weiger has been at home fighting a bout with hepatitis.

Next Week in The Cynic: Interviews with Cahn, Rice, Paskow, Corcoran, Anderson.

UVM Totally Dominates In 1-0 Loss To BU

Action in Cats 1-0 loss to BU by Gene Goldberg

Before an enthusiastic crowd of over 300, the UVM soccer team reached the ultimate in frustration in a 1-0 loss to Boston University last Saturday.

The Terriers, looking for their first victory of the season, were totally outclassed by a strong team effort by the Cats. However, this was not to be Vermont's day as they fell to 1-3-0 for the season.

The Cats broke out quickly, getting four good scoring opportunities in the first five minutes. With the Terriers seemingly standing around, UVM swarmed over BU goalie George Scanlon. Scanlon was equal to the task, stopping point blank shots from Mark Heidrich and Gary Griffith.

UVM would up with 15 shots in the first half but couldn't meet the mesh. Play set-up was excellent but questionable last passes ruined good offensive drives. The half ended 0-0.

In the second half, UVM picked up where they left off. They hovered around the BU cage and 75% of the play was in the Cats offensive zone. There were numerous pile-ups in front of the net but the finishing foot was again absent.

On one of their rare rushes into the Cats territory, BU was awarded a direct kick thirty yards from the goal. Konstantin Pavlov made the most of it by driving a high hard shot into the upper right hand corner. The goal came at 28:40 of the 2nd half.

The Terriers found it quite a chore protecting their 1-0 lead. Showing amazing ineptitude, the Terriers couldn't get the ball out of their end. Cat pressure was unbelievable!

With the BU coach shaking his head in disbelief, the Terriers tightened up and held on for a 1-0 victory. Vermont outshot Boston 39-14 for the game. Goals: Scanlon gets the star award turning back 23 shots. UVM outshot Jeff Jonas, turned away 10 shots. While it's true that UVM scored six times against Pittsburgh, the fact remains that the Cats need a consistent scorer. They have been shut-out three times already. The team play is there but it's being carried too far. Individuals who shoot score goals, not teamwork. Coach Soderberg might find that foot he needs in the defense. One wonders if some shuffling in order.

Rugby Teams Defeated In

Physical Contests: 10-7, 11-8

by Bob Wilemski

The UVM Rugby team was handed two losses in very close games on Saturday against Albany Law School. The A team was defeated by a score of 10-7 and the B team lost by a score of 11-8. Both games were very physical and there was a good deal of hard hitting on both sides.

Marcel Bergeron scored the only UVM try, or touchdown, on a tremendous effort. Preston Tuttle scored on a three point kick from about 25 yards out to finish the scoring. The rugby team will be travelling to Montreal to take on Mac Donald College on Saturday.

VALUABLE COUPON

SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS

10% DISCOUNT

ON YOUR PURCHASES AT

CAMPUS PHARMACY

ACROSS FROM The Medical Center

minates barbeque

On this singularly beautiful day, the Delta Phi chapter of the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is sponsoring a barbeque.

The barbeque will be held at the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity house, 1330 North Main Street, from 12:00 to 2:00 p.m. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

The barbeque is a popular event and is open to all students and faculty members. The Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity is a national organization of college students and young men. The Delta Phi chapter is one of the largest in the state.

Creating a better impression

CROSS

Writing Instruments in 12 Karat Gold Filled

Pen or Pencil $ 8.50
Set $17.00

UNIVERSITY STORE

The Good Court!

Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for
Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private
• Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms
• Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den
Pro Shop • 24-Hour Stringing Service •
Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 M Weekdays
• 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays •
Reserved Time and Walk-in Rates

TWIN OAKS

TENNIS CENTER

Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 842-3439

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE

FINEST SELECTION OF BEERS, WINES AND LIQUORS IMPORTED

AT GREAT SAVINGS

151 EAST ALLEN STREET
WINDSOR, VT

OPEN 10:00 TO 10:00
10:00 TO 10:00

Air Force ROTC... The college scholarship program with fringe benefits.

Some people might need to be coaxed with more than a full college scholarship to join the Air Force ROTC. So, if free tuition, lab and incidental fees aren't enough... the Air Force offers a monthly allowance of $100.00, tax-free, in your junior and senior years. And free flying lessons to those qualified provide the most exciting fringe benefit of all. Interested?

Contact DEPARTMENT OF AEROSPACE STUDIES
At SAINT MICHAEL'S COLLEGE 658-2000 Ext. 281

Find Yourself A Scholarship In Air Force ROTC.

THE SKI RACK STANDS ALONE IN EVALUATING ALL TYPES OF CROSS COUNTRY SKIS, DOWNHILL SKIS, AND BICYCLE COMPONENTS TO DETERMINE WHAT'S MADE THE BEST AND WHAT IS THE BEST VALUE.

CROSS COUNTRY SKI PACKAGES START AT $59.95

Cross Country Ski Sale Ends Saturday Oct. 6

THE SKI RACK
15 CENTER ST.
DOWNTOWN
658-3313

OPEN THURS. & FRIDAY TILL 9:00

Harriers Handed First Defeat Of The Season

by Tim Marr

The previously undefeated UVM cross-country team traveled to Durham, N.H. last Saturday, only to place third in a frequent with UNH and defending New England champs Northeastern. Winner of the meet was Northeastern with 31, followed by UNH with 37, and Vermont with 54. Bruce Butterworth, a transfer student from Northeastern of all places, did his best to subside his former team, as he ran away from the field. Butterworth, who guards and frame at Hampton Beach during the summer, covered the 4.7 mile course in 24:27.16, outdistancing Northeastern's Mike Buckley, who was second in 24:49. Again, Stan Dunkley of Vermont ran a great race, finishing fourth in 25:13, but the rest of the team didn't fare quite so well. Bob Graves, Pete West, and Lynn Capen finished 10th, 12th, and 13th respectively, and Bob Stoeck ran a strong final two miles to place 15th. Despite the loss, the Vermont harriers gained valuable experience on the course which will be the site of the Yankee Conference Meet on October 27. UVM will run against UConn next Saturday at Storrs, Conn.

B Team Remains Undefeated With Victories Over State Opponents

The UVM Soccer "B" Team won two more games last week to boost their undefeated record to 4-0. Last Tuesday they traveled to Middletown, winning 3-1, and Friday they rolled over 4-0.

The strong UVM team faced its toughest test against Middletown in the first half. UVM had to struggle from behind twice to make the half time score 2-2. Gil Low scored first for UVM to tie the game at 1-1. Just before the half ended Don Podsen scored on a rebound of a shot by Low. These two fine wings proved to be instrumental in most of the scoring.

The green and gold booters drew first blood early in the second half when Tim Miller headed in a shot from Don Podsen. However, Middletown came right back to tie 3-3 and for the entire half it was a close hard battle. With ten minutes to go UVM's superior condition and desire began to show as they began to dominate play and pound the goal. Finally, with three minutes left to play, Don Podsen put across a perfect corner kick and Gil Low booted it into the nets for a 4-3 UVM lead. Nine seconds later, Greg Bartlett clinched the victory with a goal on a pass from Don Smith.

Friday proved to be an easy victory as all four strings of the "B" team put in goals in the 6-0 kill. This week will be the big test of the season as the "B" team has a return match with a tough Vt. Tech College on Tuesday, plays Norwich on Wed., and a strong Johnson St. team on Thursday. Thursday's game is home.

UVM SPORTS

Team Effort Leads Cats To 15-0 Win

Bob Bateman throwing to Tony Jones behind a wall of UVM linemen in Foxboro

by Rick Steinberg

After two Yankee Conference defeats, the University of Vermont finally broke into the win column with a convincing 15-0 victory over Boston University. It was a total team effort for the Cats, as they played near flawless football for sixty minutes.

Led offensively by Bob Bateman and Tony Jones, the Cats were able to build up an early 15-0 lead. The defense took over from there, displaying aggressive, heads up football. They were threatened on numerous occasions but came up with the big play time and time again. Whether it was an interception, a fumble recovery, or a big fourth down tackle, the Cats always were in the right spot.

On offense it appeared to be a two man show with Bateman and Jones teaming up for two touchdowns including a 74 yarder. But credit must be given to the Cats' offensive line of Rowe, Trono, Weiler, Himo, and Lannone, which provided Bateman with excellent protection throughout the game. Bateman displayed pin point accuracy, connecting on 9 of 18 passes for 178 yards.

The Cats opened up the scoring after John Hemphill stopped the Terriers on a fourth and two situation on the UVM 26. They then took possession of the ball and struck quickly. Spotting Jones breaking down the right sideline, Bateman hit his receiver with a perfect strike. Jones, never breaking stride, took the pass and galloped into the end zone completing a 74 yard play. If this did not shock the Terriers, the extra point certainly did. Coach Faltene, hoping to gain an extra edge, decided to fake a kick and the Cats went for a two point conversion. Bateman, who is also the holder for place kicker George Brunst, took the snap from center, and threw a pass to Billy Looker who was standing all alone in the end zone. The pass was complete, and the Cats pulled ahead of an astonished BU squad 8-0.

The Cats' second score came as a result of another Faltene surprise. After lining up to punt on a fourth and three on the BU 41, Looker turned quarterback and threw a 16 yard pass to Paul Jarry. This gave the Cats a first down on the Terrier 25. Bateman then threw a screen pass to Tom Sherr who carried the ball down to the four. On the next play Jones scored his second touchdown of the evening pulling in a cross field Bateman pass. It was another precision toss, as Bateman threw over the fingertips of the BU defender, Brunst's conversion.

UVM's first break came on the opening play of the half when Warren Collins fumbled the kickoff. Barry Visen pounced on the ball on the Terrier 35. But the Cats were unable to take advantage of the break and punted the ball back to the Terriers. BU then mounted their first offensive drive of the half. The Terrier was good and the Cats had a 15-0 lead.

On their ensuing set of downs, the BU offense started to move on the Cats. Sparked by the strong running of Joe Driscoll and Tom Floyd, the Terriers penetrated deep into UVM territory. But the drive was wasted when quarterback George Jerina stumbled to the turf on a crucial fourth down play on the UVM five. This allowed the Cats to leave the field at halftime with a 15-0 lead.

Their 15-0 lead was a result of excellent execution on offense and strong aggressive play on defense. Following a disastrous second half against UConn a week earlier, the Cats knew they were going to have to play as well in the second half if they were to post their first conference victory.

This is just what the Cats did as they once again came up with the big play whenever the Terriers threatened.

The importance of their victory cannot be overstressed. It provided the Cats with their first conference victory and showed the players and coaches what the team is capable of accomplishing. They played strong aggressive football with a minimal amount of effort. The Cats may surprise many people before the year is over and could finish the season with their first winning campaign in six years.

Despite their fine defensive play the Cats almost lost their shutout early in the fourth quarter. With the aid of excellent blocking, BU punt return specialist Greg Pemberton broke through the UVM specialty team and was on his way to an 84 yard touchdown. But speedster Billy Looker caught up with Pemberton and knocked him out of bounds at the UVM 16. The defense then held to preserve the shutout.

The Cats are idle for a week and are next scheduled to play Rhode Island October 13 at 1:30. The homecoming contest will be played at Centennial Field. This will be UVM's final home game of the season.

The Cats are idle for a week and are next scheduled to play Rhode Island October 13 at 1:30. The homecoming contest will be played at Centennial Field. This will be UVM's final home game of the season.

The Cats are idle for a week and are next scheduled to play Rhode Island October 13 at 1:30. The homecoming contest will be played at Centennial Field. This will be UVM's final home game of the season.

Catamount Football Clippings

Sparked by the first shutout win (15-0 over Boston University) since the 43-0 drubbing of Norwich in 1966, Vermont's football team will have two weeks to prep for a vastly improved Rhode Island squad and one of the premier running backs in New England. "We'll need that extra week to prepare for the Rhode offense, one of the best we have seen this year," said Vermont's defensive coordinator, Mike Murphy. "In Sylvester (Molly) McGee, Rhode Island has one of the most versatile running backs in New England; if not the East. He's a bonafide pro prospect," added Murphy. Last Saturday night, at Schaefer Stadium in Foxboro, Mass., Vermont's defense proved to be stingy, particularly when the Boston University Terriers knocked on the door. No less than four times the Catamount defense turned away BU drives that penetrated inside the Vermont 20. The defense picked off four Terrier passes and pounced on two fumbles, as Vermont recorded its first win over Boston University since 1922. They lost seven games over the 51-year stretch, tying one.

Vermont's senior linebacker, Glenn Martel, so often "overlooked on defense" compiled 10 primary tackles while assisting on four others. For his efforts, he was named the Yankee Conference Defensive Player of the Week. Also, at the conclusion of Saturday's night game, he was awarded the game football by his teammates.

By vote of the press covering the Vermont-Boston University game, Vermont's stellar wide receiver, Tony Jones (Baltimore, Md.), was named the game's Most Valuable Player. The sure-fingered receiver hauled in five passes for 158 yards and two TDs, including a 74-yard bomb in the first quarter that put Vermont on top to stay, 6-0. Jones scored the only other TD of the night, a five-yard strike in the second quarter. In addition to scoring twice, he registered two diving, twisting grabs that pulled Vermont out of bad field position in the second half. Sophomore quarterback Bob Bateman connected, on nine of 13 passes for 178 yards and both TDs and ran for 42 additional yards. He was named the game's Most Valuable Back. Defensive tackle John Hemphill (No. Quincy, Mass.), Vermont's All-New England and All-East candidate, also had an outstanding game (eight unassisted tackles and eight assisted, and was voted the game's Top Lineman.)

Area fans will have an opportunity to see the catches of Tony Jones and the great defensive work of Glenn Martel and John Hemphill at this Thursday's weekly luncheon, again scheduled for 12 noon at the Hi-Hat Restaurant in downtown Burlington. In addition to films of the 15-0 victory over Boston University, the coaching staff will critique Rhode Island, Vermont's next opponent, Oct. 13. Also, a question-answer period is scheduled for the fans. Booster President, Tom Cheek, of radio station WVMT, urges that "everyone bring a friend to the dinner and join the Booster Club." Cost of the luncheon is $2.25 per person. The public is invited.

Gymnasts Participate In Intra Squad Meet

The Catamount Gymnastic Intra-Squad Meet last week finished with Fred Lee's Green Team scoring 40.1 to Gary Reid's Gold Team final of 35.8. Lee was the top gymnast of the meet with an 8.1 long horse vault, while the Gold's outstanding scorer was Doug Mackey with a 5.8 on the pommel horse. For a perspective on the meaning of scores in gymnastics, UVM enthusiasts are encouraged to tune into ETV Channel 33 at 1:00 p.m. on October 12, to review highlights of the "Big 8" Conference gymnastic championships, which will be a joint men's and women's team cook-out at 6:00 p.m. Girl's Captain, Linda Rowe, and Men's Co-Captains Gary Reid and Fred Lee, anticipate a large turnout.

A gymnastic all-day picnic will take place at Idyl-Hurst Lodge, South Hero, this Sunday and will culminate in a joint men's and women's team cook-out at 6:00 p.m. Girl's Captain, Linda Rowe, and Men's Co-Captains Gary Reid and Fred Lee, anticipate a large turnout.

Contentment Farm Riding Stable, Open Year Around - Trail Riding - Instructions - Hay & Sleigh Ride - Tack Shop - Shoeing - Sales - Boarding - Reasonable Rates - Indoor Arena. South Hero 372-4087.

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE INC.
Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

- Fine work on American cars
- Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
- Front end alignment • Spin balancing
- Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

VW BRAKE JOB $39.95

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL VW Bug Exhaust $24.95 Spin Balance $3.50 per Wheel Front End Alignment $10

'THE REDWOOD'
60 NORTH ST., BURL.
'JUST A FRIENDLY NEIGHBORHOOD BAR'

HAPPY HOUR EVERY TUES & THURS
9:00 pm - 11:00 pm
12 oz. GLASS 20¢

PITCHER BEER EVERY DAY PRICE 75¢

SOUR HOURS
LADIES NIGHT EVERY WED
9:00 - 11:00 pm

HAPPY HOUR EVERY SUNDAY AFTERNOON
2:00 - 4:00 pm
(free sandwiches Sunday during happy hour)

ENJOY YOUR AFTERNOON WATCHING FOOTBALL ON OUR COLOR TV

POOL TABLE
FREE SHUFFLE BOARD
BOWLING MACHINE

SPECIAL PRICES AFTER ALL HOCKEY GAMES

Used Rare and Out of Print Books
Book Finders Service & Appraisals
WE BUY QUALITY BOOKS
PREFACE BOOKSHOP
94 CHURCH STREET UPSTAIRS
862-3032

For Your Proposal
May We Propose:

PRICES START UNDER $100.00
YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT
E.J. PRESTON & SON INC.
17 UPPER CHURCH STREET - BURLINGTON

We are the EXCLUSIVE AGENCY in Chittenden County, for FAMOUS HUDSON VITAMINS

FEATURING a COMPLETE LINE of ORGANIC, NATURAL or WATER SOLUBLE VITAMINS at LOWEST PRICES

Grandway Pharmacy
Grandway Shopping Plaza Shelburne Road

Corcoran
S. American • Mid. East
Rugs • Tapestries • Weavings
1344 Shelburne Rd. Burlington, Vt. 862-3543
862-3543 • 3712 Onyx • Wood Chess Sets • Antique Mirrors

American Indian Jewelry Silverwork
1344 Shelburne Rd. Burlington, Vt. 862-3543

The Four Vary
by Barbara Frankel

The four philosophers under investigation have presented a unified front. They have been group together and considered indistinguishable by many. There are, however, some differences between these four.

In view of the Department Review Committee announcement on Monday which favored Chairman Steven Cahn's recommendation on two of the philosophy faculty (Rice, Anderson), reversed of recommendation (4-0-0-0) and was undecided on the fourth (Paskow), it is extremely interesting to see the range of views of these four in recent Cynic interviews.

Professor Steven Cahn, Chairman of the Philosophy Department was also asked give the Cynic his views on the situation. He refused comment, simply stating "I think it would be professionally improper to comment on this." He will say, however, that he made my recommendation what I consider to be a professional academic ground. Additionally, when asked

Manchel
by Loren Wilson

Dr. Frank Manchel, professor of communication at UVM, resigned last year from the chairmanship of Governor's Committee on Children and Youth. His resignation was brought to Governor's attention by administration professor Manchel starting an independent investigation of the School.

Professor Manchel said Human Services - Sec. Thomas Davis and Correlation Commissioner - R. Stoneman had worked on his attempt to start independent investigation. Weeks, the state reform in Vergennes.

Earlier this year, psychologist at Week David Egner, charged the school's administration responsible for massive abuse and denial of the of children at the school. Stoneman and Davis deny charges that the com

In this Department

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XXI

OCTOBER 11, 1973

NUMBER 19

Alan Paskow

Robert Rice

Gerald Anderson

James Corcoran

The Four Philosophy Professors Vary In Their Views And Cases

by Barbara Frankel

The four philosophy professors under investigation have presented a unified front. They have been grouped together and considered indistinguishable by many. There are, however, some sharp differences between these four men.

In view of the Departmental Review Committee's announcement on Monday which favored Chairman Steven Cahn's recommendation on two of the philosophy four (Rice, Anderson), reversed one recommendation (Corcoran) and was undecided on the fourth (Paskow), it is extremely interesting to note the range of views of these four in recent Cynic interviews.

Professor Steven Cahn, Chairman of the Philosophy Department was also asked to give the Cynic his views on the situation. He refused to comment. "I think it would be professionally inappropriate for me to comment on the individual cases at this time," he said. "I will say, however, that I have made my recommendations on what I consider to be proper academic grounds. Additionally, when asked to comment on the philosophical dispute involved in the case, he stated, "The different philosophical outlooks have nothing to do with these cases and I think that for me to discuss them at this point would be to introduce a red herring."

James Corcoran, the only one of the four whom the committee felt had a justifiable case, also refused to comment on the situation. The only statement Corcoran was willing to give on the case was, "Having been here a short time, Professor Cahn made decisions that have very serious repercussions. I wonder if all was taken into consideration and given proper weight."

Corcoran, intimated that he might be available for further comments at a later date, but had no wish to say anything at this time, probably due to the fact that he was a member of the Departmental Review Committee. The Departmental Review Committee was split on Alan Paskow, barring one abstention. Paskow emphasized to the Cynic that there are two levels to understand in this case.

"The first," he stated, "is simply in viewing what our chairman did and considering his philosophical perspective. I don't think there was any malicious intent in his actions." The second aspect Paskow discussed was the question of why Cahn was originally chosen over such fervent opposition. Paskow felt that the university, with no direct plan or conspiracy in mind, deliberately chose the conservative candidate in the hope that he (Cahn) would understand what was necessary and "clean house to improve under Paskow did think there was a desire, on the part of the administration, to create order in the chaotic situation in which the philosophy department overthrew its former chairman." He added, "I don't see it as a conspiracy to get us specifically, but a tacit agreement between the administration and Cahn."

As to the personal charges leveled against him, Alan Paskow said he was "consequently jailed for contempt of court. Last Tuesday night Popkin spoke of his experiences in the case before a moderately hostile audience."

Popkin explained the nature of his case. He knew, Ellsberg quite well, having interviewed the man many times, when Ellsberg was working for the government as part of his research on Vietnam.

When Ellsberg gave the Pentagon Papers to the N.Y. Times and the Washington Post and they were published in June, 1971, federal investigators descended on Popkin in an attempt to gain information on Ellsberg and anyone else involved which would help the government prosecute them.

Popkin reported that he knew nothing about the release of the Pentagon Papers. He was in Hong Kong and Germany during the time they were released and didn't return to the U.S. until a month after they were out. At that time the FBI pounced on him, asking questions about Ellsberg's

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Popkin was subpoenaed to appear before a grand jury investigation. But exactly what was being investigated the federal prosecutors would not tell him. By law they are not required to.

The administration wanted to find out who within the government was responsible for leaking embarrassing or dangerous information to people who might make it public. Though it might not be a crime to discuss Vietnam, the government might find it embarrassing if some things got out. Even though he knew nothing about the Pentagon Papers, Popkin feared that things he might say would be used to destroy the careers of innocent people he knew and had talked with in the course of his scholarship. He therefore refused to talk during the Grand Jury's investigation.

Behind this lay the Supreme Court ruling, at that time very recently handed down, that people have to divulge their sources of information if that will help in the investigation and prosecution of crimes. It has repeatedly pointed out that this ruling seriously

(continued on page fifteen)

audiotapes.

Latest On The Philosophy Four

Committee Upholds Cahn On 2, Reverses 1, Split On Fourth

by John Franco

The Philosophy Department

Review Committee made public Monday its recommendations on the case of the Philosophy Four. The Committee, which initially was established to review the department and which later recommended Steven Cahn for the Department Chairmanship, in two cases upheld the recommendations of Chairman

Cahn. In two votes of 4-1,

the committee voted to uphold

Cahn's views that Professors

Bob Rice and Gerry Anderson

not be rehired. The Committee dissented with Cahn's recommendation of Jim

Corcoran, and voted 4-1 that he should stay on at UVM. In the case of Alan Paskow, the Committee split, two upholding Cahn's

recommendation that he should go, two voting against,

and one abstaining.

The Committee, by voting that one professor stay on, two go, and with one tie vote, reversed itself considerably from its position taken last year when it reviewed the entire department and found its personnel to be adequate.

In that review, the Committee found that Rice, Anderson,

Paskow, and Corcoran each merited another term at the University. But it seems that with the arrival of Steven Cahn

as Department Chairman, the criteria for considering these four professors changed considerably. In the previous evaluation, the Committee found that each of the four had been strong in the areas of teaching, ability and interdisciplinary activity, areas stressed by the University. But the recommendations by

Chairman Cahn did not deal with these areas, instead stressing written scholarship. In upholding Cahn in the cases of the two professors, the Committee apparently likewise shifted its criteria to that of Cahn's.

Philosophy Professor Will

Miller was quite bitter over the decision of the Review

Committee. He claimed that the Committee, by doing such an about-face, had not only rendered a serious blow to the principles of fairness in hiring,

but was also, in effect,

demanding that "people meet unannounced criteria." Miller also stated that the committee had demonstrated itself as much as a part of the purge as the administration, and that their actions constituted "a clear case of arrogant power."

Political Science Professor

Dick Warner, who serves as the

Convener of the Union of College Faculty, was also greatly disturbed by the Committee's actions. The UCF issued a report on Steven

Cahn's recommendations, a report which was highly critical of the consistency of Cahn's criteria and of the methods by which he acquired information on the Philosophy Four.

CALENDAR / ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar Presents...

Schedule of courses for Spring 1974 will be available in the Registrar's Office and Billings Center starting Monday, October 15th. Student Photo ID picture taking starts in Billings Center Monday, October 15th. Complete and bring with you the Student Data Card that was in your Advance Enrollment Packet.

Any discrepancies in your present Fall schedule should be reported to the Registrar's Office no later than Friday, October 19th.

Jewish History Seminars Meets

Jewish History Seminars, 8 PM Thurs. at Harris-Millis recreation room, taught by Mitch Fried.

Oct. 16: Joshua
Oct. 25: Judges
Nov. 1: Saul-Solomon
Nov. 8: Israel and Judah
Nov. 15: Ezra and Nehemiah
Nov. 29: Hellenistic Period
Dec. 6: Maccabees and Second Jewish Commonwealth
Jan. 17: Roman Period
Jan. 24: Emancipation

Sociology

Majors Meeting

Students majoring in Sociology are invited to attend a panel on careers in sociology at 8:00 p.m. on Monday, October 15, in the North Lounge of Billings Center. Among those participating in the panel, there will be Joseph Denny, director of personnel for the State of Vermont; Larry Simons, director of placement at the University; and Frank Sampson, chairman of the department of sociology at the University.

There will be a seminar in Drews Lounge, 2nd floor Old Mill on Wednesday, October 17, at 7:30 p.m. Dorothy Skandal will speak on Scandinavian-American Immigrant Literature. Coffee will be served.

Veteran's Affairs Office Opens

The Veterans' Affairs Office, which is currently being established by Congress (P.L. 93-283) has enabled UVM to establish an Office of Veterans' Affairs.

At present, a full-time counselor is available to serve as liaison for Vets, and to deal with the special academic, financial, and personal needs of Vietnam veterans and those students receiving educational benefits through the Veterans' Administration.

If you feel that your educational career could be improved through private tutoring, personal counseling, group work with other veterans, or, if you are interested in working toward improving your benefits, call or stop at the Veterans Affairs Office and talk to Barry Mansfield, 656-3244.

At present the office is located at 357, Waterman (Institutional Studies) but watch for moving date to Clement House (Admissions) in the "Cynic" and "This Week".

Yoga Classes

Ananda Marga has two classes of yoga that are still open to all. Monday 7:00 p.m. at the Unitarian Church and Wednesday 9:00 p.m. at the Next Thing (orange door next to Kelley Pharmacy, 73 Church Street). Ananda Marga is also offering a meditation class that will run for six weeks starting October 10 (last night) at 7:00 p.m. at St. Anselm's. If you are interested, see Amy, 246-D Living Learning Center, ext. 4260. People taking meditation classes should commit themselves to the full six weeks. Yoga classes are always open to newcomers. For all classes — bring a mat and empty stomach.

CUNNINGHAM

LaSalle's to Retain: Many students will remember the LaSalle Group from last year. Father "Pat" who has been responsible for two records will also be part of the group again. They will be at each Mass next weekend and will also be around during the evening on Saturday and during the day on Sunday, should anyone wish to talk with them.

Course in Basic Catholicism: Tuesday evening, October 16, at 7:30 p.m. Instructor: Fr. Omer Dufault.

Bible Study At Harris

AGR Homecoming

AGR fraternity will top off Homecoming Weekend with a Saturday, October 13, dance featuring "Downpour". Beer on tap from 9:00 to 11:00 p.m. $1.00 donation per person at the door. Alpha Gamma Rho is located at 216 So. Prospect Street, next to the Admissions Office.

Placement Office Interview Program

The Career Planning and Placement Office Employer Interview Program for graduating students will begin October 24. Students interested in participating in the program should visit the Placement Office and pick up registration forms.

Sign up Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, October 15, 16, and 17 for interviews with: October 24: Army Corps of Engineers (Civilian Employment) and October 25: Reynolds Metals Inc. and Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. In addition: The Thunderbird Graduate School of International Management will be holding personal interviews in the Placement Office on Friday, October 26.

Complete schedules of the Fall Interview Program are available in the Office for your use. Pick up a copy at 25 Cochester Ave. (Mansfield House-3rd floor).

Students whose parents are coming for Homecoming Weekend are asked to inform them that tickets for the Barbecue and Family Association Supper must be picked up in the Fleming Museum on Saturday, the 13th from 10:00 to 11:30.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12
4 p.m., Friday at Four, open house at the Arena Theatre.
6-7 p.m., Athletic Hall of Fame reception, followed by dinner, Simpson Dining Hall.
7:30 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers present a contra workshop led by Don Hyde. Regular dancing, led by Shari Bergstein, begins at 8:15. Free and open to all.
7:30 and 9:00 p.m., Lane Harold Classics Film Series presents "Frankenstein," Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Building, admission $1, at the door or tickets may be reserved by calling the Lane Office, 656-3418.
9 p.m., Roundhouse, informal musical entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere, basement of Billings Center.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 13
11 a.m.-1 p.m., Centennial Club-Chicken Barbecue, Centennial Field.
10-11:30 a.m., Family Association host registration and coffee hour for visiting parents, Fleming Museum.
4:30-5:30 p.m., deans of the undergraduate colleges will be guests on a panel to discuss subjects of interest to parents, Southwick Ballroom.
6:30 p.m., Parents Weekend dinner at Simpson Dining Hall with President Edward C. Andrews, Jr. the featured speaker. NO RESERVATIONS ACCEPTED AFTER OCT. 6. Dinner will be $4.25 per person; make checks payable to University of Vermont Family Associates and send reservations to them at Alumni House.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 15
All day art print exhibit and sale at Marsh Room, Billings Center.
9:30 a.m., Women of UVM's needlecraft interest group will meet at the home of Mrs. John McCormick, 60 Bilodeau Ct. Not necessary to bring a project. Further details from Mrs. McCormick, 864-4934.
3 p.m., music department hosts obituary Melvin Kaplan, distinguished member of the Juilliard faculty and founder-director of the New York Chamber Soloists, who will speak on "Musical Style," Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.
3:10 p.m., lecture by Dr. Stephen Fischer-Galati, professor of history and director, East European Institute, University of Colorado, "Eastern Europe in the Seventies," Dewey Memorial Lounge, Old Mill (second floor).

Pershing Rifles Goes Co-ed

CAPERS is one of the newest organizations for girls on campus. CAPER activities will range from social-community involvement to athletic opportunities and experiences not usually available to girls. Through their close alliance with the Pershing Rifles (CAPER is an acronym for Coed Affiliates of Pershing Rifles) CAPERS will be able to have extensive outdoor activities including rappelling, orienteering, canoeing, and hiking. As for campus-oriented activities, they hope to have speakers and classes on self-defense, first aid, cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, as well as other interests of the group.

CAPERS first volunteer activity was helping with last week's blood drive, and the future plans include providing transportation during the Lawrence Debate, helping organize the annual military ball, and ushering at football and hockey games.

As you have probably gathered, CAPERS is an open organization geared to the interests of each individual member. A girl can put into CAPERS or get out of it, just about anything she wishes.

If you'd like to know more about this new organization, contact CAPER c/o Pershing beginning Wednesday, October 17, at 8:00 P.M. in the Pershing Rifle lounge, Williams Science Hall.

Soap Box Derby

Chaplain Odie, Episcopal Chaplain of UVM, at St. Anselm's Chapel has announced that on Saturday, November 3rd, the first Annual St. Anselm's Fall Nationals will be held. St. Anselm's Fall Nationals is the title of a campus-wide soap box derby race which will benefit Burlington area projects of UVM's Office of Volunteer Programs (OVP).

ATO Once Again Sponsors Red Tape Contest

Once again Alpha Tau Omega is providing the means for observant students to find a small retribution for the high price of meat, the great wheat and ITT home and abroad. Its time for the second annual ATO Red Tape Contest by which someone will be winning $25, in U.S. (sorry) currency for the best guess as to just how much red tape is in this bureaucracy which exchanges the family fortune for BAs and BSs. Second prize? Palatable liquor, and third prize, a big surprise!

From Monday to Friday, the 1st of Oct. 7 the real red tape will be exposed inside the front of Billings. You got just five guesses which you better put in inches and all on one card with your name, year, and address other than transit. Boxes for guesses and a big stack of real rules will be in Billings and at ATO - 21 So. Williams St. If you're the best guesser of the multitudes and just happen to be at the ATO Homecoming party Oct. 13, your hoard increases itself to $5. A clue? Of course — last year there was 15,952 inches. Not feet, miles, meters, or grams, but inches. Don't be a dope, fight back.

7 p.m., introduction to the Bahai Faith, UVM Bahai Club, Conference Room C, Billings Center.
7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SA Films presents "The Lady Killers," the Commons, Living/Learning Center; free.

8 p.m., Lane Series concert, "Two Generations of Brubeck," featuring the Dave Brubeck Trio with Dave Brubeck at piano, and the Darius Brubeck Ensemble, with Dave Brubeck's son Darius Brubeck, Memorial Auditorium. Tickets available at $3, $5, and $6. Make reservations or pick up tickets by contacting the Lane Office, 234 Waterman; 656-3418.

8 p.m., sociology majors meeting and discussion, North Lounge, Billings Center.
8 p.m., The Next Thing presents a talk on "Echankar," the ancient science of soul travel, with Mike Short and Bernard Jaquemot, Bldg. A, Room 101, Living/Learning Center; free, open to all.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 16

All day art print show and sale, Marsh Room, Billings Center.

12:30 p.m., Women of UVM's fall luncheon at Bolton Valley Lodge, guest speaker Dr. Dolores Stocker, assistant to the president for human resources.

6:30 p.m., Student Association Senate meets, North Lounge, Billings Center.

7 p.m., Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship Bible study, Bldg. A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet for gospel music and Bible inquiry, Marsh-Austin-Tupper Halls lounge; further information from Lynn Ricker, ext. 2952.

7:30 p.m., SA Films presents "Saboteur," B-106 Cook Physical Sciences Bldg.; admission 25 cents.

8 p.m., seminar in Jewish history, given by Mitch Fried, at Hill-House (389 College Street); all welcome.

9:30 p.m., SA Films presents "Easy Virtue," B-106 Cook Physical Sciences Bldg.; admission 25 cents.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 17

Three shows open at Fleming Museum: GEORGE LORING BROWN: LANDSCAPES OF EUROPE AND AMERICA in the Main Gallery — an exhibit supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts; VERMONT LANDSCAPE: EVIDENCE/INFORMATION in the front gallery — a multi-dimensional exploration of the Vermont landscape by the students of Bill Davidson and Frank Hewitt; and THELMA APPEL in the lounge — a one woman show of contemporary landscape paintings.

12 noon, UVM women meet in the President's dining room, 3th floor Waterman Building, for "Touch" and to discuss organization of a women's caucus. Bring your lunch or pick one up at the cafeteria nearby.

12 noon - 1 p.m., radiology conference, an neuroradiology with Dr. Ring, class room, Mary Fletcher Unit, Medical Center Hospital.

3-4 p.m., radiology conference on pediatrics with Dr. Tampus, class room, Mary Fletcher Unit, Medical Center Hospital.

(continued on page eight)

Open House

At Horse Club

Many students are now aware of the UVM Horse Club, whose existence is centered around the Spear Street Farm and the sixteen horses stabled there. The club is planning an Open House (or Barn) for Parents Weekend on Sunday, October 14. Students and their families are invited, with refreshments to be served, and members will be in the barn all day to answer any questions of the visitors.

At 11:00 on Sunday a demonstration will be given in the indoor arena at the farm. The special qualities of the various breeds stabled at the barn will be shown. Several styles of riding will be shown including: jumping, dressage, polo western, and a drill team. Also on the program are demonstrations of lungeing, cavalletti work, grooming, and "tacking up".

Questions concerning the club or the functions may be directed to Jeanie Hahn, 862-4393.

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics $2.75 per page

Send for your up-to-date, 180-page, mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage. Delivery time is 1 to 2 days.

RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC. 11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2 LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025 (213) 477-8474 or 477-5493

Our research material is sold for research assistance only.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED

We're looking for part-time help to promote the campus market for film developing.

Our rep will distribute promotional materials, posters, "free" processing coupons, etc. No photo experience necessary.

Good money-maker! Your efforts backed by college newspaper ads. Don't pass this one up.

Yes, send me the information:

Name _____

Address _____

City _____

State _____

College or Univ. _____

DOMINO'S PIZZA

WATCH NEXT WEEKS CYNIC

FOR A SPECIAL OFFER YOU

CAN'T REFUSE

TILL THEN CUT THIS COUPON OUT

& ENJOY

CALL.

864-7444

WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333

NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

50c OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Expires OCT. 17, 1973

Name _____

Address _____

Phone _____

Void if not completed

1 Coupon per pizza

Get away with Coke.

It's the real thing. Coke.

Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

by Margo Howland

Talk to any student in the School of Home Economics and you will find out there more to it than biology and making brownies. Dr. Sign Betanger, Director of the School of Home Economics feels that students are truly concerned with helping others and improving the quality of human life.

The nature of the area study prompted the department to realign itself during the period of University Reorganization.

Dr. Betanger, who had been Chairman of the Home Economics Department explained the change.

The purpose of reorganization was to revise the University and to identify ways to more effectively carry out our missions. The College of Agriculture and Home Economics separated and the College of Agriculture remained a College. The change of status for Home Economics was from a department to a School.

"Home Economics has for long time had several programs."

"Journey To

The East-Asian Cultural Exchange in conjunction with the Asian Area Study Program presents "A Journey To China." This slide show will be presented in Billings Center North at 8pm on Thursday.

Poetry Reading

If anyone is interested in starting a small, intimate workshop of poetry reading and friendly criticism, you are welcome Thursday, 7 p.m. in 308 Old Mill. Don't have to be good, just bring yourself, a few conversations will be served just bring yourself, a few and maybe some verse or maybe someone else's.

T

C

147

Series On Department Chairmen:

Home Economics Concerned With The Quality Of Life

SPE Photo: Sig Wyssmanti

by Margo Howland

Talk to any student in the School of Home Economics and you will find out there's more to it than biology and making brownies. Dr. Signe Betsinger, Director of the School of Home Economics, feels that students are truly concerned with helping others and improving the quality of human life.

The nature of the areas of study prompted the department to realign itself during the period of University Reorganization.

Dr. Betsinger, who had been Chairman of the Home Economics Department, explained the change.

"The purpose of reorganization was to review the University and to identify ways to more effectively carry out our missions. The College of Agriculture and Home Economics separated and the College of Agriculture remained a College. The change of status for Home Economics was from a department to a School.

"Home Economics has for a longtime had several programs, multi-faceted units which really made it quite different from a traditional department. As the department grew and developed, the decision was to make it a free-standing unit."

The school consists of five program areas: 1) Clothing, Textiles and Design 2) Early Childhood and Human Development 3) Home Economics Education 4) Housing and Home Management 5) Human Nutrition and Foods.

"The focus of the school is on the family," Dr. Betsinger continued. "We are concerned with food, clothing, shelter, with the human relationships in the family setting, and with the aesthetics of the physical setting. We look at the family in the broadest sense. We are concerned with a 'family' of one, or of two, or more—whether this is a single-parent situation or whether it is a commune, or it is a setting of a family of Mother, Father and two children.

"We see our Home Economics Education Program as one in which we can develop educational methods for the purpose of disseminating information of concern to families. The overall mission that we have is concerned with the quality of life. We aim to have a combination of a liberal arts base and professional skills in this as well as in each of the other programs."

Dr. Betsinger indicated the areas of concentration in each program and the potential professional opportunities available. Clothing, Textiles and Design majors often go into merchandising at the baccalaureate level. For example, pattern companies hire students to develop designs, to write pattern guide, to supervise layout cutting and the like.

Concerning "Early Childhood and Human Development" Dr. Betsinger discussed the focus as "looking at the individual from birth to death: from the whole range of young child, adolescent, adult, middle-aged and the aged. It is highly possible that someone with a focus on Human Development might work in an area concerned with the aged."

Other students work in preschools and day care centers. If they combine human development and home economics education they may work in the secondary school system; Human Development is taught in Vermont high schools in Home Economics courses.

In the area of Home Economics Education students find teaching opportunities in high schools, in the consumer and homemaking programs, in middle schools, and in adult education programs. They are also apt to find jobs in the Cooperative Extension Service both in Vermont and in other states.

In Housing and Home Management, students have the opportunity to apply their skills in working with public housing authorities on housing information. Students test household equipment; there are jobs available with companies such as Whirlpool and Hotpoint in developing promotional material and testing equipment. Communications experience is very useful in the field, too, particularly in radio and television," Dr. Betsinger pointed out.

The final area is that of Human Nutrition and Foods. Students here may go into dietetics; working in hospitals as therapeutic dietitians, or may develop skills to work in combination with a hospitality industry, work with small food services such as school lunches and small restaurants or go into the area of food testing.

"We have an interdisciplinary program in nutrition in the Living-Learning Center," said Dr. Betsinger, referring to the fifth area in terms of practice. "We have twenty students from various areas of study that are clustered in one nutrition program unit. Dr. Robert Tybirk is the faculty member coordinating this program. All the students have an interest in approaching the nutrition program from his or her point of view in relation to the different majors. Students in the program are doing various kinds of projects pertaining to nutrition."

"This past week they had an exhibit dealing with consumer buying, established with the help of Mrs. Phyllis Soule in the Nutrition and Foods area of Home Economics."

Dr. Betsinger expressed an interest in furthering interdisciplinary programs with the other schools and colleges of the University, and concluded by referring again to the students' desire to help others.

"I think we have on campus this year, some excellent students who are really serious about their studies. And I am impressed particularly with their genuine concern with human beings. I think they're saying that they want to help people and are really serious about finding ways in which they can do this."

When one thinks about all that Home Economics entails, the subject area that many people know very little about becomes a vital part of the home—the community and the world around us.

Pass-No Pass Option Presents Both Advantages, Drawbacks

by Deane McGinnis

The rules for Pass-No Pass course enrollments are written in small print in the yearly UVM Bulletin. It says there that any student, once he has attained Sophomore standing, may take six P-NP courses in the rest of his time at the university. The rationale behind allowing only six courses per academic career was explained by Arts and Sciences Dean, Jeanette Folta. She said that this is "a fair number to experiment with."

The original reason for having P-NP courses was that many students were afraid to take subjects that appeared to be difficult, for fear of getting a low grade which would affect their grade point average.

In the spring of 1968, the Committee on Student Excellence proposed to the Faculty Senate that the P-NP option be put into effect. They said it would give students the chance to explore a variety of subjects without the fear of penalty. This suggestion was well received and the P-NP option began in the fall of 1968.

Since then a great number of students have enjoyed its benefits. Many take courses P-NP in order to ease the burden of their work load, and some probably do use it for its original purpose.

This is the way the system works: The student fills out the special card, has his advisor sign it, and turns it in to the Registrar. The professor never knows which way the student is taking the course, unless the student is a John Dewey fellow in which case special work may be assigned to him.

At the end of the semester, when the grades come, problems may come too. If the student has elected to take two courses P-NP (that is the limit per semester) and three for regular grades and then does badly in those three classes, Needless to say, his grade point average may be very low. Also, a student may decide to major in a field in which he earlier took a required course P-NP. Or a pre-medical, pre-dental, or pre-law student may go to another college where the courses he took P-NP are requirements.

Unfortunately, it is very difficult to change a P or NP grade to a regular letter grade. The argument has to be very convincing or the members of the committee that handles this will just ignore the case.

Little has been said or done either to improve or do away with the P-NP option. In 1972, five political science professors petitioned the Faculty Senate to abolish the option because "the P-NP option is not encouraging students to become more internally motivated and the system encourages the students not to make an intellectual commitment to their P-NP courses." The suggestion was discussed, then dropped and since then no more has been said.

At least for the next few years the P-NP option will be available to students. The Deans of each college are willing to explain benefits and drawbacks to interested students if advisors are not. Students will have until the middle of February to decide if they want to take any of next semester's courses on the Pass-No Pass option.

HOME COMING SPECIALS — 3⁶⁹

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE GREAT WEEKLY SPECIALS AT VERMONT'S LARGEST RECORD & STEREO TAPE CENTER

"Journey To China" Slide Show Next Week

The East Asian Cultural Exchange in conjunction with the Asian Area Studies Program presents "A Journey To China." This slide show will be presented in Billings Center North at 8pm on Thursday, October 18th.

Mr. John Burningham went to the People's Republic of China in March of 1972 for a five week stay. He went with the Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars' second friendship delegation. While in the People's Republic of China, Mr. Burningham visited six provinces including Manchuria, lived in a rural commune with a peasant family and also visited with China's premier Chou En Lai.

Mr. Burningham's knowledge of Chinese language and Chinese culture is extensive. He did his graduate work at Stanford University and is currently working on his PhD at Stanford on Mao Tse Tung, a leading Chinese novelist of the 1930's. Over the past decade Mr. Burningham has spent three years in Taiwan and Hong Kong. While in Taiwan he published a series of popular articles in Chinese entitled "An American's Impressions of Taiwan" in the United Daily News. These articles were later published in book form under the same title.

Mr. Burningham is teaching Chinese language and Chinese literature in translation this year at UVM. When asked his impressions of the University he said, "I am very impressed by the interest and motivation shown by my students. I feel UVM students are very capable and hard working. I am very glad to be here."

Poetry Readings

If anyone is interested in starting a small, intimate-run workshop of poetry readings and friendly criticism, you will be welcomed Thursdays, 7:00 p.m. in 308 Old Mill. You don't have to be good, just a tiny bit dedicated. Coffee and conversation will be served—just bring yourself, a few ideas and maybe some verse. Yours or maybe someone else's.

THE LAST CHANCE

A NIGHTSPOT OPEN NOW

GOOD SOUNDS

PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS

NO COVER CHARGE

OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK

147 MAIN ST.

BURLINGTON

93 Church St. Burlington
open 10-9 Mon-Fri 10-6 Sat tel. 863-4587

Discount records

Editorial

Agnew's Resignation

Vice President Agnew's belated decision to resign comes as one more shock in a year of incredible surprises.

All the facts are not yet known, perhaps they never will be, but what else is new? The public has, as per usual in Mr. Nixon's administration, been toyed "with and deceived. One day Mr. Agnew adamantly proclaims that if indicted, he will not resign. On the next day we hear of his resignation.

Spiro Agnew's guilt is not the question, it has obviously been answered: already. Richard Nixon must now recommend Agnew's successor who may very conceivably be president in a short time. Knowing Nixon, it is difficult to hope for the appointment of an honest man. We haven't seen too many lately.

B.F.

Editorial

The Mid-East Conflict

It is difficult to believe that the threat of a full-scale world war still pervades the highly "civilized" international relations of 1973. Years after the atrocities of World War II, we feel the haunting repercussions of eternal international friction.

Once again, the Arab-Israeli conflict has reached its limit and manifested itself into a dangerous war involving the entire Middle East. While this war continues to destroy the lives and homes of Jews and Arabs alike, we watch our televisions with expressions of great concern, and lament the "sacreligious violation of Yom Kippur or Ramadan."

The question at hand is not "who invaded whom," nor what holy day was desecrated by whom—but what can be done to control the situation, now that it has grown to this extreme condition. Granted, this war represents a very moving ethnic, moral conflict between two opposing cultures. But more important, the Middle East conflict poses an immediate threat to the military threat to the military balance of the industrialized nations of the world, and to the growing rapport between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

It is not enough for President Nixon to express to the nation his "great concern" over this issue. Nor can the Soviet Union restrain its alliance to the Arab countries. It is quite obvious, judging from twenty-five years of military combat, that the Israel or Arab states are not capable of producing a compromising decision which would secure a genuine peace in the Middle East. Time is too precious, to be wasted on rhetorical questions. The United Nations Security Council has an immediate responsibility to the member nations, as well as to the rest of the world, to implement a cease-fire and negotiate a realistic, comprehensive settlement between Arabs and Israelis. For the problem does not belong to the Jews of the Arabs alone, but to all of us who are cognizant of the inevitable threat of a full-scale world war.

L.D.C.

Editorial

Children's Rights

Dr. Frank Manchel's resignation last week as Chairman of the Committee on Children and Youth brought out the political chicanery concerning the cover-up of internal affairs at the Weeks School. It is now up to the people of this state to grasp for the true facts and react with true consciousness to make sure that politicians are never again able to silence the advocates of children's rights.

Dr. Manchel justifiably felt it his duty that he, an independent source, investigate to his fullest capability the goings on at Weeks. For over three months, since the June 8 riot, there has been nothing done to find out what happened or why. Never did Human Services Secretary Thomas Davis attempt to find out if the charges made by Weeks School psychologist, David Egner, were substantiated. The school administration was responsible for massive child abuse and denial of the rights of children at the school. Egner charged:

committee's action.

Dr. Manchel, who was given full support by the Governor on two separate occasions, one coming as late as September 5 at a press conference, refused to meet with Manchel to discuss the committee's direction. A solution comes out of the Administration that the Attorney General should deal with the charges stated by Egner. The Attorney who did not react when the riots took place, or when Egner made his original charges, will now step in. Now, we the people are supposed to sit back, accept Dr. Manchel's resignation, and let the Administration white wash and rebury its dirty politics involving children's rights.

We support Dr. Manchel, and admire a man who stands behind those who are too young to know abuse and unfortunately too young to express support. We ask you to write and support Dr. Manchel and ask that the media treat him as fairly as they have in the last two weeks.

Letters To The Editor

Immature S.A. Meeting

To the Editor:

The student senate meeting of Tuesday, October ninth, was one of the greatest displays of immaturity and irresponsibility I have ever witnessed. From the beginning of the discussion of Resolution R-2 concerning the dismissal of the "philosophy four," it was obvious that the mood of the senate was not going to permit an objective evaluation of the facts on both sides, especially if this would require a more detailed investigation. Instead the ramifications of R-2 were obscured by individuals who felt that if students are ever to become involved in the dismissal procedure of UVM the senate had to take strong action now in order to insure this.

The question that arises from such action is a serious one as far as the credibility and esteem of the Student Association Senate is concerned. The problem arises from the fact that the senate at the urging of Senator Pasquini, voted to pass resolution R-2 solely on the basis of very limited and biased information. It is important to note that the motion passed with no concrete documentation other than the front-page editorializing of the Cynic and the often slanderous innuendos of one of the three delegates from the Philosophy Department.

This delegation consisted of two of the four instructors in question and a third faculty member, Professor Cahn's refusal to attend the S.A. meeting on grounds that his comment would be reserved only for the appropriate investigating committee was interpreted as a "clap in the face" to interested students. This type of analysis pervaded throughout the evening and seemed to please most senators whose objectivity is improved when they can feel a little

How a body of students claiming to represent the consensus of thousands of UVM students can "censure" anyone on the basis of such limited information still eludes me.

The object of this letter is not to condemn student interest in affairs such as these, in fact I consider it their responsibility. My only concern is that the S.A. in its action Tuesday did not consider the possible impact of such a hastily arrived-at conclusion. It is regrettable that the senate assumed such a position when the facts are still unclear and the reasoning behind such premature action is unexplained. What I do condemn is the acceptance of mere conjecture and speculation in determining a course of action.

Frank von Turkovich
Town Senator

Overheated Buildings

To the Editor:

I'm sure that we all know about the recent energy crisis—there is no need to elaborate on that. What concerns me is that the University of Vermont is overheating its classrooms, hallways, and study areas. Have you ever walked into Billings at 8:30 on an October morn? It must be 80 degrees inside. I know that the Home Economics building is overheated every day—as I have morning classes there. We throw open windows to avoid heat prostration!

How many other buildings on campus are overheated?

Why are they overheated? A temperature of 65 degrees is very comfortable and helps improve our alertness for study. That is a fact.

Won't someone comment on this situation? Won't someone who has the power to do something about this please TURN DOWN THE HEAT!

Edith Stauffer

Watergate Grossly Overrated By All??

by Jeff Ryback

It may make Tom McCormick wonder why "people have been running about in a daze" over the Watergate affair, but it would outright shock me if they weren't. Mr. McCormick's "The Watergate Affair Has Been Insidious Infiltration to any half thinking person. In fact, to accept any of his suppositions would be akin to reading Orwell's 1984 or Huxley's Brave New World, and simply casting them off as good adventure. I admit the vast majority of Americans are misinformed and do struggle to understand the possible implications a scandal like Watergate might have. But such naivety has little purport when trying to explain the disenchantment many prominent arch conservatives promulgate. Are they too jumping on the band wagon? It is questions such as these, along with concrete facts, that impelled me to write what I hope will be an enlightening rebuttal.

I was first struck (or maybe I should say appalled) by T. M.'s refusal to accept Watergate as a tragedy. Instead, he claims the "Great Depression" and "World War II" the real tragedies of our time and to juxtapose Watergate would be like comparing "Leprosy to Acne." To begin with, the analogy is ludicrous if for total time and coverage given Watergate is considered, but, even discounting coverage, there is his refusal to tackle the real question, the "Human Question" and its implications. Why were the sixties smeared with blood? Why were there bombs and protests? The answer is a simple one: the public was starting to look at their government and wonder why there was no effort to legislate for the betterment of people. And here lies the real tragedy. When a government places itself outside the interests of the governed there is no less than tyranny. Why Civil Rights? Why the I.T.T. scandal? It was Senator Morse who found it hard to comprehend old men sending young men to fight their war in Southeast Asia. It was Richard Nixon who boasted about a placard saying, "bring us together," as one of his goals; and what transpired, lies and more lies (e.g. Cambodia invasion, high prices, etc.). And what about the Depression and World War II, at least people were helping people, and the war was supported by a majority. The real tragedy stems from corrupt practices of ruling government. It is just such practices that lead to needless deaths (I need only to cite Vietnam and integration problems). How does all this relate to Watergate? Again it is simple; for the first time a totally blind "middle America" is able to snip the rings from their noses to actually see what has been governing and can start questioning government policy. And the lofty Tennessee farmer who lost a son in some foreign war finally has reason to reconsider all the management he shows at the thousands who marched on Washington D.C. in protest against a war while their president watched a football game. To me a nation is people helping and loving people. And it is an issue like Watergate that allows Americans to take an objective view of their fellow man, to really see why he is complaining and that it isn't as parochial as a communist plot. It is Watergate that can bring people together on a genuine course of reform towards honesty and a government that has compassion for its people.

Tom McCormick goes on to chastise the media for over-reacting. He feels their claims that enemies lists and implications against the president based on one man's (John Dean's) testimony as tragic are "let us say, hyperbole." And again he misses the point. What does it matter who writes up enemy lists or how many people point their finger? The real issue lies in the actions and their results. It should be clear to many that the unjust have had a hand in ruling; and all the claims of deception perpetrated by the government should at least be considered now and not scoffed off in favor of some trite slogan (e.g. "My country love it or leave it"). But it is McCormick's accusations against the news media and not his semantic argument over "Tragic" that are paramount. For the media has been the tool which has opened avenues to the truth. It is the press that released the Pentagon Papers and revealed the lies behind the "Tonkin Gulf Resolution" (lies that cost thousands of lives); it is the press who suffer days in jail for not revealing sources; it is the press that uncovered the ramifications of Watergate.

I can remember listening to Radio South Africa with a black lady who rented a house and supported four children on $28 a month (enough for rent and a minuscule allotment of food) concerning the amount of money the United States wasted on one bombing mission, a mission to kill. The figure made her eyes big and round, and she asked me why all that money couldn't be used to help her feed her children. And what can you say? Can you tell her there are people starving in the U.S.? Can you tell her the taxpayer asks the same question?

In closing may I say the "tragedy of Watergate" has not been the "miscarriage of Justice in the name of justice" (in fact all the press releases will serve to exculpate more than accuse—in the eyes of justice, rather) the tragedy lies in the refusal of a nation so wrapped up in its materialistic endeavors to see the common goals of man. It is indeed sad that those who serve the people instead serve themselves.

ANNIVERSARY

A year ago, we slept,
You had wept. Wondering,
I looked into your eyes,
Tears not answering.

In the morning, we walked under the red leaves, and you said nothing. Like the leaf in the puddle, I felt alone. I wanted to hold
you. But you said nothing.

Tonight you will sleep,
no longer weeping,
and perhaps you laugh
with him, as we once...

Like the leaf in the puddle,
I remain, heading nowhere;
I can't even cry.

A year ago, we slept.

Steven C. Rice

A Differing Opinion:

by Tom E. McCormick, '75

If you are one of the many students, who thought that the most exciting thing to do on campus this year was watch your fingernails grow, rest assured: relief is at hand. There's a cause abrewin'. There will be plenty to do: fliers to print, speeches to make, and meetings to attend. So stay tuned.

Cahn Stands For "More Academic Freedom"

Briefly, the issue is this: Professor Steven Cahn, chairman of the Philosophy department, recently recommended that four instructors in his department not be rehired, on the grounds, we are told, of academic incompetency. The four teachers immediately took their case to the students. They claimed that the decision to fire them was political and not academic. They further pointed out that: a) Professor Cahn was overwhelmingly rejected (9-1) by the members of the department when he was nominated as chairman—yet the university hired him anyway; b) he has only been at UVM for a month; c) he is of the "analytic" school of philosophy, while the majority of the department is of the "socio-political" school. And it is also suggested (in the words of a Cynic editorial) that academic freedom is threatened, and that the university is merely attempting to "spoon feed the students with 'appropriate information'". The arguments are weak. Admittedly, the administration bungled when it asked the members of the department for their opinion and then disregarded that opinion. It was poor judgement and it was ill-considered (which isn't at all surprising, when you remember that the administration also planned such environmental monstrosities as the Living-Learning Center and the Jughandle). But it was the administration's right to choose a new chairman.

Secondly, one month isn't, perhaps, enough time to completely assess someone's capabilities—but, let's face it, the department members themselves rejected Dr. Cahn after much less than one month's consideration.

Thirdly, the university isn't out to halt the "free" flow of information. Dr. Will Miller, who was granted tenure last year, makes George McGovern look like a reactionary. The "free" flow of ideas would actually be encouraged if Dr. Cahn's recommendation is accepted. It is a common assumption that college expands your horizons by exposing you to new ideas, and that there is growth in intellectual variety. Under that assumption, intellectual stimulation is nil if everybody agrees.

Ideally, the university encourages every shade of opinion. Ideally, there is place for the Gestalt psychologist as well as the behaviorist, for the conservative as well as the liberal. The department of philosophy needs new ideas and different opinions. It should offer more than the "socio-political" school of thought. And then there will be more academic freedom.

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF Steven Wood '74

BUSINESS MANAGER Barbara Frankel '75

ASSISTANT EDITOR Ruth Hay '74

MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74

NEWS EDITOR Bruce Macdonald '76

ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lisa Charles '75

FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75

SPORTS EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75

ADVERTISING MANAGER Loren Wilson '74

NEWS: Betty Andrews, Doug Boardley, Dave Campagne, Bill Campbell, Fred Doten, Dan Hansen, Randy Jensen, Jill Markert, Dawn McGinnis, Andrew Morse, Wendy Nelson, Laurie Rapp, Kathy Stasni, John van Hoesen.

FEATURE: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Carol Dufault, Barbara Friedman, Jonathan Luf, Joseph Ohlan, Karen Trotter.

COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, John Franco, Elliot Freeman, Greg Guma, Ron McNeil, Steven Rice, Jim Sloan, Scott Sweney, Jim Wimet.

SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Andy Morse, Alan Patashnick, Norm Robinson, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilmet.

ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Abbie Schaefer.

PRODUCTION: Tom Farris, John Lunde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valyon, Joan Westcott.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board. Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and business offices in Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 638-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication. Founded in 1883. Subscription rate: $8.00 per year (single copy: two cents). Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

IT IS TRUE THAT SOME MARIJUANA
FACT I'M BURNING

©COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICE

The Devil's Looking

There are two sides to every coin. One side of a particular coin is the one that is concerned to that they view. This is the purpose of the coin. I would like to bring you to a point where you can see the coin in details, but unreliable from time to time. I will accept the coin and do not, necessarily, large, nor the executive.

In reality, UVM Rescued the Ambulance didn't. An organization is dated from easy. A lot of criticism of themselves, for whom they have been a lot of case spreading rumors about squad, or of the squad anything about the squad. It has reached a stage where it has been possible for us to or were not carried out complaints don't let any until they have spread.

Let's take a hypothetical random) is having added squad. The squad is a hospital in a doubled is the most comfortable lives on the same floor doesn't think the patient that position. He tells

Cynic Monday

1. Three
2. All U
3. All en
4. All en
5. Limit
- 7 pag
6. Judge
- from t
- Tom S
7. Winn
- after
8. First

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

IT IS TRUE THAT I DID RECEIVE
SOME MARIJUANA IN THE MAIL, IN FACT I'M BURNING IT NOW!

© COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES-BOX 9411-BERKELEY, CA 94709

The Bad Little Professors, Alan, Bob, Gerry, and Jim

by Scott Cahoon

This is the story of Alan, Bob, Gerry, and Jim, the bad little professors. Once upon a time at Groovy Yuvy, Jim, Alan, Bob, and Gerry, the bad little professors, were all gathered around the pot-bellied hookah in Gerry's office. They were thinking of mean and nasty tricks to play on the Kind and Benevolent Administrators who took care of the Money and protected the Truth. The bad little professors didn't know the value of Money, and always demanded to see the Truth, but the Kind and Benevolent Administrators knew better than to show it to them, so the bad little professors were always thinking up mean and nasty tricks to play.

In order to warm up their thinking caps, the bad little professors were recalling some of the old mean and nasty tricks they had used. Alan said, Remember when the Kind and Benevolent Administrators said we had to promise to be good, and instead we stamped our feet and cried and took them to court?

Yes, said Gerry, that was fun. I took lots of time off from writing my thesis.

Me, too, Jim said. I wasn't about to play along with their dirty capitalist schemes.

It was fun, agreed Alan, even though they won in the end.

We should have done the same to them as we did to that capitalist pig Hall, declared Jim. We should have kicked them out on their bourgeois bippies.

Bob said, We should have brought about their premature deaths.

You're always thinking about death, Gerry exclaimed. Why not? Bob posed. Death is the ultimate answer to all questions.

Are you getting extra pay for acting as department chairman? Alan queried.

No, answered Bob. The Kind and Benevolent Administrators say that I don't know the value of Money.

Cheer up, Bob, said Gerry. Help is on the way. I hear they are going to hire a new chairman to take your place.

Great! Bob exclaimed. Now I'll have time to work on my paper for the Academy of Religion, "Death and the Voyeur."

But wait, cautioned Alan. Who is this new chairman? What do you know about him?

Let's hope he's a good red-blooded All-American communist, said Jim.

I don't think he is, said Gerry. He's some guy named Con. He says communism is against his religion.

Con! Bob exclaimed. Isn't that the guy we stuffed the ballot box against last semester?

Why yes, Bob, I believe you're right, Gerry mentioned. I had completely forgotten about that.

Jim cautioned. We can't let those imperialists pull a bourgeois revisionist trick like that. This calls for our dirtiest and meanest tricks.

You're right, Bob agreed. I've practically driven this department to complete and utter ruin. If this Con man takes over, it will be all for nothing.

We'll stop them, Alan proclaimed. I'll plant a stink bomb in Rolling's office.

I'll make sure the Vermont Cynic writes biased articles in our favor, said Gerry.

I'll go raise student support in favor of poor, oppressed philosophy professors, said Jim.

I'll go around writing nasty things on mgn's rooms walls, said Bob. Con can't find the Truth! Democratize the philosophy department!

In the weeks that followed, the bad little professors did their meanest and nastiest to stop Con from coming. But the Kind and Benevolent Administrators, knowing full well what was Best for All Concerned (especially for themselves, for after all, they were the protectors of the Truth, which has a lot to do with what is Best for All Concerned), appointed Clever Con to bring Order and Decency to the philosophy department.

Con wasn't called Clever for no reason. Within three weeks he had Gerry, Jim, Alan, and Bob running scared.

One day he hid behind the Boulder and tackled Gerry as he was running from the Old Mill.

Oof! Gerry ejaculated. Gotcha! proclaimed Con. I just read your thesis, and in my opinion it is shallow and a poor example of scholarship. Considering the time it took you to get it done, it's an unmitigated failure.

Wait a minute, Gerry protested. The people at Western liked it.

I don't care what those phenomenological frauds think, said Con. I've solicited the opinions of other learned scholars and they all agree with me. How did you manage to hand it in three years late?

I was busy, Gerry replied. I had a lot of extra activities.

Right, sneered Con. Like peace marches and general rabble-rousing. You had no business engaging in other activities with your thesis still unfinished. A time and a place for everything. That goes for you, too, you Marxist clown.

Con added as he collared Jim dashing by. You're even slower than Gerry here. Where's your thesis?

Leave me alone, Con, Jim demanded. I have a class to teach.

Never mind that, said Con. We've got more important things to talk about here. I hear that you claim to know the Truth.

That's right, said Jim, and I'll lay it on you right now. Workers of the world—

Enough! snapped Con. Don't you know that we are the only ones with the Truth, and that it is the one and only Truth?

Let's see it, Gerry demanded.

No way, denied Con.

Bob, whose office they were near, had overheard the dialectic outside his window. He told Con, Your Truth is dead.

The Devil's Advocate

Looking Back On The First Year: It Was Rough

by Alan King

There are two sides to every story and everyone has his own idea of how things should be. Perhaps by presenting one side of a particular issue, enough people will become concerned so that they will also want to express their views. This is the purpose of "The Devil's Advocate." Each week I would like to bring up a local, campus-oriented issue and invite you to respond. I will try to be as accurate as possible in details, but some of my sources may be unreliable from time to time and I may have to rely upon hearsay. I will accept full responsibility for this. Once again let me state that the opinions contained herein are my own and do not, necessarily, reflect those of the student body at large, nor the executive board of the Cynic.

In reality, UVM Rescue was a year old back in May, but the Ambulance didn't arrive until September 10th, so the organization is dated from that time. The going hasn't been easy. A lot of criticism has been coming from the students themselves, for whom the organization was set up. There have been a lot of cases where people have gone around spreading rumors about the competency of members of the squad, or of the squad in general, without knowing anything about the specific incidents involved. Only when it has reached a stage where it gets back to one of us has it been possible for us to explain why certain procedures were or were not carried out. It's really a shame that people with complaints don't let anyone on the squad know about them until they have spread them around and started rumors.

Let's take a hypothetical case. J. M. (initials selected at random) is having abdominal pain. Someone calls the rescue squad. The squad responds and transports J. M. to the hospital in a doubled up position (the position in which he is the most comfortable in this case). Another student who lives on the same floor as J. M. watches the whole thing, but doesn't think the patient should have been transported in that position. He tells this to the other people at the table at lunch the next day. They tell others, and the rumor is started that UVM Rescue is a bunch of hackers. If this other person had called our dispatcher and asked, chances are he would have received an immediate answer to his question. But because of the rumor mill, the opinion of one becomes a charge against the squad.

Believe it or not, every complaint is logged and investigated by the officers. No one complaint has been pushed aside lightly; all are taken with the utmost sincerity. No complaint has caused anyone ever to be dismissed from, or reprimanded by the squad. Almost all charges turn out to have a totally rational explanation. But still there are some who do not believe in the sincerity and dedication of those working with UVM Rescue. It's really pitiful when the confidence of the Trustees, SA Senate, University Administration, and Burlington Fire Department is with you, but some students insist upon doing everything in their power to discredit you. I hope that you will think twice about any rumors you have heard about Rescue, and give our dispatcher a call if you have any questions. We're just students, like you, who happen to have a mutual interest in emergency medical service and have taken training in that area. If you have any questions about squad procedure, please contact the public relations director of the squad, Alan King, at 656-3353.

Now, more about our first year. In an effort to make the UVM and Burlington Community aware of our presence we have taken part in the OVP fair, assisted at Firemen Training Exercises, provided coverage at all UVM concerts, football games, hockey games, soccer games and special events such as the Winooski Raft Race (in which we coordinated five other rescue units). We have conducted training exercises with the Shelburne Boy Scouts, Burlington International Games, and the Burlington Bicycle Race. We have attempted to respond to any request for coverage of events. All, needless to say, voluntarily.

We managed to stay in service over all vacations. During this past summer a group of students were able to stay in the Burlington area and work on the squad. Most of them found jobs in the area, but stayed on alert in case the ambulance was needed either by the summer school or by the Burlington Community. The summer crew is now competing for a national "Manpower" award for the work they performed. It was rough, we didn't know if we would have enough people to cover the summer. It was basically a matter of losing our license or losing our vacation. We chose the latter.

Our back-up policy with Burlington Fire Department has given us about two calls a day and vast amounts of experience. That's the main reason we back up the city—to better train our members for campus emergencies. We also conduct numerous training drills, some with the crews of BFD's Rescue 1.

The lights and siren are used only when a definite emergency exists, by the way. We have found a way so that the crews no longer have to take the ambulance to the dining halls to lunch, thus saving gas and improving our emergency response time.

We have monthly examinations for all squad members, and weekly training sessions. Twenty-five students have applied for membership since Sept. 5th, most of whom are

(continued on page seven)

Cynic Creative Writing Contest Deadline:

Monday, November 12, 1973 12 Noon

Rules

1. Three categories: short story, essay and poetry.
2. All UVM students, full and part time, may enter.
3. All entries must be typed, double spaced.
4. All entries to be handed in to Cynic office with name and address on separate paper.
5. Limit of 15 pages on short story, 7 pages for essay.
6. Judges will be 3 faculty members from the English Department: Professors Tom Simone, Alan Broughton, and Alan Shepherd.
7. Winners will be announced in the first issue after Thanksgiving vacation, Nov. 29.
8. First prize in each category: $25.00

IF YOU'RE INTO A HEALTH FOOD BAG

COME TO

YE OLDE SWEET SHOPPE

HONEY DROPS

UNIVERSITY STORE

ON THE CAMPUS

Mason Succeeds In Making People Happy

SPE Photo: Allen Goodrich

by Susan Edwards

The evening of the Dave Mason concert began on a pretty sour note, and by 8:30 I was just about to lose hope. In spite of the first performer, my spirits were surprisingly uplifted by Dave Mason.

The concert began on a sour note because of the wait to get into the Steven F. Ross Sports Center and then the ensuing crush when the doors were finally opened. The natives started to get restless at about 7:40 and by 8:10 had turned irate. Two doors were opened and about five hundred people all tried to get in at the same time. As for myself I merely picked up my feet and let the crowd carry me.

After a good half-hour of crowd sitting the show was ready to start. Much to everyone's surprise, the first performer was a comedian not at least that's what he called himself whose first name was Gabriel and whose last name no one seems to be able to remember. He went through a series of routines which were verbatim a la George Carlin. There's just so much one can take of jokes about New York City, grammar school and Ed Sullivan, without nodding out for a while. He did have some funny lines but these were few and far between. He only made about three-quarters of the audience restless and I gathered this by the general lack of attention he received. Constant chatter could be heard and people were moving back and forth in their seats waiting for him to finish. Probably the funniest part of his show was when he said, "It sure is good to be back in New York" and the audience readily shouted "You're in Vermont!" at which point he feebly said, "Well I was in New York yesterday." All in all I could have done without him and so could have Dave Mason's show.

The way for Dave Mason was the next part of an already prolonged evening. For forty-five minutes the audience impatiently watched the set-up equipment; and of course others flew wildly saying that Dave Mason hadn't shown up yet. The reason for his continual delay concerned his guitar. Someone had apparently stolen it and one had to be found in its place. When he entered on stage, he told this to the audience in a pretty belligerent tone, which revealed an obvious mood. I wondered at that point whether he really cared enough to put on a good concert when his heart couldn't possibly have been in it.

His repertoire started out with three mellow tunes, two of which were from his Alone Together album and the third from a new one. Except for the fact that he mused up the words in World in Changes these tunes were very enjoyable to listen to, but one could have flipped on an album and gotten the same effect. At this point he introduced his band and I knew the mood would pick up 100% which it did. Besides playing the rest of Alone Together he did three cuts from his new album which will definitely be worth an acquisition. During Only You Know and I Know there was a fine jam between Mason and his lead guitarist and the only damper on this was the fact that St. Mike's gym has some of the worst acoustics I've ever heard. It took my ears two days to recover. For his last number Look At You, Look At Me Mason gave the audience a last chance to boogie and most people took advantage of this. Everyone was up and dancing, or if not dancing at least up after which he received a resounding encore. He came back with two old favorites, Feelin' Alright and Gimme Some Lovin'.

Dave Mason did a good job of making people happy and the evening ended on a happy note. I can't say this was all worth my $4.50 for there was only about forty good minutes but it was a way to spend an otherwise uneventful evening.

Verona: Stunning ...

(continued from page six)

of choreography and the tales of confused lovers who don't know what they want. Yet underneath this levity, there exist many of Shakespeare's lines which tell of his philosophies of love. These important points are missed by the audience and what could essentially be a tragedy is a hysterical sideshow and the moments of anguish which are present in the play are buried in the sandboxes of Verona and Milan. The music was spectacular and added a great backup for the swinging and swaying on stage. After the curtain was closed, the band added a little light on itself by playing on and each member rose to take a musical bow. Margaret Harris is a skilled conductor.

All in all the play was practically flawless, and the audience fell in love and wanted to see more of that rhythmic action which was so prevalent throughout. This play is a must for next week just for its sheer professionalism. The play hit its spectacular and must receive a triple star rating.

Devil's Advocate...

(continued from page five)

taking the Red Cross standard/advanced course offered by squad instructors to all students.

Our goal is to treat the injured and transport them to medical help. We must be able to quickly evaluate an emergency situation and take the proper action. We realize our obligation to the students of the University of Vermont and they are always our primary concern. We have never refused any student transportation when needed for a medical reason. Our job is to serve. If you have any suggestions or criticisms, please let us know so that we may improve ourselves. Our purpose is not to sit in the end zone flashing our gold jackets so everyone knows we are there, but rather to be available in an emergency situation. We can be reached 24 hours a day at the Watson Infirmary. The non-emergency number is 656-3352 or 656-3353. We are concerned about our reputation. You can help us to better help you by heading off rumors as you hear them. Have you any idea what it's like listening to someone say "I'd never call those hackers if my life depended on it!"? Someday it might.

Putnam String County Band To Appear In Billing

On Friday October 19, at 8 p.m. the Billings Center Board of Governors in conjunction with the Student Association Concert Bureau will present the Putnam String County Band at the fireplace. This will be the first of a series of concerts sponsored by BCBG. The Putnam String County Band is a home-based band playing home made music. Jay and Lyn Ungar, Abbey Newton and John Cohen present string guitar, mandolin, and cello-band diversity ranging from They met at a Hudson River old-time country music to sleep festival, and together with local truck drivers and carpenters, have developed their hand at local square dances and benefits. Their music maintains a home-made sound—most of their performances have been in living rooms and at community functions around Putnam County, New York.

There will be a limited number of tickets (250) for the first floor and second-floor balconies. Students are requested to purchase tickets at Billings Center Information desk. $7.50 with student I.D. and $1.50 general admission.

Van Morrison's 'Highway' Good For Filling Up The Silence

by Doug Collette

HARD NOSE THE HIGHWAY
Van Morrison
(Warner Bros. BS2712)

Van Morrison came close to pure pop music with Tupelo Honey, but the all-encompassing contentment conveyed through its songs was too deeply felt to be treated as anything truly lightweight. Likewise, Astral Weeks, Moodance, and His Band & The Street Choir are almost as much an emotional statement as a musical one, could never be mural, they so strongly demanded and grasped one's attention.

But with Honey Van has gone as far as possible in that direction and it was indeed reassuring to witness the adventurousness of St. Dominic's Preview, Hard Nose the Highway. However, no questionable lyrics, no and, as to say, is the one Van Morrison LP you should play just for the sake of filling silence.

I had a strong suspicion (and hope) that his new recording would be lively and energetic, if not rousing rock and roll, then some of the spirited rhythm and bluesness of much of his recent live sets.

Not by a long shot. Morrison seems to be taking refuge in a calm, gentle jazz mode that, while pleasant enough in itself and certainly with much potential for exploration in the hands of someone like Van and his high-calibre musicians, becomes numbing over the course of an entire album. There's a little variation of tempo or decibel level in the songs of Highway and the arrangements are uniformly spare with only touches of strings and horns. John Platania's fills can only be described as tiny and though Jeff Labes' piano playing is polished and superb, it's not enough, largely because Van's singing, usually willing with emotion, is so placid.

"Snow In San Anselmo" is a promising beginning, the use of the Oakland Symphony Chorus complementing desolate lyrics in a vein similar to Neil Young's "Don't Let It Bring You Down." The more unexpected that makes this track the record's most successful.

Things began to go wrong with "Warm Love." A lovely and moving composition, Van's semi-falsetto sounds forced and unnatural and sabotages the appropriately mild music behind it.

The title song acquits itself reasonably well, but initiates an enigmatic lyrical trend, that carries over to, and damages, both "Wild Children" and "The Great Deception." The former consists of all-too-vague allusions to Brando, Dean and Tennessee Williams and perpetuates the nearly non-stop quiet while "Deception" is pretty much a rant, made all the more disconcerting because it's so low-key.

I suppose it's possible to see "Green" as a piece of whimsy, but Van's dead-serious singing betrays the lightheartedness of Joe Raposo's words; musically, the cut isn't much above cocktail fare either. "Autumn Song" might've been a palatable companion to "Warm Love" had it been half its length. Stretching over ten minutes, though, it comes off as boring and pointless, having neither the gripping passion of "Listen to the Lion" or the instrumental imagery of "Almost Independence Day."

When an album tracks me off-balance like this one does, I look for signs of hope everywhere. An album's concluding cut can often suggest a bridge to subsequent album(s) and so I hope it is with Van's arrangement of "Wild Mountain Thyme," here entitled "Purple Heather." As mild as everything that precedes it, it nevertheless emanates an insistence, even an urgency, that can be found only back on "Snow In San Anselmo." It's a performance of the same stream-of-consciousness spirit as Astral Weeks in that it only implies moods and feelings rather than articulating them with words and music.

But "Purple Heather" is a long way from "Snow" and what comes in between is actually nothing that bears or deserves many repeated

DISCOVER US. . .
NOW

★ CHAMPAGNE
★ SILVER DOLLAR WITH PURCHASE
★ 20% OFF ALL PANTSUITS AND LONG DRESSES
Tops and pants for Guys and Gals
*Accessories

dj's PLUM
HIS & HER FASHION BOUTIQUE

1000 FERRISBURG RD., SO. DARTMOUTH 05403
GRAND OPENING

OCTOBER 11, 12 OCTOBER 13
10 a.m. - 9 p.m. 10 a.m. - 3 p.m.

KATHARINE HEPBURN PAUL SCOFFIELD LEE REMICK KATE REID JOSEPH COTTEN BETSY BLAIR EDWARD ALBEE	ZERO MOSTEL GENE WILDER AND KAREN BLACK EUGENE IONESCO	CYRIL CUSACK IAN HAWK MICHAEL JAYSTON VIMEN MERCHANT TERENCE RAVEN PAUL ROBERTS HAROLD PINTER	LEE MARVIN FREDRIC MARCH ROBERT RYAN JEFF BRIDGES BRADFORD DILLMAN EUGENE O'NEILL
DELICATE RAY TONY RICHARDSON	RHINO CERO TOM O'HORGAN JOE LAYMAN JULIAN BARRY	THE HOME COMING PETER HALL	THE ICEMAN COMETH JOHN FRANKENHEIMER
STACY KEACH ROBERT STEPHENS HUGH GRIFITH JOHN O'BRIEN	THE NATIONAL THEATRE COMPANY OF ENGLAND ALAN BATES LAURENCE OLIVIER JOAN MARCUS ANTON CHERNOV	BROOK PETERS MELBA MOORE RAYMOND ST. JACQUES KURT WEIG MAXWELL ANDERSON	ALAN BATES JOAN MARCUS RICHARD O'CALLAGHAN SIMON GRAVE
INTHER EDWARD ANHART	THREE SISTERS LAURENCE OLIVIER	LOST IN SPACE DANIEL MANN ALFRED HAYES	BUTLEY HAROLD PINTER

Great plays transformed into great new movies by your kind of writers, directors, stars.

One Monday and Tuesday a month, October through May. Four showings, two evenings and two matinees, and that's it.

Starts October 29th and October 30th at a local popcorn factory (see theatre list below).

SPECIAL COLLEGE DISCOUNT
Seats are limited. Get down to the box office (or Ticketron) with a check. Eight evenings: $30. Eight matinees: $16 for students and faculty, $24 for everybody else.

THE AMERICAN FILM THEATRE

1500 Ave. of the Americas, N.Y. 10019

Phone: (212) 465-4620

THE AMERICAN FILM THEATRE IS A MEMBER OF THE AMERICAN FILM INSTITUTE

AND THE FILM LANDAU ORGANIZATION, INC.

AMERICAN FILM INSTITUTE IS A MEMBER OF THE NATIONAL FILM BOARD

HERE'S WHERE YOU GO TO JOIN THE AMERICAN FILM THEATRE

PLAZA I + II
DORSET STREET
BURLINGTON, VT.
862-4343

EXHIBITION DATES

Monday Series	Tuesday Series
Oct 29 1973	Oct 30 1973
Nov 12 1973	Nov 13 1973
Dec 10 1973	Dec 11 1973
Jan 21 1974	Jan 22 1974
Feb 4 1974	Feb 5 1974
Mar 11 1974	Mar 12 1974
Apr 8 1974	Apr 9 1974
May 6 1974	May 7 1974

guy cheng's

CHARLOTTE, VERMONT

Has Expanded

Indian Imports
blazers, pants
Denskin tops
Sweaters

Unusual jewelry

9 - 5:30 Mon. - Sat

9 - 9 Fri.

1 - 5:30 Sun.

BankAmericard
Mastercharge Welcome

SWISS HOUR

weekdays

3 to 6 pm.

ALL DRINKS
AT HALF PRICE

Swiss Chocolate Pot

1242 Shelburne Rd.
next to Village Sports

Senior Class News

The Senior Class Council meeting will be on October 19 at 2 p.m. in conference room upper Billings. All interested seniors are invited.

Calling from INDIA - MEXICO - AFGHANISTAN

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Interoceanic

Musicians Bring Sunshine To Billings

SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

Bob Goldstein and Richard Cohen are musicians who live on the road Monday afternoon they brought their music to the steps of Billings Library. A good-sized crowd sat in the sunshine, some clapped, some sang along, and many donated money to the open guitar case in front of the singers. They played songs by J. J. Winchster, Van Morrison, the Band, and others.

Bob and Richard said they thought their acceptance here at UVM was "subdued," and said the time of the week has a "redo" with it. They've played at colleges across the country, and this is "about as subdued as it's been."

At any rate, they're glad to be in Vermont. When they left California two months ago, their goal was to reach New England. This was their first day in Vermont and they love it here.

The two of them travel in a couple of Chevy vans and their future plans are hazy. They are looking forward to playing at

Senate Censures Chairman Cahn

by Bruce Madden

A motion censuring Philosophy Chairman Steven Cahn was passed by the S.A. Senate this week.

Tuesday night's meeting was highlighted by appearances of three philosophy professors: Miller, Anderson, and Corcoran. They spoke about their knowledge and opinion of what is happening and what did happen in the recent dismissal of Anderson.

Mr. Heller, who presided, opened the meeting by saying a new chairperson has not yet been elected due to the resignation of Jim Stoman. Attendance was taken, and already a marked drop was shown. Many were missing, including some town Senators, which is a switch from last year's mock policy. In the president's report, Heller discussed the informal meeting Monday night with Dr. Rollins about the Commission on Higher Education, and that a committee would be formed to review the aspects from the S.A. standpoint.

In the Concert Bureau Report it was announced that Roberto Flack had cancelled for this Saturday, supposedly due to illness.

Steve DeCesnak entered three names for nomination on the Finance Committee and entered two motions for allocation and recognition to be included in new business.

Under Old Business, R. 1, which was a motion to support the board formed by the Smallwood Commission, was tabled until the committee formed to research the problem has some definite information. R. 2, Ed Pasquain's motion to censure Professor Cahn's recommendation concerning the rehiring of the philosophy professors was then discussed. Will Miller, tenured professor and member of the review committee, as well as Anderson and Corcoran, attended the meeting and spoke on their positions, opinions, and knowledge of the problem.

Anderson began by giving his history of what happened, and what is to follow. The basis of firing was that his doctoral dissertation was of "no philosophical merit." But Northeastern, under which graduate program he is enrolled, has already accepted it.

Miller said that it "looks like a purge" because these guys embarrassed the University. Also, they mentioned that President Andrews announced last year that evaluation of rehiring would be based on teaching ability. No one was able to do this. However, the Anderson case was a concerned. They also mentioned Cahn had no chairman experience. They also stated the competition for his position, already chairman at Colorado and Roosevelt College, were full professors. Both of these men were awarded best teaching awards at their respective colleges. Additionally they mentioned that UVM has since granted Cahn full professorship and tenure. Also explained was the report of the Faculty Union investigation Committee which said that Cahn should remove his recommendations voluntarily, because of procedural errors, and because due process was not given the four professors in the re-evaluation review. Concluding their discussion.

(continued on page eleven)

The Next Thing, Is More Than Just A Bus

by Bill Campbell

If you have happened to walk by 146 South Williams Street some fine day on your trek to the main campus, no doubt you've been startled by the presence of a red bus stuffed around toward the back of the building in bold yellow print, the words "THE NEXT THING" jump out at you from the sides. Now, you wonder to yourself, what is that strange thing doing behind the UVM Counseling Center?

And I'll bet that even with your curiosity aroused slightly as to what THE NEXT THING might be, you'll stroll on past on your way to Billings Center.

But turn around next time you pass by that way, for although you may have caught glimpses of what they are into, it seems that very few people are fully aware of the programs the group offers. The center most definitely has a service or services that could make your college years more meaningful and certainly more interesting.

Funded by the Federal Office of Education as a drug education program, THE NEXT THING has evolved into a group helping people orient themselves towards a fuller capacity of understanding themselves and their relations with other people. Drug abuse is only a symptom of an increasing number of people finding little meaning to their lives. THE NEXT THING is offering many viable alternatives to chemical highs by getting people into other means of consciousness-raising.

The center also acts as a connection between people searching for other means of extending their education, part of a chain maintained to help students in their search for personal fulfillment.

People seem to have an innate need to grow, to seek a sense of fulfillment for themselves. As a result of this need, THE NEXT THING deals with anyone who is interested in human growth activities, has a specific problem or need, or who just wants to become more involved with people on a higher, personal level. This includes not just drug abusers, but all students, parents and children.

The program is divided basically into three components in which people can choose to work according to their major areas of interest: COMMUNITY PROGRAMS: This group of programs is involved in conducting drug education workshops for parents and other community groups in the Burlington Area, developing educational materials, working with other service agencies such as The Place, Shac, the police department, neighborhood youth groups, Corrections, etc. Interested people are also conducting workshops in communication skills, value clarification, and quality.

ALTERNATIVE PROGRAMS: Developing growth and self-awareness through meditation, Yoga, arts and crafts, Aikido, Tai Chi Chuan, Transactional Analysis, theatre games, encounter groups, massage, body movement, and dance are examples of the object of this area of the program.

Many of the courses and a nominal fee, a portion of which is returned to the program to broaden its scope and insure the maintaining of their already fruitful program. During its three year existence, the center has come into closer contact with the university system. Dr. Richard Does, head of the counseling service of UVM, acts as a liaison between the University. Working in conjunction with it, the system is turning students on to other agencies within the University. The office of THE NEXT THING is a bustling center for much of the non-political action at the University. However, I suppose that depends on your definition of "political action." One person describes the center as a program concerning personal politics rather than massive group politics.

A variety of Encounter Groups will be offered beginning next week by staff members and associates of THE NEXT THING. An information table will be set up today and tomorrow in Billings Center to provide students with detailed information about the leaders and the proposed groups. In addition, two public orientation meetings will be held to give prospective participants an opportunity to meet the facilitators and form judgments before joining the groups.

The facilitators and their proposed groups are as follows: On Sunday afternoons (2-6 p.m.) John Perry and Donna Lescoe, Wednesday afternoons (3:15 to 5:15 p.m.) David Healey, Harvey Bond, and Helena Kuskis; Wednesday evenings (starting at 7 p.m.) Dan Meyers and Brad Summers; and Thursday evenings (starting at 7 p.m.) John Lippencott and Fredericka McGrath. All groups except the Sunday afternoon group will be held at The Space, The Next Thing's downtown meeting facility, 73 Church Street, Third Floor.

All of the group leaders have had several semesters' experience leading groups for The Next Thing, and are concurrently participating in a training program of their own. Last year about 50 UVM students participated in similar groups.

Public orientation and information meetings will be held on Monday night, Oct. 15, at 8 p.m. in Billings Center and on Tuesday night, Oct. 16, at 6 p.m. at The Space, 73 Church Street. Groups will begin meeting immediately. For more information, contact The Next Thing at 656-3340 or 862-2013.

WHAT IT IS IS WHAT'S HAPPENING OR PERSONAL MOVEMENT FRU. Oct. 12: 7:30 p.m., $2.00, Karen Aschenbach, March Denmark. HUMAN SEXUALITY, Sat. Oct. 13: 7:30 p.m., $2.00, Howard Mental Health, 260

College St. BIOENERGETIC WORKSHOP, Sat. Oct. 13, 10-5, $20.00, Robin Litchfield, Fred at the bioenergetic workshop facility on Ireland Rd. - Starksboro, VT. Registration and information: (Robur) at 435-3546. WOMEN'S SURVIVAL TRAINING FOR SEPARATION AND DIVORCE, Thursdays, Oct. 18 and 25, 7-10 p.m. $3.00 for both. Sandy, Hard, Nancy Koch, Peggy Luths. BASIC INTERPERSONAL ENCOUNTER, Fri. Oct. 19, 6 p.m. to Sat. Oct. 20, 6 p.m., $5.00 plus food, John Perry at the Center for Human Potential, E. Monkton, VT. (453-6660). GESTALT-ORIENTED WORKSHOP, Sat. Oct. 20, 7-10 p.m., Sun. Oct. 21, 10-5, $14. David Sokol.

BIOENERGETICS, an informal discussion and demonstration, Wed. Oct. 24, 7-10 p.m., $1.00, Robin Litchfield at Marsh Lounge, Billings Center, UVM. SUGGESTOLOGY (HYPNOSIS) AND PARAPSYCHOLOGY (ESP), Fri. Oct. 26, 7 p.m. to Sun. Fri. Oct. 28, 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. (includes food and lodging), Ken Miller at the Rock Point Conference Center.

THE ART OF BREWING ALE, Mon. Oct. 29, 7:30-10:00 p.m., $2.00, Jim McMartin at 8 Allen Lane, Winooski, behind the Grand Union.

CENTERING, Thurs. Nov. 3, 8-11 p.m., $2.00, John Lippencott. ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS AND CREATIVITY, Sat. Nov. 3, 3-10 p.m., $10, Bert Butler, V.A.L.U.E. S. CLARIFICATION, Sun. Nov. 4, 9-5, Mon. Nov. 5, 7-10 p.m., Wed. Nov. 7, 7-10 p.m., $5.00 donated to The Place, Steve Gold, Louise Lindner.

CONSCIOUSNESS RAISING FOR MEN AND WOMEN, Fri. Nov. 9, 7-11 p.m., $3.00, Bert Butler, Nancy Koch. MOVEMENT, PLAY, Mondays, Nov. 12, 19, 26, Dec. 3, 8:15 p.m., $10.00 for four sessions, Edie Israel.

SENSORY AWARENESS AND DEEP RELAXATION, Wed. Nov. 14, 7:30 p.m., $2, Peggy Daniel. MESSAGE, Thurs. Nov. 15, 7-10 p.m., $2.00, Nancy Koch. TAI CHI CHUAN, Wed. Thurs. Nov. 21, 22, 23, 7 p.m., $2.00 each night, Ann Borvis.

SYNETICS (creative group problem-solving), Wed. Dec. 5, 8-10:30 p.m., free. GESTALT, Thurs. Dec. 13, 7:30-10:30 p.m., $3.00, Dave Healey.

Registration deposit of $2.00 for each workshop is due week prior to the workshop. All workshops, except where noted, are held at 73 Church St., 3rd floor, Burlington. Call 656-3340 or The Next Thing at UVM Counseling Center for a Fall Catalog, which contains descriptions of each workshop. Scholarships available; contact Dave Healey. Checks should be made payable to The Next Thing.

Center for a Fall Catalog, which contains descriptions of each workshop. Scholarships available; contact Dave Healey. Checks should be made payable to The Next Thing.

THE NEXT THING UVM COUNSELING CENTER 146 SOUTH WILLIAMS STREET BURLINGTON, VERMONT 05401 PHONES 862-2013, 656-3340-41

For a copy of the catalog, call, write, or stop by The Next Thing, UVM Counseling Center, 146 S. Williams, 862-2013; 656-3340-41. A list of local groups, compiled by The Next Thing, follows:

HATHA YOGA (the physical postures and exercises) Ananda Marga Yoga Society, W 9 am 73 Church St., 3rd floor; W 6 pm Living Learning Center, room 105A. UVM, Th evening, call for location. FRIL Info: Amy Demerest 656-4260. Evelyn Carter, Unitarian Church, Church & Pearl St. M 7 pm FREE; any age info 862-2797

John Holdman 73 Church, 3rd floor M 2 & 7 pm $10.00 per month info: 862-3027

VERMONT AIKI-KAI (AIKIDO) - John Lippencott UVM Wrestling Room, Gym MWF 5:30 (free to UVM students, negotiable fee for others) info: 658-4744

TAI CHI CHUAN Ann Borys M & Th at 7 pm, call for location, F 9:30 73 Church St. 3rd floor $2 a session info: 863-0904

MEDITATION - Ananda Marga Yoga Society Th 7-8 UVM (call for location) info: 656-4260 - Amy Demerest Karpal Singh group T evening Call for location info: 863-9130 David Maharaj-Ji group W 7:10 pm 95 Adams St. Transcendental Meditation 32 Brookside Ave. (temp) W 8:30 introductory talk info: 862-7259

SOUL TRAVEL - Lankar 130 1/2 Iroquois Ave., Essex Jct. T 7:30 to 9 pm first three Tuesdays of each month, free discussion; last Tuesday, Satzung-fee info: 878-8513 Bernard Jaquemont

KARATE - Uechi Karate Association - Bob Boyd 20 Main St., Essex Jct. MWF 7-9, T-Th 6-8 tuition info: 863-6106 Academy of Okinawan Karate 100 Church Street, Tuition info: 864-7555 Vermont Academy of Karate, 11 Inc. Taft's Corners, Williston M-F 7-9 info: 879-7100

UNIFICATION CENTER 66 Gorge St. Come in each day at 12:30, 4:30, 7:30 info: 862-4785

WOMEN'S CENTER 217 N. Winooski Ave. mental health group w 7:30; m general meeting info: 863-9133

THE NEXT THING Growth, encounter, sensitivity, and gestalt groups are forming info on women's groups, men's groups, women's & men's groups, gay groups, mind games groups, groups for teenagers, arts and crafts, transactional analysis groups, massage groups, primal groups, and weekly activities group for probationers info: 862-2013, 656-3340-41

GAY GROUPS info on new groups, contact Peggy 455-2782

Where Is My Furniture?

by Laurie Rapp

For the past six weeks Chittenden, Buckham, Wills, and the Living-Learning complex have been without many major pieces of furniture. As part of the promises for the renovated shoeboxes, CBW Furniture would be "movable and modular" and "identical with those in the Living and Learning Center."

Since the "hoped for" arrival of all the furniture stated in the summer circular by the Office of Residence Halls for late August is still not a reality, students in the meantime have been given old lounge furniture to be a temporary replacement for those pieces which have not come. Still many students are lacking wardrobes and bookshelves and a few others desks and bureaus.

The problem, however, does not originate with Housing, but with the furniture companies. The contracts with the companies were negotiated for in early spring and no bids were accepted by companies who could not guarantee an August 1, 1973 deadline. Some of the furniture has drifted in and by comparison to other New England and New York colleges who have ordered new furniture, UVM is considered lucky to have as much as it does.

According to the companies which have been reaffirmed by local furniture companies, there is presently a lumber shortage. The Lincoln Furniture Company of Lincoln, North Carolina who is supplying the wardrobes and bookshelves, has advised imported wood. Each week since the beginning of the semester, Housing has been promised their delivery would be here within the week. The problem now appears to be one of labor, but in what capacity it is not known.

Approximately 150 wardrobes and 700 bookshelves are still needed and according to Dr. Miser will not be here for another month and possibly two months. Of the wardrobes that have been delivered, many did not meet specifications and are falling apart. A promise has been made by the company to send a man to repair them as soon as the rest of the order has been completed, so as the new furniture may also be checked.

The use of lounge furniture has relieved a lot of the inconvenience, but there are still about 90 students in the Living/Learning Center that have no place for their

(continued on page thirteen)

DON'T LET THEM SEE THE LABEL UNTIL AFTER THEY TASTE THE WINE.

"No peeking. Taste it, first."
"Wow, that's good!"
"Are you sure?"
"Sure, I'm sure. It's great!"
"Not too sweet?"
"No it's...say, what is this?"
"Sort of different?"
"Yeah, it's light...smooth...kind of...c'mon!"
"Ok. Are you ready for this?"
(At this point, bottle is turned to reveal label, although some fans like to drag things out a little longer.)
"MANISCHEWITZ?"
"Cream White Concord. Manischewitz doesn't always mean sweet wine, y'know."
"But this is terrific! Y'know, if I'd seen the name, I might never have believed it!"
"Uh-huh."

Manischewitz Wine Co., New York, N.Y.

HOCKEY TICKETS MONTREAL at the FORUM

Choose the series of games to see...!!

No. 1	No. 2
Wed., Oct. 17 Sat., Dec. 8 Sat., Jan. 19 Thurs., Feb. 28	Toronto N. Y. Islanders Boston Pittsburgh
No. 3	No. 4
Sat., Nov. 3 Sat., Dec. 29 Wed., Feb. 13 Sat., Mar. 18	California N. Y. Rangers Atlanta Chicago
	Wed., Nov. 14 Tue., Dec. 18 Sun., Feb. 17 Wed., Mar. 20
	Boston California Philadelphia Detroit

In each series there are 10 white seats and 34 blue seats (1st eight rows). Price includes guaranteed seat at the Forum and round trip transportation for each game in a series. White Seat Pkg. $62.00 Blue Seat Pkg. $52.00

We do suggest that you act fast... tickets are going. Make your reservations today.

VERMONT TRANSIT

CENTRAL TERMINAL 135 ST. PAUL ST. PH: 864-6811

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE INC.

Route 2, Williston, Vt. 862-7686

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

- Fine work on American cars
- Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
- Front end alignment • Spin balancing
- Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

VW BRAKE JOB

Includes: 5 new brake linings, 4 wheel drums, rebuild 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL VW Brake Job $39.95

Sax Exhaust $3.50 per Wheel Front End Alignment $10

Over 100 Stores
Across the Nation

KINGS

SELF-SERVICE DEPT STORES

Open Every Day
10 am to 10 pm

GRAND OPENING

Susie Wilson Road
ESSEX JUNCTION

A Complete Discount Dept Store With Everything for Your Family & Home!

OCTOBER 11, 1973

Philosophy

(continued from page one)

Paskow declared that his publications have dealt with important topics which were "handled completely, if not excellently." Paskow contended that the fact that his articles were accepted in respected publications puts the burden of proof on Cahn. Paskow also stressed the problem of small classes, commenting, "I was hosed with the understanding that I could hire my courses. Philosophy can be taught in two ways: chronologically and problematically." Paskow summed up his own approach, which is problematic. "Philosophy should be concerned with questions students themselves ask."

Alan Paskow, earlier this week, predicted that the Departmental Review Committee would reverse Cahn's decision, although in a mild-mannered form. He was proved wrong. At the time Paskow said, "If we lose, the other faculty will be intimidated. If we win, an important victory will be won for philosophers and for the young faculty who want to make some important changes."

What's at stake here is whether students will be allowed to be exposed to different kinds of philosophies and to people strongly dedicated to the idea of democracy in an entire university.

Professor Robert Rice, stating that it is "hard to avoid the conclusion of a political move," expressed his belief that there was not one major cause in Cahn's decision, but rather a variety of issues. Stressing the difference in their philosophies, Rice commented, "Cahn had already made up his mind. He sees himself as doing the university a favor by getting four new professors."

As far as possible conspiracy charges, Rice found it difficult to believe that Cahn had not been predisposed against the four. Like Paskow, Rice felt there was "tacit consent" between the university and Cahn. Rice believes that the only chance he has for a reversal of the recommendation is if the members of the committees are still open-minded. "If it is a political policy," he stated, "I have difficulty in being optimistic."

Calling the charges against him "preposterous," he attacked Cahn's statement that he (Rice) had a "death fixation." The implication that I have no other interests is false, a philosopher of an analytic tradition is liable to approach the subject of death in a radically different way," Rice added. Bob Rice, however, thinks publication is a valid criteria. He wants to be evaluated on scholarly activity as well as teaching which he feels is a more important criteria.

• 1334 Williston Rd., S. E.
• Essex Junction Shopping
• Barre-Montpelier Road
• Ridge Allen Shopping C.

Over 100 Stores
Across the Nation

KING'S

SELF-SERVICE DEPT STORES

Open Every Day
10 am to 10 pm

GRAND OPENING

Susie Wilson Road
ESSEX JUNCTION

A Complete Discount Dept Store With Everything for Your Family & Home!

Philosophy

(Continued from page one)

Paskow declared that his publications have dealt with important topics which were "handled completely, if not excellently." Paskow contended that the fact that his articles were accepted in respected publications puts the burden of proof on Cahn. Paskow also stressed the problem of "small" classes, commenting, "I was hired with the understanding that I could limit my courses. Philosophy can be taught in two ways: chronologically and problematically." Paskow summed up his own approach, which is problematic.

Philosophy should be concerned with questions students themselves ask.

Alan Paskow, earlier this week, predicted that the Departmental Review Committee would reverse Cahn's decision, although in a more-mannered form. He was proved wrong. At the time Paskow said, "If we lose, the other faculty will be intimidated. If we win, an important victory will be won for philosophers and for the young faculty who want to make some important changes."

What's at stake here is whether students will be allowed to be exposed to different kinds of philosophies and to people strongly dedicated to the idea of democracy in an entire university.

Professor Robert Rice, stating that it is "hard to avoid the conclusion of a political purge," expressed his belief that there was not one major cause in Chairman Cahn's decision, but rather a variety of issues.

Stressing the difference in their philosophies, Rice commented, "Cahn had already made up his mind. He sees himself as doing the university a favor by getting four new professors."

As far as possible conspiracy charges, Rice found it difficult to believe that Cahn had not been "predisposed against the four. Like Paskow, Rice felt there was "tacit consent" between the university and Cahn. Rice believes that the only chance he has for a reversal of the recommendation is if the members of the committee are still open-minded. "If it is a political policy," he stated, "I have difficulty in being optimistic."

Calling the charges against him "preposterous," he attacked Cahn's statement that he (Rice) had a "death fixation." "The implication that I have no other interests is false, a philosopher of an analytic tradition is liable to approach the subject of death in a radically different way," Rice added. Bob Rice, however, thinks publication is a valid criteria. He wants to be evaluated on scholarly activity as well as teaching, which he feels is a more important criteria.

Philosophy Four Interviewed...

(continued from page one)

Cahn declared that his publications have dealt with important topics which were handled completely, if not excellently. Paskow responded that the fact that his articles were accepted in respected publications, put the burden of proof on Cahn. Paskow also stressed the problem of small classes, commenting, "I was hired with the understanding that I could limit my courses. Philosophy can be taught in two ways: cynically and problematically."

Paskow summed up his own approach, which is problematic. "Philosophy should be concerned with questions students themselves ask."

Alan Paskow, earlier this week, predicted that the Departmental Review Committee would reverse Cahn's decision, although in a "mannered form" he was wrong. At the time, Paskow said, "If we lose, the faculty will be intimidated. If we win, an important victory will be won for philosophy and for the young faculty who want to make some important changes."

What's at stake here is whether students will be allowed to be exposed to different kinds of philosophies and to people strongly dedicated to the idea of democracy in an entire university.

Professor Robert Rice, stating that it is "hard to avoid the conclusion of a political issue," expressed his belief that there was not one major cause for Cahn's decision, but rather a variety of issues. Stressing the difference in their philosophies, Rice commented, "Cahn had already made up his mind. He sees himself as doing the university a favor by getting four new professors."

As far as possible conspiracy charges, Rice found it difficult to believe that Cahn had not been predisposed against the four. Like Paskow, Rice felt there was "tacit consent" between the university and Cahn. Rice believes that the only change he has for reversal of the recommendation is if the members of the committee are still open-minded. "It is a political policy," he stated, "I have difficulty in being optimistic."

Calling the charges against him "preposterous," he attacked Cahn's statement that he (Rice) had a "death fixation." The implication that I have no other interests is false, a philosopher of an analytic tradition is liable to approach the subject of death in a radically different way."

Rice added: Bob Rice, however, thinks publication is a valid criteria. He wants to be evaluated on scholarly activity as well as teaching, which he feels is a more important criteria.

Rice feels political activities were only a marginal factor in this case. Although he refused to sign a loyalty oath and actively supported Michael Parenti against Dean Weiger, Rice stated that "an institution as radical has got real problems."

Bob Rice hopes the whole case will be "reality therapy" to others. He hopes some of those students who were previously uninformed will take note and make their thoughts and feelings known. He suggested that they write letters to Vice President Rollins and Dean Weiger.

The fourth instructor involved, Gerry Anderson also emphasized student involvement in this and other cases. Anderson, who feels that students have been entirely left out of the process, stated, "Students have as much right to know as we do and ought to be involved in the entire academic community. Student involvement is one of the most crucial issues in my case and in general."

On Tuesday night, Anderson, along with Corcoran and Professor Will Miller, spoke at the Student Association Senate meeting.

Anderson feels teaching should be the main criteria in determining reappointment. He commented that all four professors involved had received overwhelming responses from the student body. Anderson was upset that students who had testified before the committees have been, "for the most part, ignored." To Anderson, to whom teaching is so important, Cahn's criticism of "no publications" seems unfair. Anderson, who just finished his doctoral dissertation three months ago, commented that he certainly intends to publish, but that he thought teaching was the prime criteria in evaluating teachers.

Anderson was "shocked" at the Review Committee's decision. "We all felt they would overturn Cahn's decision. We received only positive feedback from them," he said.

"The actions of the subsequent committees will show us whether or not there was a conspiracy," he stated. "Right now, there is no specific proof. There are ways in which conspiracies can be unconscious, such as the hiring of Cahn over 9/10 of the department. You can predict ahead of time how a man like that will act."

Anderson wondered if other departments had the policy of sending dissertations for anonymous review when the question was only one-year's reappointment. He felt this practice was "unusual and unethical."

Anderson was also distressed over the secrecy of the committee as he wasn't given any reason for the vote against him. "We are being analyzed and criticized on a basis of which we have no way to respond," he added.

S.A. Takes Action On Philosophy Profs...

(continued from page nine)

the professors left the meeting so the Senate could further discuss the issue. Alan King, senator from Phi Gamma Delta, proposed an amendment to Ed Pasquale's motion which would strike the last sentence and add a clause, A division of the house was called on the amendment and it was passed, 29-14.

The motion then read as follows: "We the S.A. Senate do hereby censure Professor Steven Cahn, Chairman of the Philosophy Department for lack of specific reasoning behind his recent decision not to recommend the rehiring of professors G. Anderson, A. Paskow, J. Corcoran, and R. Rice." Realizing that the students of this university have no official capacity for recommendation of the hiring and firing of faculty members, we feel that the student opinion must nevertheless be expressed."

Following R.2 the alternate motion concerning the issue (a much milder one) was defeated.

Under New Business, the motion was entered for creation of the committee for the discussion of the Commission of Higher Education Proposal.

70 dollars were also voted to pay for a lecture this Friday night in Old Mill by two students who were in Chile during the recent revolution. Sig Heller also entered motions for constitutional revision concerning the Supreme Court and recall of the President.

UVM Proposes Variety Of Building Plans

by John Van Hoesen

Over the next ten to twenty years, UVM students will probably see bricks and mortar cemented together in a married student housing complex, an addition to the Bailey Library, a modification of Patrick Gymnasium, a lecture hall facility, and a new student union building. Studies are also underway to examine and improve upon parking conditions, and the maintenance of the security of the Fleming Museum.

Director of Administrative Resources, Mr. Larry Snyder, enthusiastically unfolded the philosophy and plans for future building at the University. The desirable trend, he explained is to combine the living and learning facilities together.

Speculation on a married student housing complex has sparked rumors of a southeast sprawl. Actually the UVM married student housing plan calls for 100-150 units behind the Sheraton Motel. Many have worried over possible development of the meadowland just north of the Living-Learning Center, but plans are limited for this area and Mr. Snyder expressed his hopes to see the area remain open for years to come.

The married student housing situation at Fort Ethan Allen reflects "a demonstrated need" for more than the 100-150 proposed units. Snyder explained the problem that is retaining construction. How married student housing should be taxed is the problem. Under protest, UVM has paid taxes on Fort Ethan Allen for some time, and at present the University is engaged in court action over the controversy. If the court rules in the University's favor, construction could begin quickly. If the ruling is unfavorable, UVM will change its plans.

The proposed action to Bailey Library comes as no surprise. The library has experienced more overcrowding each year, and they will be anxious to stretch their legs northward of the present structure. Snyder dispelled the myth of the often-talked-about reflecting pool by explaining that the pool was part of a 1960 master plan that has died a slow death.

As the music building becomes a reality, the women of UVM will be seeking a home for their athletic department. They will move to Patrick Gymnasium and share the soap with the men.

The Office of Administrative Resources asked the Physical Education department to lay out their needs in terms of educational and recreational facilities. Their needs would result in a three to four million dollar structure if funds could be found to be designated in that direction. While this seems unlikely, Snyder did say that since the athletic fee is used to retire the bonds on the gymnasium, and that although Patrick was originally intended to exercise 4000 students, some 7100 students are paying the athletic fee. This is generating excess fat, a surplus in excess that could build several new paddleball courts and a new pool, as well as a women's facility. Recommendations for Patrick's future will be out in two months Snyder confirmed.

But Snyder's office is recognizing another problem at the University: that of inadequate lecture facilities. "For a university of this size, we don't have very good lecture facilities," Snyder stated. He added that by 1980 the lecture hall capabilities would be improved to include audio visual advances and increased seating capacity.

Extremely tentative plans have been drawn to locate a student union center near the guest parking lot south of the Marsh Life Science building. However, Snyder cited the ingress and egress problems of the area as an obstacle to future building plans.

Problems already exist in getting to and from the University, and pressure applied by the City of Burlington has led UVM to form a committee to study the traffic flow and related items surrounding main campus. Dr. Robert Dawson, Associate Professor of Civil Engineering will chair the committee. The study, costing twenty to thirty thousand dollars, will be "a very extensive study," Snyder said. It is possible that University Place will be terminated as a public thoroughfare and added over for an expanded green.

The renovation to the Fleming Museum will be made possible through a Natural Endowment for the Arts federal grant.

Essential to all these plans is the fact that UVM enrollment will be stabilized for the next five years, Snyder explained.

In other studies, the Administrative Resources Office found the seventeen small, wood structured buildings on campus to be more efficient than the highly sophisticated Cook and Rowell type buildings. The study conducted by the office revealed that the University pays for technological progress; that is, large corridors and equipment rooms make poorer use of space than do the smaller buildings. At one time the University had planned to demolish the wooden houses in favor of newer brick buildings. Fortunately, the Davis fund that is used to buy buildings like Allen House, the Math Building, and the Sociology Building, will continue to furnish as the main artery to pump money to small building purchases.

The wooden structures add to the diversified architecture of UVM. Many who would wish for increased continuity in new buildings, will be disappointed, because as Snyder pointed out "there's not a thing we can do about it." Such continuity in architectural style would require a dictatorial university policy.

Two ways of funding new buildings were described by Snyder: (1) state capital appropriations and (2) funding through gifts and grants. Federal interest subsidies are also a primary source of funding.

The Office of Administrative Resources has shifted away from the planning of the 1960's. The huge multi-university concept has been abandoned in favor of the more intimate living-learning plan. The high-rises that were once to be raised on Redstone will never be. Nor will students see construction of buildings like the 1953 Lafayette Hall because this type of construction has been out-dated.

Hillel Activities

Activities for Hillel (289 College Street) this week:

Oct. 14 - Sunday - Brunch for Jewish students and their parents starts at 9:30 A.M.

There will be a study group "discussion" every Monday at 4:00 P.M., concerning Jewish customs and ceremonies.

Friday Night Oct. 26 there will be a Jewish Deli Supper.

Miss Janet McCullen who has been in charge of the Archeological Digging in Israel for the past eight years will discuss their important findings. Supper starts at 6:30 P.M. Reservations are $3.00 and should be sent to Professor Kahn, 427 Waterman.

Absolute Deadline For Cynic Articles: Monday Noon!

Check the Swiss Chalet's PRE-SEASON SKI TUNE UP!

Includes:
• Edges Sharpened
• Bottoms Flat Filed ONLY

• Gouges, Scratches Filled
• Edges Deburred
• Bottoms Waxed
• Binding
• Maintenance Check

$4.95*

*For Skis in Average Condition

PLUS

ALL TUNE-UPS WILL INCLUDE A COMPLETE SAFETY CHECK ON OUR LOOK BINDER CHECK MACHINE.

A SOPHISTICATED SYSTEM TO CHECK BINDING RELEASES AND INSURE SAFE SKIING!

Cross Country/Touring Package

The Best Money can buy!

through September only!

Norge Skis$44 You Pay

Tysil Knute Boots$34

Jofa Poles$8.50

Troll 3-Pin Binding$8.00

Deluxe Wax Kit$7.75

Mounting$3.00

Total $105.25

for this super package!

Note: Our Hanson's are in!

Swiss Chalet

40 Pearl St., Essex Jct. 878-8901

Pizza ...24 KINDS!

Our Own Made Fresh Daily in Our Kitchens

TOMATO & CHEESE
ONION
GREEN PEPPER
GREEN PEPPER & ONION
SALAMI
LINGUICA
KIELBASA
HAM
BACON
PEPPERONI
ANCHOVY
MEAT BALL
MUSHROOM
ITALIAN SAUSAGE
MUSHROOM & GREEN PEPPER
MEAT BALL & MUSHROOM OLIVE SHRIMP
PEPPER STEAK
CAMPUS SPECIAL (Pepperoni, Kiebasa, mushroom and pepper)
TOWER SPECIAL (Pepperoni, mushroom, pepper and onion)
FRATERNITY SPECIAL (Kiebasa, ham, mushroom and pepper)
SORORITY SPECIAL (mushroom, meat ball, Italian sausage, green pepper)
REGIONAL SPECIAL (Italian sausage, meat ball, pepper and onion)

CALL BY PHONE TAKE SOME HOME

THE Tower RESTAURANT

• 1334 Williston Rd., Burlington 864-9517
• Essex Junction Shopping Ctr. 878-6636
• Barre-Montpelier Road 478-4172
• Essex Jct. Shopping Ctr. North Avenue 865-4234

PINK CHABLIS
OF CALIFORNIA

More than a Rosé, our Pink Chablis is a captivating one combining the delicate fragrance of a superior Rosé and the crisp character of a fine Chablis. This wine is one of our most delightful creations. Made and bottled in the Gallo Vineyards in Modesto, Calif. Alcohol 12% by vol.

Paul Gallo Julia Gallo

More than a Rosé.

TIME Magazine reports:

"Gallo's Pink Chablis recently triumphed over ten costlier competitors in a blind tasting among a panel of wine-industry executives in Los Angeles."

Time Magazine November 27, 1972 page 61

Report Of The Comittee Of The Union Of College Faculty

We have not set out to outline ideal criteria or to re-evaluate existing ones. We have simply attempted to specify what aspects of evaluation procedures which are generally accepted in the College of Arts and Sciences are essential to the fairness of the process. Professor Cahn's familiarity with these procedures, it could be argued, excuses his violations; our view would be that the profound consequences which can stem from these evaluations make any such plea of ignorance or lack of time not a mitigating circumstance, but an aggravating one. In any event the criteria for appropriate and fair procedures are generally familiar ones.

The first criterion, which needs to be met for an evaluation to be considered fair is that procedures and criteria for evaluation be consistent over time and between individuals. Any assessment of whether or not this was the case must involve a comparison of the criteria adopted by Prof. Cahn with the criteria by which people in the Philosophy Department might reasonably have expected to be evaluated. Prof. Cahn provided us with the following indication of the criteria he adopted for evaluation (Committee interview, Oct. 3, 1973):

- 1) A person, be judged a "good philosopher".
- 2) The answer to the question "Can we do better?" be negative.
- 3) That the area in which an individual worked would not be a decisive factor in reaching a decision.
- 4) The need for serious and careful consideration of each case.

Clearly the first criterion is undeniably appropriate and could not be regarded by any faculty member as unexpected. The difficulty, of course, is in specifying what observable events constitute being a "good philosopher". Prof. Cahn's actions indicate that he considered only two sets of events as important in defining quality: the first was his own judgment of their writings and, to some extent, their conversations about philosophy; the second was the judgment of the writings made by certain outside reviewers (philosophers whose judgments Prof. Cahn respects).

On the question of his own judgment we have a number of comments. First, we do not dispute that a chairperson has as much right to his or her opinion as an instructor has. However, it would require us to credit a chairperson with unimaginable naivete to believe that he supposes that his written evaluation, on a green sheet which he signs as chairperson of a department, carries no more weight than the opinion of some other faculty member. This difference in the weight attached to the chairperson's opinion in contrast to any other faculty member's opinion imposes upon him certain obligations concerning the manner in which he transmits it to subsequent people involved in making the decision on the fate of a faculty member. One of the injustices in the present situation is the concentration of Prof. Cahn's evaluations on a single aspect of the many ways in which a faculty member can indicate his or her qualities. This leads Prof. Cahn to treat in an extremely cursory fashion formal teaching, community service, interdisciplinary work, administrative service to the Department and the University, and supervision and advising of students. This is unfair not only because the judgment made is then based on evaluation of only a part of a person's work, but because members of the Department of Philosophy may have reasonably expected such activities to have carried considerable weight in their evaluations.

This is so not only because of statements of senior UVM administrators about the importance of teaching but also because the philosophers who were consulted by the Review Committee on Philosophy and Religion explicitly pointed to the importance of these activities. Prof. Gorovitz's report contains a lengthy section (pages 10-13) of Consultant's Report, dated Nov. 20, 1972) on the question of criteria for advancement, in the course of which he clearly indicates that faculty members should expect teaching excellence to carry considerable weight in their evaluations. There are many other illustrations of areas in which faculty members were active, which they might reasonably have believed would be regarded as appropriate, but which were unmentioned in Prof. Cahn's evaluation. Two of the Review Committee's emphases are exemplified by their remarks about interdisciplinary activity (Recommendations 4 and 7 of their Summary of Recommendations):

Recommendation 4: "In the area of curriculum planning, we believe that both Philosophy and Religion should develop more interdisciplinary offerings with other departments at UVM."

Recommendation 7: "In addition both departments should seek more meaningful connections with other departments such as Political Science, Economics, Sociology, History, physical sciences, etc."

In addition, Prof. Cahn's emphasis on scholarly production ignores the question of the provision of opportunities to engage in such activity. The Review Committee's recommendations provide clear support for the belief that the "political" activities in which many of the members had been engaged to alter the directions and governance of the Department were warranted by the situation. These activities, which were tacitly endorsed in principle, left less time available to devote to scholarly writing, aside from their drain on personal resources, other than pursue Prof. Cahn does not consider this, nor Prof. Wolff's comment on the need to reduce teaching loads in a method of supporting original research (Consultant's Report, dated May 19, 1972, page 6). Since the Department has been "lacking in effective leadership" (p. 7, Prof. Gorovitz's report), the Review Committee's report constitutes the authoritative version of what was expected of faculty members - of what criteria they could expect to be required to meet. Prof. Cahn's right to his own opinion does not carry with it a right to change the criteria at the time the evaluation is made.

Prof. Cahn's judgment of their abilities was based also on a conversation - or attempt at a conversation - with each faculty member. Prof. Cahn's aim was to discuss philosophical issues during these individual conversations, but very few of the faculty involved knew that this had been his purpose. It is clear to us that a single contrived conversation does not provide sufficient personal contact upon which to base judgments of such importance. Prof. Cahn's perception of the faculty as unwilling or unable to discuss philosophy contrasts with the perceptions of the Review Committee's consultants: for example, Prof. Wolff commented, "Many of the junior members expressed intense interest in their own original work, as well as genuine concern for the quality and effectiveness of their teaching."

The second set of information Prof. Cahn considered in arriving at his decisions were the opinions of his outside reviewers. There are two aspects of this on which we will comment, one being the gathering of the information, the other being the presentation of it. The questions concerning the appropriateness of the particular reviewers have been raised by individual faculty members in their responses to Prof. Cahn's evaluations. We do not feel competent to adjudicate disputes of this sort between philosophers. However, we do see the inappropriateness of the procedures, which gave rise to these disputes. Prof. Cahn did not accept the suggestion that the Executive Committee select the reviewers; he did not suggest to the individuals that they might wish to solicit opinions from reviewers of their choice, and he did not choose to solicit opinions which were readily available from reviewers who no one could reasonably suggest were biased, the reviewers used by journals which had accepted papers written by some of the faculty members being evaluated. In addition, no reference is made to the readily available assessments of some of the people involved which are contained in the consultants' reports to the Review Committee.

This failure of Prof. Cahn to attempt to solicit all the information which could be obtained with reasonable convenience is found in regard to published and unpublished writings, teaching abilities, and time produce injustices at least indeed, in regard to any of the been expected to be interested in evaluating. Without implying that he deliberately sought out negative evidence, we are stating that he made little effort to find positive evidence. This is surprising in the light of recurrent positive comments about the quality of the Department in the Review Committee's report, in the light of admonitions in the report to avoid considering members of the Department as a bloc (for example, on page 2 of Prof. Wolff's report), and in the light of specific comments about the way in which a chairperson should function in the Department of Philosophy as "someone who advocates the interests and serves the needs of his departmental colleagues" (Prof. Gorovitz's report, page 7).

This statement of Prof. Gorovitz could also serve as the basis for a consideration of the manner in which a chairperson might be expected to present and summarize the information he has gathered. To some extent this would be inappropriate to criticize the failure to present it. However, we should comment on the manner in which positive information which was available - through the efforts, for example, of Prof. Paskow to obtain additional opinions of his work - was used. Most of this ground is covered in the individual faculty member's replies but we would state that in cases where both Prof. Cahn's evaluation and the material he quoted or paraphrased were available to us, it is clear that he made every effort to minimize the impact of positive assessments. Prof. Paskow's reply fully documents instances of this procedure.

We now turn to a consideration of the second of Prof. Cahn's criteria - the need for a negative answer to the question "Can we do better?" It is not appropriate for us to cover all the ramifications of using this as a criterion and we will concentrate on the procedural issues it raises. A section of Prof. Gorovitz's report to the Review Committee appears germane. (See pp. 9 and 10 of that report.) It should be noted that the remarks were made in a different, though not irrelevant context - that of the impasse in which a Philosophy chairperson might find himself if he viewed himself as "caught between an administration which seeks in a chairman a firm authoritative hand and a department which seeks in a chairman a spokesman subservient to its will." He stated: "Since the current academic market, particularly in Philosophy, is to a stunning degree a buyer's market, it would be possible to replace an entire department with highly qualified people in a short span of time. However, such an approach would fail to do justice to the rather striking quality exhibited by some of the members of the UVM Faculty from scratch."

The Union committee claimed that Professor Cahn did not use the same criteria for each of the professors reviewed. They additionally claimed that in the cases of Rice, Anderson, Corcoran, and Paskow many of the materials, especially the reviews of their written scholarship, were used selectively in order to give an unduly unfavorable picture of their work. The committee agreed with the position of the four professors, contending that the recommendations read more like a prosecutor's indictment than an impartial assessment.

The Union committee claimed Cahn relied too heavily on the criteria of written work inordinately, all but ignoring the categories of teaching and community service. The union also contended that the lack of time available to Cahn to make the decision constituted an aggravating rather than a mitigating circumstance. At best, the committee charged, the recommendations represent the subjective impressions of a new Department Chairman, rather than a fair, objective, well thought-out evaluation.

When will you rid yourself of that ally obsession, demanded Con. The Truth shall never die. It will live on and on forever, preserved in such great Institutions as Groovy Yuvy and the White House.

Just then Alan appeared. Why won't you show us the Truth? he wanted to know.

Con replied, You wouldn't know what to do with it. You don't even know the value of Money.

Tell us so that we can teach our students, Alan said.

There you go again, Con sneered. You're always trying to make it easier for your students, all of you. If you had your way, you'd go around telling the truth to anyone who wanted to know it. That's what is wrong with this country, generation by generation, you guys don't have the guts to hand out a few P's. When I was young I didn't have the Truth handed to me on a gold platter. I worked hard for it. I minded my manners and did what I was told. I had nothing to do with that freedom business you're always ranting about. I honored my elders and did my Duty, and now I know the Truth: You had little professors refuse to follow the Rules, so the Kind and Benevolent Administrators are going to make you suffer!

Thus said Clever Con. And so it came to pass that Bob, Gerry, Jim and Alan were exiled from the Hallowed Halls of Groovy Yuvy. The students thereof glanced up from their novels and heard the Wisdom of the Kind and Benevolent Administrators, and all agreed that this was the Best for All Concerned. And as they continued happily on their way, they learned the value of Money, and they began to glimpse the Truth.

weight which was attached to these reviews. It might also have resolved our question of whether the reviewers chosen were capable of making positive assessments.

Summary and Conclusions

Essentially we have found: First, that the criteria on which Prof. Cahn based his evaluations were substantially different from criteria by which the faculty members could reasonably have expected to be judged. This violates any reasonable definition of consistency of evaluation procedures and clearly departs from standards of fairness.

Second, that Professor Cahn's methods of acquiring information and, indeed, his opportunities to do so in the limited time he has been at UVM, were quite inadequate to assess whether or not the faculty members concerned met any set of criteria.

Third, that he did not attempt to solicit all the material he might reasonably have been expected to obtain. In particular he neglected to attempt to obtain evidence of a positive kind either on his own initiative or by soliciting it from faculty members by indicating to them the gravity of their situation when there was still time for them to influence his decision.

Fourth, that in his own evaluation he adopted the role of prosecutor rather than advocate, de-emphasizing positive information and virtually ignoring many areas of activity which are relevant to judgment of faculty.

Fifth, that Prof. Cahn did not gather information in a similar fashion in the case of each of the six faculty members. The different procedures corresponded precisely to the different recommendations, giving the appearance that a prejudgment had determined the outcome.

Recommendation:

We recommend, on the basis of our investigation, that Prof. Cahn withdraw his evaluation as Chairman from consideration, as a first step toward establishing a climate in which the discussion and teaching of philosophy can be pursued. If he rejects this request, we recommend that his evaluations be regarded by all who are involved in subsequent stages of the decision process as no more than the subjective impressions of a new faculty member who has not had sufficient time or considered sufficient information for his evaluations to merit the same consideration as those of an experienced department chairperson.

Justin Joffe, Chairman
Fred Schmidt
Robert Detenbeck

Cahn's Methods Were "Inconsistent, Highly Selective"

by John Franco

A special ad hoc investigative committee of the Union of College Faculty contended, in a recent investigative report on the "Philosophy Four," that the methods and criteria used by the Philosophy Department Chairman Steven Cahn in his recommendations were inconsistent and highly selective. Reporting to the second emergency meeting of the UCF called in two weeks, the committee, composed of Physics, Fred Schmidt from Sociology, and Justin Joffe from Psychology, recommended that Chairman Cahn withdraw his recommendations and that the Philosophy Department Review Committee begin an examination of the Philosophy Faculty from scratch.

The Union committee claimed that Professor Cahn did not use the same criteria for each of the professors reviewed. They additionally claimed that in the cases of Rice, Anderson, Corcoran, and Paskow many of the materials, especially the reviews of their written scholarship, were used selectively in order to give an unduly unfavorable picture of their work. The committee agreed with the position of the four professors, contending that the recommendations read more like a prosecutor's indictment than an impartial assessment.

The Union committee claimed Cahn relied too heavily on the criteria of written work inordinately, all but ignoring the categories of teaching and community service. The union also contended that the lack of time available to Cahn to make the decision constituted an aggravating rather than a mitigating circumstance. At best, the committee charged, the recommendations represent the subjective impressions of a new Department Chairman, rather than a fair, objective, well thought-out evaluation.

vetted this suggestion, explaining that he personally had already selected the people who would do the scholarship evaluation. These evaluations were used in Cahn's recommendation, and are a source of much of the controversy.

Philosophy Professor Will Miller praised the report for illustrating these structural faults. Various review committees have in the past, he claimed, been unwilling or unable to point out these faults. He viewed the Union report as a step in the right direction. It must also be noted that the Philosophy Four were active in seeking a democratization of the department. Some speculate that they are on the block for precisely this reason. Also

Cahn, unlike the other two principle contenders for the Chairman's seat, did not favor democratization of the department, an opinion which helped muster the Philosophy faculty's 9-1 vote against him last spring. Yet Academic V.P. Al Rollins and Arts College Dean John Weiger picked him for the job.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Bad Little Professors ...

(continued from page five)

When will you rid yourself of that ally obsession, demanded Con. The Truth shall never die. It will live on and on forever, preserved in such great Institutions as Groovy Yuvy and the White House.

Just then Alan appeared. Why won't you show us the Truth? he wanted to know.

Con replied, You wouldn't know what to do with it. You don't even know the value of Money.

Tell us so that we can teach our students, Alan said.

There you go again, Con sneered. You're always trying to make it easier for your students, all of you. If you had your way, you'd go around telling the truth to anyone who wanted to know it. That's what is wrong with this country, generation by generation, you guys don't have the guts to hand out a few P's. When I was young I didn't have the Truth handed to me on a gold platter. I worked hard for it. I minded my manners and did what I was told. I had nothing to do with that freedom business you're always ranting about. I honored my elders and did my Duty, and now I know the Truth: You had little professors refuse to follow the Rules, so the Kind and Benevolent Administrators are going to make you suffer!

Thus said Clever Con. And so it came to pass that Bob, Gerry, Jim and Alan were exiled from the Hallowed Halls of Groovy Yuvy. The students thereof glanced up from their novels and heard the Wisdom of the Kind and Benevolent Administrators, and all agreed that this was the Best for All Concerned. And as they continued happily on their way, they learned the value of Money, and they began to glimpse the Truth.

Marriage Preparation

Pre Cahn: Marriage preparation: The fall series of Marriage preparation will continue each Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. This Wednesday, October 17, the topic will be Church/State Requirements and will include a film. Speaker: Father Francis Holland.

Manchel...

(continued from page one)

doing something against him

he felt that there was responsibility towards the children of Vermont.

Dr. Manchel said he would reconsider his resignation if Governor Salmon asked him to do so. Later that week, Jemel accepted the letter of resignation.

Co mmittee...

(continued from page one)

in good faith. Yet the proponents of this position are unwilling to speculate on what the committee so seriously reversed itself in its position of last year.

THE GOOD T

Study Of Tra

by Margo Howland

The University Parking Commission met for the first time this semester last Thursday, October 4 at 11 a.m. in the Bishop DeGroot Hall. Professor Robert Dawson of the Civil Engineering Department discussed a program of special traffic studies involving origin-destination routes and the pattern of traffic flow.

New members to the Commission were announced and Chairman Dr. Herbert Martin, Department of Neurology, presented an agenda dealing with questions on regulations, special requests, suggestions and other pertinent information. A list of Commission members present were: Chief Frederick Bartlett, UVM Campus Security, UVM - Chief Richard Scott-Smith, campus police in Campus Security, Larry Snyder, acting secretary, and Professor Lovell, director of Administrative Support Services. The present voting members of the Commission are: Tim Ryan, representative of the commuter students; Joel

Stewart, representative of the graduate students; Nick Sears, representative of the residence hall students; Russell Ireland, representative for the Non-Academic Employees Council; Professor Dawson and Chairman Martin. (All were in attendance save Nick Sears whose appointment by Director of Student Activities Bill Root, in accordance with IRA, was announced that morning.)

Officer Don Morley, of the Traffic Control Department, in the city police department, and Alderman Patricia Novotny, (D-Ward Six) were also present.

The special traffic study mentioned by Professor Dawson was started in June in connection with the Environmental Board. It consists of a machine count involving a machine count of all routes involving the campus, all streets, drives and arteries in the campus vicinity (including both hospital units and employed the taking of turning movements at intersections leading to signal times and coordination.

New studies underway involve a two-step pedestrian study of patterns of use (and) of the campus. The study will be given a map of the campus and a map of the campus for two days. They will in this study write the origin and destination of every trip they make. The purpose is to evaluate pedestrian facilities. The data gathered will include paths of crossing, the number of people crossing the streets and an estimation of the money needed to build a proposed underpass. An

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case of the Philosophy Four for a fair evaluation, as well as the case for the democratization of all departments.

Smugglers' Notch

(Formerly Madonna)

We've been working for you... Getting things ready

Our trails have been stumped, brushed, and

The Madonna lifeline is now skiable the finest trails in the east.

A mid-station on Madonna will

We've been planning some big Like getting ready to host the on Feb. 1-2.

And our discounted... which... from your... They train here... it's like... We also have... 155 that include... trails.

Information contact... at 855-3845 or inquire at your... Department in Pat...

UVM

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch

Charlestown MILL STORE

JEANS, CAPES, BELTS, SHAWLS, SLACKS, INDIA IMPORTS, BLOUSES, TURTLE-NECKS, VESTS, PARKAS, SOCKS, FLANNEL SHIRTS, CHILDREN'S WARE

- MORE THAN 20,000 SWEATERS -

65 MAIN ST.

open 9-9 Mon.-Fri. 9-5 Sat.

E & E TIRE CO.

Complete line of new and retreaded summer and winter tires

Front end alignments

Official Vermont

Inspection Station

10% off on all RETREADS accompanied by this ad

E & E TIRE CO., INC.

152 RIVERSIDE AVE.

864-7759

BURL.

CLOSE

THE C

Chinenden's Ca

For everything y

Chittona

CULTY

prosecutor rather than a mediator, de-emphasizing the information and activity which are relevant to the faculty. Prof. Kahn and the other members of the six faculty members, the different procedures corresponded to the different recommendations, giving the preference that a judgment determined the outcome.

We recommend, on the basis of our investigation, that Prof. Kahn withdraw his evaluation. Chairman of the Faculty, from a first step in establishing a climate in which the discussion and thing of philosophy can be held. If he rejects this, we recommend that evaluations be regarded by who are involved in subsequent stages of the process as no more than the subjective impressions of a new faculty member who has not had sufficient time or considered sufficient information for his evaluations. We recommend the same consideration of those of an experienced department person.

Justin Joffe, Chairman
Fred Schmidt
Robert Detenbeck

Selective

they are on the block for this reason. Also, unlike the other two people, contenders for the chairman's seat, did not favor democratization of the department, an opinion which must be the Philosophy faculty's 9-1 vote against him in spring. Yet Academic V.P. Rollins and Arts College Dean John Weiger picked him for the job.

Members of the UCF unanimously concurred with the committee's report and recommendations, and felt that the report would bolster the case for the Philosophy Four.

Marriage Preparation

Pre-Cana Marriage Preparation. The fall series of marriage preparation will continue each Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. This Wednesday, October 17, the topic will be Church/State requirements and will include film. Speaker: Father Francis Olland.

Manchel

Dr. Manchel said he would consider his resignation, if Governor Salmon asked him to do so. Later that week Manchel accepted the letter of resignation.

Committee...

continued from page one) good faith. Yet, the proponents of this position are unwilling to speculate on the committee seriously considered itself in its position of last year.

RE CO.

of new and mer and nments

ont

ation accompanied

CO., INC.

IDE AVE.
BURL.

THE GOOD TIMES

Smallwood Commission ..

continued from page one

months the commission gathered data from many reports, and other systems employed in different states. In September they began actual strategy in terms of finances and organization for a new board of higher education. The result of the organizational discussion was a two-page document proposing powers and duties of a post-secondary education board. The key items included: identifying needs and establishing goals, approving new construction, budget review and administration of programs by Community Colleges, ETC and Vocational Technical Education.

In closing Senator Smallwood emphasized that these are only proposals and that the discussion is wide open to new ideas, theories and systems which could be used in a new board.

The first testimony was given by the chairman of the advisory council for Vocational-Technical Education. He stressed three points: (1) the board and system must work for all Vermonters; (2) the powers of the board must encompass the whole continuum of education (K-16) not just post-secondary education; (3) the board should have responsibility for planning and coordinating but not administering. Under examination the commission members pointed out various dangers of the proposal, mainly those of over-centralization, a homogenization of programs and the loss of flexibility in education throughout the state.

Dr. Jarrett, St. Michael's sociologist and president of Vermont AAUP, spoke from a different side. He claimed an excess of administration already. However, he recognized a lack of communication between higher institutions, and noted that an evaluation of each educational unit might be needed. He mentioned the community college system in particular. He stressed that faculty should be included in a new board since they know best what education needs.

Thirdly, Tom Conlem, former VSAC president, talked on financial aid in relation to a new board. Under the new board VSAC would not be an autonomous unit. He questioned the need for any administration of VSAC at all and also that VSAC is and to students, not institutions, so it should not be included under jurisdiction of the board.

George Little, UVM trustee and member of the previous commission on higher education, spoke on the new bureaucratic layer that would be added. If powers and responsibilities weren't carefully chosen, the commission could easily be ineffective and the problems of older ones would only occur again. If a strong board was not created, institutions could step the board to get to the Governor's office, he said. He also emphasized the union of administration and planning in the board to give it enough responsibilities to be effective. He reminded the idea of a merger of public post-secondary institutions under a new board. President Andrews stated that centralization is needed in programming and administration, but he cautioned against too much administration.

In conclusion, the hearing brought out the problems of creating a higher education board and the problems of what kind of board and what powers will the board have. The meeting also illustrated the diverse opinions, systems, and problems that the Smallwood Commission would have to overcome in creating a workable board.

In reference to the Smallwood Commission and its effect on UVM students, Sig Heller, called an "informal meeting of the Senate to discuss the problems involved in a new board and what S.A. should do if anything. The meeting Monday night was sparsely attended. Dr. Rollins spoke on the problems and alternate methods of a higher education board. He expressed many of the same views of the other participants. He did add that there is a lack of communication between the University and state colleges. Also, he said that Vermont is supporting a huge post-secondary education program in a small state with very limited funds. He also said that UVM is fairly stable financially, and that a merger isn't needed and could hurt UVM in the pocketbook and make a stronger tie with the state. 21 per cent of the University's budget is state funded. Many states receive 50 to 70 percent of their budgets from the legislature.

It was decided to have a committee of Senators set up to discuss what the S.A. should do and review the discussions and theories involved.

Board Of Trustees Meeting

by Betty Andrews

At the UVM Board of Trustees meeting, which took place in the Memorial Lounge of Waterman Building last Saturday, several proposals were discussed and accepted.

As with any financial meeting, the major issues were the acquiring of sufficient funds for the University and the setting of long-range planning goals.

The trustees accepted recommendations and asked the legislature for 11.8 million dollars for fiscal 1975. The fiscal year 1974 state appropriations totalled 10.6 million dollars, and Governor Thomas Salmon's preliminary recommendation for fiscal 1975 allocated 11.5 million dollars to the University.

The significant financial priorities discussed were:

- (1) a pedestrian underpass
- (2) the elimination of barrier handicaps on campus
- (3) a fire alarm system

Dorms Lack Furniture...

continued from page one

clothing. About a week and a half ago Housing contacted local movers in an attempt to obtain some temporary cardboard storage boxes for student use. As many as possible will be bought by Housing for $3 apiece, but there is a shortage of these also.

Dr. Miser has reviewed what he considers to be every possible way to expediate the end of the furniture headache. To cancel present contracts and submit new orders to different companies was one suggestion. However, this would mean that the furniture would not get here until sometime next semester. As it stands now with the lumber shortage, Housing is dealing with a company it has done business with before and has preference in getting its order completed, which it would not have with a new company.

The question of refunding students for their inconvenience is very vague. The Office of Resident Halls, having spent $214,000 on the renovation of CBW has no money to give students. Because it is the companies who have caused this inconvenience, it is felt that they should supply the remuneration. However, the process of suing is long and tedious and in most cases futile.

When and if the money can be made available, there will be a question of the amount to be reimbursed to the individual student. The value of the inconvenience must be determined pending on the pieces of furniture missing, how many are missing, and how long the student is made to do without.

The dorms far from supply all the comforts of home, but for some students the good part of first semester will have lower comforts than usual. Dr. Miser wants to extend his appreciation to students for being very cooperative, especially the students in Living Learning Center, they have been better than I hoped.

ST. ANSELME'S CHAPEL

SCHEDULE

CHOIR: Thursday 6:00 p.m.

SERVICES

Sunday - 11:00 a.m. Holy Communion with thirty-hour to follow to welcome parents and alumni.

Tuesday - 10:00 p.m. Holy Communion (Services Episcopal, all denominations welcome)

Mon-Fri - 8:30 a.m. Morning Prayer (Ecumenical Service sponsored by Protestant and Episcopal Chaplains)

DISCUSSION GROUP

Wednesdays at 7:00 in Burgess Hall - Chaplain Ode will lead the discussion group of interested students who want to raise whatever questions, concerns, doubts or remarks they may have about their faith, religion, and the church.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Contentment Farm Riding Stable, Open Year Around - Trail Riding - Instruction - Hay & Sleigh Rides - Tack Shop - Shoeing - Sales - Boarding - Reasonable Rates - Indoor Arena. South Hero 372-4087.

FOR SALE: 1970 Porsche 911, Burgandy, Top mechanical condition. 863-4536. days. 864-6404 evenings and weekends.

For Sale: 1967 Ford Van, big engine, excellent condition. Needs owner for $650.00. Call Chris Brown at 864-7007.

1965 Chevy, 6 cyl. auto. trans., six good tires, new battery, fully winterized. Dependable. Asking - $2800.00. Call 879-0805 after 5 p.m.

Apartment to Share with two other female students: two bedrooms, living room, kitchen, two full baths, walking distance to UVM, furnished, $77. 863-3942.

NEEDED - Tutors for 4th - 6th grades, at Wheeler School, one hour per week, one to one basis, male or female. Contact Jane Wernick, 656-2950.

Come home Amosoo Lady, There are smiles and someone who still loves you there. Music Man.

8 track tape deck for sale - $15. Mechanical Drawing Set for sale also. Call Hadley, 862-2889.

FOR SALE: Gibson B-25 Starburst. Very good condition. Asking $125. 6 years old. Call Laurie 862-6144.

FOR SALE: Used camera in excellent condition. Hanjex Praktica Nova 18 (only one owner) $80.00. Will bargain. Write: A. Murphy, 45 Hickock, Burl. Pl.

To person who "took" green nylon knapsack from bookstores Oct. 2nd: Please return glasses and notebook to Joanne Magee. You may keep the knapsack and books, if you must, but these other items are of no use to anyone but me. (No questions asked.)

Study Of Traffic Patterns Underway

by Margo Howland

The University Parking Commission met for the first time this semester last Thursday, October 4 at 11 a.m. in the Bishop DeGroschne Unit. Professor Robert Dawson, Director of the Civil Engineering Department, discussed a program of special traffic studies involving origin-destination routes and the pattern of traffic flow.

New members to the commission were announced and Chairman Dr. Herbert Martin, Department of Neurology, presented an agenda dealing with questions on regulations, special requests, suggestions and other pertinent information. Ex-officio commission members present were Chief Frederick Barrett, UVM Campus Security, Assistant Chief Richard Smith, criminologist in campus security, Larry Snyder, acting secretary, and Professor Lowell, director of administrative support services. The present voting members of the Commission are: Tim Ryan, representative of the commuter students; Joel Sigmund, representative of the graduate students; Nick Sears, representative of the residence hall students; Russell Ireland, representative for the Non-Academic Employees' Council; Professor Dawson and Chairman Martin (all were in attendance save Nick Sears, whose appointment by Director of Student Activities Bill Root, in accordance with IRA, was announced that morning).

Officer Don Morley, of the Traffic Control Department in the city police department, and Alderwoman Patricia Novotny, (D-Ward Six) were also present. The special traffic study mentioned by Professor Dawson was started in June in connection with the Environmental Board. It consists of a six-step study involving a machine count, program of all routes involving the campus all streets, drives and arteries in the campus vicinity (including both hospital units) and employed the taking of turning movements at intersections leading to State Routes and local streets. New studies underway involve a two-step origin-destination study of patterns across town. This involves a 10% sample. Students were given a map of instructions and a log to keep for two days they will in this study write the origin and destination of every trip they make. The purpose is to evaluate pedestrian facilities. The data gathered will include paths of crossing the streets and an estimation of the money needed to build a proposed underpass. An origin-destination study for vehicles is underway to determine the amount of campus-related traffic, auto distribution, and parking frequency in the various lots, and the results of a redistribution of traffic flow, which streets would take the brunt of traffic if other streets were closed. Professor Dawson accepted the job of assigning people to specific lots. Certain basic information is needed which these studies will turn in.

As of this past Monday, field crews have been going through traffic logs logging license plates of non-registered vehicles and UVM tag numbers. The study will find out what buildings are assigned to whom, and the demand for each building's parking space. Once that is done, people will be assigned to a lot within 2% minutes of their building. The objective is to have as great a degree of equality as possible concerning how far one has to walk from a parking spot.

Tim Ryan raised a question concerning the rules and regulations of parking in WDW and Simpson. Commuters, if they park in Simpson, will no longer get tickets. Motorcyclists wrote a letter questioning paying full price for registration stickers when they only use their cycles in the spring and fall. Several suggestions were made, including one by Larry Snyder that would set up special separate spots for motorcycle parking only, for which one would pay a lower price. Chief Barrett said that registers motorcycle stickers may be turned in after inclement weather starts and exchanged for car stickers with no extra cost. It was decided to inform the motorcyclists of this option and test the student reaction.

The students and faculty of the Physical Education department at Patrick Gym requested a reserved parking place and different parking stickers. The motion was denied; the only reserved areas are for paraplegics.

A faculty/staff member owing a fine wanted his car registered first before he paid the fine. The fines were demanded in the words of Chief Barrett, "Students get their traffic fines on their tuition bills; faculty, and staff cannot register their cars until their fines are paid."

People are no longer using the Speed Control Dip areas as much; in fact, students are going out of their way to avoid that stretch of land some folks have compared with waterbars. There have been few criticisms of the dips and it was dips and not bumps that were added for the reason that bumps would be ruinous to snowplows.

During discussion of the various traffic studies, a question arose concerning the traffic on the campus as a result of the Evening Division classes. Chief Barrett commented, "We have a problem of evening students parking every which way, all over the place." The traffic interferes with occasional evening activities such as plays, concerts and films. Dr. Martin suggested that regular parking regulations continue until 8 p.m. to help alleviate this situation. Agreeing, Larry Snyder said, "The solution that works in the daytime should work at night." Another suggestion was to set up evening division parking spaces.

Following this was a lengthy discussion on the pedestrian crosswalk situation. Chief Barrett said that there is a malfunction of some kind in the signal system in the lights at the Redstone carwash. This is due to improper equipment and will be remedied as soon as the new equipment arrives. The maximum wait at the Walk/Don't Walk crossing is 53 seconds.

A Cynic editorial September 27 urged that the non-operative Walk/Don't Walk signal head on Main Street be dismantled and new ones set up at the intersection of Main and South Prospect and the intersection of Colchester Avenue and Pearl Street. The suggestion has been referred to the Burlington Traffic Control, which will explore the situation in detail.

Alderman Novotny recommended that concerned individuals write to the Alderman of Ward One, Michael Kaplan and John Leddy, and of Ward Six, Patricia Novotny and David Jenkins. Jenkins is the University representative to the Board of Aldermen. Suggestions may also be sent to Dr. Herbert Martin, Chairman of the University Parking Commission. Neurology Department, Bishop DeGroschne Medical Unit, Burlington, Vermont. Students are also urged to refer matters of concern to their respective representatives.

The next meeting of the University Parking Commission will be announced.

CLOSEST TO THE CAMPUS

Chittenden's Campus Side Banking
For everything you need a bank for.

More than just a Bank!

TRUST COMPANY

Simplicity

In a solitaire is a quality that has always been treasured. We have a fine selection of traditionally styled solitaires from which to choose. We cordially invite your inspection!

Illustrations slightly enlarged
PRICES START UNDER $100.00

YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.
17 UPPER CHURCH STREET - BURLINGTON

IT'S NOT TOO EARLY TO BEGIN...

This year begin a new craft and make your own CHRISTMAS CARDS at the same time

EVERYTHING YOU NEED IS HERE - WITH ILLUSTRATION! AND HINTS -

INEXPENSIVE CREATIVE PERSONAL

10% off on supplies for all art students

Church and College Sts.
Downtown Burlington
658-4554

the corner bookstore

"one-stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

The Insider

by Frank Luni

What is there about sports that defies verbal eloquence? A few weeks ago, Howard Conell was remarking on Monday night football that he felt Billy Jean King should be showing more "verbal truculence"; that is, if she ever expected to beat Bobby Riggs. Of course, this was a great example of Howard's desire for the dramatic, but it also pointed out that winning isn't something you get from talking. Talk is cheap, especially when it comes to sports, because really, what you do with what you believe, what you do on the field, on the court, or in the rink—that is the place of judgment. All the "verbal truculence" in the world will never do it for you. Muhammad Ali talked before the Frazier fight like he talked for no other, and Bobby Riggs raved and raved about how Billy Jean King would be on contest. But really, it was a lot of garbage. If these men are good, or better than their opponents, they need not convince anyone else but themselves. Talk if they want, but it is no prerequisite for being called a winner.

And so, my point is well taken for this column. Two weeks ago we beat and shutout a tough and highly-ranked Boston University team. It was a total effort that came from every guy on the field, whether he was in the game or on the bench. The feeling and satisfaction of that game is something which goes beyond words, but that will always be in us as a special and lasting part of this season. (Special thanks should be given to a woman who helped us in that game by her constant support, before, during, and after our win.)

Yes, we beat B.U. 15-0. So what, you say? Yeah, that's true, so what? But we are 2-2, not 1-3, or 0-4. And that's something, I feel, we have earned.

But the point is well taken about Howard's "verbal truculence". We don't have to say a whole lot of things about ourselves, except that as a team, as Seniors, playing in our last year, leaving teammates and coaches behind, and as underclassmen looking ahead, we simply want to go out as winners in 1973, and we believe we have worked and earned the right to do so. We are tired of being called "losers".

But that is talk. And all I can say is that the B.U. game was an example of our desire and our unwillingness to ever lay down or ever give up on the things in which we believe. Saturday, I feel, will show that we will be mental, emotionally and physically prepared for this game, because it is our last at home, but even more, because it is another chance for us to represent our school, our coaches, ourselves, and to play with a pride and belief in each other. But here on this paper, these words are merely talk. It will simply be up to us to prove that they are much more than that.

In closing though, I would like to ask in behalf of my teammates and our coaches, and all the people who are associated with football at U.V.M., that you give us a chance on Saturday against Rhode Island. We have worked and earned the right to represent you, so please, if you can, support us on Saturday, and come to the game, for we promise you a total effort, with everything we have.

Thank you, come and see us beat Rhode Island.

A Talk With UVM Football Coach Falivene

by Alan Patashnick

Since there was a full in the schedule, it was a good time to interview Coach Falivene and get his views on what has happened so far this season and what can be expected in the future. But before I arrived at his office last Friday, I did some thinking of my own on the remaining five games.

The final home game of the season will be played this Saturday, also Homecoming Weekend, against Rhode Island, a 10-7 loss to Maine last week. They are led by a fine running back, Molly McGee, and can give any team problems as evidenced two weeks ago when they tied Brown. The remaining four games will be even rougher because all of them will be played on the road. New Hampshire recently defeated Dartmouth and will not be a pushover-like some thought. Hofstra is usually a team that manages a winning record, and they gave Vermont a good go of it last year. Massachusetts is next on the schedule, featuring a fine passing attack led by quarterback Phil Pennington and flanker Tim Berra. Last week they defeated previously unbeaten Rutgers, 25-22. The final game of the 1973 season will be Bucknell, another fine and tough club from the state of Pennsylvania.

By now it was almost one o'clock so I hurried over to Patrick Gym and met Coach Falivene for the first time. After a pleasant greeting and a firm handshake, I got down to the purpose of my visit and he was more than ready to supply me with answers to my questions.

The first topic was one which has been plaguing the UVM team in its first four games—inconsistency. He told me that for the past week, the practice sessions have been stressing individual skills, rather than team skills. The reason for this would be to refine these skills and then, to combine these skills in the hopes of working out the inconsistencies. The offense has had trouble generating an attack for two halves. It was practically nil in the opening loss to Maine, then bounced back with a strong running attack for 2½ quarters. The passing attack barely showed itself in these two games. For a half, the offense looked good against UConn then bogged down in the second half again. In the 15-0 victory over Boston University, the passing attack was there but the backs could not find the holes in the line made for them. This hurt the passing game a great deal since a good running attack can open up the aerial game quite well. Coach Falivene hopes that the two week layoff between games will improve the overall team play. The layoff will also benefit the injured who may not have completely healed in a week's time. What the coaching staff is worried about is the team losing the emotional peak reached against B.U. Falivene feels this is something that won't be determined until the game with Rhode Island. The coaching staff hopes the squad can keep its emotions at a peak and keep it throughout the remaining games.

The next center of interest concerned the recruiting aspects of the game. Due to the lack of money, Falivene emphasized that it is hard to gather ballplayers from all regions of the country. Because of this, recruiting is chiefly done in all of New England, New York, New Jersey, certain areas of Pennsylvania, and as far west as Cleveland. Schools with larger budgets can afford to fly in prospective players from anywhere in the country. Vermont relies on the student driving in for a weekend to see the program for himself. As anyone can see, this is a major handicap in recruiting. The coaching staff cannot go after as many young, talented men as schools with larger athletic budgets can afford to do. The recruiting done last year and for this coming year centers on getting men with good speed. As Falivene pointed out, lack of speed has been a major weakness for Vermont football teams since the middle 1960's. He feels if he can latch on to players for both the offensive and defensive with good speed, a big improvement in the football program would result.

Coach Falivene continued, by making the point that Vermont has one player as any other team on the schedule. What Vermont lacks is quantity of talent, the extra manpower necessary to try a successful season. If one does not believe this, look at this year's team. I doubt that there is a better defensive tackle than John Hemphill, a better pair of offensive guards than Peter Trono and Dave Hibma, a receiver with better hands than Tony Jones, or as fine a middle linebacker as Glenn Martel. Until UVM establishes a tradition of winning it will be hard to attract a quantity of quality football talent. Schools with a winning tradition have a better chance of grabbing high school and junior college transfers than a school that lacks such a tradition. Just talking to Coach Falivene for half an hour left me with the feeling that a winning tradition is not so far away. There are no "ifs" with Falivene, just full speed ahead, with winning the ultimate goal.

UVM Football Coach Carl Falivene

The Yankee Conference has received a lot of unjust criticism in the past few years. Falivene more than agreed with me. He feels the conference, on a competitive basis, compares with any other Eastern Conferences. This was shown recently by the New Hampshire defeat of Dartmouth, the Connecticut win over Yale, and the close defeat by Maine against Central Connecticut. The confidence held by Falivene is evidenced by his wish to schedule ten games in the future and also try to get Dartmouth, Brown, and Columbia on the future schedule. A Dartmouth-Vermont game would be a natural rivalry, with Vermont being so close to Dartmouth. Falivene believes that any team in the Yankee Conference can give any Ivy League club a tough game. Hofstra is leaving the schedule after this season and Norwich will be added as of next year. I hope Vermont can schedule more of the Ivies for the future. One finds very few schools outside the Yankee Conference who play YC teams, many later dropping them from their schedule because they believe YC team cannot compete with them. Towards the end of the interview, Coach Falivene admitted that he did not know how the student body in general feels about football at Vermont. The only time he has gone on campus to speak to students was in the sociology of sports course. Other than that he has no idea of the students' feelings. He feels that any student who pays money to see a game has all the right in the world to criticize the team in question. But he made a point that most of the people who do the criticizing may be unjust in putting the blame on particular individuals. Coach Falivene and the rest of the staff can see obvious mistakes from the sidelines but cannot see all of them from this position. The game is timed so that these mistakes can be pointed out and corrected before they become a habit. An interception thrown by a quarterback may not be his fault if the receiver on his pass pattern cuts the wrong way. Even the players themselves do not always see things the correct way. Play happens very quickly and even the performers may have been mistaken concerning what went on before them. What Coach Falivene stressed is very simple. This school has been accustomed to losing, causing

(continued on page fifteen)

Sports Commentary: The Football Blackout

by Mike Schwartz

Major league sports is, indeed, big business in need of regulation. But now the threat of government intervention has been blown out of proportion. Just recently, the United States Senate passed a bill that allows the football blackout to be lifted when a game is sold out 72 hours in advance. The passage of this bill could have profound effects on the sport.

Although it is true that football has grown because of media exposure this does not mean that limited use of television is not allowed. A professional team has but seven home games a year. Sellouts are virtual necessities so that maximum revenue can be gained to pay for high overhead costs and player's salaries. With the lifting of the blackout repercussions are being felt; football stadiums are not being filled to capacity. In Miami and Kansas City, recent games were played in stadiums where there were 15,000 "no shows." Each of these "no shows" means lost revenue as far as parking and concessions. When the weather becomes colder (and in many football towns December games are played in subzero temperatures) this "no show" figure could be significantly greater.

Although TV has made football big business it also has helped sell tickets. It has increased sales so that most stadiums are sold out to season ticket holders and that before the blackout stadiums were filled to over 90% of capacity. Fans bought the tickets because they knew home games could not be seen any other way. But now sold out games can be seen at home and the privilege has been taken away. So if a game is sold out he can stay at home in the warmth of his home and not spend money that is so valuable to the functioning of a football organization. In cold or inclement weather this becomes more of a reality. But with the blackout the ticket holder has his privilege and other fans could still see the home team when they played on the road. Many stadiums still have general admission seats that are sold on a game to game basis. The lifting of the blackout has diminished the value of a ticket and decreases possible revenue. Clubowners realizing this now sell seats they never considered part of a stadium's capacity. The obstructed views that many seats offer are now being sold so that attendance for a game can be just one under capacity so that the blackout would be in effect and the "no show" figure will be minimal. The fan realizing the diminished value of his seat can stay at home or fail to renew his ticket subscription. Sellouts may be few and far between. And of course government has initiated these reactions. The retaliation of fan, owner, and government has taken place.

As a footnote, a media battle is taking place in Burlington. Montreal has effected a blackout of Boston Bruin hockey games in Burlington even though the city is outside the 75 mile barrier, the so-called territorial limits of a major league team. The effects of this media battle remain to be seen.

Booters Look For First Conference Win Against RI

Vermont looks for its first Yankee Conference victory of 6-1 and Norwich, 3-1. The only non-league loss was to after an inactive weekend. Don Soderberg's booters dropped their first two YanCon games, Saturday begins at 10:30 a.m. both by 1-0 scores to Boston University and Connecticut, along the soccer field sidelines the league's leader. Vermont for spectators.

Soccer Schedule

Oct. 13 (Sat.)	Rhode Island*	10:30 a.m.
Oct. 17 (Wed.)	Norwich	3 p.m.
Oct. 20 (Sat.)	at New Hampshire	10:30 a.m.
Oct. 24 (Wed.)	Middlebury	3 p.m.
Oct. 27 (Sat.)	Maine*	10:30 a.m.
Oct. 30 (Tues.)	at St. Michael's	3 p.m.
Nov. 3 (Sat.)	at Massachusetts*	10:30 a.m.

Films Of Canadian-Russian Hockey Series To Be Shown At UVM

One of the most exciting Canadian-Russian hockey series of hockey film ever sponsored by the Friends of UVM is scheduled for University of Vermont hockey Gymnasium, Sunday, Oct. 28. The public is welcomed. Tickets beginning at 7 p.m. The color of admission is $1.00. Ticket film presentation of the recent will be available at the door.

PLANTASIA

has many new plants in

Do something nice for yourself...

buy a plant-start a jungle

also: low cost clay pots & many types of hangers

ST PAUL & COLLEGE ST open 10:30-5:30

BRANIFF GULF OPEN 24 HOURS

Complete car service

VW and VOLVO Repairs

ELECTRICAL WORK

including Bosch equipment

864-6303

Across from the Ramada Inn on Williston Road

Cotamont Football Clippings

Will a week away from momentum after an impressive victory, Sept. 24? Although of the tough, physical game little concerned about the have had—following that Falivene. "We'll know Saturday a hindrance or if it was a the coach. Several nagging in B.U. game two weeks ago. Saturday's Homecoming game question mark is defensive of hobbling because of an ankle.

The game with Rhode Island, p.m., as have the other three Homecoming festivities, the minutes. One of the biggest Over 5,000 general admission morning of the game, beginning Field Ticket Office Colchester.

Concerning ticket information at New Hampshire (Oct. Massachusetts (Nov. 3) and Business Manager, N. F. following information. At Durham, tickets are $3.50. UVM faculty and staff are Hofstra: Oct. 27. Heimstead public are $3.00; faculty are $2.00; at Massachusetts, Nov. $3.50 for general public, $1.50 for students, and at Pa. tickets for general public and staff, $3.00 for student tickets are available for purchase Gymnasium, Room 206. Speed

UVM Rugby College 38-

UVM Rugby Team put things together Saturday at Macdonald College of McGill University 38-0. The margin of victory was somewhat of a surprise as UVM had only been averaging eight points per game in its previous three outings. During the Macdonald game, seven of fifteen UVM players were to score tries, or touchdowns, worth four points each. This accounted for 36 points, with the other two points coming on an extra point attempt. The margin of victory would have been wider except UVM failed to

Rugby S

13* Macdonald College
20 To be announced
27 McGill Univ.
30 McGill Grad. School

COMIN

OUR CONTEMPORARY

CORGI American Indian Jewelry Silverwork

S. American + Mid. East Rugs Tapestries + Weavings

1301 Shelburne Rd. Burlington, VT 05401

802-652-3712 Onyx + Wood Chess Sets - Antique Mirrors

MAZEL'S FAMILY SHOE STORE 102 North St., Burlington

CONTINENTAL TYROLEANS®

DUNHAM'S

The North Country's Favorite All-around BOOT ...

Men's Sizes 6 to 13, Ladies' Sizes 5 to 10

★ CAMPUS BOOTS ★ HIKING BOOTS ★

★ Mazel's Open Daily 9 am to 6 pm, Thurs. & Fri. 'til 9 pm

★ Free Parking Next to Store

Charge It ...

Why do some people think Bud is sort of special?

Go ahead and find out why!
(Brewing beer right does make a difference.)

When you say Budweiser, you've said it all!

ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. - ST. LOUIS

Blackout

business in need of government intervention. Recently, the United States has had a blackout which could have profound effects on the economy. The blackout has been caused by a combination of factors, including a shortage of fuel and a breakdown in the power grid. The effects of the blackout have been widespread, affecting everything from transportation to communication. The government has been working to restore power as quickly as possible, but the situation remains uncertain.

Catamount Football Clippings

With a week away from a game, half Vermont's momentum after an impressive 15-0 win over Boston University, Sept. 29. Although we needed the rest because of the tough, physical game at BU two weeks ago, I'm a little concerned about the potential momentum we might have had following that win," said head coach Carl Falivene. "We'll know Saturday if that open date proves to be a hindrance or if it was a great time for a break," added the coach. Several nagging injuries cropped up following the BU game two weeks ago, and the medical report for Saturday's Homecoming game looks very good. The only question mark is defensive end John Anderson, who is still hobbling because of an ankle injury from the BU game.

The game with Rhode Island starts at 1:30 p.m., not 1 p.m., as have the other three home contests. Because of the Homecoming festivities, the game has been pushed back 30 minutes. One of the biggest crowds in years is expected. Over 5,000 general admission tickets will go on sale the morning of the game, beginning at 10:30, at the Centennial Field Ticket Office, Colchester Ave.

Concerning ticket information for the four away games: at New Hampshire (Oct. 20), Hofstra (Oct. 27), Massachusetts (Nov. 3) and Bucknell (Nov. 10). Athletic Business Manager, N. Edward Bartlett has released the following information. At New Hampshire, Oct. 20, Durham, tickets are $3.50 for general public; $2.00 for UVM faculty and staff; $1.50 for all students; at Hofstra, Oct. 27, Hempstead, N.Y., tickets for general public are $3.00, faculty and staff, $2.00 and students $2.00; at Massachusetts, Nov. 3, Amherst, Mass., tickets are $3.50 for general public; $1.75 for faculty and staff and $2.00 for students; and at Bucknell, Nov. 10, Lewisburg, Pa., tickets for general public are $5.00, $3.00 for faculty and staff, $3.00 for students and $1.00 for children. All tickets are available for purchase at UVM's Roy L. Patrick Gymnasium, Room 306, Spear St., Burlington, Vt.

UVM Lacrosse Scores First Goal : Gains Recognition From SA

UVM's Lacrosse Club received a boost from the Student Association Thursday, October 4, when the Senators voted the group official recognition as a student activity.

The club, begun at the start of the current semester to encourage the development of the sport at UVM, has had several organizational meetings with a steadily increasing membership at each meeting.

Two weeks ago, the club, now at least three members, elected its officers for the coming year. Those elected were: Ken Bartlett (77), Peterborough, N.H., President; Tom Humphries (76), Baltimore, Md., Vice-President; Douglas Beardsley (74), Rowayton, Conn., Secretary-Treasurer. Paul Stonely, Area Coordinator for MAT and Harris-Mills is the Faculty Advisor.

The Oldest American Sport has long been a tradition at many Eastern colleges and secondary schools, both public and private. Lacrosse hotbeds have long been found in the Baltimore area. Long Island, New York, and New England independent schools. In the past decade, the sport has experienced tremendous growth in New Jersey, especially in public secondary schools, and more recently in the states of Massachusetts, Ohio, Colorado, and California.

Just south of Montreal, lacrosse is a major recreation at the Caughnawaga Indian Reservation, The Toronto, Ontario area is a hotbed for a variation, box lacrosse, played in an ice hockey rink (without ice), with six on a side (as opposed to ten in American lacrosse).

Seventeenth-century French explorers discovered American Indians playing lacrosse in a wide open and "anything goes" type of play. Modern lacrosse is considerably more restrained than the games witnessed by those French explorers, but not so much that the contemporary game is undeserving of its modern nickname, "The Fastest Sport on Two Feet."

The new Lacrosse Club has been designed with the beginning lacrosse player in mind. Instruction will be the primary emphasis, but informal, no one should feel apprehensive about coming out and trying his hand on a lacrosse stick.

Pick-up games and instructional sessions will begin this winter in the Gutterson Fieldhouse Cage. However, while the weather holds, one lacrosse goal has been set up behind Gutterson for anyone interested. Depending on how well individual skills develop during the winter, spring will bring the possibility of scrimmages with neighborhood colleges. In fact, Middlebury and the University of Maine have already expressed an interest in playing the University of Vermont Lacrosse Club, but those games are tentative at best and at the present time, the primary focus is on informal instructional sessions, not on intercollegiate play.

An aggressive fund-raising campaign is already being planned and with anticipated financial support from the Student Association, lacrosse should become the New Spring Thing at UVM.

Falivene Interview

(continued from page fourteen)

people to criticize the team with no real basis. There is a lot of hard work that goes into a football program. Students should not tear it down so quickly. One really does not understand what it takes to build a team if one hasn't played or coached the sport.

Just before I left the UVM, mentor told me that he hopes the students will support the team the rest of this season and in future years. I can't blame him if he hints at a lack of student interest or to use another word, apathy. When was the last time Vermont has a big pep rally supporting the football team? Those young men play for our university, spending a lot of hard work and time. I think this school should show them how much they are appreciated.

Cross Country Schedule

Oct. 17	RPI - Williams	3:30 p.m.
Oct. 24	at St. Michael's College	4 p.m.
Oct. 27	at Yankee Conference Meet
	Durham, N.H.
Nov. 5	at New England Franklin Park
	Boston, Mass.

UVM Rugby Team Defeats MacDonald College 38-0 ; B Team Loses 28-24

Action in recent rugby contest

After a hard-fought first half, the University of Vermont Rugby Team put things together, defeating MacDonald College of McGill University 38-0. The margin of victory was somewhat of a surprise as UVM had only been averaging eight points per game in its previous three outings. During the MacDonald game, seven of the fifteen UVM players were able to score tries, or touchdowns, worth four points apiece. This accounted for 28 points, with the other two points coming on an extra point attempt. The margin of victory would have been even greater except UVM failed to convert 3 out of 9 point after attempts. Rick Sheriff, senior forward, was high man for UVM with 10 points.

The scoring for the first half was as follows. UVM scored its first try with less than a minute gone when captain Jack Lony broke through the MacDonald defenders to score. The next four scores were made by Marcel Bergeron and Rick Sheriff. One score by Bergeron was a 50 yard run from center field. Sheriff also contributed an additional 2 points by kicking UVM's only successful PAT. The final score in the first half was a try by Mark O'Conner.

The scoring for the second half began with freshman back Tom Sawyer scoring on a ten yard run after five minutes of play. Ten minutes later another score was made on a seventy yard run down the sideline by senior Gary Sabourin. Scoring ended with a try by forward Stuart Gladding who powered his way 15 yards through four MacDonald defenders.

The next game will be Saturday October 13 at Archie Post Field when UVM again hosts MacDonald College. Kickoff time will be 11:00.

UVM's B team lost to Mad River Rugby Club 28 to 24 in the last several minutes when Mad River was able to score two tries on defensive lapses by UVM.

Rugby Schedule

OCT 13*	MacDonald College	Home (11:00)
OCT 20	To be announced
OCT 27	McGill Univ.	Home
NOV. 3	McGill Grad. School	Home

COMING SOON

Nata Connection

OUR YOUNG CONTEMPORARY SHOP

Hall Of Fame Dinner

The deadline for reserving tickets for the 5th annual University of Vermont Athletic Hall of Fame dinner (Simpson Dining Hall) is Friday Oct. 12. Reservations must be made through Ed Bartlett, Patrick Gym (656-3074). The dinner, which begins with a reception at 6 p.m., is opened to the public. Tickets are $7.00 each. Seven inductees will be honored this year, including former Vermont Basketball coach (1940-65), John C. Furry. Evans, the late Orin Jay, '33, one of the premier baseball teachers in the New England High School ranks, and one of the top scholar-athletes ever to perform at Vermont, Austin Ross, '37. Also scheduled to be honored are the late Kenneth "Doc" Newton, '24, a former star pitcher for the Catamounts; Francis Winkenschuh, '31, an athlete who won 13 letters while at Vermont; the late Henry Sogans, one of the most popular athletes ever at Vermont and Ralph Kehoe, '51, a standout football, basketball and baseball star of the late 40's and early 50's. Dean Slack, general manager of television station, WVTN, in Burlington, is this year's master of ceremonies. - Burlington Mayor Gordon H. Paquette and Thomas V. Webster, are scheduled to address the gathering.

Practice Begins For Defense Of Championship

Coach Jim Cross and last year's captain Patti Wright receiving Division II championship cup. Cat the Cats repeat in 1974? SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

by Rick Steinberg

This week the University of Vermont Ice Hockey Team began working out for the 1973-74 season. The Catamounts, under the direction of Coach Jim Cross, are presently skating at Essex High School.

In a few weeks the ice will be laid in Gutterson Field House and the team will return to the site of the 1972 Division II championship game. The Cats were victorious in that contest and completed a perfect 19-0-0 season within their division. This year, the Cats' final in Division II, the team, led by Ted Castle, will try to defend their championship.

Plans Finalized For Barbeque

Plans have been finalized for the annual, Centennial Club sponsored Chicken Barbeque.

Oct. 13 and for the first time, a huge tent will be set up for the luncheon. The tent, geared to handle over 200 guests at one sitting, will assure everyone of a comfortable meal prior to the Vermont-Rhode Island Homecoming football game. The barbeque, opened to everyone, will begin at 11 a.m. and run to 1 p.m., 30 minutes before the kickoff. Individual tickets are $3.00 and may be purchased from the Alumni Office, So. Prospect St. (656-2010) or the Athletic Ticket Office, Patrick Gym (656-3074).

Road Rally To Be Held

The Sports Car Club of Vermont will hold their first Road Rally of the school year this Sunday, October 14, starting at Patrick Gym. Registration opens at 12:00. The first car will leave at 1:00 p.m. The rally is approximately 120 miles in length and should take approximately three and a half hours to run. Rally master is Jim Weaver (UVM '75) and can be contacted for further information at 863-6553. Entry fees: $3.00 club members and UVM students with ID - $4.00 all others.

Popkin Expresses Views At UVM

(continued from page one)

undermines freedom of the press. Under the pretense of investigating crime, the federal government - can require journalists to divulge their sources of information on anything the government might find dangerous, irritating, or distasteful. If people know that journalists may be compelled to expose them to the government, they simply won't talk to journalists. The same goes for scholars, whose research often takes them into controversial areas. No one will talk to them either. Information on political groups or individuals opposed to the government would dry up. The public would lose its access to the facts, and the government could follow its own line unopposed. There would be no more stories or research on the blacks, Puerto Ricans, homosexuals, or Vietnam veterans. They were government-like stories.

We are threatened by this ruling, pointed out Popkin, for we will cease to get information on controversial but vital matters. Journalists and scholars who refuse to divulge their sources will end up in jail. Many have. That's what happened to Popkin. He refused to answer questions about sources of information fearing his answers would be used to hurt "innocent people" and that his future research and livelihood as a scholar would be threatened as his sources would dry up. He didn't know exactly what the Grand Jury was going to use his answers for, but felt he couldn't take the chance, even though he knew nothing about the release of the Papers. So he went to jail. Upon his incarceration there was a great deal of publicity on the case. This caused the government to back off and he was released from prison.

In addition to pointing out the dangers to all citizens of journalists and scholars being required to divulge their sources, Popkin called for the reform of the institutions of Grand Jury investigations. "The Grand Jury has become a method of preventive detention of radicals," he stated.

Grand Juries are not required, by law for reveal exactly what they are investigating and so can give witnesses the opportunity to have anything to do with the investigation of an actual crime. The federal government can pick up information on groups and individuals which have committed no crime but which it simply dislikes.

He called for reforms which would allow any witness to have his lawyer present at all times, to know what is being investigated, and to be able to demand that the federal prosecutor show the relevance of his questions to the investigation.

Popkin pointed out that much of the increasing power of the federal government in political investigations and convictions comes from legislation which was passed originally with no such overt political intent but rather arose out of increasing concern with "crime in the streets." People have wanted to give power to the government to be able to crack down harder on crime, but this power has been used to make political arrests. But, Popkin asserted, law and order is a legitimate issue which liberals and radicals have stayed away from because of its stigma as a racist one. It must be dealt with, he maintained.

"We're really in trouble if we have to choose between civil liberties and safe streets," he said.

CRYPTOQUOTE

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

For Example: Longfellow
twommttwe

In this example, t has been substituted for L, w for o and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

Solution to Cryptoquote in Oct. 4th issue of the Cynic:

Well, if I called the wrong number, why did you answer the phone?

James Thurber

KOPB VFY NHP YE ZF VFYH NJJ SB
NGGSONZEHJ. SZ SJ MSAASXYGZ ZE HPDSBM
VFYHJHPA ZONZ VFYH SBSZNG FWCXZSLP
KNJ ZE MHNSB ZOP JKND.

NBFVDFYJ

Israeli Musical To Be Shown

Israel's First Musical in Color "Topels" - English titles and editing - to be shown on October 21, at 8:00 P.M. in Marsh Life Science Auditorium. Students with I.D. $1.00, otherwise $2.00 donation.

VALUABLE COUPON

SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS

10% DISCOUNT

ON YOUR PURCHASES AT

CAMPUS PHARMACY

ACROSS FROM The Medical Center

The Good Courts!

Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Pro Shop • 24-Hour Stringing Service • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 M Weekdays • Reserved Time and Walk-in Rates

TWIN OAKS

TENNIS CENTER

Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 863-3429

HOMEcoming AT PHI DELTA THETA

FRIDAY AFTERNOON : FADC at 3pm with KEGS, HOT DOGS, and this week an OPEN BAR!

SATURDAY NITE : BAND PARTY 9pm - ??

10 KEGS and DANCING to 'SATIN 'N STEEL'

$1 admission

ALL INVITED!!!

ASIA plants in for yourself... a jungle & types of hangers

GULF 4 HOURS service

VO Repairs

AL WORK

equipment

03

Ramada Inn

VERMONT CYNIC

OCTOBER 11, 1973

Panasonic
just slightly ahead of our time

44 series

Technics
by Panasonic

CD-4

Panasonic
just slightly ahead of our time

44 series

LAFAYETTE RADIO
&
THE LIVING & LEARNING CENTER
present

DOOR PRIZE

Panasonic CD-4 CHANNEL MUSIC SYSTEM

FACTORY REPRESENTATIVES AVAILABLE FOR YOUR QUESTIONS
ENTERTAINMENT BY THE RIVERBOAT 5 &
THE WORLD'S FINEST 4 CHANNEL EQUIPMENT AVAILABLE

FREE REFRESHMENTS

LIVING & LEARNING CENTER
COMMONS BUILDING ROOM 115
TUESDAY OCT. 16, 1973 8pm to 11pm.

Technics
by Panasonic

CD-4

Panasonic
just slightly ahead of our time

44 series

Technics
by Panasonic

CD-4

Technics
by Panasonic

CD-4

Panasonic
just slightly ahead of our time

44 series

Technics
by Panasonic

CD-4

Panasonic
just slightly ahead of our time

44 series

Technics
by Panasonic

CD-4

VOLUME XXI

Questions About

by Jim Bradley
Answers to some frequently asked questions about Philosophy Four case

Question: "What exactly happened up to now?"

Answer: "Professor Stanley
M. Cahn, the new chairman of the Philosophy Department, recommended that four of ten faculty members in department not be rehired next fall. They are Paskow, Anderson,
Corcoran.

Cahn's recommendation
then went to the department Review Committee, which made its own recommendations.
They upheld Cahn in the cases of Rice and Anderson, were unable to come to a decision in the case of Paskow, and went against Cahn decision in the case
Corcoran.

Question: "On what grounds did Cahn make recommendations?"

Answer: "According to four, he in effect charged the with academic incompetence and shoddy scholarship."

Question: "You
according to the four?"

Cahn explained his charges elaborated on them himself.

Answer: No, he has declined to comment, believing it would be professionally improper him to do so.

Question: "Well, how do the four counter his charges?"

Answer: "They claim that the criteria the University officially established for rehiring faculty members namely teaching, a scholarship, Cahn has ignored in making his recommendations.
The four are generally considered excellent teachers by students who have them. The four also claim Cahn's charge of unacceptable scholarship, which primarily means not enough publications, is biased."

Question: "You say the Cahn is new as chairman. What happened to the chairman?"

Answer: "The former chairman, Robert Halfon, resigned a year and a half ago.
There had been pressure have him removed by some the department."

Question: "Where did Cahn come from, how was he hired?"

Answer: "He comes from Syracuse, New York. He was University where he was Associate Professor. He also taught at Vassar. He was untenured at New York University, and would not come up for tenure during academic year. At the age 31 he has an impressive publications list to his name."

In This

VERMONT CYNIC

OCTOBER 18, 1973

NUMBER 20

Questions Most Frequently Asked About The Philosophy Four Case

by Jim Bradley

Answers to some frequently asked questions about the Philosophy Four case.

Question: "What exactly has happened up to now?"

Answer: "Professor Steven M. Cahn, the new chairman of the Philosophy Department recommended that four of the ten faculty members in the department not be rehired for next fall. They are Rice, Paskow, Anderson, and Corcoran."

Cahn's recommendations then went to the department Review Committee, which made its own recommendations. They upheld Cahn in the cases of Rice and Anderson, were unable to come to a decision in the case of Paskow, and went against Cahn's decision in the case of Corcoran.

Question: "On what grounds did Cahn make his recommendations?"

Answer: "According to the four, he in effect charged them with academic incompetence and shoddy scholarship."

Question: "You say 'according to the four.' Has Cahn explained his charges or elaborated on them himself?"

Answer: No, he has declined to comment, believing it would be professionally improper for him to do so.

Question: "Well, how do the four counter his charges?"

Answer: "They claim that of the criteria the University has officially established for rehiring faculty members namely teaching and scholarship, Cahn has ignored in making his recommendations. The four are generally considered excellent teachers by students who have had them. The four also claim that Cahn's charge of unacceptable scholarship, which primarily means not enough publications, is biased."

Question: "You say that Cahn is new as chairman. What happened to the old chairman?"

Answer: "The former chairman, Robert Hall, resigned a year and a half ago. There had been pressure to have him removed by some of the department."

Question: "Where did Cahn come from, how was he hired?"

Answer: "He comes most recently from New York University where he was an Associate Professor. He has also taught at Vassar. He was hired at Vassar, and would have come up for tenure during this year. At the age of 31, he has an impressive list of publications to his name."

Cahn was one of three candidates for the chair recommended by a University Search Committee.

This committee was composed of five faculty members from various departments, two from the philosophy department, Psychology Department, and two students, all of whom were selected by Dean John Weiger of the College of Arts and Sciences. This committee was chaired by Professor George Albee of the philosophy department. Weiger selected Cahn from among the three candidates recommended.

Question: "Some people have charged that there is a bias against the Philosophy Department.

Answer: "Some people have charged that there is a bias against the

S. A. Meeting:

Concert Bureau Explains Roberta Flack's Cancellation

by Bruce Madden

Chip Towers, director of the Concert Bureau, reported Tuesday night on what happened with Roberta Flack and offered some hints on future attractions.

After attendance was taken and minutes were corrected, Towers elucidated on why Roberta Flack cancelled her last Saturday. She reportedly took ill and cancelled two other performances for Friday and Sunday. She had not signed a contract and was therefore not legally bound. Her cancellation was legally sound through the act of God clause which covers illness or accident. Towers also brought forward about twenty names available for dates which coincide with available university space, namely Patrick Gym. Among these were included Chuck Berry, Quicksilver, Blood Sweat and Tears, Canned Heat, and Rare Earth. The Senators offered many suggestions for concerts which will be looked into also. Towers also reported that UVM had the Beach Boys scheduled for December but that a hockey game had been scheduled simultaneously. Also discussed was the possibility of having reserved seats as a way of eliminating crowds at the door. Discussion then traveled off the floor of the Senate when a student proposed that UVM not be in the concert business at all. He stated that the turnover of Concert Bureau staff hindered chances for better rapport in the music business. He suggested that a group of Burlington promoters handle concerts.

Continuing into committee reports, the president announced that nominations for a permanent chairperson will open next week. Heller also spoke about a recent inquiry by the Governor's Commission of Education into knowledge the S.A. had concerning the struggle of the four philosophy professors. Heller has also been asked to help with a committee concerning the matter. In addition to committee reports, Ed Pasqualin asked that an ad-hoc committee also report during this session of the meeting. He said that it would let senators know that these committees were doing something and would also keep the committees functional. In old business, the recognition of three new organizations was discussed. El Club Hispanico, an organization for Spanish speaking students, was given recognition. Recognition was tabled for a week for Oz productions and the Amanda Marga Society. Once again, not all of the facts were brought out and the senators thought that a week of investigation was necessary. They also felt that the lack of a movement's leaders. The momentum began a week ago when Schoenfeld got together with Professor Harry Kahn, the leader of Hillel and held a meeting. On the following Tuesday, the organizers staged a much larger meeting, which was attended by over sixty students and professors. Schoenfeld emphasized the common frustration felt by those involved. "We identify with the Israelis. We feel it is our problem as well as theirs," he commented.

The student volunteers have been compiling lists for blood donors for Red-Cross, soliciting from door-to-door in the dormitories, and have additionally set up booths in Billings and Hillel House to raise funds and offer information on the situation.

On last Wednesday, WRUV-FM interviewed Professors Rosenbloom, Sugarman, and Gordon about the Mid-East war. Following this, the leaders of the movement, both students and faculty, planned the rally held Friday night at Ohavi Zedek Synagogue. The rally and preceding prayer services were student-led, yet they involved the whole community. Between 350 and 400 people attended the rally which was considered quite successful. The unification of townspeople

(continued on page twelve)

SPS: Wynn Gold

Goddard College Charged With Racism; Third World Studies Program Endangered

by Jim Bradley

Last week people from Goddard College were on campus handing out flyers which charged racism and political repression at the small experimental school, tucked away in a corner of Plainfield, Vt. This came as a surprise to people who have not kept abreast of recent goings-on there. For Goddard has long had a reputation as a progressive school, largely isolated from the rest of the world. Its students are generally visible to the outside court injunctions barring them from setting foot on campus under penalty of arrest. "What I've seen at Goddard is liberal racism," charged Charles Johnson, professor, at a rally at UVM last Friday night. He and the other speakers, professors and students, came down hard on the most visible "liberal racist," President Gerald Witherspoon.

"We're up against the worst form of racism in existence," said one student. "It's the worst because it comes under a liberal blanket. They say 'You aren't getting rid of you because you're black, but because you're a luxury. We're not racist. We're liberals so everyone knows we can't be racist.'"

What has happened at Goddard? To answer that we first have to go back a little ways. With the civil rights movement of the 1960's, many whites realized that racism, in both a personal and an institutional sense, was much deeper than they had known. In its wake some of the more "sensitive," "enlightened," and "progressive" colleges took the plea and arguments and warnings of the protests and riots to heart and tried to do something about their racism. Goddard was one such place. Antioch College in Ohio, where last year angry students closed down the college for a time when financial aid for minority students was cut, was another. At Goddard an effort was made to recruit Third World students, particularly blacks. This included scholarships for

Photo by Rob Schaeffer

from setting foot on campus under penalty of arrest. "What I've seen at Goddard is liberal racism," charged Charles Johnson, professor, at a rally at UVM last Friday night. He and the other speakers, professors and students, came down hard on the most visible "liberal racist," President Gerald Witherspoon.

"We're up against the worst form of racism in existence," said one student. "It's the worst because it comes under a liberal blanket. They say 'You aren't getting rid of you because you're black, but because you're a luxury. We're not racist. We're liberals so everyone knows we can't be racist.'"

What has happened at Goddard? To answer that we first have to go back a little ways. With the civil rights movement of the 1960's, many whites realized that racism, in both a personal and an institutional sense, was much deeper than they had known. In its wake some of the more "sensitive," "enlightened," and "progressive" colleges took the plea and arguments and warnings of the protests and riots to heart and tried to do something about their racism. Goddard was one such place. Antioch College in Ohio, where last year angry students closed down the college for a time when financial aid for minority students was cut, was another. At Goddard an effort was made to recruit Third World students, particularly blacks. This included scholarships for

(continued on page nine)

Students, Faculty, Community Unite In Support Of Israel

by Barbara Frankel

In a strong, unified effort, students, faculty, and community have joined together to express support for Israel in the current Mid-East war.

Students have been actively soliciting funds for the United Jewish Appeal. All money sent to the UJA is used for non-military functions, such as housing, food and medical supplies for Israelis and processing of immigrants from the Soviet Union. Although they definitely support Israel, students are trying to "keep it non-political, using the human level instead," according to Gary Schoenfeld, one of the movement's leaders.

The momentum began a week ago when Schoenfeld got together with Professor Harry Kahn, the leader of Hillel and held a meeting. On the following Tuesday, the organizers staged a much larger meeting, which was attended by over sixty students and professors. Schoenfeld emphasized the common frustration felt by those involved. "We identify with the Israelis. We feel it is our problem as well as theirs," he commented.

The student volunteers have been compiling lists for blood donors for Red-Cross, soliciting from door-to-door in the dormitories, and have additionally set up booths in Billings and Hillel House to raise funds and offer information on the situation.

On last Wednesday, WRUV-FM interviewed Professors Rosenbloom, Sugarman, and Gordon about the Mid-East war. Following this, the leaders of the movement, both students and faculty, planned the rally held Friday night at Ohavi Zedek Synagogue. The rally and preceding prayer services were student-led, yet they involved the whole community. Between 350 and 400 people attended the rally which was considered quite successful. The unification of townspeople and the university community was considered "remarkable." According to Schoenfeld, it was an "emotional evening," enhanced by two prayers recited just for the occasion.

After the rally, a table was set up outside the synagogue. Over $1400 in cash was raised, which will go immediately to the United Jewish Appeal. Through community and university support, over $2000 has now been raised.

At present, tables have been also set up in Waterman and in the Living/Learning Center to facilitate fund raising and giving information. The tables in Billings and Hillel will also continue to be maintained until the war is over. Leaders are planning a raffle for a $100 U.S. Savings Bond and an auction to raise additional money.

All donations can be sent to Hillel House at 389 Main St., or can be sent directly to United Jewish Appeal, 1290 Avenue of the Americas, N.Y., N.Y. 10019. Please make checks payable to United Jewish Appeal Israeli Emergency Fund.

SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

Controversy Resurfaces As Faculty Examines Finals

by John Van Hoesen

The controversy over the scrapping of final exams surfaced again in the final minutes of the Faculty Senate meeting last Thursday.

Dr. Robert Gobin, Professor of Physical Education, initiated the discussion with the statement that an increasing number of students are taking exams during the last week of classes. This has the effect of imposing a negative attitude toward classes that are not giving exams until the scheduled period. Gobin's main contention was that students are leaving campus one and one-half weeks before the semester officially ends.

Commenting on common hour exams in Patrick Gymnasium, Gobin observed that many of the time slots are often empty as a result of some professors giving exams during the last week of classes.

University policy on this issue states that no class will give a final exam, or any exam during the final week of classes. This, as Dr. Gobin felt pointed out, is in force, but not enforced. He did not feel any need for change.

Suggesting a reevaluation of the final exam policy, Gobin personally favored replacing exam week with five class periods. He called for a decision of some kind by Spring semester.

As the discussion broadened, some expressed dissatisfaction to the suggested formation of a new committee. Dr. Felf did not want to "embark on another road of futility, or endless debate" between those who would and would not want five extra classes to teach. The Senate will study the matter.

The faculty will see faster pay checks this month as a result of UVM's decision to contribute 100 per cent of the cost for Blue Shield and Major Medical Insurance. Pay checks will increase by an immediate one per cent, Vice President Wayne Patterson reported.

Explaining in detail an earlier proposal to establish an incentive fund "for improvement of learning and instruction at the undergraduate level," Vice President Rollins affirmed a $25,000 dollar allocation for the Spring Semester. The money will be allocated in several small grants to professors who have submitted a proposal that states objectives, methods, and expected costs of an experimental course or program.

Although the administration received a good reception for the incentive fund, the faculty was reminded of another potential issue between faculty and administration when nominations were

(continued on page eleven)

Latest VPIRG Study:

Burlington Prices Rise Sharply

As Marie Antoinette responded when told that the people of France were too poor to buy bread, "Let them eat cake!" Marie certainly wouldn't have given this advice to the people of the Burlington area today with the price of Pillsbury flour up 59%, sugar up 31%, Crisco shortening up 34.8% and eggs up 20% compared to the average price from the VPIRG survey last March. Other goods compared showed significant changes upward. The most outstanding decline for the shoppers was a 13.5% decrease in the average price of potatoes. Small declines in the price of pork chops and also porterhouse steak were also observed. Needless to say the price of goods this October exceeds last March in practically every respect. The fact that one must now cry over spilled milk with a 9.2% increase in price over last March makes it imperative that this October, you get the most for your money. The October VPIRG survey coronates Finest as price-king for a month, with a $3.72 edge over the last place contender. Also included in the survey was a list of services offered by all the participating stores. Only four out of the fifteen stores surveyed delivered on Pearl Street with charges ranging from $1.00-1.50. Grand Union on Shelburne Road for $1.00 and the A&P on Shelburne Road. It is possible that free delivery offered by the IGA is reflected in the price of food, since they were ranked last in the survey. All stores open at 9:00 except for the IGA which opened at 8:00 and our leader Finest which opened at 8:30 on 6 out of 7 shopping days. The only stores surveyed that did not have Sunday hours were the A&P on Shelburne Road and the IGA. Four stores offer shopping until 10:00. These are: Grand Union on Shelburne Road, The Country Store and Martins on Dorset Street and Shelburne Road. 9-10 shopping is available at these stores Monday through Sat. Generally speaking, Tuesday through Sat. are the best days for shopping from data here, being that all sales fall on these days. Grand Union was the only store surveyed that offered trading stamps but most stores featured gifts, games or special offers. The fact that nearly every store except the top two offered these special services might hint a correlation between these and higher prices. One finding that seemed curious is the deviation between prices within specific chains. There exists a $.68 difference in the sum totals between the Grand Union Stores, and a $.83 difference within the A&P chain. As far as we know, this difference is unjustified.

The purpose of the VPIRG survey is to stimulate competition among the local stores as well as to be informative to the shopper. However, results are compiled totally on the basis of price comparisons and aspects such as produce quality are not taken into account. A more comprehensive survey could be performed next month but additional volunteers are definitely needed to join Nanette Nurbil, Becky Miller, Robin Sloane, Barry Leine, Jeff Lindgren, Joanne McKenzie, Jean Greenia, Ace Guthridge, Luch Buckner, Pat

(continued on page twelve)

In This Week's Cynic:

Department Chairman Series: Forestry... p.3

Creative Writing Contest Details... p.5

Review Of Songs' Latest Album... p.6

Table of Contents

Arts and Entertainment... p.6

Calendar/Announcements... p.2

Crossword Puzzle... p.11

Cryptoquote... p.3

Doctor's Bag... p.9

Editorials... p.4

Op. Ed... p.5

"The Good Times"... p.12

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar Presents...

Student Advisor meetings concerning Spring '74 schedules should be in full swing. If you haven't seen your advisor yet, make an appointment to do so at once.

Student Photo ID picture taking is in operation at Billings Center. If you haven't had yours taken yet, please do so now.

Don't forget the Final Exam Schedule has been changed in December to start on December 13 and end on December 19. This is different from what the Fall Schedule of Courses stated.

Bioenergetics Discussion

The Next Thing presents an informal discussion and demonstration of BIOENERGETICS by Robin Litchfield on Wed., Oct. 24 at 7:30 in Marsh Lounge at Billings Center. UVM, $1.00 donation.

Come To The Octoberfest!

On Saturday-October 20th, there will be an all campus "Octoberfest" on the lower Redstone green, from 11 am until 4 pm.

Everyone is invited to spend the day browsing through student booths of crafts and handiworks. There will be food booths, game booths and something for all to participate in.

Bible Study At Harris

A Bible Study seminar in the Book of Romans is to be held on Wednesdays. The meeting place is the Harris Conference Room, at 7:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

ATO Red Tape Contest Results

Those of you who guessed 19,671 inches but were too lazy to enter, well who's sorry now? Kathleen Keator won first place with a very close guess of 19,678 inches. James Hanson was 52 inches off which gave him second place. Then DeCesnak placed third, displacing the next closest guess by 1 inch. Steve was at the party and added $5 to his winnings. Some of you who entered are lousy guessers. Guesses ranged from a low of 150 inches to a high of over 2 million. Contrary to the contest rules, several guesses were not in inches with one entry in meters.

Tenant's Council Meeting

A Tenant's Council for UVM students who live off-campus is in the process of being set up. Some possible areas of concern include: a handbook for off-campus students and an off-campus student center, focusing on resource lists, tenants and students rights, a matching roommates plan, cooperative food plans, carpools, to name only a few. A meeting will take place tonight, Thursday, from 7-9 p.m. in Marsh Lounge, Billings. Anyone who is interested is welcome to come.

Attention: All Male UVM Students

If you are interested in becoming a manager for the University of Vermont varsity basketball team, please contact Ray Kraut, 227 Harris Hall, 656-3868.

String Band Concert

On Friday evening at 8:00 p.m. the Putnam String Country Band will perform a concert in the main lounge in Billings Center. This concert will take place instead of Roundhouse, which will continue next Friday night. There is an admission to the String Band of $.75 with UVM I.D. and $1.50 general admission. Tickets are on sale at the student activities office in Billings and Friday night at the door if not sold out. This event is cosponsored by the S.A. Concert Bureau and the Billings Center Governing Board.

VPIRG Needs Volunteers

VPIRG needs volunteers for its Energy Conservation Project. The project is aimed at cutting back on the university's energy consumption. VPIRG believes that much of the energy consumption at UVM, specifically in the area of electric lights, is unnecessary and wasteful.

Volunteers are needed to put up light switch messages and information cards concerning energy conservation. Anyone interested in helping should stop by the VPIRG office at 49 N. Prospect St. or call 863-3435. If you don't have enough time to put up messages, at least try to use lights only when you need them and turn off lights you find burning uselessly. Long live the Earth.

Cunningham Newman Center

ALABAMA VOLUNTEER PROGRAM - CAR WASH AND BAKE SALE. During part of the Semester Break students from the Cunningham Newman Center will be travelling to an area around Mobile, Alabama and volunteering their talents to help the people that the Fathers and Brothers of the Society of St. Edmund work with. To help with traveling expenses for this Project, the Center is sponsoring a Car Wash and a Bake Sale.

CAR WASH - Saturday, October 20th - at 10 A.M. at the Dairy Bar (near Main Campus).

BAKE SALE - Sunday, October 21 - after the 9 A.M. Mass until the food is gone. If you would like to contribute food to this sale please call 862-8403.

PRE CANA: The last talk in this series will be Wednesday, October 24, at 7:30 p.m. Topic: Masculinity and Femininity. Speaker: Sister Lindora Cabral.

MASS SCHEDULE: Weekdays: Each day at 4:15; also: Monday - 7:30 p.m.; Tuesday - 10:00 p.m. Weekends: Saturday: 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.; Sunday: 9:00 and 11:30 a.m. and 4:15 and 6:30 p.m. PENTECOSTAL PRAYER MEETING: Each Monday evening - begins with Mass at 7:30 p.m. followed by Prayer Meeting on the second floor of the Center.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18

3-4 p.m., radiology conference, "The Chest," with Dr. Dietrich, classroom, Mary Fletcher Unit, Medical Center Hospital.

7 p.m., Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship gathers for prayer, praise and fellowship, Building A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

8 p.m., lecture in conjunction with the George Loring Brown show at the Fleming Museum: "Painter and Patron: George Loring Brown and His Friends," by William Barry, research assistant at the Portland Museum of Art, Portland, Maine. Main Gallery, Fleming Museum, reception following.

8 p.m., Society of the Sigma Xi illustrated lecture, Prof. Aulis Lind, Geography, "The ERTS (Earth Resources Technology Satellite) Experiment in Vermont," at the Sheraton Inn, open to all interested. Members and their guests will have dinner at 7 p.m., also at the Sheraton. Reservations should be made not later than Oct. 15 through Prof. Gardiner Barnum, Ext. 3080.

8 p.m., illustrated lecture, "Journey to China," Prof. John Berninghausen, History, based on his five-week tour of mainland China, sponsored by the East Asian Cultural Exchange and the Area and International Studies Program. Place is North Lounge, Billings Center.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19

Opening of two-day meeting: UVM hosts the 31st annual meeting of the New England Section of the American Society for Engineering Education.

4 p.m., "Friday at Four," open house, Arena Theatre.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., Lane Film Society's Horror Classics Series presents "Dracula," Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg., admission: $1 at the door, or make reservations by contacting the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, 656-3418.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SAFilms presents "The Seventh Seal," B-106 Cook Physical Sciences Bldg., admission 50 cents.

8 p.m., Music Department Faculty Recital, Edward Powell on flute and Neil Boyer, oboe, at Ira Allen Chapel; admission free.

8 p.m., Putnam String County Band, fireplace foyer of Billings Center; co-sponsor are Billings Center Board of Governors and S.A. Concert Bureau.

8 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet for an evening of English country dancing taught by Paul Skrobela of Middlebury, at Southwick Bldg.

9 - 11:30 p.m., "Roundhouse," informal entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere, basement of Billings Center.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SAFilms presents "Little Caesar," Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg., admission 50 cents.

Tickets for the next Lane Series concert, by guitarist Julian Bream, are on sale at the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, tel. 656-3418, as are tickets to the "horror classics" film series. People have been turned away from the door at recent horror film showings, so reserve tickets early!

Currently the Fleming Museum has three landscape shows on view: George Loring Brown, Thelma Appel and "Vermont Landscape: Evidence/Information," works by UVM students.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 22

7 p.m., introduction to the Bahai Faith by UVM Bahai

Club, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., "Last Chance Lecture" by Prof. Neil Smith, communication and theatre, third in a series given at Patterson Hall lounge in which a professor pretends that this is his final lecture.

7:30 p.m., Scottish Dancers meet, Marsh Room Billings Center.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SA Films presents "The Lavender Hill Mob," the Commons, Living/Learning Center.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 23

3:30 p.m., informal reception for Emeritus Prof. George Dykhuizen on the occasion of his book, "The Life and Mind of John Dewey," Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building, open to all.

4:30 p.m., College of Arts and Sciences faculty meeting, B-106 Cook Building.

6:30 p.m., S.A. Senate meeting Marsh Room, Billings Center.

7 p.m., bible study sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Bldg. A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

7:30 p.m., Women of UVM Crafts for the Home group meets for a "Fall Fun" program, 313 Rowell Bldg. Agenda includes making pine cone owls as tray savers for the hospital; cider and donuts as refreshments.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet, gospel music and bible inquiry, lounge of Marsh Austin-Tupper hall.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SA Films presents "Suspicion," B-106 Cook Bldg., admission 25 cents.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24

12 noon, Non Academic Employees Council meets, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Bldg.

3-4 p.m., Radiology conference, Dr. Clements, "Nuclear Medicine," classroom, DeGoesbriand Unit, Medical Center Hospital, followed at 4 p.m. by Dr. Dietrich on "The Computerized Record-Where Am I?" (in G 300 DeGoesbriand).

4 p.m., SA Films presents "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Johnson Auditorium, Votey Bldg., $1.

7:30 p.m., The Next Thing presents an informal discussion and demonstration of "Bioenergetics," by Robin Litchfield, Marsh Room, Billings Center, $1 donation.

7:30 p.m., Alpha Lambda-Delta meets, library, the Commons, Living/Learning Center.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SA Films presents "Invasion of the Body Snatchers," North Lounge, Billings Center.

8 p.m., UVM Brass Ensemble concert, Marble Court, Fleming Museum, admission by donation; Director of the Ensemble is Prof. Clyde R. Wigness.

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets at Southwick, free and open to all.

OVP Needs Addresses

The Big Brother/Big Sister Program is missing many current addresses for members of our program. If you are a Big Brother or Big Sister and did not receive a new sheet this week, please contact the program at OVP, Mansfield House, UVM, (656-2062) and report your address. We are planning a general meeting - a Halloween party, and many other activities and we need to reach all Big Brothers and Big Sisters. Also if you are no longer planning to see a Little Brother or Sister from last year, please contact us so that we can place them with someone else. Thank you.

College Of

The College of Education and Social Services (Dean's Office) have formed a Curriculum Committee to examine the undergraduate curriculum of the College of Education and Social Services. This committee's simply stated, is to examine the entire undergraduate curriculum, one by one, to determine if it is relevant, innovative, or adapt alternative models of curriculum design, and some imaginative proposals to the College of Education and Social Services during the Spring Semester.

Wednesday
Wednesday

CRYPT

The following code author's name to a letter has been in alphabet.

For Ex
In this example, I and so forth. This week's code.

PT BMOORV WTEV.

Solution to last week: When you are up to remind yourself that the swamp.

OZ Discoteq

Tired of sitting in your on those lonely weekends? Tired of seeing same old faces downtown in one week - a new organization - OZ Discoteq - will make its debut. It will be the hottest town to let it all hang out. It will be located in North Lounge of Billings Center, every Thursday, Friday, and Sunday from 8 p.m. until the rocks down. October the opening evening.

CORCU
S. America
Rugs Tapes
1341 Shelburne St.
Burlington VT
802-862-3722

E & E

Complete
retreaded winter tire
Front end
Official V
Inspection

10% off on oil-R
by this ad

E & E T
152 RIV
864-7759

Ch
MI

JEANS, CAPES
INDIA IMPORTS
VESTS, PARKAS
CHILDREN'S WA

- MORE

20,000 S

open 9-9

FREE

LIMIT 200

FREE

FIRST 200 ORDERS

FREE

CALL EARLY

NATIONAL LAMPOON

THE FIRST 200 ORDERS TAKEN ON FRIDAY, OCT. 19, 1973
WILL RECEIVE A FREE NATIONAL LAMPOON

DOMINO'S

PIZZA

864-7444
WILLESTON ROAD

DOMINO'S

PIZZA

658-3333
NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

COUPON FOR FREE NATIONAL LAMPOON FRIDAY, OCT. 19

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

PHONE _____

VOID IF NOT COMPLETED

FREE DELIVERY

FREE DELIVERY

College Of Education Forms Curriculum Committee

The College of Education and Social Services faculty and Dean's office have formed a Curriculum Committee to examine the undergraduate curriculum of the College of Education and Social Services. The committee's charge, simply stated, is to examine the entire undergraduate curriculum, encourage curriculum innovation, develop or adopt alternative models for curriculum design, and present some imaginative, viable proposals to the College of Education and Social Services during the Spring Semester.

Throughout this process, they will try to maintain an ongoing dialogue with faculty and students, soliciting input and asking everyone to participate in this curriculum development activity. In none of these activities do they intend to work in isolation from the rest of the College of Education and Social Services. They plan to meet with faculty and students regularly. They both want your help and expect it.

The faculty members of the College of Education and Social Services Curriculum Committee are David Shuman (Chairman), Dolores Stocker, Ken Saurman, Hal Greg, Ed Hanley, Mary Petrusch, Russ Agaw, and Don Hillman. The students on the committee are Phil Kirschner, Bonnie Brock, Karen Netter, and Linda Murdock.

They will be holding a series of informal bag lunch discussions during the semester, which will be designed to exchange information with concerned faculty and students. The dates and locations are listed below.

Wednesday, Oct. 24 12:00 - Hall of Fame Room - Patrick Gym.
Wednesday, Nov. 6 12:00 - 539 Waterman
Wednesday, Nov. 27 12:00 - 539 Waterman

CRYPTOQUOTE

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

For Example: Longfellow

In this example, L has been substituted for L, w for o and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

PT BMOOBY WTFV, PT CAXL OT WT.

XXVMB NTLF QLTWP

Solution to last week's Cryptoquote:

When you are up to your ass in alligators it is hard to remind yourself that your initial objective was to drain the swamp.

Anonymous

St. Anselm's

SERVICES

Holy Communion: Sunday 11:00 a.m.; Tuesday 10:00 p.m. (Episcopal services - all denominations are welcome)

Morning prayer: Mon. - Fri. at 8:30 (Ecumenical service sponsored by the Episcopal and Protestant Chaplains)

Choir: Thursday - 6:00 - 7:30 p.m.

SPECIAL SUNDAY NIGHT GATHERING: 7:30

This Sunday, October 21, there will be a special get-together of all students and interested people in the common room of the Chapel at 7:30. Besides an opportunity for good fellowship the meeting is to discuss, plan, and work on details of the St. Anselm's Fall Nationals. Any and all people who are interested in getting involved in the soap box derby race are welcome. Refreshments will also be served.

Slide Show

"Medicine in China", a slide show and talk, will be presented by Dr. Jeralyn Prior on Friday, the 26th, at 8:30 p.m. Admission is free, sponsored by the Vermont Health Rights Committee, in the Carpenter Auditorium, Given Medical Building. Dr. Prior has visited the People's Republic of China to study the health care system.

UVM Forestry Program "Goes Beyond Trees"

Dr. W. W. Christensen

by Margot Howland
The newly-organized School of Natural Resources emphasizes an interdisciplinary format and an open-door policy towards the rest of the University.

Dr. W. W. Christensen, Director of the School of Natural Resources and Chairman of the Department of Forestry within the school, feels that the school's Forestry Program "goes beyond trees."

"The thrust in the curriculum development is to broaden out to the whole forest ecosystem approach. The Wildlife Ecology is strongly appealing to students and is showing rapidly increasing enrollment. A fairly high proportion of Wildlife Ecology students go to graduate schools and work in state agencies," he stated.

The School of Natural Resources is composed of the programs in forest ecology and wildlife ecology formerly in the College of Agriculture. In addition to these two programs, the Outdoor Recreation Management Program and the Program in Economics of Natural course offerings. The forestry curriculum has been under study for a year and a half. It is a liberal type of education yet has to be constructed because of professional prerequisites," Dr. Christensen explained.

Other new programs and changes are in a state of further. "We are developing and specifying two new programs, one in environmental engineering and one in water resources. An additional program we are studying as a possibility in the undergraduate level is a program in Land Use Planning. It is currently being offered at the Masters level. "Before the School of Natural Resources was started, we had started and completed a first draft revision of the curriculum. The existing programs are all under revision at the present time. In the revising of them and the development of two new programs we work as much as possible on an interdisciplinary front. Our philosophy is very much an open-door policy. We look for avenues of cooperation and coordination with any other department on campus."

Dr. Christensen commented that he has often been asked what the difference is between the Environmental Studies Program and the School of Natural Resources. "I believe the differentiation is in the thrust of the programs," he answered. "In the School of Natural Resources the objective is the education of young people in professional areas of studies."

"We are broadening our

The Environmental Studies Program is University-wide and all-pervasive. It does have some depth."

Dr. Christensen works very closely with the Environmental Studies Director, Dr. Riedel, to assure no duplication of effort in the program.

Dr. Christensen described plans for minor concentrations in the various fields of the program. The purpose would be to permit students with an interest to pick up some depth in this area. This was cited as a way of serving student needs across the campus.

One course in particular is Forestry 105, taught by Dr. Maxwell McCormick, who just returned from sabbatical. The course is especially for non-majors. Course enrollment has increased significantly every semester. "Student evaluations show a feeling of high interest in this area and also in parallel courses in Wildlife Conservation. We felt that we had to offer courses in service to the University," Dr. Christensen explained.

What draws a student to the School for Natural Resources? "Students must, of necessity, have a strong feeling for the outdoors and like biological areas and social sciences," Dr. Christensen declared. The graduates of the professional program in forestry encounter a wide variety of employment opportunities: working in the Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior; in the Bureau of Indian Affairs; in State Agencies; in the State Department of Conservation; and the area of Consulting of forestry firms. The graduate program in Wildlife is a primary area for opportunities with the State Fish and Game Departments. It is fully ecological in format.

In the recreational field, students may go to work for the National Park System, and for state parks. Some go to work in the private sector-managing ski areas. Students in Resource Economics work for a variety of agencies-state, federal and business, applying economics to the resource areas.

"Actually, we don't feel that any entering class really knows what they want. They may have an interest in the outdoors, a concern with environmental problems, and so forth. Our introductory course in Forest Resources informs students of what this is all about. We're very concerned with helping people make decisions."

Dr. Christensen concluded by saying that the educational process is concerned with "finding oneself-and we approach it from that level. We aim first of all, to provide the best undergraduate programs we are capable of achieving, and in this manner we feel that we are serving the best interests of the students. We feel also that our desired quality can be maintained by keeping enrollment within manageable bounds. Finally, and whenever possible, we should exert a sincere attempt to make our programs open to the University."

A Particularly Helpful Advertisement From LAFAYETTE RADIO

We can help you:

As you may suspect, selecting a stereo system is more than just a matter of taste. It is first and foremost the process of discovering just how much performance you can get for your dollar. How much sound will a system produce? How much of the full musical range does it cover? How clean and detailed is the overall sound?

We Lafayette are uniquely able to demonstrate sound in our stores and show the easily audible differences that may be important to you. But we can be of help even before you come in. Because we spend a good deal of our time evaluating all kinds of stereo equipment for ourselves, we can supply a good preliminary summary of what performance characteristics can be had at what price, what you will gain if you spend more, what characteristics you might want to see emphasized at a given price level.

For the limited budget we have matched the CRR 3 WAY ACOUSTIC SUSPENSION speakers with a JVC-VRS510 AM/FM stereo receiver. The JVC-5510 provides 22 RMS watts into the CRITERIAN 444's for excellent bass response. We have also included the BSR McDONALD 310X automatic turntable with base, dust cover and SHURE M75 cartridge to complete the system. List $379.95

An unlimited budget ($1000 and up) will afford you the very best equipment available. Such a system can provide a number of sonic refinements for the ultra-critical listener; truly thunderous sound output on demand; and a myriad of luxurious and helpful control features.

For all the music in a moderate budget range, we have combined the SHERWOOD 7106A with the smaller ADVENT loudspeakers. The smaller ADVENTS are capable of reproducing music from the lowest audible notes to the highest. The SHERWOOD 7100 AM/FM stereo receiver has 40 RMS watts and a sensitive tuner. For an automatic turntable with this system, we choose the DUAL 1214 with base, cover, and SHURE M52E cartridge. List $519.00

What your dollar buys:

A Summary:

With a limited budget ($200-$300), you can get a system of reasonable accuracy, but some sacrifices are necessary at the extremes of the musical range to get satisfactory acoustic output (loudness). A system in this price range is most appropriate to small listening areas.

With a moderate budget ($400-$500), you have more choices. On one hand, you can get a system which provides accurate musical reproduction in every respect. With sufficient sound output for medium-size rooms (2000 cubic feet or less). Alternatively, if you like to play music very loud in a large room, you can select a different kind of system in this price range that sacrifices some musical accuracy (bass response in particular) to get extra sound output.

With somewhat more to spend ($550-$700), you will be able to get a system that combines completely satisfying accuracy with ample output for even very large listening areas and very loud musical levels. In addition, it will include features which add to ease and flexibility of operation, and which help to preserve your records. For most people, the point of diminishing returns is in this price range.

An unlimited budget ($1000 and up) will afford you the very best equipment available. Such a system can provide a number of sonic refinements for the ultra-critical listener; truly thunderous sound output on demand; and a myriad of luxurious and helpful control features.

At Lafayette, we demonstrate, sell, and service the majority of good stereo equipment available. Of the many systems we can put together in each of the price ranges we've discussed, we've selected here an exemplary system from each category that will offer the best possible value for your particular number of dollars. We can probably furnish you with a better system for less money and with better service than you are likely to get elsewhere.

Thank you.

$560

If you have somewhat more to spend, you would like to suggest the ACOUSTIC RESEARCH AR4XA loudspeakers paired with the SONY STR7055 AM/FM stereo receiver. The SONY STR7055 will deliver lots of power (70 RMS watts) at any audible frequency with very low distortion. For a changer we have included the DUAL 1218 with base, dust cover and SHURE M91E magnetic cartridge. List $730.00

$1000

For an unlimited budget you might try listening to the BOSE 801 TYPE II DIRECT REFLECTING LOUSPEAKER along with the SONY STR 7055. The SONY STR 7055 stereo receiver delivers 140 plus watts and sells for the price of $499.95. Along with the ultra-quiet MIRACORD 680 automatic turntable we've included a base, cover, and AUDIO TECHNICA 12E magnetic cartridge. List $1280

LAFAYETTE RADIO

370 Shelburne Rd.

658-4616

free parking

Addresses

During a general meeting, a women party, and many other activities and we need to have all Big Brothers and Big Sisters. Also if you are no longer planning to see a Little Sister or Sister from last year, please contact us so that we can place them with someone else. Thank you.

FREE ORDERS

S. American + Mid. East
Rugs Tapestries + Weavings
1546 Shelburne Rd.
St. Albans, VT 05478
862-664-3712

Onyx + Wood
Chess Sets Antique Mirrors

E & E TIRE CO.

Complete line of new and retreaded summer and winter tires

Front end alignments

Official Vermont Inspection Station

10% off on all RETREADS accompanied by this ad

E & E TIRE CO., INC.
152 RIVERSIDE AVE.
864-7759 BURL.

Charlestown MILL STORE

JEANS, CAPES, BELTS, SHAWLS, SLACKS, INDIA IMPORTS, BLOUSES, TURTLE-NECKS, VESTS, PARKAS, SOCKS, FLANNEL SHIRTS, CHILDREN'S WARE ETC., ETC., ETC., ETC.

- MORE THAN JUST 20,000 SWEATERS -

65 MAIN ST.

open 9-9 Mon.-Fri. 9-5 Sat.

PLANTASIA

has many new plants in

Do something nice for yourself - buy a plant-start a jungle

also: low cost clay pots & many types of hangers

ST PAUL & COLLEGE ST open 10:30-5:30

There's a New Twist

to today's bridal ensembles - and one that's young in heart. In keeping with the simplicity of the original prom-set solitaire, these, however, have a definitely modern wave with their graceful, sweeping curves.

Illustrations slightly enlarged

PRICES START UNDER $100.00

YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT

F.J. PRESTON & SON

17 UPPER CHURCH STREET - BURLINGTON

Editorial

The Smallwood Commission

Discussion has been raging for some time on the need for a higher education board in Vermont. Obviously, we need one with the planning, administration and financial problems existing in Vermont's post-secondary system. However, what kind do we need? Plans have ranged from powerful boards of trustees to legislative oriented committees, from one board to a series of boards. For students the construction of the board should accent maximum student input and maximum student benefit. Students should be included in the making of the board as well as its eventual format. At the recent Smallwood Commission public hearings, the president of Vermont AAUP said that faculty should naturally be included in the board because faculty knows the most about education. By continuing that argument students should also be included in the board. We are the ones that know the most about being educated and therefore we know what should happen in higher education in Vermont. A board of whatever makeup the governor decides should have student representation.

B.R.M.

Editorial

Nixon's New Yes-Man

Richard Nixon has, once again, copped out on the American people. His choice of Gerald Ford was designed solely to avoid controversy, not to give the public the forceful, new leader we so desperately need.

Ford, although a step up from Spiro Agnew, is merely one more lackey in an administration already overflowing with them. Ford, an avowed Vietnam hawk and a long-time supporter of economizing on special domestic programs, has always been a strong supporter of President Nixon.

Mr. Ford's voting record has shown him consistently backing the administration. In other words, he, like his close friend John Ehrlichmann, is one more mouthpiece for the administration.

We are not blaming Mr. Ford for what he is: he has always seemed an honest, if rather unimpressive legislator. We are blaming Mr. Nixon for once again trying to dupe the American people into complacently accepting another yes-man.

Gerald Ford has, for a long time, impressed us as a great follower, not a great leader. If and when the presidency completely fails us, we will have to turn to the next in command: Ford, as Nixon knows, just won't make the grade.

B.F.

Another Look At An Old Subject: The Case For Legalizing Marijuana

by Randy Jansen

The usage of marijuana has been common throughout history, its origins lost in antiquity. Marijuana has also been banned by governments for centuries, including the United States. Today, with new evidence and morals, the legalization of marijuana is becoming more realistic and common sense.

Marijuana is a mild hallucinate made from the cannabis plant. Growing to heights of ten feet or more, cannabis is found in many parts of the world.

Laws against marijuana in the U.S. have been in existence since 1937, implemented when rumors about the effects of marijuana were grossly exaggerated. Stories of insanity and criminal acts committed by New Orleans school children was the catalyst. Amongst this hysteria Congress passed the Marijuana Control Act.

Now, considering the consequences and problems of marijuana legislation, it is time for legalizing marijuana. But, many people are strongly opposed to marijuana legalization.

It has been stated that marijuana is a harmful drug both to society and the user. It is a drug yes, but its harmfulness has been highly overrated.

Marijuana is not physically addictive but, some individuals can be psychologically addicted to it. Being psychologically addicted does not make it harmful to society. Many accepted drugs that are psychologically addictive are not harmful to society such as cigarettes and sleeping pills.

Opponents of marijuana legalization point out numerous harmful effects on long-term users such as loss of memory and initiative and even cancer.

In a recent Jamaican study, a study of long-term use of marijuana has just been completed, indicating that there was no pathological effects within the West Indies culture. In Jamaica it is not just used for recreation, but is an important part of their lives.

In these current studies, Dr. Stephen Szara (Head of Clinical research for the Studies of Narcotic and Drug Abuse) has made some startling facts on marijuana.

Marijuana reduces fluid pressure in the eye making way for a possible cure for glaucoma.

Marijuana may someday be important in combating emphysema. When marijuana is smoked it seems to enlarge bronchial passages, quite unlike tobacco.

In other tests it was found that no genetic damage has occurred as some critics have contended. However, a strange hormonal problem has occurred among some male marijuana users; that of development of breasts. No explaining why this happens has been put forth.

Dr. Szara points out that attitudes may be changing toward marijuana. "Right now, marijuana is a Schedule I drug. That is it is considered an unusable drug without any known medical use. Now we see that there may be a therapeutic value. If so, we will probably see the re-opening of new legal system."

That legal question has already been raised. What is more harmful to society, the use of marijuana or the repression of marijuana through stringent laws. Many flaws are present in today's marijuana laws.

Marijuana has often been classified by legislatures with such drugs as LSD, morphine or heroin. So, penalties for such hard drugs as these are the same for marijuana, a much milder drug.

In this case "the punishment does not fit the crime." Second offense for just possessing marijuana can be in some states, a life sentence.

Several committees working on the marijuana question for the AMA sent this report to the 1968 AMA convention. "Penalties for violators of marijuana laws are often harsh and unrealistic. At present the laws are too strict or unreasonable to be enforced and hence tend to evoke disrespect for law." The report did bring some interesting information.

Marijuana laws tend to be unenforceable or will be soon. Since penalties are so unrealistic, juries are hesitant to convict marijuana users. Combined with lenient and fair judges who hand out suspensions, the chance for marijuana conviction gets less and less. And as the years go by with more marijuana users on juries a conviction may be all but impossible.

The problem of marijuana control has been likened to the prohibition era. Users of marijuana are estimated from 10-20 million today in the U.S. To imprison these people would not only be foolhardy but impossible.

Like the prohibition era, marijuana laws give offenders a criminal record, who had no previous record of criminal activities.

Almost overnight, the U.S. has embarked on the

Letters To The Editor

S.A. Senator Defends Censuring Of Cahn

To the Editor:

In last week's Cynic, there appeared a letter, written by an S.A. senator, accusing the senate of making a "hasty arrived at conclusion" in the motion to censure Prof. Cahn, chairman of the philosophy dept. in response to this charge, I suggest to the student body that the only "hasty arrived at conclusion" last week was Frank von Turkovich's letter, not the motion.

In his letter he states "it was obvious that the mood of the senate was not going to permit an objective evaluation of the facts on both sides." If this was so obvious, why then did the senate discuss the original R.2 motion, which urged the rehiring of the four professors, decide that this was too strong a stand to take with so little information and amend it to merely present an opinion? Furthermore he states that a reason for not being objective in our evaluation would be that "it would require a more detailed investigation." Perhaps if Mr. von Turkovich had taken the time to look down to the next item on the agenda he would have read S.2 which acts up an investigating committee for the very purpose the S.A. supposedly shunned, (i.e. to investigate the process of hiring, firing, and tenure of faculty at this university.)

In reading over the rest of his letter I fail to see how the road which comes to a dead end at the intersection with a put-on the line by the passing state route. It seems that of R.2 amended or how this someone had thoughtfully states that we are taking a removed the stop and junction strong stand in university signs from the approach to the dismissal procedures. I think intersection. Without warning, that either Mr. von Turkovich I found myself preoccupied left before the end of the with the process of saving my meeting without hearing all of life as a living film of bushes, the pros and cons of the issue fence posts and fullies crashed or else he is extremely ignorant through the windshield of my of what the motion was. I was unhurt but my car intended to do. The motion, suffered damage to its bodywork and undercarriage. I

We the S.A. Senate do thank God that I met no cars, greatest mass flouting of the law since Prohibition. Marijuana, a mild euphoric drug, suddenly has become common place.

One of the arguments submitted by pro-legalists is that marijuana is no less harmful than alcohol.

Both are drugs. But, marijuana has a calming effect on people and therefore very few crimes are committed while violent alcohol-related crimes are commonplace. Marijuana users are safer drivers than drunk drivers. Very few accidents have been shown to be marijuana oriented.

There are countless examples of alcohol, ruining lives and homes but far fewer if any from marijuana users. Besides the social aspects the physical problems of alcohol are greater than marijuana. Marijuana is "less dangerous and less harmful to the human body than alcohol which produces physical and mental illnesses such as Karsakoff's psychosis and cirrhosis of the liver." The Legalization of Marijuana: A Realistic Approach.

There are a few bright spots in marijuana laws. Berkeley police were told to ignore marijuana users. (However this has since been overturned by the State Supreme Court.) And Oregon has recently lessened the penalties for possession of less than a half an ounce. But, many other states have harsh marijuana laws. The disadvantages are many. It takes time and money to prosecute marijuana cases. Wouldn't it be better for the police to center on violent crimes like rape or murder rather than victimless crimes?

The S.A. Senate of marijuana were alienated many people from U.S. society and further splits the nation.

What can be done? Full legalization of marijuana is unlikely but it can happen. With more evidence of the harmlessness and perhaps uses of marijuana more legislatures will be won over. With more public acceptance laws against marijuana have a better chance of being repealed. The government should be told to butt out of private affairs as in the case of marijuana and tend to the people.

Running All Over Me

yes her hair is down it hangs brown around her shoulders and it's nice
her green eyes open wide to entice light blue passion is what her lips invite but her steel strong feelings our tight wound feelings leave me naked without light standing frozen in the nighttime cold as ice
then she talks
and asks me for advice making me feel so much older than I am her fingers whisper
as she gently grasps my hand
I ask her to tell me of her plans
and like a snow fall
she covers me with something I can't understand to ask her to explain would only intensify the pain of the thoughts she wanted to be plain and simple and my lame expectations
drain the situation of all hope

-Elliot Freeman

right to be heard, as all opinions have. If by making this statement, the senate is taking a strong stand, I hope they never make a weak one! Mr. von Turkovich feels that it is the responsibility of the students to be involved and concerned over such affairs. I feel that by voting for R.2 we are doing just that. We are saying that we are concerned over such issues and that we want to know what is going on so that we won't act hastily or unwisely.

Therefore I don't think that we should condemn the senate as being "immature and irresponsible" but instead commend them for being so prudent as to not just blindly pass the original R.2 motion. Instead of acting with emotions, they acted with reason and caution. Perhaps if a little more of this reason is displayed in future meetings, the senate has a chance to recover from its ineffectiveness of last year.

Gary E. Shaw
Senator - Acadia

Omissions Noted

To the Editor:

In reading your last article on the Student Association, it was noted that your reporter, Mr. Madden, omitted several important events which occurred in the S.A. meeting last Tuesday night.

First of all, R.2, a motion by Ed Pasqualin, senator from Coolidge, to create a committee to study the possibilities of getting more active student participation on faculty committees was passed unanimously and immediately twelve senators signed up for this committee. This motion was completely omitted:

S.4, submitted by Matt Jones, a senator from Hamilton, presented a petition for referendum with 399 names on it requesting a recall and reappointment of all S.A. funds and organizations. This action was taken on the basis that 4% of the members of the student body (freshmen and transfer students) are not represented when their money is allocated. This motion was defeated since the senator did not add his name to those signatures.

Another thing that was ignored was the amount of participation from the Senate floor.

Mr. Madden's accusation of dropped attendance was, not justified in that it was only the second meeting of the new Senate and the meeting place had been given incorrectly at a previous meeting. It was also noticeable that Mr. Madden's article was reflective of his own opinions on what happened at the S.A. meeting, and his feelings towards the S.A. this year, and last.

Gary E. Shaw, Sen. Acadia
Edward P. Pasqualin, Jr., Sen. Coolidge Hall
Alan H. King, Sen. Phi Gamma Delta
Nancy Roberts, Sen. Gamma Phi Beta

Consumer Rights In The Classroom

by L. Lynne Miller

It should be obvious to anyone who cares to observe it, that UVM is operated and structured just as if it were a modern corporation. At UVM, inc., the Board of Directors is called the "Trustees," management is called "Administration," the workers are called professors and the product, dear student, is you.

The administration has been waxing fat under this new modern way of running things. There was a time not so long ago when administrators were hired by students to keep the buildings heated and the lights lit.

Well, let an alum light a light for you, kiddo. There is an important mistake in the UVM corporate model. You are not the product, you are the consumer. Education is the product.

With the firing of four of your best liked professors in the office, it's high time you stood up for yourselves and demanded your rights as consumers of the classroom.

We are expected, by the administration and the trustees, to behave like a product, inert, apathetic and quiet. And we've been doing a great job of it. Without questions or demands we shell out $500 to $1000 tuition every five months for four years.

Money is in too short supply and tuition costs are far too high for you to continue to pay for teachers who do not teach well. You can stop bowing to the computer's inability to schedule you for the courses you want, taught by the teachers you want. You can go beyond the machine and replace the men who would fire teachers who conduct a course with relevance and inspire interest and would reappoint teachers, whatever their failures in the classroom, who have shown they won't rock the boat.

As a union of student consumers you can act to change basic anticustomer operating rules at UVM. Throw out the rule that requires you to take 12 hours of courses to be considered a regular student. Instead, pay tuition by the course, and buy only the section and course you really want. This would mean that the administration could no longer bank on "X" number of dollars in tuition each semester. Administrators could not afford to undermine the financial stability of UVM by allowing the firing of four of its most popular faculty. My suggestions: 1. Institute an open refund policy. Just as any consumer can return an unsuitable purchase and get a cash refund, he should have the same chance after participation in several class sessions to drop a course, receive a refund and be under no penalty to find another course. Right now the tuition refund is very limited.

2. Publish a yearly teacher/administration rating guide available to both prospective and current students. Since the rating guide is an administrative detail the funds should come from the administration budget to hire student-selected personnel to distribute rating sheets to students and faculty. University computer time and publishing facilities would be used to collate and publish the data in time for use at each preregistration.

This all might seem like a tall order to fill, but UVM students, as consumers of the higher education product, already have a structure to help them gain their classroom rights. The students who helped establish VPIRG can surely call on their very able staff for assistance in insuring a quality education through consumer fairness at UVM.

No more Mister Nice guy.

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS MANAGER Barbara Frankel '75
ASSISTANT EDITOR Ruth May '74
MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74
NEWS EDITOR Bruce Madden '76
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lisa Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75
ASSISTANT FEATURE EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
SPORTS EDITOR Loren Wilson '74
ADVERTISING MANAGER

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Doug Beardsley, Dave Campaigne, Bill Campbell, Randy Jansen, Jill Markert, Dawn McGinnis, Andrew Morse, Wendy Nelson, Laurie Rapp, Kathy Stasem, John Van Hoesen.
FEATURE: Serl Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Carol Dufault, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Laif, Joseph Oshian, Karen Trotter.
COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, John Franco, Elliott Freeman, Alan King, Ron MacNeil, Steven Rice, Jeff Ryback, Scott Sweeney.
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Geoff Goldberg, Andy Morse, Alan Patashnick, Norm Robinson, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilenski.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Eileen Dripoll, Camlyn Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Tortmay, Debbie Valvon, Joan Westcott.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and Business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

FRANKLY S

STUDENT

MY CLEAR

AT THIS P

COLLEGE MEDIA S

Peanut

The room sits gently through the river of the early look like real time dusty keeps quiet made to look and manage with wash slide across the traffic of lazy shovels of the event defined traces of leave myself sitting room and take my

Prudence is in explaining to Jethro meeting its end of hype, straight put doubt more interest logic of her argument to get nervous and rolling again. Try directly to the milk and a jar of their grasp falls creating the degn Prudence. She turn the hell ever heard refrigerator? She me as I begin to Jethro comes over

Giles

wi

SP
12 O
STEAK

• Butter

• Crisp

Gu

Vikin

JA

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES-BOX 9411-BERKELEY, CA 94709

Peanut Butter In The Goddamned Refrigerator???

by Elliot Freeman

The room sits silent, bathed in pools of light that flow gently through the soft white curtain lace from the eaves of the early afternoon sun. Brown plastic made to look like real finished wood, table model radio, mute and dusty, keeps quiet company with the black and gold plastic made to look antique alarm clock whose sad weak hands manage with washed out dignity to hold onto the time. I slide across the wood floor, scuffed and beaten by the traffic of lazy shoes and heavy heels that during the rubby hours of the evenings truck through and leave rather well defined traces of their travels. Standing in the doorway, I leave myself sitting in the warm and gentle silence of the room and take my body downstairs to get a drink.

Prudence is in the kitchen, smoking her corn cob pipe, explaining to Jethro the cat that all this talk of the world meeting its end through nuclear warfare is just a lot of hype, straight public relations she says... Jethro purrs no doubt more interested in the comfort of her lap than the logic of her arguments... pure PR they just want everybody to get nervous and spend money so the economy will start rolling again. Trying to avoid any interaction, I move directly to the refrigerator. I open the door. A quart of milk and a jar of peanut butter jump out to embrace me, their grasp fails short and they fall smack onto the floor creating the degree of noise intense enough to distract Prudence. She turns towards me and I cut her off... who the hell ever heard of putting peanut butter in the goddamn refrigerator? She falls silent, truly an oddity, and stares at me as I begin to clean up the peanut butter and milk. Jethro comes over to help me. I always knew he liked milk but it took me by total surprise that that old cat was such a peanut butter fanatic, so I picked up the broken glass and left the seat of the mess for Jethro. With the milk gone I had a choice between soda and beer... I really wanted to get the hell out of the kitchen before Prudence started in on me... so I went with the soda because it was right up front whereas the beer lay hidden way in the back protected by a wall of ketchup bottles, six of them, all about three quarters empty. With all of this quick thinking I was still too slow.

Phobious? Yeah Prudence what do you want? Phobious what do you think about political hype? Jesus she was setting me up for a three hour dog eat dog flame throwing debate and that was the last thing I wanted. Listen Prudence if I promise to take you down to the ice cream store tonight and treat you to one of those banana split shakes that I know you just love do you think you could continue this discussion with Jethro and let me go upstairs. Oh Phobious, Jethro can't talk. Prudence look at it this way he can't talk but he sure can listen. What do you say, a deal? Okay Phobious, a deal but don't forget you have to take me...

Don't worry Prudence. A narrow escape but it worked. Upstairs myself was anxiously awaiting the return of my body and we sat in the beautiful silence of the early afternoon and tried to figure out how we were going to treat Prudence to a banana split shake with twenty-two pennies.

The Red Tape Generation Strikes Again

by Jeff Ryback

Marv could never quite understand what brought on the change, but it was there sure enough. He remembered driving his son to the university three long years ago. At that time Michael was the quiet, patriotic type. He never argued with authority, always waved to the policemen, was active in the Four-H Club, had a multitude of Boy Scout merit badges, and was elected most likely to succeed by his senior class. But every summer something else changed. The first summer it was the side burns and a few stray remarks about university policy; the second summer it was the flowing locks and the straggly beginnings of a mustache, but it was the third summer that outraged Marv the most. In fact once he heard himself call his beloved Michael some kind of hippy-radical-freak. But Marv soon reassessed, figuring it was all part of some growing cycle and soon enough Michael would realize all the great freedoms his country offered. So, when the day came, Marv put his arms around his hairy faced son and wished him a good senior year along with a heartfelt good-bye.

The weeks drifted by with no earth shattering news outside the typical government scandals, so Marv assumed Michael had abandoned all his revolutionary ideas in favor of good, hard study. Then the first of two letters came: the first was from the captain of the football team who was locked up in and the second was from Michael.

Dear Marv (I mean Dad): Don't get mad... maybe I should start from the beginning, yes... the beginning. I came home last Tuesday really beat. I had been studying two weeks for this Comparative Anatomy test but, as usual, nothing I studied was on the exam. So I moped home kicking rocks or cans or whatever was around, feeling sorry for myself. Outside the house, I noticed a red piece of paper attached to a windshield wiper of that beautiful, gorgeous, powerful Fiat you bought me (because I have been a good son). I had forgotten it was November 1st but it was, so I got a ticket for parking on the street after six o'clock. (It's really okay dad, you see we have one too many cars to fit in the driveway, so we planned on taking turns getting tickets all winter - I might as well be the first - good idea - huh?) Anyway, I got in the car and tried driving into the driveway, guess what... someone ripped off one of my wheels - did you guess? (It's really okay dad, I had an extra.) Oh yes, I called the police, and gave them a description of the wheel. The next day I was supposed to fill out some paper about it.

Before I put the extra wheel on, I checked the mail. Nothing too important. $10 for my Vermont license (you told me to get it, remember?) Couple of hundred for tuition increases, some insurance things, and a reminder from the local police department concerning my twenty tickets. (It was a good idea to have all my mail sent here, now I can understand what you go through - the bills are included... thanks dad). Anyway, I put the wheel on and decided to go down town for something to eat. I was driving by this pizza joint when the light turned yellow, so I scooted through, you know like you taught me. A cop (excuse me, a policeman) hauled me over. I argued with him for awhile and he decided he would forget about my going through a red light (which I didn't) and instead gave me a ticket for my unspectacular car (I was a day overdue). Well, I was beginning to feel bad and, as is my custom on such occasions, decided to drown my sorrows at this quiet little place called H-Bulls. I had two beers (way below my usual depression average) and left. On the way home I started thinking about all the petty garbage people face every day (you know... bills, tickets, taxes, registrations, etc.) when I came upon this road block. Now dad, you understand I am a very even tempered guy, but this was too much. Two beers, that's all I had, and this cop (I mean policeman) wanted me to breathe into his machine. I told him to leave me alone and go catch the thief who stole my wheel. Well, he looked at my license and asked me where I lived. It seems your address is on the license so I'm supposed to be fined for not reporting a change of address. Then he refused to give my license back. I explained to him that I had to pay rent and couldn't afford fines, but he had trouble understanding (don't you find most of our public servants that way, dad). Well, there was no arguing with him, so I drove off without my license. Anyway they stopped me again and said I would be fined for some more things which I didn't quite understand, and then they put me in jail. I don't know much about this situation dad, maybe you could help out???

I had one of my roommates bring the car down to get inspected, and guess what?... you guessed it, there was this list of things, I think $200 worth that needed fixing. But don't worry about it, he took it to another garage and they found nothing wrong with the car so it was only $2.00 stick 'em (you're welcome).

The only other news I might flunk psych, because the book hasn't come in.

Other than that, things are going fine. How's mom? Give my love to the family.

Love, Michael

P.S. My roommates know where the jail is. Oh, you might tell Sally's dad that she got fined for hitch hiking on some road. See you soon.

Mary read the letter dismayed. He knew it was the University's fault. All those yoking ideas. People simply had to face up to those small things, there's reasons for taxes and laws and wars. After all, what would a day be if there was no paper to fill out, how could people ever be satisfied in considering the important things. (The above characters do not exist.)

We welcome all contributions of professors and faculty members, as well as students, on this page. Columns, poems or essays, can deal with any subject, either of university or non-university interest.

Cynic Creative Writing Contest
Deadline: Monday, November 12, 1973 12 Noon

Rules

1. Three categories - short story, essay and poetry
2. All UVM students, full and part time, may enter.
3. All entries must be typed, double spaced.
4. All entries to be handed in to Cynic office with name and address on separate paper.
5. Limit of 15 pages on short story, 7 pages for essay.
6. Judges will be 3 faculty members from the English Department: Professors Tom Simone, Alan Broughton, and Alan Shepherd.
7. Winners will be announced in first issue after Thanksgiving vacation, Nov. 29.
8. First prize in each category: $25.00

BE MY GUEST

Giles Jackson says, "If you buy Gulf Viking Tires he will buy your dinner and movie ticket"

FREE

with purchase of Gulf Winter Viking Tires

SIZZLING STEAK
12 OUNCE BONE IN SIRLOIN
STEAK DINNER

ALL DINNERS INCLUDE

- Buttered Baked Potatoes • Hot Buttered Rolls
- Crisp Chef's Salad With Our Homemade Dressings

At 6% Rooms and Meal Tax Additional

Merrill's
SHOWCASE 1 & 2
WILLISTON RD. SO. BURLINGTON 863-4494
CREDIT CARD ACCEPTED and our 100% MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

FLYNN

Gulf VIKING SNOW TIRES

Viking 78 WT Belted

G-78 x 14 ww
G-78 x 15 ww
H-78 x 14 ww
H-78 x 15 ww

39.95

plus federal excise tax of $2.53 to $2.96

Viking 78 4-Ply

G-78 x 14
G-78 x 15
H-78 x 14
H-78 x 15

29.95

JACKSON'S AUTO REPAIR

460 RIVERSIDE AVENUE

BURLINGTON, VERMONT 864-9538

Save on
SUPER BOSE
systemNOW YOU CAN SAVE OVER $400
ON THE SUPER-BOSE SYSTEM!

During the period October 1 - November 30, when you buy a BOSE 901 SERIES II Speaker System and a BOSE 1801 Amplifier, we'll give you a second pair of 901s FREE. You get twice the sound at over 20% savings during this special SUPER-BOSE promotion. Come in and hear the SUPER-BOSE System today... the sound and the price make this one offer you'll find hard to refuse!

SUPER BOSE with STANDARD 901s
REGULAR PRICE $1944
SPECIAL PRICE $1511

BOSE

tech hifi

Burlington 150 Church St.

Julian Bream, world-renowned English guitarist, performs in the Lane Series on the October 25, at 8:00 p.m. Memorial Auditorium.

Tickets, priced at $6 (few), $5 and $3 are on the Lane Office, Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-1418.

The first half of the program, devoted to the will contain selections of Joaquin V. Daza, Johnson, Simone Munoz, John Dowland. The second half of the program, Bream on the guitar, features two Sonatas by Domenico Scarlatti, No. 2 in C Major by Beethoven, and No. 10 in C Major by Beethoven.

Next to Segovia, perhaps one of the most important guitarists of the 20th century, Bream is hailed as the greatest performer of the guitar and the last of the great interpreters of our time. He should not be missed.

And the critic of the Washington Post wrote: "Bream's playing was a polished, style, gleaming in the changing and shadows he casts, sensitive touch." 23rd tour of the United States.

Side two opens with "Silver Train," another disappointment. I thought they might do the song better than Johnny Winter, but I guess it is just a dull song.

But "Hide Your Love" is excellent. It is a rollicking piano blues with Mick doing some scat singing while Taylor really comes into his own on this album. He is consistently excellent throughout.

The next track, "Winter," sounds too much like Van Morrison's "St. Dominic's Preview." It is just not as good and seems cluttered, and (continued on page seven)

Two UVM members will give a Friday, October 19, of by composers ranging from George Philip Telemann to Sergei Prokofiev, Edward Elgar and others. Boyer will be accompanied by Allen Chapel by Sara Robinson.

The program will open with Telemann's Sonata in G for flute and piano, by Francis Poulenc, and Prokofiev's Sonata for piano, both also for piano. The concluding before intermission will be Kindt's Sonata for piano. For intermission, Boyer will perform Robert Schumann's numbers 1, 2, and 3.

Powell has mathematics and physics at Johnson State and at Trent College and at the music faculty at UVM.

Powell, B...

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Album Review:

The Rolling Stones Brew 'Goat's Head Soup'

by Peter Campbell

The Rolling Stones have finally released their new album, Goat's Head Soup. On the cover is a picture of Mick Jagger smiling under a woman's bonnet, looking vaguely like Katherine Hepburn. On the back is Keith Richards, looking like a poster of an actual goat's head glaring from a boiling cauldron. The goat is the animal that traditionally represents Pan, the god of music in Dionysian rites. On a more mundane level, there are also a lot of goats in Jamaica where this record was recorded. But the Stones' cover and title is always a key indicator to the music inside.

Heggers Banquet was the Stones trying to reconcile their revolutionary sympathies with their aristocratic appetites. Then the Beatles said "Let It Be." The Stones said "Let It Be." (In spite of the fact that the Beatles were splitting up, the Stones stayed together, and which album gets played more today?) Sticky Fingers, with its references to masturbation, hinted that they felt their musical progress may have become stilted and perhaps they were becoming caricatures of themselves. At this time they became a phenomenon. Their '72 U.S. tour was unprecedented in size.

and the news media went bananas in their coverage of the Stones. They released a double album, Exile on Main Street. Here all their fantasies of America were realized in a conglomeration of images about America set to some of their hardest driving music yet. There are no "main streets" in England.

I have been listening to the Rolling Stones since I was in the seventh grade, when I heard "Not Fade Away" on the radio. It just blew my head away. I had never heard such a frenetic song. "My love is bigger than a Cadillac" I try to show it and you drive it right back." This voice oozed out of the speaker. The Stones' rhythm and harmonies walls were like nothing I ever heard before. A great awakening. This song was the first "artistic" one dealing with my new sex drives that rang true.

A short while after I saw them on Hollywood Palace. Dean Martin was the host, and he literally plugged his nose when he introduced the Rolling Stones. But they were great, at least I thought so. They were sullen and tough, except for the singer, Mick, who had these unbelievable lips and who could shake his body around the microphone stand as if he was made of rubber.

This too was like nothing I had ever seen. And so, back in those days of Junior High school parties, when girls seemed to dominate the record player and insisted on playing the Beatles and the Supremes, I wanted the Stones.

The Rolling Stones were the first musicians to break into the popular air waves with emotions that were not puerile or sentimental. They were truly the first to bring the underside view of life to mass media. Their artistic stance has traditionally been the struggle of the individual in a world choking with materialism and immediate sensations, of sex and drugs, as well as loneliness.

They started as adolescents, then as musicians with money and an underground following. Now they are superstars, transcending any classification but that of themselves, the Stones.

That they have glorified this world and image there is no doubt. They were the first to pose like professional models on their album cover, and Mick Jagger is the media hero par excellence. Yet none of this would have even held without their music. Ultimately it is the music that has to carry the image, that is where it all started.

It is folk music to the core.

The production is Pop and the delivery is incredibly electrified and energized, but Keith Richards' guitar chord structures are folk oriented, whether it be a blues, Gospel or Appalachian. And it is Richard's guitar that is the creative force behind the band the formulae have been the same since the Stones started: they are just reworked again and again. Jagger brought a unique sense of drama to vocal phrasing that works well with Keith Richards' sense for the original rhythms. It is the closeness between these two men that has given the Rolling Stones strength over all other bands, where one man usually dominates. Since Brian Jones died and Mick Taylor became lead guitarist, they have become more solidly a rock band.

Goat's Head Soup, as the title indicates, is a hodge-podge of music. It opens disappointingly with "Dancing Queen." Here Jagger takes on a demonic persona much like he did with "Midnight Rambler" and "Sympathy for the Devil." But the song is based on a sliding blues riff that never really gets off. I might note that the studio production is flawless. They learned it all from Motown. On this album electric pianos and wa pedals are everywhere (I never thought Richard would use wa pedals; I admired him for resisting). They are obviously listening to Stevie Wonder now, just as they listened to Marvin Gaye ten years ago.

"100 Years Ago" is a standout. There are a lot of interesting tempo changes and some excellent guitar. Jagger starts by singing about walking idly through the park and ends up by screaming "I wantcha." "I wantcha" the way only he can. "Coming Down Again" is slow and pretty. The chorus line is simple, but haunting: "Coming down again on the ground again/ where are all my friends." (Richards sings lead, for your information.) "Heartbreaker" is a soul rocker, the Stones on America, or Mick Jagger reading the New York Times.

Born and raised in New York City. One day while walking through the park in a case of mistaken identity. He got a bullet through his heart. This song raises some pertinent questions about the Stones and social attitudes. First, do the Stones understand America as well as they understand her music? and secondly, do the Rolling Stones merely reflect violence, or do they encourage it? The documentary Altamont seemed to show the latter. If so, I think Jagger should be less objective about it than he is in this song. Its theme of inner-city violence is a cliché, but its great for dancing.

"Angie" is the most commercial song they have ever done. It seems contrived, like Mick Jagger trying to imitate Rod Stewart. I just cannot believe him when he whispers in her ear. If I want a sentimental ballad, I would pick "Wild Horses" from the Sticky Fingers album.

Side two opens with "Silver Train," another disappointment. I thought they might do the song better than Johnny Winter, but I guess it is just a dull song.

But "Hide Your Love" is excellent. It is a rollicking piano blues with Mick doing some scat singing while Taylor really comes into his own on this album. He is consistently excellent throughout.

The next track, "Winter," sounds too much like Van Morrison's "St. Dominic's Preview." It is just not as good and seems cluttered, and (continued on page seven)

Film Society To Present Bela Lugosi In 'Dracula'

Dracula, the human-vampire movie, appears on the Lane Film Society Series of Classic Horror Movies on Friday, October 19, in Marsh Life Sciences Building.

There will be two showings: 7:30 and 9:30. Tickets, $1 each, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and at the door. Reservations may be made by telephoning 656-3418.

Patrons are urged to secure their tickets in advance, since at last week's showing of Frankenstein some persons were unable to obtain admittance.

Dracula (1931), the original classic version of the Bram Stoker novel, is directed by Tod Browning. The movie remains as "one of the archetypal horrors" and is distinguished by the director's gloomy poetry. It runs for 15 minutes.

In the leading role as the vampire man is Bela Lugosi, who in his Transylvanian character travels to the streets of London in search of new blood. Bela Lugosi played the same part on the stage when it was presented in New York in 1927.

In addition to Bela Lugosi, Helen Chandler gives an excellent performance as one of the girls who is attacked by the "undead" count. David Manners, Dwight Frye, Herbert Bunston, and Charles Gerard appear in other leading roles. The next movie, October 26, is Edgar Allan Poe's The Fall of the House of Usher, starring Vincent Price.

'Au Naturel' Brubeck And Sons With Friends Please A Packed Auditorium

by Barbara Freedman

Despite the rain and dreariness on this Monday night, October 15, Dave Brubeck, accompanied by family and cronies, brought down the house. The Memorial Auditorium was packed with an audience which displayed a good illustration of mixed generations. This was very refreshing, to say the least. At a quick glance around the place, one noticed that there wasn't an empty seat to be had in the house.

Some came to listen to the musician they remembered from as far back as the early 50's, when Brubeck had his quartet which featured Eugene Wright, Joe Morello, and Paul Desmond (who had since been playing with Dave since 1946). Others came simply to be refreshed by this unusually gifted, unique, and original jazz musician. Still others, not knowing what to expect, attended out of curiosity, relying on hearsay and Brubeck's reputation.

An informal "au naturel" Brubeck made his entrance at 8:10, accompanied by his three sons. Introductions were made before the music commenced. They were Darius on keyboard (electric piano), Chris on bass and trombone, and Danny on drums. It was obvious, moments after the music began, that all three had inherited their father's gift for music. The son that seemed most intriguing was Danny, a jazz percussionist at the age of 17, who exhibited excellent command and utilization of his instrument. It is undoubtedly that he will "go places" soon and fast.

The four Brubecks jammed together until 9:30. During that time Dave intermittently chatted with his audience, creating an atmosphere which was free of all tension. The audience was charmed by Brubeck's casual appearance and humorous remarks. He made it known that he was not interested in putting a pedestal number over on his fans (which so many performers do) — and that his concern was to extend enjoyment, while enjoying himself at the same time.

Following the intermission, the Brubeck clan was joined by Dave's two current fellow accompanists, Jack Six on bass, and Alan Dawson on drums. These musicians were well received by the audience, and performed enthusiastically. After approximately 45 minutes of playing a comparatively mellow rendition of jazz, the trio combined with the Darius Brubeck Ensemble, which brought the concert to a climax. The artists performed beautifully together, often when a group performs, a lack of union or togetherness may occur when a couple of the members become too involved with their own instruments — forgetting the rest of the group. This was not the case, on Monday night. Each member furnished the other musicians with tremendous feedback which resulted in a remarkably precise sound.

The end of this concert was greeted with a stupendous standing ovation of feet stamping and hand clapping that was simply overwhelming. How could the performers resist? They didn't. The finale was an old piece requested by some nostalgic soul seated in the audience. At 11:00 when the concert ended, each individual sharing that experience, left the auditorium feeling purged and gratified in his own particular way.

Brubeck had achieved something different this evening. He had created a unique style of music that could be enjoyed by many people in spite of their vast age differences. Two generations of audience enjoyed two generations of Brubeck.

Band Concert

The 1973 UVM Concert Band, under the direction of Dr. Herbert Schultz, will present a concert of popular and contemporary band music on Saturday, October 15. The 60 piece group will highlight the performance with Le Roy Anderson's popular BUGLER'S HOLIDAY, with a featured trumpet trio at the Redstone Campus Green at 1 p.m.

Other selections will include Glenn Osce's BEGUINE FOR BAND, the well-known BALET PARISIEN, and the John Cacavas arrangement of MY FAIR LADY.

Encompassing the period 1834-1880, George Loring Brown's works include oils and etchings of European and American landscape scenes.

"BRAVO 'LE SEX SHOP'"

"TOTALLY DELIGHTFUL!" There is much nudity and simulated sex in this film, but if your wife, or husband has never seen an X-rated movie, 'Le Sex Shop' is the one to take her, or him to. It is wholesome, refreshing and deliciously funny satire.

—Stewart Klein, WNEV-TV.

"FUNNY AND MARVELOUS." I recommend this picture highly to everyone who is not limited to the belief that sex is a religious riot.

—Arthur Winters, New York Post.

"LOTS OF LAUGHS." This is the most wholesome X-rated movie I have ever seen.

—Bernard Drew, Cincinnati Enquirer.

"HILARIOUS!" Claude Berri, a French Woody Allen!

—New York Magazine.

"This charming French comedy is the first really sophisticated X-rated movie shown, and proves that sex is not just fun but that it also can be very funny."

—Kevin Sanders, ABC-TV.

"Le Sex Shop" is the funniest X-rated movie I have ever seen. It's a film that even the Burger Court could love."

—Leonard Harris, CBS-TV.

EVE 7-9 PM

BURLINGTON PLAZA CINEMA 1 & 2

LE SEX SHOP

LE SEX SHOP

LE SEX SHOP

LE SEX SHOP

SHOWN AT 7 PM

THE FRANCO ZEFFIRELLI ROMEO & JULIET

ONE STATE TWO

THE POSEIDON ADVENTURE

GENE HACKMAN ERIC ROBERT

ONE STATE TWO

TORTILLA FLAT

ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD

Tortilla Plate $1.95

With Rice $2.35

Combination Plate $3.45

Taco, Enchilada, Rice and Beans $1.95

Special Combination $1.95

Chicken Taco, Beef Taco, Cheese Enchilada, Queso, Salsa, Rice & Beans $2.00

Tamale Plate $1.95

Chili, Rice and Beans $1.95

Taco Plate (3) $1.95

Beef and Chicken $2.00

Enchilada Plate (3) $1.95

Cheese, Beef and Chicken $1.95

Two drinks and chili $1.95

Chicken and rice $1.95

We Have Take Out Service

Telephone 863-9230

TORTILLA FLAT

317 Riverside Avenue

ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD

Tortilla Plate $1.95

With Rice $2.35

Combination Plate $3.45

Taco, Enchilada, Rice and Beans $1.95

Special Combination $1.95

Chicken Taco, Beef Taco, Cheese Enchilada, Queso, Salsa, Rice & Beans $2.00

Tamale Plate $1.95

Chili, Rice and Beans $1.95

Taco Plate (3) $1.95

Beef and Chicken $2.00

Enchilada Plate (3) $1.95

Cheese, Beef and Chicken $1.95

Two drinks and chili $1.95

Chicken and rice $1.95

We Have Take Out Service

Telephone 863-9230

TORTILLA FLAT

317 Riverside Avenue

ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD

Tortilla Plate $1.95

With Rice $2.35

Combination Plate $3.45

Taco, Enchilada, Rice and Beans $1.95

Special Combination $1.95

Chicken Taco, Beef Taco, Cheese Enchilada, Queso, Salsa, Rice & Beans $2.00

Tamale Plate $1.95

Chili, Rice and Beans $1.95

Taco Plate (3) $1.95

Beef and Chicken $2.00

Enchilada Plate (3) $1.95

Cheese, Beef and Chicken $1.95

Two drinks and chili $1.95

Chicken and rice $1.95

We Have Take Out Service

Telephone 863-9230

TORTILLA FLAT

317 Riverside Avenue

ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD

Tortilla Plate $1.95

With Rice $2.35

Combination Plate $3.45

Taco, Enchilada, Rice and Beans $1.95

Special Combination $1.95

Chicken Taco, Beef Taco, Cheese Enchilada, Queso, Salsa, Rice & Beans $2.00

Tamale Plate $1.95

Chili, Rice and Beans $1.95

Taco Plate (3) $1.95

Beef and Chicken $2.00

Enchilada Plate (3) $1.95

Cheese, Beef and Chicken $1.95

Two drinks and chili $1.95

Chicken and rice $1.95

We Have Take Out Service

Telephone 863-9230

TORTILLA FLAT

317 Riverside Avenue

ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD

Tortilla Plate $1.95

With Rice $2.35

Combination Plate $3.45

Taco, Enchilada, Rice and Beans $1.95

Special Combination $1.95

Chicken Taco, Beef Taco, Cheese Enchilada, Queso, Salsa, Rice & Beans $2.00

Tamale Plate $1.95

Chili, Rice and Beans $1.95

Taco Plate (3) $1.95

Beef and Chicken $2.00

Enchilada Plate (3) $1.95

Cheese, Beef and Chicken $1.95

Two drinks and chili $1.95

Chicken and rice $1.95

We Have Take Out Service

Telephone 863-9230

TORTILLA FLAT

317 Riverside Avenue

ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD

Tortilla Plate $1.95

With Rice $2.35

Combination Plate $3.45

Taco, Enchilada, Rice and Beans $1.95

Special Combination $1.95

Chicken Taco, Beef Taco, Cheese Enchilada, Queso, Salsa, Rice & Beans $2.00

Tamale Plate $1.95

Chili, Rice and Beans $1.95

Taco Plate (3) $1.95

Beef and Chicken $2.00

Enchilada Plate (3) $1.95

Cheese, Beef and Chicken $1.95

Two drinks and chili $1.95

Chicken and rice $1.95

We Have Take Out Service

Telephone 863-9230

TORTILLA FLAT

317 Riverside Avenue

ENJOY The Finest MEXICAN FOOD

Tortilla Plate $1.95

With Rice $2.3

Soup

...where are all my (Richards sings lead, ...out information.) ...a soul the Stones on America, ...Jagger reading the New ... and failed in New ... dry while walking ... the park ... case of mistaken ...

...a trailer through his ... song raises some ... questions about the ... and social attitudes. ... the Stones understand ... as well as they ... and her music? and ... do the Rolling ... merely reflect violence, ... they encourage it? The ... entry Altamont seemed ... the latter. If so, I ... Jagger should be less ... about it than he is in ... Its theme of ... violence is a cliché, ... great for dancing. ... is the most ... social song they have ... one. It seems contrived, ... Jagger trying to ... Rod Stewart. I just ... believe him when he ... in her ear. If I want a ... mental hallel, I would ... "Wild Horae" from the ... album. ... two opens with "Silver ... another disap- ... I thought they ... do the song better than ... Winter, but I guess it ... is all song. ... "Hole Your Love" is ... It is a rollicking ... blues with Mick doing ... neat singing while Mick ... soars on guitar. Taylor ... comes into his own on ... drum. He is consistently ... out throughout. ... next track, "Winter ... too much like Van ... "St. Dominic's ... "It is just as good ... seems cluttered, and ... (continued on page seven)

...Present Dracula

...addition to Bela Lugosi, ... Chandler gives an ... gent performer as op- ... the girl who is attacked by ... "undead" count. David ... bers, Dwight Frye, Herbert ... and, and Charles Gerrard ... in other leading roles. ... the next movie, October 26, ... Star Allan Poe's The Fall ... of Usher, starring ... ent Price.

...LE JOINT"

...Y'S SALE

...AY

...FRI EVE

...Y'S SALE

...AY

...FRI EVE

Guitarist Julian Bream To Perform For Lane Series

Julian Bream, the world-renowned English guitarist and lutenist, performs next on the Lane Series on Thursday, October 25, at 8:00 p.m., in Memorial Auditorium.

Tickets, priced at $6 (only a few), $5 and $3 are on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

The first half of Bream's program, devoted to the lute, will contain selections of Joaquin Vazquez, Robert Johnson, Simone Milner, and John Dowland. The second half of the program, with Bream on the guitar, will feature two sonatas by Domenico Scarlatti, Sonata No. 2 in C Major by Fernando Sor, and Nocturnal after John Dowland, Op. 70 by Benjamin Britten.

Next to Segovia, and perhaps on a par with him, Julian Bream is hailed today as the major performer on both the guitar and the lute. The New York Times critic called him "a great musical interpreter of our time. He should not be missed!"

And the critic of the Washington Post wrote that his playing was "a thing of polished style, constantly gleaming in the changing lights and shadows he casts by his sensitive touch and 23rd tour of the United States understanding phrasing. His guitar playing is something quite magnificent, the still more unusual and glowing vitality of his handling of the lute holds us spellbound."

Julian Bream was born in the Battersea area of London in 1933. He made his professional debut at Cheltenham in 1947, giving his first guitar recital.

Bream learned first both the lute and piano by ear, and by the time he was eleven had also taught himself to play the guitar. For his eleventh birthday his father gave him an old Spanish guitar, and he began to study with Dr. Boris Perrot, President of the Society of Guitarists. In 1945 he also won the Junior Exhibition Award that enabled him to study piano and cello at the Royal College of Music. In 1947, he met Segovia, whose influence and encouragement was to have a profound effect on him.

In 1950 he made his Wigmore Hall (London) debut to great critical acclaim and despite three years in the army, his career continued to snowball. He appeared frequently on television and radio programmes as well as giving public concerts.

In 1958 he made his first tour of North America, and in October of 1972 he made his and Canada. It was during his 1958 American tour that he first met his manager, Harold Shaw. Among other countries he has recently visited have been Japan, Australia, Germany, Holland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, and Denmark.

the many recordings for and 1966) and an Edison RCA (19) have introduced him to a world-wide audience and he has won through them some of the highest awards in the recording industry, including the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, are now on sale in the Lane two Grammy awards (1963 Office.

Powell, Boyer In Free Recital Friday

Two UVM faculty members will give a recital Friday, October 19, of works by composers ranging from Georg Philipp Telemann to Sergei Prokofiev. Flutist Edward Powell and oboist Neil Boyer will be accompanied at the 8 p.m. free public recital in Ira Allen Chapel by pianist Sara Robinson.

The program will open with Telemann's Sonata in F major for flute and piano, followed by Francis Poulenc's Sonata and Prokofiev's Sonata in D major, both also for flute and piano. The concluding work before intermission will be Paul for 25 years a musician in New York City where he taught privately and played for radio, television and recordings. He was personal flute obbligato to Lily Pons of the Metropolitan Opera during the 1940's and '50's, played at Carnegie Hall and was for 18 years associated with the Bell

Powell has taught mathematics and physics at Johnson State and Goddard Colleges and at Trenton (N.J.) Junior College, and is on the music faculty at UVM. He was

...the program will open with Telemann's Sonata in F major for flute and piano, followed by Francis Poulenc's Sonata and Prokofiev's Sonata in D major, both also for flute and piano. The concluding work before intermission will be Paul ... following intermission, Boyer will perform: Robert Schumann's Romance, number 1, Opus 94, for oboe and piano; and Boyer and Powell will join forces for the concert's concluding work, Johann Sebastian Bach's Trio Sonata in C major, for flute, oboe and piano.

...the program will open with Telemann's Sonata in F major for flute and piano, followed by Francis Poulenc's Sonata and Prokofiev's Sonata in D major, both also for flute and piano. The concluding work before intermission will be Paul ... following intermission, Boyer will perform: Robert Schumann's Romance, number 1, Opus 94, for oboe and piano; and Boyer and Powell will join forces for the concert's concluding work, Johann Sebastian Bach's Trio Sonata in C major, for flute, oboe and piano.

SA Films Explains Problems, Lists Showings

For all those students interested in film, perhaps in the past few weeks you have noticed that a film was to be shown, gone to the announced hall, and found that the showing was cancelled. Or perhaps you have looked for a list of this year's films and haven't been able to find one. Or perhaps...

Well, SA Films has to admit that things have gotten off to a bad start this year. And while we acknowledge that there is no excuse we would like to offer a few reasons. This year we are showing on an average of six days a week. That is we are showing approximately six films a week as opposed to last year when we showed about four films a week. We are growing. And the difficulty we are having in ordering many films is enormous. For instance, to order certain films for the Alfred Hitchcock series will involve taking prints of a certain film that exists in a 9.5 millimeter version and blowing that film up to 16 millimeter.

Air Force ROTC... The college scholarship program with fringe benefits.

Some people might need to be coaxed with more than a full college scholarship to join the Air Force ROTC. So, if free tuition, lab and incidental fees aren't enough... the Air Force offers a monthly allowance of $100.00, tax-free, in your junior and senior years. And free flying lessons to those qualified provide the most exciting fringe benefit of all. Interested?

Contact DEPARTMENT OF AERONAUTICS AT SAINT MICHAEL'S COLLEGE 655-2000 Ext. 281
Kind Yourself A Scholarship In Air Force ROTC.

GET IT ALL TOGETHER

Pay college bills with

ThriftyCheck

PERSONAL CHECKING ACCOUNT

Undergraduates always carry ThriftyChecks for important school expenses—books, clothing, rent, dues—because they're safe, speedy and low cost.

Your name is printed on each check free and you'll receive a special checkbook cover in school colors with your college emblem.

NO MINIMUM BALANCE IS NECESSARY

More than just a Bank!

Chittenden TRUST COMPANY

Con Brio's Bright Tones Muffled

by Allyn Davis
The University of Vermont Con Brio Concert Series opened the 1973-74 series on October 10 in a new home in the Living Learning Center. The sound-proof room, although attractive and large enough to hold a good-sized audience, acoustically did an injustice to the performers, muffling much of their bright tones.

Jane Ambrose, flute, Evelyn Reed, violin, Roger Gidim, viola, and Flora Kinsey, cello, opened the program with a Danzi Quartet in D minor, opus 56, number 2. The balance was good, with the flute having an especially fine tone. In this room, the strings seemed to lack any real depth. Shari Fleming, soprano, Robert Wigness, trombone, and Elizabeth Metcalfe, piano, performed Schubert's "Auf dem Strom" admirably. Miss Fleming reached her high notes with real ease and Wigness handled the difficult trombone legato beautifully. The entire ensemble was well put together with Mrs. Metcalfe tying in the piano accompaniment with great feeling.

A Hindemith "Sonata" was performed by bassoonist Terry Ranney and Marie Vogelmann, pianist. Ranney's tone was rich and the balance and blend of the two instruments was superb. The changes of mood in this Quartet are to be noted especially here.

A Mozart Quintet in A major K. 581 ended the program. Layton Davis, clarinet, especially, carried his Rolling Stones...

(continued from page six)

"Can't You Hear the Music" is the closest the Stones have ever come to sounding like music.

I should add here, that Jagger's voice does not seem as vibrant as it used to be. Perhaps a little too much snow-up-the-nose, or he may be trying for something that is stylistically more consistent in the last two productions his voice has been buried in the sound so it works like another instrument. This is a trend that has spread throughout rock in the last few years, though I do not understand why.

The last cut "Star Star" is superb. It's the Stones doing their Chuck Berry licks. It's Sweet Sixteen all over again only she is older, six foot two and kinda cute. Jagger shows his sense of humor again, something that definitely was missing from Exile. It's an affirmation of rock and roll.

Which brings us to the question of where do the Stones go from here. The world is at their feet, but Ghosts Head Soup is far less than excellent. If you are a Stones lover buy it. If not, but you are curious, go buy Jagger's Bangor, which I consider to be their best.

As I stated, the Stones have basically explored the same themes all through their twenty or so albums. They just keep lifting the music, making it finer and finer. But I wonder how many more times can they go inward and produce something exciting. They could get into jazz or classical, but that is too cerebral. The Rolling Stones are definitely music of the body. I am convinced that they have made their place in popular music. Perhaps experiencing the Stones is like making love with someone you've known for a long time. It is enjoyable, steady, and deep, but you are finding new loves and you wonder how long that excitement can last.

There's An Honest Difference Between Natural and Synthetic Soaps... VIVE LA DIFFERENCE!!!

It's not hearsay. Many French have experienced it...as have many Italians, Germans, English, Swiss, and more...including many of you.

And what a difference...when all the ingredients are found in nature...when only the very highest-grade tallow and vegetable oils from first-pressings are used...and when great expertise and triple-milling processes are employed.

An example of the best in soapmaking...is the Swiss Cucumber Soap. Pure vegetable dye provides its pale green color. And its cooling and healing properties are derived from natural cucumber juices...The same used by Cleopatra to prevent wrinkling and to freshen her sun-darkened skin.

The difference, too, you'll find is in the joy and pleasure received from bathing with a cake so naturally fragrant...and either so full or delicate, smooth or textured. Plus, you'll experience the special effects any one of our natural soaps will have on your particular skin.

DRY SKIN	OILY SKINS	SENSITIVE SKINS
Almond Meal Apricot Cold Cream Avocado Camomile Irish Moss Olive Oil Peach Cold Cream Perfumed Honey Royal Jelly Vegetable Oil	Cucumber Lavender Mint Orange Rosemary Tomato	Banana Basil Lemon Raspberry & Glycerine Rosewater & Glycerine Strawberry & Glycerine Neca 7 (Named after the thermal acid content of the human skin)

These represent only a few of the area's greatest selection of the world's finest soaps...now at DECORATIVE THINGS

AN INTRODUCTORY DISCOUNT OF 10% OFF
...hoping you will personally feel the excitement we're trying to convey. This offer is good upon the presentation of the coupon below.

10% OFF COUPON
Coupon must be redeemed in order to qualify
This offer is good for a 10% savings on any cake of soap for sale at Decorative Things, from now until November 15, 1973. (These soaps are natural for gift-giving. Even their packages are beautifully designed.)

DECORATIVE things
In the Green Log Cabin on Wilketon Road, South Burlington
Weekdays 11-9, Saturdays 11-5:00

the doctor's bag

by Arnold Warner M.D.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Warner,
Box 974, East Lansing, MI 48823

QUESTION: Although I have normal sexual relations with several girls I sometimes lose my erection after penetration. It usually happens because I am unable to block out a certain memory as a child I was taught to use a euphemism for the word penis (which I never heard used by anyone else) and was endlessly teased by my playmates for using it. Although it may seem like a minor accident, I cannot block it out of my mind. Is there anything I can do?

ANSWER: I guess that the euphemism is sufficiently distinctive for you are reluctant to even mention it in your letter. However, I must admit you really have made me curious about what word could possess such magic.

Particularly in the area of sexual performance, the capacity for a single unpleasant event to inhibit activity is certainly remarkable. The intrusion of this obsessional thought at such inopportune times as you describe, should not be difficult to deal with. You need to see someone experienced in working with behavioral techniques to extinguish unwanted thoughts. I suggest that you contact a psychiatrist or psychologist at your school or through your family physician and ask if he or she could work with you to eliminate the problem. If the problem, as is limited as you describe, it should be a simple matter.

him infecting you is even greater. A condom worn from the time of entry in sexual intercourse is reasonably effective in preventing the transmission of venereal disease. But it is not fool-proof, as other parts of the anatomy can have contact with the genital area of the infected person and pick up the bug. In addition, large numbers of men do not wear a condom throughout intercourse. Oral sex with a person who has VD will give you oral VD so that idea loses too.

I am sure that all sorts of surreptitious ways of treating sexual partners with VD have been tried, ranging from putting penicillin in their peanut butter to your suggestion that the physician lie and tell the infected person that he is treating something else. What could he say? In this day and age of sophistication, he would hardly get away with saying that he was treating a cold in the scrotum or that the penis had a runny nose.

Now back to (A). If (B) gave you the clap and you gave it to (A), (A) would be at least doubly shafted. In addition to having to get his VD treated he would have to absorb the considerable bruise of you not being straight with him about your relationship.

QUESTION: Perhaps it's too late to worry about this problem now, but nevertheless we do need advice. My husband and I would like another child (we have a four year old boy) but now we are worried about the consequences of some of our actions.

In the last two years I have taken about twenty hits of mescaline or acid and my husband has taken two or three. This amount, we want to be sure that there has not been chromosome damage and, if the amount of drugs taken is significant, is there a way for us to be tested to see if we have been affected?

ANSWER: All the fussing about chromosome damage from psychotropic drugs such as mescaline and LSD have not proven to be of clinical significance. Chromosome damage occurs with everything from aspirin to a host of commonly used medications, but most of this can be demonstrated only in test tubes and the significance to reproduction is not understood. Sperm and ova are sufficiently sensitive, so if there is any serious damage to their chromosomal content, the fetus cannot develop at all. The problems rest with minor chromosomal abnormalities and these have not been shown to exist in the situation you inquire about. There is no need to be checked as the drugs should not have affected your chances of producing a normal child.

The main hazard you have exposed yourself to is being poisoned in one form or another, or developing a severe psychosis which would have had tragic results if you would have been unable to care for your four year old child. Moderate use of marijuana remains a relatively insignificant activity but repeated use of psychotropic drugs seem to have a number of associated problems making their use incompatible with adequately caring for children. No drugs should be used during pregnancy unless absolutely necessary and prescribed by physician.

QUESTION: I am a woman with two sex partners. One man (A) doesn't know that I am involved with anyone but him. He has intercourse only with me while the other man (B) has numerous sexual contacts with women aged 21 to 40. My concern is that I don't contract venereal disease from (B) and give it to (A) unknowingly. (B) does not have VD but I'm afraid that he might catch it and give it to me before he knows he has it.

How long after a male contracts VD does it take for symptoms to appear? How effective is a condom in preventing the spread of VD? Would I avoid catching VD if, instead of intercourse I engaged in oral sex only?

Would a doctor have to tell the partner that he had VD or could he merely be treated for VD and told only that he and his partner were transmitting an unspecified infection to each other?

ANSWER: Venereal disease and gonorrhea in particular have become sufficiently widespread so that it would be safe to say that (B) has a substantial risk of eventually getting syphilis or gonorrhea. In other words, your concerns are realistic. As with all other infectious diseases, the probability of getting syphilis or gonorrhea if exposed is quite variable and depends upon a variety of factors, but you can be sure that if you are having intercourse regularly with him and he has something, you will get it too. Gonorrhea in the man is usually fairly obvious since he has burning on urination and a discharge from his penis. More recently however, cases have appeared in which symptoms were hidden for some time allowing the infection of large numbers of others. It takes from two to six weeks for symptoms of syphilis to appear, so there the outlook of something suspicious going on in the hiring of Cahn, that he may have been hired as a hatchet man by the administration to "clean out" the department of undesirables. What has happened in the case to give them that idea?

Questions Asked About Philosophy Four Case...

(continued from page one)

Answer: "A number of observers have charged that Cahn's recommendations were politically motivated. Some of the professors involved are Marxist scholars. They tend to have untraditional approaches to teaching or to subject matter and toward their role as professors in a university."

Also, it has been charged that Dean Weiger assured the philosophy department members that they would have a veto power over any chairman selection. The department voted 9-1 that they did not want Cahn, who was subsequently hired.

Question: "What do Cahn and Weiger have to say about these charges?"

Answer: "Cahn has denied that his recommendations are politically motivated, or are even based on any differences in philosophical schools of thought. He has stated he made them on what he considered proper academic grounds."

Weiger states that he specifically told the entire Search Committee, which included Paskow and Miller from Philosophy, on two separate occasions that departments do not have a veto.

Question: "Are there major questions still to be answered in the case?"

Answer: "One is considering that Weiger knew beforehand how undisposed the department was toward Cahn, why he chose him over the other two candidates recommended by a majority of the Search Committee? What criteria did he base his decision on? Another, of course, is: what finally will be the decision as to the future of the four here?"

Question: "Then the four have not really been fired as yet?"

Answer: "No, before a final decision is reached the case has still to be reviewed by two faculty committees, by the dean, and by Vice-President Rollins."

Question: "Who has the final decision, then?"

Answer: "President in charge of Academic Affairs, Alfred Rollins. Rollins will review all the recommendations of all the individuals and groups involved in the process and will then make his decision."

Question: "When does the decision have to be reached?"

Answer: "By December 31, 1973."

Question: "Has there been any student action in this case?"

Answer: "Many students, particularly those who have had classes with the four, have expressed shock, dismay and anger over the recommendations. Petitions in support of them are circulating. Students have made an attempt to get the case publicized. The Student Association Senate passed a resolution condemning Cahn's action."

Question: "Does the Student Association or any other student group have any power or input into the review process?"

Answer: "No, students have no formal power in the review process."

Question: "What is going to happen next?"

Answer: "There is a Philosophy Association meeting for the whole New England area taking place at Dartmouth this coming weekend, October 20-21. The association has agreed to give time from their normal business to a number of people from the UVM philosophy department in order that they can present their case. They are looking for outside support."

Question: "How will we be able to find out what happens at that meeting?"

Answer: "By reading the next issue of The Cynic."

Goddard Charged With Racism...

(continued from page one)

people too poor to pay. A Third World Studies program was formed, with faculty hired to teach in it.

Tuition is extremely high at Goddard, which receives no state or federal funds. This high tuition works to cover financial aid. Tuition, already high, was increased to $5000 a year ago, an increase that was fought hard by many students. As tuition increased, student enrollment dropped drastically, from 1000 to a projected 600 for next year. Financial aid, largely going to minority students, has been cut back as a result. And Pres. Gerald Witherspoon has cut back the Third World Studies program.

It is considered a luxury which cannot be afforded in the face of financial bankruptcy. Those who protest this decision consider the Third World Studies program to be vital, not a luxury. They also question the way in which money is spent and the way the college is managed by Witherspoon. Some of the students suspended and injured have been closely involved in a detailed cost analysis which they say has proved Witherspoon's incompetence and has proved that there is no need for the college to be in such a precarious financial situation.

The leading figure in the unfolding conflict is Otis McRae, a highly regarded man, a black man, an adviser to students, who has been fired.

He was also the leading figure in the successful struggle a few years back to get the name of Niggerhead Mountain changed.

He was described by his colleague Charles Johnson at the rally as "a winner in a world of losers, losers who look like winners and who people think are winners. He cannot accept defeat. To Otis there is no such thing as defeat. There are only setbacks."

Thomas Yakub, professor emeritus at Goddard, who spoke with particular eloquence, said: "We shy away from asking questions to which no answers can be found, about life and its purpose, about morality and ethics, but Otis has kept alive these questions, which cannot be denied. Without Otis there cannot be a creative Goddard, open and spacious. Either we must turn Goddard around, or a great experimental college will give up the right to exist."

McRae, a middle-aged man, has been on a hunger strike in protest of his dismissal since Monday, Oct. 8. He told his audience that he fasts out of conviction, not in an effort to secure publicity. "They will have to take me out of the room I occupy at Goddard," he stated. "I don't say this for the sake of heroics. But I have a responsibility to students who know me as a man and particularly as a black man to stay and fight."

The struggle is being taken from Goddard out to UVM, from Goddard to Boston, to New York, he said. "A coalition has to develop so that if someone steps on my toes in Plainfield, someone at UVM will scream."

The purpose of holding a rally at UVM, he said, was to make people here aware of what is going on at Goddard, particularly the Third World students here. He hoped the news would get around through word of mouth and through media coverage. He also expressed the hope that people here would participate in a demonstration in Burlington if one is held.

"We need not be dismayed by the small size of our numbers here," he said. There were only some 30 UVM students at the rally, in addition to a larger contingent from Goddard. "The longest journey does begin with the first step. I know we can win." He spoke rapturously of the struggle for freedom and dignity and equality, clearly considering it one of the highest levels of human activity. For him it is a long-known way of life apparently. "There is no greater honor than to struggle," he said. He spoke gently, with the aura of greatness which only those who believe fully in what they are doing and in life have.

He concluded with the words of Frederick Douglass, the great black abolitionist who escaped from slavery. "Power concedes nothing without a struggle. It never has, it never will."

FOR SPRING ENROLLMENT

OCT. 29 - NOV. 2

HAVE YOU CONSIDERED

ROTC?

Did you believe that by joining ROTC you were obligating yourself to military service?

Not so! There is no obligation for the first two years of ROTC.

Not so! Believe that it is late to join ROTC?

Not so! Investigate our compression program.

Courses In Military Affairs?

Did you believe that the Department of Military Studies offered courses only to ROTC cadets?

Not so! Many non-ROTC students enroll in our courses.

HERE IS WHAT WE OFFER

For the ROTC Student:

—CHALLENGING LEADERSHIP TRAINING EXPERIENCES

—Interesting courses

—Chance to become an Army Officer

—Full Tuition Scholarships

—Civilian Career Enhancement

—$100 per month for 10 months subsistence

(Juniors & Seniors Only)

—Extracurricular Activities (Parshing Rifle; Bobbed Team)

—Flight Instruction (Seniors Only)

For the ROTC and Non-ROTC Student:

—MS 2 U.S. Defense Establishment

—Historical implications for our present day defense policies

—Decision levels of the defense/security establishment of the U.S.

—Department of Defense and its many functions, agencies, and branches

—Organization of the military services

—Case study of Defense decision making: The Cuban Missile Crisis

For more information, visit the Dept. of Military Studies 3rd floor, Williams Hall or call 656-2966/2967

es Concerts...

"blue ribbon" committee by Prof. Hayes, Chairman of the State Board of Education, containing faculty, administration and students to research the recent developments of the philosophy four as well as set up a basis for a permanent committee of this type. Discussions ranged from feasibility to impartiality as well as personality conflicts and opinions. Dean Powers spoke from an administrative standpoint about the feasibility and some of the technicals involved. The author emphasized that students must be heard in the matter and that his proposal allows student input. The motion was passed after a suspension of the rules, 1-6 with 11 abstentions. Pointed out should be that there are 60 senators this year and only 1/2 were there to vote.

Other motions proposed were made by Ed Pasquini for a new committee to discuss future action by the S.A. on the philosophy issue and a motion by Dick Cassidy for a committee to establish interim rules and procedures for Senate meetings. This would hopefully offset the question of procedure and the developing trend of meetings.

Provides Benefits

course they broke something or hurt somebody. So you don't say anything to them either.

Some of your classes are interesting, and you're beginning to think about some things you really would like to bring out and doing something that is really meaningful to you and worthwhile for somebody else.

The Office of Volunteer Programs would like you to learn what human needs in our community are and how you can respond to that need by saying hello to that old woman on Church Street and then taking OVP about the Adopt-A-Grandparent program. They'd like you to find a way to really talk with some kids you were kind of interested in so they'll tell you about the King Street Area South Project, Bell Book and Candle, the Urban Youth Center and A.C.H.I.V.E. So if you've said casually to a friend, "Yeah, I've been thinking about being a Big Brother, or working for VPIRG or doing some tutoring, or looking breakfast for the Free Breakfast Program, OVP would like you to come in and say it so but you're not quite sure where to turn and who can help you. You'd also like to find out if there is a way to get academic credit for actually doing them. They'll help you.

Human need knows no schedule. Whatever time you can give can benefit someone. And it can benefit you too. Following are a list of volunteer opportunities available to you. If you have an idea of your own, let us know about a human need which is not being reached OVP would like to know about it too and they'd like to help you do something about it.

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics
$2.75 per page
Send for your up-to-date, 160 page, mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage (delivery time is 14-21 days).

RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2
LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold for research assistance only.

INTERNATIONAL CAREER?

A representative will be on the campus

Friday,

October 26, 1973

to discuss qualifications for advanced study at

THUNDERBOLT GRADUATE SCHOOL

and job opportunities

in the field of

INTERNATIONAL MANAGEMENT

Interviews may be scheduled at

Placement Office

THUNDERBOLT GRADUATE SCHOOL

OF

INTERNATIONAL MANAGEMENT

Glendale, Arizona 91206

IT'S OUR FALL CLEANUP SALE

EVERY LP* & STEREO TAPE IN OUR GIGANTIC STOCK IS INCLUDED IN THIS STORE WIDE SALE

ONE DAY
ONLY!

10 am till
9 pm

Tens of Thousands of LP's in Stock-Rock, Jazz, Classics, Blues and Folk

$1⁷⁹ $2⁹⁹ $3⁵⁷ $4¹⁹ $4⁵⁹
LIST LIST LIST LIST LIST STEREO TAPES

THURSDAY
OCT 18

10 am till
9 pm

EXTRA SPECIAL SAVINGS ON THESE 9 SUPER HITS

Let's Get It On
Marvin Gaye

T329V1
Innervisions
Stevie Wonder

$3³³ $4⁵⁹
Records LIST
Tapes

THE ROLLING STONES
Goats Head Soup
COC 59101 TP 59101 CS 59101

Roberta Flack
KILLING ME SOFTLY
Atlantic SD 7271, TP 7271, CS 7271

Warner Bros. Album B6 2720

ALLMAN BROTHERS
Brothers and Sisters
CAPRICORN CP 0111

SW-6223 (Shelter)

Warner Bros. Album B6 2724

Jesse Colin Young
Song for Juli
Warner Bros. Album B6 2724

EXCITING NEW CLASSICS

Puccini's
TURANDOT
OSA 13108

Holst's
THE PLANETS
CS 6734

M 31845

M 32206

SEL-3783 (3 LPs)

SR-40226

Vermont's Largest LP & Stereo Tape Store

*EXCEPT IMPORTS ALL STEREO TAPES ON SALE!

discount records

93 CHURCH ST - Next to Magrams - Burlington 863-4587

Acid, Pot & It All (And

by Douglas Beardsley
"Drugs are nowhere, man, you are what you eat." That's the way of looking at drugs in our world. Someone else might see drugs as the ultimate answer to the hassles of everyday life. And, then, there's the person who has no opinion about drugs. Why? Because he isn't sure what they're all about. This person is the guy or girl who, although perhaps in daily contact with users or drug users (a common occurrence in this drug-oriented society), is confused about drugs in general and about how or she fits into it all.
Should I try it? What'll it do to my brain cells? "Will those friends of mine do it?" "Will it affect my studies?" "Is it addicting?" "What will mom and dad think?" "Will I end up a heroin junky?" Perhaps you've asked yourself some of these questions. Perhaps you already know they're pretty tough to answer. Drugs can, indeed, be curiously confusing.
Realizing this and recognizing the importance of each individual coming to grips with drugs in his own life, the people who run this University encourage UVM students to inform themselves about drugs and the problems that they can represent. That spirit was taken directly from a book titled "DRUGS: The Green Pages-the official handbook of rules and regulations of the University of Vermont. Section 2 goes on to state: Live University services which the university feels are authoritative drug enlightening sources. They are: 1. The Student photographers at University of Vermont are among those eligible to compete for up to $1,000 in Nikon photography equipment, first prize in a new amateur photo contest announced today by Nikon.

$1000 First Nikon Photo

Students will be competing for over 150 prizes totaling $7,000 in value in the first annual Nikon/Nutshell Student Photography Contest, now underway on 105 college campuses throughout the nation. The contest is sponsored jointly by Nikon and Nutshell magazine, a network of local/national educational publications currently being distributed free to 820,000 new college students.
"The purpose of the Nikon/Nutshell photo contest is to encourage college students to express themselves creatively through photography," stated Myron Chaffetz, director of public relations for Nikon. "At the same time, we want to recognize and reward young talent in the photography field. For this reason, there is nothing to buy to enter and students may use any type camera in the competition."
The contest is open to all college students.

World Campu

DAVES A

Route 2, Will FOREIGN
SPEC

• Fine work on
• Firestone tires
• Front end align
• Undercoating

Tires for most or read

New SEMPE
$19.95

VW B

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 drums, rebuilt 4 cylinders. Discs $
OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL
VW Bug Cabover $24.95

OCTOBER 18, 1973

Acid, Pot And Alcohol: The Meaning Of It All (And Where You Can Find Out)

by Douglas Beardsley

"Drugs are nowhere, man. You are what you eat." That's the way of looking at drugs in the world. Someone else might see drugs as the ultimate answer to the human condition. And, then, there's the person who has no opinion about drugs. Why? Because he isn't sure what they are all about. This person is the guy for the girl who, although perhaps in daily contact with drugs or drug users (a common occurrence in this drug-oriented society), is confused about drugs in general and about how or the fits into it all.

"Should I try it?" "What'll it do to my brain cells?" "Will it affect my studies?" "Is it addicting?" "What will it do to my dad?" "Will it get me a heroin junky?" Perhaps you've asked yourself these or similar questions. Perhaps you already know the pretty tough to answer. Drugs can, indeed, be curiously confusing.

Recognizing this and sensing the importance of each individual coming to grips with drugs in his own life, the people who run this University encourage UVM students to form themselves "about drugs and the problems that their use represents." That note was taken directly from section X (entitled "DRUGS") of the Green Pages—the official handbook of the University of Vermont. Section X goes on to name five University services which the University feels are authoritative drug enlightening sources. They are: 1. The University Health Service (otherwise known as the infirmary), 2. The Counseling and Testing Center, 3. the Office of the Deans of Students, 4. The Unbound program, and 5. The Next Thing (which is more than just a bar).

At face value, the Green Pages appear to be very helpful, but they leave out an important consideration: just how effective are these agencies at drug education courses? With the answer to that question as an objective, this reporter (hereafter to be referred to as either "underhanded," manipulative "creep" or "Arnold") assumed the personality of a drug-concerned-and-confused student and approached the agencies listed in the Green Pages. (The decision to masquerade was reached only after much deliberation over the pros and cons of such a charade. The final feeling was that, although the chances were great that some of the people involved would resent and be hurt by such deceitful, manipulative behavior, a true indication of the quality of help the University offers in drug education could only be attained by confronting the agencies with a "real" student with "real" concern over drugs.)

Arnold first saw Doctor Murdo MacDonald in the UVM infirmary. Dr. MacDonald was quick to admit that he was not in the best situation to provide that kind of information and advice, and referred Arnold to Bruce Levine—over at Counseling and Testing. In Dr.

MacDonald's words, "All the data that we get I have sent down there." Arnold next visited the Dean of Students' office in the Waterman Building and talked with Assistant Dean Roger Summers. In Dean Summers' words, "To be honest with you, our office is really not equipped to actually do any counseling or anything along that line, what we mainly do is try to get you to the people that we feel will be of most help to you." Arnold was consequently referred to The Next Thing—a federally funded drug education program located in the Counseling and Testing Center.

If Arnold seems to be getting the run-around treatment, it's because the medium of the printed word is inadequate when trying to express the emotionality which dominated those first two meetings. What Dr. MacDonald and Roger Summers lacked in concrete, practical advice, they made up for in an overwhelmingly sincere concern for Arnold's dilemma. There was a warmth and friendly, easy-going personality to those two men which quite literally blew Arnold's mind. In fact, Arnold's arrival at John Lippincott's official The Next Thing was no surprise to John, because Dean Summers had taken the time to inform him of Arnold's problem.

Before going into the conversation with John Lippincott some mention must first be made about Arnold's meeting with Bruce Levine of Counseling and Testing. The charade was still on, then, and it was here that Arnold first hit pay dirt. Bruce Levine is a counselor with insight. He's your man if you want to acquaint yourself with drugs. It wouldn't be right to go into exactly what advice he gave (even though a lot of it could apply to most everyone), because it was geared specifically and intimately to Arnold. Any interpretation of that advice would be out of context, and therefore completely meaningless without the specific personality to which it was originally directed. The point is that in Bruce Levine, as a representative of the Counseling and Testing Center, Arnold found useful, practical advice on drugs—their use and abuse—as they applied to him.

John Lippincott was no different. John's and the Next Thing's approach to drug education is also personal, friendly, effective, and dynamic. Like Bruce, he, too, possesses the "remarkable ability to make you feel right at home and comfortable with discussing what, at times, can be a fairly uncomfortable and even embarrassing subject.

The place to go, then, for a little drug education is the Counseling and Testing Center at 146 South Williams Street. A trip to the Dean of Students' Office and the infirmary may be superfluous and unnecessary, but certainly not a waste of time. In fact if all you need is someone to talk to, to unload some of the tension brought on by worrying about drugs or whatever, the Deans and the Doctors are, perhaps, better (or at least simpler) than the Next Thing of Counseling and Testing; at least you don't have to make an appointment.

The only Drug self-help service listed in the Green Pages which was discovered to be somewhat less than efficient was the Unbound program. Unbound is a drug hot line open 24 hours a day which is designed to deal with drug related problems or questions over the telephone. UNBOUND's—attractive, cosmic-orange and black business calling cards read: Bummer... O.D.s... Excesses... Become UNBOUND... call 863-2026. But when you do, a special operator answers and mechanically informs you that the line has been disconnected. Bummer. Bummer.

Faculty Senate Controversy...

(continued from page one)

opened to fill the slot of Chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee. Dr. Leonidas Jones resigned earlier this semester, because of a conflict with the administration over the formation of a new library council. The Senate will vote for a new chairman by mail ballot. Grading will be the subject of Faculty Senate meetings in the near future, as reports from the various colleges indicated. Most are dealing with grade inflation and what to do about it.

Eighty Children Learn And Play At Day Care Center

by Dawn McGinnis

The Vermont Home Care Enrichment Center, better known as the UVM Day Care Center, is a big old brick house on Dalton Drive in Fort Ethan Allen. It was started two years ago with a grant, but now it is run on money from state and federal subsidies and paying parents. The Center was "set up as a community service, and as a research and training facility," says Dan Albert, Director of the operation.

At the present time there are eighty children spending either all or part of the day there. Two-thirds of these children are from low-income families and their stay at the Center is subsidized; the other third are from middle and upper income families and their parents are able to pay.

The Center's Board of Directors insists on this income mix. They also feel that children with behavior problems should be accepted, because most day care centers in the area won't take them. It also has proved to be beneficial to both the normal children and those with problems.

The Chairman of the Board is Dr. Jon Rolf of the Psychology Department. Also on the board are members of the UVM faculty, parents, and representatives of the community. There is a staff of twenty-one at the Center. This includes: the Director; a full time speech pathologist; a material specialist who supervises and builds low cost cognitive toys; a full time cook; head teachers and teachers who work together in a team teaching system. Having head teachers and teachers is more equal, the people at the Center feel, than having teachers and teacher's aides.

The eighty children are broken down into groups to make caring for them a little easier. There is a suite of rooms for the thirty-five children in the 2-3 year old all-day group, another suite for the thirty children in the 4-5 year old all-day group, and a third for the twenty-four children of mixed ages who spend only part of the day there.

Each suite looks different, but they all follow a basic outline. The rooms are set up in terms of "activity corners" which maximize free choice for the children. The following are the areas defined in each suite: art corner, table games corner, reading corner, block corner, science area, carpentry area, and playhouse area (where the children have access to furniture and clothes and are free to dress up and act out roles).

There also is a box with musical instruments and a tape recorder which gets moved from room to room. All the children are allowed to use the Gross Motor Room, where there is a slide, a swing, a caddy and other structures which encourage physical activity. There is also a playground across the street from the Center where the children are taken every day, unless the weather is exceptionally bad.

In the 4-5 year group the ratios of teachers to children is 1:7, in the 2-3 group it is 1:5. The people at the center have no second thoughts about taking a group of children to a fire station, the airport, or any other place that would be educational.

The children at the Center are not just played with all day, they are taught many things. Many will know how to read and write when they start first grade. They also do scientific experiments like hooking up a light bulb to a battery in different ways to see which ones work, or keeping a chart of the temperature outside every day. They also will know how to interact properly with other children by the time they go to school. Each child has his own coat hook and cubbyhole which gives him a sense of identity and prepares him for the type of structure he will encounter in school.

Forty percent of the children come from UVM affiliated families. Fifty-five percent come from one-parent families. Most parents are really positive about the Center and "they are always willing to come to conferences," says Dan Albert. He went on to say that the people at the Center "would like more" parent involvement, but it's unrealistic to expect them to volunteer because they're working.

At the present time the Center has no plans for expansion. Eighty children are as many as they would ever want to handle at one time. The only staff position they would like to add is a home-school co-ordinator, which presently is a position held by everyone. They don't even need volunteer help right now. Dan Albert stressed that if a person has several hours a day to volunteer he would consider them more than someone with just a few hours a week to give. Even the waiting list isn't very long now, but it will begin to fill up later on. Things seem to be going fine at the UVM Day Care Center, which is something to marvel at after only two years of operation.

crossword puzzle

Across to Puzzle No. 113

1. Small	1. Pulse sound	31. Over (verb)	46. Network
2. Human's life	2. Can't see much	32. Peter's	47. Eastern bird
3. Death rattle	3. Move from	33. American	48. Kind of colder
4. Use (Lat. verb)	4. Move to	34. American	49. Famous
5. Death's	5. Move to	35. American	50. Famous
6. Death's	6. Move to	36. American	51. Famous
7. Death's	7. Move to	37. American	52. Famous
8. Death's	8. Move to	38. American	53. Famous
9. Death's	9. Move to	39. American	54. Famous
10. Death's	10. Move to	40. American	55. Famous
11. Death's	11. Move to	41. American	56. Famous
12. Death's	12. Move to	42. American	57. Famous
13. Death's	13. Move to	43. American	58. Famous
14. Death's	14. Move to	44. American	59. Famous
15. Death's	15. Move to	45. American	60. Famous
16. Death's	16. Move to	46. American	61. Famous
17. Death's	17. Move to	47. American	62. Famous
18. Death's	18. Move to	48. American	63. Famous
19. Death's	19. Move to	49. American	64. Famous
20. Death's	20. Move to	50. American	65. Famous
21. Death's	21. Move to	51. American	66. Famous
22. Death's	22. Move to	52. American	67. Famous
23. Death's	23. Move to	53. American	68. Famous
24. Death's	24. Move to	54. American	69. Famous
25. Death's	25. Move to	55. American	70. Famous
26. Death's	26. Move to	56. American	71. Famous
27. Death's	27. Move to	57. American	72. Famous
28. Death's	28. Move to	58. American	73. Famous
29. Death's	29. Move to	59. American	74. Famous
30. Death's	30. Move to	60. American	75. Famous

Down

1. Pulse sound	1. Pulse sound	11. School subject	16. Name of the
2. Can't see much	2. Can't see much	12. School subject	17. Name of the
3. Move from	3. Move from	13. School subject	18. Name of the
4. Move to	4. Move to	14. School subject	19. Name of the
5. Move to	5. Move to	15. School subject	20. Name of the
6. Move to	6. Move to	16. School subject	21. Name of the
7. Move to	7. Move to	17. School subject	22. Name of the
8. Move to	8. Move to	18. School subject	23. Name of the
9. Move to	9. Move to	19. School subject	24. Name of the
10. Move to	10. Move to	20. School subject	25. Name of the
11. Move to	11. Move to	21. School subject	26. Name of the
12. Move to	12. Move to	22. School subject	27. Name of the
13. Move to	13. Move to	23. School subject	28. Name of the
14. Move to	14. Move to	24. School subject	29. Name of the
15. Move to	15. Move to	25. School subject	30. Name of the
16. Move to	16. Move to	26. School subject	31. Name of the
17. Move to	17. Move to	27. School subject	32. Name of the
18. Move to	18. Move to	28. School subject	33. Name of the
19. Move to	19. Move to	29. School subject	34. Name of the
20. Move to	20. Move to	30. School subject	35. Name of the
21. Move to	21. Move to	31. School subject	36. Name of the
22. Move to	22. Move to	32. School subject	37. Name of the
23. Move to	23. Move to	33. School subject	38. Name of the
24. Move to	24. Move to	34. School subject	39. Name of the
25. Move to	25. Move to	35. School subject	40. Name of the
26. Move to	26. Move to	36. School subject	41. Name of the
27. Move to	27. Move to	37. School subject	42. Name of the
28. Move to	28. Move to	38. School subject	43. Name of the
29. Move to	29. Move to	39. School subject	44. Name of the
30. Move to	30. Move to	40. School subject	45. Name of the
31. Move to	31. Move to	41. School subject	46. Name of the
32. Move to	32. Move to	42. School subject	47. Name of the
33. Move to	33. Move to	43. School subject	48. Name of the
34. Move to	34. Move to	44. School subject	49. Name of the
35. Move to	35. Move to	45. School subject	50. Name of the
36. Move to	36. Move to	46. School subject	51. Name of the
37. Move to	37. Move to	47. School subject	52. Name of the
38. Move to	38. Move to	48. School subject	53. Name of the
39. Move to	39. Move to	49. School subject	54. Name of the
40. Move to	40. Move to	50. School subject	55. Name of the
41. Move to	41. Move to	51. School subject	56. Name of the
42. Move to	42. Move to	52. School subject	57. Name of the
43. Move to	43. Move to	53. School subject	58. Name of the
44. Move to	44. Move to	54. School subject	59. Name of the
45. Move to	45. Move to	55. School subject	60. Name of the
46. Move to	46. Move to	56. School subject	61. Name of the
47. Move to	47. Move to	57. School subject	62. Name of the
48. Move to	48. Move to	58. School subject	63. Name of the
49. Move to	49. Move to	59. School subject	64. Name of the
50. Move to	50. Move to	60. School subject	65. Name of the
51. Move to	51. Move to	61. School subject	66. Name of the
52. Move to	52. Move to	62. School subject	67. Name of the
53. Move to	53. Move to	63. School subject	68. Name of the
54. Move to	54. Move to	64. School subject	69. Name of the
55. Move to	55. Move to	65. School subject	70. Name of the
56. Move to	56. Move to	66. School subject	71. Name of the
57. Move to	57. Move to	67. School subject	72. Name of the
58. Move to	58. Move to	68. School subject	73. Name of the
59. Move to	59. Move to	69. School subject	74. Name of the
60. Move to	60. Move to	70. School subject	75. Name of the
61. Move to	61. Move to	71. School subject	76. Name of the
62. Move to	62. Move to	72. School subject	77. Name of the
63. Move to	63. Move to	73. School subject	78. Name of the
64. Move to	64. Move to	74. School subject	79. Name of the
65. Move to	65. Move to	75. School subject	80. Name of the
66. Move to	66. Move to	76. School subject	81. Name of the
67. Move to	67. Move to	77. School subject	82. Name of the
68. Move to	68. Move to	78. School subject	83. Name of the
69. Move to	69. Move to	79. School subject	84. Name of the
70. Move to	70. Move to	80. School subject	85. Name of the
71. Move to	71. Move to	81. School subject	86. Name of the
72. Move to	72. Move to	82. School subject	87. Name of the
73. Move to	73. Move to	83. School subject	88. Name of the
74. Move to	74. Move to	84. School subject	89. Name of the
75. Move to	75. Move to	85. School subject	90. Name of the
76. Move to	76. Move to	86. School subject	91. Name of the
77. Move to	77. Move to	87. School subject	92. Name of the
78. Move to	78. Move to	88. School subject	93. Name of the
79. Move to	79. Move to	89. School subject	94. Name of the
80. Move to	80. Move to	90. School subject	95. Name of the
81. Move to	81. Move to	91. School subject	96. Name of the
82. Move to	82. Move to	92. School subject	97. Name of the
83. Move to	83. Move to	93. School subject	98. Name of the
84. Move to	84. Move to	94. School subject	99. Name of the
85. Move to	85. Move to	95. School subject	100. Name of the
86. Move to	86. Move to	96. School subject	101. Name of the
87. Move to	87. Move to	97. School subject	102. Name of the
88. Move to	88. Move to	98. School subject	103. Name of the
89. Move to	89. Move to	99. School subject	104. Name of the
90. Move to	90. Move to	100. School subject	105. Name of the
91. Move to	91. Move to	101. School subject	106. Name of the
92. Move to	92. Move to	102. School subject	107. Name of the
93. Move to	93. Move to	103. School subject	108. Name of the
94. Move to	94. Move to	104. School subject	109. Name of the
95. Move to	95. Move to	105. School subject	110. Name of the
96. Move to	96. Move to	106. School subject	111. Name of the
97. Move to	97. Move to	107. School subject	112. Name of the
98. Move to	98. Move to	108. School subject	113. Name of the
99. Move to	99. Move to	109. School subject	114. Name of the
100. Move to	100. Move to	110. School subject	115. Name of the
101. Move to	101. Move to	111. School subject	116. Name of the
102. Move to	102. Move to	112. School subject	117. Name of the
103. Move to	103. Move to	113. School subject	118. Name of the
104. Move to	104. Move to	114. School subject	119. Name of the
105. Move to	105. Move to	115. School subject	120. Name of the
106. Move to	106. Move to	116. School subject	121. Name of the
107. Move to	107. Move to	117. School subject	122. Name of the
108. Move to	108. Move to	118. School subject	123. Name of the
109. Move to	109. Move to	119. School subject	124. Name of the
110. Move to	110. Move to	120. School subject	125. Name of the
111. Move to	111. Move to	121. School subject	126. Name of the
112. Move to	112. Move to	122. School subject	127. Name of the
113. Move to	113. Move to	123. School subject	128. Name of the
114. Move to	114. Move to	124. School subject	129. Name of the
115. Move to	115. Move to	125. School subject	130. Name of the
116. Move to	116. Move to	126. School subject	131. Name of the
117. Move to	117. Move to	127. School subject	132. Name of the
118. Move to	118. Move to	128. School subject	133. Name of the
119. Move to	119. Move to	129. School subject	134. Name of the
120. Move to	120. Move to	130. School subject	135. Name of the
121. Move to	121. Move to	131. School subject	136. Name of the
122. Move to	122. Move to	132. School subject	137. Name of the
123. Move to	123. Move to	133. School subject	138. Name of the
124. Move to	124. Move to	134. School subject	139. Name of the
125. Move to	125. Move to	135. School subject	140. Name of the
126. Move to	126. Move to	136. School subject	141. Name of the
127. Move to	127. Move to	137. School subject	142. Name of the
128. Move to	128. Move to	138. School subject	143. Name of the
129. Move to	129. Move to	139. School subject	144. Name of the
130. Move to	130. Move to	140. School subject	145. Name of the
131. Move to	131. Move to	141. School subject	146. Name of the
132. Move to	132. Move to	142. School subject	147. Name of the
133. Move to	133. Move to	143. School subject	148. Name of the
134. Move to	134. Move to	144. School subject	149. Name of the</

CENTRAL TEL

Box Derby

ould be helpful when asked why a soap box derby race for charity. Several explain Odie replied. "Several reasons. For one, it has the potential to be a big campus event. It would be great to see students from all areas and streets of the campus just come together and have fun! I've been involved in similar races in the past, and the event will be a blast! I get right up in the positive feeling and atmosphere created when people get together to do something on something and to do something. It's something which could help set the tone for the months to follow."

"Second, all the fun, work, and money will be going toward a worthy cause. I know there are millions of worthy causes but I'm pleased with this one because the students as well as the community will benefit from the funds raised. "For St. Anselm's, and for there is something more involved. The event symbolizes that I hope my ministry, and that of St. Anselm's will be on campus - an involvement and reaching out to needs and concerns of all people we come in contact with. This is a great part of the Gospel and the life of Jesus is all about."

(More on the race next week)

Blank

soap box derby race (Odie's Chapel) which will also appear on n Campus

editors are encouraged to bring their enthusiasm and ideas. This will be a busy and exciting fall for SIMS on campus as activities leading up to World Plan Week - U.S.A., November 11-17, get underway. Watch for announcements in the CYNIC and around campus concerning these events.

A list of UVM students who are members of SIMS is being compiled at this time. If you have practiced Transcendental Meditation or know of other students who do, please get in touch with Collie Chatterton, 4 Redstone Hall at 656-3087.

For those people who would like to find out more about Transcendental Meditation, there are free introductory lectures given at the Burlington Center every Wednesday evening at 8:30. Courses of instruction, during which the technique known as TM is actually learned, are held at the center every weekend.

For anyone, however, who finds it difficult to attend the evening program, there will be a special daytime introductory lecture on Wednesday, October 24, at 12:30, at the Fletcher Free Library in Burlington.

TITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER

Downtown Burlington

Bank Junction

AST NCE

NIGHTSPOT OPEN NOW

GOOD SOUNDS

PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS

NO COVER CHARGE

OPEN AT 7PM

7 DAYS A WEEK

IN ST.

STON

URI Downs UVM With Two Point Conversion...

(Continued from page fourteen)

into the end zone. George penalized seven times for 65 yards, knotted it up at 7:17 yards, while the Rams were with just 1:47 remaining in the third quarter. The drive covered 44 yards in seven plays.

UVM stopped the Rams their next two times while the Rhode Island could stop Vermont only once. Vermont scored their second touchdown at 10:00. The drive began with a punt to the Rams at the 42. The Cats got a first down as Sherrer ran twice in a row. Bateman then rolled right and kept the ball, moving to the Ram 26. On the next play Steve Coon ran up the middle for six yards. Sherrer then ran for two yards, after catching a five yard pass from Bateman. He was finally brought down at the 13. Bateman then rolled right and pitched to Sherrer who took off for the touchdown. Brunst's placement made it 14-7. The touchdown was a culmination of a 7 play, 58 yard drive. Vermont's lead lasted for about five minutes until Rhode Island scored and went ahead on the two point conversion. Crono to Whitaker.

Vermont won the battle of statistics but that victory only rubs salt into the wound resulting in the one point defeat. UVM had 20 first downs to Rhode Island's 12, 171 yards passing to 107, 75 plays to 59, and 290 yards to 219 yards. Rhode Island eked out a 146 to 137 edge in rushing yardage. UVM was into the end zone. George penalized seven times for 65 yards, knotted it up at 7:17 yards, while the Rams were with just 1:47 remaining in the third quarter. The drive covered 44 yards in seven plays.

Falivene and his staff will have the Cats ready and hungry for victory.

Homecoming also saw the end of this year's edition of the cheerleading squad at Centennial Field. They will be travelling to some of the road games that remain on the schedule. For their fine work during the games, a tip-of-the-hat goes to Capt. Janet Glenney, Co-Capt. Ruth Feldman, Evelyn Smith, Donna Shea, Sue Elert, Marilyn Peckman, Amy Sobel, Karen Granfield, Debbie O'Dell, Paula Davis, and Terri Myrswang.

Catamount Football Clippings

"We certainly weren't flat. After viewing the films Sunday I was very pleased with the team's performance. We made very few mistakes overall," said head coach Falivene. "It was a great ball game to watch. If you were a spectator," added Falivene. The tables of history turned around Saturday as Rhode Island - after waiting 364 days for another opportunity - converted on the two-point conversion. Last year, at Rhode Island's homecoming, Vermont led late in the game, 14-13, and the Rams tried for a two-point conversion, converting on the first attempt (called back because of a procedure penalty) and missing on the second try and Vermont had itself a one-point win. Last Saturday, Rhode Island had its third chance for that 15-14 win and succeeded this time. "You can't take away anything from Rhode Island's win, and I wouldn't take anything away from our team either. We played a fine football game against a fine football team. The game was ours, but they took it away from us," added Falivene. "Give them credit for coming back," said the head coach.

The latest medical report appears to be favorable. The only question mark is defensive end Bob Brand, who sprained an ankle late in the game. "Bob has had an outstanding year for us. Saturday's performance was probably his best since coming to Vermont. Just a great competitor," boasted Falivene. If Brand can't start Saturday at New Hampshire, junior Mike Johns will likely get the call. Back-up quarterback Fran Raczek, who missed Saturday's game because of several stomach cramps, will be out for at least two to three weeks, and perhaps the rest of the season. He'll be operated on this week for an internal intestinal disorder. Also, defensive end John Anderson, and special team standout, Al Ricciardi, both should be ready to roll against New Hampshire. Anderson injured an ankle in the Boston University win, Sept. 29, while Ricciardi bruised a knee in the same game. Tickets for the final four away games are on sale at the UVM Patrick Gymnasium, Room 206. Concerning the tickets, Athletic Business Manager, N. Edward Bartlett, has released the following information: At New Hampshire, Oct. 20, Durham, tickets are $3.50 for the general public, $2.00 for UVM staff and $1.50 for all students; at Hofstra, Oct. 27, Hempstead, N.Y., tickets for general public, $3.00, faculty and staff, $2.00 and students, $2.00; at Massachusetts, Nov. 3, Amherst, Mass., tickets are $3.50 for the general public, $1.75 for faculty and staff and $2.00 for students; and at Bucknell, Nov. 10, Lewisburg, Pa., tickets for general public are $3.00, $3.00 for faculty and staff, $3.00 for students and $1.00 for children.

Coke. Anytime.

The Women's Gymnastics Team will hold its first Compulsory meet of the season at Castleton State College on October 23 at 7:00 pm. Photo shows leap performed by Debbie Light, 3rd year team member.

Photo shows leap performed by Debbie Light, 3rd year team member.

Booters Top St. Mikes...

(Continued from page fourteen)

leading the ball into the left end corner of the net on a pass from Tim Taylor. Less than two minutes later at 2:30 Doug Rose clearly beat ME goalie Jeff MacGill on a breakaway pass from Paul Austin. Rose's shot was hard and low, it deflected off the post into the left corner of the net.

Vermont's third score was a Bob Cleverdon with 45 seconds left in the game. He was awarded a penalty shot because of a hand ball called on the Knights in the penalty area. Cleverdon boomed the ball into the right corner of the net. This closed out the scoring. Vermont missed several good scoring opportunities in the second half.

Jeff Jonas got the shutout stopping 6 shots to 13 for MacGill. A St. Mike's goal was disallowed in the first half because of an offside violation. The Cats dominated the statistics with a 28-13 margin in shots on goal and a 9-3 edge in corner kicks.

SA Films Explains Problems Of Operation...

(Continued from page seven)

his is an expensive process but it is worth it in order to be able to show a rare film that is an important part of Hitchcock's oeuvre. That we were able to find a print in the first place took weeks of work and all of this for two films out of some 170 films that had to be ordered.

It is becoming very difficult to rent films. The producing companies have smelled the sweet odor of money and profit in college film society rentals. Many films are being "pulled" which is a polite way of saying that a film (such as Bogart's THE MALTESE FALCON) which has been renting for about $25.00 per showing is removed from general release and is unavailable to any film society. When, after about six months, the film is finally available again it rents for much more (in the case of THE MALTESE FALCON the rental for one showing is $125.00 versus 50% of the income, whichever is greater. It is not that the increases are the problem (although these increases do affect a limited budget) but the pulling of a film out of general release. This situation has marred several of our series, especially the Marlon Brando selection.

Now, we would like to let you know what we are going to do about it. Here is a list of the films series, the halts they play in, times, and cost (if any): FIRST SEMESTER: Sunday, a series of comic films owned by the Student Association, Cook Hall, 8:00 pm, free; Monday, THE COMIC FILMS OF ALEC GUINNESS AND PETER SELLERS, Living and Learning Center, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, free; Tuesday, THE FILMS OF ALFRED HITCHCOCK, Cook Hall, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, 25 cents; Wednesday, FILMS OF SCIENCE FICTION AND BORIS KARLOFF WITH BELA LUGOSI, Billings Center, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, free; Friday, FILMS OF INGMAR BERGMAN, Cook Hall, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, 50 cents; Saturday, GANGSTER FILMS WITH EDWARD G. ROBINSON AND JAMES CAGNEY, Life Sciences Hall, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, 50 cents.

SECOND SEMESTER: Sunday, still the films of the Student Association, see last semester; Monday, SWASHBUCKLERS, ARCHERS, AND OTHER GOOD GUYS, Living and Learning Center, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, free; Tuesday, THE FILMS OF ALFRED HITCHCOCK, same as last semester; Wednesday, THE FILMS OF ERNST LUBITSCH, Billings Center, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, free; Thursday, LILLIAN GISH, Billings Center, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, free; Friday, THE GREAT SCREEN STARS, Cook Hall, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, 50 cents.

8:00 pm, free; Friday, MARLON BRANDO: BEFORE THE LAST TANGO, Cook Hall, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, 50 cents; Saturday, HUMPHREY BOGART, Life Sciences Hall, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, 50 cents.

There will also be special films and two other special series. During the latter part of October and November, five films of Woody Allen will be shown. Watch for further details on these films. Also, for those who love William Shakespeare, on various Wednesday afternoons at 4:00 pm during the year we will show films such as Olivier's HAMLET and his OTHELLO, Brando's JULIUS CAESAR, and hopefully the Peter Brook-Paul Scofield KING LEAR. Most importantly, SAFilms hopes to embark upon a series of showings of films made by students and faculty members in this area. The goal is to encourage the making of films as well as the showing of them. Which brings us to a little philosophy.

SAFilms does not exist just to show a bunch of films for a blast every weekend. We are here to entertain of course, but we also believe that in entertaining we can also help educate the cinematic taste of the University. Film is not like a book in a library that can be borrowed, every time it is brought to campus are never shown on television or otherwise shown in the area. By presenting films in series we are able to provide study materials for students but for the person who just wants to watch a particular actor we also allow that person the ability to see a good representation of that actor in regular intervals. We offer not only study aids but the opportunity to see many good films that you normally would not be able to see and for prices nobody can complain about. So, if you don't see your favorite Kung Fu flick in one of our series it is because we could not fit it into the themes of the scheduled series.

SAFilms can not afford to show them, especially since they can easily be seen in local cinema houses. We urge you to watch the CYNIC weekly and take advantage of the special $1 showings of current popular films. And even more, we urge you to support your own film series on campus. There are many, many beautiful and exciting films coming. If you don't try to see them you will never know what you have missed.

HOCKEY TICKETS

MONTREAL at the FORUM

Choose the series of games to see...!!!

No. 1 Wed., Oct. 17 Sat., Dec. 8 Sat., Jan. 19 Thurs., Feb. 28	Toronto N. Y. Islanders Boston Pittsburgh	No. 2 SOLD OUT
No. 3 Sat., Nov. 3 Sat., Dec. 29 Wed., Feb. 13 Sat., Mar. 18	California N. Y. Rangers Atlanta Chicago	No. 4 Wed., Nov. 14 Tues., Dec. 18 Sat., Feb. 17 Wed., Mar. 20
Boston California Philadelphia Detroit

In each series there are 10 white seats and 34 blue seats (1st eight rows). Price includes guaranteed seat at the Forum and round trip transportation for each game in a series.
White Seat Pkg. $62.00 Blue Seat Pkg. $62.00

We do suggest that you act fast... tickets are going. Make your reservations today.

VERMONT TRANSIT
CENTRAL TERMINAL 135 ST. PAUL ST. PH: 864-6811

Rugby Team Wins

The University of Vermont Rugby team defeated the Mad River Rugby Club of Sugarbush, Vt. by a score of 10 to 9. UVM was able to penetrate deep into Mad River's territory throughout the game. However, they were able to score on only one try and two penalty kicks owing to Mad River's consistent goal line defense.

The scoring began 10 minutes into the game when UVM converted on a penalty kick by John Padua from 25 yards out giving UVM a 3-0 lead. Five minutes later UVM scored its only try of the game when wing forward Jim Blainesfield, taking a perfect lead pass from Rick Sheriff, took the ball in on a ten goal run. The conversion attempt was missed leaving UVM with a less than enviable record of one successful PAT in 12 attempts in the first 5 games. Mad River ended the scoring for the 1st half with a penalty kick leaving the score at half time 7-3 in favor of Vermont.

In the second half Mad River was able to capitalize on a defensive lapse by UVM's backfield and ran the ball in from 55 yards out. Mad River connected on the PAT giving Mad River a 9-7 lead. With 5 minutes remaining in the game UVM was finally able to regain the lead on a 20 yard penalty kick by John Padua. This was the last score of the game.

UVM now enters into the toughest part of its fall schedule beginning with a game this Saturday against the Montreal Irish. Quebec's leading Rugby Team. Game time will be at 1:30 p.m. at the Archie Post Field.

Boosters Luncheon To Show URI-UVM Football Films

Films of Saturday's exciting second half action between the Rhode Island and Vermont will be shown Thursday (Oct. 18), at the weekly Boosters Luncheon at the Hi-Hat Restaurant in downtown Burlington. Everyone is welcome. Cost of the luncheon is $2.25. In addition to the films, a scouting report of this be shown Thursday (Oct. 18), Saturday's opponent, New Hampshire, is scheduled, as is a question-answer period for the fans. The luncheon begins at 12 noon.

SIZZLING STEAK

MENU

12 OUNCE BONE IN SIRLOIN STEAK DINNER $3.99

The House Specialty

8 OUNCE BONELESS SIRLOIN STEAK DINNER $3.59

1/2 LB. CHOPPED SIRLOIN DINNER $2.59

10 OUNCE TOP SIRLOIN STEAK DINNER $5.89

ALL DINNERS INCLUDE:

Buttered Baked Potatoes, Hot Buttered Rolls, Crisp Chef's Salad With Our Homemade Dressings. SELECT FROM A VARIETY OF DESSERTS at small extra charge

SIZZLING STEAK

1216 WILLISTON ROAD SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT (NEXT TO SHOWCASE I & II) (ACROSS FROM A McDONALD'S)

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HOURS

DINING ROOM: 4 P.M. TO 11 P.M. MON-FRI. NOON TO 11 P.M. SAT-SUN. LOUNGE: 4 P.M. TO 1 A.M. MON-FRI. NOON TO 1 A.M. SAT-SUN. SERVING ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

UVM SPORTS

URI Spoils Vermont Homecoming 15-14

Mike McAllister trying to pick up yardage in 15-14 loss to URI.

by Al Patashnick
Before an estimated Homecoming crowd of 7,432 people, the University of Rhode Island overtook the University of Vermont 15-14. Although outplayed the entire game by the home team, the visiting Rams put together a last quarter drive that netted them a victory, thus depriving the Catamounts of a winning conference record.

Just after Vermont had gone ahead 14-7 with a little under eight minutes remaining, the Cats stopped the Rams and forced a punt. Rhode Island, in turn, bottled up the home forces and began their winning drive at their own 27 yard line. Fullback Dan Whitaker carried the ball twice in a row, picking up 22 yards. After an incomplete pass, quarterback Crone threw to wide receiver Gribbon at the UVM 38 for another first down. Vermont was fortunate on the next play because split end Kim Conlee dropped a Crone bomb. Not phased at all by the loss of a sure touchdown, Crone hit Gribbon again for a gain down to the 4 yard line. The Ram quarterback called his own number, rolling left to score the touchdown and cutting the Cat's lead to 14-13. Rhode Island, to the surprise of no one, elected to go for the win instead of a tie. Crone dropped back, glanced into the end zone, and fired the winning points to Dan Whitaker for a 15-14 lead with just 2:12 remaining in the game. The drive covered 73 yards and used just seven plays.

Because Crone had slammed the ball to the ground after scoring the touchdown, Rhode Island was assessed a 15 yard penalty and had to kick off from their own 25. Steve Con fielded the kick at his own 22 and barreled up the middle to the 46. Vermont had plenty of time remaining to pull it out. After Tom Sherrill was dropped for a 3 yard loss, Bob Bateman threw a pass intended for Mike McAllister into the hands of Yousif Zubchevich, the left-lineman of the enemy. But the Vermont defense stiffened and forced the Rams' Callahan to punt, resulting in a wild sequence of events. The Cats' received the punt and were dropped way back at the 8 yard line. But all was not lost yet. The referees spotted a personal foul against Rhode Island at Vermont's 35. The penalty was marked off, putting the ball at midfield. Rhode Island Coach Jack Gregory ran onto the field, and was informed that he was the lucky beneficiary of another 15 yard penalty. Thus Vermont was given a final chance to pull it out. A Bateman bomb to Billy Looker was knocked around a few times before falling to the ground. The game was over and Vermont had lost another tough game in the Yankee Conference. Gregory was fuming after the game due to the penalty he received for being on the playing field. He was escorted off the field by a couple of his players.

To begin the game, Rhode Island took the kickoff and began their first series at the Vermont 25. Molly McGee carried the ball on the first four plays, gaining 20 yards. Crone was forced to go to the air after a penalty and was stopped by the tough Cat defense. Vermont gained only nine yards in its first series, so Rhode Island mounted the first threat after getting possession for the second time. A 13 yard run by McGee and a facemask penalty set up a field goal try which was short and to the right.

Both teams failed to move once again with Vermont taking over at their own 39. Bob Bateman went to the air and completed four passes in a row but the fifth pass attempt ended up in the arms of Zubchevich at the Ram 16. Rhode Island once again could do nothing so the Cats and QB Bateman moved to the visitors' Rhode Island at Vermont's 35. 27 yard line before being stopped on a fourth and eight situation. For the third time in a row, the UVM defense held the Rams in check while the offense continued to advance 2-1 score. The wind was an only to fall an inch short of a first down on the Rhode Island 31. The opposition finally moved into Vermont territory but a fake field goal try was snuffed out, the half ending at 0-0.

The halftime statistics showed Vermont ahead in first downs 8-5, passing yardage 102-48, total yards 146-100, and plays 37-28. Rhode Island had the rushing edge 52-44.

When the second half began, the Rams reeling, the Cats still managed to get a kickoff. Bateman went to the air seven times. The aerial display advanced the Cats to Rhode Island territory only to have a second interception stall the drive. After a personal foul against Vermont pushed the Rams into UVM's turf, Molly McGee and Crone teamed up to move the ball to the Vermont 5 yard line. Reserve back Prodzurski juggled the pigskin twice in a row, resulting in his team's first score from the one. The kick was good, making it 7-0. The drive covered 57 yards and used 11 plays, with the touchdown scored at 5:13.

Vermont, taking advantage of two penalties on the kickoff, began their series at the URI 44. Another face mask penalty against Rhode Island gave UVM 15 more yards. On third, and three on the 22, Bateman fired to Billy Looker for a first down at the 15. After Tony Jones gained 3, Bateman scampered out of the pocket and ended up at the 3 yard line. Mike McAllister, on a delay off the left side, burst (continued on page thirteen)

Cat Booters Fall To Rams 2-1

by Norm Robinson

The UVM Booters went up against a very physical Rhode Island squad Saturday and came out on the short end of a 2-1 score. The wind was an important factor throughout the game. Both teams used their advantage as long shots dominated the contest.

UVM controlled most of the first half as Rhode Island could get only four shots on goal. The Rams only serious bid came with about eight minutes left in the half, when they put three shots in succession at UVM goalie Jeff Jonas.

Erratic passing hindered many UVM attempts, but the Rams still managed to get the early part of the second half. But Dave Names hit one from 15 yards out and it was tie ball game. Rhode Island went to the offensive after the goal and put eight more shots at Jonas while UVM could manage but three. Lightning struck again when Paul Ward-Smith got off another long shot and Rhode led 2-1. The defense then took over Bob Suzzell in action against Rhode Island.

Rhode Island went to the locker room the victors. Jim Pedrotty and Brad Rixford played well for the UVM defense while Desi Vidal was outstanding for Rhode Island. The Cats are now 3-4 on the season but have yet to win a conference game. Their next conference game will be this Saturday at UNH.

Berry Sets Course Record

by David J. Raneri

Last Wednesday the Harriers competed against Middlebury, Norwich, and hosting St. Michael's College in the Vermont State Cross Country Meet. The outstanding and record breaking accomplishment of Captain Mike Berry was the highlight of the day. Berry broke the 4.95 mile course record by fifty-eight seconds (old record held by Joe Rukanshagaza from Siena 26:12), with a time of 25:28. Stan Dunklee, a strong Harrier throughout the season placed second with 25:35, followed by Bob Graves in 26:00. Middlebury's two top runners John Estles and Colyn Case placed fourth and fifth respectively. Rounding out the next four spots were Vermont's Lynn Capen, 6th, Dave Milligan, 7th, Bern Putnam, 8th, and Ed Thornton, 9th. The great victory boosted the team's morale after the loss to UConn and Keene State the previous weekend. This Wednesday Vermont hosts R.P.I. and Williams at 3:30 p.m.

UVM Downs St. Mike's

by Neil Gruber

On October 10 the Vermont booters defeated the Knights of St. Michael's College 3-0. The game started out with both teams playing evenly. It was obvious that the Cats were more skilled, but the aggressive play of the Knights neutralized the Cats skills for the first thirty minutes. At 30:35 of the first half Ed Cymers put Vermont ahead (continued on page thirteen)

CLASSIFIED ADS

Contentment Farm
Riding Stable, Open Year Around - Trail Riding - Instructions - Hay & Sleigh Rides - Tack Shop - Shoeing - Sales - Boarding - Reasonable Rates - Indoor Arena. South Hero 372-4087.

What do you own? Do you know? Furniture, china, etc. I am equipped to make photographic inventories. For details call David Wilden, 863-2466.

Very mellow 23 yr. old (M) separated) would prefer to enjoy first non-urban winter sharing house w/warm folks near Plainfield. Temporarily at Goddard, Dorm CR. Please leave message for Sam Pein.

Apartment to share with one other male student, walking distance to UVM. Furnished $82.00 not incl. electricity. 658-2063.

Do you need a good roommate? I need to live with people. Am quiet, neat, fun, and hard-working. Call Lisa 862-3519 or 864-9033.

Seny TC 36122. New reel-to-reel tape recorder @ 2 months old, $150.00. Dynaco Pat. 4 pre-amplifier and 80 watt stereo amplifier, @ 1 year old, $150.00. Call 864-5323.

Would the person who took a dark brown suede jacket from 303 Lafayette, 10/9/73 please return it to the Student Activities Desk or Patti, 106 Mills. It has personal value. No questions will be asked.

Lost - Gold, metal glasses - black case. Call 863-5323 after 6:00 p.m.

Female roommate wanted: prefer graduate student or faculty, to share 2-bedroom modern apartment off Susie Wilson Road, Essex Junction. Rent $82.00 each plus utilities. Call Patti days, 658-3640; evenings, 678-8292.

Wollensak reel-to-reel tape recorder for sale - $75. Also 78 rpm records for sale. Call Jay, 864-5323 after 4 p.m.

PLEASE! I need a ride to U. Conn at Storrs, Conn. Roundtrip Oct. 26-28. Will split expenses and driving. Please contact Mindy, 666-4248. Leave a message if I'm out. Thanks!

Committee Student

by John Franco
The Faculty Standards Committee of the College of Arts and Sciences recommended last week to rehire two Philosophy professors. The committee, in twin 3-0 votes, recommended that professors Jim Corcoran and Alan Paskow stay at the University. Split on the recommendation of Garry Anderson, and voted 3-0 that Bob Rice be relieved of his duties. The move by the committee represents another step forward toward a complete overturn of Philosophy Chairman Steven Cahn's recommendations that all four be dismissed.

The Philosophy Department Review Committee, in a decision two weeks ago, recommended solidly in favor of only one professor, Corcoran. Thus, the Standards Committee's action is a concrete rejection of another of Cahn's recommendations.

Yet reactions to the decision were mixed among the supporters of the "Philosophy Four". While recognizing that the committee's action was positive, some students contended that the split vote on Anderson and the negative action on Rice constitute a continuation of the setback rendered by Cahn's recommendations. In light of this, Philosophy student Sue Amadon has planned, with other students and faculty members, to picket the home of University President Edward Andrews. President Andrews' support of Cahn's recommendations is explained, and thus is a logical pressure point for student action. The picket is intended to demonstrate, in organized fashion, the depth of concern over the entire Philosophy Four affair, and to bring media attention to it. A new conference has been scheduled for Friday at 3 p.m. at the planet line.

Many specific criticisms were leveled at the Standards Committee's actions, with some contending that the committee did not deal with the issues raised by the report of the Union of College Faculty. The report gave Cahn and marks in both the consistency of his methods and the objectivity of his judgments. Many have also contended that the quality of scholarship demanded of the Philosophy Four has not been consistently applied.

supplement cases involving other departments of the Arts College. In other departments it is claimed, people have been promoted who have not published at all. The question is not of making shoddy scholarship by anyone, but whether established criteria have been applied with equal vigor.

In This

Practice Sessions Begin

The Vermont hockey team began its second week of practice and the Catamount basketball quintet kicked off its first practice session Monday, (Oct. 15) in preparation for their opening month away. The hockey team opens its season at the Bishop's University Invitational in Lennoxville, Que., Nov. 17-18, meeting the University of Sherbrooke in the opening round. The winner of this game squares off in the finals, Nov. 18, against the winner of the Merrimack College-Bishop's University game. The home opener is Nov. 27 against St. Anselm's. The basketball team travels to Maine, Nov. 20 and Dec. 1, for its openers. The first home opener for the Cat quintet is Dec. 5 against New Hampshire.

Films Of Canadian-Russian Hockey

Series To Be Shown At UVM

One of the most exciting feats of hockey film ever produced is scheduled for UVM's Roy L. Patrick Gymnasium, Sunday Oct. 28, beginning at 7 p.m. The color film presentation of the recent Canada-Russian hockey series is sponsored by the Friends of University of Vermont Hockey. The public is welcome. Price of admission is $1.00 for students and $1.50 for adults. Tickets will be available in Room 206, Patrick Gym and Mills and Greer.

Hockey Scrimmage

On Saturday, November 10 at 7:00 p.m. the UVM Varsity hockey squad will play the UVM Junior Varsity team at Guttererson Field House. Tickets are $1.00 for students and $2.00 for adults. Proceeds will go to the UVM Hockey Scholarship fund.

VALUABLE COUPON

SAVE

SPECIAL TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS

10% DISCOUNT

ON YOUR PURCHASES AT

CAMPUS PHARMACY

ACROSS FROM The Medical Center

SAVE

Smugglers' Notch

Smugglers' Notch
(Formerly Madonna)

We've been working for you... Getting things ready

Our trails have been stumped, brushed, and

The Madonna lifeline is now skiable the finest trails in the east.

A mid-station on Madonna will

We've been planning some big like getting ready to host the on Feb. 1-2.

And our discount... which from your

They train here... which from your

We also have... which from your mountain... which from your information contact... 656-3845 or inquire at your

Department in Park

Also call:

Meredith Niles 656-3806 Mike Born 656-3844

Linda Bollinger

LOWEST PRESCRIPTION PRICES IN VERMONT

YOU KEEP THE SAVING

(ask your doctor about us)

Present your ID with Your Prescription

Grandway Pharmacy
Grandway Shopping Plaza
Shelburne Road

If you can't find it at

Valuga Sports

YOU WON'T find it

One Mile South OF Burlington On Route 7

1250 SHELBOURN RD.
South Burlington, VT.
862-1961

against Rhode Island.

Rhode Island went to the room the victors.

on Pedrotty and Brad played well for the defense while Dem Vidal outstanding for Rhode.

the Cats are now 3-4 on the but have yet to win a defense game. Their next game will be this Sunday at UNH.

VM Downs St. Mike's

by Neil Gruber

On October 10 the Vermont defeated the Knights of St. Michael's College 3-0. The game started out with teams playing evenly. It was obvious that the Cats were skilled, but the aggressive defense of the Knights neutralized the Cats skills for the first 30 minutes.

At 30:35 of the first half Ed Verry put Vermont ahead (continued on page thirteen)

CLASSIFIED ADS

Contentment Farm Riding Stable, Open Year Round - Trail Riding - Instruction - Hay & Saddle Rides - Tack Shop - Shooting - Sales - Boarding - Reasonable Rates - Indoor Arena. South Hero 372-4087.

What do you own? Do you know? (furniture, china, etc.) I am equipped to make photographic inventories. For details call David Wilson, 863-2466.

Very mellow 23 yr. old (M/separated) would prefer to enjoy first non-urban winter sharing house w/warm folks near Plainfield. Temporarily call Goddard, Dorm CR. Please leave message for Sam Pein.

Apartment to share with one other male student, walking distance to UVM. Furnished $82.00 not incl. electricity. 658-2063.

Do you need a good roommate? I need to live with people who are quiet, hard working. Call Lisa 862-3519 or 864-9033.

Sony TC-353-D stereo reel-to-reel tape recorder @ 2 months old, $150.00. Dynaco Pat-4 pre-amplifier and 90 watt stereo amplifier, @ 1 year old, $150.00. Call 864-5333.

Would the person who took a dark brown suede jacket from 303 Lafayette, 10/9/73 please return it to the Student Activities Desk or Patti, 106 Mills. It has personal value. No questions will be asked.

Lost - Gold, metal glasses - black case. Call 863-5323 after 6:00 p.m.

Female roommate wanted: prefer graduate student or faculty, to share 2-bedroom modern apartment off S. Wilson Road, Essex Junction. Rent $82.00 each plus utilities. Call Patti Davis, 656-3640; evenings, 878-8293.

Wollensak reel-to-reel tape recorder for sale - $75. Also 78 rpm records for sale. Call Jay, 864-5333 after 4 p.m.

PLEASE! I need a ride to U. Conn at Storrs, Conn. Roundtrip Oct. 28-29. Will split expenses and driving. Please contact Mindy, 656-4248. Leave a message if I'm out. Thanks!

Photo: Greg Bobbin

Committee Recommends Two Philosophers; Students Plan Friday Demonstration

by John Franco

The Faculty Standards Committee of the College of Arts and Sciences recommended last week to hire two Philosophy professors. The committee, in a 3-0 vote, recommended that professors Jim Corcoran and Alan Paskow stay at the University, split on the recommendation of Gerry Anderson, and voted 3-0 that Bob Rice be relieved of his duties. The move by the committee represents another step forward toward a complete overturn of Philosophy Chairman Steven Cahn's recommendations that all four be dismissed.

The Philosophy Department Review Committee, in a decision two weeks ago, recommended solidly in favor of only one professor, Corcoran. Thus, the Standards Committee's action is a concrete rejection of another of Cahn's recommendations. Yet reactions to the decision were mixed among the supporters of the "Philosophy Four". While recognizing that the committee action was positive, some students contended that the split vote on Anderson and the negative action on Rice constitute a continuation of the setback rendered by Cahn's recommendations. In light of this, Philosophy student Sue Amadon has planned, with other students and faculty members, to picket the home of University President Edward Andrews. President Andrews represents considerable influence on campus, she explained, and thus is a logical pressure point for student action. The picket is intended to demonstrate, in organized fashion, the depth of concern over the entire Philosophy-Four affair, and to bring media attention to it. A news conference has been scheduled for Friday at 3 p.m. at the picket line.

Many specific criticisms were leveled at the Standards Committee's actions, with some contending that the committee did not deal with the issues raised by the report of the Union of College Faculty. The report gave Cahn bad marks in both the consistency of his methods and the objectivity of his judgments. Many have also contended that the quality of scholarship demanded of the Philosophy Four has not been consistently applied in reappointment cases involving other departments of the Arts College. In other departments, it is claimed, people have been rehired who have not published at all. The question is not one of excessive shoddy scholarship by anyone, but whether established criteria have been applied with equal vigor throughout the departments. Some view the recommendation of two of the four professors as further indication that the university apparatus is trying to "buy off" opposition to the dismissals by going half way. And some of the more cynical are suggesting that the Standards Committee action demonstrates that this was the University's game plan all along. The circumstances surrounding the selection of the Standards Committee is cited as evidence of this. The Standards Committee of the Arts college is composed of three members, each from a different field of general discipline (science, social science, and humanities). These members were to be elected last month by the Arts faculty. During the initial round of elections, the four leading candidates were Professors

Lack VPIRG Cause

Albee, Joffe, Muir, and Stanfield. Since Miller ran unopposed as the Humanities representative, the election was to be a runoff among Joffe, Albee, and Stanfield later last month. When the election date came, members of the Arts college protested that they had neither sufficient time nor information on the candidates to vote intelligently; the election was tabled until this

(continued on page thirteen)

Many Tots Severely Injured By Dangerous, Untested Toys

A five-year-old girl is listed in critical condition, suffering second and third degree burns; an eight-month-old infant is under observation after a foreign object was removed from her windpipe; and in a nearby hospital emergency room a child is being treated for a lacerated jaw.

These three children were victims of their own toys—toys that didn't care. The five-year-old had been baking cookies in her toy oven that reached surface temperatures of more than 400 degrees; she was fortunate she had not been electrocuted the way others had before her.

More than 700,000 children have been injured by toys with designed-in dangers, and an estimated 200,000 additional injuries occur every year—some permanently crippling and disfiguring and some more seriously damaging.

Indeed, toys don't care. And apparently neither do many toy manufacturers, or they would test articles for safety before marketing. It can also be assumed that government doesn't care or all items intended for use by children would be required to meet specific safety standards before distribution for sale.

But the hard cold fact of the matter is that a dangerous toy can be mass-produced, marketed, consumed, and sold without any testing, until it is finally proclaimed "banned" by the federal government.

But the nightmare of accidents, emergency rooms, and astronomical health care costs doesn't end there. The dangerous toy will likely remain on store shelves—available for sale—because the vast majority of retailers will not know it has been outlawed, and government seizure procedures are at best inadequate.

Last December, UVM students working with the Vermont Public Interest Research Group (VPIRG) discovered that six or more toys banned by the federal government for months were still on sale at four area department stores. The group's warnings came too late for many families that had already purchased their children's presents.

This year could be different. Volunteers are already preparing to check Burlington stores for the continued sale of banned toys. If outlawed toys are found, VPIRG will request the store manager to immediately remove the item from sale. Store officials who refuse to do so and who continue to sell an item, knowingly and willfully, are subject to both civil and criminal prosecution by the

UVM Celebrates October Fest. Story page 8

SPS Photo: Wynne Gold

Off-Campus Students Form Council For Tenants' Rights

by John Van Hoesen

"What can I do? Where can I live? How do I find people?" These are the unanswered questions posed to Weese Matthias, the Secretary of Student Activities, during each peak housing shortage period in Burlington. Last Thursday night, 25 students and interested persons met to discuss the issue of off-campus housing.

The Associates in Ministry are responding to the problem with a proposal to establish a tenants' council for off-campus students at the University. With approximately 4000 students living off-campus, the Associates feel a need to publish a handbook and coordinate an off-campus student center.

Of the Associates, Mr. Ted Stronach, and Mr. Al Lindahl are coordinating the tenants' council group. Their suggested handbook would contain the following: (1) a listing of agencies that service off-campus students; (2) a listing of community resources supplying basic needs; (3) a statement of tenants' rights; (4) a statement about student eligibility for food stamps, lower income housing, and other government programs; (5) a listing of off-campus students and their addresses; (6) suggestions to those looking for, and setting up an apartment.

An off-campus student center would be a crossroads for off-campus students. Possible functions would include courses in cooking and housekeeping, a matching roommate service, landlord evaluation, cooperative food plans, a staff to aid students in their search for an apartment, and numerous other functions. Students in attendance gave a favorable response to the suggestions. One student felt she was "neither a part of the Burlington community, nor a part of the UVM community." Another expressed that "UVM has a responsibility to off-campus students and is not doing a damn thing." Most agreed that the bulletin board is not as effective a mechanism as a council would be. The general feeling of the group was that finding roommates or an apartment would be much easier if both were registered with a tenants' council.

Two interrelated problems arose. Where would financing for a council be found, and would the Student Association recognize the assemblage?

The Associates are investigating the possibility of a grant from the Lily Foundation and other New England sources. However, the Associates would be able to supply a limited amount of funds to get the committee off the ground.

Bill Root, Director of Student Activities, asserted that "with 4000 students wanting something, S.A. would have to help out."

A representative from Legal Aid explained tenants' basic eviction rights, how to cope with high rents, heating problems and substandard housing conditions. These would be covered by a council.

More information concerning the tenants' council may be obtained from Ted Stronach, 863-6970; Al Lindahl, 863-3548; or Sue Amorosa, 93-N Union Street. Another general meeting to further discuss the mechanics of the council will be held Thursday, November 1, at 7:30 p.m. in Marsh Lounge, Billings Center.

Three Contenders Vie For Chairperson Of The Senate

by Kathy Stiasni

The October 23 Student Association Senate meeting opened with Sarah Funkhauser, Student Activities Secretary presiding, as chairperson since President Sig Heller was away due to a death in the family. Committee reports were highlighted by the announcement of a concert which will take place in Patrick Gym on Sunday, November 4, featuring Muddy Waters, Freddy King, and hopefully, a group called Atrine.

The next Senate business involved the nominations for chairperson of the Senate. The nominees are Senator Ed Pasquini, Senator Alan King and Steve Kollins, who is not a senator but is actively involved with the Student Association Senate.

In old business, Collie Chatterton spoke, representing the Student's International Meditation Society. She felt that Senate recognition will make the Meditation Society a more cohesive group. Collie discussed the relevance of Meditation to education and the necessity to dispell misconceptions concerning it. SIMS is planning to buy a house on Main Street and feels that its recognition by the Senate will help it to become a more integral part of university life. There is one drawback, however. Students who join SIMS must already have joined a potential organization which teaches meditation. Thus, students who wish to join SIMS must already have

(continued on page twelve).

Outspoken Miss Vermont Reflects On Changing Role Of Pageant

by Barbara Frankel

Joy Lynn McCraw, 22, who was Vermont's outgoing representative to the Miss America convention this year, recently discussed her views on the pageant, on "beauty contests," and on a variety of other subjects.

Joy Lynn, a graduate student in speech pathology at UVM, claims her main incentive for entering the competition stemmed from a need for money to continue her studies. She feels a lot of girls compete with the intention of getting as much prize money as they can. Joy Lynn received, on a statewide level, a $1000 scholarship and a $500 wardrobe for the contest in Atlantic City.

Although she has, of course, heard that in recent years the Miss America pageant and others like it are going out of style, Joy Lynn does not feel that it is the case. "Everyone in it was really involved and cared. There was every conceivable type of girl. The biggest change in recent years has been the fact that we realize we are not representing the majority of American youth; we are only representing ourselves," she commented.

Joy Lynn does not believe that a Miss America should smile pretty and keep her mouth shut. She is aware that most of her contemporaries were told not to say anything to the press, but she feels she was given a pretty free reign. She explained that because Vermont is a small state, it does not have the time or the money to "groom" a candidate. The Miss America pageant, according to Joy Lynn, is run by the larger south and mid-western states who invest a major effort into finding a "real Miss America".

These states frequently put their representatives through rigorous training, instructing them in matters of hair, makeup, clothing, and, more important, ideas. Joy Lynn commended the state of Vermont for allowing her to freely express her own opinions.

She feels the pageant is an excellent experience because being in the public eye so much, a girl "will either sink or swim". Most of the girls she met were very enthusiastic, although, she explained, all were under a severe strain, with problems ranging from harassment, obscene threats, to "physically grueling work". Joy Lynn felt most of the girls got along well and she saw no signs of racism among the contestants. There was only one black candidate this year, Miss Kentucky.

SPS Photo: Greg Bobbin

"The pageant has really changed so much in recent years," she stated. "It is not anti-women's lib, by any means. What people don't understand is that the Miss America pageant is the way it is largely because of television." That is the reason why the controversial swimsuit competition has continued, according to Joy Lynn. She

(continued on page nine).

Redstone Hall To Close

Redstone will close on Sunday because of dangerous fumes that are permeating the building. A hazardous methane gas is being emitted through the plumbing system.

Redstone residents will be given two options. The girls may move into lounges in Harris-Millis, or they can obtain a housing contract refund. The refund would be computed according to the date they vacate the building.

Dr. Keith Miser, Director of Residence Halls, said that these problems were not foreseen in September. Hopefully, Redstone will be repaired in two years after undergoing complete renovation.

In This Week's Cynic:

The Inside Scoop On WRUV-AM, p. 13

Creative Writing Contest Details, p. 3

Table of Contents

Arts and Entertainment p. 6
Calendar/Announcements p. 2

Crossword Puzzle p. 8
Cryptoquots p. 3
Doctor's Bag p. 10

Editorials p. 4
Op. Ed. p. 5
"The Good Times" p. 7

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar

Presents...

Advance Enrollment Card turn in starts next week in Billings Center, Marsh Lounge. 9:00 A.M. - 12 Noon and 1:30 P.M. Turn in your completed, advisor signed cards early in the week and avoid the late week lines. Card turn in ends November 2.

November 2 is the deadline for Student Photo ID picture taking in Billings Center.

Spiritual Discourse

Rubani Sataang, the spiritual gathering of the 15th of the Masters, is holding weekly meetings, 8:00 p.m. Tuesday nights at the University's Counseling and Testing building on the corner of Main and South Williams Streets. All are welcome to hear these discourses on spirituality and tapes of a Living Master, Kirpal Singh.

Second Annual UVM Ski Show

When the thermometer falls below 32 degrees, it's time for snow; when it's time for snow, it's time for skiing! All those hoping to rush an early season are invited to attend the second annual UVM Ski Show.

There will be people to meet and movies to see, even older and granola to satisfy the appetite. The featured event of the day will be the used equipment sale sponsored by the new UVM Ski Club. Those wishing to sell ski equipment, nordic and alpine, are asked to bring it to Wright dining hall at 9:00 a.m. the day of the show.

Sellers set their own prices and 15% goes to the ski club.

So come talk skiing with the local ski shops and see the newest in alpine and cross-country clothes and equipment. Meet representatives from all the major ski areas in northern Vermont and sharpen your technique before the snow falls!

It's all happening Saturday, November 3rd from 1:00 - 9:00 p.m. in Wright Dining Hall—a potpourri of movies, ski, and skiers. It's all FREE and you are all invited, so come on down!

Enter The Raft Race On Wheels

Plans for St. Anselm's Fall Nationals, UVM's new raft race on wheels, are rolling along nicely as the day of the race is drawing closer. November 3rd is only a little over a week away, so you can't delay in getting your entry in and building the car. Entry blanks can be found in Billings Center, St. Anselm's Chapel, in the CYNIC, or from your local R.A. Rules for building the car can be found on the entry blank.

If anyone has been over to Deforest Road, the site of the race, just one block west of Redstone Green, you will surely agree that the winding steep hill will certainly provide a lot of excitement for the drivers going down it, and the people watching. A few people have even gone so far as to call the course "treacherous." It will definitely provide a challenge for all those who are vying for the winning trophy and prizes. Although Vermont laws prevent advertising the prizes that will given out for the first, second, and third place winners, as well as one for the booty prize, 20, has been learned that the prizes will be more than adequate in enabling the winners to celebrate their victory.

All the proceeds raised from the race will go to the Office of Volunteer Programs (OVP) at UVM. The funds will be instrumental in enabling many volunteer projects which meet the needs of the community, to continue their existence. Projects such as the King Street and Urban Youth Centers, the Big Brother/Sister Program, the Free Breakfast program and others are in desperate need of funds to keep functioning. By entering the race you can do an important part in supporting the work of students in the community.

St. Anselm's Chapel, who is sponsoring and running the race, could use some help for its race committee. If anyone is interested in getting involved and helping to put the race on, they should contact Chaplain Ode.

Application Blank

Enclosed is my $10 to enter the soap box derby race (Check can be payable to St. Anselm's Chapel)

The name of the group entering (which will also appear on the car)

Signature and address of person who will be representative for group and car. (All info about race details will be sent to this person)

P. J. Jones

Auditions

All university students are invited to try out for P.J. Jones, a play written and directed by Darryle Lloyd about drug addiction in Harlem and sponsored by the Third World Organization. Auditions will be held today and tomorrow, October 25 and 26, at 7:30 p.m. in room 115 of the Commons Building at the Living/Learning Center. Acting experience is not necessary. People are also needed to work behind the scenes on scenery, props, make-up, lighting, etc.

Organization

Recognition

All organizations wishing to maintain recognition or all those organizations wishing to be recognized by the Student Association, must pick up the appropriate forms at the Student Association Office. These forms must be returned to the Student Association Office no later than 4:00 p.m. October 29, 1973.

English Majors

Hold Meeting

At 8:00 p.m. on Thursday, November 1, there will be an informal meeting in Dewey Lounge, Old Mill, for all English majors, regardless of year, who are interested in applying to graduate schools. Professors Lee Jones and Bill Stephany will provide information and answer questions.

UVM Horse Club To Sponsor Polo Clinic

by Meo Hilly
The UVM Horse Club will bring polo to UVM as the first of its series of clinics this year. After the successful barn warming and Parents' Weekend exhibition held at the Spear Street Stable, the polo weekend seems a proper follow-up for Horse Club activities.

President of the Intercollegiate Polo Association and member of the Sugarbush Polo Club, Mr. Gerald Hilly, will conduct the clinic this Saturday at the clinic this Saturday at the Spear Street Animal Science Farm. The clinic will begin with a training film at 2:00 p.m.; then participants will move into the stable to learn the proper way to equip horse and rider with polo paraphernalia. Learning of the game follows, indoors or out. Resident polo ponies Friendly and Daisy will assist Mr. Hilly and the Horse Club's own polo player, Tom Wheeler, with the clinic.

Polo is by no means new to the area; the fields at Fort Ethan Allen used to be played on, and Norwich Academy played polo years ago. Today polo is played as close as Colchester and Waitsfield. The Waitsfield "Sugarbush" team is a member of the National Polo Association.

Still an active college sport, polo is growing at schools across the U.S. Teams compete for the Intercollegiate Championship each year. The University of Connecticut is the present champion over Cornell, Harvard, the University of Virginia, Texas A & M, and Yale.

All interested spectators and future polo players are invited to both the Polo Clinic Saturday at 2:00 p.m. and the Exhibition Game Sunday at 2:00 p.m. (The Sugarbush team will show us what polo is really like on Sunday.) If you still haven't been down to the Animal Science Farm, this is your excuse to go.

For information call Meo Hilly at 656-2592.

Dr. Jeralyn Prior of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., who has visited China to study the health care system there, Carpenter Auditorium, Given Medical Bldg., sponsored by the Vermont Health Rights Committee.

9 - 11:30 p.m., "Roundhouse", informal entertainment with folk music and piano in a coffee house atmosphere, Roundroom, Billings Center.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27
7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SAFilms presents "Bullets or Ballots," Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg., admission 50 cents.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 28
8 p.m., SAFilms presents "Seven Chances," B-106 Cook Physical Sciences Bldg.
7-9 p.m., opening at Everyone's Gallery, Bldg. B, Room 161 Living/Learning Center, of a cloth show, featuring batik, weaving, etc. The show will be open through Nov. 2. Mon-Fri. hours: 3 to 10 p.m., 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays, admission free. Sponsor is the art education program.

Pre-enrollment for the spring semester will take place Oct. 29 - Nov. 2 for currently enrolled undergraduates.

The box office is open weekdays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Ext. 2094, for "The Lady's Not for Burning," which will run Nov. 1-5 at the Arena Theatre, directed by Prof. Nancy. (continued on page three)

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE

Route 2, Williston, Vt. 642-7666

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

- Fine work on American cars
- Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
- Front end alignment • Spin balancing
- Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

Tires for most foreign cars in stock or readily available

New SEMPERIT VW Bug tires $19.95 + $1.79 FET

VW BRAKE JOB

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL VW Bug Brake $34.95 Spin Balance $2.50 per Wheel Front End Alignment $10

DOMINO'S PIZZA

DOMINO'S AD CONTEST

* PRIZES THAT THE WHOLE FAMILY WILL BITE INTO AND ENJOY

* QUICK FAME

* RESPECT FROM YOUR FRIENDS

* A NEW OUTLOOK LIFE

* NEW CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

* & MORE!!!

DETAILS IN THIS SPACE IN NEXT WEEK'S CYNIC

864-7444

658-3333

WILLISTON ROAD

NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

50c OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Expires OCT. 31, 1973

Name _____

Address _____

Phone _____

Void if not completed

1 Coupon per pizza

Cheers!

It's the real thing. Coke.

Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

AAAAAA
VVVVVVVVVV

Concentration Farm
Riding Stable; Open Year
Around - Trail Riding
Instruction - May Sat
Climb Rides - Sun Shop
Shoeing - Sales
Boarding - Reasonable
Rates - Indoor Arena
South Hero 372-4067.

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics
$2.75 per page
Send for your up-to-date, 160-page
mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00
to cover postage (delivery time is 1 to 2 days).

RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.

11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2
LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493

Our research material is sold for research assistance only.

CORGLER

1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.
bedspreads, rugs, pillows,
tapestries, chess sets, boxes,
leather hats, bags, wine racks,
silver, turquoise and bone
jewelry, candles, oils, incense,
toiletries, occult books, mugs,
tea sets, planters, statues, wall
hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, bookends, shirts, dresses
and blouses from India,
Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria,
Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania,
Nepal and other places near
and far.

Haynes
VISTA PEACE CORPS
from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Placement Office, Marsh Lounge, 1st floor, 1st
lobby of Marsh Life Sciences
Building. See for more information.

MONDAY

9 a.m. - 4 p.m. VISTA at the Placement Office, Marsh
Lounge, 1st floor, 1st
lobby of Marsh Life Sciences
Building. See for more information.

4 p.m. Phi Beta Kappa meeting, Dewey Lounge, Old Mill, 1st floor, 1st lobby of Marsh Life Sciences Building.

at 4:30 in the Faculty Lounge

7:30 and 9:30 p.m. S.A.

Jack "The Commons" List

free

7 p.m. Kilmistrip, Gail

Informal discussion, Dewey

Food for Thought, present

All welcome, Conference Rm.

7:30 p.m. "Last Chance

Nadworny, Economics, Pat

lectures in which the lecture

TUESDAY

9 a.m. - 4 p.m. VISTA

at the Placement Office, Marsh

6:30 p.m. S.A. Senate

Center

7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

Hitchcock's "The 39 Steps

25 cents

7:30 p.m. "Emptier

bible inquiry, lounge of Marsh

WEDNESDAY

9 a.m. - 4 p.m. VISTA

at the Placement Office, Marsh

11:30 a.m. and 12:30

Board presents the film,

"Bridge," in Billings Center.

12 noon, Prayer-session

Center, Ted Stronach, Asst.

of the Dept. of Housing and

12 noon, UVM Women floor Waterman (either in the Phi Beta Kappa Room)

1:30 p.m. UVM Work

Uccello, director of consular

Transportation, Memorial

formal presentation, work with Miss Uccello on topics

4:5 p.m. radiology experiences in San Francisco

Fletcher Unit, Medical Center

7:30 p.m. English Majors poetry reading by Linda

Ragan, Dewey Lounge, Old

8:30-11 p.m. UVM

Southwick; free and open

THURSDAY

10:50 a.m. Chemistry

G.E. Schenckelady, N.Y.

Transport in Translation

Bldg.

(continued from page two)

Haven

VISTA/PEACE CORPS recruiters will be on campus from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Oct. 29, 30, and 31 with offices at the Placement Office, Mansfield House.

Botany 151 invites campus to show "curriculum vitae" lobby of Merrill Life Sciences Building, up for the next three weeks. See for yourself what a curriculum is!

MONDAY, OCTOBER 29

9 a.m. - 4 p.m. VISTA/PEACE CORPS recruiters will be at the Placement Office, Mansfield House.

9 p.m., about Melvin Kaplan will give another in his series of lectures, this one on "Ensemble Technique" at Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Mr. Kaplan is a member of the Julliard faculty and founder/director of the New York Chamber Soloists. Sponsored by the music department.

4 p.m., Phi Beta Kappa members gather for an election meeting, Dewey Lounge, Old Mill. Initiation will be Nov. 5, at 4:30 in the Faculty Lounge, Waterman.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., SAFILMS presents "I'm All Right, Jack." The Commons, Living/Learning Center, admission free.

7 p.m., Filmstrip "God Speaks Again" followed by informal discussion - Questions & answers, literature, Food for Thought, presented by the Beta Club of UVM. All welcome, Conference Rm C, Billings.

7:30 p.m., "Last Chance Lecture," by Prof. Milton Nadworny, Economics, Patterson Hall, fourth in a series of lectures in which the lecturer presents this is his last.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30

9 a.m. - 4 p.m., VISTA/PEACE CORPS recruiters will be at the Placement Office, Mansfield House.

8:30 p.m., S.A. Senate meets, Marsh Lounge, Billings Center.

7:30 and 9:30 p.m., S.A. Films presents Alfred Hitchcock's "The 39 Steps," B-106 Cook Bldg., admission 25 cents.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters gather for gospel music and bible inquiry, lounge of Marsh-Austin-Tupper halls.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31

9 a.m. - 4 p.m., VISTA/PEACE CORPS recruiters will be at the Placement Office, Mansfield House.

11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., Billings Center Governing Board presents the film, "An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge," in Billings Center, North Lounge.

12 noon, Prayer session in Conference Room C, Billings Center, Ted Stronach, Associates in Ministry (AIM), "Out of the Depths: Healing and Brokenness."

12 noon, UVM Women's Caucus planning session, fifth floor Waterman (either in the President's dining room or the Phi Beta Kappa Room), bring your own lunch.

3:30 p.m., UVM Women's Caucus hosts Miss Ann Uccello, director of consumer affairs, U.S. Department of Transportation, Memorial Lounge, Waterman Bldg. No formal presentation - women especially are invited to talk with Miss Uccello on topics of common concern.

4-5 p.m., radiology conference, Dr. Brown, "Recent Experiences in San Francisco," Austin Auditorium, Mary Fletcher Unit, Medical Center Hospital of Vermont.

7:30 p.m., English Majors' Evening Seminar, a student poetry reading by Linda Kittell, Laurie Powers and Larry Ragan, Dewey Lounge, Old Mill.

8:30-11 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets at Southwick, free and open to all.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1

10:30 a.m., Chemistry colloquium, Dr. L.V. Interrante, G.E. Schenectady, N.Y., "One Dimensional Electron Transport in Transition Metal Complexes," B-112 Cook Bldg.

Polo Clinic

across the U.S. Teams compete for the Intercollegiate Championship each year. The University of Connecticut is the present champion over Cornell, Harvard, the University of Virginia, Texas A & M, and Yale.

All interested spectators and future polo players are invited to both the Polo Clinic Saturday at 2:00 p.m. and the Exhibition Game Sunday at 2:00 p.m. (The Sugarbush team will show us what polo is really like on Sunday.) If you still haven't been down to the Animal Science Farm, this is your excuse to go. For information call Meg Hilly at 656-2592.

ceptic, N.Y., who has visited care system there, Carpenter Bldg., sponsored by the committee.

house," informal entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere.

OCTOBER 27

SAFILMS presents "Bullets or Bribes," Marsh Life Sciences Bldg.

OCTOBER 28

Keaton's "Seven Chances," Bldg.

one's Gallery, Bldg. B, Room 10, of a cloth show, featuring will be open through Nov. 2, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays, art education program.

semester will take place Oct. 29-30, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Ext. 100, "The Burning," which will run daily, directed by Prof. Nancy.

entertainment, Farm Riding Stable, Open Year Around - Trail Riding Instructions - Hay & Sleigh Rides - Tack Shop - Shoeing - Sales - Boarding - Reasonable Rates - Indoor Arena, South Hero 372-4067.

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics $2.75 per page. Send for your up-to-date, 160-page, mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage (delivery time is 1 to 2 days).

RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC. 11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2 LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025 213/477-8474 or 477-5493. Our research material is sold for research assistance only.

CORGULE

1301 Shelburne Rd. So. Burlington, Vt. bedspreads, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chen sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, winekins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statuettes, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

German House Planned

Looking for an academic challenge or change of pace? Why not "live and learn" German in the German House?

The German House, one of the programs in the new Living-Learning Center, provides more than living quarters with ethnic atmosphere. It includes an intensive language course which covers in one semester the work normally done in four regular semesters (i.e. two semesters of elementary and two semesters of intermediate German). Students participating in the program have twenty hours of instruction per week in the classroom and language laboratory. By living together in several units of the Center with German-speaking advisers, they are able to practice what they have learned in the classroom. The advisers also coordinate a variety of activities aimed at offering supplementary information about Germany, her people and their way of life.

The one-semester course carries 14 credits; students enrolled in the program may take only physical education as an "outside" course. The program is open to all men and women who have had no previous college-level German.

The course can fulfill a variety of needs, but should be particularly useful for prospective German majors, as well as for those who must fulfill language requirements in other departments. It is also excellent preparation for students who might wish to spend their Junior year in Salzburg, Austria. (The Junior-Year-in-Salzburg program is open to students in all disciplines, incidentally, not just to German majors.)

Students interested in the German House should contact Prof. Veronica Richel, Department of German and Russian, Waterman 416.

Everyone's Gallery

"Works in Cloth" opening Sunday, October 28. The showing continues October 29 to November 2 in Building "B" Room 161, Living/Learning Center. The hours are 9 a.m. - 7 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

Openings: 7-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 3-8 p.m. Saturday; 10-1 p.m.

OZ Productions Presents First Live Band

OZ Productions, who brings you OZ Discotique (this Thursday, Friday, and Sunday nights) will feature Sunday, Oct. 28, its first live band in the North Lounge, at Billings Center. "Black Dog," a rock band from the southern part of Vermont (Springfield) will be there this Sunday, starting at 8:00 p.m.

"Black Dog" is not well-known in the northern part of Vermont; but has played at schools in New Hampshire, (Dartmouth, UNH) and Massachusetts. It will be something that you wouldn't want to miss. Admission will be $2.75. Refreshments will be available (Punch, potato chips, etc.).

Thursdays and Friday's admission will still be a waistline (i.e., a 29" waist pays 29 cents). Sunday will probably be the nights that a band will appear and we still have records playing on those nights also. Other bands besides "Black Dog" that are lined up are "Trolley" and an out of state band, "Sticks".

So come on out, and give your support. Come all three days, and shake a leg! OZ wants YOU!

Events At St. Anselm's

SERVICES: Holy Communion-Sunday: 11:00 a.m., Tuesday-10:00 p.m. (Services Episcopal-all denominations welcome!)

Morning Prayer-Mon.-Friday-9:00 a.m. (Ten minute Ecumenical Service sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant and Roman Catholic Chaplaincies) CHOIR: Thursday-6:00-7:30

DISCUSSION GROUP: Friday-6:30, Burgess Lounge. Group of interested students led by Chaplain Odie who discuss and raise whatever questions, concerns, doubts, and remarks they may have about their faith, religion, church, or life as a student.

Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

The more volunteers—the merrier, and the less time any one person would have to

church, or life as a student. Anyone is welcome to join HELP NEEDED: The St. Anselm's Volunteer Corp has been started. This is a task force of volunteers who will "man" the Chapel during the day to answer the phone and greet people who come in. It involves no real work and would be a good way to "schedule" study time. If you could help out a few hours a week or whatever time you may have, contact Chaplain Odie, 656-3882 or 864-6354.

Folk Dance Halloween Party

The UVM Folk Dance Club is sponsoring a Halloween Party on Saturday, October 27. It will begin with a hayride and bonfire, and continue inside with costumes, bobbing for apples, a gypsy fortune-teller, games, a spook house, refreshments, music, and dancing. You don't need to know how to folk dance, there will be teaching, and plenty of other entertainment for everyone.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hayride will meet 7:00 PM in front of Southwick Gym on the Redstone Campus to ride out to the farm. Cost for the hayride is one dollar per person. The party will start at 8:30 in Southwick Ballroom (upstairs), cost will be 50 cents for non-members, free for members. To reserve a place on the hayride, or for any other information, call 862-9506.

People going on the hay

Editorial

Nixon Is Running Scared

According to White House Chief of Staff, General Alexander Haig, Nixon's astonishing decision to surrender the Watergate tapes was prompted by concern over the public sentiment against the President's original refusal to surrender said tapes.

However, though this action may serve to smother some of the cries of impeachment that are filling the air, the Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee has said that action relating to proposals of impeachment will continue.

And that is the crux of the matter. Apparently it is not the furor that erupted over Nixon's cold-blooded decision to fire Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox that forced the President's hand. Nor was it the reaction of outrage over the firing of Ruckelshaus and the resignation of Attorney General Richardson. But one thing, and one thing only, could have forced Nixon's decision. Public opinion!

Incredible! What about Nixon's legal reasons for refusing to reveal the tapes? What about all the foreign leaders who fear that private conversations with the President may become known to those outside the Oval Office? What happened to the comparison of the conversations as being just as private as "a priest and a penitent at confession"? What happened, Mr. President?

It is ludicrous to suppose that public sentiment could be the only reason for the change. No, what has happened is that Nixon is afraid of one thing—impeachment. He is backing down from his stand because he is afraid to fight any longer. Forget about the rights of God knows how many people. Forget about the dangerous precedent. The President is making. Forget about the privacy and international security.

The President of the United States won't stand up for what he feels is right any longer, because he might lose. Did it stop Andrew Johnson? No! Jefferson? No! Why should it stop Richard Nixon?

Either he is a fool not to have handed over the tapes when this all started, or else he is a coward for not sticking to his guns. And the last thing we need is a fool, or a coward, in the White House.

M. M. H.

Opinion-Makers Create Crises

by Tom E. McCormick, '75

The opinion-makers may finally be right. They have created crises after crises—population, pollution (air, water, noise), the Mid-East, the Far East, Watergate, energy (oil, electricity, natural gas), Agnew—and they may have the biggest crisis of them all on their hands. But like Dr. Frankenstein, they don't know they've created a monster. Although many people think that the firing of Archibald Cox is a crisis, the real crisis is the confidence crisis. People are losing their faith in government.

It's like the person who constantly worries about being sick, and as a consequence develops an ulcer and is sick. Well, television, and journalism in general, has talked crisis so much that there may finally be one.

TV thrives on crisis. It is, after all, an entertainment medium. And it seems to be caught up in the classic formula of conflict, crisis, and resolution. The news has to capture people's attention. Because it competes with Gunsmoke and Perry Mason re-runs, the producers try to make it as thrilling and exciting as possible. They're trying to hold an audience—not inform it. That's the reason "burn, baby, burn" black activists got more attention than a meeting of NAACP lawyers.

Tabloids, like the Philadelphia Enquirer and the New York Daily News, print exciting, rather than necessarily important, stories. Their basic come-ons are sex and violence. Sex is still taboo on the tube, but violence surely isn't. While TV attempts to maintain its image as an informative medium, "straight" news stories have to wrestle with the more dramatic and exciting stories for air time. That presents a problem. One doesn't expect senators to box in the corridors every day. So what are reporters to do? They have tended to find a conflict, e.g., Watergate, and then magnify its importance by labeling it a crisis.

The problem with that technique is that it is either unbelievable or self-fulfilling. To begin with, if any reporter believed what he was saying then his only appropriate response would be to tuck his head between his legs and hope that the nation's institutions didn't crumble down on his head. But David Brinkley and Walter Cronkite have announced every crisis of the last decade.

There's also the possibility that while the observation was originally a fiction, it might indeed come true, i.e., the country may have talked itself into trouble. When Watergate began, it was troublesome, but not disastrous. But it is now becoming disastrous. The country has no effective leadership, because the president is not allowed to lead. It has no vice-president. Now, we have no attorney-general.

But we do have plenty of disorder. And hoards of people yelling for Mr. Nixon's impeachment. But impeachment won't be a panacea for the ills of the nation. It might solve the Watergate Dilemma, but it doesn't heal the confidence crisis. For instance, it doesn't seem that President Ford (presumably) would have the strength to deal with the growing Mid-East War.

Yet impeachment seems to be the stock editorial and political cry. The politicians and newsmen are rather like the little boys who shove snowballs down the mountain, without worrying about the villagers below.

Impeachment will get us a new president, but it won't restore confidence in government. And that's what's really important.

Letters To The Editor

Support Arabs As Well

To The Editor:

I just read with disappointment the lead article in last week's issue which claims that the university community has found itself and has reunited behind Israel. Please count us out of this ethnocentric ego trip. I have news for some narrow minded people: the Arabs are also human beings, who want to live peacefully in their homeland and not be exploited. If the Jewish appeal were on "the human level" as it is claimed, why aren't these humanitarians raising funds for the thousands of Arab women and children bombed by the Israelis in their homes, schools, and hospitals? Why have these humanitarians never spoken out against Israel's napalming of Arab peasants? It is important to note that the Arabs are attacking military targets in land taken from them in 1967. Several times the U.N. has voted that Israel should give back this land in the name of peace and international justice. Israel has not. Now Israel responds to the Arab attempt to take back its own land with inhuman bombing raids on Arab urban

D. Hoffman and C. Douglas

Unnecessary Sport

To The Editor:

Recently, two residents of Davis Hall have been developing their archery skill by killing gray squirrels on the grounds of the Burlington Country Club, adjacent to Redstone Campus. The animals killed were not consumed or used for any scientific purpose, but were simply wasted. The U.V.M. Student Chapter of the Wildlife Society deplors this waste of a wildlife resource. These animals are a source of aesthetic enjoyment for the many people who use the County Club area, and as such should not be subject to the whims of a selfish few.

Where Is The Albatross?

To The Editor:

Where is the Albatross now that we need it?

The Professor and Course evaluation program and published booklet which was done three years ago would be helpful in evaluating the Philosophy Four case right now, but where is it?

I was faculty advisor and manager of the Albatross for its first two years when I was Protestant Campus

Minister. Once the project got started, we turned it over to the SA and the UVM administration to continue—and it never appeared!

The new Associates in Ministry (successor to the old Campus Ministry) has asked me to research the causes of the untimely death of the Albatross and to propose alternative resurrections. Accordingly, I would like to hear from anyone—student, faculty, administrators—who has opinions about either the past, present, or future of the Albatross.

Present alternatives range from a simple self-help program optionally available to individual professors, through a variety of alternatives to a foundation-supported autonomous and self-sustaining privately published booklet with a $100,000 budget, and a paid, full-time editorial staff.

What do you think we need at UVM? Please write (do NOT call): The New Albatross, at 389 College Street, Burlington, Vt. 05401; or, c/o AIM, Box 28, Waterman Building. I hope to hear from you soon.

John D. Perry, Jr.

The U.V.M. Wildlife Society Student Chapter Robert Stafford, Pres.

LATE SEPTEMBER

the parking meters were beyond violation the trucks had been gassed up and were gone
I lost my last dime in a payphone
I feared I was now losing my mind

I stood there alone with the streetlamps kicking the curb with my boots thinking how much more I would love Abe Lincoln if he had dressed in a grey mohair suit

you see I had ordered a pizza
but it seemed like it wasn't gonna show
I had tried to call up the Driver all I got was that famous thief Domino

the sun hung like a big red apple
a yellow haze dripped off of the moon
I didn't know if it was late september or three o'clock in the afternoon

Elliot Freeman

"Hume", A New Pronoun

by Melanie Choukas

We need a new set of pronouns in the English language. Even if women were to gain full legal and social equality, they would remain unequal in a more deep-rooted way—within our own language. This should be apparent to anyone aware of the subtler aspects of sexism. Tune in to any conversation, peruse any written page, and one is confronted with a bombardment of "he's", "him's", and "his's" (capitalized in the Bible; The Judeo-Christian God is a "He").

Women and men conscious of this problem have reverted to awkward solutions. The "he/she" or "she/he" is clumsy to write and ridiculous in conversation. In order to avoid this, some even pervert grammar and use "they" and "them" for the singular when sex is unknown or irrelevant.

I have been bothered by this seemingly petty problem for some time. Because it is petty, we should deal with it and dispense with it, so we will not have to continue with the makeshift alternatives mentioned above, or forget the problem altogether, in which case women would have to stomach the fact that they are unequal in a very rudimentary aspect of their own language. I will not accept either of these alternatives and I trust I am not alone.

For months my mind babbled monosyllabic absurdities in an attempt to come up with a new set of pronouns. Finally I hit upon a very good, semantically logical possibility. Our word "human" embraces "man" and "woman" and is also a pleasant sounding word. I played with it and came up with this:

"Hu" for he/she
"Hume" for him/her
"Huse" for hers/his

If you have ever gotten a nonsense syllable stuck in your head you know the absurdity of a word without meaning. The beauty of these words is that although they sound strange at first, they are derivatives of a very essential English word and it takes little time to believe in their meaning.

I am not suggesting that we do away with he and she. "Hu" would only be used when in doubt of sex or when one is talking about a hypothetical individual. What do you think? Write reactions or other possibilities to the CYNIC or call me at 864-4884.

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

© COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES BOX 9411-BERKELEY, CA 94709

What Next Can We Expect From Our President?

TRE from Washington

Richard Nixon has thrown away his election mandate more quickly and completely than any other President in history. It is something to consider as the anniversary of his great political landslide approaches.

Mr. Nixon's trouble is self-induced unlike the trouble of the unfortunate Herbert Hoover who was rolled over by the 1929 depression. Unlike Hoover, Nixon did it alone and unaided. This is no mean feat for any man.

Generally election winners make conciliatory statements and try to heal wounds. All the more reason for Mr. Nixon to have done this in 1972 because those of the electorate who bothered to vote showed a strong preference for the Democrats over Congress that they didn't care for him very much. But being magnanimous isn't easy to do when you live in a mansion that is like a beaupied palace and when you consider your critics have bare motives. In a historic interview published on the heels of his victory, Mr. Nixon continued his attack on the "breakdown" of the "leadership class," characterized the "average American" as "just like the child in the family," and gave a promise of a "strong" foreign policy (which rather makes you shudder in today's Middle East war).

Mr. Nixon misinterpreted the mood of the country and his own election mandate. He had a chance to end his isolation, to disband his conspiratorial clique and to mellow in victory. He didn't. He was as aloof as ever, held no more press conferences, let few congressmen past his guards.

In short, the Haldemann-Ehrlichmann regime was stronger than ever. The President showed a kind of zest in provoking former opponents. He seemed eager to hit Congress before it hit him. He put forward extraordinary claims of impoundment and of executive privilege, and without waiting for the consent of Congress, undertook the consolidation of the Cabinet into super-posts watched over by agents from the inner network.

It wasn't really Watergate that toppled the apple cart, I think; it was a manifestation of the spirit that surrounded the whole Administration. You can pick out your own example. The claim of John Marshall of "inherent right" to tap wires without judicial approval (thrown out unanimously by the Supreme Court); the argument by Attorney General Kleindienst that none of the 2.5 million Federal employees need testify to Congress "if the President so commands"; the activities of eager little Howard Phillips, acting director of OEO, to dismantle that poor man's agency before Congress could stop him.

What a change in one year. Who could have believed it then? Mitchell, Stans, Ehrlichmann, Haldemann all gone. Then Agnew. I patted up on my wall a page from a newspaper, dated May 26, with pictures of the whole Watergate crew. One by one I crossed them out with a red pencil. Eighteen—all gone. Some are waiting trial, some indicted, some in jail.

It began before Watergate, however; before the election. Jimmy Hoffa had his sentence suddenly commuted by the President; the Teamsters made nice contributions to the campaign. There was ITT; the dairy case; the delivery of $200,000 in cash by an agent of international financial freebooter Vesco. The wiretaps, the break-ins, the sneaky bit of telling the judge in the Ellsberg case that he was being considered to be FBI chief. It went on and on.

The public is sick and tired of it. It wants out. A year ago there was a cheerful reaction as there is after every election, and many Democrats joined in. The atmosphere cleared; they said, and the nation could go back to normal. It didn't turn out that way. Think of the strange, quirky taboos we have had recently.

Elliott Richardson, the Boston blueblood, on national television, praising Agnew for resigning as though he were a public benefactor instead of a crook... Mr. Nixon festively announcing the name of Jerry Ford, as merry as a jig on a coffin. (Thank God, the Supreme Court stayed away). After that Ford himself in various interviews—the likeable Congressional second-rater, who will never overshadow the President nor worry about the poor. Most recent scene—the final pathetic, boring speech of broken Spiro Agnew.

You say to yourself, this can't last, this is over now; thank heaven we are through the woods!

That isn't the end perhaps. Questions, like flies, swarm around Mr. Nixon's finances. The sullen, cynical public is already to believe anything now. Would a man who set up a personal White House secret police (the "plumbers"), who bombed Cambodia without authorization from Congress, who utilized a surreptitious taping system for Oval office visitors and then interpreted his "inherent powers" to justify withholding evidence, who conveniently managed to know nothing about Watergate—would he manage to be ignorant also about other financial oddities?

Mr. Nixon has been living rather regally. He has that home on Pennsylvania Avenue, the Catocin mountain retreat, some hideaways with rich friends off shore, and the Florida and California "White Houses". On a $200,000 salary it appears that he almost avoided income tax by spreading the gift exemption of his donation of Vice Presidential papers over several years. He bought his San Clemente property with advances from kind friends Rebozo and Abplanalp. Did he pay capital gains of the appreciation? People are wondering. There are other matters. Billionaire Howard Hughes, who likes to help politicians, once made a famous loan of $205,000 to Donald Nixon, brother of the then Vice President, secured by a family-owned lot assessed at $13,000. So far as is known, it was never repaid. Now, in sworn testimony it is asserted that Hughes made two deliveries of cash, each of $50,000, to Rebozo, in 1969 and 1970, " earmarked" for the President; presumably campaign funds.

But Rebozo put them in a safe for three years, not drawing interest, and he only recently refunded them. Mr. Nixon was "unaware" of the transaction. A disgruntled former Hughes aide, Robert Mahou, is now suing Hughes and it will all be in the Los Angeles courts this month. The Ervin committee has been mooching around. The show goes on.

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS MANAGER Barbara Frankel '75
ASSISTANT EDITOR Ruth Hay '74
MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74
NEWS EDITOR Bruce Maddern '76
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lisa Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75
ASSISTANT FEATURE EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
SPORTS EDITOR Loren Wilson '74
ADVERTISING MANAGER

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Doug Beardsley, Dave Campagne, Bill Campbell, Randy Jansen, Jill Markess, Dawn McGinnis, Andrew Morse, Wendy Nelson, Laurie Rapp, Kathy Stasini, John Van Hoesen.
FEATURE: Sam Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Carol Dufault, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Olshan, Karen Trott.
COLUMNISTS: Scott Cahoon, John Franco, Elliott Freeman, Alan King, Ron MacNeil, Steven Rice, Jeff Ryback, Scott Sweeney.
SPORTS: Ed Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Andy Morse, Alan Palashnick, Norm Robinson, Mike Schwartz, Rob Wilenski.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaffer.
PRODUCTION: Eileen Driscoll, Camlyn Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valvrou, Joan Westcott.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

VPURGE Goes To The Bathroom

by Scott Cahoon

VPURGE (Very Pleased-Off Users of Restrooms and Gastronomic Enemas) has just released its Toilet Report, a comprehensive study of Bathrooms, Rest rooms, and Outhouses in and around the Burlington area. It contains some very interesting facts which I think are worth chewing over. Taking a crap is one of the few activities which is universal to all people everywhere, yet it remains one of the most neglected. The New York TIMES never editorializes on the need for better bathrooms. Medical journals have more articles on the plague than on the runs. PLAYBOY has never pictured a playmate on the toilet. The Ford Foundation never grants money for the rejuvenation of rancid restrooms. Those of us who learn about life from TV are at a disadvantage since we are never reminded of one of the most important, pleasurable, and enlightening experiences of all. Forgetting to go to the bathroom is like forgetting to put on your boots when you're shoveling out the pigsty.

A great number of social ills are traceable to bad bathroom service. How many deep-seated frustrations are a result of just dying to go, walking into a restroom and finding oneself with an empty pocket facing a row of pay toilets. How many eyes have been strained from trying to read graffiti that the janitor has partially rubbed out? How many have caught colds from getting soaked when the toilet in the upstairs apartment overflowed? How many criminals began with stealing the toilet paper from gas station restrooms? How many perverts started by calling 423-5698 for a good time? Remember, Protestantism was started by a constipated priest.

Here follows a sampling of the VPURGE Toilet Report. It is divided into four sections, the first of which is:

GAS STATIONS

Perhaps the most common and familiar of public toilets, gas station restrooms are notorious for being out of toilet paper and paper towels. In all the gas stations surveyed, 58% had no toilet paper, 69% had no paper towels, 43% had neither, and 23% provided a Sears and Roebuck catalogue. In 93% of the gas stations, one needed a key to enter the restroom. In the other 7%, one needed to ask directions from a 53 year-old, oil smeared, surly mechanic, who would jab his thumb vaguely toward the dark interior of the station. In this same group, the restroom was a small cubbyhole disguised as a storage closet, containing one toilet with a cracked seat, a paint splattered washstand, a grey spot on the wall where the mirror used to be, a grease-stained towel, a burnt out light bulb, and a door that wouldn't quite close. VPURGE judged the conditions of these toilets to be fair. Of the other 93%, VPURGE judged 59% good (in those having less than one-quarter inch of urine on the floor), and 41% excellent (those having hot and cold running water).

BARs

Restrooms in bars tended to be the wettest underfoot, owing perhaps to the faulty aim of many of their patrons. The walls were packed with information, ranging from lengths of certain organs to numbers at which certain services were available. The main disadvantage of most places was the long lines at peak hours. An interesting situation existed at Pops, Inc., which had the largest of all barroom restrooms, but no separate facilities for men and women. VPURGE suggests that by following this example and combining existing men's and lady's rooms, local bars could cut down on lines, and also inject a little excitement into the normal humdrum of eating, drinking, and making

AT UVM

There are restrooms on every floor of Bailey Library, a situation befitting its status as an institution of higher constipation. UVM's toilet stalls are a haven of rest and recuperation for many a harried student. Here one may sit back and relax, perusing a discarded FREE PRESS or mid-term exam. The graffiti is often elucidating and thought-provoking. For example, "Eternity is banal," or "If you voted for Nixon, what are you doing here? Your ass-hole is in Washington" or "Flush twice. It's a long way to SAGA's kitchen." The graffiti has usually been the best in Billings, but VPURGE found that of late the janitors have been more vigorous than usual in erasing it, a situation that VPURGE deplors. (Ed. Note: As we go to press, VPURGE is in court seeking an injunction against this very activity.) VPURGE also was against the toilets in Bailey, which are, so high that a short person (under 5' 6") can't touch the floor while seated on them. VPURGE applauds however the placing of a dispenser of UVM diplomas in every stall.

OUTHOUSES

There is only one outhouse left in Burlington, at the home of Alfred Rollins. VPURGE has learned that a man by the name of Cahn has been hired to clean it out.

A FINAL NOTE

VPURGE, on behalf of all the people in the world named John, deplors the use of this name in reference to the common toilet stool. VPURGE feels that such use comes very close to being defecation of character.

Found In The Cynic Files

A FABLE
The Sophomore Who Bit Off More Than He Could Chew, Or, the Master Mazed.

The Sophomore was not very large. In fact if any one had been ill-mannered enough to question him as to his height he would have committed perjury by affirming himself to be over five feet three. Nobody but himself took the Sophomore very seriously. His seniors referred to him as a little something.

mentioned in the Bible, and his instructors spoke of him as that adolescent damaizismus. But to himself the Sophomore appeared to be a very considerable collection of molecules.

It happened one dark night that the Sophomore, with a goody array of his fellow classmen, stole noiselessly into the north-wing of the Dorm in search of Freshmen.

"They say old Squeaky is roaming over here this year," whispered the Sophomore to the man next to him. Now Squeaky in the Sophomore's vocabulary stood for Eldridge P. Etheridge, A.B., M.A., assistant professor of Greek.

"I'd like to haze him," continued the Sophomore, "but I guess we do that enough in class. You should have seen me pin him with a piece of chalk this morning. Hit him right back of the ear! He don't know."

"Shut up, you idiot!" came from above and the Sophomore subsided.

The man whom he had addressed gave vent to a kind of explosion which ended in a cough. The Sophomore turned and looked at his companion. It was too dark to be certain, but the Sophomore felt that this man was not one of the original crowd. He must have joined them at the door.

They had reached the first landing and were already scattering down the long halls.

"Come," whispered someone in the Sophomore's ear, "I know where there are two of the freshest Freshmen in college," and the two stole breathlessly down a dark corridor. At length his companion paused, stealthily opened a door and disappeared in the darkness within. The Sophomore summoned all his courage and plunged boldly after. The door shut with a slam. A sound like the clicking of a lock was heard, and the astonished Sophomore felt himself grappled by strong hands. There was a sound of scuffling feet and breaking furniture, and in a twinkling the Sophomore lay bound hand and foot upon a bed. He tried to call but found his mouth already occupied with the corner of a soft pillow.

There he lay for hours, it seemed. The key turned in the lock; the door opened and closed, and the sound of steps was heard growing fainter and fainter in the distance. Again the steps were heard, only this time there was more than one person. The key turned, the door opened, and the Sophomore felt that the room was full of people.

The silence was broken by a deep voice which came from somewhere on the left:

"Oh Frater Magnus, this execrable bundle of atoms, this vile and unsavory bit of humanity, this contemptible, cabbage-head Sophomore, has been guilty of abusing his betters, of the calling of nicknames and the throwing of chalk. Pronounce ye the sentence, Oh excellent brother."

Then a low, harsh voice on the right made answer:

"Oh, Pontifex Maximus, let the accursed criminal how himself to the earth and scramble like an egg, let him rise like the sun and set like the moon, let him fall like the rain, and above all, let him be pelted with chalk within an inch of his life."

It would not be right to tell what happened during the next hour, for the Sophomore hates to have it mentioned. The story got out and it was rumored around college that he had been hazed by Freshmen. The Sophomore did not contradict this story, but it has been noticed that he is always exceedingly embarrassed in the presence of the younger members of the faculty, especially in the presence of Eldridge P. Etheridge, A.B., M.A., assistant professor of Greek. But be that as it may, he has resolved never again to enter a room in the dark. For, as Shakespeare says, It is always best to look before you leap.

1906 Nov. 3

LONELY LADY

Love a rainy Sunday
To wash away the week's pain
Sit by my window
To watch the sky cry

Lord help the working girl
She wants to see the world
Lord help her weakness
She loves to love

There's a sorrow in her eye
Wants to kiss the world goodbye
Wants to kiss a lover
She can't find in the night
L. Charles

Cynic Creative Writing Contest

Deadline: Monday, November 12, 1973 12 Noon

Rules

1. Three categories - short story, essay and poetry
2. All UVM students, full and part time, may enter.
3. All entries must be typed, double spaced.
4. All entries to be handed in to Cynic office with name and address on separate paper.
5. Limit of 15 pages on short story; 7 pages for essay.
6. Judges will be 3 faculty members from the English Department: Professors Tom Simons, Alan Broughton, and Alan Shepherd.
7. Winners will be announced in first issue after Thanksgiving vacation, Nov. 29.
8. First prize in each category: $25.00

Albatross?

monster. Once the project got started, we turned it over to SA and the UVM Administration to continue - it never appeared!

The new Associates in Industry (successor to the old Campus Ministry) has asked me to research the causes of the untimely death of the Albatross and to propose alternative resurrections. Accordingly, I would like to hear from anyone - student, faculty, administrators - who has opinions about either the past, present, or future of Professor and Course evaluation by students at UVM.

Present alternatives range from a simple self-help program optionally available to individual professors, through a variety of alternatives to a foundation-supported autonomous and self-sustaining privately published booklet with a $100,000 budget, and a paid, full-time editorial staff.

What do you think we need at UVM? Please write (do NOT call) to: The New Albatross, at 389 College Street, Burlington, VT. 05401, or, c/o AIM, Box 28, Waterman Building. I hope to hear from you soon.

John D. Perry, II

G.R.E. LAMENT

I think that I shall never see the poet, which must dwell in me.
Within whose digitation lies celestial forms of mortal cries.
Whose vast perception stuns the mind
while hurtling stagnant thoughts behind.

O Why! I ask of you, who know, should such an assinine grow whose thriving fungus clogs the brain, and diddling efforts die in vain?
Because I can't (Alack! Alas!)
discern my elbow from my ass?

I fear that I shall nought but doodle thoughts which boggle in my noodle.
Ah! What is A compared to B?
Beneath the flotsam, where the sea?
...I'm drowning in a tide of foam...
(O, Mother, come and take me home!)

Devery Hillard

Choukas
ins in the English language.
all legal and social equality,
a more, deep-rooted way, should be apparent to pects of sexism. Tune in to written page, and one is one of "he", "him", and able; The Judeo-Christian God of this problem have reverted the" or "she/he" is clumsy versation. In order to avoid mar and use "they" and sex is unknown or irrelevant.

this seemingly petty problem petty, we should deal with it ill not have to continue with mentioned above, or forget the case women would have to by are unequal in a very own language. I will not accept t trust I am not alone.

bled monosyllabic absurdities with a new set of pronouns.
good, semantically logical man" embraces "man" and sounding word I played onsense syllable stuck in your y of a word without meaning.

is that although they sound derivatives of a very essential little time to believe in their

we do away with he and she.
when in doubt of sex or when hetical individual. What do you other possibilities to the CYNIC

KING... by phil frank

FUL, I AGREE -
MONDERS FOR

BOX 9411-BERKELEY CA 94708

SA CONCERT BUREAU PRESENTS MID-SEMESTER BLUES

with

MUDDY WATERS

FREDDIE KING

and

AIRLINE

(backup for T-BONE WALKER)

8 PM (DOORS OPEN AT 7:00)

SUNDAY NOV. 4 IN UVM PATRICK GYM

TICKETS - $2.50 WITH UVM ID - $3.50 GENERAL ADM.

ON SALE STARTING SAT. OCT. 27 AT BAILEY'S, THE UVM BOOKSTORE

AND AT THE DOOR (GENERAL ADM. PRICES ONLY)

FROM 5:30 PM TO 8:30 PM

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Album Review:

Fear And Loathing At The KLH: Winter, War, And Berries

by Doug Collette

AUSTIN TEXAS
Johnny Winter
(United Artists UA-LA 139-F)

Lot of horrid Johnny Winter records have been released since the albino signed with Columbia, most of them consisting of rehearsal tapes, informal jams, and the like, which were made public without Johnny's foreknowledge or consent, simply to cash in, literally, on his success. If you have any of those, like FIRST WINTER, or BEFORE THE STORM, chuck 'em in the trash and latch on to this one.

Recorded in 1968 and originally released as THE PROGRESSIVE BLUES EXPERIMENT, shortly before the first Columbia LP, AUSTIN TEXAS is a choice true blues, Johnny wrenching filthy fluid runs from his guitar in tortured spasms that fly from red to blue to white heat and back again. The liberation of such an emotional catharsis is as exhilarating for us listeners as it is for Winter and his sidemen, bassist Tommy Shannon and drummer Red Turner.

Because he's found a more precise and personal expression in a fusion of coarse rock and roll, and blues, Johnny doesn't play much straight blues these days. I sort of miss that and if you do too, or if you just appreciate superb blues, AUSTIN TEXAS should satisfy you.

DELIVER THE WORD

(United Artists UA-LA 128-F)

You might as well ask if any band that once backed up Eric Burdon had long ago undergone a collective lobotomy, musically and otherwise. Not so and not by a long, long shot with War. When this band is on, their music is a world unto itself as is the best music of all kinds.

Side one is the superior on DELIVER THE WORD, mostly due to an eleven minutes-plus version of "Gypsy Man". The heart beat pulse of the bass is everpresent, overlaid by layers of percussion through which the chameleon-like instrumentation—harp, guitar, horns, and synthesizer—melts and reforms, dissolves and rebuilds in a constant flow that manages to reach all those areas the percussion can't. It is as complete a music as there can be.

It would have been too much to expect it all to be that way, but it would have been nice. Unfortunately, you could listen to most of side two and be hard pressed to identify exactly who's playing: could be Sly, could be Earth Wind and Fire, could be Mandrill, could be many people because it lacks the intangible spark of unique identity that would elevate it above the non-descript.

SIDE THREE

Raspberries

(Capitol SMAS-11220)

What we have here is a situation analogous to the dilemma of Grand Funk and WERE AN AMERICAN BAND: the head says no, but the body says YES! SIDE THREE is one super rock and roll record, but it's by the Raspberries, those native sons of Cleveland who up to now seemed to think they were the reincarnation of the 1965 Beatles.

Well, Raspberries to you people who got fooled again by that pose—I thought there was more to this band than the silly smiles, matching suits, and puppy love electric pop music. Any group that puts out

(continued on page nine)

Keaton, Bergman Featured By SA Film:

Seven Chances

The 1925 film Seven Chances, directed by and starring Buster Keaton, will be shown Sunday, October 28 in B106 Cook Hall at 8:00 p.m., admission free.

Keaton portrays a young man who can inherit a fortune if he marries before 7 p.m. on his 21st birthday, which also happens to be the day he receives the notice.

The first six attempts to win a bride end up as an embarrassment and no bride. In desperation, Keaton advertises in the town newspaper that he will marry any woman who appears at the church at 5 o'clock. Over 500 women of every size and shape appear at the church, and overflow it, blocking all the roads leading to it. Overcome by the situation, Buster flees, chased by his 500 would-be brides. Plunging down a steep hillside, Shannon accidentally dislodges a small rock which in turn dislodges bigger and bigger rocks, and thus a tremendous avalanche results.

Caught between the rockslides and the brides, Keaton adiesters both, leaving the two forces to face each other.

Also playing are two other Keaton shorts: Cops and The Blacksmith. Cops, made in 1922, is an epic chase in which hundreds of uniformed police join in hot pursuit of the elusive Buster. City street locations form a real obstacle course of challenges for Buster's equally real skills, and daring. Watch for Keaton's opening statement on capitalistic enterprise.

The Blacksmith, also made in 1922, is a parody on rural efficiency. (It is the only Keaton short not directed and written in collaboration with Eddee Kline.) Buster plays a blacksmith who applies assembly line tactics to the outfitting of horses.

Wild Strawberries

Bergman's Wild Strawberries will be shown Friday, October 26 at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in B106 Cook Hall. The film has won particular universal acclaim as a true masterpiece and has compiled awards from the Berlin Film Festival (Grand Prize), the Danish Academy Award, and the Venice Film Festival. Bergman masterfully creates a shadowy atmosphere where dream and memory are the landscape of a day, and of a man's life. It is here that Bergman is called "poet with the camera."

Professor Isak Borg awakens on the day he is to receive an honorary degree after a disquieting dream of his own death. During the day-long drive to the University with his daughter-in-law, she criticizes him for his coldness. His introspection on his life begins. They stop at the Doctor's childhood home; the place stirs him to recall rejection by the beautiful Sara. They continue their drive but stop to pick up a hitchhiker who is much like Sara, as defiant and as lovely. He is reminded sharply again of her.

They are involved in a car accident. The couple who were in the other car joins them, but they all quarrel and the daughter-in-law, Marianne, orders them out of the car.

Peace ensues and the old doctor dreams again, this time of failing, a medical examination. He wakes as they stop to visit his aged mother.

Marianne is shocked by his mother's coldness to him. They arrive at the University and the doctor receives his degree. Then, as the day ends, he begins to break the chill that surrounds his life.

The road serves as a useful symbol for the doctor's life. As he journeys, he is aware again of its stages, childhood, youth, and manhood. Through the day, the doctor's life is revealed to him; as it ends, he resolves his bitterness about it. This film is haunting and richly visual, portraying events and dreams to unfold a life "with definite delicacy and compassion."

Jesse Colin Young And Maria Muldaur Appear Together November 1

A rare evening of music with Jesse Colin Young and Band and Maria Muldaur and Band will be presented Thursday, November 1, 8:00 p.m. at Burlington Memorial Auditorium. The concert is being produced by Community Media of Vermont, the organization which does the Blues Festival yearly in Burlington and just this last summer did the widely-praised Sugarbush Folk Festival. The Jesse Colin Young and Maria Muldaur concert is reported to be the first in a series to be produced in Burlington by Community Media under the banner of Great Performers 73-74.

Jesse Colin Young, formerly leading strength of the legendary, now defunct, Youngbloods, ("Let's Get Together", "Darkness, Darkness"), is now out on his own pursuing a solo career that appears to be taking him straight to the top. His solo album, Songs for Juli, is listed as one of the fastest selling LP's in the U.S. and Canada.

Young is presently touring and will be in Burlington with a four-man backup group, which in the opinion of many New York reviewers is "the tightest, most refreshing act" they have seen in years. Scott Lawrence's keyboard work and Jim Rothermel's saxophone frame and Jesse's tangy voice in a musical picture produce nothing short of startling. The design and delivery of Jesse Colin Young and group has taken stock of herself and produce an eclectic sound of conquering some of the realms Van Morrison needs a lot more instruments to explore.

Whisper the name Maria Muldaur to anyone who has been familiar with the urban folk scene over the last dozen years, and chances are a warm smile will respond. Maria of the Jim Kweskin Band and of Geoff and Maria Muldaur is a slinky, sexy woman whose mere presence on stage adds a certain aura of tasty eroticism. She is a woman whose voice can evoke memories more vividly than a look at an old diary or a class yearbook. Call it a kind of "feminine mystique" if you will, but remember that the old Kweskin Band, only merged from a very different era.

Today, on the evidence of live performances in recent months (Sugarbush Folk Festival one of these) and especially of her first solo design and delivery of Jesse Colin Young and group has taken stock of herself and produce an eclectic sound of conquering some of the realms Van Morrison needs a lot more instruments to explore.

It is certainly no mistake that Rolling Stone reviewed her album as one of the best 10 albums of the year. "Maria Muldaur has been a star for so long it's hard to believe she's just made her first solo album. But she has, working her dark-eyed wiles on old and new blues, rock, country and new devil tunes, with a warm assist from her friends as Dr. John, Ry Cooder, Bob Dylan, Clarence White, and Chris Ethridge. It's almost like the old Kweskin Band, only better."

Tickets for the Jesse Colin Young and Maria Muldaur concert are on sale at the UVM Bookstore and at Bailey's on Church St. for $3.50. Doors will be open at 7:45 p.m.

World Renowned Bream Appears Tonight

Julian Bream, the world-renowned English guitar and lute artist who appears on the Lane Series on Thursday, October 25, was at first a self-taught musician.

He learned both the banjo and piano by ear when he was a mere child, and by the time he was eleven had also taught himself to play the guitar.

His father, who ran a small dance band in the Battersea area of London where the Bream family lived, kept the band instruments in his home. While his father was out at work, young Julian would take a guitar from its case and play with open strings whatever music happened to be on the radio at the time.

When his father discovered him playing the guitar, he offered to teach his son (instead of chastising him as Julian thought he would), and this was his first practical introduction to the instrument.

He quickly learned the basic principles of the jazz guitar, as his father himself played this instrument, and soon was proficient enough to sit-in on his father's band. And for his eleventh birthday, his father gave him an old Spanish guitar. In 1945, when the Philharmonic Society of guitarists resumed its post-war activities, Bream's father heard about their meetings and took him along. As was the custom at the meetings, various members performed, and Julian was asked to do so too. To his astonishment, the reception by the members was very enthusiastic, and it was then the president of the Society, Dr. Boris Perrot, offered to give him lessons.

In the same year he won the Junior Exhibition Award that enabled him to study piano and cello at the Royal College of Music. In 1947 he met Segovia, whose influence and encouragement were to have a profound effect on him. Bream's youthful interest in music culminated in this same year when he made his professional debut at Cheltenham, giving his first guitar recital.

Thus was launched a career that carried Julian Bream to the very pinnacle of his profession, to a point, indeed, where he is forced to limit his performances in the United States to only eleven each season.

Bream performs on the Lane Series in Memorial Auditorium, at 8:00 p.m., Thursday, October 25.

Tickets, $3, $5, and $6, are on sale at the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and at the Door. Telephone reservations may be made by calling 656-3418.

"House Of Usher"

Next Horror Film

Edgar Allan Poe's famous short story The Fall of the House of Usher is the basis for the next film on the Lane Film Series "Classic Horror Movies."

The film will be shown at 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. in Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Building, on Friday, October 26.

Tickets, $1 each, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman, and at the Door. Telephone reservations may be made by calling 656-3418.

Starring in the 1960 color movie are Vincent Price as Roderick Usher, Mark Damon as Philip Winthrop, Myrna Fahey as Madeline Usher, and Harry Ellerbe as Bristol.

The screenplay was written by Richard Matheson, and it was directed and produced by Roger Corman. Running time is 81 minutes.

The story of The Fall of the House of Usher involves Roderick Usher, the villainous brother who buries his sister alive in order to prevent her marriage. All kinds of horrible happenings take place as this terrifying film draws to a silent close.

The next film on the "Classic Horror Movies" Series is The Phantom of the Opera starring Lon Chaney, November 9.

SHOWN EVENINGS 7 & 9:30

The Return Engagement of the Greatest Love Story of All Time!!

FRANCO ZEFFIRELLI

ROMEO AND JULIET

MOVIE GUIDE

Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

STATE

ROMEO AND JULIET
7:00 & 9:30

CINEMA 1 & 2

Double Feature
JIMI PLAYS BERKELEY
7:00 & 9:00

YELLOW SUBMARINE
8:15

LE SEX SHOP

7 & 9

FLYNN

DOUBLE FEATURE
THE RULING CLASS 7:00
WOMEN IN LOVE 9:00

Shorts 1 & 2

AMERICAN GRAFFITI

8:15, 8:45 & 10:15

Starts Fri.

WALKING TALL

7 & 9:30

S.A. FILMS PRESENTS
WOODY ALLEN'S
what's up tiger Lily?

FRIDAY, Oct. 26 1973 at 11:30 in B106 Cook Hall

SATURDAY, Oct. 27, 1973 at 7:30 and 9:30 in 235 Marsh Life Science

Admission $.75

THE HENDRIX EXPERIENCE IS HERE!

A new film.
Hendrix at his peak.
The historic
Berkeley Concert.
Memorial Day 1970.
With Mitch Mitchell and Billy Cox.
Fly High.

JIMI
PLAYS BERKELEY

Directed by Peter Pilafian,
in color from
New Line Cinema.
"A must see for all"
Hendrix fanatics and rock music fans.
N.Y. Herald

PLUS! "LOVE IS HARD TO GET," a hilarious new spoof on sexual flicks and 30's serials with Peter Bergman, star of Time magazine as love-crazed gorilla, Nazi Goring

BURLINGTON PLAZA

CINEMA 1 & 2

2nd Big Feature!
7:00 & 9:00 "Yellow Submarine" 8:15

Audience En

by Albert Friedman

Most of us come to a concert prepared to be certain kind of depending on the advertising, which has labeled group, "folk", "bluegrass", or some such thing. No label, though, can be attached to the Putnam County Band's brass performance here in Billings, Friday, October 19. Band's numbers ranged from traditional American folk songs and old-time tunes to contemporary written by members of group. As John Cohen, of the Putnam Strings put it, "We made our own way, this music, combining

October

by Joseph Oldham

The festival of October held on Sunday, October 21, was a clear day which drew many students out of the bounds of university to enjoy riding and hikes up Mansfield. For this reason, the festival was attended by a limited number of students. The peddlers and fund felt the pinch of the weather.

The Octoberfest, once in Germany, where drunken citizens parade the streets celebrating coming fall. This time famous for deluges of ebbing and flowing from wooden doors of the taverns into the street German cities. The fest

PINK

More than a Rose, one was combining the delicate and the crisp character of our most delightful California Vinyards in M

Paul Sallo

The KLH : And Berries

much to expect it all to be that way, but it would have been nice. Unfortunately, you could listen to most of side two and be hard pressed to identify exactly who's playing could be Sly, could be Earth Wind and Fire, could be Mandrill, could be many people because it lacks the intangible spark of unique identity that would elevate it above the non-descript.

SIDE THREE

Raspberries
(Capitol SMAS-11220)

What we have here is a situation analogous to the dilemma of Grand Funk and WE'RE AN AMERICAN BAND the head says no, but the body says YES! SIDE THREE is one super rock and roll record, but it's by the Raspberries, those native sons of Cleveland who up to now seemed to think they were the reincarnation of the 1965 Beatles.

Well, Raspberries to you people who got fooled again by that pose—I thought there was more to this band than the simpy smiles, matching suits, and puppy love electric pop music. Any group that puts out

(continued on page nine)

Audience Enjoys Putnam String Country Band

by Albert Friedman

Most of us come to a concert prepared to hear a certain kind of music, depending on the advance billing, which has labeled the group, "folk", "rock", "bluegrass", or some other such thing. No label, though, can be attached to the Putnam String Country Band's brand of performance here in Billings on Friday, October 19. The band's numbers ranged from old traditional American folk songs and old-time fiddle tunes to contemporary songs written by members of the group. As John Cohen, one of the Putnam Strings put it, "We have made our own way with the music, combining our various backgrounds. Our concert drifts along from certain kind of music, depending on the advance

Part of the Putnam String Country Band's performance is due to the incredible diversity of the players themselves. They constantly traded off instruments, one playing a guitar for this song, a fiddle for the next, then thinking while what might go well with the next tune, and switching off to a mandolin. Abby Newton adds a unique touch with a cello, giving the music an almost classical aspect at times. Jay Ungar's rendition of old-time fiddle tunes was phenomenal, as he accelerated into intricate melodies that visibly excited the entire audience.

John Cohen played a variety of different instruments, though most of his time was spent on his banjo in a style directly contrasting the heavy, banjo-dominated bluegrass-style music we've heard in other recent concerts around Vermont. Finishing off the group's completeness was Lynn Ungar's beautiful voice and guitar. One could see they really enjoyed their music, as they played in the informal setting of the Billings front room, a perfect place to hear this fine, well mixed brand of "home grown" music.

Octoberfest - Variety Of Activities

by Joseph Olshan

The festival of October was held on Sunday, October 21 and to rain on Saturday. The fest was hosted by a clear crisp day which drew many students out of the bounds of the university to enjoy bicycle riding and hikes up Mt. Mansfield. For this reason, the festival was attended by limited numbers of students.

The Octoberfest originated in Germany, where herds of drunken citizens parade down the streets celebrating the coming fall. This time is famous for deluges of beer, singing, and flowing from the wooden doors of the German taverns into the streets of German cities. The fest is now hosted by the Lowenbrau Beer Company which makes a special mellow brew for this occasion. This beer is fantastic and is entitled Octoberfest. The custom has spread all over the world, even to Burlington where a similar celebration is held on Redstone!

The UVM 1972 Octoberfest featured craft peddlers, baked goods, and white-tan balloons men that whistled far and wee. There was a folk singer called Hoot and a Rock and Roll band that played McLaughlin, Emerson, Lake and Palmer and The Grateful Dead. The band, called Slip Stream, claimed to be affiliated with the American Hearing Company. (Whatever that is). Listening were lounging students who dotted the green and merely sampled the wares, as not many people were interested in buying them.

The UVM Concert Band made its debut performance of the year. They presented a well-polished performance and played music and neo-classical music. Their uniforms were green and lent them the appearance of a musical forest of evergreens. They should be commended on a job well done. Lastly there was a twenty-five cent raffle which offered a fifteen dollar gift certificate to the Ski Rack for first place. The highest prize was won by an inhabitant of Mason Hall.

Muldaur

especially of her first solo album, "Maria Muldaur", she has taken stock of herself and of her times. Pulling the sometimes divergent strings together she has emerged as a mature, professional artist (not performer or entertainer).

It is certainly no mistake that Rolling Stone reviewed her album as one of the best 10 albums of the year. "Maria Muldaur has been a star for so long it's hard to believe she's just made her first solo album. But she has working her dark-eyed wiles on one and all. Blues, folk, country, and vaudeville tunes with a warm, soulful, and jazzy sound. De John, Ry Cooder, Bob Dylan, Clarence White, and Chris Ethridge. It's almost like the old Keweenaw Band, only better."

Tickets for the Jesse Colin Young and Maria Muldaur concert are on sale at the UVM Bookstore and at Bailey's on Church St. for $3.50. Doors will be open at 7:45 p.m.

T WEEK

V. 3

ELE

ESCORTED

NITE

T EVERY

EG
RLINGTON

PINK CHABLIS
OF CALIFORNIA

More than a Rosé, our Pink Chablis is a captivating wine combining the delicate fragrance of a superior Pinot and the crisp character of a fine Chablis. This wine is one of our most delightful creations. Made and bottled at the Gallo Vineyards in Modesto, Calif. Alcohol 12% by vol.

Rubello Linda Hsu

TIME Magazine reports:

"Gallo's Pink Chablis recently triumphed over ten costlier competitors in a blind tasting among a panel of wine-industry executives in Los Angeles."

Time Magazine November 27, 1972 page 81

More than a Rosé

The Extra Hours Sale

SATURDAY 7 p.m. - 12 mid
NIGHT ONLY!

When Old Man Time Rolls Back
the Clock Discount Records
Rolls Back the Prices

$2.99 $3.69 $4.19 $4.59
LIST LIST LIST LIST

EVERY LP & STEREO TAPE IN OUR GIGANTIC STOCK IS INCLUDED IN THIS STORE WIDE SALE

Tens of Thousands of Lp's in Stock-Rock, Jazz, Classics, Blues and Folk

B.W. STEVENSON
My Maria
RCA APL 1-0088

LOU REED
Berlin
RCA APL 1-0207

DAWN featuring TONY ORLANDO
New Regime Follows
Includes "My Sweet Gypsy Rose"
BELL 1130

MELISSA MANCHESTER
Home to Myself
Bell 1123

ART GARFUNKEL
Angel Clare
COLUMBIA KC 31474

HELEN REDDY
Long Hard Climb
CAPITOL SMAS 11213

RINGO STARR
Photograph
APPLE SWAL 3413

LEON RUSSELL
Heaven Wilson's Back Vol. 1
SHELTER SW 8923

THE WHO
Quadrophonic
RCA 2-10004
A Two Record Set

NEIL DIAMOND
Jonathan Livingston Seagull
Original Motion Picture Soundtrack
COLUMBIA KC 32000

Classics at Fantastic Savings

JALOUSIE
The Red Bank Book
New England Conservatory
ANGEL 5-38000

SCOTT JOPLIN MUSIC
The Red Bank Book
New England Conservatory
ANGEL 5-38000

L. BERNSTEIN & Y. PHIL.
Hobart: The Piano
COLUMBIA ME 1125

LA BOHEME
Hobart: The Piano
COLUMBIA ME 1125

EXCEPT IMPORTS & BUDGETS
Discount records

93 CHURCH ST. - Next to Magrams - Burlington 863-4587

Store Hours Monday thru Friday 1000a.m. - 9p.m. - Saturday 10a.m. - 6p.m.

THE GOOD TIMES

by Has

Blake Heads OVP's Project Coordinators Council

by Becky Burr

Who do I go to find out how to get 15 gallons of punch for my ACTIONFEST program?

What do I have to do to use the OVP Van with the children I tutor?

"Could you help me develop a new Sink or Swim form? I have to get my kids matched up with their teachers."

"How do I make out a budget request?"

I have this idea for a project with some kids. Could we talk about it?"

These are some of the questions that Tony Blake, a junior Communications and Theatre major, answers every day as Chairman of the Project Coordinator's Council at the Office of Volunteer Programs.

His job is to help UVM student volunteers develop project ideas, find resources for programs already operating, and work with his Council (all OVP Project Directors) in budgeting and allocating money to individual student projects. He serves as student advisor, troubleshooter, and friend to OVP's 22 Project Coordinators. He also shares the responsibility of all of the OVP Staff in assisting student volunteers in their efforts with the poverty community in Burlington.

"One of the most interesting parts of my job," Blake explained, "is helping students who may have an idea for a project but who are unsure of the proper implementation. Last week two students from the Dental Hygiene Program came in to talk about starting a Dental Health Project for low-income children in the Burlington area. We talked it over and I introduced them to our other Project Leaders working with low-income children. Now we're putting together a project proposal so we can get this program off the ground."

Blake is part of the resource base which exists at OVP for UVM students who feel they can make a commitment to volunteering and experiential learning.

The Project Coordinator's Council (PCC) which he heads was conceived and developed last December as a partnership growing effort by the Student Project Coordinators. The coordinators wished to meet as a group to discuss mutual problems and generate ideas for future volunteer efforts. OVP Director Hal Woods helped develop the original interest in the formation of the council and has since served as its advisor.

The OVP Fair which was one of the biggest happenings at OVP last January, and again this September, came as a result of a PCC meeting.

Blake sees the Council as having long range impact on the development and growth of the OVP operation. He and his Project Coordinators have developed a basic Criteria Proposal for OVP Projects which they feel answers some of the original questions students may have:

(1) A new project must meet a genuine community need and must offer continuous service.

(2) The Project leadership should be clear. The project leader (coordinator) will be responsible for the ongoing coordination of the project.

(3) Specific goals for the project must be concretely established and submitted in writing to the PCC for approval.

(4) Evaluation of the project shall take place by the PCC each semester.

(5) Projects requiring any seed monies must submit a formal budget (Budget request forms available) with their project proposal.

(6) In considering the scope of any project, the director/coordinator should try to involve a significant number of UVM students.

(7) OVP will support short-term one-shot projects which will provide human services to people in need.

(8) Any person assuming the extensive responsibilities of project leadership must also be willing to serve on the PCC.

(9) Resources which the project will require as well as any skills the volunteers might need should be included in the project proposal.

The following projects are now operating at OVP: Adopt a Grandparent, Interfaith Senior Citizen's Center, Urban Center Tutoring, Bell, Book and Candle, Free Breakfast Program, Big Brother/Sister Program, ACTIONFEST, Sink or Swim, Children's Theatre, Barnes Tutoring, UVM Rescue, King Street Area Youth Project, Birchwood Nursing, Wheeler Tutoring and Red Rocks Environmental Project. Blake looks forward to meeting and talking with students who have new project ideas.

Some Suggestions On More Economical Meals

by Jill Markert

To students living off campus, school isn't the only concern. They are also faced with the problems involved in an independent living situation. Food is one of these. Getting some kind of nutrition in a meal and cutting down on money spent for food are the biggest headaches.

According to Dr. Phyllis Soule in Home Economics, a funny thing happened on the way to the store. Protein substitutes, once a cheap alternative to meat, now cost as much as meat. For instance, a large amount of the soy crop is either exported or used for animal feed. So the demand has outgrown the supply and until the two level off, prices will remain high. Peanut butter is probably the cheapest source of protein, while eggs are a good value too. Another good way to cut down on grocery costs is to switch from fluid to nonfat dry milk.

Dr. Joyce Livak, also in Home Economics, says that cutting out all convenience foods, all foods with empty calories such as potato chips, and all junk foods, will result in a decrease in money spent at the supermarket. She also mentioned that iron is very important in the diet, and can be obtained from liver, whole grains, dried fruits, nuts, dried beans, and peas. She does a lot of cooking with fish, which is relatively inexpensive and versatile.

Some other tips gleaned from the Home Ec files were:

1. try to plan the week's menu in advance and make out a list to take shopping with you; 2. stick to the list; 3. use leftovers; 4. take advantage of seasonal products — for example, apples would be a good buy right now.

Dr. Livak included some recipes from her Home Ec 40 class, which have been tested out and found to be quite good and nutritious.

Easy No-Knead Bread

2 packages or 2 tablespoons dried yeast

2 cups warm water

2 tablespoons oil

1/4 cup honey

4 cups wholewheat flour

1/2 cup each of: soy flour, wheat germ, dried milk

2 tablespoons salt

Blend yeast with water. Add honey, oil, and 3 cups of the wheat flour. Beat 300 strokes.

Combine the remaining ingredients with the last cup of wheat flour and add to the beaten mixture. Stir to blend thoroughly. Let rise, covered, in warm place for about 1 hour, until doubled in bulk.

Punch down, and place in buttered loaf pan, smoothing down top with oiled fingers. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

Thick Lentil Soup

1/2 lb. sliced salami or frankfurters

1 tablespoon shortening

2 onions, chopped

1 clove garlic, if desired

5 cups water

1/2 cup dried lentils

1/3 cup chopped celery and leaves

1/4 cup green pepper

1 teaspoon pickling spice

1 small hot red pepper, if desired

Salt and pepper

Cut meat into 1/2 inch strips and brown slowly in fat in heavy kettle. Add onions and minced garlic; cook for 5 minutes. Add water, washed lentils, celery, green pepper, and spices. Cover and bring to boil, then reduce heat and simmer for 1 1/2 hours, or until lentils are well done. Add salt and pepper to taste during 30 minutes. Serves 4.

Creamy Fruit Gelatin

1/4 cup fruit flavored gelatin

1/2 cup fruit juice or water

1 1/2 oz. can fruit (drained)

2 tablespoons lemon juice (drained)

2/3 cup evaporated milk

Bring fruit juice or water to boil and add it to gelatin.

Stir in lemon juice. When this cools off, add evaporated milk. Chill in the refrigerator until it begins to set. Beat it with an egg beater until light and airy. Fold in the fruit. Then chill again until it has set.

Meatless Patties

1 cup strained cooked beans

1 strip bacon, cut in small pieces

2 tablespoons chopped green pepper

2 tablespoons chopped celery

1 small onion, chopped

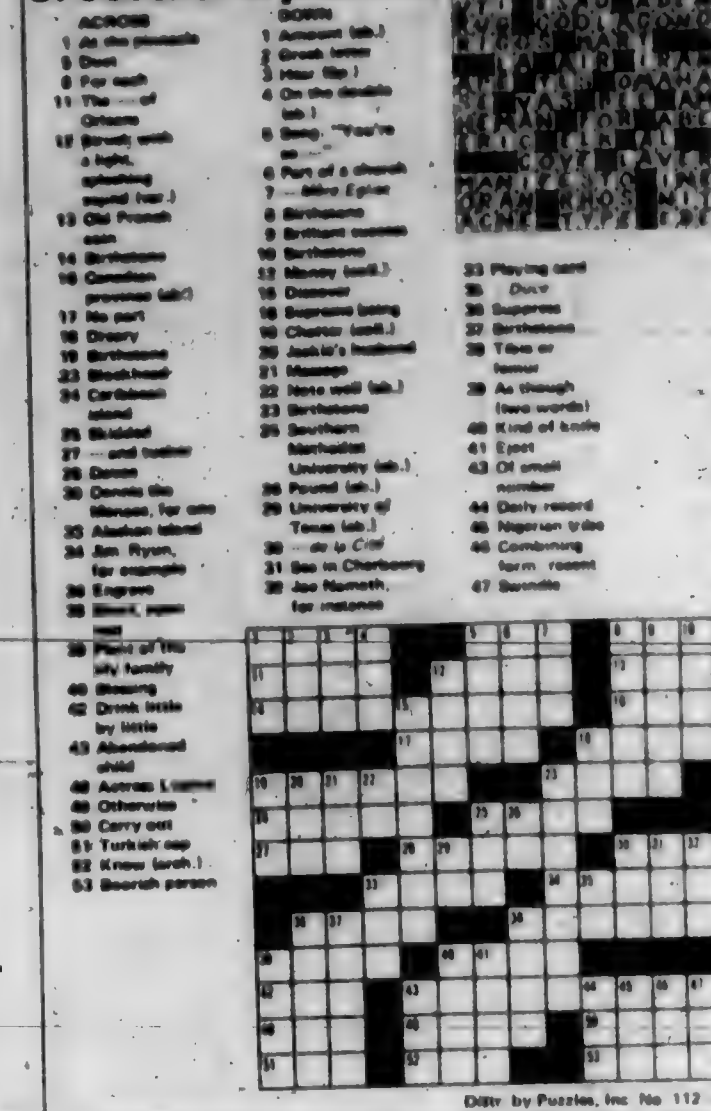

1 teaspoon vinegar

Few drops Worcestershire Sauce

Salt, paprika, pepper

Fry bacon and cook celery, onion, green pepper in the fat over moderately low heat. Add other ingredients and mix thoroughly. Shape patties and brown in fat over moderate heat.

crossword puzzle

Lamplighters Celebrate Jesus

In the midst of campus activity, there is a Pentecostal group, the Lamplighters, which meet weekly to celebrate their own happiness in Jesus.

This group makes some astonishing claims about God. The members say that God still heals every disease. The members will testify that they know many people who have been healed by the power of Jesus' name.

They also claim Jesus speaks words of encouragement and guidance to his followers through tongues and interpretations. This when one person, by the Holy Spirit, speaks in a language he has never learned and another or the same person gives the translation in English.

More precious than even these gifts is the gift of the Holy Spirit. The Pentecostals say that upon receiving the Holy Spirit God actually inhabits the believers body. It fills covenants with man. God has given an accompanying physical manifestation as a token of his promise. When the Lord told Noah he would never again destroy the entire earth with water, he placed a rainbow in the sky as the sign. When God told Abraham he was to be the father of many nations, circumcision was instituted as the token of their covenant. Speaking in tongues as God's spirit gives the utterance always accompanying the receiving of the Holy Spirit is a true meaning. This is proof of the presence of Christ. God's spirit replaces doubt, fear and loneliness with faith, hope and love.

If anyone is interested in learning more about New Testament salvation, the Lamplighters warmly invite them to their 7:30 p.m. meetings on Tuesday in the MAT lounge.

Do W

by Kathy Strasson

The University of Vermont is finally catching up with Joneses by making the switch to having photo student identification cards. Vermont is one of the institutions to do this.

Many have asked, why change? UVM feels that present system with number cards is inadequate as a means of positive identification. People have complained they have had trouble with their cards, especially off-campus when cash checks or trying to receive student reductions. So the photo-provide them with the exciting possibility of individuality and recognition.

The question is basically of convertibility. The numbers have been dangerously interchangeable. It is too easy for Sally Peterson to use Sally Schiller's card check out a book in the library. Yet, at the same time it is very difficult for Peterson to use her own card to cash a check at a local bank. Thus, the photo cards will make more effective security purposes.

The decision to make switch has other benefits. The cards have, in the past, been hand punched at the University time-consuming and inefficient process. Students

UVM Ag

by Bruce Maddern

Once again a surplus is making for UVM

Unfortunately, however, seems that it will only be some darkening shadows in the future. The surplus expected to amount to $750,000, is due to combination of several factors. Most of the excess is due to large amount of student admitted this year and because most of the surplus collected with undergraduate billing.

Factors included better interest rates on university investments and more money from federal government. The total of the added revenue $1.4 million, but the trustees decided on additional $690,000 to obtain badly needed items. Any more were more money instruction due to overloads because of the students and, additionally, money for maintenance some badly worn buildings classrooms around campus.

The remaining surplus $750,000 was voted by trustees to go for expenditure for fiscal year 1975. Last year surplus was put in reserve the trustees. Fiscal 1974 originally slated at a $323 deficit.

Although things look bright now, the fiscal picture gets dark fast. Increased instruction, even financial aid, and Special

REIL FROM

Prices Starting At for a 6.50/13 Black (plus federal excise

San Bruno Co. San Bruno Co. San Bruno Co.

pg. 10/25/72

ACCOMPANIED COPY OF THIS Install and Balance Your Snowties-S

FOR SPRING ENROLLMENT

OCT. 29 - NOV. 2

HAVE YOU CONSIDERED

ROTC?

Did you believe that by joining ROTC you were obligating yourself to military service?

Not so! There is no obligation for the first two years of ROTC.

Did you believe that it is too late to join ROTC?

Not so! Investigate our compression program.

Courses In Military Affairs?

Did you believe that the Department of Military Studies offered courses only to ROTC cadets?

Not so! Many ROTC students enroll in our courses.

HERE IS WHAT WE OFFER

or the ROTC Student:

—CHALLENGING LEADERSHIP TRAINING EXPERIENCES

—Interesting courses

—Chance to become an Army Officer

—Full Tuition Scholarships

—Civilian Career Enhancement

—$100 per month for 10 months subsistence

(Juniors & Seniors Only)

—Extracurricular Activities (Parshing Rifles; Bobcat Team)

—Flight Instruction (Seniors Only)

For the ROTC and Non-ROTC Student:

—MS 2 U.S. Defense Establishment

—Historical implications for our present day defense policies

—Decision levels of the defense/security establishment of the U.S.

—Department of Defense and its many functions, agencies, and branches

—Organization of the military services

—Case study of Defense decision making: The Cuban Missile Crisis

For more information, visit the Dept. of Military Studies 3rd floor, Williams Hall or call 656-2966/2967

Do We Need Photo I.D.s?

by Kathy Stasani

The University of Vermont is finally catching up with the Joneses by making the big switch to having photos on student identification cards. Vermont is one of the last institutions to do this.

Many have asked, why the change? UVM feels that the present system with numbered cards is inadequate as a means of positive identification. People have complained that they have had trouble with their cards, especially off-campus when cashing checks or trying to receive student reductions. So the new photo-provide their users with the exciting possibility of individuality and recognition!

The question is basically one of convertibility. Today numbers have become dangerously interchangeable. It is too easy for Suzy Peterson to use Sally Schiller's card to check out a book in the library. Yet, at the same time, it is very difficult for Ms. Peterson to use her own card to cash a check at a local bank. Thus, the photo cards will be much more effective for security purposes.

The decision to make the switch has other fringe benefits. The cards have, in the past, been hand punched here at the University—a time-consuming and inefficient process. Students were frequently "unidentified" or "unrecognized" before their cards were ready. In the future a specially-equipped company will make the cards, which will speed up the processing and minimize inconveniences. The University officers are also devising a plan in which the ID cards will be punched on the forms recording course selection and course changes. If cards can be utilized in this way there will be fewer forms to fill out. Moreover, the tedious registration process will be less complicated. This new system will affect all University students, faculty, and employees; everyone will be receiving a new identification card. Furthermore, the University will assume the responsibility for financing the change-over cost so there will be no extra charge to card holders. The cards will be available in Waterman at registration.

...Winter, War, 'Berries

(continued from page six)

a single called "Go All The Way" has something up their sleeves. Sort of like the Beatles singing "I Want To Hold Your Hand" and the rest of us knowing they really wanted it all.

But come on, feel the noise, that's what's important. Crashing loud guitars, rapid-fire drumming, and a mean bass provide the best moments on SIDE THREE in the guise of "Tonight", "Ecstasy", and

"I'm a Rocker". If only the Who could be so infectiously wild again.

Of course, the Berries debts are obvious, but they manage to integrate these influences into their own songs in the best possible way. I'd rather listen to the countryish undercurrent on "Last Dance" than to Leon Russell's gawking around Nashville on the C&W jag he seems to be on now.

Don't be an elitist and think you're above this kind of stuff. It's all for fun you know.

Miss Vermont ...

(continued from page one)

further explained that the judges evaluate the contestants on a variety of things and that pose and personality are extremely important. "Anyone who can be posed in a swimsuit competition has to be pretty confident," she added.

Joy Lynn McCraw was not pleased with this year's Miss America. "Many of us didn't agree with her. She is a strong women's libber. Most people resent the fact that she is speaking for all of us. Personally, I am a people's libber. I believe in everybody's rights, not in separation of the sexes." Joy Lynn believes that the individual should be able to accomplish as much as he or she can, without prejudices. She could not, however, be considered an advocate of organized women's liberation.

Joy Lynn is a resident of Barre, although she was born in North Carolina. A 1973 graduate of UVM, she performed in the state competition talent contest, by singing "I Am Woman" while performing it simultaneously in sign language for the deaf.

As a final question, the Cynic asked Joy Lynn if she gets sick of smiling at everyone all the time. She replied, "No, because when they're staring at me, I'm staring right back at them." Having met Joy Lynn, that's easy to believe.

University To Tear Down Three 'Inefficient' Buildings

by Ed Campbell

Now why would the University want to tear down three old buildings on campus? They probably possess great historical value and enhance the esthetic beauty of the area. We'll protest it. We won't allow them to take those structures down. What about occupying them, what will they say?

Now don't get excited. It's true that three buildings are being slated for demolition. However, the University has made a survey of all the buildings on campus to decide which structures are most inefficient. The barn that houses the WRUV studio, the Special Education Building, and the Music Annex were chosen for eventual destruction. The basic reason they are being torn down seems to be that it costs $28,000 a year to maintain them. Just to make them habitable, equipping them to meet the safety fire code standards, would cost over $100,000. A completely new building could be erected for twice that amount.

The Special Education Building is reputed to be the oldest frame building in Burlington. The Burlington Historical Society neglected to put it on its list of buildings worthy of special preservation, however.

Although the old buildings are now being used for special purposes, the activities they hold can be maintained with greater efficiency elsewhere. The new Music Annex is slated for completion by August 1974. A later date for occupancy is probably more realistic as the result of long time construction delays. The old Music Annex will be the first to feel the crunch of the iron working fall, but this probably won't occur for at least a couple more years. The Special Education Building and the radio station will be translocated into areas where their resources can be used more effectively.

Mr. Larry Snyder, Director of Administrative Resources, reports that by the first of the year confusion will have settled down and permanent homes for the displaced groups will be found. The buildings definitely will not be torn down until 1974. A later date for occupancy is probably more realistic as the result of long time

- 23 Playing card
- 24 Dove
- 25 Supper
- 26 Burlington
- 27 Fall or
- 28 As though
- 29 New world
- 30 Kind of bird
- 31 I am
- 32 Of wood
- 33 Dark report
- 34 Nigerian tribe
- 35 Cauterizing
- 36 North road
- 37 Savilla

Celebrate Jesus

habits the believers body in all covenants with man, God has given an accompanying physical manifestation as a token of his promise. When the Lord told Noah he would never again destroy the entire earth with water, he placed a rainbow in the sky as the sign. When God told Abraham he was to be the father of many nations, circumcision was instituted as the token of their covenant. Speaking in tongues as God's spirit gives the utterance always accompanying the receiving of the Holy Spirit a true meaning. This is proof of the presence of Christ. God's spirit replaces doubt, fear and loneliness with faith, hope and love.

If anyone is interested in learning more, about New Testament salvation, the Lamplighters warmly invite them to their 7:30 p.m. meetings on Thursdays in the MAT room.

UVM Again Has Budget Surplus

by Bruce Madden

Once again a surplus is in the making for UVM.

Unfortunately, however, it seems that it will only offset some darkening shadows for the future. The surplus, expected to amount to $750,000, is due to a combination of several factors. Most of the excess is due to the large amount of students admitted this year and because most of the surplus was collected with the undergraduate billing. Other factors included better interest rates on university investments, and more money from the federal government. The actual total of the added revenue was $1.4 million, but the trustees decided on additional spending of $690,000 to obtain some badly needed items. Among these were more money for instruction due to class overloads because of the added students and, additionally, money for maintenance of some badly worn buildings and classrooms around campus. The remaining surplus of $750,000 was voted by the trustees to go for expenditures for fiscal year 1975. Last year's surplus was put in reserve by the trustees. Fiscal 1974 was originally slated at a $323,000 deficit.

Although things look bright right now, the fiscal picture gets dark fast. Increases in tuition, and the main purpose of the forum will be to expenses coupled with resistance in Montpelier in increasing state funding make the $750,000 look like a mild painkiller for the future. To meet the increases, two plans have been proposed. One calls for a steep increase in state support, and holding present tuition levels as they are; the other calls for a 6% per year increase tuition and a steep increase in state funding. These plans are based on a leveling off of enrollment at 7,100 in the future. Under stiffening conditions now, the enrollment is 7,638.

While most institutions of higher learning are crying for more money, UVM, at least for the present, is making money once again.

Uccello, Former Hartford Mayor, To Discuss Consumer Complaints

The director of consumer affairs of the U.S. Department of Transportation will be on campus Thursday, Nov. 1, for an informal public hearing.

Miss Ann Uccello, a former two-term mayor of Hartford, Conn., and one of the top-ranking women in federal service, will be here to sample consumer comments, complaints and suggestions on any and all aspects of public and private transportation.

The forum is being jointly sponsored by the Lake Champlain Regional Chamber of Commerce and the UVM Environmental Program. It is free and open to the campus and community at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 1 in Benedict Auditorium of the Marsh Life Sciences Building.

Miss Uccello will make a brief introductory presentation, but the main purpose of the forum will be to solicit the ideas and opinions and complaints of those in the audience.

The hearing, being held in selected areas around the country, invite comments on the widest possible range of transportation matters, including automotive safety, repair, and insurance; highway safety; airline safety; railroad safety; rural and urban mass transportation; citizen and community participation; transportation for the elderly and the handicapped; pedestrian safety; environmental transportation issues; and water transportation.

Miss Uccello will be on campus also to meet with classes and will also meet with the newly formed Women's Group on Wednesday, Oct. 31, at 3:30 p.m. in Memorial Lounge of Waterman.

REILLY TIRE COMPANY FROM RECAPS TO RADIALS WE HAVE IT

Prices Starting At $16.60 for a 6.50/13 Blackwall (plus federal excise tax $1.86)

PIRELLI

Mohawk Storm Trac

A remarkable snow tire. Its distinctive tread bites into mud, slush, soft or crusty snow. Flanged sidewalls pack snow into a firm supporting track to prevent lateral sliding. Step on the accelerator, change gears, take a curve or hit the brakes—Pirelli becomes grip and hold.

- 4 ply nylon - 78 series
- Exclusive Zero-Flex tread - remains soft at below-zero temperatures
- Dual white sidewalls
- Tough, deep tread
- Pinned—ready for stud application

ACCESSIBLE TO UVM
31 San Remo Drive
So. Burlington

(Behind Burlington Rent-A-Roll)

ACCOMPANIED BY A COPY OF THIS AD
Install and Balance
Your Snowtires—$5.00

6-2966/2967

THE LAST CHANCE

A RIGHTSPOT OPEN NOW

- 20¢ ALE Mon - Thurs 7-10 pm
- PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS
- NO COVER CHARGE
- OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK

147 MAIN ST. BURLINGTON

THE SWISS CHALET'S 5th BIRTHDAY SALE

PARKAS - SPECIAL GROUP

40% to 50% OFF

Over 100 to choose from

REGULAR	REDUCED TO
$38 - $18
$40 - $20
$55 - $37
$60 - $40

FALL SPORTSWEAR 30% TO 50% OFF

ALL LADIES' WINTER COATS 20% OFF
THIS WEEK ONLY

REGISTER for FREE GIVEAWAY

No purchase necessary - You need not be present to win.

Kneissel		$232 ⁵⁰ FREE
REDSTAR SKIS	$185 ⁰⁰
GEZE BINDINGS	40 ⁰⁰
Mounting & Engraving	7 ⁵⁰
	$232 ⁵⁰
		DRAWING
		Just Register to Win!

COFFEE - MOVIES - DEMONSTRATIONS

FREE SKI BAG WITH EVERY PAIR OF NEW SKIS PURCHASED THRU SATURDAY

Cross Country Touring Package
The Best Money can buy!

Norge Skis	$44	You Pay
Tyrol Knute Boots	$34
Jola Poles	$6
Troll 3-Pin Binding	$6
Deluxe Wax Kit	7 ⁵⁰
Mounting	3 ⁰⁰
Total	$105 ⁰⁰	for this super package

Swiss Chalet

40 Pearl St., Essex Jct. 878-8901

Shoeboxes Undergo Transformation

by Wendy Nelson

Shoeboxes (residents of Chittenden, Buckham and White) who lived in one of the all-male shoeboxes last year are unanimous in their belief that these dorms have undergone a character transformation since they have gone co-ed.

They are also unanimous in their inability to describe just what the change is. Several feel that the dorms are less unified, because most girls won't spend an hour playing football or baseball. Others feel that dorm parties and prospects are making up for the sporting events which have always characterized the shoeboxes.

Almost all male residents said that the dorms are more quiet than last year because of the female residents, but a few replied, "more rowdy." None of the sampled "inmates" questioned resented the presence of women, most were highly enthusiastic and did not know of anyone who did not like the women.

In response to the character change, some reflected that "Girls are much more susceptible to noise," "things have gone from bad to worse," and "things have improved." The guys are a lot happier to have girls around. One Resident Assistant, a true alumnus of the shoeboxes, said he "has a hard time giving his attention to all the students" now. Most of the students questioned said they did see quite a few girls from other floors around, especially now that the academic year has gotten underway.

Few former "Bokers" had specific problems as a result of the new co-ed situation, but one said, "It is a bit of an inconvenience... however, this can be overlooked in light of the more pleasant atmosphere." There were several comments because girls complain about loud music. One young man complained, "They don't come into my room with the frequency they should." Almost every male had some humorous incident to report as a result of the co-ed situation. One said, "I keep on walking into the second floor by accident - then I see queer things all over the walls." Embarrassing situations also occur due to restroom usage, fire drills, and visiting parents.

Newman Center Schedule

THIRD WORLD will be the topic for this weekend's Liturgies. Two Mary Knoll Priests, Fr. Larry Connors and Fr. Leo Shea will be at the Center Saturday and Sunday, October 27 and 28. They will speak at each Mass and use some multi-media materials in their presentations. They will also be available should anyone wish to talk with them between the various Masses.

MASS SCHEDULE
Saturday: 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.
Sunday: 9:00 and 11:30 a.m., 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

PENTECOSTAL PRAYER MEETING

Each Monday evening—Begins with Mass at 7:30 p.m., followed by Prayer Meeting on 2nd Floor of Center.

TUESDAY EVENING

The usual 10:00 pm Mass will be at 9:00 pm on Tuesday, October 30th and will be followed by a Halloween party.

the doctor's bag

by Arnold Werner M.D.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Werner, Box 974, East Lansing, MI 48823

QUESTION: For four years I have tried to think of a solution to this problem. One of my girlfriends has a most annoying habit of smacking her lips at meals. She can muster the most unbelievable sounds. Could she have some palate or inner mouth disorder that would make her do this? First of all she seems totally unaware of this problem! Help us help her.

ANSWER: If she is speaking fairly clearly and doesn't have false teeth, the odds of physical disorder causing the situation you describe is minimal. In some cultures, lip smacking and other oral noises signify enjoyment of the food being eaten and is taken as a compliment to the host. If the behavior of your friend is actually attracting that much attention, you would be doing her a favor by pointing it out to her. If she doubts your word, you can join the national trend and surreptitiously tape record a dinner.

QUESTION: I would like to know if pubic hair turns grey as one ages.

ANSWER: Yes, although at a slower rate than the hair on one's head.

QUESTION: It is widely known that the birth control pill causes women to gain weight. I am an undernourished man and I am wondering if such a "diet" can help me add some needed pounds.

ANSWER: The use of birth control pills by men would be quite unwise. If there were sufficient hormones in the birth control pills to affect the weight of a man it would also result in a decrease in sexual drive and feminization. The weight gain would also be fat in the wrong places.

It is worth noting that there is a big difference between being undernourished and being thin. Being undernourished is remedied by eating more of the proper foods. Being thin may be a natural state of affairs for a person and should be accepted as a much healthier and less burdensome situation than being obese.

QUESTION: We have a seven month old boy. So far we have not noticed any erection in him although we have been told by friends that have boys of his age that erections do happen. Could this be anything serious or be a result of faulty circumcision?

ANSWER: Most seven month old boys I have looked at have rather small penises. Their erections are also rather small. If you are looking for startling and dramatic changes in the size of his phallus, you are bound to be disappointed. Erections in little boys are often apparent when they are being bathed or their diapers are being changed. The odds are that there is nothing to worry about and rather than launch a vigil waiting for some special occurrence, you might discuss it with the physician, you are taking your little boy to on your next visit.

QUESTION: I use oral contraceptives. One of the benefits is the menstrual regularity with which I can predict accurately when each period will start. I wonder if it would be harmful to use oral contraceptives to alter the length of my cycle. For example suppose if I don't want a period to fall on a weekend can I take extra pills and extend the cycle for a few days? Would this cause harm or discomfort? How ANSWER: There is no reason why a woman could not vary the appearance of her period by taking birth control pills for a longer time before stopping them. The so called period with the pills is actually artificial and is caused by a change in hormone levels when the pill is stopped. For convenience sake and the establishment of a routine, the manufacturers package these pills in dispensers to encourage regular use. If you choose to have a cycle other than what comes with the prepackaged arrangement, ask your physician to prescribe a contraceptive which they can be packaged as a large number of tablets in an ordinary pill bottle. Thus, if you took the pills for 25 or 30 days instead of the usual 20-21 days and then cease taking them, you would have the longer period if you desire. It would probably not be possible to eliminate your period entirely as some break-through bleeding would occur after a few months of continued use. In no way should this alternate form of using birth control pills pose a hazard but I must warn you that many people are incredibly dumb keeping track of events and failure to take a pill each day will enhance the possibility of an inadvertent pregnancy.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

QUESTION: I am a 21 year old woman. My pubic hair is straight (not curly) and quite long, extending as far as three inches on the sides of my legs. My problem causes me embarrassment when I am dressing in the dorm and wearing bikinis in the summer. I was wondering how common this is and why pubic hair curls (or who mine didn't). Would it be related in any way to the effect that I have used a razor or scissors to trim the hair?

ANSWER: For the life of me I cannot figure out why pubic hair curls. The answer is probably lost in our heritage somewhere. Anyway, there is really no reason why you shouldn't trim the hair so it is more comfortable and the appearance is less obvious. It will cause no harm and probably will ease hygiene considerably. Incidentally, I have seen other people with straight pubic hair but never really discussed the matter with them.

Pedestrian Survey

The University is conducting a two day study of pedestrian traffic flow on campus. Its major concern will be to find out what the patterns of student movement are. This survey is being organized by Prof. Robert Dawson, Department of Civil Engineering, and two Engineering undergraduates, Paul Knapp and Andre Brouseau.

Forms will be sent out to a 20% sample of the student body. Students are asked to please fill out the forms for Tuesday, October 30 and Wednesday, October 31. Return envelopes are provided.

Cooperation is essential to the success of the study. The information obtained from this survey will help in planning the solution to the University's pedestrian problems.

Poetry Workshop

Poetry Workshop - for people interested in joining a small creative writing workshop, entailing mostly poetry readings and friendly criticism (comment). You don't have to be good; just a little dedicated. Coffee and good conversation will be served. Give it a try and maybe bring some verses. Thursday evenings, 7:00 pm, Old Mill 308.

Comedy At Arena

THE LADY'S NOT FOR BURNING

A POETIC COMEDY by Christopher Fry

The dates are November 1 through 3 at 8:00 pm in the Arena Theatre in back of the Fleming Museum. Tickets are $1.00 with ID and $2.00 with out ID. Call 656-2094 for reservations or come into the theatre.

Workshop On Occult

The Next Thing presents a special workshop on October 31st (Walpurgisnacht) at 7:00 pm. The workshop is entitled CURRENT TRENDS IN THE OCCULT: Astrology-The Tarot-Palmistry-Witch Beliefs-The I-Ching, by Paul S.J. MacDonald P.S.I. It will be held at 73 Church Street, 3rd floor and there is a $2.00 donation requested.

Ski Film

A ski film is showing Friday, November 2, 8:00 pm in Patrick Gym. Warren Miller's "Skiing Great" is open to all. Admission is $1.00.

Ticket Refunds

TICKET REFUNDS FOR ROBERTA FLACK
Please return tickets along with name and address to the SA Concert Bureau, Billings Center. All tickets must be received by November 1, 1973 or they will not be refunded.

E & E TIRE CO.

Complete line of new and retreaded summer and winter tires

Front end alignments

Official Vermont Inspection Station

10% off on all RETREADS accompanied by this ad

E & E TIRE CO., INC.
152 RIVERSIDE AVE.
864-7759 BURL.

RECYCLED DENIM CAP. Wear 'em again. And yet again. Your old blue jeans are now recycled into our newsy newsboy's cap.

Blue cotton denim, of course.

WAY-IN $9

MAGRAMS

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE
(RETAIL OFFICE)
EXTENSIVE SELECTION OF BEERS, ALES AND WINE
AMERICAN & IMPORTED
AT GREAT SAVINGS
115 EAST ALLEN STREET
WINDSOR, VT.
(at the rear of Frank's Tavern)
OPEN 10 to 10 DAILY
12 to 9 SUNDAY

PLANTASIA
has many new plants in
Do something nice for yourself...
buy a plant-start a jungle
also: low cost clay pots &
many types of hangers
ST PAUL & COLLEGE ST open 10:30-5:30

POSNER naturals
A grooming program for Afro hair styles.

Natural Hair Sheen Spray for lively lustre. 6 oz. $1.50 retail	Natural Hair Conditioning Treatment restores life and body. 8 oz. $1.50 retail
Natural Concentrated Shampoo gives softness. 8 oz. $1.25 retail	Natural Liquid Grooming Conditioner smoothes out tangles. 8 oz. $1.50 retail

UNIVERSITY STORE
ON THE CAMPUS

DON'T LET THEM SEE THE LABEL UNTIL AFTER THEY TASTE THE WINE.

"No peeking. Taste it, first."
"Wow, that's good!"
"Are you sure?"
"Sure, I'm sure. It's great!"
"Not too sweet?"
"No it's... say, what is this?"
"Sort of different?"
"Yeah, it's light... smooth... kind of... c'mon!"
"Ok. Are you ready for this?"
"At this point, bottle is turned to reveal label, although some fans like to drag things out a little longer."
"MANISCHEWITZ?"
"Cream White Concord. Manischewitz doesn't always mean sweet wine, y'know."
"But this is terrific! Y'know, if I'd seen the name, I might never have believed it!"
"Uh-huh."

Manischewitz Wine Co., New York, N.Y.

WATCH YOUR DOLLAR GROW AS THE PRICES DEFLATE

YAMAHA ALL ROUND SKIS WITH BESSER SAFE BINDING

2 YEAR GUARANTEE

AR I ^{Junior}	$79.95
AR I ^{Adult}	$89.95
AR II	$99.95
AR III	$119.95

AMERICAN FLAG GLOVES EXPEDITION GLOVES

were $13.95 NOW $7.95
were $7.95 NOW $2.88

Turtlenecks $6.50

Sweaters

Down Parkas

Wool Socks

GREAT VALUES IN THE SPORT THAT MAKE THE SKI RACK FAMOUS

JARVENIEN PKGE $59.95

NORGE PKGE WITH LIGNOSTONE & WAX KIT $74.95

DOWNHILL SKIS BY ATOMIC DYNAMIC SIDERAL K2

FREE
CROSS COUNTRY
SKIING
WAXING
CLINIC
7pm EVERY WEDNESDAY

THE SKI RACK

15 Center St.
Downtown Burlington

OPEN WED.

THURS.

FRI.

TILL 9:00

g

at the birth control pill an undernourished man can help me add some

...should be
...in the birth
...would also
...and stimulation. The
...between
...undernourished
...being thin
...and should be
...situation

path old boy. So far we
...although we have
...his age that erections
...or be a result of

...I have looked at
...also rather
...and dramatic changes
...to be disappointed
...when they are
...The odds
...rather than
...you might
...little boy

...One of the benefits
...which I can predict
...start I wonder if it would
...to alter the length of
...I don't want a period to
...pills and extend the cycle
...harm or discomfort? How
...a woman could not vary
...taking birth control pills
...ing them. The so called ...and is caused by a
...the pill is stopped. For
...ment of a routine, the
...pills in dispensers to
...to have a cycle other
...packaged arrangement, ask
...which they can
...in an ordinary pill
...for 25 or 30 days instead
...take them; you
...if you desire. It would
...your period entirely
...would occur after a few
...way should this alternate
...a hazard but I must
...incredibly dense keeping
...a pill each day will
...pregnancy

...woman. My pubic hair is
...ing, extending as far as three
...My problem causes me
...ing in the dorm and wearing
...undering how common this is ...no mine didn't. Would it be
...that I have used a razor or

...but why pubic
...not bother
...why you
...and the
...and

TASIA
new plants in see for yourself start a jungle sts &
any types of hangers
ST open 10:30-5:30

NEA rals
for Afro hair styles

Natural Hair
Conditioning Treatment restores life and body
8 oz $1.50 retail

Natural Liquid
Grooming Conditioner
smooths out tangles
8 oz $1.50 retail

A major dilemma facing students at the University of Vermont is finding a solution to the congested traffic problem and hazardous conditions the pedestrians face.

There are ten plans set forth by the City Planning Commission to alleviate problems of transportation. The plans deal with the construction of a limited access highway leading to Burlington, the Belt Line, a proposed line to run parallel to the waterfront, and the construction of a new bridge over the lake and the destruction of the natural beauty surrounding the area. In contrast, many feel the construction of a road serves as the only method of improving the traffic flow out of the city.

Specifically the eight plan with many basic needs. The needs are to provide residential areas from urban areas.

TE Clip and return to: University of Vermont. Here are some projects: Tenants' Council, important for immediate action. One which you can probably should not.

- 1. Publish or list
- 2. Publish legal
- 3. Provide
- 4. Publish
- 5. Listings of
- 6. Listings of
- 7. Information
- 8. Directory of
- 9. A room-mate
- 10. A cooperative
- 11. Short course
- 12. Organize
- 13. Furniture
- 14. Temporary

Plan Des

(continued from page 1) and the Association vote to establish an investigating committee in a 22-8 vote. Chairman of that committee Professor Paul Sylvester, New England College, who at UVM this week to begin his investigation. The Philosophy Association, resolved to appropriate action, including the conduct of the Association's findings warrant this week. It had been speculated that this tabling was engineered by members of the Arts and Sciences Faculty. In fact, the committee John Kizian, Rogers, and Mr. Madonny—who ruled last week. The situation, however, was not as simple as it appeared. When a place on the committee was suddenly last spring, neither the composition nor the conduct of the Association is above suspicion.

In related matters, members of the Philosophy Department moved to Hanover, New Hampshire, where the Northern New England Philosophical Association conference, to present the findings of the Philosophy Association and its supporters and opponents. Cahn were in attendance. The philosopher at the conference who reported that in the New York City who reported that with N.Y.U. students that N.Y.U. had closed down two departments and has drawn back on program and many professors, who were not in the position to have tenure, and to UVM as a permanent employee. One of the

Boo Hoo Bible Author Explains Religion

by Kevin Sanford
The Neo-American Church is one of the four religious organizations in the United States to use psychedelic substances as sacraments. It compares itself to Zen Buddhism, not putting much emphasis on regular public meetings or places of worship in towns or cities. The important places are the retreats away from the usual populations, which members may visit for days or weeks at a time. The church's slogan is "Victory Over Horseshit!" The church's holybook is the Boo Hoo Bible.
Arthur Kleps is the founder and Chief Boo Hop of the Neo-American Church. Formerly a psychologist, he entered the psychedelic community of Millbrook in the middle sixties, with such infamous characters as Timothy Leary and Baba Ram Dass (Richard Alpert). Testing his religious freedom, he was arrested in the early days of the Nixon Administration at a peyote eating demonstration in Washington. He has since written the Boo Hoo Bible and an upcoming book, Millbrook. His wife, a recent graduate of Middlebury College, was also present at this interview.
CYNIC: Have you any comments about your upcoming lecture at the Life Sciences Building on October 31?
KLEPS: It should be quite a show. Four or five people will be running five or six projects simultaneously. It's a beautiful electronic environment. There are four TV's on the walls. Whatever T.V. program is being shown in Burlington will be coming over them. Over my head there will be a series of slides picked at random. Even the projectionist won't know what's showing. I can draw diagrams on a machine on the desk and immediately have them projected on the wall behind me. Besides a spot on my face everything else will be moving around.
CYNIC: Are you trying to accomplish a specific purpose by this light show?
KLEPS: We stress the fact that this light show is going to be random, because it is designed as an example of synchronicity. If what I say is correct it is impossible to have true randomness. Everything is a dream, and in a dream everything is related by some kind of meaning. Therefore there is no need for us to impose a trip on the slides. There's a trip will be manifest. There's no way of excluding meaning. Obviously, there would be no need to put on this kind of show if everybody understood this. But very clearly they don't understand it, because they're repressing it, which is what happens in a dream. A dream is made of repression.
CYNIC: Why do you say life is a dream?
KLEPS: Why not? Why do you assume there's something out there? There's no need to assume there's anything out there. All you know about is experience. There's no way you can prove to me that you are, there. It's all a dream. If you assume that there is something out there, a three dimensional object (which is not the case in a dream), you're multiplying entities unnecessarily. You're violating the basic rules of logic as soon as you assume there is an external world. All is vanity. CYNIC: Do you assume there is a you?
KLEPS: No, not really. That's an illusion also.
CYNIC: Is there anything that is not an illusion?
KLEPS: Not that I know of, and I can't talk about what I don't know. And neither should anyone else, goddamn it!
CYNIC: How is the legal situation with the church coming?
KLEPS: We had the best news we've had in two and a half years today. A first rank publisher is going to publish my book, Millbrook, telling all the latest filthy gossip about the millionaires and the great acid leaders of the late 60's. It's also pretty philosophical, I think the national distribution of this book is going to make all the difference as far as the Neo-American Church is concerned. We have been systematically excluded from the media since 1969. There's an enormous amount of government pressure on every aspect of the media. Back in '67, '68 I could get on T.V. almost anytime.
CYNIC: How would you say the attitude toward psychedelic drugs has changed over the years?
KLEPS: There's been a period when the world of psychedelic drugs and the issues of psychedelic consciousness have not been freely discussed. But more and more people are getting stoned. Around 1967 about 10% of the population, now it's about 30% with grass. But what I represent is acid, and the acid age has not started. But it will, Grass will be legal in one of two years and it will be the accepted consciousness to be stoned on the best available hash, which will be picked up from the corner store. In the past we've never had anyone to talk to. Now I can talk to a room full of people who've never smoked acid, but have smoked grass, and they know what I'm talking about. Sometimes I freak them out, and they don't want to hear it again, but they know. Before, what I said didn't make any sense at all. At that point acid will come in to it's own, which should have appreciable effects on the world.
Arthur Kleps will be speaking October 31 at the Life Sciences Building.

Action Recruiters Available To Answer Questions, Explain Background Of Programs

by Dawn McGinnis
Daniel Kompare has left his wife and five children home in Upper Volta, a small country in Northwest Africa, to come to the Northeastern United States and work as a Host Country National Expert Recruiter for ACTION.
ACTION is the collective name given to a group of volunteer agencies separately known as the Peace Corps, VISTA, the Foster Grandparent Program, RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program), ACE (Active Corps of Executives), SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives), and the University Year for ACTION.
Kompare's job is to come to schools ahead of the recruiters and make sure everyone knows where they will be and when. He puts up posters and goes to all the area radio stations. He also sees that something is published in the local papers. Before he became a Host Recruiter he worked with the Peace Corps teaching French and his native language, Moore (pronounced moray) to Peace Corps personnel coordinating Language Training Programs and Cross Cultural Programs, and developing teaching materials for Peace Corps use.
Kompare became Host Recruiter in September and so far he has worked in New Hampshire, Maine, and Rhode Island. He said the recruiting drives have been very successful in the New England area. He will continue in this position until February; then he's not sure what he will be doing. He said he may go on as a Host Recruiter, but he would really like to go back to school.
Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hitchcock were Peace Corps volunteers in the Philippines several years ago. They now are working with UVM to help recruiters for the Peace Corps answer questions people may have about the organization.
In the Philippines, Mrs. Hitchcock organized a feeding center and Mr. Hitchcock worked in agriculture. At the present time they are dorm parents at Pine Ridge School in Williston. They are considering the possibility of rejoining the Peace Corps and doing work in Fiji.
They are available to answer questions any time after 3:30 in the afternoon at 434-2700. Recruiters for the two main agencies in ACTION, the Peace Corps and VISTA, will be in Burlington October 29-31. They will see people at the Holiday Inn and can be reached there at 863-6361.
To be eligible for the Peace Corps only two requirements must be met: the volunteer must be 18 years old and a U.S. citizen. The recruiters coming to Burlington are looking for volunteers in areas such as farming, teaching, health, and many others to fill positions in 59 overseas countries.
Once overseas, a volunteer usually remains there for twenty four months. He will receive between $125-$150 for what the Peace Corps calls "a settling-in allowance to cover the cost of basic household necessities." A monthly allowance ranges between $69-$160, the average being about $115. This money covers household, food, clothing, and incidental expenses. Also, a monthly readjustment allowance of $75 is set aside to ease the difficulties of the return home. It comes to a total of $1,800 (taxable) if the volunteer stays the full two years.
The goal of the Peace Corps, in the words of Calvin Sparks, the director of this Northeastern recruiting drive, is to "train others and introduce new methods and techniques, all with the eventual goal of helping the country attain self-sufficiency."
VISTA needs volunteers to work in America in such areas as health, economic development, education and manpower, housing, community planning, and social services.
The only legal requirement for joining is that the volunteer be 18 years old. The term of service is one year, with three to five weeks of training preceding this. A basic allowance is provided to supply food and housing, plus a $75 a month living expense for things like laundry, recreation, and transportation. Also, a $50 a month stipend is set aside to be paid upon completion of service.
Calvin Sparks says this about VISTA: "VISTA workers are often advisors to grass roots community organizations, helping these groups to mobilize local resources in health, education, and business."
These are the basics of the two programs. The recruiters can answer many questions, and give much more background on the programs. Once again, they will be at the Holiday Inn and can see you from 10:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. Also, the Hitchcocks are available to answer your questions any day after 3:30 p.m.

manpower, housing, community planning, and social services.

The only legal requirement for joining is that the volunteer be 18 years old. The term of service is one year, with three to five weeks of training preceding this. A basic allowance is provided to supply food and housing, plus a $75 a month living expense for things like laundry, recreation, and transportation. Also, a $50 a month stipend is set aside to be paid upon completion of service.
Calvin Sparks says this about VISTA: "VISTA workers are often advisors to grass roots community organizations, helping these groups to mobilize local resources in health, education, and business."
These are the basics of the two programs. The recruiters can answer many questions, and give much more background on the programs. Once again, they will be at the Holiday Inn and can see you from 10:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. Also, the Hitchcocks are available to answer your questions any day after 3:30 p.m.

Senators Look For New Chairperson, Discuss Various Resolutions...

(continued from page one)
The Senate thought that Collier's case was a valid one leading to a unanimous vote in favor of recognizing SIMS. There was also a unanimous vote to recognize The Amanda Marga Society, another organization dealing with meditation.
The next Senate business brought up by Ed Pasquini from Coolidge, dealt with the possibility of donating a small announcement case to be placed at the base of the flag pole on the Main Green. Information such as why the flag is at half mast would be contained in the case. However, discussion was tabled until further information on the cost of the announcement case is available.
Ed Pasquini also discussed his motion to appoint another committee to study all the factors involved in the Philosophy Four case. He criticized the present committee's standstill on new information, and emphasized the need for Senators to take a more active role in campus issues.
Mark Seigers, Senator from Robinson, volunteered to head another investigation committee. The motion to start a second committee was approved by the Senate.
Dick Cassidy opened discussion on the following resolution:
The University of Vermont Student Association Senate hereby recognizes that serious problems face higher education in Vermont. In our opinion, increasing competition for students and resources among Vermont public colleges and universities is destructive. The national phenomenon of dropping enrollment is a problem that Vermont higher education has not prepared to face. At present no central information resource exists where students and prospective students can gather information concerning the various programs and learning experiences available. The expenses of receiving a post-secondary education continue to rise, without a corresponding increase in public policy approach to higher education. Whatever form this new approach may take, be it a merger, coordinating board, or some new option; in our opinion it should provide for student participation in educational decision making. Vermont's students have valuable information as well as real interest in the decisions made about their futures and the futures of their institutions. The resolution was amended.
Discussion of relations between the University and the state government continued as Dick Cassidy and Mark Cassella were selected to be the intern representatives to the Governor's Commission of Student Affairs. This is a student's advocate group within the state government which will meet on October 28.
The discussion of new business commenced with Sarah Funkhauser's motion concerning the individual Senator's commitments to the Senate. She proposed that a list of substitutes be formed in the event that a Senator may have to miss a meeting. Reported failure of Senators or their alternatives to attend meetings will be sufficient grounds for recall. There seemed to be a general feeling that Senators were not representing their constituencies effectively enough. There were several motions for the formation of new committees, most importantly for a group which would inform and remind the S.A. of correct procedure. At this time, the need to educate the roles and responsibilities of the Senators was re-emphasized.
Ed Pasquini made the final announcement of a student protest for the Philosophy Four in front of President Andrew's house on Friday at 3:00 p.m. (Senators are particularly encouraged to attend). He believes such a protest will demonstrate student concern for the four professors.

Protestant Campus Ministry Expands Functions

The Protestant Campus Ministry is experimenting with a new form this year. The Council for a Cooperative Christian Ministry, comprised of representatives from the Baptist, Congregationalist, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Unitarian denominations as well as a local Lutheran church, has adopted a model of ministry incorporating the four functions of the ministry of Jesus Christ: the pastoral, the prophetic, and the kingly. Instead of one campus chaplain to cover these functions (which would be an impossible task) it has chosen five Associates in Ministry to experiment and function in the ministry of the campus. The Associates are: Ted Strohmach, an employee of the full-time Associate. He has an A.B. in Philosophy from Boston College and will have a Master of Divinity from Harvard Divinity School this year. He spent two years in the Peace Corps in Senegal, West Africa, teaching English in a secondary school. His training experiences include teaching high school religion classes, work at a club for former mental patients, a year as a chaplain at a state mental hospital, and a year as a therapist in a child guidance center. His interests in ministry focus in the areas of counseling, education, and liturgy.
Al Lindahl has an A.B. from the University of Wyoming and a Master of Divinity in pastoral counseling from Princeton Theological Seminary. He served in the Peace Corps in Brazil working in community development. He is presently working as the assistant director of the Threshold House, a program for drug abusers from 14 to 24 years of age.
Audrey Orth did her undergraduate work at New York University and Queens College, making in group work and education. Orth did her graduate work in a communication at UVM. She spent one of her summers in a W.C.C. work camp among sharecroppers in the South, has worked as a family therapist at Waterbury State Hospital and as a counselor at the Counseling and Testing Center at UVM. She is a Ruling Elder in the Presbyterian Church and is on the faculty of UVM, teaching in the Department of Communication and Theatre.
John Perry is a graduate of Yale Divinity School and has been the Protestant Chaplain at UVM for the past eight years. He initiated Volunteer Service at UVM, Big Brothers and Tutoring Programs, started the Student Course Critique, and was involved in founding the Student Course Critique.

YOU BE THE JUDGE!
College expenses can be paid safely and surely with a low-cost ThriftCheck PERSONAL CHECKING ACCOUNT.

OR

You can take chances by making payments with 'loose cash' or expensive money orders. Judge for yourself—and open your ThriftCheck Personal Checking Account today.

CHECKS ARE PERSONALIZED FREE

NO MINIMUM BALANCE IS REQUIRED

NO MINIMUM BALANCE IS NECESSARY

More than just a Bank!

Chittenden
TRUST COMPANY

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER

Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS
SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT
RENSSELAER POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE
GRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAMS IN:

- *Private (Industrial) Management
- *Public Management
- *Management Engineering
- *Operations Research and Statistics

A representative of Rensselaer will be on the University of Vermont campus on Friday, November 2. Please make appointments at Career Planning and Placement Office.

THE CORNER BOOKSTORE

5 Important reasons...

Our Art Shop Should be Your Art Shop!

1. Complete — we stock all the artist materials you will ever need.
2. Serious — we're serious enough to devote our entire lower level to art.
3. Knowledgeable — our staff can answer any and all of your questions regarding art.
4. Informative — we've a good selection of art and craft books.
5. Helpful — we'll take the time to explain the ins and outs of all types of art.

"If you're interested in Art, we're interested in you!"

Church & College Sts.
Downtown Burlington
658-4554

the corner bookstore
"One-stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

THE CORNER BOOKSTORE

5 Important reasons...

Our Art Shop Should be Your Art Shop!

1. Complete — we stock all the artist materials you will ever need.
2. Serious — we're serious enough to devote our entire lower level to art.
3. Knowledgeable — our staff can answer any and all of your questions regarding art.
4. Informative — we've a good selection of art and craft books.
5. Helpful — we'll take the time to explain the ins and outs of all types of art.

"If you're interested in Art, we're interested in you!"

Church & College Sts.
Downtown Burlington
658-4554

the corner bookstore
"One-stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

THE NEXT THING WORKSHOPS

THE ART OF BREWING ALE — Mon. Oct. 29, 7:30 - 10:00 p.m., Jim McMartin at 8 Allen Lane, Winooski, behind the Grand Union

CENTERING — Thurs. Nov. 1, 8-11 p.m., $2.00, John Lippincott.

ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS AND CREATIVITY — Sat. Nov. 3 & Sat. Dec. 8, 3-10 p.m. $10., Bert Butler.

HUMAN SEXUALITY — Sat. Nov. 3 (also Sat. Nov. 17 and Sat. Dec. 8), 9-10:30 a.m. $11 for students, Mike Qualand at Howard Mental Health, 260 College St.

VALUES CLARIFICATION — Sun. Nov. 4 9-5 Mon. Nov. 5, 7-10 p.m., Wed. Nov. 7 7-10 p.m. $5.00 (donated to The Place) Steve Gold, Louise Lindner.

CONSCIOUSNESS RAISING FOR MEN AND WOMEN — Fri. Nov. 9, 7-11 p.m. $3.00, Bert Butler, Nancy Koch.

BIOENERGETICS Sat. Nov. 10, (Also Sat. Dec. 1) 10-5 p.m. $20.00 Robin Litchfield, Fred Lowen, At Bioenergetics Workshop Facility on Ireland Rd., Starkboro. Registration and Info: 453-3546 (Robin).

MOVEMENT PLAY — Mondays Nov. 12, 19, 26, Dec. 3 & 15 p.m. $10.00 for four sessions, Edie Israel.

SENSORY AWARENESS AND DEEP RELAXATION — Wed. Nov. 14, 7-10 p.m. $2.00, Peggy Daniel.

MASSAGE — Thurs. Nov. 15 (Also Thurs. Dec. 6) 7-10 p.m. $2.00, Nancy Koch.

SYNTHESIS (creative group problem-solving) Wed. Dec. 5, 8-10:30 free, Dave Britton.

GESTALT — Thurs. Dec. 13, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. $3.00, Dave Healey.

Registration deposit of $2.00 for each workshop is due week prior to the workshop. All workshops, except where noted, are held at 73 Church St., 3rd floor, Burlington. Call, write, or stop by The Next Thing at UVM Counseling Center for a Fall Catalog. Scholarships available, contact Dave Healey.

THE NEXT THING
UVM COUNSELING CENTER
146 SOUTH WILLIAMS STREET
BURLINGTON, VERMONT 05401
PHONES: 862-2013; 656-3340, 41

BOOKSTORE The CORNER BOOKSTORE The CORNER BOOKSTORE

5 Important reasons...

Our Art Shop Should be Your Art Shop!

1. Complete — we stock all the artist materials you will ever need.
2. Serious — we're serious enough to devote our entire lower level to art.
3. Knowledgeable — our staff can answer any and all of your questions regarding art.
4. Informative — we've a good selection of art and craft books.
5. Helpful — we'll take the time to explain the ins and outs of all types of art.

"If you're interested in Art, we're interested in you!"

Church & College Sts.
Downtown Burlington
658-4554

the corner bookstore
"One-stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

THE CORNER BOOKSTORE

City Commission Proposes Belt Line As Partial Solution To Traffic Congestion

by Lisa Brodoff and Barbara Gaff

A major dilemma facing the citizens of Burlington and the students at the University of Vermont is finding a solution to the congested traffic problem and hazardous conditions the pedestrian confronts.

There are two plans set forth by the City Planning Commission to alleviate the problems of transportation. First deal only with the construction of a limited access highway leading into Burlington, the Belt Line. The proposed line is causing a great controversy for it runs parallel to the waterfront, virtually cutting off the city from Lake Champlain. Opposition to the line results from the imminent danger of further pollution to the lake and the destruction of the natural beauty surrounding the area. In contrast, many feel that the construction of this road serves as the only method of improving the traffic flow in and out of the city.

Specifically the eight plans deal with many basic needs. The needs are, to protect residential areas from undue concentrations of traffic, to further the Urban Renewal plan by developing the city's regional core, to increase the accessibility of the waterfront, and to provide adequate and economical transportation and parking. This can be achieved by expanding the existing mass transit within the city. Growth of the bus system, improved docking facilities, pedestrian railways, airport expansion, a mini-bus system, and a more efficient ferry are among the suggestions incorporated in the plan.

Pedestrian safety is another facet of the Belt Line Plan. Buildings will be extended over the highway to give pedestrians access to the waterfront. Waterfront walkways and bicycle paths will be provided. Streets will be enclosed to create pedestrian corridors. Finally pedestrian overpasses will be placed at congested traffic areas. According to the Planners, these facilities are all contingent on the construction of the Belt Line.

The ultimate decision to construct the Line lies in the hands of the board of Aldermen. This decision, based on the completed study of the plans and their alternatives, will undoubtedly be made within the next few months. Severe opposition from students and citizens is expected, because of the ecological damage this highway will cause, and the questionable necessity of its construction. Many feel that the sole purpose of the Belt Line is to further the city's urban renewal plans and to create a better market for the business enterprises of the city. This, they feel, is no justification for cutting the city off from the lake.

The plans for the Belt Line can be obtained from the City Planning Commission's office and a model of all eight proposed highways can be seen on the corner of Battery and Maple streets. People wishing to voice any opinion can contact their Alderman and attend the city meetings.

SPEAKING OF HOCKEY

by Bob Wilenski

On Saturday, October 27 at 8 p.m. UVM will have an inter-squad scrimmage at the Essex Rink. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and will be available in the Athletic Office and at the Essex Rink. That's right, folks, hockey is here. If you see the game you'll have a great opportunity to watch Ted Castle, Tim O'Connell, Willie MacKinnon, Ted Child, John Kiely, Bill Koch, and the other returning lettermen. There will be some outstanding freshmen as well as players on last year's taxi squad fighting for positions on the varsity. Tom McNamara, Michel Lebeau, Bill Spence, John Glynn, and Andy Richard are but a few of the players who will be looking for a spot on the varsity.

Coach Cross told his team at last semester's break-up dinner that no one had a definite starting job for this season because of the tremendous competition that he expected. The lettermen are really pushing in practice, and Cross feels that his starters from last semester will be starting unless they let down. The goal tender, a most crucial position, has not been filled. Senior goalie John Kiely is back but will get a lot of pressure from freshmen Tom McNamara. This reporter predicts that if Kiely stays healthy he will start. He wants the job very badly and is working extremely hard as is McNamara. But Kiely's three years of college experience gives him an edge.

Varsity Notes:

Tim O'Connell had a tryout with the Buffalo Sabres and was offered a contract, but returned to UVM. Tim was also married about three weeks ago.

Willie MacKinnon should score more goals this year with his improved shot.

Chris Miller is looking great so far and could have a standout year. Chris Hurley did not return to UVM this year and of course will not play.

TENANTS' COUNCIL QUESTIONNAIRE

Clip and return to: UVM Tenants' Council, Billings Center Desk, University of Vermont.
Here are some projects and activities proposed by the newly-formed Tenants' Council. Let us know which one YOU THINK are most important for immediate action by checking below. Also, circle the ONE which you rate MOST important and cross out any that you feel probably should not be undertaken at this time.

- 1. Publish or list evaluations of landlords and their apartments.
- 2. Publish legal advice for tenants: your rights in matters like rents, utilities, leases, eviction, deposits, pets.
- 3. Provide actual legal counsel for students facing above problems.
- 4. Publish information about student's rights for food stamps and other government programs.
- 5. Listings of basic community resources: supermarkets, drugstores, laundromats, health care, together with pricing/quality information.
- 6. Listings of information about agencies which provide services to off-campus students: Housing, Placement Offices; BEAM, VPIRG, PACT, Bread and Law Task Force, etc.
- 7. Information about the legal rights of student workers.
- 8. Directory of Off-Campus students (addresses, phones).
- 9. A room-mate matching service (listing wants/offers).
- 10. A cooperative food plan (probably with existing ones).
- 11. Short courses in cooking ("Avoiding Surveys on $1 A Day"), housekeeping, realistic menu planning and budgeting.
- 12. Organize car-pools for students to and from campus.
- 13. Furniture exchange for selling or swapping.
- 14. Temporary housing/Emergency housing Office and service.

- 15. Long-range housing problems in Burlington — including alternatives like communes.
- 16. Services to landlords; helping them do their job better.
- 17. (Write in)
- 18. (Write in)
- 19. (Write in)
- 20. (Write in)

NOW—in which areas would YOU be willing to work? What can you provide in experience, energy, insight or humor?

Please CHECK HERE if you want to receive a LANDLORD/APARTMENT EVALUATION FORM about six weeks before the end of the Semester or the School Year.

NAME: _____ PHONE: _____

ADDRESS: _____ APT. NO. _____

CITY/STATE/ZIP _____

(OPTIONAL) NAME OF YOUR LANDLORD: _____

CLIP AND TURN IN AT THE BILLINGS CENTER DESK WITHIN ONE WEEK!

Plan Demonstration...

(continued from page one)

and the Association voted to establish an investigative committee in a 22-8 vote. The chairman of that committee, professor Paul Sylvester of New England College, will be UVM this week to begin the inquiry. The Philosophical Association resolved to take appropriate action, including the firing of Professor Cahn. If their findings warrant this.

It had been speculated that this lobbying was conducted by members of the Arts college, the old committee to review the Philosophy Four. It is in fact, the old committee—John Krizan, Sid Roger, and Milton Adornowicz—who ruled this last week. The situation is further mired by the fact that Adornowicz was appointed by Dean Weiger, rather than elected, when a place on the committee was vacated suddenly last spring. Nor is either the composition nor the conduct of the Standards committee above suspect.

In related matters, members of the Philosophy Department journeyed to Hanover, New Hampshire, where the Northern New England Philosophical Association was in conference, to present the case of the Philosophy Four. Both supporters and opponents of Cahn were in attendance.

A philosopher at that conference who recently taught in the New York Area and who purports to be familiar with N.Y.U., where Cahn taught previously, contends that N.Y.U. has recently closed down two of its campuses and has drastically cut back on programs thus losing many professors, tenured and untenured. This piece of news adds credence to the story that Cahn was about to be relieved at N.Y.U., where he did not have tenure, and thus was put in a position to either come to UVM as a hatchet man, or spend the year unemployed. One of the most

Course On Arab-Israli Conflict To Be Taught

A course is being taught next semester on the History of the Arab-Israli conflict. It is offered Thursday evenings from 7 to 10 pm and is listed in the Spring Course Schedule as History 196K.

Although this course will concentrate on events from the World War I settlement to the present, a historical framework will first be established by a consideration of such topics as: the Jewish settlement of Palestine; the Diaspora; the rise of the Islamic Empire; the medieval Islam; the rise of Zionism and Arab nationalism in the 19th and 20th centuries. In addition to analyzing events surrounding the establishment of Israel, the 1956 conflict, the six-day war, and the October, 1973, war, the class will also examine the situation of the Palestinian refugees, the origin and ideological orientation of various Arab guerrilla organizations, the role of oil in the conflict and possible long-range solutions to the conflict.

Gangster Film

Playdate: Cook Hall B106, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., admission $2.50, Thursday, October 23.

"Bullets or Ballots" from Warner Brothers, 1936.

Starring: Edward G. Robinson and Humphrey Bogart

Directed by: William Keighley.

Notice: The Gangster Film Series is moved to Thursday evenings from its original Saturday evening showings.

KICK-OFF
FOR SUNDAY AFTERNOON
SPORTS FANS

OUR LOUNGE WILL NOW BE OPEN SAT. & SUN. AFTERNOONS AT 12 NOON. WE'VE JUST ADDED A NEW COLORED TELEVISION SET FOR THE GAMES. MAKE OUR LOUNGE YOUR PLACE FOR WEEKEND SPORTS WATCHING.

ARMCHAIR FOOTBALL FANS
HAPPY HOUR PRICES DURING GAMES

SIZZLING
STEAK

1216 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT
(Across the street from McDonald's)
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HOURS
DINING ROOM: 4 P.M. to 11 P.M.
LOUNGE: SAT. & SUN. 12 Noon to 1 A.M.
903-863-0239

In a solitaire is a quality that has always been treasured. We have a fine selection of traditionally styled solitaires from which to choose. We cordially invite your inspection!

PRICES START UNDER $100.00
Illustrations slightly enlarged.

YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT

A GEMMY BY JEWELERS IN VERMONT SINCE 1944
F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.
JEWELERS AND GEMMERS
57 UPPER CHURCH STREET - BURLINGTON

SPE Photo: Wynn Galt

WRUV-AM: Not An Ordinary Radio Station

by Randy Jansen

Are you seeking something enjoyable, or perhaps different and original? Well, it can be found here on the UVM campus in your own room. Turn on your radio to 580 and sit back and savor the sounds of WRUV.

WRUV is the student owned and operated radio station at UVM. Founded in 1954 and funded by the Student Association, WRUV offers almost continuous music and enjoyment to its listeners.

Unlike most radio stations, WRUV utilizes the carrier system. A small scale type of broadcasting, the carrier system uses electrical equipment as the antenna. Limited in scope (about 100 feet range), it enables WRUV group that requests it. Even to function without an FCC license.

On the air for 24 hours a day, WRUV possesses the talent of 65 people, including 30-40 announcers (eight are women).

The pleasures offered by WRUV are numerous. Foremost of course is the music. Ranging from Beethoven to rock, WRUV presents a varied program to please all interests. News, sports, and weather reports provide the latest information to balance out the program. However, there are numerous other functions.

Going on a trip? Call the Ride Board (656-3220) and they'll find you a rider or a system - uses electrical equipment as the antenna. Limited in scope (about 100 feet range), it enables WRUV group that requests it. Even to function without an FCC license.

carefully you students with dry throats.

WRUV is not confined to its studios. They have the Remote Board which enables the station to broadcast almost anywhere. You can see the Remote Board in practice when it broadcasts from the Billings Center for the benefit of ACTION on October 29, 30, and 31.

WRUV is always looking for fresh ideas and new talent. If you have an interest or are just curious, drop in at Pomeroy Annex. The people at WRUV will be happy to show you around. They can use almost any talent, advertising programming, engineering, promotional, or disc-jockey. They want you to be a part of WRUV as well as a listener.

The Good Courts!
Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private
— Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay
courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms
• Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den
• Pro Shop • 24-Hour Stringing Service
• Expert Advice • Open 8 AM-12 AM Weekdays
— 6 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays
Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 863-3439

MAZEL'S
FAMILY SHOE STORE
194 North Burlington

CONTINENTAL TYROLEANS®

DUNHAM'S

The North
Country's Favorite
All-around
BOOT...

Men's Sizes 6 to 13, Ladies' Sizes 5 to 10

★ CAMPUS BOOTS ★ HIKING BOOTS ★

★ Mazel's Open Daily
9 am to 6 pm, Thurs. & Fri. 'til 9 pm.
★ Free Parking Next to Store

Programs

VISTA workers are often advisors to gym teachers, community organizations, helping these groups to mobilize local resources in health, education, and business.

These are the basics of these programs. The recruiters answer many questions, and give much more background on the programs. Once again, they will be at the Holiday Inn and can see you from 10:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. Also, the Hitchcocks are available to answer your questions any day after 3:30 p.m.

MS...

constitutions effectively enough. There were several motions for the formation of new committees, most importantly for a group which would inform and remind the A. of correct procedure. At this time, the need to educate the roles and responsibilities of the Senators was re-emphasized.

Ed Pasquale made the final announcement of a student protest for the Philosophy Four in front of President Andrews' house on Friday at 3:00 p.m. (Senators are particularly encouraged to attend). He believes such a protest will demonstrate student concern for the four professors.

s Functions

spent one of her summers in a WCC work camp among sharecroppers in the South, has worked as a family therapist at Waterbury State Hospital and as a counselor at the Counseling and Testing Center at UVM. She is a Ruling Elder in the Presbyterian Church and is on the faculty of UVM, teaching in the Department of Communication and Theatre.

John Perry is a graduate of Yale Divinity School and has been the Protestant Chaplain at UVM for the past eight years. He was a Visiting Scholar at UVM, by Brother, and turned to teaching at the University of Vermont. He was involved in founding the Roundhouse Coffee House and the Next Thing to drug education project at UVM. Perry is also working on a Ph.D. in Social Psychology at UVM where he teaches Psychology of Religion and Humanistic Psychology. He is also founder and director of the Center for Human Potential in East Montpelier, Vermont.

Harry Brooks is the Coordinator of the Associates. Brooks has a B.S. and M.S. in Electrical Engineering and a C.A.S. in Educational Administration and Planning. He is working on his doctorate in this field. He is also a trustee of the New England Commission of the United Ministries in Higher Education, on the Board of Directors of Planned Parenthood, and Chairman of the Unit Committee of Planned Parenthood. He is a Ruling Elder and Trustee in the Presbyterian Church, and has been chairman of the Greater Burlington Council of Churches and Synagogues and also of the Council for a Cooperative Christian Ministry. Brooks is employed by UVM as the Operations Researcher in the Office of Management Information and Computing. The Associates in Ministry is a new venture in campus ministry. It invites all members of the University community to come and join them in working for the betterment of the Campus. The AIM office is situated in the basement of Hillel House at 300 College Street. Open meetings are held in the office each Thursday evening from 7 to 9 p.m.

UVM SPORTS

Wildcats Top Catamounts 19-7

This past Saturday the University of Vermont dropped their fourth Yankee Conference game 19-7. The contest, which was closer than the 19-7 score indicates, was a battle between two strong defensive clubs. But the Wildcats, with the aid of a weak UVM running attack, were able to hold the Cats to seven points despite the strong running attack of UVM quarterback Bob Bateman. Bateman completed 14 passes for 225 yards.

The Catamounts drew first blood when Bateman hit Tony Jones with a 32 yard scoring pass in the first quarter. This was followed by a 40 yard strike to speedster Billy Locker and a two yard run by Mike McAllister. The drive, which covered 74 yards in three plays, proved that the UVM defense could be broken. George Brunst's conversion gave the Cats a 7-0 lead.

UVM came back, moving to the UVM 15. But the Cats' defense would not yield, and the Wildcats were forced to attempt a 32 yard field goal. Placekicker Dave Teggett converted on the attempt, pulling UVM within 4 points.

The Wildcats' next score came as a result of a UVM turnover. Mike McAllister's fumble on the Vermont 28 proved costly when UVM back Bob Robinson bulled his way over from the one. Teggett's PAT gave the Wildcats a 10-7 lead. Near the close of the second period the Wildcats tried a 27 yard field goal, hoping to boost their lead to 13-7. But the field goal attempt was thwarted as the UVM defense blocked the kick. Vermont took over on their own four and had their backs to the wall. Unable to establish a running game, Bateman attempted to go to the air only to be thrown down in his own end zone. The safety widened the Wildcats' lead to 12-7.

The second half saw UVM totally dominate the action, with the defense playing exceptionally well. UVM was unable to get a first down until late in the fourth quarter.

But the Cat offense, despite moving well on the Wildcats, was unable to put points on the board. They were in UVM territory throughout the half and several times moved inside the 20. But dropped passes and interceptions prevented the Cats from scoring.

The Wildcats' final score came late in the final period following an interception by UVM's Ken Geisinger. Displaying fine running ability, Geisinger returned the ball 51 yards to the UVM 22. Four plays later, quarterback Bob Osgood hit Ray DiePietro for the score. Teggett's conversion closed out the scoring, giving UVM a 19-7 victory.

The Cats' next game will be this Saturday at Hofstra.

Catamount Football Clippings

● Last week, following the heart-breaking 15-14 loss to Rhode Island, the Vermont football team was "medically decimated." Now, following Saturday's 19-7 loss to New Hampshire, the situation appears worse. "You have to expect some injuries because of the way we play defense," said head coach Carl Falivene. "We are a hard-hitting, physical team. Ask any of our opponents." But, Vermont has had more than a few injuries, they have had many. Starters definitely out for the year are offensive tackle Mark Rowe (knee), Tom Sherrer (collapsed lung) and offensive tackle Chris Henry (knee). Probable starters out this Saturday include Glenn Thigpen (elbow), Bob Brand (ankle) and Bill Sweeney (neck). Many of the players are questionable for this weekend, such as defensive standout, Glenn Martel (wrist) and defensive tackle Bill Rudkin (ankle). "Although we have a rash of injuries and have lost two heart-breakers to Rhode Island and New Hampshire, the team is fired up for the remaining three games with Hofstra (Saturday), Massachusetts (Nov. 3) and Bucknell (Nov. 10).

● "If we had scored on one of those offensive series, we would have won the game," said Falivene, after looking at the film of Saturday's very deceiving 19-7 loss to New Hampshire at Durham, Vermont, at one stage of the second half, held New Hampshire to 25 yards on 16 plays from scrimmage, an average of 1.5 yards per play. "Our defensive has been solid all year, but never any stronger than it was the last 30 minutes of the game Saturday," said Falivene. New Hampshire's initial first down of the second half came with less than three minutes left in the game. The Wildcats did not cross their own 20-yard line in the third quarter and well into the final stanza. "Our defense was superb, as was New Hampshire's when it had to be," added Vermont's coach. "Like Rhode Island, it was our game, but the opposition took it away from us."

● Look for two freshmen to spend more time in the Vermont offensive backfield this Saturday at Hofstra, (6-1, won last six). Running back Sam Blood and fullback Larry Lockwood are expected to share duties with running back Mike McAllister and fullback Steve Coon, both starters most of the year. The other starter, speedster Tom Sherrer is out for the season, due to a collapsed lung suffered in the Rhode Island game two weeks ago. "We feel that both Blood and Lockwood have earned a chance to see more action. Both have outstanding speed and should bolster our running attack," said Falivene. Vermont only gained 31 yards on 33 carries in the New Hampshire game.

The bright spots on offense have been sophomore quarterback Bob Bateman throwing for 225 yards against Jones and Bill Locker. Bateman threw for 225 yards against New Hampshire (14 of 39), with Jones hauling in seven for 114 yards and one TD and Locker, five for 84 yards. Now, the Catamounts are looking for a more balanced running attack, in order to make the strong passing game that more potent.

● Up front, with Rowe injured, All-Yankee Conference tackle last year, J. Peter Trono, will move from guard back to his old spot at tackle for Saturday's game at Hofstra. Center Bob Weiler is expected to take Trono's place at guard and freshman Bob Kennedy will start at Center. Al Ricciardi will back up Weiler and Dave Hibma at guard. The Chinese checkers routine, of course, has been forced upon Vermont because of the injuries.

● Defensively, Vermont has been consistent - and tough. Led by All-New England candidate, tackle John Hemphill and linebacker Glenn Martel, the Vermont defense has allowed only 13.5 points a game and two of the TDs scored by New Hampshire were caused by offensive mistakes, one a fumble deep in Vermont territory and a pass interception that was returned 61 yards, setting up the final score. Also, two of the Wildcats' two points came on a safety late in the first half.

● Other defensive standouts were safety Johnny Thompson, linebacker Glenn Thigpen, cornerbacks Carl Clackum (Lithia Springs, Ga.) and Gary Gottfried; middle guard Barry Visen, who had numerous second half tackles last Saturday; and freshman end George Brunst, who also has kicked eight of eight PATs. "The entire defense should be applauded. They hit with reckless abandon," said the Vermont head coach. Thompson, Thigpen and Clackum all attended Gordon Military Academy before coming to Vermont two years ago.

● Tickets for the final away games are on sale at the UVM Patrick Gymnasium, Room 206. Concerning the tickets, Athletic Business Manager, N. Edward Bartlett, has released the following information: Hofstra, Oct. 27, Hemstead, N. Y., tickets for general public are $3.00, faculty and staff, $2.00, and students $2.00; at Massachusetts, Nov. 3, Amherst, Mass., tickets are $3.50 for general public; $1.75 for faculty and staff and $2.00 for students; and at Bucknell, Nov. 10, Lewisburg, Pa., tickets for general public are $5.00, $3.00 for faculty and staff, $3.00 for students and $1.00 for children.

Harriers Place Fifth In Invitational Following Tri-Meet Victory

by Tim Marr

Wednesday, October 17th, the UVM cross-country runners were at their best, as they ran away from annual rivals Williams and RPI on the UVM home course. The scoring was as follows: Vermont 23, Williams 36 and RPI 78. For the second meet in succession, Mike Berry ran behind the leaders for most of the race, only to use his explosive kick to pass them in the final stretch. Berry's winning time was 22:35.1, just thirteen seconds off the 4.4 mile course record. Next to cross the line was McGarr of Williams in 22:41, followed closely by consistent Stan Dunklee of Vermont in 22:42.

UVM had seven of the top ten finishers in the 34-man field, and Pete Weith was fifth, Bob Graves, sixth, Lynn Capen, eighth, Bob Stoehr, ninth, and Bern Putnam, tenth.

by David J. Raneri

The UVM Cross-country team travelled to Franklin Park, Boston last Saturday to participate in the Boston State College Codfish Bowl Invitational. UVM placed fifth out of the twenty-one schools present, while Springfield College was the overall winner. The superior performance of Mike Berry was displayed once again as he placed seventh out of a field of almost two hundred New England runners.

The next four UVM runners to complete the scoring were Bob Graves - 17th, Peter Weith - 20th, Lynn Capen - 35th and Dave Milligan - 37th. Coach Bill Nedde thought the non-conference meet proved to be beneficial to the team, since the Franklin Park (5.0 mi) course will be the site of the New England Cross-country Championship on November 5. This Saturday, October 27, the top seven runners will compete in the Yankee Conference Meet held at Durham, New Hampshire.

Ice Laid In Gutterson

Work has started on converting the tennis courts to skating rink. The ice should be ready for limited use by October 29. Because the weather is still uncertain, a full rink schedule will not start until the week of November 11. Start-up dates for the various activities are as follows:

October 20 - P.E. classes and Varsity and JV Practice

November 5 - Intramurals, Faculty Staff, and 8-to-9

Student Skating

November 11 - Public Skating

The rink schedule has been completed. It is a full one, with very little unscheduled time. The hours put aside for University recreation skating are as follows:

FACULTY AND STAFF

Mon thru Fri 12:15-1:15 p.m. ID Card, Adults Only

Fri 7-8 p.m. Children thru age 14; 8-10:30 p.m. Adults with ID Card

STUDENTS

Mon thru Fri 8-9 p.m. ID Card

Fri 8-10:30 p.m. ID Card

Intramural Results

Wasted Downs Sigma Nu In Football

On Thursday October 18, Wasted defeated Sigma Nu in the Superbowl intramural football. Wasted, paced by its devastating defense and explosive offense, won the game going away, 32-0. Wasted's defense had five interceptions, two apiece by Bill "Curly" Michaud and one by Bob Harner.

Wasted's first touchdown came as a result of a Thomas interception. Tom Thomas, playing alert defense, picked off a Sigma Nu pass and quickly tossed it to Bob Harner. Harner relayed it to Barry Gustin who crossed the goal line for Wasted's first touchdown. Dave Solomon kicked the two point conversion.

Wasted tallied its second touchdown when Peter Jordan netted a long pass fired by Titus "Puppy" Plomantis. Wasted moved for its next score when speedster Dave Solomon snagged a T.D. aerial from Plomantis.

Following two clutch receptions by the fleet Michaud, Plomantis fired a strike to Tom Thomas who had run a perfect pattern and was all alone in the endzone. Dave Solomon put his golden toe to work kicking the 3-point conversions through the uprights for the third and fourth touchdowns.

Following a towering punt by "Super" punter Fletcher

Baltz, that forced Sigma Nu back to their own 3 yd. line, Wasted's defense, sparked by "Lightening" Gustin, produced the final points of the day when an overpowering rush resulted in a Sigma Nu safety.

The team of Dabney Landis '74 and Peter Torrey '76 defeated the team of Rainie Pliska '74 and Peter Huiddeker '74 in three sets (3-6, 6-0, 7-6) for the Intramural Co-ed Tennis Championship.

Yankee Conference Soccer News

Surprise of the year, Maine, tied Connecticut last Saturday (Oct. 20) and suddenly, the Yankee Conference soccer picture has taken on a tinge of confusion. A Massachusetts win (or tie) this Saturday over Connecticut, coupled with a Vermont upset of Maine this weekend, would throw the Conference title up for grabs.

In addition, New Hampshire's surprisingly easy 6-2 win over Vermont, Oct. 20, has catapulted the Wildcats back into contention for the Conference crown. Key action this weekend has Massachusetts at Connecticut, Maine at Vermont and Boston University at Rhode Island.

Named to the weekly squad Tuesday (Oct 23) were linemen Bob Black of New Hampshire and Deepu Sadwani; defenseman Rick Baker of New Hampshire and Maine's John Hackett, the goalie.

Black had four goals and two assists in two wins over St. Anselm's (5-0) and Vermont (6-2), including three goals in the win over St. Anselm's. Sadwani, who has been injured most of the year, came back netminder had 12 saves in the for the Terriers in the knick of time, as Boston University halted a four-game losing streak, defeating Brandeis, 4-3, Oct. 20. Sadwani cashed in on two of the goals.

Baker, a "rugged" fullback, was superb in the two wins last week over St. Anselm's and Vermont. He was particularly brilliant in the decisive win over Vermont, a game which saw Vermont take only nine shots on goal.

Hackett was named to the weekly squad for the third time this year, as the junior most of the year, came back netminder had 12 saves in the for the Terriers in the knick of

CLASSIFIED ADS

What do you own? Do you know? (furniture, china, etc.) I am equipped to make photographic inventories. For details call David Wilden, 863-2488.

Complete ski outfit $40 5/2. "Sabre" Wooden Skis equipped with Cuboo Bindings, size 11 Men's Nordica Boots, Aluminum ski poles. Call 524-8433 After 5 P.M.

FOR SALE: 1972 Honda 350CL 2800 Model. Excellent cond. $680.00 86-23412 (days)

FOR SALE: Pioneer SX-625 Stereo Receiver. Two KLM 23 Loudspeakers. Garrard SL72B Turntable with Shure M91E cartridge - All in superb condition - Call 864-5333

Room: mate wanted: walking distance to campus. Heat and hot water. Electricity extra. $82. Ask for John. 658-2063.

Italian-Nordica Hiking Boots. Hardly used. $41.50. Need size 10 1/2 feet. Call Chris 864-7007.

LOST-Tues. nite. Large multi-colored, hand-woven bag - Memorial Auditorium. Wed. nite-Purple suede wallet-Southwick or gym. Teppy-434-3230.

Whoever found Martha Evan's wallet, please contact me at 656-4263.

For Sale. Wedgewood Bone China. Black Colonsade Pattern. Service for twelve. Never Been Used. In original crate. Retail $428. Best Offer. 656-2159.

LOST: Writings of the Young Marx - Underlined-Needed Badly-Call 863-2716 if found. Barry Salovitz, 1433 Williston Rd., So. Burlington.

Smugglers' Notch

(Formerly Madonna)

We've been working for you... Getting things ready

Our trails have been stumped, brushed, and improved this summer. The Madonna liftline is now skiable from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 - making it one of the finest trails in the east.

A mid-station on Madonna will open later and we're skiing

We've been planning some big things. Like getting ready to host the Vermont State Ski Carnival on Feb. 1-2.

Adults: $10.00. Children: $5.00. And our discounted... which we... from your... They train here... Season Skis... $155 that include... trails.

Information contact... at 656-3845 or in wire at your... Department in Patrick Gymnasium.

Also call:

Meredith Niles 656-3806
Linda Bollinger

Mike Born 656-3844

Irwin Goldberg 656-2036

DON'T FIGHT THE FEELIN'

X-C PACKAGES

Skis-light touring	$36.00	Skis-Head light touring	$52.00
Boots-Norwegian leather	$33.00	with hickory and lignstone edge	$53.00
Poles-Tohlein	$8.00	Boots-Norwegian leather	$33.00
Bindings-3 Pin	$8.00	Bindings-3 Pin	$8.00
Installation	$8.00	Installation	$3.00
SPECIAL $64.00	$88.00	SPECIAL $85.00	$104.00

ALPINE PACKAGE

Votki Fiberglass skis	$77.50
Solomon 202 with Lash	$40.00
Barrecafter Poles	$7.50
Installation and Binding check	$5.00
SPECIAL $99.00	$130.00

M-F OPEN 9-9 Sat. 9-5

One Mile South OF Burlington On Route 7

1250 SHILOH RD.
South Burlington, Vt.
05493

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XXI

NOVEMBER 1993

NUMBER 22

Redstone Hall Shuts Down Because Of Unsafe Conditions

by Barbara Frankel

The story was familiar to many of the students who lived in Redstone Hall. Another Saturday night party at a dorm. But this time, the party was different. A forced artificial heartbeats filled the rooms of this dormitory, making everything seem unrealistic. The reason was simple: the Redstone Hall, the oldest building on campus, was found to be unsafe. Redstone Hall, which has been a popular and unique residence hall for fifty-two years, closed down on Sunday because of the possibility of fatal methane gas leaking from the old lead pipes. The building was originally part of the Redstone estate, until purchased by the University in 1971. Redstone Hall acquired at the same time, was entirely redone and therefore did not have this problem.

Of the thirty-four girls who lived in Redstone, eight have moved off campus. The others went to dorms in Harris Hall where they have received a variety of reports ranging from friendly and helpful to downright hostile. Those students who moved off campus were given a 100 percent refund on their housing contracts for the day they left university housing. All Redstone girls will be given first priority in January when some dormitory rooms become vacant.

The problem first became apparent during a regular maintenance check two weeks ago. The plumbers, who were in Redstone fixing leaky pipes, noticed the some of the pipes were in poor condition. They reported this to UVM Maintenance and a thorough examination of the whole building ensued. Redstone had passed inspection during two checks in September, one by UVM Maintenance and the other by the company which insures students. The completely thorough investigation held two weeks ago, led to expert technicians condemning Redstone Hall as unfit for occupancy at the present time. The experts recommended that for their own safety, students be moved out as soon as possible.

Dr. Keith Miser, Director of Residence Halls, and his staff considered all possible alternatives. Housing officials wanted to avoid inconveniencing the students and did not want to add to UVM's housing shortage. They had hoped that workmen could fix the pipes during the process of that the

SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

Rollins Elected S.A. Chairperson By Overwhelming Plurality

by Bruce Maddern

Steve Rollins, the non-senator candidate, was voted in chairperson of the S.A. Senate by more than 60% of the vote, at Tuesday night's Senate meeting. Ed Pasquini, Coudridge and Alan King, Phi Gamma Delta, were the other two candidates and received 19 and 16, respectively. Among the other items of business were future Concert Bonaire events and progress on opening Patrick Gym on Sunday.

After attending to S.A. House, SA president, Steve Rollins, presented his report. He discussed a meeting the S.A. had at UMass, of the National Student Association to discuss the impeachment of President Nixon. Although Rollins was not a member of the NSA, UVM was asked to attend. Matt Jones, Hamilton and Sarah Finkbeiner, UVM, are going to attend this year. He also discussed the opening of Patrick Gym on Sunday.

Patrick Gym on Sundays. A petition is now circulating to have the gym opened. Heller also asked for suggestions for voting members of the UVM Residency Committee and a new Albatross staff.

Under Committee Reports, Doug Beardsley of the Concert Bureau announced again the concert on November 4th at 8:00 pm, featuring Muddy Waters, Freddy King, and Arlene. He also gave about 60 live names available for early December. Among these were Quicksilver, B.S. & L., Green Lightfoot, Tom Rush and Peter Frampton. Under the coordinating Committee report, the elections of Steve Rollins as the new chairperson was held. Sarah Finkbeiner, secretary, for Student Activities, in her report, mentioned discussion about the recognition procedures and the SA's recognition in the SA.

Under Old Business, there were several withdrawals of motions. Steve defersnak's motion for recognition of OZ Productions was withdrawn because they are now incorporated into the Billing Center. Governing Board Ed Pasquini's proposal for the purchase of an announcement case for the flagpole on the green was withdrawn. Because of minimal cost it was decided to take the money out of the President's Discretionary Fund.

Demonstration At Andrew's House Attracts 50 For Philosophy Four

by Jim Bradley

President Andrews wasn't at home last Friday afternoon. Out of town for the day, he missed the sight of some 50 people walking back and forth along the sidewalk outside his house at the corner of South Williams and College.

The people, most of them students, were demonstrating their support for the four professors known as the Philosophy Four. Their anger and dismay were sparked by recommendations which threatened the jobs of the four: Alan Paskow, Bob Rice, Gerry Anderson and Jim Corcoran. They were further demonstrating their frustration at being powerless in the decision-making process.

Many of the demonstrators discovered that walking back and forth in a line for an hour or two, maybe carrying a home-made sign reading "Free Ideas, Not Dogmatic Philosophy" or "Paskow, Rice, Corcoran, Anderson, Who's Next?" or "The Philosophy Department Has Been Calmed, is not the most exciting activity in the world. This was felt particularly strong since Andrews wasn't home and there was no hope of him dramatically coming out the door to discuss the situation.

But most of the people at the demonstration understood it primarily as a symbolic gesture, with participants coming out of conviction, pride, and sense of duty, more than for adventure. Folks generally walked a while, then joined friends who sat on the lawn, then walked some more. There was a good deal of discussion of the Philosophy Four case throughout the afternoon, as people picked up the latest news and rumors.

A high point occurred when the man from Channel 3 showed up to shoot some footage, which appeared on the 11 o'clock news that night. The enthusiastic reaction to his arrival underlined another important purpose of the demonstration, which was to obtain publicity for the struggle to have the dismissal recommendations reversed.

SPS Photo: R. R. Lew

Many students and faculty members have charged that the efforts to dismiss the four represent an attempt to "clean out" the department of professors who are considered philosophically, academically, and politically undesirable by the administration. All those who have recommended dismissal deny that there is any purge going on or that the four are being judged on anything other than strictly proper academic grounds.

It was a calm, peaceful, easy-going demonstration. No one even suggested petty vandalism or some gesture of disrespect. The tykes from the elementary school down the road were going home at the time, and everybody was pleased when two boys picked up a sign saying "We Want Academic Freedom" and joined in the picket line for awhile.

Across the street a fraternity brother bemusedly watched the proceedings from a second story balcony while perusing a copy of the New York Times. Passing motorists rubbernecked. A dog who seemed to belong to the place showed some interest, too, particularly in the smattering of canine demonstrators.

The curtains were drawn inside the house, but someone saw them move once or twice. Near the end a BMW automobile pulled into the driveway, but it was a long-haired teen-ager rather than a middle-aged university president who climbed out.

Finally many of the demonstrators lodged their signs in the grillwork of an iron fence along a side porch of the house for the resident's discovery upon his return.

In the latest development of the case, Dean John Weiger of the Arts College made his recommendations. According to a spokesman for the Four in the Philosophy Department, Weiger recommended Paskow, Anderson, and Rice not be rehired, and that Corcoran be rehired for one year. The process now moves to the Academic Affairs Committee of the Faculty Senate. From there it goes to Vice President Alfred Rollins, and then to President Andrews.

Despite widespread curiosity around the campus about the unfolding drama, Dean Weiger refused to make a statement on his recommendations, saying: "It's a matter of university policy to keep all personnel records of both students and faculty confidential, and therefore I'm unable to discuss any of the individuals or their records."

Living/Learning Center Hosts Inter-Cultural Relations Program

by Laurie Rapp

There's a program at UVM which attempts to deal with racism and inter-cultural misunderstanding on an individual level. Since September, 1973, the Living/Learning Center has been the host of the Cultural Communications Component (CCCC), a new program

Education. Under the coordination of Joseph Jones, the program, whose special emphasis is in Early Childhood Education, is involved in "searching for ways to identify, understand, and hopefully eradicate inter-cultural problems." In black and white it's about black and white.

The organizers of the CCCC feel that in order for us to survive, solutions must be attained for the problems with our cultural relationships, now in critical periods of development in our nation and world. So far, little has been done at UVM to enlighten our community to the problems in areas such as black/white relations, minority education and cultural pluralism.

mention a few. But being microcosms of society, our public schools and universities, "must make sincere efforts at attempts to bring culturally different peoples together in meaningful, dialogue and educational experiences aimed at producing alternative solutions to prejudice, hatred, and fear," says Jones.

Hence, the Black Educators of the University of Vermont have developed CCCC with several special features, with the emphasis again on early childhood education. They are:

1. To provide a cultural diversity in the Living/Learning Center.
2. To provide an academic arena for the discussion of relevant academic, social, political, and artistic issues of our time.
3. To provide a resource for the UVM and Burlington communities which would assist in raising the consciousness in the area of race relations of people who participate in the program.
4. With regard to Early Childhood Education:

- a. To expand the amount of attention being given to the area of minority youth education by working closely with the APIX program and the Human Development and Early Childhood programs.

(continued on page ten)

Women, Minorities Make Slow Gain On Nation's Faculties

From the Chronicle of Higher Education

Berkeley, Cal.

Women and minority groups will not be represented on college and university faculties in the same proportion as in the nation's labor force until the year 2000, and perhaps even by then, according to an estimate issued here last week by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education.

A commission study outlines projected hiring rates for the next century, based on the belief that the best solution to under-representation by these groups is to gradually increase their hiring as they emerge from graduate school in larger numbers.

The commission's findings were pursued for 20 years until the end of the century, the number of women and minorities on college faculties would rise to 1970 levels of 22.5 per cent and 8.4 per cent, respectively, to 39.2 per cent for women and 19.6 per cent for minorities.

The commission's findings would follow these steps:

In the 1970's, 85 per cent of the faculty members hired by U.S. colleges and universities would be women and 10 per cent would be members of minority groups. By 1990, these figures would rise to 88.5 per cent and 14.4 per cent, respectively.

In the 1980's, with more women and minority group members coming out of graduate schools, women would fill 48 per cent of the openings and minorities would fill 20 per cent. By 1990, their representation would thus grow to 29.5 per cent and 8.8 per cent, respectively.

In the 1990's, when large numbers of white males had begin to retire, 55 per cent of the openings would go to women and 25 per cent to minorities. By 2000, that would put them at rough parity with their representation in the labor force.

White Male Percentage Would Drop

While this chain of events would reduce the percentage of white males from 75 per cent in the 1970's to 58.5 per cent in the 1980's and to 33.8 per cent in the 1990's, their representation would thus decline from 76.3 per cent in 1970 to 51.3 per cent in 2000.

Those figures come from a technical note attached to the commission's final report. The note is entitled "Prospects for Minority Group and Female Participation in Higher Education: Faculty." It was issued separately a few days before the final report.

The projections take into account several factors: the age distribution of current faculties, expected attrition rates, a student faculty ratio of 10 to 1, and projected

Faculty Senate Slips Into Routine (Yawn)

by John Van Hoesen

In less than an hour last Thursday, a casual Faculty Senate heard Vice President Rollins accept policy committee reports and held routine elections.

President Andrews was

The Vice President spoke to

SPS Photo: Wynn Gold

available for questioning, but there were no questions from the Senate. Vice President Rollins was prepared for the silent floor.

Rollins stated there are two problems relating to the academic calendar which require immediate attention. One is the arrival of freshmen to campus before Labor Day. This procedure, an experiment was termed a miserable failure by Rollins. Jones expressed dissatisfaction that freshmen are held "in a dead situation" for several days between orientation and the first day of classes.

The second long-range problem Rollins cited, is the confusion that nonacademic employees have with respect to their holidays and who sets them.

Reiterating a popular theme, the vice president remarked that the administration and the faculty must work closely to solve long-range calendar problems. "We are going to be under serious attack from time to time," he stated, because the academic calendar leaves the university facilities dormant during the middle of the year.

Dr. Rollins explained to the Senate that two new committees, the library council and the instructional improvement committee, will involve some overlap with the Academic Affairs Committee. The postmortem statement was made several weeks after the resignation of Dr. Leonard Jones as chairperson of the Academic Affairs Committee. Jones resigned because of a lack of communication between the administration and the Senate concerning the overlap of administrative and Senate committees.

Finally, the vice president announced that Dr. Jeremy Felt was asked to coordinate the Overseas and International Program.

Committee Reports

Reporting for the Faculty Affairs Committee, Dr. N. James Schoonmaker assured the Senate that the committee was still working on the criteria for tenure. The committee proposed a set of criteria for tenure at the first University Senate meeting this year, but the Senate referred the proposal back to the committee. Schoonmaker hoped to have a revised proposal ready for the Senate's perusal by November 14.

(continued on page nine)

In This Week's Cynic:	Review Of The Literature Of Vermont -p.6
Creative Writing Contest Details -p.5	UVM Debate Club Off To A Great Start -p.6

Table of Contents
Cryptoquote	p. 3
Editorial	p. 4
Op. Ed.	p. 5
Sports	p. 12
Doctor's Bag	p. 8

Registrar

Presents...

Advance Enrollment Card returns today, Friday, November 2. All degree students who do not turn in an Enrollment Request Card by Friday, November 2, will be treated as dropped students for the Spring, 1974, Semester. If you wish to apply for readmission, you must fill out the Enrollment Request Card, which will be accepted after 4:00 p.m. on November 2.

Wednesday, November 21 begins the Thanksgiving Recess. There will be NO classes that day. Classes will resume on Monday, November 26.

Second Annual

UVM Ski Show

This weekend is going to be a perfect warm-up for the 1973-74 ski season. Over a month ago 20 students started work on what could be the latest 24 hours of skiing without snow found anywhere.

On Friday night, Nov. 2nd at 8:00 p.m. in Patrick Gym, there will be a 90 minute ski film shown. It is the 1973 Warren Miller production, "SKIING'S GREAT". There will be shots for beginners hotdogging for holidays, spectacular scenery from France, Colorado, Canada, Idaho, California, Switzerland, North Carolina, and, of course, VERMONT. It's entertainment for everyone, but if you are a skier, it will leave you hotdogging out of the gym. Admission will be $1.00 and tickets will be sold at the UVM Bookstore and at the door.

Then you can go to sleep and wake up to the SECOND ANNUAL UVM SKI SHOW. It will be held Saturday, Nov. 3rd, 1:45 p.m. Wright Dining

Young To Talk About Jobs

In The Federal Government

On November 28, 1973 at 12:30 p.m. in Memorial Lounge, Waterman, Mr. Stephen Young, a Federal Recruiter of the United States Civil Service Commission will be at UVM to discuss "Career Opportunities for Minority Students in the Federal Government".

The purpose of this visit is not to recruit, but to talk informally about career opportunities with the Federal Government. This informal session will give students the opportunity to find out what types of careers are open to college graduates, what qualifications one needs to be considered for them, and how a person goes about applying for Federal Government positions.

All interested students are invited to attend.

Folk Dance Club Will Sponsor Workshop

The University of Vermont Folk Dance Club is pleased to announce the first major folk dance workshop to be held in the Burlington area. On November 2 and 3, Jean Pierre Jovial, a well known expert in Balkan and Middle Eastern folk dancing will conduct a weekend workshop at the Southwick Gymnasium on the Redstone Campus of UVM.

The workshop is open to all and beginners are encouraged to attend. There will be four sessions:

Nov. 2 Friday 8 P.M.

Nov. 3 Saturday 10 A.M.

'Voyage In Spirit'

Dr. James Peterson of the UVM Department of Counseling will be the guide for the next Voyage in the Spirit. This will take place in Marsh Lounge (Billings Center) Wednesday, November 7, at 12 noon. Bring your lunches as coffee will be provided. All are welcome. (Sponsored by the Associates in Ministry)

Horse Club Polo Clinic Quite A Success

The Horse Club's Polo Clinic on Saturday attracted over 40 people to the Spear Street Animal Science Farm. Both girls and boys came from the UVM student body as well as from 4-H and Pony Club groups.

Mr. Gerald Hilley of the Sugarbush Polo Team and Tom Wheeler of the Loudonville Polo Team conducted a stable session in the large Indoor Arena so all could watch the demonstration. First, Tom Wheeler, a freshman at UVM, and Mr. Hilley showed the proper way to bandage a polo pony's legs. Then Tom and two horse clubbers, Meg Hilley and Martha Hanks showed how to tie a polo knot in the horse's tails. After this the group of students tried their hand at bandaging and tying.

with Mr. Hilley and Tom guiding them.

Then the U.S. Polo Association's film "Charlie Chukkar" was shown. The story of polo was told through the eyes of an experienced polo player who had the job of teaching a young "greenhorn" the basics of polo.

Following the film, Mr. Hilley gave a description of the history of polo and the present interest in polo in the U.S. He also added that while the state of Vermont had only one polo team (Sugarbush) he hoped that this clinic, and others to follow, might change that fact.

Interest in the clinic seemed to show that through the UVM Horse Club, a polo team might be started. The students who participated did very well, and enthusiasm was high. The clinic and ball period gave everyone a chance at practicing polo, then Mr. Hilley, Tom Wheeler and two Horse Club members had a mini game. The game ended after two "throw-ins" with a tie score of 1-1, with many cheers for the new players.

Since the exhibition game at UVM on Sunday was cancelled, a group of students drove to Waitsfield to see the last game of the season. Mr. Hilley was pleased to see the familiar faces, and when he wasn't riding in the game, he continued the clinic by answering questions about the game.

Interest like that can't be lost, so future polo players should come to the Horse Club meeting in the MAT Lounge next Monday night. For polo information call: Meg Hilley 656-2592.

Poli Sci Faculty-Majors Party

Attention Political Science Majors: Faculty-Majors (and intended majors) Party to be held Friday, Nov. 9, at 4:00 p.m. in St. Anselm's on Redstone Campus. Beverages served $1.00 to be paid at Pol. Sci. Office (2nd floor Old Mill) at door.

Meeting Of Psych. Majors

Representatives of the Psychology Department Faculty would like to meet with all Psychology Majors to discuss current trends in Psychology Graduate School admissions and other Post Graduate Opportunities in Psychology. The meeting will be held on Thursday, November 13, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 212, John Dewey Hall. All interested are urged to attend.

Last Minute Entries

Although the entry deadline has passed, Chaplain Odie says that he will accept any last minute entry, but there is no time to waste. If you failed to enter on time, or have just decided you'd like to get up a car and be in it, call Chaplain Odie immediately (656-3882 or 864-6354). This way you can still get your car into the race, and the entry fee can be handed in at a later time. But act now, as Chaplain Odie will accept all last minute calls and entries only until 9:00 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 1st.

Newman Center

SERVICES: Holy Communion: Sunday - 11:00 a.m. Tuesday - 10:00 p.m. (Services Episcopal - All denominations welcome!) Morning Prayer: Mon-Fri - 9:00 a.m. (Ten minute Ecumenical service sponsored by the Protestant, Roman Catholic, and Episcopalian ministries) (CHOIR: Wednesdays - 7:00 - 8:00 p.m. DISCUSSION GROUP: Friday - 6:30 Burgess Lounge. Group of interested students who discuss and raise important questions, concerns, doubts, and remarks they have about their faith, religion, church, or life as a student. This group is led by Chaplain Odie. Anyone is welcome to join them.

F.A.D.C.

Phi Delta Theta is having an F.A.D.C. (Friday Afternoon Drinking Club) this Friday at 3:00 pm featuring kegs, mixed drinks, and hot dogs. All welcome.

OPEN DAILY 9:30 AM to 9:00 PM
1305 Williston Road, South Burlington

Bass Shoe Factory Outlet

Where you save up to 50% on Quality footwear.

Men's Nationally Advertised LEVI'S JEANS

XX DENIM
$9.00

The slacks and jeans that everybody wants... often copied, but never quite duplicated. Your choice of 100% cotton pre-shrunk blue denim jeans, flared for fashion, or 100% cotton durable corduroy pants in brown or navy. Stitched throughout with rugged thread. All popular sizes.

BASS SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

DOMINO'S PIZZA
DOMINO'S AD CONTEST

Since the beginning of the semester, you students have had the pleasure of reading catchy, humorous, and attention getting phrases or sentences in this space. Well, we've run out of these catchy phrases. Now we call on you to help us.

For the next issue and if everything works out right for the rest of the semester, we open the ad writing to you.

In 15 words or less, give us a catchy phrase. If your idea appears in Thursday's paper, you win a free pizza of worth up to $6.05. Each week's selection is made from that week's entries, submitted between Thursday and Monday only. Thus if your entry does not win one week, it may next week; but you must re-submit it.

Please send or bring your entry to the Advertising Department Vermont Cynic Billings Center

Remember Deadline is Monday noon.

864-7444
WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333
NORTH WINDSKI AVE.

50¢ OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Expires NOV. 8, 1973

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Void if not completed
1 Coupon per pizza

FREE DELIVERY

If she doesn't say yes
it won't be our fault.

Prices start from under $100

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

17 UPPER CHURCH STREET - BURLINGTON

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1

7 p.m., VPIRG meets, Round room, Billings Center
7 p.m., Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship prayer, page 1 and fellowship meeting, Bldg. A, Rm. 131, Living/Learning Center

7:30 p.m., open hearing "Transportation and the Consumer," conducted by Ms. Ann Uccello, director of consumer affairs, U.S. Department of Transportation, Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg. Free and public is invited. Sponsored by Lake Champlain Regional Chamber of Commerce and UVM Environmental Program
7:30 p.m., Tenants Council meets, Marsh Room, Billings Center

8 p.m., informal meeting for all English majors who are interested in applying to graduate schools, Dewey Lounge, Old Mill. Prof. Lee Jones and Bill Stephany will provide information and answer questions about graduate study in English, procedures for applying to graduate schools, and other pertinent matters

8 p.m., seminar in Jewish history, taught by Mitch Fried, "Saul Solomon," Harris Mills recreation room, all are welcome

8 p.m., Opening Night of "The Lady's Not for Burning," by Christopher Frye, directed by Prof. Nancy Haynes, at the UVM Arena Theatre. Tickets are $1 with UVM I.D., $2 general, box office Ext. 2094. The play runs through Nov. 5.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 2

1:45 p.m., UVM Ski Club hosts a used equipment sale and ski show with local ski shops represented, at Wright Dining Hall, Redstone Campus. Admission free, cider and granola for refreshments

4 p.m., "Friday at Four" open house, Arena Theatre
7:30 and 9:30 p.m., Lane Film Series presents another in its "horror classics" series "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" starring Lon Chaney; admission $1 at the door of Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg. Tel. reservations accepted, call Ext. 3418

8 p.m., "The Lady's Not for Burning," at the Arena Theatre, details under Nov. 1.

8 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick Building, free and open to all.

9 p.m., "Roundhouse," informal entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere, basement, Billings Center.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3

Saturday, Nov. 3, from 1-9 p.m., UVM Ski Club hosts a used equipment sale and ski show with local ski shops represented, at Wright Dining Hall, Redstone Campus. Admission free, cider and granola for refreshment. Please note the date correction from last week's calendar.

8 p.m., "The Lady's Not for Burning," a play by Christopher Frye, at the Arena Theatre, box office, 656-2094, details under Nov. 1.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 4

"Everyone's Gallery," a gallery for everyone at Bldg. B, Rm. 161, Living/Learning Center, holds a one-day "engine show." Sponsor of the gallery is the art education program.

8 p.m., "The Lady's Not for Burning," a play by Christopher Frye, at the Arena Theatre, details under Nov. 1.

Three landscape shows continue at the Fleming Museum: George Loring Brown, Thelma Appel (who will give a gallery this week), and work by students in a summer course taught by Prof. Bill Davison and Frank Hewitt.

A "curcubit" show is in the lobby of Marsh Life Sciences Building, sponsored by Botany 151 students.

Lane Series events this week include bluegrass music on Nov. 6, and another horror film on Nov. 9. Call the Lane Office, Ext. 3418, to make reservations.

Jack Trewhick, Director, announces a Lane Series extra, the complete Nutcracker Ballet by the Hartford Ballet Co., on Friday, Dec. 7 at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium. Tickets are now on sale at the Lane Office, 214 Waterman (continued on page three)

CLASSIFIED ADS

Whoever found Martha Evan's wallet, please contact me at 656-4263.

APARTMENT TO SHARE with 2 other female students. 3 rooms, 2 bedrooms, 2 full baths, kitchen, livingroom, furnished, all utilities $77 month. (negotiable) 863-3942.

1960 Austin-Healey 3000 (Mark II) Was Once a Great Automobile; Now needs T.L.C. and Body Work. May be Seen tonight at 389 College Street. Best offer over $150 takes it. Call Carolyn at ext. 3180 (9-5).

Roommate Wanted to share small house in South Burlington. Fireplace, garage, encl. for garden, furnished, 862-6288 or 862-6204.

FOUND—Silver ring in front of library—10/24—Call 862-1646—Linda.

FOR SALE—1970 Opel Cadette, Automatic transmission, New engine, new carburetor, 36,000 miles, $850.00 Call Betty 863-1208.

ATTENTION Materialists and Pack Rats. Do you know what you own? I am equipped to make photographic inventories. (Ideal for insurance purposes.) Details: David Wilder—863-2486.

CLOSEST TO THE CAMPUS

Chittenden's CampusSi de Banking
For everything you need a bank for.

Chittenden

More than just a Bank!

TRUST COMPANY

CRYPTO

The following question author's name To solve letter has been substituted

For Example

In this example, the author's name To solve letter has been substituted

RENZINXQRFED

RXLFDNWFFEN

Solution to last week's puzzle

Civility costs nothing

(continued)

at $2, $3, and $4 Telephone

MONDAY

4:30 p.m., Phi Beta Kappa Faculty Lounge, fifth floor, alumni and other Phi Beta attend

7:30 p.m., showing of a film by William M. Sargent which follows students, 103 R accepted

7:30 p.m., Art instruction program on children's art

Community Center, Windsor

7:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance in Marsh Lounge, Billings Center

8 p.m., concluding performance of "The Lady's Not for Burning" by Prof. Nancy Haynes, at the 2094, $2 general $1 with UVM I.D.

8 p.m., The Women of Kennedy Dr., South Burlington

"The Joy of Collecting" collection. Those who have Mrs. Robert O. Sinclair 864-4409

TUESDAY

12 noon, informal bag Committee, College of Education

Concerned faculty and students

6:30 p.m., Senate Meeting

7 p.m., Bible study sponsored by Fellowship, A Building, Rm. 161

7:30-8:30 p.m., Lamp

inquiry meet, MAT Lounge, ext. 2952

8 p.m., Lane Series Blue Scruggs Revue and Doc

Auditorium. Tickets are at Lane Office. For reservation

8:30 p.m., SAFilms are Board will present a movie

Billings Center.

WEDNESDAY

12 noon-1 p.m., Dr. Ministry, leads "Voyage in the Spirit," Conference Room to all.

12 noon, UVM Women's conference room, bring you open to all UVM women.

8:30-11 p.m., UVM Folk Dance open to all

Controversial

Film

Windsor Prisoners no pale

A controversial film is to be shown Tuesday, November 6, 8:30 p.m., in Billings Center

Lounge. The film, which bears out that the prison is a place, will be followed by a more detailed analysis of Vermont Corrections Dept.

Guest speakers will include Larry Rosenstock—producer of the film, Bill Fox—founder of the film, and a film

inmate—Windsor Prisoner

Stoneman—Vt. Commissioner of Corrections, and a

Fishman—Sociology Professor at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

at UVM

Editorial

The Tragedy Of Redstone Hall

The closing of Redstone Hall is a tragedy, not only for the girls involved, but for the entire university. Redstone, it is hoped, will reopen again. In the meantime, however, the university is losing one of its most unique and beautiful attractions.

Although many people have suffered because of the situation, no one is really to blame. Dr. Keith Muer, Director of Residence Halls, is not at fault here. Redstone was examined twice before the start of the semester and passed inspections both times. The problem could not have been foreseen at that time.

The girls in Redstone have suffered the most and deserve compassion and understanding from their new suitmates in Harris. Most of them have received sympathetic and friendly receptions. Some have not. Certainly the Harris residents have also been inconvenienced by the loss of their lounges. But it's much harder to lose your home, to suddenly have to move to a new and, in many cases, unfamiliar place.

Hopefully, Redstone Hall will reopen in the near future. In order to do this, however, a great deal of money, over $100,000, will be involved. If housing cannot spare the money, perhaps the former Redstone residents and all others who love the traditional beauty of the building would be willing to solicit funds to make Redstone a home again.

B.F.

Editorial

A Chance For A Real Education

It's a commonplace that some of the most important learning going on at a college takes place outside of the classroom. Even though that perception may have been paid lip service to the point of seeming trite, it remains one of the truest things which can be said about college life. Sadly, for most of us, not enough of this kind of learning does take place. For some of us it has often seemed that if you really want to learn you'd better leave college.

So we are very pleased to learn that there is a program going on at UVM which attempts to meet an important area of non-academic, personal learning and growth head on. In black and white, it attempts to bridge some of the distance between black and white in our society. It goes by the unframing name of the Cross-Cultural Communications Component program (CCCC), and is sponsored by the Living/Learning Center. There are 19 students in it now—10 blacks, 7 white, 1 Chinese, and 1 Puerto Rican—and they live in adjoining suites at the Living/Learning Center. While following normal academic pursuits in the larger college, they meet weekly for a special class in Cross-Cultural Communications. This is taught by Joe Jones of the School of Education, who is largely responsible for conceiving of and pushing for the program.

CCCC is a young program and it needs and deserves recognition and support. We feel that in concept it is one of the best things going on at UVM. Only through such efforts can we hope that racism will really be ended.

No matter what happens to them elsewhere at UVM, the students in this program have the opportunity to get a real education.

J.B.

Another View Of The Goddard College Crisis

by Harry Chaucer, Graduate Student, Botany Dept.
I was a student at Goddard for three years. After graduation, I worked at the College in the capacity of Work Program Director and counselor for one year. The work program is a method the College has traditionally supported of distributing the financial burden as equitably as possible amongst students of varying backgrounds by requiring all students to donate time and effort to the college, thereby cutting costs. As director and counselor, it has been necessary to maintain close contact with students.

I am in no position to appraise the intricate financial criticism raised by many students, Mr. McKee, Mr. Johnson and others. Even a small college is immensely complex and I lack the time, access to facts and financial expertise to analyze the situation in a meaningful way. I can, though, briefly characterize through my experience the individuals involved. After all, the College is undergoing a power struggle and the faith, the selflessness, the motives of the contestants is of crucial importance to ordinary people who have access only to secondary sources.

I believe that Mr. McKee, Charlie Johnson and many of the students involved in the crisis are both extremely self-serving and power-hungry. Individuals and groups speak to some real issues. Mr. McKee, for instance, has consistently dominated meetings to the point of exclusion of other opinions. He is an artful rhetorician, yet he has displayed little, if any, ability to listen to fellow members of the troubled community. In the Cynic's article (Oct. 18), Mr. Johnson, a close friend and fellow critic with McKee, characterized McKee as "a winner in a world of losers, losers who look like winners and who people think are winners. He (McKee) cannot accept defeat. To Otis there is no such thing as defeat. There are only setbacks. This is consistent with my view of the man and of others who adhere to the philosophy of mindless struggle. Otis does, apparently as Johnson stated, believe that the world is a bunch of losers not worth hearing, and cannot accept the kind of defeat that occurs when faults are pointed out or arguments seem to be faulty. It is this inflexible (a better word than "mindless") philosophy that led the President (whom I do not support on most issues) to bar McKee from campus.

In summary, I believe that Otis McKee, Charles Johnson, and some of the students involved with them have left the people who work to make the institution a sound, progressive center of education no alternative but to ban them from campus. With this successfully accomplished, the College may be able to go on with the difficult task of recreating and maintaining a philosophically and economically sound institution.

Those who have read about the visit with the Old Man have often wondered about him, sometimes asking, "Is he real?" The Old Man is very real. He represents to me an American who still feels something for his country. I call that feeling love. He has survived many battles, and he has grown wiser with each one. But the Old Man is having troubles with the present battle. The Cynic has never been a person who condemns others. He is not unlike other Old People I've met in my first 21 years. They all have something to say, and something to be heard. It is for them I write my final visit with the Old Man, I call affectionately the Cynic.

"It's been over a year," I said.

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

"I THINK DAN WOULD BE GLAD TO GO OUT WITH THIS LINDA LOVELACE GIRL!"
© COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES-BOX 9411-BERKELEY, CA 94703

Letters To The Editor

A Vote For Israel

To the Editor:
I read with anger the letter of D. Hoffman and C. Douglas which was blatantly false and full of rhetoric. The authors tried to gloss over Egypt and Syria's premeditated Yom Kippur attack by stating that they were merely attempting to retake land "taken from them". Could it be that Messrs Hoffman and Douglas were unaware of the events which led up to the 67 war? Nasser's proud boasts that he would drive the Israelis into the sea, expulsion of the U.N. Security force from the Sinai; full-scale mobilization of both the Egyptian and Syrian armies on Israeli borders; and a month long blockade of the Gulf of Aquaba and the Straits of Tiran in an attempt to choke off Israel. Let it be added that Israel endured this blockade, an acknowledged act of war, for a full month in the hope of obtaining "peace and international justice" from the U.N. Instead, the door was left wide open for an Arab attack. Messrs Hoffman and Douglas spoke constantly of "atrocities". War is an unpleasant calamity and too often those least responsible are killed, Israel, however, has shown remarkable restraint. Israel could have completely leveled Damascus with artillery fire before the ceasefire, but she refused to do so because of the fear of inflicting casualties on the civilian population and even now the Israelis are allowing blood plasma and food to get through to the beleaguered Egyptian Third Army. I shudder to think what would have happened to the women and children of the border kibbutzim if the 100,000 man Syrian army had broken through the Golan Heights. Certainly, the sponsors of letter bombs, marketplace bombings, kidnappings, Munich, Lod, and countless other terrorizing activities throughout Israel's existence cannot be considered "Angels of Mercy". Finally, if Messrs Hoffman and Douglas wish to give their money and blood to the Red Cross, this would be a noble undertaking indeed. However, as one member of a tribe to another, a poisoned mind is extremely hard to salvage. But bigotry and ignorance cannot go unmentioned.
Kenneth S. Markowitz

A Condemnation Of Greed

by Jeff Ryback

The morning sun bit through the verdant needles of a tall imposing white pine and stared at the craggy lines of a floating, fall leaf. The leaf was a maple and covered with smudges of yellows and oranges which delineate autumnal skies. And as it fell, softly, the pointed ends alternately bowed, bursting with the shimmering delight that accompanies cloudless days. Upwards the leaf could see the delicate line of a Chickadee, his black mask gently caressing the beady, brown eyes, chirping, not afraid of the cool north wind. And the ducks flew higher up phalanxes for the journey towards new waters, toward a warmth that whispered the song of love and then awaited the call to blanket mottled eggs.

The two had driven for hours over the steeping hillsides of powdery sand, when, all of a sudden, the jeep jostled to a halt, and they jumped out. One of them threw his shirt and pants off, and began prancing round and round about the soft, sinking floor. Then he dug his hands into the sand until they were full. He lifted his palms above his sunburned countenance and let the sand sift through his fingers and bound about the crevasses of his face. And then he screamed joyously, "I'm alive, by God, I can feel it!"

Often times I sit and compose little passages like the ones above, if for no other reason than to let myself know that life exists beyond the grave of ordinary existence. But then morning comes, banging on your head with alarm clock screeches. And then the day begins... 8 am do this... 9:15 do that... must sleep at ten because... mustn't miss "Secret Storm"... and so on.

I continuously wonder about it all and why it's structured so tightly. In fact, it's hard to feel free walking down a street; there is always the feeling that someone will pick you off for walking too close to their lawn or that the policeman who has been following you for two blocks will haul you in for vagrancy. Yes, I think I can understand paranoia. Then I ask myself, why have we become so narrow-minded? Why has the abomination of uniformity saturated us with that aggressive need to succeed in our little, artificial monopoly game. Even more cutting is when we consider how society programs us: we are run by a government that should serve us and be as quiet as a church mouse. But it is in the forefront of our existence, structuring our lives with greed and laws that allow the rich to override any dreams of progressive equality; and the police with their ticket books and quotas and their inability to hear someone say, "I didn't realize the meter had run out", have us driving about stretching our necks this way and that wondering when they will pull us over for something we know nothing about; and then our intelligence is trampled on, stomped on, and crushed by insulting, debasing television commercials and glibless television programs; and the great silent majority eases their old tired bones with the self-assurance that billions for defense are making the world a safe place to live in. It is these problems and their ramifications that have even confused our artists and wrapped them in the mire of naturalistic reality to the point where they find it hard to divert beyond a sexual orgy or an international spy plot. Why have we become so narrow minded????

I have never felt more alone than when I stand alone and understand. All he needed was a chance to grip his personal reality before other realities piled high enough to smother him. Simply put, he strives for that uniqueness that cries out to the crowd, "Hey, look at me, no I'm not an American, I'm a Special person." It's then that a man becomes an artist of life, a beholder of an individual spirit, a creator. He no longer needs a Sunday football game or a week-day hockey game to make him forget he is alive; for he can look at the simplest things and devour them with awareness; he can feel the cold grab at his guts on a frost-bitten day; he can marvel at the stars dangling in the oasis of the purple black universe. And if the day comes when such a majority exists, he will not have to worry about being number one, instead he will revel in the joys of self-fulfillment. People

(continued on page ten)

Return Of The Cynic: Where Has The Spirit Gone?

Steven C. Rice
Those who have read about the visit with the Old Man have often wondered about him, sometimes asking, "Is he real?" The Old Man is very real. He represents to me an American who still feels something for his country. I call that feeling love. He has survived many battles, and he has grown wiser with each one. But the Old Man is having troubles with the present battle. The Cynic has never been a person who condemns others. He is not unlike other Old People I've met in my first 21 years. They all have something to say, and something to be heard. It is for them I write my final visit with the Old Man, I call affectionately the Cynic.

"It's been over a year," I said.

"Yes, I guess it has," the Old Man laughed. "It's good to see you." Time flies, we both thought as we looked at each other. He had put on a few more pounds, and there were a few more lines around his gray eyes. The Old Man had also grown a beard. "You like it?" he asked. "Well, it makes you look like a sea captain." "It does? Well, my son, it has been a long time since I steered a ship." "So, what have you been doing?" I asked. "Just travelling around the country. Thumbing here and there."

"Just like you did last year?" "Yes, but there weren't any political conventions to go to this year." "Oh, c'mon son, I had a fun time in Florida last year. I'll never forget that old woman standing near the convention hall, smoking on one of those marijuanas cigarettes, and how the policemen tried to get her in the paddy wagon. Well, that old woman took her picket sign, and did the ever give that police captain a whack!" The Old Man waived.

There was a moment's silence. "Well, this place hasn't changed much, has it?" he asked, looking around at the young people in the Den. "No, not much. It's a good place to come." For a few minutes, we said nothing as we drank our coffee. The din was pleasant.

"Well, there has been something that strikes me a little strange," the Old Man remarked. "What's that?" "I was down Columbia last week. You know, it seemed so quiet as I walked around the campus. Not quiet in the sense there wasn't any noise."

He noticed my puzzled look. "Oh, there was plenty of noise enough. I guess a few halls were having parties. Whooping it up, alright. Fifteen kids in one of them, I heard."

He paused, and then said softly, "You know, back in my day: there used to be a phrase that went something like this: a car in every man's garage. I have a feeling that maybe they should have a phrase for today's college student: a keg in every student's room."

Looking at me, the Old Man asked, "Do you remember the first time we met?" "Yes, it was down at Columbia."

"There was quite a bit going on that day. I can remember it pretty good."

"I can too." "I was beginning to understand," the Old Man continued. "It was a cold, gray day. But that didn't seem to matter much. There was some kind of rally going on the library steps. I bumped into you, and I asked what was happening."

"And I told you Jerry Rubin was speaking." "Yes, well, I should have. Must admit I didn't really care for the foul language. But, there was something that struck me. There was a spirit in the air, and my old bones suddenly felt alive."

I remembered: My bones were alive, too. "Well, that was some kind of day. I won't ever forget it," he said, his eyes grim. "And I won't ever forget the time I marched down that Chicago street with those young people, holding a candle. And before I knew it, there was screaming all over the place. And blood," the Old Man's voice trembled.

"I never liked violence, my son, never. But, what struck me strange last week with all the events going on, was that there were no longer any rallies. And when I passed those library steps at Columbia, I wondered what had become of the spirit that we felt on that day. I wondered if the students and their leaders no longer felt a love for their country. And, I said to myself, almost in guilt, they still must."

The Old Man paused. Then, he said gently, "Son where has that spirit gone, though? The rest of the country was feeling heard last week. But, the colleges and universities didn't say hardly anything. At least, I didn't hear it. Where is that spirit, my son?"

"Oh, I still think it's still there," I said. "But, perhaps, there's more spirit for the keg than for our country. And there are times I really wonder if that's so bad. I don't know."

"Well, my son," the Old Man answered in such a quiet way that it unnerved me, "I can recall a time and realized that myself. But, then I recalled another time and realized how selfish I was."

"It was a time I wasn't around. It was a time when many people were fighting. People your age. And when they marched into battle with the sound of the bugle, they marched with a dream. And you know, my son, many fell in that battle, never to see their dream come alive."

Their dream was called democracy. So, I wonder and I ask, where is that kind of spirit today? Where, my son? For a long time, we said nothing, listening to the dip.

The De

There are two sides to every coin. One side of a particular issue is concerned so that they will view. This is the purpose of the week I would like to bring you and invite you to respond. It is possible in details, but it is unreliable from time to time. I will accept full responsibility for the opinions and do not, necessarily, reflect large, nor the executive board.

I would like to report back previously in this column. So in the areas of the infirmity remain unresolved.

At this writing some big improving, the athletic situation with regard to keeping the for at least eight hours (at hours) the original intent respond favorably to this.

and staff are being asked to you're one of those people signing your name to anything political about this petition. I'm not going to be turned over money will still have to petitions are presented to Powers, we will ask that it be used. The logic behind those students who now are work? The plan was to use the Bond Fee to build a (including year 'round tea courts). While I favor adding the idea of paying $15 never see: I would be administration would take to open the Gym on $5 around $74,000 per year to solve the money matter of would hopefully start next.

I thought the faculty interested in using the faculty little time they can call to use during the noon hour present schedule. They are hours, but students are done by opening reserved previous day for students noon opening of reserved negative comment on complex at all. Perhaps it be pointed out that a

A

In my winter coat yesterday's torn pipe cans. Neon signs glare river's chill breeze w/ faceless and nameless to their separate beds moment on the bridge water. Gray and pale slushy beneath me ever been a free-flowing fingered one lonely factory smokestacks. I turned and slowly and still the river splashed still I walked alone tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

tomorrow.

Earl Scruggs And Doc Watson Combine Talents On November 6

Two of the biggest names in bluegrass-country music, the Earl Scruggs Revue and Doc Watson and Son, combine their talents on the Lane Series next Tuesday, November 6.

The concert, which will be held in Memorial Auditorium, will begin at 8:00 p.m. with Doc Watson and Son on the stage, and the Earl Scruggs Revue appearing after the intermission.

There is also the possibility, said a member of the Lane Committee, that the two groups will engage in a spirited bit of jamming at the end of the concert.

Tickets, $3, $5, and $6, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-3418, Waterman.

The current Earl Scruggs Revue, which consists of Earl himself, three of his sons (Gary, Randy, and, during vacation periods, Steve) and two others, was formed in 1969 when Earl Scruggs and Lester Flatt split. This occurred after the Flatt and Scruggs Bonnie and Clyde film theme had become a hit.

Now the ensemble includes not only banjos but also drums and electrical instruments, and the original bluegrass music has been extended to other forms of music, including rock.

Scruggs, who doesn't read music, started playing the banjo when he was five years old. In Flint Hill, Cleveland County, North Carolina, where he was born and raised, "I've pretty well loved and breathed bango, self-taught, you might say."

Scruggs developed a smooth, heavily syncopated style with his three-finger picking that transforms the banjo into a "real instrument instead of just a rhythm one." It "elevated the banjo," said Scruggs, "from a rhythm into a lead instrument."

Scruggs joined Lester Flatt in 1945 at the Grand Old Opry and they stayed together for over 23 years, during which time Flatt and Scruggs became a household word.

The two musicians fell out over what direction they should move with their music. Scruggs said that all his life he'd "wanted to play different types of music. Now a completely new generation has come along. I didn't want to stay with 'Cumberland Gap' over and over and over. I'm more than satisfied with today's music. The banjo works in well with it."

Doc Watson, one of America's legendary guitarists and folk singers, also comes from North Carolina (Stoney Fork), but his instrument is not the banjo but the guitar.

Supporting the father is son Merle, who also works on the guitar.

Doc Watson was educated at the State School for the Blind in Raleigh, N. C. Music was always a part of the Watson family life. — singing while churning butter on the front porch, singing the children to sleep, and of course singing sacred songs on Sunday afternoons.

He first learned to play on the harmonica, then on the banjo, and finally graduated to the guitar.

Now, at the age of 50, Doc Watson is one of the finest guitarists in America. His incredible finger dexterity and powerful flat picking style have made his guitar work technically unprecedented. He is noted for his guitar arrangements of many of the oldtime fiddler tunes such as "Salt Creek" and "Black Mountain Rag."

Doc doesn't write his own music, but as an interpreter of the music of others he excels. Jimmy Driftwood's "Tennessee Stud," Tom Paxton's "Last Thing on my Mind Tonight," and Merle Davis' "Natural Born Gambler" are some of the songs he has helped to make famous.

Theme Of Living Death Haunts Film

by Joseph Oldham

The torturing theme of living death has seeped through to haunt the human soul and has come from others besides Bergman. Joyce's The Dead has its tale of lifeless characters to tell as does Tolstoy in Anna Karenina. Life and death have come so close that they overlap and their careers are shocking. It is distressing that these characters are allowed to realize how unalive they have been only when death's cold fingers are threatening to close around their throats.

Isak the protagonist in Wild Strawberries is one of these characters. Unfortunately, he begins to re-evaluate his life only when he is haunted by a series of phobic dreams which tell of his impending death. Being a doctor of fifty years, he must travel far away to receive an honorary degree. Instead of flying, he drives and stops along the way to remember and re-live childhood experiences which were long forgotten.

When he stops we begin to see hints of his personality which are given by objective flashbacks in the film. We realize that he is a cold unsympathetic person who begins to soften at the remembrance of things past. Verbal intercourse with a childhood love tells him of the irony of his life. He has lived fifty years as a pedant, and knows nothing of the secrets and values of life. Life to him has been practically worthless. His dreams admit something to him which he was afraid to admit: He is more dead than alive. His life has served as a perpetual ennui in a waiting room, where pedanticism and medicine have been the only stone cold pedants who have no knowledge of life outside books? Bergman stabs at us with this theme and I am sure that many have brushed it off as a lot of sour grapes.

Along the way the professor gives three adolescents a ride, adolescents who show him a sharp contrast to the life that he has led. They believe that he knows all about life and its secrets, yet Isak realizes that they are more in touch with the secrets of life than he is. Here is the paradox of society brilliantly shown by Bergman. The young which are supposed to be taught by the old teach the old something. Almost all the learning that Isak does in the film comes from these children and his re-lived childhood experiences. Isak realizes that as soon as his childhood was over, he lost the sweetness of life. The strawberry patch, his symbolic sense of childhood, was the only sweetness he knew. When one of the adolescents claims that she is a virgin, she hangs on to the sweet innocence and justifies her playfulness which is always lost in the adult world. For Bergman, adult life consists of the distractions of expectations and pedantic endeavors which fulfill the stale and overripe world of which Isak is a part.

(continued on page eleven)

Julian Bream Captivates Audience

by Allyson Davis

Julian Bream, world-famous lutenist and guitarist, performed in the Lane Concert Series on October 25 in the Memorial Auditorium for a near-capacity audience.

Bream, after a brief description of the lute which was popular in the 1600's, gave an informal introduction of each composer and the pieces to be performed. The program opened with Pavane alla Venetiana-Fine (1507) by Josquin Des Prez. These pieces are representative of early English dances. Three pieces by Robert Johnson followed, the first being Fantasy. This simple-sounding piece picked up in lively fashion. In Gillarde a popular English dance, one could envision people on stage gracing Bream with their steps. Pavane, a slow stately dance was elegant, and Almeida, a quick dance of Germany in the 1590's followed. Ballo: Il Conto Orlando and Fantasy by Simone Molinaro showed excellent technique. The first half of the program ended with two pieces by John Dowland, Pavane and A Fantasy which was lively and quite technical.

Bream played the lute with great style and ease, interpreting the music in the finest of taste. Although Bream's greatness showed through, the lute portion of the program lacked diversity in the different musical periods. The guitar portion of the program displayed Bream's real greatness. It opened with Two Sonatas (L. 27, L. 483) by Domenico Scarlatti. He produced a beautiful sound and showed many different qualities of tone which were effective. Sonata number Two in C major by Fernando Sor (1730-1839), the greatest Spanish guitarist of the last century followed. This sonata was typical of those written in Vienna at that time and one could pick out a short motive similar to one in a Beethoven Sonata. Bream performed this brilliantly. Benjamin Britten's Nocturnal After John Dowland ended the program. This is a variation and passacaglia on a theme by John Dowland, Come Heavy Sleep. Each variation captures the essence of dreams: deep sleep, calm, nervousness, and terror. Oddly enough, the Nocturnal begins with the variations and ends with the simple Dowland theme. It was enchanting. A standing ovation prompted an encore of a Prelude by Brazilian composer Villa-Lobos. It was dynamic and provided an excellent ending to a wonderful concert by a fine performer.

Brief Synopsis Of S.A. Films

(continued from page six)

Thursday, November 1, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in 108 Terrill Hall, James Cagney in Angels With Dirty Faces. This is the film that finds Father Pat O'Brien appealing to the tough hoodlum played by Cagney for which he won the Award for Best Acting, to turn yellow in his death cell to discourage kids from emulating him. Also in this film are the Dead End Kids and Humphrey Bogart. All for fifty cents.

Friday, November 2, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in 106 Cook Hall is Ingram Bergman's The Virgin Spring, for fifty cents.

Friday, November 2, at 11:30 in B106 Cook Hall is Woody Allen's Take the Money and Run for one dollar.

Saturday, November 3, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in 233 Marsh Life Science is Take the Money and Run with Woody Allen for one dollar.

Sunday, November 4, at 8:00 p.m. in B106 Cook Hall is Buster Keaton in College and The Balloonatic for free.

Monday, November 5, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in the Living Learning Center, Room 115, Commons, is Alfred Hitchcock's Foreign Correspondent for twenty-five cents. This is a politically slanted thriller about international intrigues during World War II. The action comes fast and furiously in addition to all the suspenseful master's touches which elicits a typically terrifying response from the audience.

Wednesday, November 7, at 4:00 p.m. in 101 Votey is William Shakespeare's Twelfth Night for one dollar. This is the Russian version of this famous play recorded on film. It has been noted for its excellence in capturing the spirit of the play.

Wednesday, November 7, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in North Lounge of Billings Center is Der Frau im Mond for FREE. This is the original copy of this famous and rare science-fiction classic.

Thursday, November 8, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in 108 Terrill Hall for fifty cents is The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse with Edward G. Robinson and Humphrey Bogart. The film is about the entertaining caper of a doctor-psychiatrist who, with the aid of a female fence, takes over a gang and engages in robberies in order to study the criminal mind.

Soon to be here are the rest of the films of Woody Allen. SA Films is going to have them all for one dollar. They are going to show Bananas, Play It Again Sam, and Everything You Can't See.

Also, in the White Box, this is an excellent example of the Guinness blend of broad slapstick and pinpricking social satire. The Man in the White Suit reveals the basic tension between the idealist and the technology that surrounds him. This movie is free.

Tuesday, November 6, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in B106 Cook Hall is Alfred Hitchcock's Foreign Correspondent for twenty-five cents. This is a politically slanted thriller about international intrigues during World War II. The action comes fast and furiously in addition to all the suspenseful second-story window, on his way to clobbering the villain. Directed by James Horne.

Sunday Films, (continued from page six)

The Balloonatic: In one of his last shorts before turning to features, this 1923 epic portrays Buster as the city slicker who gets carried away streets give one a dizzy sense of height."

Lon Chaney is described by the same critic as a "fearsome, frightful, crooked creature, one eye bulging but blind; knees that interfere; sharp, saw-edged protruding teeth; high swollen cheek bones; and a dented twisted nose — a monstrous 'joke of nature'."

In addition to Lon Chaney in the part of Quasimodo, the deformed bell-ringer of Notre Dame Cathedral in Medieval France, The Hunchback of Notre Dame stars Patsy Ruth Miller as Esmeralda, the Gypsy girl whose kindness wins Quasimodo's heart; and Ernest Torrence in a picturesque performance as Clopin, King of the beggars.

The movie which runs for 105 minutes, was directed by Wallace Worsley, with screenplay by Perley Poore Sheehan.

Production of the New York Times called The Hunchback of Notre Dame a production on which no pains or money has been spared to depict the seamy side of Paris. The set of the cathedral is really marvelous; having the appearance of stolidity and massiveness; and the sequences looking down from it to the streets give one a dizzy sense of height."

Lon Chaney is described by the same critic as a "fearsome, frightful, crooked creature, one eye bulging but blind; knees that interfere; sharp, saw-edged protruding teeth; high swollen cheek bones; and a dented twisted nose — a monstrous 'joke of nature'."

In addition to Lon Chaney in the part of Quasimodo, the deformed bell-ringer of Notre Dame Cathedral in Medieval France, The Hunchback of Notre Dame stars Patsy Ruth Miller as Esmeralda, the Gypsy girl whose kindness wins Quasimodo's heart; and Ernest Torrence in a picturesque performance as Clopin, King of the beggars.

The movie which runs for 105 minutes, was directed by Wallace Worsley, with screenplay by Perley Poore Sheehan.

Production of the New York Times called The Hunchback of Notre Dame a production on which no pains or money has been spared to depict the seamy side of Paris. The set of the cathedral is really marvelous; having the appearance of stolidity and massiveness; and the sequences looking down from it to the streets give one a dizzy sense of height."

Lon Chaney is described by the same critic as a "fearsome, frightful, crooked creature, one eye bulging but blind; knees that interfere; sharp, saw-edged protruding teeth; high swollen cheek bones; and a dented twisted nose — a monstrous 'joke of nature'."

In addition to Lon Chaney in the part of Quasimodo, the deformed bell-ringer of Notre Dame Cathedral in Medieval France, The Hunchback of Notre Dame stars Patsy Ruth Miller as Esmeralda, the Gypsy girl whose kindness wins Quasimodo's heart; and Ernest Torrence in a picturesque performance as Clopin, King of the beggars.

The movie which runs for 105 minutes, was directed by Wallace Worsley, with screenplay by Perley Poore Sheehan.

Production of the New York Times called The Hunchback of Notre Dame a production on which no pains or money has been spared to depict the seamy side of Paris. The set of the cathedral is really marvelous; having the appearance of stolidity and massiveness; and the sequences looking down from it to the streets give one a dizzy sense of height."

Lon Chaney is described by the same critic as a "fearsome, frightful, crooked creature, one eye bulging but blind; knees that interfere; sharp, saw-edged protruding teeth; high swollen cheek bones; and a dented twisted nose — a monstrous 'joke of nature'."

In addition to Lon Chaney in the part of Quasimodo, the deformed bell-ringer of Notre Dame Cathedral in Medieval France, The Hunchback of Notre Dame stars Patsy Ruth Miller as Esmeralda, the Gypsy girl whose kindness wins Quasimodo's heart; and Ernest Torrence in a picturesque performance as Clopin, King of the beggars.

The movie which runs for 105 minutes, was directed by Wallace Worsley, with screenplay by Perley Poore Sheehan.

Production of the New York Times called The Hunchback of Notre Dame a production on which no pains or money has been spared to depict the seamy side of Paris. The set of the cathedral is really marvelous; having the appearance of stolidity and massiveness; and the sequences looking down from it to the streets give one a dizzy sense of height."

Lon Chaney is described by the same critic as a "fearsome, frightful, crooked creature, one eye bulging but blind; knees that interfere; sharp, saw-edged protruding teeth; high swollen cheek bones; and a dented twisted nose — a monstrous 'joke of nature'."

In addition to Lon Chaney in the part of Quasimodo, the deformed bell-ringer of Notre Dame Cathedral in Medieval France, The Hunchback of Notre Dame stars Patsy Ruth Miller as Esmeralda, the Gypsy girl whose kindness wins Quasimodo's heart; and Ernest Torrence in a picturesque performance as Clopin, King of the beggars.

The movie which runs for 105 minutes, was directed by Wallace Worsley, with screenplay by Perley Poore Sheehan.

Production of the New York Times called The Hunchback of Notre Dame a production on which no pains or money has been spared to depict the seamy side of Paris. The set of the cathedral is really marvelous; having the appearance of stolidity and massiveness; and the sequences looking down from it to the streets give one a dizzy sense of height."

Lon Chaney is described by the same critic as a "fearsome, frightful, crooked creature, one eye bulging but blind; knees that interfere; sharp, saw-edged protruding teeth; high swollen cheek bones; and a dented twisted nose — a monstrous 'joke of nature'."

In addition to Lon Chaney in the part of Quasimodo, the deformed bell-ringer of Notre Dame Cathedral in Medieval France, The Hunchback of Notre Dame stars Patsy Ruth Miller as Esmeralda, the Gypsy girl whose kindness wins Quasimodo's heart; and Ernest Torrence in a picturesque performance as Clopin, King of the beggars.

The movie which runs for 105 minutes, was directed by Wallace Worsley, with screenplay by Perley Poore Sheehan.

Production of the New York Times called The Hunchback of Notre Dame a production on which no pains or money has been spared to depict the seamy side of Paris. The set of the cathedral is really marvelous; having the appearance of stolidity and massiveness; and the sequences looking down from it to the

APPEARING FOR ONE WEEK

NOV. 5 - NOV. 10

BEGGAR'S OPERA

MONDAY NITE - ALL UNESCORTED FEMALES FREE

WEDNESDAY NITE IS 10¢ NITE

LIVE ENTERTAINMENT EVERY SUNDAY NITE

THE SILVER KEG
156 ST. PAUL ST. BURLINGTON

TIME Magazine reports:

"Gallo's Pink Chablis recently triumphed over ten costlier competitors in a blind tasting among a panel of wine-industry executives in Los Angeles."

Time Magazine November 27, 1972 page 81

PINK CHABLIS OF CALIFORNIA

More than a Rosé, our Pink Chablis is a captivating wine combining the delicate fragrance of a superior Rosé and the crisp character of a fine Chablis. This wine is one of our most delightful creations. Made and bottled at the Gallo Vineyards in Modesto, Calif. Alcohol 12% by vol.

Paul Gallo Julian Gallo

More than a Rosé.

PINK CHABLIS OF CALIFORNIA - Gallo Vineyards, Modesto, California

THE LAST CHANGE

A NIGHTSPOT OPEN NOW

20¢ ALE Mon-Thurs 7:10 PM.
PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS
NO COVER CHARGE
OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK

147 MAIN ST. BURLINGTON

* TONIGHT * at

8PM * Mem. Auditorium

Jesse Coln Young and Band
Maria Muldaur and Band

Tickets at UVM Bookstore or At the Door from 5 to 8:30

the doctor's bag

by Arnold Werner M.D.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Werner,
Box 974, East Lansing, MI 48823

QUESTION: My husband is a graduate student who has just been awarded a master's degree. He is pleased and proud and I am trying to think of a surprise celebration, but my husband doesn't like to celebrate anything—birthdays, Christmas, weddings, graduations, anything.

ANSWER: Why is it that some men are simply unable to loosen up and enjoy being fussed over, or enjoy making a fuss over someone else? It is frustrating to be so excited for my husband and yet to know that a gift, party or dinner would meet with polite indifference.

QUESTION: This is a complex problem. Some people, and it seems to be men more often than women, have been brought up to believe that the expression of feelings, happy ones as well as sad ones, is generally unacceptable. Some people are made very uncomfortable by attention or recognition which would call forth from them some expression of appreciation. On the other hand, tremendous uncertainty about one's own abilities can result in significant feelings of discomfort. In the statement about your husband being proud of his accomplishment, this certainly does not appear to be the case.

I have seen it happen that such an incredible fuss is made over all events, be they anniversaries or accomplishments, that all but the most vain would be acutely embarrassed. A few such occurrences can easily condition a person to prefer a private sense of self fulfillment rather than other people's overexuberance. Rather than take responsibility for making a fuss over your husband, you might try to give him an opportunity to plan something with you in doing something special you both enjoy as a private and personal celebration.

QUESTION: What are the symptoms of pregnancy when you are on the pill? Can a woman still have her period during pregnancy whether on or off the pill?

ANSWER: When taken each and every day as directed, the pill is incredibly reliable and pregnancy is just about unheard of. However, if a woman misses more than two or three pills during a month, the risk of pregnancy begins to increase. Indeed, it might be hard to tell for a while if a woman on the pill is actually pregnant. However, if there is a history of taking the pill irregularly, she sure ought to be alarmed if the bleeding that occurs with the monthly creation of the pill does not appear. Some women have very scant bleeding when on the pill, but if they have been using it regularly as directed, have no cause for concern.

A normal menstrual period does not occur during pregnancy although there can be very slight bleeding at the time of the expected menstrual period for the first month or two. Most women have no trouble differentiating this from a normal period.

QUESTION: I am 22 and for many years I have felt a sharp stinging sensation on the tip of my penis whenever I clean my navel. This condition, if it is one, continues and any time I apply pressure to my navel, the stinging sensation is there. It stops as soon as I stop the pressure. I have asked many friends if they have felt anything under similar conditions and they all said no. What is the connection, if any, between navel and penis?

ANSWER: Strange as it may seem there is a connection between the navel (umbilicus) and the tip of the penis. A very astute urologist friend who is fascinated by penile connections gave valuable assistance to me in producing an explanation for this phenomenon. In the course of intrauterine development, there is a period of time when the bladder opens to the outside of the body through the same area that carries maternal blood vessels into the developing fetus. Eventually, this opening closes; the connection is called a urachus. Occasionally, the urachus remains open, which can lead to loss of urine through the umbilicus, a condition which is almost invariably detected in early infancy. In other cases, there is no leakage but there is a connection between the navel and the bladder through the urachus. The pain in the end of the penis is because of pressure transmitted to the base of the bladder where the urethra (the tube carrying urine out) originates.

QUESTION: How do the eyedrops that get rid of bloodshot eyes work? Do they bypass some natural protective function of the blood shot eye or is the bloodshot eye a warning signal? The reason I ask this is because I liked the way they helped my eyes when they were bloodshot as a result of being stoned. Are there any precautions to be followed with eyedrops?

ANSWER: The plain old ordinary eyedrops, which are commonly found in drug stores, are a waste of time and money. They contain nothing of value to the eye and their effects are largely psychological. The eyedrops that get the redness out do so because they contain an agent which constricts very tiny blood vessels which produce the appearance of redness. The use of such eye drops is usually harmless, although they may cause irritation for some people, especially if frequently used. Their effect is fairly short lived.

There are two dangers to the use of eyedrops that you should be aware of. Although the eyedrops I checked in the local apothecary contain a substance to discourage bacterial contamination, such contamination is still possible, and you could end up producing an infection using the eyedrops. Therefore, the end of the dropper bottle should never contact anything and the stuff should not be kept around for very long or used at all if it ever appears cloudy. The second caution is that not all cases of blood shot eyes are caused by being stoned. Sometimes the bloodshot eye is a sign of infection. Self medicating an infected eye with over the counter eye drops is no better than trying to batter down brick walls with ping pong balls. Eyes are delicate and lovely things and deserve the very best of care. They should be taken to your doctor if there are any unusual symptoms involving them.

Urban Youth Crusade For Green-Up

by Becky Burr

The Scene: The Urban Youth Center, North St. Burlington, Vt.
The Players: The Urban Kids and Staff

"I'm sick of all the beer bottles and paper all over the streets. You can't even walk to school without tripping on something."

"Somebody ought to do something about it."

"Yeah..."

"Remember when we had Green-Up Day last spring?"

"Yeah..."

"How about doing it in October?"

But somebody had to organize Green-Up Day...

Enter, Linda Kelly, a UVM Junior and Project Director for the Office of Volunteer Programs who works as a staff member at the Urban Youth Center. Along with Rosemary Desno, another "Urban" Staff member, Kelly helped the kids decide on a day and choose two green-up teams.

Although her official job at the Urban Center is directing the Children's Theatre Project, like all the staff members, Kelly pitches in where she is needed. In this case, she helped pitch out the trash that collects on the busy streets around the youth center.

Armed with large, plastic trash bags, it was Kelly's Heroes vs. Desno's Delinquents in a race to see who could collect the most trash. Up North Street, across Elmwood Avenue, past parents and neighbors, the Urban Center kids and staff hurried to clean up their neighborhood.

When an older woman stopped one of the children to ask her why she was doing it, the girl answered simply, "Because it's dirty."

When 5 o'clock came, the children and staff gathered back at the Center where the trash was officially weighed. Captain Rosemary Desno, of Desno's Delinquents, stood on the scale with one bag of trash at a time and the Urban boys did some quick lessons in higher math as they subtracted Rosemary's weight from the total shown on the scale.

20 FOR THE DELINQUENTS, 19 FOR THE HEROES!

30 FOR THE DELINQUENTS, 42 FOR THE HEROES!

But when the last full bag had been weighed, the shouts of Kelly's Heroes echoed victoriously in the Center. Final Count: 87 lbs. of trash for Kelly's Heroes and 58 lbs. for Desno's Delinquents. A total of 145 lbs. of trash covered the Urban Center floor.

Good-humored Urban Center Director, Ann Miser suggested that the next act of the green-up drama be played out on the way to the trash barrels outside the back door.

More seriously, when asked why she had decided to work at the Urban Center, Kelly looked at the children who surrounded her, and answered, "I really enjoy it, otherwise I wouldn't be here. I like to see the kids grow and to grow with them. It's an incredible learning experience for all of us."

Kelly and her Urban Center kids are presently hard at work preparing for their first theatrical production of the year, "Mrs. Magician's Mistake." It will be presented at the Trinity College Auditorium, November 9 and 10.

"The kids finally learn what it means to put all your energy into something and see a good result," Kelly explained. "That's why I'm doing theatre with them."

Kelly, a junior from Malvern, Pennsylvania, majoring in Communication and Theatre, took over the directorship of OVP's Children's Theatre Project this fall after spending last spring as Assistant Director to David Pangaro, the original project director. She is advised by Dr. Norman London, Chairman of the Department of Communication and Theatre.

According to Kelly, "being part of OVP is, like some of us have said for a long time, working together for something worthwhile and meaningful. I like being part of an organization, a group of people who really care and who really do help other people, young or old."

VPIRG Reports

Small Claims Court Not Meeting Obligations

The Vermont Public Interest Research Group, Inc. (VPIRG) on Monday released a major study of the operation of small claims court in Vermont. The study found that instead of serving as a forum for the average citizen, the court had become a bill-collecting agency for a small number of businesses. Based on the study, VPIRG recommended sweeping reform including the appointment of referees, barring lawyers and simplifying procedure. The twenty page report was prepared over a six month period by Barry Steinhardt, a VPIRG student intern from Goddard College.

"Small claims" court in Vermont is a forgotten court virtually unused except by a small segment of the business community," Steinhardt said, "only two percent of the cases in our study were brought by individuals and all the rest were brought by corporations, businesses or professionals such as doctors and lawyers."

Steinhardt emphasized however, that a relatively small number of businesses dominated the court. For example, only 39 prolific users of the court (10 or more claims filed in a year) accounted for almost 80% of the total cases filed. Correspondingly, the study showed that the great majority of the defendants (93%) were individual consumers.

The chief function of the court has become bill collecting," said Steinhardt, "and since the public pays the bill, it is a great bargain for the minority of businesses who exploit the procedure." He explained that the great majority of cases are settled out of court or result in default judgments.

But long delays for a hearing in some of the most populated counties make small claims a difficult remedy for the consumer with a suit to bring. This, combined with general public ignorance of the court (small claims is not listed in the phone book), greatly contributes to the virtual absence from the court of citizen litigants with small monetary claims—the very people the court was set up to assist.

VPIRG emphasized that the judges and court administrators in Vermont are not to blame for the lengthy delays. They are principally caused by overcrowding in the District Courts (which now handle small claims cases), which also suffer a serious backlog of civil cases.

In order to deal with the many problems facing small claims court in Vermont, VPIRG suggests a number of reforms which a minimal cost could restore the court to a workable part of the judicial system. Foremost among these recommendations is limiting the number of suits that can be brought in a year by any one litigant in order to cut down on the domination of available time by a few constant and prolific users. And to retain informality VPIRG urged that lawyers be banned from appearing.

In order to deal with delays, VPIRG suggested that referees be appointed to hear cases at night and on weekends and that a hearing be guaranteed within forty-five days. VPIRG also suggested that the procedures be simplified and that informational campaigns be initiated to increase public awareness of the court.

"These courts have immense potential for redressing the grievance of Vermont's consumers in a simple and inexpensive manner. At this time of general public distrust of all governmental institutions it is necessary to shore up those institutions which can inspire the public trust," Steinhardt concluded.

As a result of the study VPIRG reached the following conclusions:

- 1) Small claims court in Vermont has not met its historical obligation to citizens of Vermont. It has failed to provide an informal and inexpensive tribunal to which the civil grievances of the average Vermonter may be brought.
- 2) Small claims court in Vermont is little more than a bill collection agency subsidized by the taxpayer. Cases are brought almost exclusively by business seeking to collect alleged debt from individual customers.

3) Small claims court is used not by the Vermont business community as a whole but by a small segment: invariably large businesses and corporations who dominate the court by frequent usage.

4) Small claims court has become a forgotten court. Consumer use and knowledge of the court is virtually non-existent. Small claims is not even listed in the phone book.

5) The vast majority of all small claims cases are settled out of court and in the favor of business plaintiffs. This renders small claims procedure more administrative and bureaucratic than judicial.

6) The few cases which do come to a hearing normally involve exceptionally persistent individuals who contest claims brought against them, or even rarer individuals who originate their own claims. These suits when brought in the larger jurisdictions are often characterized by lengthy delays.

7) At this time, long delays exist principally in the larger counties. However, as consumers turn to small claims court in greater numbers, lengthy delays will become commonplace in every jurisdiction, making the dispensation of justice extremely difficult.

Small claims paperwork consumes between 20 and 25% of the working hours of the District Court clerks, constituting a significant drain on the resources of the already overcrowded District Courts, while providing only the most marginal of benefits to Vermont's citizenry.

The Earl Scruggs Revue Reviewed.

THE EARL SCRUGGS REVUE
Including
Some Of Shelley's Blues
It Takes A Lot To Laugh, It Takes A Train To Cry
Shoe It Up And Go Down In The Flood
If It Only Come And Gone

There is no other band in any form of American popular music that is better than the Earl Scruggs Revue, wrote John Wasserman in the San Francisco Chronicle.

And Robert Hilburn, in the Los Angeles Times, said, "The group is, quite simply, the best, most assured combination of traditional and contemporary country music ideas that I've seen on the Troubadour stage, a group with far more range, authenticity and joy in its music than any of the many second-generation bands that proudly march under the country-rock label."

There's much more but space doesn't permit us to go on. We'd rather have you find out for yourselves about The Earl Scruggs Revue.

Along with his sons Randy and Gary, Josh Graves and Jody Maphis, Earl recorded the Revue's first studio album in Nashville with songs from Shel Silverstein, Loggins and Messina and Bob Dylan.

"The Earl Scruggs Revue," on Columbia Records—an album you and the critics will agree on.

APPEARING AT MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM NOV. 6

$3.99

and Tapes $4.59

ONE WEEK ONLY!

discount records

93 Church St. Burlington 863-4587

Aid to education

It's the real thing. Coca.

Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

COME TO THE
GRAND OPENING
of
AMERICAN HANDICRAFTS
ASSOCIATE DEALERSHIP (Locally owned and operated)
1212 WILLISTON RD.
90. BURLINGTON, VT.
862-7440
(BEHIND DUNKIN DONUTS)
OPEN 10-9 MON-SAT

FEATURING ALL YOUR FAVORITE CRAFTS:

- DECOUPAGE - Prints, Paints, Wood Items
- CASTING RESIN - Molds, Supplies, Etc.
- BOTTLE CUTTING - Equipment, Books, Accessories
- ART SUPPLIES - Top Brands, Full Line
- MANY OTHER EXCITING CRAFTS!

SIGN UP NOW FOR CRAFT CLASSES.

Lawrence

by Lisa Charles

"One of the most exciting, relevant, and rewarding activities available to UVM students is forensic, and the Lawrence Forensic Union is a program designed to help develop your abilities to think and express your thoughts effectively. One need not have previous forensic experience to belong to the organization. In fact, most of the program's members have never participated in forensic activities prior to attending UVM, and most participants are not majors in Communication and Theatre. A willingness to learn about and enjoy the available forensic activities are the only prerequisites necessary."

This is the opening paragraph of the summary bulletin which was distributed to 300 random UVM students during August '73. The primary purpose of this particular bulletin was to inform students about forensic activities at UVM, in hope of recruiting eligible participants for the fall semester. The response to this notice, however, did not meet the expectations of the faculty and students interested in expanding the Lawrence Forensic Union. This poor response was mainly due to limited publicity and recognition of this educational organization. In short, many students at UVM are completely unaware of the Lawrence Forensic Union, its purpose, and its function at the University.

In an effort to explain and promote forensic activities at UVM, Dr. Robert Huber, Chairman of the LPU, offered the Cynic information concerning the history, structure, and progressive success of this academic program.

"Debate is one of the oldest traditions of academic institutions," Dr. Huber remarked. "And years ago at UVM, debates were conducted through fraternities but much has changed since then, and forensic activities are expanding more each year."

The Forensic Union was founded in 1901 by Edwin Lawrence, who was in fact, one of the few fraternity brothers

OPENING 100

Lawrence Forensic Union: A Place For Everyone Who Debates

by Lisa Charles

One of the most exciting, relevant, and rewarding activities available to UVM students is forensic, and the Lawrence Forensic Union is a program designed to help develop your abilities to think and express your thoughts clearly. One need not have previous forensic experience to belong to the organization. In fact, most of the program's members have never participated in forensic activities prior to attending UVM and most participants are not majors in Communication and Theatre. A willingness to learn about and enjoy the available forensic activities are the only prerequisites necessary.

This is the opening paragraph of the summary bulletin which was distributed to 500 random UVM students during August '73. The primary purpose of this particular bulletin was to inform students about forensic activities at UVM, in hope of recruiting eligible participants for the fall semester.

The response to this notice, however, did not meet the expectations of the faculty and students interested in expanding the Lawrence Forensic Union. This poor response was mainly due to limited publicity and recognition of this educational organization. In short, many students at UVM are completely unaware of the Lawrence Forensic Union, its purpose, and its function at the University.

In an effort to explain and promote forensic activities at UVM, Dr. Robert Huber, Chairman of the LFU, offered the Cynic information concerning the history, structure, and progressive success of this academic program.

"Debate is one of the oldest traditions of academic institutions," Dr. Huber remarked. "And years ago at UVM, debates were conducted through fraternities. But much has changed since then, and forensic activities are expanding more each year."

The Forensic Union was founded in 1901 by Edwin Lawrence, who was in fact, one of the few fraternity brothers

topic from becoming boring or stale. The intercollegiate debate topic for the 1973-74 academic year is RESOLVED: THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SHOULD CONTROL THE SUPPLY AND UTILIZATION OF ENERGY IN THE UNITED STATES. This is an extremely important and interesting topic, one that is certainly worthy of much investigation and debate.

New members are frequently concerned about the amount of time that they will be expected to work on debate. While no set amount of time can be designated, squad meetings are held at 4:00 on Monday afternoons, and coaches are available for work sessions at 4:00 on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. Although time spent on individual research is left up to the debater, practice debate sessions are generally held twice a week at 4:00 on an afternoon convenient for the student. Debate tournaments are usually held on weekends (Friday and Saturday), and students are customarily limited in the number of tournaments they may attend so as not to interfere with regular studies. Most debaters attend no more than four or five tournaments per semester.

During the initial stages of development, the Union was comprised of and organized by student debaters only. With the founding of the UVM Speech department in 1946, the Union incorporated categories other than debate, such as discussion, persuasive speaking, and oral interpretation of literature. With the help of Lawrence's generous financial contribution, and extensive coaching of participating students, the Forensic Union was able to compete in local, regional and national tournaments with great success. By the 1950's, the LFU had developed three distinct categories which are described in the bulletin:

Debate—participation strengthens and broadens a student's knowledge of important events of the day and provides him with a number of research methods and techniques that can be carried over into his regular university studies. Each year, UVM debaters attend numerous tournaments throughout the United States and frequently receive speaker and team awards. For example, awards were last year won by UVM debaters in competition at Barnmouth College, the United States Military Academy at West Point, Niagara University, the University of Vermont, Brown University, State University of New York at Geneseo, Bowdoin College, Northwestern University, and the University of Pennsylvania. In addition, UVM debaters competed in tournaments held in Detroit, Boston, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Annapolis (Md.), Springfield (Mass.), Amherst (Mass.), and several other college and university cities.

Although only one topic is debated at all tournaments held during the debate season, the unique approaches and arguments used by different teams and schools prevent the discussion program from becoming boring or stale. The intercollegiate debate topic for the 1973-74 academic year is RESOLVED: THAT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SHOULD CONTROL THE SUPPLY AND UTILIZATION OF ENERGY IN THE UNITED STATES. This is an extremely important and interesting topic, one that is certainly worthy of much investigation and debate.

New members are frequently concerned about the amount of time that they will be expected to work on debate. While no set amount of time can be designated, squad meetings are held at 4:00 on Monday afternoons, and coaches are available for work sessions at 4:00 on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. Although time spent on individual research is left up to the debater, practice debate sessions are generally held twice a week at 4:00 on an afternoon convenient for the student. Debate tournaments are usually held on weekends (Friday and Saturday), and students are customarily limited in the number of tournaments they may attend so as not to interfere with regular studies. Most debaters attend no more than four or five tournaments per semester.

Another interesting forensic experience available to UVM students is meeting the public through the discussion program. Schools, civic groups, churches, and other organizations throughout the state of Vermont often request the Lawrence Forensic Union to present a program from a list of topics of state, national, or international interest. Topics are chosen by faculty advisors and students in September and described in a brochure sent to organizations all over the state. Students of the LFU present prepared speeches on the topic area selected by the audience, and members of the audience are subsequently invited to comment and question the university students on the subject. Groups may also choose to have the LFU present a demonstration debate. A shortened debate on the college topic is presented with a question-and-answer period following.

Last year's discussion topics included: (a) The Challenge of Quechee—How Shall We Control Large Real Estate Developments? (b) Relieving the Property Tax Burden—How? (c) Controls on Abortion—What Should They Be? (d) Managing the Deer Herd—How? and (e) Debate Program—Should the Federal Government Provide a Program of Comprehensive Medical Care for All United States Citizens? Topics for this year's discussion program have yet to be selected.

The discussion program is probably the least time-consuming of all forensic activities. Practice sessions consist of consultation with faculty advisors and other students, as well as rehearsal of speeches to be presented. A flexible time schedule for practice sessions allows for maximum student participation, without interfering with one's studies and courses. Coaching debate and discussion are Dr. Huber, Director of Forensics, Michael Cronin, associate director, and Dan Hayes, assistant director.

Those students who prefer to concentrate on speech activities of a singular nature have an opportunity to compete in individual event tournaments held at various colleges and universities. Many debate tournaments are administered in conjunction with individual events tournaments, and all who are interested have ample opportunity to compete both activities. Last year, UVM students won individual events awards at Niagara University, Ithaca College, Southern Connecticut State College, Villanova University, and the New England Forensic Association tournament.

Events offered include: (a) Oratory—a persuasive speech of 7-8 minutes delivered from memory and occasionally from notes; (b) Extemporaneous Speaking—an impromptu or briefly prepared speech of 5 minutes (contestants are allowed preparation time of 30 minutes); and (c) Oral Interpretation—a ten-minute reading of prose or poetry delivered from manuscript. Students can participate in just one or in all three events if they choose. At an individual events tournament, participants usually deliver their presentations twice during preliminary rounds of competition, with students from other schools. Presentations are judged, and best contestants again compete in a final round of competition.

Since participation in this phase of the forensic program is of an individualized nature, practice sessions can easily be adjusted to fit student schedules and demands.

Winning is indeed a luxury for those students with outstanding forensic records. Every spring a total of $1550 is awarded to the most proficient students participating in the individual forensic categories. This money is allocated through a private collection known as the Lawrence, Lieberman, Butler Prize Fund.

In summary, the bulletin states: "The LFU offers a program that is adapted to one's interests, schedule, and abilities; a variety of social activities, and some of the best training available in developing the ability to reason and test ideas. At the same time, the LFU provides the opportunity to travel and meet people all over the country. Tournament expenses for LFU participants are paid for by a private Union fund."

Win or lose, there is a place for everybody interested in UVM forensics. Dr. Huber and faculty coaches express an open invitation to all students wishing to join or simply observe forensic activities.

Tournaments are held on weekends (Friday and Saturday). Like debate, students are usually allowed to participate in four or five tournaments during the course of a semester. Coaching individual events are Jennifer Cover, David Waite and Patty Williams.

The University of Vermont is rated among the top schools in the United States in National Championship debating. Last year, for example, UVM placed first in the Brown University tournament with an 11-0 record. And just last week the debaters scored 8 straight wins at Northern Illinois University.

"Winning, however, is not our main concern," Dr. Huber stated. "Forensic activity is regarded as a learning experience extended to and beyond the classroom. As Plato wrote: 'For democracy to continue to exist, people must know how to solve problems.' With this philosophy in mind, we train our students to analyze problems, and to become leaders in helping others to solve problems. Winning these debates is a luxury of course, but we are mainly concerned with stimulating high quality, critical thinking so necessary to the process of problem solving today".

Win or lose, there is a place for everybody interested in UVM forensics. Dr. Huber and faculty coaches express an open invitation to all students wishing to join or simply observe forensic activities.

First Annual Conclusion Contest Draw Your Own!

No Rules
No Prizes
No Pressure

E.L. & A

Only the satisfaction of knowing that you were well done!

Sponsored by E.L. & A Enterprises

"The company that knows what it means to wake up in the morning naked"

Faculty-Senate Meets Again...

(continued from page one)

A proposed sabbatical program was distributed to the Senate. Modifications were suggested by Schoonmaker concerning the duration of pay. The Senate approved the modification that allows a sabbatical for nine month appointees for one semester at full salary, or two semesters at three fourths salary. Sabbaticals for twelve month appointees would be for six months at full salary, or twelve months at three fourths salary.

The Senate opposed a motion to limit any non-university payments exceeding the University salary during the sabbatical.

The Administrative Policy Committee has been attending to the Smallwood Commission on Higher Education, and to long-range planning. Dr. Norman London reported. Also, an interview with Ms. Dolores Stocker impressed the committee with a need to make monies available for interviews with minority faculty applicants.

The Financial Policy Committee appealed to the Senate for recognition of its efforts in furthering an increase in the salary compensation program. The faculty saw an immediate increase of one per cent in their pay checks this month. Dr. Robert Sinclair, chairperson of the committee declared that they too are working on long-range planning.

Dean MacMillan reported that the Graduate College will recognize the A.B.C.F. grading system. However, a graduate student must maintain a B average.

Chairperson Elections—Three elections were pushed through the Faculty Senate. Dr. Robert G. G. was elected chairperson to the Academic Affairs Committee. Dr. Roy Whitmore will assume Dr. Schoonmaker's position as chairperson of the Faculty Affairs Committee. Dr. William White will replace Dr. Sinclair as chairperson of the Financial Committee.

Constitutional Review—Chairperson of the Senate, Dr. Wilfred Roth, read a letter from Ms. Phyllis Perelman, instructor in education, expressing concern over the Senate constitution. Perelman represents nine other faculty members and feels a possibility exists that a Senate member represent a zero constituency.

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE

Route 2, Williston, Vt. 054-7666

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

- Fine work on American cars
- Firestone tires • Fluid Services
- Front end alignment • Spin balancing
- Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

Tires for most foreign cars in stock or readily available

New SEMPERIT VW Bug tires $19.95 + $1.79 FET

VW BRAKE JOB

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuild 4 wheel cylinders. Street $140.00

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL VW Bug Exhaust $24.95 Spin Balance $3.50 per Wheel Front End Alignment $10

The Vermont Book Shop

OPENING IN BURLINGTON SOON
100 DORSET STREET

MORE THAN ONCE UPON A TIME

ONCE BENEATH A CAMPUS TREE, A KNIGHT DID COURT WITH LITTLE SUCCESS A COMELY MAID, KNOWN BY ONE AND ALL TO BE A CULTIST.

UNDAUNTED BY REBUKE, HE DID ATTEMPT, BY CUNNING AND GUILE, TO DISCOVER THE EXACT CULT TO WHICH THE MAID WAS COMMITTED AND THEREBY PREY UPON HER SYMPATHIES. BUT SHE PROVED LITTLE IMPRESSED WITH HIS BOGART.

AND EVEN LESS WITH HIS JAGGER.

WHEREUPON A FRIENDLY DRAGON DID PULL HIS COAT AND SAY THAT THE MAIDEN WAS, IN FACT, INTO THE CULT OF THE FROG, AND THAT THE KNIGHT MUST DON A FROG SUIT AND CARRY TWO SIX PACKS OF SCHAEFER BEER (SCHAEFER BEING THE IREFUTABLE SYMBOL OF ENCHANTMENT BECAUSE OF ITS ENCHANTED FLAVOR THAT NEVER FACES GOBLIN AFTER FROSTY-COLD GOBLIN).

AND THE KNIGHT DID APPROACH THE MAIDEN FULL OF HOPE THAT SHE WOULD FALL FOR THE OLD PRINCE-IN-THE-FROG ROUTINE AND PLANT A KISS ON HIM.

AND SHE DID, AS PREDICTED, KISS HIM MOST FONDLY.

WHEREUPON, ZOUNDS!

WHEN YOU'RE HAVING MORE THAN ONE

Schaefer Breweries, New York, N.Y., Baltimore, Md., Lehigh Valley, Pa.

UVM Debate Team Wins Three Out Of Three

by Margo H. Wetland

The UVM Debate Team has begun its year's campaign with three wins in three recent tournaments. UVM debaters Karen Qlio of Burlington, and Jan Murray of Barre were the champions at the Northern Illinois University variety debate tournament held October 13.

The tourney consisted of eight rounds of debate instead of the usual elimination rounds. Each team debated both sides of the national collegiate debate topic, "Resolved: that the federal government should control the supply and utilization of energy in the U.S."

In the championship win, UVM defeated the Universities of Iowa and Pittsburgh, Indiana, Ohio and Clarkson State Universities, and Loyola of Chicago, Drury of Missouri, and Bradley of Illinois.

Both students are seniors and have received awards for excellence in debating. Last year Jan Murray won the UVM Lawrence Forensic Union's Hertzl Spino award as best variety debater while Karen Qlio won an award from the Forensic Union as Outstanding Debater.

Today the team of Karen Qlio and Jan Murray will travel to Atlanta, Georgia, for the Emory Debate Tournament. Over one hundred teams from approximately seventy schools across the country will participate.

UVM's novice debaters Amy Fischer, of Rochester, New York and Val Burroughs, of Wells River, Vermont, were judged the top affirmative team at the Eastern Tournament held October 20 at Dartmouth. Matt Griffin of Bristol, Connecticut, and Jeff Fernandez of Killington, Vermont, represented UVM on the negative side.

The tourney held at Dartmouth is one of the first and most prestigious novice debate tournaments in the northeast. This year the 4-round tournament included teams from Bates, Emerson, Dartmouth, the University of Massachusetts, Tufts, St. Anselm's, Boston University, Maine Island, the University of Maine and the University of Vermont.

Each school sends two debaters to uphold the affirmative and two to uphold the negative side of the debate resolution.

Dr. Michael Cronin, UVM's Co-director of Forensics, was the coach for the trip. Dr. Cronin stated that the victory by Amy Fischer and Val Burroughs was rendered even more significant by the fact that they met and defeated debaters who had from two to four years of high school debate experience. Neither student had ever debated previous to joining the University of Vermont Forensic Union about a month ago. They defeated teams from the University of Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Dartmouth, losing only to Boston University.

Another UVM team attended the Niagara University's Debate Tournament at Niagara Falls, students to become involved in a number of different ways to New York and won fourth place. Cathy Bigelow and Mary Ellen Smith compiled a 4-2 record in their first tournament of the year.

A highlight of the Northern Illinois Tournament was the award given to UVM's Director of Forensics, Dr. Robert Huber. Dr. Huber, in his final official year at the University, received the "Outstanding Contribution to Forensics" award from Northern Illinois' Director of Forensics, Dr. Jack Parker.

(continued from page one)

enrollment. The commission expects enrollment, which is one of the main forces behind the demand for faculty, to slow its growth in the 1970's, to drop absolutely in the 1980's, and to pick up again in the 1990's.

The commission notes that, any projections about higher education are risky, susceptible to unforeseen enrollment shifts, societal demands, the Cross-Cultural Communications Course...

(continued from page one)

b. To sensitize students and others to the needs of minority youth.

c. To provide a place where minority and disadvantaged youth in the community can come together and interact, with an emphasis on the development of human relations skills of the students in the program.

d. To allow minority college students to become involved in a number of different ways to New York and won fourth place. Cathy Bigelow and Mary Ellen Smith compiled a 4-2 hand raised (the other holding a fistful of arrows and lances) as though signaling for a free catch.

Archie Cox, dismissed Watergate investigator, is our fourth real life character. The President threw him out for coming too close to the buried bodies. Harvard Law School professor Cox has an iron-gray crewcut as wiry as a woodchuck's fur, and a rugged face that looks as though the designer had forgotten the eyebrows and pasted them on later. He has a wry, prize-fighter's grin. He made the best explanation of the tapes on TV we ever heard. Put him in knee britches and he would have done well among those Forefathers in Philadelphia, in 1787. He brought a bit of nobility to Washington, Mr. Integrity.

Richardson, in the Cox diabolical scenario, was rather magnificent. He had pledged to the Senate and the nation that Cox would have a free hand and when the President (who of course had also pledged it) reneged, Richardson politely quit. He couldn't do anything else, he said simply. My, what a hand he got from the Justice Department workers who filled all the spaces behind the reporters, and who clapped and clapped and whose applause, like a rising wave, finally swelled into an ovation.

development of new teaching methods, and other factors. Further, it says: "It may not be reasonable, or perhaps even possible, for hiring rates for women and members of minorities in the 1990's to reach the percentages indicated."

More reasonable, the commission says elsewhere in its final report, is a 30-per-cent share of the faculty slots for women and a 9-per-cent share for minorities by 2000. If that turns out to be the case, the attainment of its full goal of faculty representation equal to labor-force representation would occur at an even later date, the commission says.

Women, Minorities Make Slow Progress...

(continued from page one)

"Nevertheless, the way is clear to increase the proportions of those traditionally under-represented on faculties," it says. "But it will take a major effort in the graduate schools, and it will require constant re-evaluation of hiring practices."

"It will also force many to confront rather uncomfortable realities."

Despite its opposition to fixed hiring quotas, the commission says elsewhere in its final report that it strongly favors efforts to increase the pool of qualified women and members of minority groups. It also favors "special consideration in hiring for women and minorities where their roles as models for students and their special sensitivities to the problems of women and minority students will add to the overall excellence of a department, school, or college."

"There are many unknowns, including how much frustration may develop over this slow pace in closing the gaps and how much pressure may be exerted to close them more rapidly; and how much frustration may develop among majority males and how much pressure may be exerted to preserve opportunities for them. In any event, the problem of the absorption of women and minorities into faculties will be a troublesome one, with uncertain outcomes, for the duration of the 20th century."

Under New Business, a motion was entered to conduct a poll (ordered by last year's Senate) to find out if students want the Ariel to continue publication. The motion called for a poll to be conducted in the Cynic. Senators also suggested that a question be included in the ballot for student representatives to the Board of Trustees. The argument concerned the $11,000 SA allocation and the need for the Ariel as well as previous and present commitments. The motion was tabled.

Matt Jones and Sarah Funkhouser entered a motion to have them be SA representatives to this Saturday's meeting of the NSA at UMass. Being that some senators had previous knowledge of the NSA concerning its very political nature and our not wanting to be members of, or affiliated with, the organization, the motion was withdrawn. A decision was made that they should act as observers and not as representatives of the Senate or the president. Just prior to adjournment, Dick Cassidy announced through SA Speakers the appearance of Ralph Nader, November 8, 8:30 pm in Patrick Gym.

The program still has space available for next semester. Interested students are asked to contact Joseph Jones at the Cross-Cultural Communications-Component office in D building, Room 102, of Living Learning Center. The office hours are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

The coordinator of CCC, Joseph Jones, hopes that "everyone will assume the responsibility to participate in the program, either as a member of the various public discussions which will occur, or as an organizer working with the students and me in the program."

S.A. Senate Elects New Chairperson...

(continued from page one)

S. 17, a motion by Dick Cassidy for the creation of a committee to develop interim rules and regulations for the Senate was passed. Steve Rollins, new chairperson, was directed to appoint the committee with himself as chairman. S. 18, a motion for regulations concerning absences and also the smoothing of the alternate system was defeated. The main discussions centered on apathy in the constituencies, "spoonfeeding the Senate once again" as Ed Pasquini called it and the obvious need of some enforcement to make a workable and cohesive Senate.

A representative of Rensselaer will be on the University of Vermont campus on Friday, November 2. Please make appointments at Career Planning and Placement Office.

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS
SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT
RENSSELAER POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE
GRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAMS IN:

• Private (Industrial) Management
• Public Management
• Management Information Systems
• Operations Research and Statistics

A representative of Rensselaer will be on the University of Vermont campus on Friday, November 2. Please make appointments at Career Planning and Placement Office.

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

UVM Lodge Available

The former UVM Outing Club Ski lodge is now available to all staff and student groups for use as a conference and retreat center. The cabin is located in Smugglers Notch on Route 108 in Jeffersonville, an ideal, secluded spot for workshops, encounter groups, conferences and meetings. There are two floors plus a basement, including a full kitchen and serving line, bunks for 30-40 people, and a large main living room with fireplace. There are also three sets of restrooms with showers.

Rental of the Conference and Retreat Center is thirty dollars a day and reservations can be made through the Director of Student Activities. Dishes and cooking utensils are provided, but parties must bring their own food.

No charges will be made for cleaning and trash removal if each group leaves the cabin clean and empty of trash.

This facility may be used by departments to start new programs that will deal with innovative approaches to ecology, recreation, environmental issues, and survival training. Each group must have a UVM Faculty Staff person in charge.

Because of the severity of the temperatures in Jeffersonville and the almost prohibitive cost of heating, the cabin will be boarded and shut down from Christmas vacation until March 15.

Any requests for rental or general questions may be made at the Student Activities Office in Billings Center—Ext. 2060.

Under New Business, a motion was entered to conduct a poll (ordered by last year's Senate) to find out if students want the Ariel to continue publication. The motion called for a poll to be conducted in the Cynic. Senators also suggested that a question be included in the ballot for student representatives to the Board of Trustees. The argument concerned the $11,000 SA allocation and the need for the Ariel as well as previous and present commitments. The motion was tabled.

Matt Jones and Sarah Funkhouser entered a motion to have them be SA representatives to this Saturday's meeting of the NSA at UMass. Being that some senators had previous knowledge of the NSA concerning its very political nature and our not wanting to be members of, or affiliated with, the organization, the motion was withdrawn. A decision was made that they should act as observers and not as representatives of the Senate or the president. Just prior to adjournment, Dick Cassidy announced through SA Speakers the appearance of Ralph Nader, November 8, 8:30 pm in Patrick Gym.

The program still has space available for next semester. Interested students are asked to contact Joseph Jones at the Cross-Cultural Communications-Component office in D building, Room 102, of Living Learning Center. The office hours are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

The coordinator of CCC, Joseph Jones, hopes that "everyone will assume the responsibility to participate in the program, either as a member of the various public discussions which will occur, or as an organizer working with the students and me in the program."

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS
SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT
RENSSELAER POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE
GRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAMS IN:

• Private (Industrial) Management
• Public Management
• Management Information Systems
• Operations Research and Statistics

A representative of Rensselaer will be on the University of Vermont campus on Friday, November 2. Please make appointments at Career Planning and Placement Office.

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

Women Gym

The University of Vermont Women's Gymnastics team opened its season last Tuesday night at Castleton State College. UVM dominated both Castleton State and Green Mountain College by capturing first and second place in all four compulsory events. First and second place respectively for UVM were:

Floor Ex: Sue Supovitz, Debbie Light
Bars: Sue Supovitz, Candy Gowler
Beam: Sue Supovitz, Pam Burns
Vaulting: Candy Gowler, Ellen Post

The Cats are coached by Mrs. Holly Szabo, now in her fifth year as gymnastic coach at UVM. Last season, Mrs. Szabo and company swept the 71-8440 Gymnastics Tournament in Plymouth, New Hampshire, defeating nine

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT
The following employers' representatives will be interviewed by the Career Planning and Placement Office:

Tuesday, November 13, Cent Corporation, Rutland, Vermont Engineering, Civil Engineering, and

Wednesday, November 14, Graduate School of Cooperative Massachusetts, Interviewing all in

Thursday, November 15, Electric Company of Poughke Bachelors of Science or Electric

Thursday, November 15, Rep Youngstown, Ohio. Seeks Civil and Business Administration

Please sign up for these TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, NOV

Bergman On Religion, the only attempt by man to look within, is a sarcastically thwarted by one of the adolescents. When the travelers discuss the existence of God, a girl laughs and questions its relevance. Bergman shows that the philosophic explanation of God is the application of Pedanticism to religion and is as far away human spirituality as adulthood is to childhood. His approach to religion mirrors the false life that Isak lives in. The girl choosing not to concern herself with this approach to religion will probably gain a more profound understanding of herself and God. Bergman contrasts this theme in the Seventh Seal when he shows that the church reverts to paganism to explain and extinguish the Black Plague from Sweden.

The childhood is the closest thing we have to life itself. If we lose this sense of virginity, we lose the sweetness and become stones who wait to crumble. When we strive for timeless ideals we lose touch with ourselves. Isak, a doctor who is supposed to preserve human life, is dead. Bergman's

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

Air Force ROTC... The college scholarship program with fringe benefits.

Some people might need to be coaxed with more than a full college scholarship to join the Air Force ROTC. So, if free tuition, lab and incidental fees aren't enough... the Air Force offers a monthly allowance of $100.00, tax-free, in your junior and senior years. And free flying lessons to those qualified provide the most exciting fringe benefit of all. Interested?

Contact DEPARTMENT OF AEROSPACE STUDIES
At SAINT MICHAEL'S COLLEGE 655-2000 Ext. 281
Find Yourself A Scholarship In Air Force ROTC.

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

CHARLESTOWN

Women's RIBBED CARDIGANS $8.99

HEADWORK SHOULDER BAGS $3.99

MILL STORE

royal christy

SKI REFINISHING

Our new wet belt sander reduces the heat and friction that conventional sander produce, and allows us to do the best job possible on your skis.

EDGES FILED
BOTTOMS WAXED

Bring in your skis and watch our wet belt work wonders

The Royal Christy within

the Ski Shop Inc.

SHELBOURNE RD.
BURLINGTON, VT.

THE GOOD COURTS!

Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 AM Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 862-2439

Students rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-

VM Lodge Available

The former UVM Outing Club lodge is now available to all staff and student groups. The lodge is located on the campus in Jeffersonville, adjacent to the Outing Club building. The lodge is a two-story building with a full kitchen, a living room with a fireplace, a dining room, and a large room with a fireplace. There are also three bedrooms. The lodge is available for a day or a week. The cost is $100 per day and $700 per week. The lodge is available for a day or a week. The cost is $100 per day and $700 per week.

No charge will be made for cleaning and trash removal. The group leaves the cabin clean and empty of trash. This facility may be used by departments, to start new programs that will deal with innovative approaches to ecology, recreation, environmental issues, and survival training. Each group must have a UVM Faculty staff person in charge. Because of the severity of the temperatures in Jeffersonville and the almost prohibitive cost of heating, the cabin will be boarded and closed down from Christmas vacation until March 15. Any requests for rental or general questions may be made to the Student Activities Office in the Billings Center—Ext. 2060.

Elects Irperson...

Under New Business, a motion was entered to conduct a poll (ordered by last year's Senate) to find out if students want the Ariel to continue publication. The motion called for a poll to be conducted in the Senate. Senators also suggested that a "Question be included in the ballot for student representatives to the Board of Trustees. The argument concerned the $11,000 SA allocation and the need for the Ariel as well as previous and present commitments. The motion was tabled.

Matt Jones and Sarah Funkhouser entered a motion to have them be SA representatives to this Saturday's meeting of the NSA at UMass. Being that some senators had previous knowledge of the NSA, they were not wanting to be members of, or affiliated with, the organization. Also it was decided that they should act as observers and not as representatives of the Senate of the president. Just prior to adjournment, Dick Cassidy announced through SA Speakers the appearance of Ralph Nader, November 8 at 8:30 pm in Patrick Gym.

WKS CENTER
1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.
Bedspreads, rugs, pillows,
casseroles, chess sets, boxes,
brother hats, bags, wine skins,
silver, turquoise and bone
jewelry, candles, oils, incense,
toiletries, occult books, mugs,
tea sets, planters, statues, wall
hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, snuff
boxes, hookahs, shirts, dresses
and blouses from India,
Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria,
Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania,
Nepal and other places near
and far.

Women Gymnasts Open Victoriously

The University of Vermont Women's Gymnastics team opened its season last Tuesday night at Castleton State College. The UVM team, dominated by Castleton State and Green Mountain College by capturing first and second place in all four compulsory events. First and second place respectively for UVM were:
Floor Exercise: Sue Supovitz, Deborah Laffin
Bars: Sue Supovitz, Candy Gordon
Beam: Sue Supovitz, Pam Berni
Vaulting: Candy Gortler, Deborah Laffin
The Cats are coached by Mr. Holly Szabo, now in his fifth year as gymnastic coach at UVM. Last season, Miss Szabo and company swept the Tri-State Gymnastics Tournament in Plymouth, New Hampshire, defeating nine other teams from the New England area. If Tuesday's performances were any indication, UVM should repeat, if not surpass, last season's accomplishments.

SPS Photo: R. R. Low

The Women Gymnasts now prepare to host a meet slated for December 1, involving teams from Dartmouth, University of New Hampshire, Keene State College, Green Mountain College, and Plymouth State.

Want A New Student Center?

Are you one of the people on campus who likes ping-pong, billiards, bowling and can't seem to find them at UVM? Upon entering Billings Student Center, does it ever cross your mind that, beautiful as it is, it just doesn't have the facilities for a campus of 8100 students?

There are people who agree with you. Many people feel that this campus is in sore need of a student union, with office space for all student organizations, more space for student oriented activities such as films, meetings, lectures, music facilities, study rooms, anything else you can think of! What is needed is student approval for this much-needed facility. If you can come to a meeting (or send a friend), there is enough backing and ideas floating that this dream could become a reality. That will happen only if students are willing to work and commit themselves to this idea. If you are interested in planning a new student center, submit your name to the Student Activities Office, Billings Center, Ext. 2060.

Bergman On Death...

(Continued from page seven)

Religion, the only attempt by man to look within, is usually thwarted by one of the adolescents. When the believers discuss the existence of God, a girl laughs and questions its relevance. Bergman shows that the philosophic explanation of death is the application of a far away human spirituality to adulthood is to childhood. His approach to religion mirrors the false life that isak sees in the girl choosing not to concern herself with this approach to religion will probably gain a more profound understanding of herself and the world. In the Seventh Seal when he shows that the church reverts to paganism to explain and extinguish the Black Plague from Sweden.

The childhood is the closest thing we have to life itself. If we lose this sense of virginity, we lose the sweetness and become stones who wait to be shattered. When we strive for perfect ideals, we lose touch with life. It is supposed to progress, but if it is supposed to progress, human life is dead. Bergman's

RESEARCH
Thousands of Topics
$2.75 per page
Send for your up-to-date, 160-page, mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage (delivery time is 1 to 2 days).
RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2
LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025
213/477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is not research assistance.

Corque
1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.
Bedspreads, rugs, pillows,
casseroles, chess sets, boxes,
brother hats, bags, wine skins,
silver, turquoise and bone
jewelry, candles, oils, incense,
toiletries, occult books, mugs,
tea sets, planters, statues, wall
hangings, mirrors, Tiffany
buckles, bells, beads, snuff
boxes, hookahs, shirts, dresses
and blouses from India,
Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria,
Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania,
Nepal and other places near
and far.

Intramural Results Women's Swim Meet

50 yd. free style: Kelly (INDEP) First Place, 29.0
50 yd. breast stroke: Robertson (KAPPA ALPHA THETA) First Place, 42.1
200 yd. free style relay: Kelly, Dale, Hayes, Mulvaney (INDEP) First Place, 2:21.0
150 yd. medley relay: Kelly, Dale, Mulvaney (INDEP) First Place, 2:01.8
Diving: Dale (INDEP) First Place, 67.60
TEAM WINNERS— First Place: INDEP
Second Place: KAPPA ALPHA THETA
Third Place: TIE— PATTERTON and HARRIS-MILLIS.

Men's Swim Meet

50 yd. free style: Garber (MED) First Place, 25.0
100 yd. free style: Kennealy (DELTA PSI) First Place, 1:02.1
100 yd. backstroke: Kallman (INDEP) First Place, 1:09.9 NEW RECORD (Old record was 1:13)
100 yd. breast stroke: Garber (MED) First Place, 1:12.3
50 yd. butterfly: Johnson (MED) First Place, 29.5
200 yd. free style relay: Brody, Kennealy, Lawrence, Rathbone (DELTA PSI) First Place, 2:01.9
150 yd. medley relay: Johnson, Shaw, Garber, (MED) First Place, 1:35.3
Diving: Kennealy (DELTA PSI) First Place, 76.10
TEAM WINNERS— MEN'S SWIM First Place: MEDS
Second Place: DELTA PSI
Third Place: BOYS OF '73
Fourth Place: INDEP
Fifth Place: SIGMA PHI EPSILON
Sixth Place: TIE— LAMBDA IOTA and WASTED
Seventh Place: ACACIA

Women's Tennis Doubles

"A" TOURNAMENT:
Sally Rouse and Jenny Roney HARRIS defeated Lin LeBaron and Linda Weaver
THETA 6-4, 7-9, 7-5 for class "A" Championship
"B" TOURNAMENT:
Lori Gallagher and Linda Bollinger MILLIS won the class
"B" CHAMPIONSHIP
"C" TOURNAMENT:
Lynn Cichowski and Paula Wales SIMPSON won the class
"C" CHAMPIONSHIP

Men's Tennis Doubles

"A" Tournament: Lash/Smith (MEDS) defeated Lowy/Koenigsberg (INDEP) 6-3, 6-1
"B" Tournament: Vey/Goldberg (INDEP) defeated Meyer/Melnerny (INDEP) 6-1, 8-10, 6-4
"C" Tournament: Noyes/Gable (MEDS) defeated Van Dine/Aleskovsky (SAE) 6-1, 6-1.

World Campus Afloat: Join Us!

Soft each September & February.
This is the way you've always wanted to learn... and should. Combine accredited study with a fascinating semester of travel to Africa, Australia, the Orient, and the Americas. Over 8500 students from 450 colleges have already participated. Financial aid is available. Write now for free catalog.
WCA, Chapman College
Box 1000, Orange, CA 92668

E & E TIRE CO.

Complete line of new and retreaded summer and winter tires.

Front end alignments

Official Vermont Inspection Station

10% off on all RETREADS accompanied by this ad

E & E TIRE CO., INC.
152 RIVERSIDE AVE.
864-7759 BURL.

GET HIGH THIS WINTER

Glen Ellen has the highest peak in the Green Mountain National Forest, 2,845 vertical ft. with some of the most challenging skiing anywhere. Special week day rates for all UVM students and extra-low rates for Outing Club and Student Ski Association members (weekends and holidays included).

SPECIAL AT UVM SKI SHOW — $150.00
(Payment may be withheld until after Thanksgiving)

*With Glen Ellen Ski Pass, ski for $5.00 at Sugarbush and Mad River on weekdays.

Contact: Jim Pietrovito, Millis Hall, 656-3848, or Steve Brown, Millis Hall, 656-3845.

Harriers Down St. Mikes

Last Wednesday afternoon in their final dual meet of the season, the Vermont runners defeated St. Michael's College, 16-39. The UVM harriers, who swept five of the six places, were paced by Ben Putnam in the time of 26:29, followed by Ed Thornton, 26:57; Dave Raneri, 27:02; and Howdy Russell, 27:17; John Ellis, first man for St. Mike's, placed fifth in 27:57, and UVM's Eric Dietmann who completed the scoring placed sixth in 28:41. The harrier overall standing for the season is nine wins and four losses.

SPS Photo: R. R. Low

SPEAKING OF HOCKEY

by Bob Wilenski

UVM's first inter-squad hockey game was played to a hard-fought 3-3 tie last Saturday at the Essex Rink. Coach Cron was able to get a good look at all of his players in a game situation. He said that the team looked good considering they have had only ten practice sessions.

There were quite a few new faces on the ice and many of these freshmen looked capable of making the team. As I stated last week, the competition this year is tremendous. In the nets both Kieley and freshman Tom MacNamara had solid performances. The score was tied at the end of the second period and for the remaining twenty minutes both goalies turned away shots that could have won it.

The defense was also tight with freshman Hooper and Glyme turning in steady performances. Veterans, defensemen Yeates, Murphy, Child and Curtis looked like they would be very hard to beat this season.

It was very exciting to see the lines of O'Connell, Mallette, and Koch and MacKinnon, Castle, and Spence compete against each other. There was much talk in the locker room before the game about each line beating the other. However, when they got on the ice both lines found it was going to be a difficult evening. They played hard, fast hockey with both sides displaying aggressiveness. It will be interesting to see which line will be number one. At this stage of the season I'm not going to make any predictions.

The team has moved their practices from Essex to Cutterson Field House. They usually practice at 3:30 every afternoon Monday through Friday. If you would like to see how the team is developing, come on down and watch the action.

HOT DOG NIGHT

FRI NOV. 2 5-9pm

FREE GIVE AWAY K2 POLES $30.00 VALUE

HOT DOGS COFFEE CIDER
MOVIES REPS CLINICS

6-7pm BINDING CLINIC

7-8pm KEEPING YOUR SKIS INTUNE

REPS FROM SALOMON W. I. RICE K2
PETE CLIFFORD CHRIS CURTIS
JAKE SHAKESPEAR GARY FELLERS
HANSON DEMO TEAM DYNAMIC HANSON

SKI PACKAGE

HEAD GK - O3 $115.00
MARKER BINDINGS $45.00
$160.00

THIS OFFER ENDS SAT.
NIGHT 6pm

THRU SAT.
ONLY $99.95

NEWBOOTS ARE IN

HANSON (Waxables)
HEAD (Airboots)
K2 (Fittables)
HUMANIC
TECNICA

SKIS

FREE STYLE BY KNIESSEL
HEAD
K2

FOR THE RACER

HEAD HRP COMP
DYNAMIC VR 17
HEXEL
KNIESSEL

White Star GT
and VIP STAR

Swiss Chalet

40 PEARL ST ESSEX JCT.

"WHERE YOU CAN FIND SKI.
FOR THE BEGINNER EQUIPMENT TO THE RACER"

U.V.M. SPORTS

Coon And Brunst Lead Cats To 10-7 Win Over Hofstra

A tough defense and a potent running attack powered the University of Vermont to a 10-7 win over Hofstra University. Led by the strong running of Steve Coon, Sam Blood, and Larry Lockwood, the Cats were able to take a 10-0 lead after three quarters. The defense, led by Barry Vero and co-captain John Amphill, made this stand up during the Hofstra offense throughout the afternoon.

With the defenses dominating, only three points were scored in the first half. Those points came off the kicking toe of UVM placekicker George Brunst, who connected on a 33 yard field goal in the second period. The drive which led up to Brunst's field goal began on the Hofstra 42 yard line. But after moving to the eleven, the Cat's drive was halted as quarterback Bob Bateman was hauled down in the UVM backfield. Brunst's field goal provided the cats with a slim 3 point halftime lead.

The Flying Dutchman had a couple of scoring opportunities of their own early in the game. But despite moving inside the UVM 25 on two occasions, Hofstra was unable to put points on the board. Once they attempted a field goal but were unable to split the uprights. On their next field goal attempt the Flying Dutchman tried to surprise the Cats with a fake field goal, but the pass was incomplete.

The second half was also dominated by the defenses. But the Cats were able to break the Hofstra defense on the strength of Coon's running. Coon exploded for 93 yards in the second half including a 28 yard touchdown run. On the Cat's 10 yard touchdown drive, Coon carried six times for 59 yards.

The Cat's running attack was strong throughout the game despite injuries and a revamped offensive line. Al Ricciardi started at guard with co-captain Pete Trono moving over to tackle. The offensive line paved the way for Coon's 93 yards. Blood's 94, Lockwood's 20, and Bateman's 13.

Hofstra was able to break into the scoring column following a UVM fumble. Quarterback Steve Zimmer hit Phil Marino with a five yard scoring pass. Hogar's point after drove out the scoring with Vermont emerging the 10-7 victor.

The victory was the third for the Cats against four defeats. If they can defeat UMaine this Saturday and Bucknell the following, the Cats will finish with a winning record for the first time since 1966.

Field Hockey Team Dominates

The women's field hockey team reached its peak last weekend when they won all of their games at the Northeast Tournament at Rhode Island. The scores were as follows: UVM-Western Connecticut 5-0, UVM-Colby College 6-1, UVM-URI 2-0. Along with winning the 3 games, 5 UVM girls were chosen to go to the Northeast Tournament at the University of Bridgeport. The names of these players are: Robin Benjamin, Pam Jones, Pam Bryant, Sally Bremner, and Ely Pilling.

The whole team played better than they had this year. Congratulations to everyone on the team for a fine season.

Indoor Jump Adds New Dimension To Ski Program; Drive For National Championship Underway

by Rick Steinberg

Although winter is still one month away and snow has yet to fall, the University of Vermont Ski Team has nonetheless been practicing for several months. The team, which emerged to national prominence placing third in the NCAA Championships, hopes to bring to fruition their goal of a national title.

Many people may wonder how the team can practice with the absence of snow. But the on-snow training is merely the third phase of an arduous and strenuous conditioning program. Led by Coach Chip Lacasse and assistants Neil Mackey and Martin Grimes, the skiers began phase one of their conditioning last May and continued throughout the summer.

Lacasse stated, "A great mistake made by skiers is that they think they can go out and become great skiers immediately. But very few can actually do this. Conditioning is a year round job for the serious skier."

This philosophy has been passed on to the Vermont skiers and is reflected in the year-round dedication to the training program. Beginning last May the skiers began the first phase which is aimed at building and developing of muscles as well as cardiovascular strength. During this phase of conditioning emphasis is placed on power and strength. At least three days a week the skiers run sprints and long distances, run up stadium steps to strengthen their legs and lift weights. This is continued throughout the summer until fall practice begins.

In the fall phase two, stressing simulation and speed, gets underway. At this point emphasis is placed on developing quickness and speed through muscle coordination. This is a much more difficult task than developing strength. This stage can very well make the difference between a good skier and a great skier.

This year a new dimension has been added to the ski program with the development of an indoor ski jump which simulates actually jumping on a 40-50 meter hill. The apparatus, which was developed in Norway, was brought to the attention of Lacasse by All-American Peter Kongali. With the aid of Project Construction at UVM Lacasse was able to plan and construct the Roller Ski Jump.

Jumpers practicing on newly developed indoor ski jump. SPS Photo: Jeff Green Championship.

Another aspect of this program for the jumpers is reaction training through the use of visual command. The stress during this exercise is for the skier to learn how to react as quickly as possible. This is extremely important during take-off. Within a time span of 1/100 of a second the skier must react quickly and spontaneously for a good take-off.

The downhill and slalom skiers use the Dry Land Slalom in the early stages of practice to simulate their actions during racing. With the use of roller skis they can practice on grass, setting up gates to improve and practice technique and timing. This is essential for the skier before he actually works on snow.

The final stage of preparation is the actual work on the snow. In past years the UVM skiers did not have a set practice site that they could call home. But this year Lacasse has arranged for permanent practice areas. The Alpine skier will be practicing at Smuggler's Notch ski area, the Nordic runners will train behind Lapointe Field House near Centennial Field, while the jumpers will be practicing at the Williston 50 meter jump which has been re-designed by Kongali. Combining his ski knowledge with his mechanical engineering education, Kongali has created a new and modern ski jump.

This pre-season program provides the skier with physical as well as mental training. Lacasse believes that throughout the long seasons the skiers and coaches develop a rapport which hopefully will carry over to the season. Looking back on the winning record of Lacasse it appears that his philosophies on skiing and training program have been a success.

UVM Booters Fall To Maine 2-1

by Norm Robinson

The University of Maine finally broke the UVM curse Saturday as they got by the Vermont booters for the first time in their history, 2-1. Forty-degree weather and winds gusting to 25 miles per hour hampered both teams, but a good sized crowd still came to A.T. Post field to root their team.

The game had two very distinct halves. In the first half both squads seemed to be a bit cautious because much of the play was in the center of the field. Play was rough throughout the game as indicated by the expulsion of Maine's Eric Jensen for charging the goalie.

Maine got on the scoreboard early when Paul Sotervich put one home, with Ted Woodbrey getting the assist. Although UVM outshot Maine 8-5 the Cats failed to score and it was 1-0, Maine, at the half.

UVM put the heat on Maine

Action during Cat's 1-0 loss to Maine. SPS Photo: Jeff Parker

Bruce Norton tied the game at 34:35 mark of the second period when Gary Griffith fed him the ball and Norton rifled it past Hackett.

Maine got the break they needed with only seven minutes left. Jonas came across the net attempting to make a save, but the ball slipped to Scott Gregory who put it into the empty net.

UVM had a total of 24 shots on the net to Maine's 13, while Jonas had seven saves and Hackett 16.

either Hackett made the stop, as he had nine saves in the second half, or else the shots failed to get past the Maine defense.

Maine got the break they needed with only seven minutes left. Jonas came across the net attempting to make a save, but the ball slipped to Scott Gregory who put it into the empty net.

UVM had a total of 24 shots on the net to Maine's 13, while Jonas had seven saves and Hackett 16.

THE INSIDER

by Eli Tubbs

It appears that winter is beginning to rear its icy head again in Vermont. Not by the conventional method of cold winds and snow flurries, but by the transformation of the Gutterson Field House from a bastion of white shirts, tennis shorts, and sneakers, to an odd shaped enclosure on which men propel themselves against each other in hot pursuit of a little black disc.

Yes, it's Catamount hockey time again and the defense of the Crown is not going to be easy. But Coach Cross, our mentor, has again recruited an outstanding wealth of talent in his freshmen: Rookies Bill Spence, Tom Colby, and Michel Lebeau all seem to be fighting for starting line jobs, while John Glynn, Dana Hooper, and Peter Morin are striving for that defensive job. Freshman Tom MacNamara is also giving John Kiely a run for his money in the goal. His heading for an intense dogfight now as many positions are still up in the air as of this writing.

Last Saturday evening we played a benefit exhibition scrimmage in Essex for their new facility. It was quite a show. Highlighted by zealous checking, it ended in a 3-3 deadlock. For the Green team (the pre-game favorites) Michel Lebeau, the Catamount Camogie player, Jack Crawford, and Kevin MacKinnon were the right benders. For the White squad, Roger White, Tim O'Connell, and Tom Colby each lit the lamp. The goaltending was excellent and all in all, I feel that the team can equal or better our record of a year ago. My prediction - 25 wins, 3 losses.

Gymnasts To Perform For School Children

The Catamount gymnasts will give a special demonstration at the Williston Elementary school this Friday, November 2 at 2:15 and will follow up by helping children who are members of the Williston Gymnastic club. Both the men's and women's team members will participate.

Next week the men's team opens their season with a meet against Plattsburg at the Plattsburg gymnasium. With a record of two wins and three losses, the Catamounts hope to tie their running score against the N.Y. state college.

Coach Tom Dunkley places confidence in co-captains Fred Lee and Gary Reid for all around scores and expects high individual scores from former captain, Doug Mackey and freshman John Prushko and Dave Lowery. Backup support is expected from Jim Considine, Gary Warren, Fred Lux and Dennis Saborin.

BEFORE THE MULDAUR - YOUNG CONCERT AND THE MID-SEMESTER BLUES FESTIVAL

ENJOY DINNER AND A FEW DRINKS AT SIZZLING STEAK

MAKE THE EVENING COMPLETE WITHOUT BREAKING YOUR BUDGET

SIZZLING STEAK

1216 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT
(NEXT TO SHOWCASE 1 & 11)
(ACROSS FROM McDONALD'S)

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HOURS
DINING ROOM: 4 P.M. TO 11 P.M. MON-FRI
NOON TO 11 P.M. SAT-SUN
LOUNGE: 4 P.M. TO 1 A.M. MON-FRI
NOON TO 1 A.M. SAT-SUN
SERVING ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

REILLY TIRE COMPANY

FROM RECAPS TO RADIALS WE HAVE IT

Prices Starting At $16.60 for a 6.50/13 Blackwall (plus federal excise tax $1.86)

Inverno etna

Mohawk Storm Trac

- 4 ply nylon - 75 series
- Exclusive Zero-Flax tread - remains soft at below-zero temperatures
- Dual white sidewalls
- Tough, deep tread
- Plugged - ready for street application

ACCESSIBLE TO UVM
31 San Remo Drive
So. Burlington
(Behind Burlington Rent-A-Hill)

ACCOMPANIED BY A COPY OF THIS AD
Install and Balance
Your Snowtires - $5.00

LOWEST PRESCRIPTION PRICES IN VERMONT

YOU KEEP THE SAVING (ask your doctor about us)

Present your ID with Your Prescription

Grandway Pharmacy
Grandway Shopping Plaza
Shelburne Road

MAZEL'S

FAMILY SHOE STORE
194 North St., Burlington

CONTINENTAL TYROLEANS®

DUNHAM'S

The North Country's Favorite All-around BOOT...

Men's Sizes 6 to 13, Ladies' Sizes 5 to 10

★ CAMPUS BOOTS ★ HIKING BOOTS ★

Charge It...

★ Mazel's Open Daily 9 am to 6 pm, Thurs. & Fri. 'til 9 pm
★ Free Parking Next to Store

MIDSEMESTER BLUES with Muddy Waters & Freddie King Patrick Gym Sun. Nov. 4 8 p.m. Tickets on sale

VOLUME XCI

Ralph To

Ralph Nader, a new many college students both of both his outspoken and his detailed investigation of consumer frauds, will at UVM tonight at 8:30 p.m. Patrick Gymnasium. There will be no admission charge. The event will open at 7:30 p.m.

Nader's talk, which is primarily with "The U.S. Crisis" has been made possible by the S.A. Speakers Bureau. Nader will also appear at Vermont ETC at 9 p.m. broadcast taped earlier, which he will meet members of the press. Broadcast will be repeated tomorrow, November 9, p.m. on ETV.

Nader has repeatedly warned of the dangers of nuclear energy. In an article in Plain Dealer, March 30, he stated, "After two decades of assurances by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) private utilities that nuclear power is acceptably safe, evidence to the contrary has become undeniably impressive during the last three years."

Latest Developments

Faculty To P

by Jim Bradley

The Faculty Committee of the University of Vermont Senate has made recommendations in Philosophy Four case, process of review committee, which representatives from colleges, voted unanimously to make his recommendation public.

Chairman of the Philosophy professors in the case (the four are: Paulson, Bob Rice, Anderson, and Jim C. made formal requests to personally before the committee to present cases. The committee normally meets with members under review on the controversy surrounding the case. It is decided the requests.

According to Schoonmaker, the four cases were documented from administration and sides that I don't anything came out of personal meetings with come out in the information.

Schoonmaker also pointed out that on the basis of experience the faculty supportive and non-recommendations, which observers, may not explanatory power. He stated that in which recommendations to political science faculty were made chairman of his department, only overturned by the Trustees.

A majority of recommendations insure a favorable Schoonmaker. Similarly, a unfavorable record does not necessarily

Final Exam end on Dec. Sorry for the

In T Review

Program; Underway

Another aspect of the program for the jumpers is the training through the use of visual command. The skier during this exercise is for a skier to learn how to react quickly as possible. This is extremely important during a cliff within a time span of 100 of a second the skier must react quickly and simultaneously for a good take-off.

The downhill and slalom runs are the Dry Land Slalom the early stages of practice simulate their actions during the use of roller skis. They can practice on grass, setting up gates to improve and practice technique and timing. This is essential for the skier before he actually works on snow.

The final stage of preparation is the actual work in the snow. In past years the UVM skiers did not have a set practice site that they could call home. But this year UVM has arranged for permanent practice areas. The Alpine skier will be practicing in Smuggler's Notch ski area, the Nordic runners will train behind Lapointe Field House at Centennial Field, while the jumpers will be practicing in the Williston 50 meter jump which has been re-designed by Kongoli. Combining his ski knowledge with his mechanical engineering education, Kongoli has created a new and modern ski jump.

This pre-season program provides the skier with physical as well as mental training. Lacasse believes that throughout the long seasons the skier and coaches develop a rapport which hopefully will carry over to the season. Looking back on the winning record of Lacasse it appears that his philosophies on skiing and training program have been a success.

SCRIPTION MONT ING

(us) prescription

L'S
STORE
ThiptonNTAL
NS

NHAM'S

he North Country's Favorite
All-around
BOOT...

Sizes 5 to 10
ING BOOTS *

ally
uers. & Fri. 'til 9 pm
next to Store

tickets on sale

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XCI

NOVEMBER 8, 1973

NUMBER 23

Ralph Nader, Consumer Advocate, To Speak At UVM Tonight

Ralph Nader, a hero to many college students because of both his outspoken views and his detailed investigations of consumer frauds, will speak at UVM tonight at 8:30 p.m. at Patrick Gymnasium. There will be no admission charge. Doors will open at 7:30 p.m.

Nader's talk, which will deal primarily with "The Energy Crisis" has been made possible by the S.A. Speakers Bureau. Nader will also appear on Vermont ETC at 9 p.m. in a broadcast taped earlier, during which he will meet with members of the press. The broadcast will be repeated tomorrow, November 9, at 1 p.m. on ETV.

Nader has repeatedly warned of the dangers of nuclear energy. In an article in The Plain Dealer, March 30, 1973, he stated, "After two decades of assurances by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) and private utilities that nuclear power is acceptably safe, the evidence to the contrary has become undeniably impressive during the last three years."

Nader appeared at UVM in two years, mushroomed into an active, growing organization. At the time of his last appearance, the turnout was so great that his speech had to be delayed while arrangements were made to enlarge seating space and accommodate the crowd.

Latest Developments On The Philosophy Four

Faculty Affairs Committee Refuses To Publicize Views On Professors

The Faculty Affairs Committee of the University Senate has made its recommendations in the Philosophy Four case, as the process of review continues. But in accordance with normal procedure, the seven member committee, which includes representatives from each college, voted unanimously not to make its recommendations public.

Chairman James Schoonmaker, Professor of Mathematics, pointed out that the committee is an advisory group to the president. If the president chooses to make the recommendations public, it would be fine with its members. President Andrews declined to make them public, however.

Three of the four philosophy professors involved in the case (the four are Alan Paskow, Bob Rice, Gerry Anderson, and Jim Corcoran) made formal requests to appear personally before the committee. The committee normally meets with faculty members under review, but due to the controversy surrounding these cases it decided to honor the requests.

According to Schoonmaker, the four cases were so well documented from both the administration and faculty sides that I don't think anything came out in the personal meetings which didn't come out in the prepared information.

Schoonmaker also pointed out that on the basis of past experience the tallying of supportive and non-supportive recommendations, which seems to be going on among many observers, may not have real explanatory power in regard to what decisions are ultimately made. He cited the Parenti case, in which favorable recommendations to grant the political science professor tenure were made from the chairman of his department on up the line through the president, only to be overturned by the Board of Trustees.

A majority of favorable recommendations does not insure a favorable decision. Schoonmaker remarked. Similarly, a majority of unfavorable recommendations does not necessarily mean that

Final Examinations will end on December 19.
Sorry for the error.

a professor will not be rehired. The buck now stops with the president, as the Board of Trustees have delegated decision-making power to him in rehiring cases. Schoonmaker emphasized that it should not be inferred from his remarks that the President does not weigh all information in making his decisions. "He does," said Schoonmaker.

Students Review Philosophy Four

from The Albatross
Data from Fall 1972

Phil 004 Section D (3055)
Ethics
J. Corcoran

Lab/Disc 1 10MW
Return/Enrollment: 21/31 = 67%

	% Yes	% No	% DNA	% Blank
1.	38	48	14	0	Did instructor clearly state objectives?
2.	43	19	38	0	Did course content agree with these objectives?
3.	81	5	14	0	Did exams reflect content and objectives?
4.	95	0	0	0	Was instructor well prepared?
5.	14	76	10	0	Did students help to determine course's direction?
6.	86	5	10	0	Was instructor able to communicate his ideas?
7.	34	67	14	5	Were lectures too repetitive of texts and readings?
8.	67	14	14	5	Did instructor discuss recent developments?
9.	48	33	0	5	Did instructor relate course to allied fields?
10.	95	0	10	5	Were students free to ask questions, etc.?
11.	67	19	0	0	Have opportunity to see instructor outside of class?
12.	71	24	0	5	Was instructor genuinely interested in students?
13.	71	24	0	5	Could you approach instructor comfortably?
14.	81	10	0	5	Did you know how you would be evaluated?
15.	86	10	0	5	Were you graded fairly?
16.	67	24	0	5	Were you kept informed of your standing in the course?
17.	86	0	10	5	Did instructor enjoy teaching the course?
18.	48	38	10	5	Did instructor convey enthusiasm for subject area?
19.	67	24	10	5	Was course well organized?
20.	48	48	0	0	Did course increase your interest in the subject?
21.	19	76	5	0	Has course stimulated your interest in extra-curricular activities?
22.	52	43	0	5	Would you recommend course?
23.	76	14	0	10	Was class size satisfactory?

24. Amount of material covered:
A. Too much (33%); B. Too little (0%); C. About right (43%); D. DNA (19%); E. Blank (5%)
25. Course workload:
A. Heavier (29%); B. Lighter (19%); C. Average (52%); D. DNA (0%); E. Blank (0%)

S.A. Considers Resolution To Advocate Impeachment

by Bruce Madden

Tuesday night's meeting of the S.A. heard an impassioned motion from Steve Rice, Marsh, calling for the resignation of President Nixon. It read as follows:

"The University of Vermont Student Senate, representing the common interests of 8,000 students, call for the resignation of President Richard M. Nixon. We believe that the President of these United States has lost his capacity to govern a free nation. We believe Mr. Nixon has simply lost the confidence of the people, despite whatever attempts he may use in the future to regain that confidence."

We believe the resignation of one man — in this case one President — may permit us to continue and give the people, which make up this democracy, time to repair the wounds their democracy has suffered in this latest and perhaps most tragic battle.

Following Rice's tear-eyed reading, the Senate applauded in obvious sympathy and approval. The introduction to the motion tried to emphasize the need for resignation, but more importantly to try to awaken the Senate and other campuses, and to illustrate the concern of the constituencies towards apathy in student government. The text of the letter will follow below.

Discussion, or rather, argument followed. Matt Jones, Hamilton, argued against the motion saying that under SA constitution this proposal was unconstitutional because of its political nature. He also stated there was no room for dissenters to voice their opinion. He also stated that he was in conflict, in that he agreed with the motion but that he also felt that it was not proper SA business. Dick Cassidy, Town, furthered this argument by saying that the SA can not handle its own problems without also trying to handle national ones as well. Mark Cassella argued in favor of the motion saying that by not considering the motion it would be an evasion of responsibilities.

At first there was an objection to consideration but it was soundly defeated. Obviously, the Senate felt they should consider or at least entertain discussion of the motion. By a very close vote of 41.96 to 20.43, the rules were suspended and the motion was then able to be voted upon. Two-thirds votes was needed to suspend the rules. With the rules suspended more discussion of the same arguments ensued. Ed Pasqualin offered a friendly amendment to have the motion changed from the SA Senate which represents 8,000 students to read the SA Senate. This amendment was not accepted. Further arguments stemmed from the great paradox of all politicians — whether to vote as your conscience thinks. Because of this, many senators wanted to get back to their constituencies and the motion was tabled 31.05 to 28.90.

Under New Business (definitely the highlight of the meeting), Mark Segars proposed a motion that the Senate not make a stand on the "philosophy four" issue. This (continued on page nine)

Traffic Frustrations Discussed By Uccello

by Kathy Stiasni

"Haven't we all experienced frustration with transportation facilities?" For instance, in a traffic jam or above an airport in a delayed and circling flight? Ms. Ann Uccello, the director of consumer affairs of the US Department of Transportation, addressed this question to those gathered for the informal public hearing on transportation and the consumer. The meeting, held on Thursday, November 1, was sponsored by the Lake Champlain Regional Chamber of Commerce and the UVM

Environmental Program. Ms. Uccello also entertained the question of "Why a public hearing in Burlington?" by explaining the functions of the new branch of Consumer Affairs in the Department of Transportation. The branch serves as an outlet for individual recommendations and complaints, as well as a means of educating the public as to what the new developments in transportation are.

The audience was urged to fill out a questionnaire which was aimed at gauging consumer reactions to different modes of transportation. There were also numerous information pamphlets available. The hearing was preceded by a brief slide presentation which elaborated on the complications encountered by both consumers and planners of transportation. The slides indicated the measures being taken to encourage safety, environmental consciousness, and the experimentation with mass transportation.

Ms. Uccello was anxious to establish a feeling of rapport with her audience. It seemed that she wanted to appear as another consumer who happened to have ties with the government. Unfortunately, the meeting was sparsely attended, yet those present indicated concern and interest as they stepped forward to address their fellow citizens. All the comments were recorded so that they can be evaluated in Washington.

A major issue discussed was the increased use of automobiles. Several members of the audience commented that the lack of local public transportation caused an avoidable personal expense.

The idea of pouring millions of dollars into developing an interstate system of highways was questioned and attacked on the grounds that needed funds for mass transit are unavailable. There was also criticism of the environmental destruction the new highways are causing. A mention of the U Turn, was greeted with laughter. Most people felt it was a waste of valuable land and money. There was discussion of the new proposal to build a boulevard in downtown Burlington which would ease the traffic situation, yet would be aesthetically destructive, blocking the view of Lake Champlain. Ms. Uccello

SPS Photo: R. R. Low (continued on page twelve)

3 Colleges Allow Students To Participate In Faculty Bargaining

by Philip W. Semas

From THE CHRONICLE OF HIGHER EDUCATION
How does one involve students in collective bargaining between colleges and their faculties?

That has been a major question raised by the growth of faculty unionism. Many students fear they will be left out of more and more campus decisions if those decisions are made at the bargaining table, where only faculty members and administrators are present.

Students were permitted to sit in on some bargaining sessions at the Brooklyn Center increased role in the 1960's. A partial answer to the question may be found at three Massachusetts state colleges, where students have been sitting at the bargaining table with faculty members and administrators for several months. The three colleges—Fitchburg State, Salem State, and North Adams State—are the only institutions in the country where students have participated in collective bargaining.

Students were permitted to sit in on some bargaining sessions at the Brooklyn Center of Long Island University, but only as observers.

The Massachusetts students have been full participants in the negotiations with one big exception: they cannot prevent the other two parties from reaching an agreement.

That attitude is surprising, since the Massachusetts state colleges can hardly be considered major centers of student activism. The Massachusetts experience suggests that students on more (continued on page eleven)

Group Organizes Against Nixon

by Randy Jensen

Cries for the impeachment of President Nixon are heard throughout the nation. Last Thursday a meeting was held at the Billings Center to decide whether UVM should join the cause.

Though sparsely attended, the organizers of the meeting, Bob Haynes and Ted Stronach, presented their viewpoints and asked for suggestions.

Among the suggestions were to set up an information booth in Waterman, to sponsor petitions to Vermont's representatives, to write letters to the Burlington Free Press, and perhaps to participate in radio talk shows. Of these suggestions only the booth in Waterman is being implemented. According to Bob Haynes the main emphasis of these activities is to show Vermont's representatives that we are behind them in the impeachment of President Nixon. Haynes also expressed hope that more people would help support this cause at the next meeting which will be November 12 at 7:30 pm in Marsh Lounge in Billings Center.

Pamphlets will be handed out explaining procedures and reasons for impeachment and petitions will be available. The booth will be on the main floor of Waterman, Thursday, November 15.

In This Week's Cynic:

Review Of The Lady's Not For Burning—p.8

Funky New History Comes—p.5

The Windsor Prison Story—p.9

Judy Collins Is Coming—p.6

Table of Contents

Art & Entertainment p. 6
Calendar Announcements p. 2
Editorial p. 4
Op. Ed. p. 5
Sports p. 13

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar Presents

Remember—Wednesday, November 21st begins the Thanksgiving recess. There will be no classes that day. Classes will resume on Monday, November 26. Initial Spring 74 schedules will be mailed to your local address on Monday, or Tuesday, November 19th or 20th. Forced Change week for Spring 74 schedules will be the week after Thanksgiving (November 26-30). All changes must be made on an add/drop form in the respective Department Office with the completed form being turned in to the Registrar's Office no later than 3:30 on Friday, November 30th. The exam period at the end of this semester is December 13-19.

Gay Dance

There will be a Gay-in-Vermont Dance, Saturday, Nov. 10, at 9:00 p.m. The place is 73 Church St., Burlington, Vt. 3rd floor. Entry cent donation.

Yoga Class

Women's Hatha Yoga Class meets weekly at 9:00 a.m. at 73 Church St. (The Next Thing space next to Kelly Pharmacy.) Come, sisters, and join in some healthy stretching and breathing.

Impeachment

There will be a meeting of all people interested in discussing and working towards the impeachment of President Nixon. It will take place Monday, November 12 at 7:30 p.m. in Marsh Lounge in Billings Center. David Harrison, Director of the Vermont American Civil Liberties Union will be present to talk about the involvement of the ACLU in this area. There will also be a representative from the Vietnam Veterans group to discuss the action that this group is taking. All are invited to come and share their ideas.

Activities Occurring At Newman Center

CUNNINGHAM NEWMAN CENTER—Redstone Campus (Have you ever been to the Center? Stop by the staff and you will show you around and tell you about our various activities.)

Mass Schedule:
Weekdays: Saturday: 4:15 and 6:30 p.m., Sunday: 9:00 and 11:30 a.m. and 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

Weekday: Each day Monday—Friday: 4:15 p.m. Also: Monday: 7:30 p.m. and Tuesday: 10:00 p.m. Freshman "Creative Discussion": Sunday afternoon, 2:30 p.m. on second floor of the Center. Liturgy Committee Meeting: Each Tuesday evening at 8:30 p.m. Pentecostal Prayer Meeting: interested are urged to attend.

Psych Meeting

Representatives of the Psychology Department Faculty would like to meet with all Psychology majors to discuss current trends in Psychology Graduate School admissions and other Post Graduate Opportunities in Psychology. The meeting will be held on Tuesday, November 13, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 212, John Dewey Hall. All interested are urged to attend.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8

12 noon, a current events lecture in North Lounge, Billings Center.
4 p.m., Fleming Museum gallery talk with Thelma Appel in conjunction with her one-woman show of contemporary landscapes.
7 p.m., VPIRG meeting in the Round Room, Billings Center.
7 p.m., Prayer, praise and fellowship meeting of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, A Building, Room 131, Living and Learning Center.
7 p.m., Chess Club Meeting, 5th floor, Waterman.
8 p.m., seminar in Jewish history, taught by Mitch Fried, "Israel and Judah," Harris-Mills recreation room; all are welcome.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9

4 p.m., "Friday at Four" open house at the Arena Theatre.
7:30 and 9:30 p.m., Lane film, "Phantom of the Opera," with Lon Chaney, Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Bldg. Admission $1 at the door. Tel. reservations advisable—636-3418.
8 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick for a request nite led by Ben Bergstein. Free, open to all.
9 p.m., "Roundhouse" informal entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere, basement of Billings Center.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10

No calendar events listed.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 11

7-9 p.m., opening of a "paper show" at "Everyone's Gallery," Bldg. B, Room 161, Living/Learning Center, sponsored by art education program. Will remain on view thru Nov. 18.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 12

3 p.m., F.A.D.C. at Phi Delta Theta. All welcome.
4:10 p.m., Zoology seminar, Mr. George Starbuck, Awatech, Inc., South Burlington, "The Use of Tracer Dyes in Hydrographic Studies," Room 107, Marsh Life Sciences Building, preceded by coffee at 3:45 p.m.
7 p.m., Bah'at Fire: "Among the teachings of Baha'ullah is that religion must be in conformity with science and reason." Conference Room "C," Billings Center. Everyone invited.
7:30 p.m., Associates in Ministry (AIM) hosts a meeting in Billings Center, open to all interested in discussing impeachment proceedings.

7:45 p.m., Home Arts Interest Group of the Women of UVM meets to hear Kay Strassburg, Extension Textile Clothing and Design Specialist, on "Contemporary Quilting." Place is Memorial Lounge, Waterman. Interested persons are welcome.

8 p.m., UVM Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Prof. Frank Weinrich, will give a concert at Ira Allen Chapel. Also on the program are three student ensembles: harpichord and flute trio, a string quartet, and a flute and guitar duet. The Madrigal Singers will sing a variety of music, mostly in English. Admission is free.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13

3 p.m., English department hosts an open class in Room 205 Lafayette Hall with Stanley Kunitz, Pulitzer-winning poet and author of The Testing Tree. Mr. Kunitz will give a reading at 7:30 p.m. at St. Michael's Altar Hall.
4:30 p.m., English Majors Seminar presents Prof. Allen Shepherd, English department, "James Dickey's 'Deliverance,'" Dewey Memorial Lounge, second floor, Old Mill.
6:30 p.m., S.A. Senate meets, Marsh Room, Billings Center.

7 p.m., Bible study sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Bldg. A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

7:30 p.m., East Asian Cultural Exchange presents a demonstration on the martial arts: Tai-Chi, Karate, and Kung-Fu, fireplace area, the Commons, Living/Learning Center, preceded by a meeting at 7, open to all.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet for gospel music and Bible inquiry, Marsh-Austin-Tupper hall lounge; further information from Lynn Rickels, Ext. 2952.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14

Deadline at the President's Office for receipt of material to be presented to the Trustees for their December 1

(continued on page three)

5 Important reasons...

Our Art Shop Should be Your Art Shop!

1. Complete — we stock all the artist materials you will ever need.
2. Serious — we're serious enough to devote our entire lower level to art.
3. Knowledgeable — our staff can answer any and all of your questions regarding art.
4. Informative — we've a good selection of art and craft books.
5. Helpful — we'll take the time to explain the ins and outs of all types of art.

"If you're interested in Art, we're interested in you!"

Church & College Sts.
Downtown Burlington
658-4554

the corner bookstore

"One-stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

Tenant's Council

There will be a meeting of the Tenant's Council for Off-Campus Residents today, Thursday, November 8 at 4:30 p.m. in Marsh Lounge of Billings Center. The Tenant's Council will be discussing participation in a food co-op, community resources, legal rights of tenants and other interests of off-campus students. All are welcome to attend.

A Free Film

Billings Center, Governing Board presents a film "Leo Beerman" November 14 at 11:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m., North Lounge. Admission is free.

UVM Students Join In Church Opening

On the weekend of November 10-11, the newly completed Cathedral Church of St. Paul will be consecrated. St. Paul's, on the corner of Pearl and Battery Streets in downtown Burlington, is the cathedral of the Episcopal Diocese of Vermont.

To conclude the weekend of consecration activities, members of the University of Vermont community are invited to join young people from around Vermont to participate in a folk mass in the cathedral at 6:00 PM on Sunday, November 11.

A special feature of the celebration will be the participation of Father Ian and Caroline Mitchell whose new work, Morning Glory, will be the music for the service. Father Ian is an Episcopal Priest who has composed a number of settings for the liturgy, including The American Folk Song Mass, the first American "guitar mass." The Mitchells are also well known as performers and their singing as well as their music will add a particularly exciting dimension to the service. Following the service there will be an opportunity to tour the building.

Recycling Papers

ATTENTION: Save your newspapers for recycling—Bring them to: Davis Hall, Robinson Hall; Mon. and Thurs. 6:30-9:30 p.m. and Saturday 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Sponsored by Robinson Recyclers—For more information call Diana Rayburn at 656-3086.

Poli Sci Faculty Majors Party

Attention Political Science Majors: Faculty-Majors (and intended majors) Party to be held Friday, Nov. 9, at 4:00 p.m. in "St. Anselm's on Redstone Campus. Beverages served. $1.00 to be paid at Pol. Sci. Office (2nd floor Old Mill) or at door.

Teacher's pet.

It's the real thing. Coke.
Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

Contentment — Warm Riding Stable, Open Year Around — Trail Riding — Instructions — Hay & Sleigh Rides — Tack Shop — Shoeing — Sales — Boarding — Reasonable Rates — Indoor Arena. South Hero 372-4087.

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics $2.75 per page. Send for your up-to-date, 160-page, mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage (delivery time is 1 to 2 days). RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC. 11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2 LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025 (213) 477-8474 or 477-5493. Our research material is sold for research assistance only.

ORGLE

1301 Shelburne Rd. So. Burlington, Vt. bedspreads, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wine skins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, folk art, occult books, maps, tea sets, planters, statuettes, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, bookends, shirts, dresses and blouses from India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

Soap Box

by Susan E. Holmstrom
Laurie Rapp
And they're off! Here the judges, coffins, wagons, fire engines, the go-carts and the wigs. Living Learning Building.
Cold and miserable the was, the First Annual Anselm's Fall National Box Derby Race took place. The schedule this past November 3, on Deforest in Burlington. Sponsors: St. Anselm's Chapel.
purpose of the race was to funds which will go to student volunteer projects. The Office of Vol. Programs. A ten entrance fee was paid participants to meet the and pay for the prizes awarded a plaque and two

Voyages

By Wednesday noon UVM community is in the middle of another busy. The pace of life quickens often frantic pace as scurry about from offices to libraries to meals to homes. Perhaps on campus hustle and bustle more than at Billings Center. crossroads for much University's noon-time. Activity is a necessity of our lives. Indeed, movement is no life. now and then we also suspend our activities to relax and refresh. We need to take time where we're at and we're going. We need to realize who we are and we're all about.

Voyages in the Spirit time and a place where refresh themselves by to the Spirit of Life with each of us. It is a time place to listen to the direction it is taking.

Voyages in the Spirit an occasion to be with in ways different from may experience in class. an occasion of sharing students, faculty, administrators, and people from beyond university. Voyages in the Spirit to deeper self-understanding and deeper relationships. The Voyages in will be, unique

Right Now

Inclu Will

Specia

FOR T

DOMINO'S PIZZA

FREE DELIVERY

Dear Mom,
School is okay,
My room is okay,
Classes are okay,
even the weather is okay, But Mom, Domino's Pizza is great. Love, Student 864-7444

WILISTON ROAD

58-3333

NORTH WINDOSKI AVE

50c OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Expires NOV. 14, 1973

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Void if not completed

1 Coupon per pizza

ENTER THE DOMINO'S PIZZA AD CONTEST
SEE LAST WEEK'S CYNIC FOR DETAILS

NOVEMBER 8

lecture in North Lounge.
gallery talk with Thelma Appel women show of contemporary in the Round Room, Billings and fellowship meeting of the ship, A Building, Room 131.

5th floor, Waterman history, taught by Mitch Freud,
-Mills recreation room, all are

NOVEMBER 9

open house at the Arena.
film, "Phantom of the Opera,"
161, Living/Learning Center,
at the Tel. Tel. reservations

Dancers meet at Southwick for a stein. Free, open to all.
informal entertainment in a segment of Billings Center.

NOVEMBER 10

film, "Phantom of the Opera,"
161, Living/Learning Center, program. Will remain on view

NOVEMBER 12

via Thelma. All welcome.
minor, Mr. George Starbuck, region, "The Use of Tracer Dyes Room 107, Marsh Life Sciences
at 3:45 p.m.

"Among the teachings at must be in conformity with reference Room "C", Billings

Ministry (AIM) hosts a meeting to all interested in discussing

Interest Group of the Women of Stratburg, Extension Textile specialist, on "Contemporary Lounge, Waterman. Interested

Singers, under the direction of give a concert at the Allen are three student ensembles:
a string quartet, and a flute and Singers will sing a variety of admission is free

NOVEMBER 13

ent hosts an open class in Room
Stanley Knits, Pulitzer award of The Testing Tree, Mr. Knits
p.m. at St. Michael's Altior Hall.
Seminar presents Prof. Allen department, "James", Dickey's morial Lounge, second floor, Old meets Marsh Room, Billings

sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian
131, Living/Learning Center.

Cultural Exchange presents a trial arts: Tai-Chi, Karate, and the Commons, Living/Learning
ing at 7, open to all.

meet for gospel music and Bible upper hall lounge; further shells, Ext. 2952.

NOVEMBER 14

Office for receipt of material
Trustees for their December 1

Continued on page three

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics
$2.75 per page
Send for your up-to-date, 160-page,
mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00
to cover postage (delivery time is 1 to 2 days).

RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2
LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold by research assistance inc.

CORCULE

1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.
bedspreads, rugs, pillows,
tapestries, chess sets, boxes,
leather hats, bags, wine skins,
silver, turquoise and bone
jewelry, candles, oils, incense, cassidras, occult books, magi-tes sets, planters, statues, wall
hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, beads, beads, antler
pipes, bookends, shirts, dresses
and blouses from India,
Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria,
Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania,
Nepal and other places near
and far.

Soap Box Derby Winners

by Susan E. Hollister and
Laurie Rapp

And they're off! Here come the judges, coffins, covered wagons, fire engines, and all the go-carts, and the winner is Living Learning E building.

Cold and miserable though it was, the First Annual St.
Anselm's Fall National Soap
Box Derby Race took place on schedule this past Saturday, November 3, on DeForest Road in Burlington. Sponsored by St. Anselm's Chapel, the purpose of the race was to raise funds which will go to the student volunteer projects of the Office of Volunteer Programs. A ten dollar entrance fee was paid by all participants to meet this end and pay for the prizes awarded to the winners. First place was awarded a plaque and two kegs of beer. Second and third place winners each received one keg of beer. A booty-prize of one keg of beer was given to the most original car.

The Arnold brothers from Living-Learning E drove their little go-cart to victory with times of 24.4, 24.6, and 23.8 seconds in three consecutive heats qualifying them for their win in the finals. Alpha Chi Omega and Sigma Alpha Epsilon's "coffin" was the second place winner, driven by Paul Aleksovsky. An extremely cold third was driven by Jim Parker of Phi Gamma Delta.

The booty prize was given to the wheels of Soccer B Team for their crazy covered wagon.
Congratulations to all, and drink up!

Voyages In Spirit-A Unique Experience

By Wednesday noon, the UVM community is in the middle of another busy week.
The pace of life quickens to an often frantic pace as people scurry about from classes to offices to libraries to meetings to meals to homes. Nowhere perhaps on campus is more hustle and bustle more evident than at Billings Center, the crossroads for much of the University's noon-time traffic.
Activity is a necessary part of our lives. Indeed, without movement is no life. But every now and then we also need to suspend our activities in order to relax and refresh ourselves.
We need to take time to look at where we're at and where we are going. We need to stop and realize who we are and what we're all about.

Voyages in the Spirit is a time and a place where people refresh themselves by turning to the Spirit of Life which is in each of us. It is a time and a place to listen to the Spirit and the direction it is taking in our lives.

Voyages in the Spirit is also an experience in classrooms, in meetings, in offices. It is an occasion of sharing among students, faculty, staff, and administrators, as well as people from beyond the university community.
Voyages in the Spirit is a way to deeper self-understanding and deeper relationships.

The Voyages in the Spirit
will be unique experiences

Voyages in the Spirit is sponsored by the Associate
in Ministry.

Maruak Arts Demonstration:
There will be a martial art
demonstration on Tuesday,
November 13, at 7:30,
Living/Learning Center,
Fireplace Area, Commons
Building. Tai Chi, Kung Fu,
and Karate will be shown. At 7:00 there will be a short
meeting of East Asian Club
that is open to all. Ideas for the rest of the year will be decided upon. Everyone is welcome—fortune cookies and
tea for all!

The Voyages in the Spirit
will be unique experiences

Voyages in the Spirit is sponsored by the Associate
in Ministry.

Maruak Arts Demonstration:
There will be a martial art
demonstration on Tuesday,
November 13, at 7:30,
Living/Learning Center,
Fireplace Area, Commons
Building. Tai Chi, Kung Fu,
and Karate will be shown. At 7:00 there will be a short
meeting of East Asian Club
that is open to all. Ideas for the rest of the year will be decided upon. Everyone is welcome—fortune cookies and
tea for all!

The Voyages in the Spirit
will be unique experiences

Voyages in the Spirit is sponsored by the Associate
in Ministry.

Maruak Arts Demonstration:
There will be a martial art
demonstration on Tuesday,
November 13, at 7:30,
Living/Learning Center,
Fireplace Area, Commons
Building. Tai Chi, Kung Fu,
and Karate will be shown. At 7:00 there will be a short
meeting of East Asian Club
that is open to all. Ideas for the rest of the year will be decided upon. Everyone is welcome—fortune cookies and
tea for all!

The Voyages in the Spirit
will be unique experiences

Voyages in the Spirit is sponsored by the Associate
in Ministry.

Election For Students On Trustee Board

There will be a general election held before December 1 to elect a student chairperson and seven student representatives to the Board of Trustees. During the same election there will be two alternatives to the governor's Commission on Higher Education elected. Interested students should obtain petitions from the S.A. office.
Each student shall be elected to one specific committee. The committees are: Buildings and Grounds, Development,
Election Policy, Finance and Budget, Investment, Student Activities, and University Governance. Look for posters around campus soon. For more information, call the S.A.
Office at 656-2053.

St. Anselm's Services

SERVICES:
Holy Communion: Sunday
— 11:00 a.m.; Tuesday
— 10:00 p.m. (services Episcopal — all Denominations welcome)
Morning Prayer: Mon-Fri —
9:00 a.m. (Ecumenical Service sponsored by the Protestant,
Roman Catholic, and Episcopal Chaplaincies)
CHOIR: Wednesday — 7:00
p.m.
DISCUSSION GROUP: Friday
— 6:30 Burgess Lounge
Group of interested students who discuss and raise important questions, concerns, doubts and remarks they have about their faith, religion, church, or life as a student.

The group is led by Chaplain
Odie and is presently talking about death.

GUEST SPEAKER THIS
SUNDAY AT ST. ANSELM'S Chaplain Odie has announced that at this Sunday's service the Rev. Gary Eley will be the guest celebrant and preacher at the service. Fr.

Eley is the rector of All Saints
Church in South Burlington.
He is one of the most vibrant young priests in Vermont who recently came here from New Jersey. He is the Director of Youth for the Episcopal diocese of Vermont and he is responsible for the many conferences for youth which take place out at Rock Point in Burlington. Fr. Eley is a great guitarist besides, and will be staying around after the service to do some playing and singing.

"Outreach" Nurse Program

If you are interested in information and assistance in:
dieting, skin problems, colds, personal problems, and so on,
the infirmity's "Outreach" nurses, Mrs. Mamie Leslie, RN and Mrs. Marion Foley, RN will be available at Patterson Lounge and 103 Tupper every Wednesday from 3:00 to 5:00
pm.

coffe-and tea will be provided (Sponsored by the Associate
in Ministry.)

The Cross-Cultural Communications Component program is holding an open discussion tonight on inter-racial dating and marriage. The time is 7:00 p.m. around the fireplace in the Living-Learning Commons Building, which is located on the second floor. All members of the University community are invited to attend.

Maruak Arts Demonstration:
There will be a martial art
demonstration on Tuesday,
November 13, at 7:30,
Living/Learning Center,
Fireplace Area, Commons
Building. Tai Chi, Kung Fu,
and Karate will be shown. At 7:00 there will be a short
meeting of East Asian Club
that is open to all. Ideas for the rest of the year will be decided upon. Everyone is welcome—fortune cookies and
tea for all!

The Voyages in the Spirit
will be unique experiences

Voyages in the Spirit is sponsored by the Associate
in Ministry.

Maruak Arts Demonstration:
There will be a martial art
demonstration on Tuesday,
November 13, at 7:30,
Living/Learning Center,
Fireplace Area, Commons
Building. Tai Chi, Kung Fu,
and Karate will be shown. At 7:00 there will be a short
meeting of East Asian Club
that is open to all. Ideas for the rest of the year will be decided upon. Everyone is welcome—fortune cookies and
tea for all!

The Voyages in the Spirit
will be unique experiences

Voyages in the Spirit is sponsored by the Associate
in Ministry.

Maruak Arts Demonstration:
There will be a martial art
demonstration on Tuesday,
November 13, at 7:30,
Living/Learning Center,
Fireplace Area, Commons
Building. Tai Chi, Kung Fu,
and Karate will be shown. At 7:00 there will be a short
meeting of East Asian Club
that is open to all. Ideas for the rest of the year will be decided upon. Everyone is welcome—fortune cookies and
tea for all!

The Voyages in the Spirit
will be unique experiences

Voyages in the Spirit is sponsored by the Associate
in Ministry.

Maruak Arts Demonstration:
There will be a martial art
demonstration on Tuesday,
November 13, at 7:30,
Living/Learning Center,
Fireplace Area, Commons
Building. Tai Chi, Kung Fu,
and Karate will be shown. At 7:00 there will be a short
meeting of East Asian Club
that is open to all. Ideas for the rest of the year will be decided upon. Everyone is welcome—fortune cookies and
tea for all!

The Voyages in the Spirit
will be unique experiences

Voyages in the Spirit is sponsored by the Associate
in Ministry.

Maruak Arts Demonstration:
There will be a martial art
demonstration on Tuesday,
November 13, at 7:30,
Living/Learning Center,
Fireplace Area, Commons
Building. Tai Chi, Kung Fu,
and Karate will be shown. At 7:00 there will be a short
meeting of East Asian Club
that is open to all. Ideas for the rest of the year will be decided upon. Everyone is welcome—fortune cookies and
tea for all!

The Voyages in the Spirit
will be unique experiences

Voyages in the Spirit is sponsored by the Associate
in Ministry.

Maruak Arts Demonstration:
There will be a martial art
demonstration on Tuesday,
November 13, at 7:30,
Living/Learning Center,
Fireplace Area, Commons
Building. Tai Chi, Kung Fu,
and Karate will be shown. At 7:00 there will be a short
meeting of East Asian Club
that is open to all. Ideas for the rest of the year will be decided upon. Everyone is welcome—fortune cookies and
tea for all!

Calendar-Announcements

(continued from page two)
meeting.
9 a.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society presents a class for women, at 73 Church St. (The Next Thing's space),
beginners welcome.

11:30 and 12:30 p.m., Billings Center Governing Board presents the film, "Leo Burman," North Lounge, Billings
Center, free.

12 noon, Associates in Ministry presents "Voyages in the Spirit," Conference Room C, Billings Center. This week:
Sister Lindora Cabral: "People, Dreams and Visions."
Dance classes (presented by the UVM Modern Dance Workshop) taught by Arlene Erb and Dennis Plunkett, with 3:4:30 and 4:30-6 p.m. set aside for beginners, 6-7:30 especially for men, and 7:30 to 9 for those of intermediate and advanced levels. Cost is waived for UVM faculty, staff, and students with I.D.; $3. for others. Arlene Erb has taught at the Luigi Jazz Center and the Harkness Ballet School in New York. Dennis Plunkett is a former member of the Harkness Ballet and the Alvin Ailey Dance Company.
To make reservations and learn more, contact Maggi Hayes,
Ext. 3240. Early sign up is suggested as space is limited.

4:30 p.m., Faculty and Faculty Senate combined meeting, 103 Rowell Building.

8 p.m., Sigma Xi lecture, Prof. Stephen Pastner, "Copts and Robbers; Nomad-Villager Relations in Eastern Ethiopia," at the Sheraton Inn, public welcome. A dinner for Sigma Xi members and their guests precedes the lecture at 7 pm — contact Prof. H. Gardiner Barnum to make reservations.

7:30 p.m., UVM's Women's Caucus hosts David Harrison and an attorney from the Vermont chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union in an informal meeting about sex discrimination problems and how to handle them, Marsh
Room, Billings Center.

8 p.m., CAPERS (Coeds Affiliates of Pershing Rifles) meet, third floor, Williams Science Hall; open to anyone interested.

8 p.m., English department hosts Nathaniel Tarn, poet and author, in an open reading in Room 115, the Commons, Living/Learning Center. Tarn is a translator and editor of contemporary Cuban poetry and works of the Chilean Pablo Neruda. His most recent work is "Lyrics for the Bride of God" soon to be published in London and
New York.

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets, Southwick.
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15

10:50 a.m., Chemistry Colloquium, Prof. R. H.
Schlesinger, University of Rochester, "Some New Aspects of the Michael-Addition Reaction and its Application to Total Synthesis of Vincamine, Avenacoline, and Possibly Camptothecin," Room 8-112 Cook Physical Sciences
Building.

12 noon, UVM Women's Caucus meets at the fifth floor of Waterman Building. Bring your lunch and join us in the President's dining room. Open to all UVM women— faculty, staff, students and wives.

12 noon, current events lecture, North Lounge, Billings
Center, sponsored by Billings Center Governing Board.

12 noon, open class with Nathaniel Tarn, poet and author, Room 131 Williams Science Hall. See listing under
8 p.m., Nov. 14 for more information about Mr. Tarn.
Sponsored by the English department.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT ANNOUNCEMENTS

The following employers will be conducting employment
interviews in the Career Planning and Placement Office,
Manafield House:

November 19: Army Staff Nursing positions for AD and BS Degree. Half hour personal interviews from 1:00 - 4:00
pm. Seniors only.

Army Nurse Corps Information Booth will be set up in
Billings Center from 1:00 - 4:00 pm to talk with Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors interested in learning about undergraduate programs.

Sex Discrimination

On November 14 the UVM
Women's Caucus will meet in
Marsh Lounge in Billings
Center, to hear guest speaker
David Harrison and an attorney
from the American Civil Liberties Union on sex discrimination problems and how to handle them.

2 change purses
5 watches
2 key chains
1 single key
3 pairs of gloves
5 odd gloves
1 scarf
11 hats
5 jackets
3 raincoat jackets
1 pr. nurse shoes
1 pr. boots
1 necktie
1 washcloth
2 odd socks
2 shirts

TM World Plan Week

Governor Thomas Salmon
will be giving his active support
to over 1600 Vermont
practitioners of Transcendental
Meditation who will be celebrating November 11-18 as
"World Plan Week - U.S.A."
They will be joined by 300,000
other meditators throughout the United States.

The activities of the week
will focus public attention
upon the World Plan which was inaugurated in 1972, by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, to establish 3600 teaching centers
of the science of Creative Intelligence and
Transcendental Meditation
(TM) throughout the United States and the world.
Municipal and state governments across the country are, along with
Governor Salmon, proclaiming
World Plan Week and encouraging all citizens to set up and attend public lectures
in their areas.

Governor Salmon says he is
"very excited" about the programs being offered by the

Please Claim Lost Items

PLEASE come see if what you've lost is at the main desk
in Billings Center!!! If you can describe any of the following it will be assumed that it is yours.

1 sweater
1 silver bracelet
4 rings
1 handkerchief
2 pr. glasses with case
1 pr. sunglasses
6 pr. glasses with plastic frames
2 empty glasses cases
2 pr. glasses with plastic and
wire frames
6 pr. glasses with plastic frames
2 pr. gold wire-rims
5 glasses lenses
1 empty contact case
1 hairbrush
1 pr. scissors
2 umbrellas
toothpaste
1 toothbrush
1 leather gym bag

1 coffee mug
1 book pack
2 texts
10 paperbacks
2 workbooks
4 small notebooks

Paul B. Zanaty and Jan E.
Nelson, you each have a notebook at the desk. Peter Cambell, you have a folder.
Robert R. Turner, you have a valuable belonging at the secretary's desk. Please bring identification to pick it up.
All of these items will be gone at the end of this semester. The clothing will be gone after Thanksgiving vacation, so if you think it could be yours, COME PICK IT UP!!!

Calendar-Announcements

(continued from page two)
meeting.
9 a.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society presents a class for women, at 73 Church St. (The Next Thing's space),
beginners welcome.

11:30 and 12:30 p.m., Billings Center Governing Board
presents the film, "Leo Burman," North Lounge, Billings
Center, free.

12 noon, Associates in Ministry presents "Voyages in the Spirit," Conference Room C, Billings Center. This week:
Sister Lindora Cabral: "People, Dreams and Visions."
Dance classes (presented by the UVM Modern Dance Workshop) taught by Arlene Erb and Dennis Plunkett, with
3:4:30 and 4:30-6 p.m. set aside for beginners, 6-7:30
especially for men, and 7:30 to 9 for those of intermediate and advanced levels. Cost is waived for UVM faculty, staff, and students with I.D.; $3. for others. Arlene Erb has taught at the Luigi Jazz Center and the Harkness Ballet
School in New York. Dennis Plunkett is a former member of the Harkness Ballet and the Alvin Ailey Dance Company.
To make reservations and learn more, contact Maggi Hayes,
Ext. 3240. Early sign up is suggested as space is limited.

4:30 p.m., Faculty and Faculty Senate combined meeting, 103 Rowell Building.

8 p.m., Sigma Xi lecture, Prof. Stephen Pastner, "Copts
and Robbers; Nomad-Villager Relations in Eastern Ethiopia," at the Sheraton Inn, public welcome. A dinner for Sigma Xi members and their guests precedes the lecture at 7 pm — contact Prof. H. Gardiner Barnum to make reservations.

7:30 p.m., UVM's Women's Caucus hosts David Harrison
and an attorney from the Vermont chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union in an informal meeting about sex
discrimination problems and how to handle them, Marsh
Room, Billings Center.

8 p.m., CAPERS (Coeds Affiliates of Pershing Rifles) meet, third floor, Williams Science Hall; open to anyone interested.

8 p.m., English department hosts Nathaniel Tarn, poet
and author, in an open reading in Room 115, the Commons, Living/Learning Center. Tarn is a translator and editor of contemporary Cuban poetry and works of the Chilean Pablo Neruda. His most recent work is "Lyrics for the Bride of God" soon to be published in London and
New York.

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets, Southwick.
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15

10:50 a.m., Chemistry Colloquium, Prof. R. H.
Schlesinger, University of Rochester, "Some New Aspects
of the Michael-Addition Reaction and its Application to Total Synthesis of Vincamine, Avenacoline, and Possibly Camptothecin," Room 8-112 Cook Physical Sciences
Building.

12 noon, UVM Women's Caucus meets at the fifth floor of Waterman Building. Bring your lunch and join us in the President's dining room. Open to all UVM women— faculty,
staff, students and wives.

12 noon, current events lecture, North Lounge, Billings
Center, sponsored by Billings Center Governing Board.

12 noon, open class with Nathaniel Tarn, poet and author, Room 131 Williams Science Hall. See listing under
8 p.m., Nov. 14 for more information about Mr. Tarn.
Sponsored by the English department.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT ANNOUNCEMENTS

The following employers will be conducting employment
interviews in the Career Planning and Placement Office,
Manafield House:

November 19: Army Staff Nursing positions for AD and BS Degree. Half hour personal interviews from 1:00 - 4:00
pm. Seniors only.

Army Nurse Corps Information Booth will be set up in
Billings Center from 1:00 - 4:00 pm to talk with Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors interested in learning about undergraduate programs.

Sex Discrimination

On November 14 the UVM
Women's Caucus will meet in
Marsh Lounge in Billings
Center, to hear guest speaker
David Harrison and an attorney
from the American Civil Liberties Union on sex
discrimination problems and
how to handle them.

2 change purses
5 watches
2 key chains
1 single key
3 pairs of gloves
5 odd gloves
1 scarf
11 hats
5 jackets
3 raincoat jackets
1 pr. nurse shoes
1 pr. boots
1 necktie
1 washcloth
2 odd socks
2 shirts

TM World Plan Week

Governor Thomas Salmon
will be giving his active support
to over 1600 Vermont
practitioners of Transcendental
Meditation who will be celebrating November 11-18 as
"World Plan Week - U.S.A."
They will be joined by 300,000
other meditators throughout
the United States.

The activities of the week
will focus public attention
upon the World Plan which was inaugurated in 1972, by
Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, to establish 3600 teaching centers
of the science of Creative
Intelligence and
Transcendental Meditation
(TM) throughout the United States and the world.
Municipal and state
governments across the country are, along with
Governor Salmon, proclaiming
World Plan Week and encouraging all citizens to set up and attend public lectures
in their areas.

Governor Salmon says he is
"very excited" about the
programs being offered by the

Please Claim Lost Items

PLEASE come see if what you've lost is at the main desk
in Billings Center!!! If you can describe any of the following it will be assumed that it is yours.

1 sweater
1 silver bracelet
4 rings
1 handkerchief
2 pr. glasses with case
1 pr. sunglasses
6 pr. glasses with plastic frames
2 empty glasses cases
2 pr. glasses with plastic and
wire frames
6 pr. glasses with plastic frames
2 pr. gold wire-rims
5 glasses lenses
1 empty contact case
1 hairbrush
1 pr. scissors
2 umbrellas
toothpaste
1 toothbrush
1 leather gym bag

Editorial

Impeachment: The Awakening And Fear

Recently the New York Times and the Boston Globe have been running full page ads for the American Civil Liberties Union to encourage the impeachment of Nixon. The accusations are all clearly listed and spelled out. They range from holding a private war to wretapping. The New York Times has also urged President Nixon to resign.

In Boston two weeks ago about 1500 people held a rally to call for the impeachment of Nixon. Their charges were ill treatment of farmworkers and administrative corruption.

The fire has been lighted, so to speak and the White House is sitting right in the middle of it. People of all backgrounds and political affiliations are beginning to awaken to what has been going on behind their backs. It seems that not only the vocal minority but the silent majority are awakening, too. Impeachment is a household word. However, along with the awakening, some fear has arisen. A fear of the collapse of the system should we dare tamper with it. Our legal and constitutional system has definite ways to clean house; impeachment is just one of them. Someone once wrote, "If your eye is the cause of madness, cast it out." Although looking like we might go blind by tearing apart the whole structure, we are only doing some corrective surgery to restore our national health! The idea that revolution and counter-revolution will erupt, is unsubstantiated. There will be no "commie-pinkos" coming from Mexico to take over. Rather the takeover will be by the American people. It will change the control of magnificent power from the hands of one man to the land where "all men are created equal."

B. R. M.

Editorial

Parking Problems

Except for a handful of complaints from irate students, there hasn't been much attention focused on the dual hazard of cars parked along University Place — with a greater proportion of the cars on the Green than on the street. Many of the cars are parked at all sorts of angles other than parallel to the curb; some of them have but two front wheel on the street! Others park entirely on the grass.

The cars are injurious to the grass, an environmental hazard; and they block traffic — a hazard to motorists, pedestrians, and bicyclists.

Mr. Lyman Callahan, Chairman of the Park Commission, stated that the area of the Green where students are illegally parking is the tree beltline, which is the property of the City of Burlington Park Department. "As such it is under the jurisdiction of the Burlington Police Department. At the same time, the University's program to replace trees on campus can not be achieved if cars are allowed to park on the tree beltline."

Persons who use the University Place that cars be kept out of the traffic lanes. If the University does not want to re-sod the upper strip of the Green in a few years, cars must be effectively discouraged from parking there — whether it's just the back wheels or the whole car.

Any individual who drives or intends to drive a car on University grounds owes it to himself to obtain a pamphlet of University Traffic Regulations. They are available in the Campus Security Office, 218 Waterman. And keep your cars off the grass!

M M H

"Now, we's a little short of instructors trained for this course — ain't that right, Jasper..."

"YEA BO' RASTUS..."

A Woman Gets An Unfair Shake

by Gena Corea

Carol Parr works at a travel agency. Since she doesn't like her job, she considered switching to a laboring one at an oil refinery but with a young child, shift work seemed impractical.

Carol Parr has a Ph. D. in linguistics. She could be doing something she loves now — teaching at Louisiana State University. But she turned down a job offer there last December because she thought the position offered her was much inferior to that given men of comparable background.

Her situation, she thought, looking at faculty statistics, was not an unusual one for a woman to find herself in. She thought attention ought to be drawn to it.

"Someone needed to do something drastic — quit or turn down a job," Dr. Parr explained.

Carol, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Colorado, re-entered academia after translating scientific articles for the Tennessee Valley Authority for five years.

In August, 1972, she received her doctorate from LSU with a 3.96 average. The next month she began teaching transformational grammar and English as a foreign language at the university.

At the end of the semester her students gave her outstanding evaluations and English Department Head Thomas Kirby offered her a job as special lecturer for the next semester.

The special lecturership is a part-time position but she was expected to teach four courses — one more than was taught by three full-time male colleagues.

She compared the position offered her with those held by the three men. The men had all been hired as assistant professors when they had not yet completed their doctorates. She already had hers but was hired at the lowest rank.

In the fall semester, she and the men had taught the same number of courses at the same level. Yet they were considered full-time and she, part time.

Her lower rank carried with it a salary discrepancy of over $2000 for one semester. She was not covered by social security, insurance plans or the retirement fund.

She was not eligible for released time or summer grants. She could not accumulate sick leave or attend faculty meetings. While the three men had private offices, she

(continued on page eleven)

In The Public Interest

from The New Republic

by Ralph Nader

Washington — The Ford Company is on the campaign trail to break the will of Congress and weaken the Clean Air Act of 1970. Offering lavish food and drink, Ford executives have been inviting business and civic leaders in city after city to luxurious luncheons preceded by press conferences.

The luncheon at the Portland (Oregon) Hilton last June was a typical affair. Some 200 of Portland's more prominent citizens were invited to a $20 per person culinary extravaganza. Two musicians, a violinist and an accordionist, circulated through the crowd playing soft music while the guests sipped not so soft drinks. Expensive hors d'oeuvres graced the arms of waiters passing through the gathering.

At the center of each table was a stack of cigars and at each place setting was a card listing the names and addresses of each Oregonian Congressman and Senator. Filet mignon and dear French wine added a regal quality to the setting. Thomas J. Feenhey, general manager of Ford's engine division, tried to inform those present that the auto industry was trying hard but that it was useless to have to meet standards which "are unrealistic, will prove to be unnecessarily costly to car buyers and are not justified by need."

Californians who remember the auto company line of pollution and smog in the Fifties will recognize the same old tune. So will the Justice Department lawyers who wanted to prosecute the four domestic auto companies for a fifteen-year-old conspiracy of cleaning up car exhausts but had to settle out of court in 1969 on orders from their political superiors. And so will many Americans who are wondering how two tiny Japanese auto companies (Honda and Toyota) easily passed the federal government's 1975 standards — the same standards which the giant corporations in Detroit said could not be met.

As if following a division of labor, GM is busily organizing its dealers to pressure Congress while Chrysler resorts to full page newspaper ads to display its explanation of why the Clean Air Act has to go.

Where is the other side of the story told? In Congressional hearings which are infrequent and not well covered. In the reports of the National Academy of Sciences which are read only by specialists. In the public education efforts of such groups as the Oregon student public interest research group which rebutted in some detail the Ford presentation at the Hilton luncheon.

These communications to the public are not nearly enough. The Environmental Protection Agency has a responsibility of vigorously countering the industry propaganda with facts about just how serious a health hazard is auto pollution and how the technology is available to markedly reduce such emissions while at the same time increase fuel economy. Even GM has admitted that its catalyst for 1976 cars will significantly improve fuel economy, assuming its autos do not keep increasing in weight.

But motorists and non-motorists deserve more than a patch-up of the internal internal combustion engine. They deserve what huge, affluent companies can give them if they were sincere and cared about health and property of the people — namely, new kinds of engines which require less fuel, less repair, less accompanying hardware and consequently produce less pollution.

If after 21 years of being put on notice by scientists and governments to clean up, the auto companies are still fighting to preserve their ancient engine's right to bilk the consumer and contaminate the air, it is time for the government to build realistic prototype engines that will show the way.

There are proposals in Congress to have the government launch a research and development program to overcome this auto pollution disease once and for all. It could be the best bargain to come out of Washington in a long time. Interested readers may wish to write to Senator Magnuson, Chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, U.S. Senate for further details. After all, if we could go to the moon...

Letters To The Editor

On Consumer Education

To the Editor:

Thank you for making space available for the message about "the generic name" of prescription drugs (Ed. Note: page 3, November 1 issue). As a future health professional, I am especially grateful for this aid in nurturing a better informed public.

Communication is far more effective between the health-aware patient and the health professional. Such a patient and a health worker, together, can determine the most effective treatment in terms of cost, duration, side effects, persons/facilities needed, prognosis, etc. Furthermore, having actively participated in the choice of therapy, the patient is less likely to alter or discontinue or abuse the therapy, on his/her own, and is probably saving some money too.

The healing process is aided, moreover, because the patient's sense of self worth has been nurtured by participating in the treatment choice. In this way, the better informed, more responsible patient/consumer may have a comfortable partner relationship with the concomitantly disburdened health worker/provider.

It angers me that newspaper space and reader time must be spent on a purely economic aspect of health care, that is the generic name versus the brand name. This space and time could have been used for basic health tips, had "health" not become such a commercial enterprise.

Sincerely yours,
Eric Raines
Box 309, Given Building
PS. Now health professionals need consumer education too. Look at any medical journal's drug ads to see why.

Ethnic Ignorance

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on a letter to the editor, K. Markowitz's letter, "A Vote for Israel," is typical of the ethnocentric ignorance that blind, inhuman prejudice breeds on. Markowitz attacks the letter of Hoffman and Douglas because it makes an appeal to humanity not to racial bias. They recommended that we help all civilian war casualties, both Jews and Arabs. Markowitz' fanatical attack on them only proves their point — which is, that those making emotional appeals for Israel are not acting as true humanitarians.

Bill Golden

Oppressive Israel

To the Editor:

We would like to thank Kenneth S. Markowitz for his letter in last week's Cynic (a vote for Israel) which blindly lashes out at reason. Mr. Markowitz's historical view is a Jewish nationalistic one. As all historians know, all such nationalistic histories are unfactual, slanted to favor a chosen people, and therefore grossly unreliable. If Israel was as right and moral as he preaches, one wonders why practically all of Europe, Asia, and Africa (with the noteworthy exception of the racist South African government) opposed what even enlightened young Jews in the U.S. condemn as Israel's imperialistic (Zionistic) practices. Zionist propaganda may distort the true facts for millions of Americans, but the entire Third World and growing numbers of humanitarian young Americans (both Jew and other) sympathize with oppressed peoples, even if they are mere Arabs.

D. Hoffman and C. Douglas

The Problem Of Litter

To the Editor:

The grocers of this state want to solve the litter problem as much as anyone else. The grocery stores are being turned into garbage collection centers because of the Bottle Bill.

It is important to know what litter is, where it comes from, and what we should do about it. The National Academy of Science in Washington made a national study of the composition of litter. It proved that 59.5% of all roadside litter is paper.

Paper, not bottles and cans, is the major part of litter and the major element of all solid waste.

The Vermont Highway Department has estimated that household garbage is a major cause of our litter problem in the state. We all have seen those garbage can liners placed along our roadways. They will not go away because of any bottle ban. We know beverage containers are thrown along our highway — no deposit law is going to change the habits of these inconsiderate people.

The only way to solve the problem is for each of us to be a little more careful and for those few who continue to litter, a reasonable fine — "not the ridiculous $500 fine currently in effect" — should be enforced. We also suggest businesses and cities and towns consider added refuse containers that will be available for public use. We can all help by using litter bags in our cars as we travel, and thinking twice before we roll down the window and throw something out.

Legislation limiting your choice of packaging and brands of beverages will not solve the problem. It can only cost the state, the grocer, and YOU a lot of money without any results. Deposits will not solve this problem — only people can stop littering.

Yours truly,
Vermont Retail Grocers Association
Ronald C. Goldberg
Executive Secretary

Litter comes from many other sources. Litter is caused by careless pedestrians, the people who do not tie up or cover household garbage put out for collection — it is also caused by businesses who don't dispose of trash correctly or who are careless when loading or unloading trucks. Uncovered trucks driving along the highways also cause litter. People who use the outdoors and refuse to clean up after themselves are also responsible for litter.

Just A Story

by Elliot Freeman

A 1966 Chevy type van, diverted, converted into a roving home for a late 1953 model restless hippie boy, moving along the Colorado State highways with an expired inspection sticker. Watch out there! Those Colorado State Highway Patrol officers they got eyes, eyes that'll see that expired sticker even if they pass you going in the opposite direction at 60 MPH. Watch out! You know that you don't have enough money to buy a bottle of beer much less pay a Colorado State highway ticket. I know that your lights don't work. Your horn don't work. Your signals don't work. You have no glass in the passenger window and your tires are slightly bald. I'm telling you to Watch Out! Only one thing, one thing that can save you, go get it inspected, undoubtedly fail and receive a reject sticker that will make you legal on the Colorado State highway. Got to do it Now! Do it Now! Pull right over into that station and let's get it done with.

Hippie Boy: Have time to inspect my van?

Gas Man: Yup, pull 'er over there. Where you from?

Hippie Boy: Up across the ridge.

Gas Man: That's what I thought. Been up there. Never seen so many damn cars on the road that belong in the junkyard. How they do it?

Hippie Boy: Do the best with what ya got.

Gas Man: 'Spoie, okay let me see your lights. No damn lights. Try your signals. Left Right Left Right. No damn signals! Hit your horn. No damn horn! How ya expect to pass? No lights, no signals, no horn, no window and look at them tires!

Hippie Boy: My tires ain't that bad!

Gas Man: Them tires as smooth as a spanked baby's ass!

Hippie Boy: Smooth as a spanked baby's ass?

Gas Man: Damn right!

Hippie Boy: Welp...

Gas Man: I'll give you a reject, hell! Let me tell you boy, ya better Watch Out!

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS MANAGER Ruth May '74
ASSISTANT EDITOR Barbara Frankel '75
MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74
NEWS EDITOR Bruce Mackern '76
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lisa Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75
ASSISTANT FEATURE EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
SPORTS EDITOR Loren Wilson '74
ADVERTISING MANAGER

NEWS: Betty Andrews, Doug Beardsley, Dave Campaigne, Bill Campbell, Randy Janzen, Jill Markert, Dawn McGinnis, Andrew Morse, Wendy Nelson, Laurie Rapp, Kathy Stasiak, John Van Hosen.
FEATURE: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Carol Dufault, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Oshen, Karen Trotter.
COLUMNS: Scott Cahoon, John Franco, Elliott Freeman, Alan King, Ron MacNeil, Steven Rice, Jeff Ryback, Scott Sweeney.
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Andy Morse, Alan Patashnick, Norm Robinson, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilenski.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Eileen Dracoli, Camilla May, John Lunde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valvrou, Joan Westcott.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

'73 Ariel

I'd just like to take comments concerning Vermont's yearbook, Ariel, enlightening and others.

First of all, we must need for a yearbook of opinion of a vocal mind a collection of photos serves many purposes: expression; and good. Prior to the 1960's, yearbooks, there came a be extremely individual ourselves of some yearbooks. Somehow, body became connected Yearbooks had rough adapt to the times by photographic essays, independent, but they students.

UVM was no exception a yearbook is, most people on as many aspects of U framework an Editor or creatively. But after the that a need didn't exist, to stimulate and satisfy and yearbook sales had

With my back to the back into popularity. I aspect of campus life, sports, speakers, faculty.

But I knew the book interesting, would not apathy. Many people exulted at UVM. Some up to the limit, to something they would 4,000 free books and le on the life or death amount of extra fund. However, this funding difficult fight. With requesting funds, not of in doubt but also the Motions existed on the entirely. In the last various factions compete through.

What is important a copy of the book acc. Everyone must view come to the conclusion like to see continued. You must be willing and the funding also requires your support. A totally free charge can be a reality. The funding and you of free books could than just 4,000 cost representing his life at fund. It's up to every

History Some

The History Department offerings which include:

History 1199 RENAISSANCE AND This course will examination of the minds of several emphasis will be placed Innocent III. This course with Psycho-physical MIND EXPANDING be desirable, though Mr. Anderson.

History 1199, P. PAPAL NAVAL CENTURY.

Will focus on the treatment of burgeoning scholar island of Pasteria legs. 3 hours. Mr. A.

NB: Current depressed advanced course semi-weekly intervals. NB: The Sixteen remains viable for routine interest with Department Chair current Pope, and be initiated by BLUE cards shall authorization.

History 20063. AMERICA Will exploit 'to resources. Emphasize.

Prerequisite: 500 moderately desirable.

History 20069. AT THEORY Will focus on the telephone num approaches to women to the co Religions 1069.

work in Sociology History 1776.

II An all encompass examination of the spirit of A. Bruce. Special a statesmanship of Fillmore, Dr. F.

Countless legions of American into the equivalent (the

Editor

Oppressive Israel

To the Editor:

We would like to thank Kenneth S. Markowitz for his letter in last week's Cynic (a vote for Israel) which blindly ignores out at reason. Mr. Markowitz's historical view is a Jewish nationalist one. As all historians know, all such nationalistic histories are unfactual, biased to favor a chosen people, and therefore grossly unreliable. If Israel was as right and moral as he preaches, one wonders why practically all of Europe, Asia, and Africa (with the noteworthy exception of the racist South African government) opposed what even enlightened young Jews in the U.S. condemn as Israel's imperialistic (Zionistic) practices. Zionist propaganda may distort the true facts for millions of Americans, but the entire Third World and growing numbers of humanitarian young Americans (both Jew and other) sympathize with oppressed peoples, even if they are more Arabs.

D. Hoffman and
C. Douglas

Of Litter

The only way to solve the problem is for each of us to be a little more careful and for those few who continue to litter, a reasonable fine—not the ridiculous $500 fine currently in effect—should be enforced. We also suggest businesses and cities and towns consider adding refuse containers that will be available for public use. We can all help by using litter bags in our cars as we travel, and think twice before we roll down the window and throw something out.

Legislation limiting your choice of packaging and brands of beverages will not solve the problem. It can only cost the state, the consumer, and YOU a lot of money without any results. Deposits will not solve this problem—only people can stop littering.

Yours truly,
Vermont Retail
Grocers Association
Ronald C. Goldberg
Executive Secretary

Story

Freeman
erred, converted into a roving restless hippie boy, moving highways with an expired there! Those Colorado State not eyes, eyes that'll see that you going in the opposite out! You know that you don't bottle of beer much less pay a lot. I know that your lights don't work. Your signals don't be passenger window and your thing you to Watch Out! Only have you, go get it inspected, reject sticker that will make State highway. Got to do it over into that station and let's respect my van?
There, Where you from?
ridge.
thought, Been up there. Never the road that belong in the with what ya got.
me see your lights. No damn Right Left Right. No damn damn horn! How ya expect to be born, no window and look at that bad!
mouth as a speakin' baby's and speakin' baby's and?
best, hell! Let me tell you boy.

'73 Ariel Editor States Case

by Dennis Osgood
Editor in Chief 1973 ARIEL

I'd just like to take this opportunity to make a few comments concerning the 1973 ARIEL, the University of Vermont's yearbook. Some of my comments may prove enlightening and others redundant.

First of all, we must recognize that there is a definite need for a yearbook at UVM, contrary to the respected opinion of a vocal minority. Yearbooks contain more than a collection of photos and some copy. A good yearbook serves many purposes—a story of the year, a forum for expression, and good entertainment, just to name a few. Prior to the 1960's, yearbooks were in very high demand. However, there came a time when it became very stylish to be extremely individualistic, even to the extent of purging ourselves of some still relevant traditions, such as yearbooks. Somehow, nearly everything except our own body became connected with the "establishment". Yearbooks had rough times. However, they attempted to adapt to the times by producing very arty, non-descriptive photographic essays. They were individualistic and independent, but they only met the needs of very few students.

UVM was no exception. No matter what your concept of a yearbook is, most people would agree that it should focus on as many aspects of UVM as possible. Within that broad framework an Editor or a staff can then express their ideas creatively. But after the '60's crash, apathy set in. It wasn't that a need didn't exist, just that people had forgotten how to stimulate and satisfy that need. Budgets were slashed, and yearbook sales had fallen sharply.

With my back to the wall, I attempted to bring the book back into popularity. I designed a book that covered every aspect of campus life, including concerts, plays, Greeks, sports, speakers, faculty, Seniors, organizations, and dorms.

But I knew the book, no matter how well produced or interesting, would not sell, purely because of past years and apathy. Many people didn't even know that a yearbook existed at UVM. Somehow the yearbook had to be brought into the limelight, to prove to people that the book was something they would want to have. I decided to distribute 4,000 free books and let the campus decide for themselves on the life or death of the yearbook. With a minimal amount of extra funding this would become possible. However, this funding did not come without a long and difficult fight. With the University SA Lawyer group requesting funds, not only was ARIEL'S additional funding in doubt but also their already slim operating budget. Motions existed on the SA floor to eliminate the yearbook entirely. In the last moments of the semester (literally) various factions compromised and the additional funding came through.

What is important now, is that students do pick up a copy of the book according to the distribution schedule. Everyone must view the book objectively and hopefully come to the conclusion that it is something that they would like to see continued.

You must be willing to say that the book is worthwhile and the funding should be continued. A quality book requires your support through continued SA financial support. A totally free book or one with a very minimal charge can be a reality with the proper SA funding. Restrict the funding and you will kill the book. If the present plan of free books could be maintained, every student (more than just 4,000) could get a solid, tangible product, representing his life at UVM, for a small portion of his SA fund. It's up to every student to see this become a reality.

History Department Announces Some Unique New Courses

The History Department has announced some new course offerings which do not appear in the catalog. These include:

History 119B. THE TRANS-CAUCASIAN RENAISSANCE AND THE MINOR NOMINALISTS
This course will provide a detailed comprehensive examination of the sumptuary regulations implicit in the minds of certain social-regulation thinkers. Special emphasis will be placed on the minor-nominalist movement. This course may not be taken in conjunction with Psycho-pharmacology/History 287 (HISTORY OF MIND-EXPANDING DRUGS). Prerequisite: History I will be desirable, though not obligatory preparation. 1 1/2 hours.
Mr. Andrea

History 1199. PANTELLERIA AND THE RISE OF PAPAL NAVAL POWER AT THE TURN OF THE 13TH CENTURY

Will focus on the Realist/Semi-Pelagian Controversy over the treatment of galley slaves and its effect on the burgeoning scholastic revival among navy personnel on the island of Pantelleria. Prerequisites: Senior standing or good legs. 3 hours. Mr. Andrea

NB: Current departmental estimates indicate that further advanced courses in this field will be proposed at semi-weekly intervals as anticipated needs pend.

NB: The Sixteen-Semester option in Medieval History remains viable for a number of students of more than routine interest with the permission of the instructor, the Department Chairman, the President of the University, the current Pope, and the student's mother. PINK cards must be initiated by each of the above; initialization of the BLUE cards shall not be deemed to constitute sufficient authorization.

History 20063. HISTORY OF SODOMY IN RURAL AMERICA

Will exploit (to the fullest) the locally available oral resources. Emphasis on the rise of Montana sheep ranching. Prerequisite: Some previous work in the field only moderately desirable. 8 hours (including lab). Staff.

History 20069. AMERICAN LESBIANISM IN SET THEORY

Will focus on the exploitation of otherwise superfluous telephone numbers in historic-metric-methodological approaches to the contribution of sexually inverted women to the construction of the Erie Canal. Prerequisites: Religions 1069, RITES OF INITIATION, or appropriate work in Sociology or Math I. 3 hours. Mr. Fackler.

History 1776. ADVENTURES IN BIOGRAPHY, PART II

An all encompassing and thoroughly penetrating examination of the convolutions and mental aberrations of the spirit of America, from Increase Mather to Lenny Bruce. Special attention will be unhesitatingly paid to the statelessness of such as Richard Mentor Johnson, Millard Fillmore, Dr. Francis B. Townsend, William Miller, and countless legions of other luminaries in the unending parade of American intellect in politics. Prerequisite: History I or the equivalent thereof. 3 hours. Mr. Schultz

EXPERIMENTAL COURSES
History 10217, 10218. INDIAN OCEAN

The Devil's Advocate:

Joe Try-Hard Vs. Fred Goof-Off

by Alan King

There are two sides to every story and everyone has his own idea of how things should be. Perhaps by presenting one side of a particular issue, enough people will become concerned so that they will also want to express their views. This is the purpose of "The Devil's Advocate". Each week I would like to bring up a local, campus-oriented issue and invite you to respond. I will try to be as accurate as possible in details, but some of my sources may be unreliable from time to time and I may have to rely upon hearsay. I will accept full responsibility for this. Once again let me state that the opinions contained herein are my own and do not, necessarily, reflect those of the student body at large, nor the executive board of the Cynic.

Time: Mid-December, 1973

Place: Home of Joe Try-Hard. Joe has just received his grade report. He knew he had to ace that final exam in Bio to get above a 3.0. He quivers as he rips open the thin paper, smearing ink from the carbon paper on his sweaty fingers. He glances down... Biology. B+! Mortal Anguish! Joe Try-Hard ends up with a 2.8. Joe curses the professor for not giving him the A he feels he deserves.

Time: The same

Place: Home of Fred Goof-Off. Fred coasted along the fall semester. He got drunk down at the Last Chance every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. The other days he was stoned. He went to a total of 12 classes all semester. He took the minimum 12 credits including sex, forestry, public speaking, and biology. Fred finds he got a B- in Biology. "Pretty good!" says Fred. "I didn't think I'd get above a

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

'COULD I HAVE AN EXTRA PINCH OF POTASSIUM CARBONATE?'

© COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES-BOX 9471-BERKELEY, CA 94709

C. Fred Goof-Off ends up with a 2.8.

MORAL: A "B" is a "B" and a "3.0" is a "3.0".

During the course of the past six semesters I have had the opportunity to take over 30 courses. Having come from a high school where grades were given numerically before being translated into letter grades, it took me a while to get used to the four point system used at most universities. In seeking the elusive (4.0) I have been the recipient of something called a "B+" all too often. While there seems to exist something called a "B+" (and C+ and D+ for that matter) I am confused as to its exact meaning. Are my professors telling me I was just below an A? If this is so, then why do I get the same amount of credit as the person who got a B-? Does a C+ mean the professor would have liked to have given me a B, but that his curve just wouldn't have balanced? You see the problem.

Why are professors told they can give out pluses and minuses when they don't mean a damned thing? These are virtually meaningless to the student (other than a source of anxiety).

I have been applying to law schools for the past few months and have noticed one big difference between most of them and the University of Vermont. The grading system is much more logical and a great deal more fair. It is a System I advocate we use here at UVM. It would still let professors recognize those who did a bit more work than a B would show, or penalize for a lack of effort. The system I speak of allows professors to give out minuses and pluses, but then accounts for them in the grade-point average. The breakdown is as follows:

A = 4.0	C+ = 2.5	D- = .75
A- = 3.75	C = 2.0	F = 0
B+ = 3.5	C- = 1.75
B = 3.0	D+ = 1.5
B- = 2.75	D = 1.0

I feel this would be much better for both the students and faculty, for the students wouldn't settle for a B if they could put in a little more effort and get the B+, and the professors could give the recognition I spoke of earlier.

The whole grading system has been under a great deal of criticism at UVM for the past six months. The charge is that there are too many A's given out, particularly in the College of Education. The faculty senate has debated the issue and studies have reported that there are indeed more A's being awarded per capita than ever before. While I might agree with this finding, I am afraid there may be an overreaction this semester. The faculty has been advised to "crack down". There was no time limit put on it, just "crack down". Unless this is implemented over a long period of time, this semester's students (I among them) may become the victims of this massive shift. Instead of too many A's we might go to a system where there are too few A's. Deserving students may be denied simply because of this emphasis change. If every professor were to eliminate 10% of their 'A' grades, we would really be shafted. I mention this only as a forewarning. I will wait to see the results. Your response is welcome.

Midnight Confession

by Elliot Freeman

As he lay in the warm solid comfort of his blankets, he watched his room set in silence, bathed itself in the orange haze from the face of his glow in the dark alarm clock. The lighted dial was too bright and orange that he could not quite make out what time it was. He figured it didn't matter as long as the damned clock glowed in the dark. The queer lady with glasses down at the general store hadn't lied to him. She promised that it would glow in the dark. "Glow like the halo of an angel, shine like the sun through the heavens," she said. "Bright as the light in the hearts of the children of Jesus." He wished that she could be there now as the light bright as the light in the hearts of the children of Jesus kept him awake and thinking of why he had insisted on a clock that glows in the dark. He was glad the queer lady with glasses from the general store didn't show up. He imagined the both of them sitting in the hush of the early morning spiritually gazing at the luminous face of the alarm clock that glows in the dark.

TRUTH

The clouds pass before the sun and the earth lies in shadows.
Each day befalls night and the earth lies in darkness.

Neither the veil of shadows nor the drapes of darkness can subdue the light forever.
Its brilliance need not be visible to be recognized, for it stands absolute.
Mitch Jerome

Each week in the space provided below we plan to run a public service advertisement. These advertisements are not trying to sell anything but are simply trying to give information about products we all use. We feel that it is one more way that this student newspaper can serve the students of this University. It is for the benefit of the student for him or her to take notice of these public service advertisements, for they may help save money and avoid trouble.

Vermont Cynic

What can just one private citizen do?

Ralph Nader urges you to become a Public Citizen

Dear Fellow Citizen:

Imagine that 25 or 30 years ago citizens concerned about the future quality of life in America had gotten together to do something about it.

Suppose they had begun an effective citizen's campaign to make government agencies and industry management sensitive and responsive to the needs of the people. The real needs of all the people.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Think how much that was already accomplished. How much that was already accomplished.

Who represents the citizen? Only ourselves. And that is why I urge you, as a public citizen—a citizen concerned about your community and your country—to support Public Citizen.

If we do not speak up in the public interest now, if we allow the problems to multiply, life in America could be intolerable. Perhaps impossible.

Citizen Advocate-Citizen Supporters

A Cause for Optimism

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

We have seen a few determined citizens. We have seen a few determined citizens.

A way must be found to make a real impact on corporate boardrooms and on government agencies that often serve as protectors, even service arms, of the industries they are supposed to regulate.

Bureaucrats cannot easily resist the overwhelming pressures of special interest lobbies in Washington and state capitals. But there can be a greater countervailing pressure—the determination of citizens lobbying for the public interest.

Once you become a Public Citizen supporter, you will receive a report on significant new legislative movements that have been introduced in Congress or state legislatures.

Members in achieving reform or relief for the local, state, or national level. They fully, you will apply them in the areas of your own commitment to action. Citizenship skills must be continually sharpened and used if we are to succeed in preventing or diminishing injustices.

Potentially, there are 200 million of us unable to work full-time for the public interest but with a full-time anxiety about it. Think how much can be accomplished if enough private citizens become public citizens.

Please mail the coupon and your check for $5 or more to help Public Citizen continue and expand the work that is already under way.

Let it not be said by a future, forlorn generation that we wasted and lost our great potential because our despair was so deep we didn't even try. On because each of us thought someone else was worrying about our problems.

Sincerely,

Ralph Nader

NOVEMBER 8, 1973

PAGE SIX

VERMONT CYNIC

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

'Phantom Of The Opera' Is Classic Horror Movie

The film, THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA, one of the great horror flicks of the silent movie era, will be presented by the Lane Series on Friday, November 9, in the Classic Horror Movie Series.

There will be two showings, 7:30 and 9:30 pm, in Benedict Hall, Marsh Life Science Building.

Tickets, $1 each, are available in the Lane Series Office, 234 Waterman, and at the door. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

Directed by Rupert and with screenplay by Elliott J. Clawson based upon the novel by Gaston Leroux, THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA stars Lon Chaney in the famous role of Erik, otherwise known as the Phantom, the mysterious masked teacher at the Paris Opera.

Mary Philbin plays the prima donna Christine with whom Erik falls in love. Gibson Gowland and Norman Kerry also have starring roles.

The 1925 movie, which runs for 75 minutes, is a spectacular and classic thriller. In the famous unmasking scene, Christine, visiting Erik in his underground abode, impulsively pulls off his mask while he is playing the organ. The phantom spins around, revealing for the first time his legendary and horrifying features.

Other climactic scenes include the fall of the huge crystal chandelier in the Paris Opera and the trapping of the heroes beneath the Opera House.

Writing in his "Seventy Years of Cinema", Peter Cowie called THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA one of the "most flamboyant of early horror films, and after forty years the Phantom's fate still seems harsh and moving".

The final movie in the Lane Classic Horror Movies series will be KING KONG, November 16.

Maria Muldaur And Jesse Colin Young Were Fine Complements

by Bruce Madsen

The combination of Maria Muldaur and Jesse Colin Young offered an evening of blues, boogie and pop. Once the Youngbloods, oldies and newies, Maria Muldaur, a relatively new talent with a boogie in there ain't no stopping her. She concluded in a mass of boogie and applause. Once she develops some of her own stuff, she will definitely be a new blues queen and star of the future.

Jesse Colin Young, like Maria, started slow but ended on a high note. Most of his performance consisted of that semi-rock atmosphere. Revolving between acoustic and electric guitar, Young stood out as the lead performer and vocalist as well. The band behind him was your usual run-of-the-mill back up players except for the woodwinds player whose talent was excellent on everything from piccolo to alto sax. He was a very versatile player to say the least and whose performance rivals the woodwinds players of the Loggins and Messina band.

Young's high points were his "That's the feeling in me" and his "Song for Julie" of his new album of that name. Although both quiet songs "Song for Julie" really calmed the crowd. It was played very mellow but the vocals were even more so.

After the introduction of his album, he got into some heavy boogie in Youngblood's cut, and the crowd slowly moved to the stage. By the finale and encore the crowd was just as exhausted as the band. Maria Muldaur could be seen off stage dancing and boogie in just as wildly as the audience. The crowd and Jesse Colin Young rallied to a raucous encore and there was probably some structural damage from all the foot-stomping and hand-clapping. Maria Muldaur retired to B.T. McGuire for some brew and roast beef sandwiches but Jesse Colin Young never appeared.

SPS Photo: Dave Wilder

encore the crowd was just as exhausted as the band. Maria Muldaur could be seen off stage dancing and boogie in just as wildly as the audience. The crowd and Jesse Colin Young rallied to a raucous

Lane Series' Major Pop Singer: Judy Collins

Judy Collins, one of America's most cherished singers of contemporary ballads and folk music, will perform on the Lane Series on December 10. She will be backed by an instrumental group.

Judy Collins will be the "major pop singer" the spot on the current Lane Series which hitherto has not been announced. Tickets marked "major pop singer" will be good for this concert and only for this concert.

Single concert admissions, $3, $5, and $6, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-3418.

Judy Collins, who has appeared twice on the Lane Series, is the Chamber Arts

Fleming Museum Exhibit

"The Vermont Landscape: Evidence/Information", currently on exhibit at the Robert Hull Fleming Museum, was the title of a summer session course taught at The University of Vermont. The course began with a close examination of the landscape in eastern Orange County, chosen because it has repeatedly been cited as representing a typical Vermont landscape. Six student projects evolved from this examination and "documents" from the projects comprise the current exhibition. These "documents" are in the form of photographs, maps, charts, clippings, flora samples, and drawings. They deal with new ways of viewing the existing landscape, as well as with the visual changes that occur as mankind invokes physical changes upon it.

The current exhibition seeks to awaken Museum visitors to the ways in which previous conceptions and experiences influence their perception of a landscape, and to inform them of the multiplicity of viewing possibilities there can be when confronted with one. "The Vermont Landscape: Evidence/Information" will remain on view through November 15, 1973. The movie revolves around the escapades of four high school companions as they endeavor to achieve an unforgettable farewell to senior summer before a divergence of the ways.

The two college-bound buddies: Curt, played by Richard Dryfus, and Steve, by Ronnie Howard (an older Opie from Andy of Mayberry), are having last minute qualms about "leaving the nest" while the other two: Toad, Charlie Martin Smith, and John Milton (the drag champion of the town) played by Paul Le Mat, seem oblivious to the world outside the town limits.

Sequences of car scenes comprise a major portion of the movie as the teenagers cruise in an attempt to find some excitement. Joining the car as the center of social life are Mel's Drive-In (a hamburger joint with roller-skating waitresses) and a Freshman Sock Hop. In this automobile-oriented environment, the local disk jockey, Wolfman Jack, is king, as he blasts from every radio a collection of tunes including the escapades of four high school companions as they endeavor to achieve an unforgettable farewell to senior summer before a divergence of the ways.

The two college-bound buddies: Curt, played by Richard Dryfus, and Steve, by Ronnie Howard (an older Opie from Andy of Mayberry), are having last minute qualms about "leaving the nest" while the other two: Toad, Charlie Martin Smith, and John Milton (the drag champion of the town) played by Paul Le Mat, seem oblivious to the world outside the town limits.

Sequences of car scenes comprise a major portion of the movie as the teenagers cruise in an attempt to find some excitement. Joining the car as the center of social life are Mel's Drive-In (a hamburger joint with roller-skating waitresses) and a Freshman Sock Hop. In this automobile-oriented environment, the local disk jockey, Wolfman Jack, is king, as he blasts from every radio a collection of tunes including the escapades of four high school companions as they endeavor to achieve an unforgettable farewell to senior summer before a divergence of the ways.

The two college-bound buddies: Curt, played by Richard Dryfus, and Steve, by Ronnie Howard (an older Opie from Andy of Mayberry), are having last minute qualms about "leaving the nest" while the other two: Toad, Charlie Martin Smith, and John Milton (the drag champion of the town) played by Paul Le Mat, seem oblivious to the world outside the town limits.

Sequences of car scenes comprise a major portion of the movie as the teenagers cruise in an attempt to find some excitement. Joining the car as the center of social life are Mel's Drive-In (a hamburger joint with roller-skating waitresses) and a Freshman Sock Hop. In this automobile-oriented environment, the local disk jockey, Wolfman Jack, is king, as he blasts from every radio a collection of tunes including the escapades of four high school companions as they endeavor to achieve an unforgettable farewell to senior summer before a divergence of the ways.

"American Graffiti" Relives The Early 60's

by Sari Bodi

As with its nostalgic predecessors Summer of '42, Class of '44, The Last Picture Show, and Let the Good Times Roll, American Graffiti draws one into a segment of teenage history. The film depicts the high school existence during the early sixties, particularly 1962 as the sub-title suggests, "where were you in '62?"

The movie revolves around the escapades of four high school companions as they endeavor to achieve an unforgettable farewell to senior summer before a divergence of the ways.

The two college-bound buddies: Curt, played by Richard Dryfus, and Steve, by Ronnie Howard (an older Opie from Andy of Mayberry), are having last minute qualms about "leaving the nest" while the other two: Toad, Charlie Martin Smith, and John Milton (the drag champion of the town) played by Paul Le Mat, seem oblivious to the world outside the town limits.

Sequences of car scenes comprise a major portion of the movie as the teenagers cruise in an attempt to find some excitement. Joining the car as the center of social life are Mel's Drive-In (a hamburger joint with roller-skating waitresses) and a Freshman Sock Hop. In this automobile-oriented environment, the local disk jockey, Wolfman Jack, is king, as he blasts from every radio a collection of tunes including the escapades of four high school companions as they endeavor to achieve an unforgettable farewell to senior summer before a divergence of the ways.

The two college-bound buddies: Curt, played by Richard Dryfus, and Steve, by Ronnie Howard (an older Opie from Andy of Mayberry), are having last minute qualms about "leaving the nest" while the other two: Toad, Charlie Martin Smith, and John Milton (the drag champion of the town) played by Paul Le Mat, seem oblivious to the world outside the town limits.

Sequences of car scenes comprise a major portion of the movie as the teenagers cruise in an attempt to find some excitement. Joining the car as the center of social life are Mel's Drive-In (a hamburger joint with roller-skating waitresses) and a Freshman Sock Hop. In this automobile-oriented environment, the local disk jockey, Wolfman Jack, is king, as he blasts from every radio a collection of tunes including the escapades of four high school companions as they endeavor to achieve an unforgettable farewell to senior summer before a divergence of the ways.

"Surfin' Safari" and "Let's Go to the Hop", along with his jiving telephone conversations with love-sick teenagers.

American Graffiti has captured a moment in time, allowing the audience to relive, or (as in my case - a second grader in '62) imagine spending one's high school days in the early sixties. A conglomeration of the period's fads and fashions further enlighten the late sixties teenager to the era he just missed: where crew-cuts, white socks, and loafers differentiated the clean-cut guy from the greaser; where high school rings and varsity letter sweaters advertised the status of a girl going steady; and where "boss" and "bitchiness" were terms describing the ultimate sensation.

The story itself doesn't contain much of a plot as the scene shifts from Steve's girl troubles with his steady, Laurie, to Curt's adventures with the Farrah gang, and from John Milton's excursion with his eleven year-old mascot, to Toad's casanova antics. This doesn't detract from the total effect of the movie but rather increases audience attention. Humorous instances are constantly occurring whether it be from the actual adventure or merely as a result of their nostalgic derivative. The characters have a universal quality, thereby lending a relevancy to any generation of viewers. Toad, the four-eyed bumbler, of this sixties epic, strikes a resemblance to Benji of the forties film, Summer of '42.

The title American Graffiti might connote the comments one would find written on walls, but the director, George Lucas, a teenager during the early sixties, relates its meaning to the sound of rock music on the radio. The film is well worth seeing if only for spending two hours in an interesting past. It also makes one wonder what a film would be like depicting the seventies. Next on the list: "Where were you in '72?"

DO YOU REMEMBER PAUL WINER?

HE'S NOW -

SWEET PIE BOOGIE

SPECIAL ONE-NITE SUNDAY NOV. 11

SILVER KEG in BURLINGTON

I'M BACK NORTH WHERE I STARTED FROM IN URM'S 1971 WINTER WIND & THE OLD TRAFFIC DAYS.

MY FRIENDS LET'S PARTY BOOGIE & BUZZ AGAIN!

SWEET PIE'S FIRST ALBUM "NASTY BOOGIE WOOGIE" COPIES - 1000 COPIES - 1000 COPIES - 1000 COPIES

PLEASURE PUDDING Sweet Pie PSP Disk 2004

SUNDAY NOVEMBER 11
ONE NIGHT ONLY
ADMISSION $1.00

Monday nite - all unescorted females free
Wednesday is 10c nite
Live entertainment EVERY nite

THE
SILVER KEG
156 ST. PAUL ST. BURLINGTON

LAST NIGHT
at 7 & 9:55 pm
the cocktail Hostesses
CLASS REUNION
STARTS FRIDAY - 7 & 9 PM!
TRUFFAUT'S NEW FILM MASTERPIECE
Two English Girls "Two English Girls" is a masterpiece a film in color by Francois Truffaut LIFE MAGAZINE
STATE
Late Show 11 PM
Friday & Saturday
SHAFT

The Vermont Book Shop

OPENING IN BURLINGTON SOON
100 DORSET STREET

$1.00 SPECIAL $1.00
DOLLAR SHOWINGS

TWO ENGLISH GIRLS

Thursday 11/8

3:30

State Theatre

MOVIE GUIDE

Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

STATE

TWO ENGLISH GIRLS

7 & 9 PM

CINEMA 1 & 2
THE ITALIAN CONNECTION
7 & 9

Mat. Sat. & Sun. at 2:00

INSTINCT FOR SURVIVAL

7 & 9

Mat. Sat. at 2:00 & 4:00

Sun. at 1:00 & 3:00

FLYNN

WALKING TALL

7 & 9

IT HAPPEN IN HOLLYWOOD

Late Show 11:30

Showcase 1 & 2

THE WAY WE WERE

Call Theater 863-4484

for show times

AMERICAN GRAFFITI

Fri-Sun 8:15, 8:15, 10:00

Mon-Thurs - 7 & 9:15

NO DISCOUNT - SPECIAL SHOWINGS

Sunday's Concert: Blues Kings Get The Feeling Across

Full-length "Nutcracker" Appears December 7

the bill, we're going to be playing the blues all night! So who is ever in charge, you can just pay off the police and they can go home! Right on. A friendly reminder from the Dean. He said no smoking... cigarettes! And if you're doing anything else, you be sure to pass it around... and don't forget to blow a little smoke... upstage cause we dig contacts too..." Just imagine a black Adolph Hitler, who has a sense of humor and smokes dope. Finally, he exclaims, "Freddy Win big prizes! Be famous!

Enter the Schaefer
Knight & Dragon
write-your-own-
punchline contest.

Hey, Kids! You've got 51 chances to win!
— $25.00 cash First Prize, plus
50 snazzy and alluring Schaefer Knight
& Dragon T-shirts to the next 50 runners-up

MORE THAN ONCE UPON A TIME

Help!
Save us
from hack writers!

All you've got to do is write a socko punchline for the Schaefer Knight & Dragon cartoon printed below. Write your boffer on the hand coupon below or, if it's especially long and boring, use a separate piece of paper.

The Good Courts!

Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for
 Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private
 • Step action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms
 • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den
 Pro Shop • 24-Hour Stringing Service
 Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 M Weekdays
 • 6 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays
 Reserved Time and Walk-in Rates.

TWIN OAKS
TENNIS CENTER
Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.
Tel. 863-3439

ENNIS
Kennedy Drive Opp.
Tel. 863-3439

ONCE A KNIGHT FELT COMPELLED TO GET IT ON AND TELL IT LIKE IT IS SO HE COULD GET HIS HEAD STRAIGHT AND PUT DOWN ANY BAD VIBES THAT MIGHT BE GOING DOWN BETWEEN HIMSELF AND HIS ROOMMATE, A DRAGON.
AND HE DID SAY: "LOOK, MAN,
YOU OWE ME SEVERAL CARLOADS OF SCHAEFER BEER AND IT'S ABOUT TIME YOU DID SOMETHING FOR ME. IF YOU GET ME A DATE,
I'LL FORGET ABOUT THE BEER."

AND THE DOOR WAS REPAIRED TO THE PHONE BOOTH OF THE LOCAL TAVERN WHERE THE NAMES OF SEVERAL WILLING MAIDENS WERE LISTED. BUT ALAS, HE MET WITH LITTLE SUCCESS FOR THE KNIGHT WAS KNOWN BY ONE AND ALL TO BE, IN THE PARLANCE OF THE UNIVERSITAS, AN "INNYSKAY EEPGRAY." (1)

THE CHANCE TO ERADICATE HIS DEBILITATING DEBT, THE DRAGON
DID REPAIR TO THE CAMPUS
NOVELTY SHOP.

SUITABLE MATCH FOR ONE SO
GIFTED AS THE KNIGHT.

Send to: Schaefer Contest, PO Box 2934,
Grand Central Station, New York, New York 10017

Name _____

Address _____

T-Shirt Size S M L XL

♪ BLAME IT ON THE BOSSA NOVA ♪ ♪ BLUE TAIL FLY! ♪ BORRENTOOO
 AS HAMAMI DOES SO GOES THE NATION... BECAUSE IT HAS
 HAIR UNDER ITS WINGS. SO
 HE DECIDED TO KEEP THE DOG.

SO DR. CASEY DECIDES TO RUN AN MAGAZINE ON DRUGS BECAUSE THE OLD GUY TRIED TO DO A TATTOO
TRANSPLANT ON A RETIRED SAILOR WHICH IS A DEFINITE VIOLATION OF THE HIPPOCRATIC
OATH. HOW DO YA LIKE THE MET?
NICE DRY "HIT"? DO YOU KNOW?
MAGEL PRODUCTIONS? MAGARENE?
I ONLY HAVE A WEEK TO LIVE!

AND THE KNIGHT, IN PREPARATION FOR HIS "RENDEZ-VOUS"(2) DID GROOM HIMSELF MOST FASTIDIOUSLY AND PUT FUM ON ICE. PLENTY OF SCHAEFER BEER, LONG KNOWN TO BE THE PERFECT ELIXIR FOR "TRYSTING"(1) BECAUSE IT HAS FLAVOR THAT COMES ON BRIGHT & CRISP, EVEN AS EVENTIDE FADES TO MORN.

AND SO HE DID BEGIN TO ENTERTAIN THE MAID IN HIS CHAMBERS. HE DROUGHT HER WITH THE BEST IN FOLK MUSIC, "BIG HITS OF THE FORTIES" AND THEN DID REGALE HER WITH HIS POLITICAL WISDOM.

UNDAUNTED HE WENT ON TO RECITE
"GREAT MOMENTS IN MEDICINE" AND WHISPERED SWEET NOTHING'S.
WHENCE HE DID MAKE HIS MOVE.

Proving once again that:

All entries must be postmarked no later than November 17, 1973. Entries will be judged solely on the basis of humorous content and will be published at the discretion of the judges. You must be at least 18 years old to enter. Content word and otherwise prohibited.

4. WHITTAKER DEPICTED: (PWS LATE) NOT SOCIALLY DESIRABLE. 5. HENRIETTES: (FR.) THE SIMILITUDINE CONJUNCTION OF TWO SUBJECTS
OF THE SAME SORT OF THING - HENRIETTES: (FR.) THE WHITTAKER (FR.)

WHEN YOU'RE HAVING MORE THAN ONE

"Lady's Not For Burning" Upholds High Level Of Performance

By Margie Huxford

If comes as no surprise to those that frequent the production of the Department of Communications and Theatre that the high performance level of the University Players and their fellow actors has once again been upheld in their latest endeavor. Christopher Fry's The Lady's Not For Burning, performed at the Arena Theatre this past week, was a sheer delight.

It is singular to read a play, formulate an opinion, and then see the play acted out in a manner rather different from one's expectations. In this case, the production of The Lady's Not For Burning reinforces a previously-held belief that plays are meant to be seen more than read, if one is to fully benefit from all the author has to say. Miss Nancy Haynes is to be commended for an astute job of directing her first play at the University.

Christopher Fry sets this play in the Middle Ages and presents a very timely tale in language reminiscent of Shakespeare — even more significant an achievement when it is noted that Fry was an Elizabethan but a poet of our times. Fry, a Welshman, was a conscientious objector during World War II and wrote this play, his most famous work, in 1948. Traces of the twentieth century are manifest throughout the play, intermingled with the aura of the fifteenth, and the theme of the play is truly relevant today.

The story concerns Thomas Mendip, a soldier who is disillusioned by all that is bad in the world and longs to retreat from it. He proclaims to the Mayor that he has killed two men, and vowed to be hanged. One might glimpse beneath the bold front he displays before the town official, a man who desires to be a hero, to go out in a blaze of glory, lashing out at the wickedness of the world. His cry for justice is directed at those who both unjustly persecute a girl for witchcraft and at the same time look the other way when murder enters the scene.

Against his will, Thomas finds himself to be in love with Jennet and is frustrated by his inability to change the world. Realizing finally that his death would not change things, he reconciles himself to facing the world with someone dear who makes things brighter for him.

Jennet Jourdemayne, the sensitive young girl who sees much good in the world, valuing the gift of life, finds that there are some values that are even greater than life. Her and soul struggle for supremacy in her mind; there is the age-old concept of certain life today at the risk of uncertain burning in Hell tomorrow.

Craig Toth, a veteran of several Arena Theatre plays, portrays the role of Thomas Mendip in his usual dashing style. Toth was in the 1973 Shakespeare Festival, played two roles in Dr. Faustus, and had the lead in Vonnegut's Happy Birthday, Wanda June. Mary Williams plays a charming Jennet, desperately fighting to live and to be understood. She was Olga in The Three Sisters. While dealing with man's inhumanity to man, the story also deals with conventionalities — about people who must have things just so — and any intrusion is most unwelcome.

Mayor Hebble Tyson, superbly played by Charles Towers, is one of these people. He appears to have a fixation for running things in order ("this will all be gotten into at the proper time"), will not tolerate interference, and yet is incapable of truly strong authority. An untimely occurrence of sniffling and post-nasal drip only serve to further undermine his air of dignity. Charles Towers ("Chip") is now in his third year of acting at UVM. A look at his performance in previous roles is direct proof of the versatility of this talented young man.

Towers has participated in the Shakespeare Festival, The Time of Your Life, Dr. Faustus (a magnificent Mephistopheles), A Flea in Her Ear, The Two Gentlemen of Verona, The Boys in the Band, The Three Sisters, and directed the highly successful The Man Who Came to Dinner.

Another person who is concerned with order and regularity, albeit unwillingly so, is the Chaplain (Eric Raymond) — a kind, sympathetic and spineless soul. He does not help those most in need of it, for he feels "abducted by the cloth that he works in." He has dreams — he longs to be a musician — but he cannot fly out of his pigeonhole. He lives instead for his precious gambit which he is forever losing and which unfortunately lacks a bow.

One person who breaks out of this bind is Alison Elliot, played by Jane Bradbury. She is courted by the two Devises brothers — Humphrey, to whom she is betrothed (a match arranged by her parents) and Nicholas, who declares that the stars predict their being meant for each other. Sweet and timid, Alison at first resigns herself to marrying

Humphrey, but in the course of the play, she asserts herself, knows her own mind, and proceeds to run away with a poor clerk. True courage takes precedence over personal happiness, for Alison and Richard (played by Paul Ugalde) return to clear Jennet.

Eric Raymond has been in Right You Are If You Think You Are, and A Flea in Her Ear, as well as the 1973 Shakespeare Festival. Jane Bradbury has three Arena Theatre plays to her credit: The Shewing Up of Blanco Posnet, A Phoenix Too Frequent, and The Covenent. Paul Ugalde was in the Shakespeare Festival.

The Devises brothers, Humphrey, the arrogant, lecherous older brother, and Nicholas, the jumpy, insufferable younger brother, are a great addition to the play. Peter Kurth, another member of the Shakespeare Festival, did very well as Humphrey. But it is Jack MacDonald, in the role of Nicholas, and Sarah Brooke, as Margaret Devis, their mother, who do the most noticeable amount of scene-stealing. Jack MacDonald, it will be recalled, won raves for his performance in Happy Birthday, Wanda June, in which he also "outdistanced" the lead.

Sarah Brooke is wonderful. Perhaps it's the role — Margaret Devis is another one of those people who offer to fly to pieces if things do not run smoothly. She strikes one as being flighty, peppy, and tough, if one can be all of those things. She has appeared in the Shakespeare Festival, A Flea in Her Ear, The Man Who Came to Dinner, The Three Sisters, and also one-acts.

James Pelkey and James Heidenreich played Justice Tappercroom and Matthew Skippa, respectively. Heidenreich appeared in A Flea in Her Ear, Dr. Faustus, and The Three Sisters; Pelkey was in The Time of Your Life.

A word must be said about the set and the costumes. William M. Schenk designed the scenery and Miss Haynes the costumes. Beautiful!

A timely, witty play, complemented by a fine cast — The Lady's Not For Burning was indeed a delight.

Theatre Highlights

by Karen Trott

UVM theatre-goers can count on an unusually extensive variety of performances this semester. In all, eighteen one-act plays will be produced after the closing of Arena's major semester production, The Lady's Not For Burning.

Fifteen of the eighteen one-acts to be seen at Arena encompass the One Act Festival; all will be student directed. Jean Claude Van Itallie's The Hunter and the Bird, Amixor Like Being, and I'm Really Here will open the Festival on November 16 and 17. James Wimsatt, the director, plans to approach these contemporary pieces with a number of experimental devices, including the absence of a set, with lighting and sound to indicate changes, the use of a repertory company and much pantomime, along with the elimination of breaks between the three separate plays.

Among other scheduled productions are O'Neill's The Abortion, Kaufman's If Men Played As Women Do, Chekov's The Marriage Proposal, Strindberg's Playing With Fire, and LeRoi Jones' Dutchman. Outside of the Festival, three William Butler Yeats plays, produced by the English Department, are to appear in Billings Center's Aspe at the end of November.

Auditions for all but the Yeats plays and the first three one-acts are being held this week. Tryout schedules are posted on Arena's bulletin board and around campus.

The plays will be presented in four series, each to include two evenings of one-acts, with

count on an unusually extensive variety of performances this semester. In all, eighteen one-act plays will be produced after the closing of Arena's major semester production, The Lady's Not For Burning.

Among other scheduled productions are O'Neill's The Abortion, Kaufman's If Men Played As Women Do, Chekov's The Marriage Proposal, Strindberg's Playing With Fire, and LeRoi Jones' Dutchman. Outside of the Festival, three William Butler Yeats plays, produced by the English Department, are to appear in Billings Center's Aspe at the end of November.

Auditions for all but the Yeats plays and the first three one-acts are being held this week. Tryout schedules are posted on Arena's bulletin board and around campus.

The plays will be presented in four series, each to include two evenings of one-acts, with

count on an unusually extensive variety of performances this semester. In all, eighteen one-act plays will be produced after the closing of Arena's major semester production, The Lady's Not For Burning.

Among other scheduled productions are O'Neill's The Abortion, Kaufman's If Men Played As Women Do, Chekov's The Marriage Proposal, Strindberg's Playing With Fire, and LeRoi Jones' Dutchman. Outside of the Festival, three William Butler Yeats plays, produced by the English Department, are to appear in Billings Center's Aspe at the end of November.

Auditions for all but the Yeats plays and the first three one-acts are being held this week. Tryout schedules are posted on Arena's bulletin board and around campus.

The plays will be presented in four series, each to include two evenings of one-acts, with

count on an unusually extensive variety of performances this semester. In all, eighteen one-act plays will be produced after the closing of Arena's major semester production, The Lady's Not For Burning.

Among other scheduled productions are O'Neill's The Abortion, Kaufman's If Men Played As Women Do, Chekov's The Marriage Proposal, Strindberg's Playing With Fire, and LeRoi Jones' Dutchman. Outside of the Festival, three William Butler Yeats plays, produced by the English Department, are to appear in Billings Center's Aspe at the end of November.

Auditions for all but the Yeats plays and the first three one-acts are being held this week. Tryout schedules are posted on Arena's bulletin board and around campus.

The plays will be presented in four series, each to include two evenings of one-acts, with

count on an unusually extensive variety of performances this semester. In all, eighteen one-act plays will be produced after the closing of Arena's major semester production, The Lady's Not For Burning.

Among other scheduled productions are O'Neill's The Abortion, Kaufman's If Men Played As Women Do, Chekov's The Marriage Proposal, Strindberg's Playing With Fire, and LeRoi Jones' Dutchman. Outside of the Festival, three William Butler Yeats plays, produced by the English Department, are to appear in Billings Center's Aspe at the end of November.

Auditions for all but the Yeats plays and the first three one-acts are being held this week. Tryout schedules are posted on Arena's bulletin board and around campus.

The plays will be presented in four series, each to include two evenings of one-acts, with

count on an unusually extensive variety of performances this semester. In all, eighteen one-act plays will be produced after the closing of Arena's major semester production, The Lady's Not For Burning.

Among other scheduled productions are O'Neill's The Abortion, Kaufman's If Men Played As Women Do, Chekov's The Marriage Proposal, Strindberg's Playing With Fire, and LeRoi Jones' Dutchman. Outside of the Festival, three William Butler Yeats plays, produced by the English Department, are to appear in Billings Center's Aspe at the end of November.

Auditions for all but the Yeats plays and the first three one-acts are being held this week. Tryout schedules are posted on Arena's bulletin board and around campus.

The plays will be presented in four series, each to include two evenings of one-acts, with

count on an unusually extensive variety of performances this semester. In all, eighteen one-act plays will be produced after the closing of Arena's major semester production, The Lady's Not For Burning.

Among other scheduled productions are O'Neill's The Abortion, Kaufman's If Men Played As Women Do, Chekov's The Marriage Proposal, Strindberg's Playing With Fire, and LeRoi Jones' Dutchman. Outside of the Festival, three William Butler Yeats plays, produced by the English Department, are to appear in Billings Center's Aspe at the end of November.

SA Films Of The Week

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, at 7:30 and 9:30 pm in 108 Terrill Hall for fifty cents is Edward G. Robinson in The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse. This is the entertaining caper of a doctor-psychiatrist who, with the aid of a female fence, takes over a gang and engages in robberies in order to study the criminal mind. Special guest star in this film is Humphrey Bogart.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, at 7:30 and 9:30 pm in B106 Cook Hall for fifty cents is Ingmar Bergman's Academy Award Winner Through a Glass Darkly. The first film in Bergman's religious trilogy, this film chronicles the pathetic plunge of a young woman into madness. Karin, having read in her father's journal that she is an incurable schizophrenic, swoops through a series of compulsive acts and visions into a world of hallucination about, yet without, God. Bergman has charted the moving psychological drama of a descent into insanity.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9 at 11:30 pm in B106 Cook Hall is Woody Allen's Bananas for only $1.!!!!!!

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10 at 7:30 and 9:30 pm in 235 Marsh Life Sciences for $1 is Woody Allen's farcical Bananas. Bananas represents the Allen humor at its height. Its only logic is the logic of fantasy — "or, properly put, for the Allen persona, wet dreams. And quite a wet dream it is, one in which the character, Fielding Mellish, by name, working as a thoroughly alienated tester of Rube Goldberg gadgets, and, failing with women in his spare time, takes off for a mythical South American country (aren't they all?). There he is miraculously transformed into that quintessential symbol of macho, the revolutionary leader, complete with false beard, there for everyone to see. The laughs are great and frequent in this film. Also, watch out for Howard Cosell's in-depth analysis of something or other.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 11 at 8:00 pm in B106 Cook Hall is Buster Keaton in The Navigator and The Paleface. Both for FREE. The great "stone-face" himself in two excellent and representative flicks where his dead-pan actions speak for themselves and his bubbling antics keep the laughter going.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 12 at 7:30 and 9:30 pm in Room 115 Commons of the Living and Learning Center is Peter Sellers in A Shot in the Dark. In this incredibly funny film Sellers stars as Inspector Clouseau, scourge of the underworld and his employers, the French Surete. He has murders on his hand, as well as Elke Sommer, who is accused of committing the murders. Clouseau, genius that he is, is convinced of her innocence. "Ah" he says at one point,

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, at 7:30 and 9:30 pm in 108 Terrill Hall for fifty cents is James Cagney in The Roaring Twenties. This is the dramatic story of World War I buddies, who clash in a vicious bootlegging racket. A tough script and equally tough portrayals by Cagney and Humphrey Bogart. This movie in addition is practically a "how-to" lesson on bootlegging and manufacturing of bathtub gin!!!

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, at 7:30 in B106 Cook Hall for twenty-five cents is Alfred Hitchcock's The Lady Vanishes. The central figure in this movie, typical of Hitchcock style, has no idea why he is being chased by the ingenious and ruthless cutthroats — he is certain only that danger awaits him at every turn. The only key to the mystery is the kindly Mrs. Froy, who seems to have performed the impossible act of vanishing from a moving train. This is one of the director's brightest and most laced with the kind of sly wit for which he is famous.

At 9:30 is Alfred Hitchcock's Foreign Correspondent, for twenty-five cents. This film was originally scheduled for last week but was cancelled. It is a politically slanted thriller about international intrigues during World War II. The action comes fast and furiously in addition to all the suspenseful master's touches which elicit a typically terrifying response from the audience.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, at 7:30 in Billings Center's North Lounge for free is Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi in the 1939 Classic Son of Frankenstein. Ygor, his neck crooked by the hangman's noose, returns to assist Dr. Frankenstein's son in the revival of his father's monster. As a special added attraction we will also show Things You Never Heard in the Movies. The title speaks for itself.

At 9:30 pm the American premier of Fritz Lang's Frau Im Mond (Woman in the Moon) will be shown in Billings Center for free. Two-thirds of this astounding film deals with the preparation of a spaceship to launch to the moon, and as the celluloid unravels we find a female companion will accompany the astronaut on their moon voyage. This CLASSIC shows that a man's creativity and genius may one day become reality.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, at 7:30 and 9:30 pm in 108 Terrill Hall for fifty cents is James Cagney in The Roaring Twenties. This is the dramatic story of World War I buddies, who clash in a vicious bootlegging racket. A tough script and equally tough portrayals by Cagney and Humphrey Bogart. This movie in addition is practically a "how-to" lesson on bootlegging and manufacturing of bathtub gin!!!

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, at 7:30 in B106 Cook Hall for twenty-five cents is Alfred Hitchcock's The Lady Vanishes. The central figure in this movie, typical of Hitchcock style, has no idea why he is being chased by the ingenious and ruthless cutthroats — he is certain only that danger awaits him at every turn. The only key to the mystery is the kindly Mrs. Froy, who seems to have performed the impossible act of vanishing from a moving train. This is one of the director's brightest and most laced with the kind of sly wit for which he is famous.

At 9:30 is Alfred Hitchcock's Foreign Correspondent, for twenty-five cents. This film was originally scheduled for last week but was cancelled. It is a politically slanted thriller about international intrigues during World War II. The action comes fast and furiously in addition to all the suspenseful master's touches which elicit a typically terrifying response from the audience.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, at 7:30 in Billings Center's North Lounge for free is Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi in the 1939 Classic Son of Frankenstein. Ygor, his neck crooked by the hangman's noose, returns to assist Dr. Frankenstein's son in the revival of his father's monster. As a special added attraction we will also show Things You Never Heard in the Movies. The title speaks for itself.

At 9:30 pm the American premier of Fritz Lang's Frau Im Mond (Woman in the Moon) will be shown in Billings Center for free. Two-thirds of this astounding film deals with the preparation of a spaceship to launch to the moon, and as the celluloid unravels we find a female companion will accompany the astronaut on their moon voyage. This CLASSIC shows that a man's creativity and genius may one day become reality.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, at 7:30 and 9:30 pm in 108 Terrill Hall for fifty cents is James Cagney in The Roaring Twenties. This is the dramatic story of World War I buddies, who clash in a vicious bootlegging racket. A tough script and equally tough portrayals by Cagney and Humphrey Bogart. This movie in addition is practically a "how-to" lesson on bootlegging and manufacturing of bathtub gin!!!

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, at 7:30 in B106 Cook Hall for twenty-five cents is Alfred Hitchcock's The Lady Vanishes. The central figure in this movie, typical of Hitchcock style, has no idea why he is being chased by the ingenious and ruthless cutthroats — he is certain only that danger awaits him at every turn. The only key to the mystery is the kindly Mrs. Froy, who seems to have performed the impossible act of vanishing from a moving train. This is one of the director's brightest and most laced with the kind of sly wit for which he is famous.

At 9:30 is Alfred Hitchcock's Foreign Correspondent, for twenty-five cents. This film was originally scheduled for last week but was cancelled. It is a politically slanted thriller about international intrigues during World War II. The action comes fast and furiously in addition to all the suspenseful master's touches which elicit a typically terrifying response from the audience.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, at 7:30 in Billings Center's North Lounge for free is Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi in the 1939 Classic Son of Frankenstein. Ygor, his neck crooked by the hangman's noose, returns to assist Dr. Frankenstein's son in the revival of his father's monster. As a special added attraction we will also show Things You Never Heard in the Movies. The title speaks for itself.

At 9:30 pm the American premier of Fritz Lang's Frau Im Mond (Woman in the Moon) will be shown in Billings Center for free. Two-thirds of this astounding film deals with the preparation of a spaceship to launch to the moon, and as the celluloid unravels we find a female companion will accompany the astronaut on their moon voyage. This CLASSIC shows that a man's creativity and genius may one day become reality.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, at 7:30 and 9:30 pm in 108 Terrill Hall for fifty cents is James Cagney in The Roaring Twenties. This is the dramatic story of World War I buddies, who clash in a vicious bootlegging racket. A tough script and equally tough portrayals by Cagney and Humphrey Bogart. This movie in addition is practically a "how-to" lesson on bootlegging and manufacturing of bathtub gin!!!

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, at 7:30 in B106 Cook Hall for twenty-five cents is Alfred Hitchcock's The Lady Vanishes. The central figure in this movie, typical of Hitchcock style, has no idea why he is being chased by the ingenious and ruthless cutthroats — he is certain only that danger awaits him at every turn. The only key to the mystery is the kindly Mrs. Froy, who seems to have performed the impossible act of vanishing from a moving train. This is one of the director's brightest and most laced with the kind of sly wit for which he is famous.

Maybe the way to change the world is to join a large corporation.

We don't make a lot of noise, but this is where it's really happening. You see, a large corporation like Kodak has the resources and the skill to make this world a little more decent place to live. And we intend to do what we can to see that this is exactly what happens.

Take our home city, Rochester, New York for example. We cut water pollution in the Genesee River by using natural bacteria to dispose of unnatural wastes. We cut air pollution by using electrostatic precipitators in a new combustible waste disposal facility. We helped set up a black enterprise program in downtown Rochester, and we've been experimenting with film as a way to train both teachers and students—including some students who wouldn't respond to anything else.

And we didn't stop with Rochester. Kodak is involved in 47 countries all over the world. Actively involved.

Why? Because it's good business. Helping to clean the Genesee River not only benefits society... but helps protect another possible source for the clean water we need to make our film. Our combustible waste disposal facility not only reduces pollution... but just about pays for itself in heat and power production and silver recovery. Our black enterprise program not only provides an opportunity for the economically disadvantaged... but helps stabilize communities in which Kodak can operate and grow. And distributing cameras and film to teachers and students not only helps motivate the children... but helps create a whole new market.

In short, it's simply good business. And we're in business to make a profit. But in furthering our business interests, we also further society's interests.

And that's good. After all, our business depends on society. So we care what happens to it.

Kodak
More than a business.

Why do some people think Bud is sort of special?

When you say Budweiser, you've said it all!

ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS

Reward—For return of 1971 North Country U.S. class ring, initials B.H.R. Lost on campus last week. Call 864-9272.

Missing—Yellow Boyner Ski jacket from Simpson Dining Hall 2 weeks ago. Sat. Please Return—Reward. Call—856-3203. Ask for D.J.

FOR SALE: Ski Boots—Lange Pro, 6 1/2 N. $125.00. Ski—Rossignol, Allstar, 200 cm. Excellent condition. Give away prices. Negotiable. Call 864-7141.

1971 Honda CL350—Rebuilt—motor this summer. $400. Rich 207% Church St.

Gilson Deluxe Le Paul—mini-humbucker pick-ups. $250. Sun Solarus Amp and speaker. $225. Rich, 207% Church St.

Need roomate to share small house in South Burlington. Fireplace, garage, land for garden. $125/month. 862-6288 or 862-6204 evenings.

3 Piece French Provincial style Bedroom set. Excellent craftsmanship. $150. Call 524-6442 after 5 p.m.

FOR SALE — 196 Hardtop Buick LeSabre. Power things — sold to loyal friend of Hockey — unsuspicious student body — call soon 862-212-1175.

Complete ski outfit—$40. 8'2" sublimated wooden skis equipped with Cubco Bindings, 11 mens Nordica Boots. Aluminum ski poles. Call 524-6433 after 5 p.m.

NOVEMBER 8, 1973

The Week

There must have been cutting there, there is blood all over the scene, on the discovery of the murder. The path of justice is twisted, and it leads into the Chateau, a rustic game of cards, and to a nudist colony. In the end, Clousman reveals the murderer. The film is fun and it is free.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 7:30 in B106 Cook Hall

Twenty-five cents in Alfred Hitchcock's The Lady on the Train. The central figure in the movie, typical of Hitchcock style, has no idea who he is being chased by the vicious and ruthless thugs. He is certain only of danger awaits him at every turn. The only key to the story is the kindly Mrs. who seems to have formed the impossible act of vanishing from a moving picture. This is one of the director's brightest and most with the kind of wit which he is famous.

9:30 in Alfred Hitchcock's Foreign Correspondent, for twenty-five cents. This film was originally scheduled for last week but cancelled. It is a politically charged thriller about national intrigues during World War II. The action is fast and furious in response to all the suspenseful touches which elicits a fully terrifying response from the audience.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 7:30 in the Center's North Lounge. Free is Boris Karloff and Lugosi in the 1939 Classic of Frankenstein. Ygor, his crooked by the man's nose, returns to Dr. Frankenstein's son in revival of his father's ster. As a special added action, we will also show You Never Heard in the Movies. The title speaks for 9:30 pm the American version of Fritz Lang's Frau Mond (Woman in the Moon) will be shown in Billings for free. Two-thirds of outstanding film deals with preparation of a space launch to the moon, and as celluloid unravels we find a male companion will accompany the astronauts on their moon voyage. This ASSIC shows that a man's activity and genius may one become reality.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 7:30 and 9:30 pm in Terrill Hall for fifty cents. James Cagney in The Ring. This is the classic story of World War I soldiers, who clash in a vicious fighting racket. A tough fight and equaling tough portrayals by Cagney and Humphrey Bogart. This movie addition is practically a new-to-lesson on fighting and manufacturing bathtub.

le think special?

ve said it all!

On Windsor Prison

by Peter Campbell

An unusual film was shown. Romanstock explained that the film's rough quality was due to its being filmed secretly on a video tape that was used for a psychology class with the Vermont Community College. The audience, drawn to the "movies" which were the obvious, that Windsor Prison is no palace, a film about the prison, and various people involved with the prison; as well, a young man introduced the film by stating, "There seems to be some controversy as to whether this film was smuggled out. But that is irrelevant."

The film, about fifteen minutes long, was in black and white. It included still pictures of the prison, some shots of the prisoners talking, and some folk tunes by the prisoners themselves. The film opened by stating that Windsor is the oldest prison in the US, being built in 1809, when Thomas Jefferson was President. The inmates had many complaints. One told how it took him two days just to clean out his cell. There was a lack of counseling. Another inmate mentioned that they had built an auto-mechanics shop on the third floor, where a car could not go up, much of the equipment in the prison was old (the pictures verified this). That money designated for the renovation of the "hole" was used for offices instead. There were many complaints about the medical care and personnel at the prison. An inmate noted that a doctor who worked for the prison had been charged with assault when he aimed a gun at some kids who were on his lawn, though the charges were dropped. Another complained that he had been locked in the SATI (special adjustment unit) for no reason and an assistant DA had said he'd do something about it, but the inmate was still waiting for some word two months later.

The dialogue was divided by these statistics: 88% of the inmates are under 28; 73% have less than a high school education; 64% of the men are semi-skilled or totally unskilled; 86% are in prison for non-violent crimes; and it costs the state $16,200 to keep one man in Windsor for one year. In spite of the last statistic the recurring theme of the picture was the lack of any rehabilitation program for the prison.

After the film, the director and producer, Larry

S. A. Discusses Motion To Support Nixon's Impeachment

(continued from page one)

was the recommendation of the committee set up to find out what opinion the SA should take. In connection with this he made another proposal that Sig Heiler, SA President, be directed to contact Vice President Alfred Rollins and find out from Rollins what the facts were behind the recommendations concerning the hiring/firing of the four professors. Arguments flared up, the major one being that students should take a stand and not a mediocre or neutral one at that. Ed Pasquini reminded the Senate of something that Professor Cahan had written: That students should not have anything to do with teaching. Concert Bureau announced a loss of about $3500 in last teaching and not the students Rollins, new chairperson, doing the teaching.

Also under New Business, Mark Seigars in connection with the energy crisis entered two motions: one to lower room temperatures in University buildings; five degrees from seventy degrees to 65 degrees, and to also consolidate the use of vehicles to use less gas. Dick Cassidy offered a motion to allocate $200.00 for the upcoming election of student representatives to the Board of Trustees and representatives to the Governor's Commission on Student Affairs. This was offered after it was decided under Old Business that the elections would be general elections instead of Senate consensus as proposed by Sarah Funkhouser. The reasons for this point of view was that a general election campus-wide would help the representatives in their dealings with the Board of Trustees, as well as trying to interest the general student body in student affairs. Matt Jones of the Finance Committee entered two proposals. The first called for allocation of $100.00 to the Student National Education Association and the other to conduct the poll on the ARIEL before a recommendation was made on the future of SA funding of the book. Passed unanimously under Old Business was Alan King's motion for opening the Gym on Sundays. Petitions for student signatures will be circulating until next Tuesday. Also passed was recognition of Chi Epsilon, a civil engineering organization. Earlier in the meeting, the Concert Bureau announced a loss of about $3500 in last teaching and not the students Rollins, new chairperson, doing the teaching.

Following is the text of Steve Rice's introduction to his motion for resignation of R. M. Nixon: In the next few minutes if I shed a tear think of me as a human being who loves his country. I have been waiting for a long time for a voice to emerge from this university senate and other senates across this land. The voice has not emerged. In the wake of the crisis now confronting our country, it is alarming that our campus governments and their leaders have chosen to remain silent. I have wondered many times where the conscience of our campus leaders have gone. Certainly, there are those who argue that campuses should pay attention to their own concerns. But these individuals forget that the university campus is a part of a democratic society that may very well lose its freedom not from a power outside this nation but from a power within its boundaries.

That power of course is located in the White House and it is called the Executive Branch. The power is spearheaded by a president, Richard M. Nixon. After a long and frustrating battle with my conscience, I have, as an American and as a student of a still free university, come to the conclusion that Mr. Nixon will never again have the people's trust to govern this democracy. As a result of the Watergate break-in, there has been enough finger-pointing. The drama of public officials parading to Watergate Hearings, each with their own story to tell, has left me somewhat paralyzed. I am paralyzed by the fact that many, who told their stories were fairly young political leaders, who sacrificed their love for this country to a cover-up.

But, in a way, all of us must accept the blame for what has occurred. In order to preserve freedom in a democratic society, one must be willing to fight for that freedom. And the desire to fight must come from our hearts and our consciences. I believe the American people have not lost their desire, as evidenced by the public outcry in recent days. But I feel somewhat frustrated. Again, where is the outcry from our student leaders? This frustration is intensified as I walked down my dormitory hall, and the students watch the latest news on their television sets. There are not apathetic students, I feel.

May I suggest, then, that the students of this university want to hear a voice from this body, and some have been waiting a long time to hear it. In the interests of a free university and a free society, may I propose a resolution that, if passed by this body, will be sent to Senators George Aiken and Robert Stafford and Congressman Richard Mallory perhaps in telegram form.

Theatre...

(continued from page eight)

the first half of the series appearing in November and the second half in December. Admission is free to all, with curtain (figuratively) at 8 p.m. The dates for each series, along with titles and authors, will be listed in the Cynic's weekly Calendar of Events. The theatre urges all to attend.

Grab and Go
WINTER TREADS
from E & E Tire
"VT.'S FINEST RETREADS"
We manufacture our own retreads right on the property. You save because there are no middlemen.
10% off on all RETREADS (sponsored by A&A)
WE RETREAD YOUR CASINGS
Extra Effort Serious
E & E Tire
Extra Effort Serious
152 Riverdale Ave. 864-7750

Join the PEOPLE CORPS

Be a LaSalette Missionary.

The LaSallettes are a religious community of men committed to living God's word through service to HIS PEOPLE.

We search for ever more creative ways to serve the People of God. To bring the Peace and Joy of Christ to His People. To extend the hand of friendship and love to all His People.

We search to find ever newer ways to promote our community life. To strengthen the bonds to pull us together. To forge that unity which is our difference and our strength.

We search, finally, for God, through prayer, through liturgy, through our work and our being we seek Him who gives ultimate meaning to our lives.

If you are thinking of serving those in need in a special way, of being part of a vital community, of reaching out to your God, then perhaps, you are called to join our People Corps, to be a LASALETTE MISSIONARY.

For information write or call: Information Director, 11 Massachusetts Avenue, Worcester, Mass. 01600 (617) 754-7250

Information Director
LaSalette Center for Church Missions and Vocations
11 Massachusetts Avenue
Worcester, Mass. 01600
Yes, I would like to learn more about trying the LaSalette life. Please get in touch with me.
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Phone Number _____

CLASSIFIED ADS

Reward—For return of 1971 North Country U.H.S. class ring, initials B.H.R. Lost on campus last week. Call 864-8272.

Missing—Yellow Bogner Ski jacket from Simpson Dining Hall 2 weeks ago Sat. Please Return—Reward. Call—656-3203. Ask for D.J.

FOR SALE—Ski Boots—Lange Pro, 6 1/2 N (Fits Women size 7 1/2 M). Skis—Rossignol—Allais Major 200 cm, excellent condition. Give away prices. Negotiable. Call 864-7141.

1971 Honda GL350—Rebuilt motor this summer. $400. Rich. 207% Church St.

Gibson Delux Les Paul—mini-humbucker pick-ups. $250. Sunn Solarus Amp and ext. speaker. $225. Rich, 207% Church St.

Need roomate to share small house in South Burlington. Fireplace, garage, land for garden. $125/month. 862-5288 or 862-6204 evenings.

3 Piece French Provincial style Bedroom set. Excellent craftsmanship. $150. Call 524-6433 after 5 p.m.

FOR SALE—1966 Hardtop Buick LaSalle. Power things—sold by loyal Friend of Hockey to unsuspecting student body call soon 862-2124. $175.

Complete ski outfit—$40. 5 1/2" "subaru" wooden skis equipped with Cubco Bindings, size 11 mens Nordica Boots, Aluminum ski poles. Call 524-6433 after 5 p.m.

CS 9128 Bob Dylan Bringing It All Back Home $2.99

CS 9128 Blonde on Blonde $5.99

CS 9128 Bob Dylan Greatest Hits Vol. 1 $4.19

CS 9128 Bob Dylan Greatest Hits Vol. 2 $4.19

CS 9128 Bob Dylan Soundtrack $3.69

CS 9128 PAT GARRETT & BILLY THE KID $3.69

CS 9128 ROB DYLAN'S GREATEST HITS $3.69

ALL THIS PLUS THE ENTIRE COLUMBIA/EPIC ROCK CATALOG AT VERY SPECIAL PRICES THIS FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

COUPON

This coupon good for one-time purchase tonight (Thursday) only from 6 PM. to 9 PM.

You will receive 1/3 off list price on any number of records except on imports and budgets.

1/3 off

TONIGHT ONLY

Discount records

93 Church St. Downtown Burlington 10-9 Mon - Fri 10 - 6 Sat 863-4587

GRAND OPENING SALE

Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc.

SPECIALISTS IN QUALITY, LIGHTWEIGHT CAMPING AND MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT

CITY CENTER-100 DORSET ST.-S. BURL.-PHONE 864-0473

Thursday, Nov. 8 thru Sunday, Nov. 11

CROSS COUNTRY SKIS

	Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
EMS Asnes Turlangrenn (170cm, 180 cm).....	48.00	*32.50
EMS Asnes Turlangrenn (185-220 cm).....	48.00	*35.50
Bonna 1800 Turlangrenn.....	53.00	*39.50
Bonna 2000 Turlangrenn.....	51.00	*38.50
Madshus Birke Beiner.....	54.00	*42.50
EMS Madshus 2000.....	50.00	*37.50
EMS Madshus 6000.....	55.00	*42.50
EMS Madshus 12,000 (Waxless).....	65.00	*49.50
EMS Toppen 10,000.....	56.00	*29.50
Fisher Europa.....	45.00	*45.00

BOOTS

	Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
EMS Falk Boots.....	32.95	*26.50
Molded Norwegian Brown.....	34.50	*26.50
Rieber Low Molded Brown.....	34.00	*26.50
EMS Rieber Medium Molded.....	40.00	*26.50

POLES

	Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
EMS Bamboo Pole.....	9.95	*6.25
Aluminum Touring Pole.....	9.95	*6.25

BINDINGS

	Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
Rottfella 180 Fenix Bindings (heel plate included).....	8.50	*5.50
Skilom Binding (heel plate included).....	8.50	*5.50

SLEEPING BAGS

Loft	Temp. Rating	Item	Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
7"	0	EMS Sebago Reg.		*73.00
7"		EMS Sebago Lg.		*78.00
8 1/2"	-20	EMS Mt. Robson Reg.		*84.00
		EMS Mt. Robson Lg.		*91.00
10 1/2"	-50	EMS Dhoulagiri Reg.		*104.00
		EMS Dhoulagiri Lg.		*114.00
4"		Alpine Design Mountain Top	40.00	*29.95
7 1/2"	-7	Alpine Design Whitney Reg.	130.00	*104.00
		Alpine Design Whitney Lg.	140.00	*112.00
6 1/2"	10	Sierra Design 100 Lg.	101.50	*81.20
7 1/2"	-10	Sierra Design 200 Lg.	118.00	*94.40
4 1/2"	35	EMS Sandpiper		*45.00
7"	0	EMS Estes		*66.00
8"	-15	EMS Teton		*81.00
5 1/2"	25	Blueridge Polegard Sleeper	45.00	*38.50
6"	20	Gerry Camper Mummy Reg.	83.00	*66.50
		Gerry Camper Mummy Lg.	91.00	*73.00
7"	0	Gerry Backpacker Reg.	95.00	*76.00
		Gerry Backpacker Lg.	105.00	*84.00

DOWN PARKAS

	Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
EMS Bugaboo.....		*34.50
EMS Bugaboo Hood.....		*5.00
EMS Patagonia.....		*39.50
EMS Patagonia Hood.....		*6.00
EMS Yeti With Hood.....		*54.50
EMS Down Vest.....		*18.50
EMS Flume Sweater With Hood.....		*33.50
Beconfa Warm-Up Pants (Men's & Women's).....	27.50	*11.95
Alpine Design Glacier (2nd's).....	95.00	*77.50
Alpine Design Expedition (2nd's).....	110.00	*85.50

TENTS

	Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
Alpine Design Backpacker Tents (2nd's).....	87.50	*56.50
Gerry Lodgepole Tent.....	73.00	*58.50
Gerry Year-Round II Complete.....	110.00	*88.00
Gerry Camponaire.....	142.00	*114.00
Gerry Fortnight.....	195.00	*156.00

PACKS

	Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
Himalayan Pack & Frame System #6.....	70.50	*35.00
EMS Divided Bag & Frame.....		*39.50
EMS Undivided Bag & Frame.....		*37.50
Gerry K Frame.....	32.00	*25.75
Gerry Traveler Sack.....	27.00	*21.75
Himalayan Rack & Frame System #5.....	50.50	*29.95
Himalayan Pack & Frame System #4.....	33.90	*18.50
Camp Trails Pack & Frame.....	29.95	*14.50
EMS Sr. Day Pack.....	9.50	*7.95
Gerry Vagabond Pack.....	35.00	*27.00
Himalayan Frameless Pack System #2.....	24.50	*14.50
Himalayan "Day Tripper".....	8.00	*4.75
Himalayan "Easy Rider" Baby Carrier.....	28.50	*15.95
Himalayan "Economy" Baby Carrier.....	14.50	*8.50

SHELL CLOTHING

	Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
EMS 60/40 Cloth Parka.....	34.50	*32.50
EMS Standard Rain Parka.....		*9.95
EMS Standard Poncho.....		*12.00
Alpine Design Mountain Rain Parka (2nd's).....	39.50	*24.50

ICE AXES

	Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
Sentinel Rouge.....	28.50	*22.80

OPEN MONDAY THROUGH SATURDAY 9 am-9 pm - SUNDAY 9 am-6 pm

by Dawn McGinnis
 "This was more successful than the visit last year at the time," said ACTION recruit Odd Baumgardt last Friday, along with Dan Lamprose (a special recruit from Upper Valley, Africa), Kathy Rick (a former Peabody Corps volunteer in Kenya), and Russell St. (a former Corps volunteer in Columbia), and Russell St. (an agricultural recruiter who spent three and a half years in India) manned a table in the lobby of Billings Center Monday through Thursday. The ACTION recruiters met about eighty applicants, they got back about thirty, expect another five or ten mail.

It will take approximately three months to process the applications. It wouldn't be long, except that the

Price Survey

A comparative food survey conducted in October by students and community members showed startling price differences for the same products at stores in the Burlington area. The results published in the Cynic three weeks ago correctly placed National as the least expensive store for 28 items because of these miscalculations. The correct ranking is as follows:
 FINAST $21.26 (9)
 Country Store $30.00 (10)
 F&C - Shelburne $20.00 (11)
 Martins - Shelburne $20.00 (12)
 Martins, Dorset Street: $20.00 (9)

Bargaining

(continued from page 1)
 activist campuses might even more bargaining since they could realize the threat of protests and a veto. Despite a lack of veto, the contract, the student exercised considerable influence during the negotiations. The faculty union and board of trustees have a hard time supporting for positions, giving the student an often-powerful vote at the table.

College Sex Life

A major publisher is developing a book which will tell for the first time the truth about college sex life. The book will be based on actual letters written by students describing their experiences, innermost thoughts, hang-ups, and frustrations. THE COLLEGE SEX LIFE LETTERS will be an honest, revealing portrait of campus sex today. We would like to write to us about sex life with as much detail as you wish. Privacy of letter will be respected.
 Reply to: GLS 223
 P.O. Box 4347
 Grand Central Station
 New York, New York

ACTION Recruiters Deem Visit Successful

by Dawn McGuire

"This was more successful than the visit last year at this time," said ACTION recruiter Todd Baumgardt last Friday. He, along with Daniel Kampore (a special recruiter from Upper Volta, Africa), Kathy Rick (a former Peace Corps volunteer in Kenya), Jacques Ferguson (a former Peace Corps volunteer in Columbia), and Russell Staples (an agricultural recruiter who spent three and a half years in India) manned a table in the lobby of Billings Center last Monday through Thursday.

The ACTION recruiters gave out about eighty applications, they got back about thirty, and expect another five or ten by mail.

It will take approximately three months to process these applications. It wouldn't take so long, except that the eight reference the applicant must give are usually slow to respond. Once these references are received the application is reviewed for at least twenty hours.

Todd Baumgardt said that almost every applicant is accepted because they first have been interviewed by the recruiters and unless they have good qualifications they don't bother to fill out an application.

The ACTION recruiters like to come to UVM early in the semester because of "the very positive response" they always get here. Only one other school in New England has a higher number of applicants - the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. The ACTION recruiters are working there this week.

They go to a total of sixty-eight four-year colleges in

New England between September and April. They plan to be back here twice next semester, January 28 through 30, and March 18 - 19. They will be here only to hold interviews with prospective applicants on the March dates. They urge seniors interested in next summer's program to sign up in the Placement Office can be answered by two forms. Peace Corps volunteers in the area - Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hitchcock, who may be reached at 434-2700 after 3:30 p.m. reached at 434-2700 after 3:30 p.m.

ACTION badly needs volunteers who have majored in these areas: civil engineering, nursing, teaching, accounting, physics, chemistry, mathematics, French, Spanish, physical education, and agriculture.

There are two things students should do to increase their chances of being accepted in VISTA or the Peace Corps: 1, get some type of volunteer experience; and 2, learn French or Spanish because these are the two most frequently needed languages.

Todd Baumgardt, Daniel Kampore, and a former Peace Corps volunteer, taped a segment of Vermont Cracker Barrel which will be shown on Channel 33 on December 28 at 8:30 p.m. They will discuss the various aspects of ACTION.

Unfair Shake...

(continued from page four)
shared with graduate students an office in the basement next to the sewage pump.

She noticed that of the departments 15 special lecturers, 14 were women.

After telling Dr. Kirby that she would only accept a job at the level of visiting assistant professor at a salary comparable to those paid to the three men, she turned down his offer and appealed her case to various university officials.

"Everyone gives me a different reason for being offered a full-time job at a part-time rank," Carol said. "One dean told me there were no openings in the linguistics field. If my field were English, he said, there would be no problem."

(Three weeks later, the student newspaper reported that the English Department had offered a man an assistant professorship. The man had not yet completed work on his Ph.D. in linguistics.)

Carol continued: "The reason Dr. Kirby gave me for his offer was that university policy forbade changing a person's status from lecturer to assistant professor between semesters. He said he'd consider me for that position in the fall, and he mentioned no problem with my specialty field."

"Now," she added, "they're saying they didn't offer me a full-time position because they don't like to hire their own graduates."

Dr. Kirby declined to comment here on the case and the vice-chancellor for academic affairs was unavailable for comment.

Affirmative Action Officer Evans Roberts said he believed Dr. Parr had been offered a low rank "because she got her degree in linguistics rather than in English."

Why then had Dr. Kirby never mentioned that reason to her?

"You asked what I thought, not what Dr. Kirby thought," he replied. "I really couldn't say anything as to whether or not I don't think it was a low rank."

The case is indeed in the hands of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

REILLY TIRE COMPANY
FROM RECAPS TO RADIALS
WE HAVE IT

Prices Starting At $16.60
for a 6.50/13 Blackwall
(plus federal excise tax $1.86)

Invermo etna
TIRELLI

Mohawk
Storm Trac

A TIRELLI tire has a distinctive tread which is mud, slush, soft or crusted snow. Flanged sidewalls push snow into a firm supporting track to prevent lateral sliding. Stop on the accelerator, change gears, take a curve or hit the brakes - TIRELLI tires give you more control.

4 ply nylon - 78 series
Exclusive Zero-Flex tread - remains soft at below-zero temperatures.
Dust white sidewalls
Tough, deep tread
Flanged - ready for steel application

ACCESSIBLE TO UVM
31 San Remo Drive
So. Burlington
(Behind Burlington Rent-A-Ride)

ACCOMPANIED BY A
COPY OF THIS AD

Insert and Return
Your Stickers - $5.00

College Sex Life

A major publisher is developing a book that will tell for the first time the truth about college sex life.

The book will be based on actual letters written by you describing your experiences, innermost thoughts, hang-ups, joys and frustrations.

THE COLLEGE SEX LIFE LETTERS

will be an honest, revealing portrait of campus sex life today. We would like you to write to us about your sex life with as much intimate detail as you wish. Privacy of letter writers will be respected.

Reply to: CLS 223
P.O. Box 4343
Grand Central Station
New York, New York 10017

Tenants' Council To Offer Services

by John Van Housen

In their second meeting of November 1, the newly formed Tenants' Council hoped to offer among many services to off-campus students, a handbook stating tenants' legal rights concerning eviction, deposits, and pets, and a cooperative food program.

One student complained of a lazy landlord. Broken window panes remain in disrepair, cockroaches lurk in dark corners of kitchen cabinets, and the landlord will not furnish paint for tired walls. Another off-campus student expressed distress with high food prices. The Council, hoping to obtain SA recognition in the near future, will deal with both of these problems.

A questionnaire that appeared in the Cynic two weeks ago indicated that off-campus students would like to see a Tenants' Council deal with the following issues: 1, legal rights, deposits, rents; 2, evaluation of landlords and apartments; 3, basic community resources such as supermarkets and their quality; 4, food stamps and other government programs.

Coordinated by the Associates in Ministry, The Tenants' Council plans to merge with the Onion River Food Cooperative. The Cooperative consists of many buying groups of approximately ten households who order, pick up, and deliver the low priced food.

Members of the Council were available for questioning in Billings Center earlier this week.

The Council will hold their third meeting for all interested students and tenants November 8, 4:30 pm, Marsh Lounge, Billings Center.

Lacrosse Club Begins Fund-Raising Campaign

Fifty cents doesn't buy much these days; a pack of cigarettes, a light draught beer, a Sag (or soggy?) cheeseburger down in the den. The new UVM Lacrosse Club is changing all that with their November fund-raising campaign. This month, your fifty cents might bring you a return worth three hundred times your original investment. That's right, a mere fifty cents when applied to a change in the Lacrosse club fund drive could win you a season pass to either the Smuggler's Notch or Glen Ellen Ski areas.

For those non-skiers, the following additional prizes will hopefully tempt even the tightest student budget: 13" panasonic Television; 10-speed bicycle; student refrigerator, 5 band AM/FM radio (the generous donation of Lafayette

Radio); and 9 6th prizes (all graciously donated) which include: two dinners at the Sirloin Saloon; a pair of stereo headphones from Tech Hifi; two dinners at What's Your

Beef; a dinner at the Black Angus; two dinners at Lums;

five pizzas at the Tower Restaurant; four pizzas at Shaky's; four tickets at the Flynn or Merrill's Showcase Theaters; two $10.00 gas coupons from Citgo.

The winners will be announced at half-time during the first hockey game on November 27. You needn't be present at the game to win. Once again, the cost of a chance at the prizes listed above is only fifty cents (or 3 for a dollar). You'll be beating inflation and supporting lacrosse (UVM's new spring thing) at the same time.

P.S. Yes, Virginia, there is a Great Pumpkin and he did appear!

SKI AMERICA

CHEAP JAMES A. MOKRES

Everything you need to know to take a small budget and parlay it into a big time. How to ski, eat and sleep for less money in 25 regions and 49 ski areas. All the details on packages and cut-rate tours and a special section on the atmosphere in areas and resorts. With 28 maps.

$3.95 paper, $7.95 hardcover. At all bookstores.

Save on SUPER BOSE
system

NOW YOU CAN SAVE OVER $400
ON THE SUPER-BOSE SYSTEM!

During the period October 1 - November 30, when you buy a BOSE 901 SERIES II Speaker System and a BOSE 1801 Amplifier, we'll give you a second pair of 901s FREE. You get twice the sound at over 20% savings during this special SUPER-BOSE promotion. Come in and hear the SUPER-BOSE System today... the sound and the price make this one offer you'll find hard to refuse!

SUPER BOSE with STANDARD 901s
REGULAR PRICE $1944
SPECIAL PRICE $1511

BOSE

tech hifi

Burlington 150 Church St

EQUIPMENT

4-0473

v. 11

Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
87.50	$56.50
73.00	$58.50
110.00	$88.00
142.00	$114.00
195.00	$156.00

Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
38.00
39.50
37.50
32.00	$25.75
27.00	$21.75
50.50	$29.95
33.90	$18.50
29.95	$14.50
9.50	$7.95
35.00	$27.00
24.50	$14.50
8.00	$4.75
28.50	$15.95
14.50	$8.50

Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
34.50	$32.50
	$9.95
	$12.00
2nd's	39.50 $24.50

Mfg. Sugg. Price	EMS SALE PRICE
28.50	$22.80

n-6 pm

Albatross Reviews Of The Philosophy Four...

(continued from page one)

26. Course difficulty:
A. Difficult (29%); B. Easy (14%); C. Average (43%); D. DNA (10%); E. Blank (5%)
27. For whom was course best suited?
A. Majors (5%); B. Non-majors (14%); C. Both (57%); D. DNA (24%); E. Blank (0%)
28. One most important reason for taking this course:
A. Friend's recommendation (19%)
B. Advisor's recommendation (5%)
C. Instructor's reputation (0%)
D. It was required (24%)
E. Subject was of interest (38%)
- F. Catalog description (5%)
G. Make a good grade (0%)
H. Used pass/no pass (0%)
I. Fit my schedule (5%)
J. Other (5%)
K. Blank (0%)

Phil 605 Section F (3061)
Intro Death Phil 1 credit
K. Ries
Lecture 1 40-2 55TH
Return/Enrollment 29/38 = 76%

	% Yes	% No	% DNA	% Blank
1.	72	17	10	0
2.	72	3	24	0
3.	14	0	86	0
4.	97	3	0	0
5.	93	7	0	0
6.	90	3	7	0
7.	3	83	10	0
8.	66	7	28	0
9.	69	21	10	0
10.	100	0	3	0
11.	93	3	3	0
12.	93	3	0	3
13.	79	17	0	0
14.	86	14	0	0
15.	69	24	3	0
16.	72	7	0	0
17.	93	0	7	0
18.	93	0	7	0
19.	72	17	3	0
20.	79	14	7	0
21.	55	38	7	0
22.	86	14	0	0
23.	48	48	0	3

- Did instructor clearly state objectives?
Did course content agree with these objectives?
Did exams reflect content and objectives?
Was instructor well prepared?
Did students help to determine course's direction?
Was instructor able to communicate his ideas?
Were lectures too repetitive of texts and readings?
Did instructor discuss recent developments?
Did instructor relate course to allied fields?
Were students free to ask questions, etc.?
Have opportunity to see instructor outside of class?
Was instructor genuinely interested in students?
Could you approach instructor comfortably?
Did you know how you would be evaluated?
Were you graded fairly?
Were you kept informed of your standing in the course?
Did instructor enjoy teaching the course?
Did instructor convey enthusiasm for subject area?
Was course well organized?
Did course increase your interest in this subject?
Has course stimulated you to do extra work?
Would you recommend course?
Was class size satisfactory?

24. Amount of material covered:
A. Too much (3%); B. Too little (10%); C. About right (76%); D. DNA (10%); E. Blank (0%)
25. Course workload:
A. Heavier (3%); B. Lighter (41%); C. Average (55%); D. DNA (0%); E. Blank (0%)
26. Course difficulty:
A. Difficult (3%); B. Easy (14%); C. Average (72%); D. DNA (10%); E. Blank (0%)
27. For whom was the course best suited? A. Majors (17%); B. Non-majors (3%); C. Both (69%); D. DNA (10%); E. Blank (0%)
28. One most important reason for taking this course:
A. Friend's recommendation (28%)
B. Advisor's recommendation (0%)
C. Instructor's reputation (7%)
D. It was required (0%)
E. Subject was of interest (48%)
F. Catalog description (3%)
G. Make a good grade (0%)
H. Used pass/no pass schedule (0%)
I. Fit my schedule (0%)
J. Other (7%)
K. Blank (7%)

Next week-Paskow and Anderson

Gigantic Fall BACKPACKING EQUIPMENT SALE

PACKS and FRAMES	REG. SALE
Gerry Traveler Sack and Frame.....	55.50 $33
Gerry Everest Sack and Frame.....	62.50 $38
Gerry Vagabond Pack.....	35.00 $21
Alpine Design Packmaster.....	62.50 $38
Camptrails Bobcat Pack and Frame.....	20.00 $12
Camptrails High Adventurer Pack and Frame.....	34.00 $21
Camptrails Bobcat Pack.....	11.75 $7
Camptrails Ridgeline.....	11.75 $7

HIKING BOOTS
Lowa-Dachstein.....	37.50 $28
K2 Three.....	45.00 $36
K2 Four.....	52.00 $41
K2 Five.....	70.00 $56
Meindl.....	40.00 $24

MISCELLANEOUS
Mountain Products Omni Sleeping Bag.....	47.50 $35
Camptrails Chapparral Tent.....	99.00 $66
Utility Snowshoes with Bindings.....	22.00 $15

All Top Line Equipment CROSS COUNTRY SKI PACKAGE
Trak no wax skis.....	65.00
Trak Cross Country Boot.....	$32.95
Eiger/Tonkin Poles.....	8.00
Skilom Bindings.....	7.00
Heel Centering Device.....	1.25
Binding Mounting.....	3.00
	$117.20
	$89 COMPLETE

ALPINE SHOP

Williston Road, So. Burlington
OPEN DAILY 9 A.M. TO 9 P.M.

DON'T LET THEM
SEE THE LABEL
UNTIL AFTER THEY
TASTE THE WINE.

"No peeking. Taste it, first."
"Wow, that's good!"
"Are you sure?"
"Sure, I'm sure. It's great!"
"Not too sweet?"
"No it's... say, what is this?"
"Sort of different?"
"Yeah, it's light... smooth... kind of... c'mon!"
"Ok. Are you ready for this?"
(At this point, bottle is turned to reveal label, although some fans like to drag things out a little longer.)
"MANISCHEWITZ?"
"Cream White Concord. Manischewitz doesn't always mean sweet wine, y'know."
"But this is terrific! Y'know, if I'd seen the name, I might never have believed it."
"Uh-huh."

Manischewitz Wine Co., New York, N.Y.

Transportation...

(continued from page one)

suggested the citizens' responsibility to communicate or express public sentiment to decision makers on the state and local level.

As discussion of local issues continued it became evident that the main concern of the U.S. Department of Transportation is with the interstate highway system. Some funds are utilized for state programs such as CRASH in Vermont, which is an effort to limit the incidence of drunken driving. There are also subsidies for the development of mass transit systems in a given city or rural area. However, the costs for maintaining these systems usually are not provided by the government. The primary focus of a federal agency must lie with needs and problems on a national level.

Nonetheless, member of the audience persistently commented that rural regions have been neglected while suburban and urban areas have reaped the benefits of the new mass transportation systems. One man suggested raising gas prices in cities where the automobile is more of a luxury and where people have the option of taking buses and subways. The helplessness and lack of mobility of the elderly citizens in rural areas was emphasized.

During the latter part of the hearing someone boldly contradicted the many criticisms, citing with impressive precision the various bus and train schedules. He felt that the existing transportation has not been adequately used and that people have failed to inform themselves. He reinforced his opinion by pointing out the limited attendance at the hearing.

Though the turnout was disappointing, the audience was quite diverse. There were representatives from a medical organization, a poverty program, and a local transportation agency, as well as university students and concerned citizens. Some were well informed, and others perplexed, critical, or angry. However, all came willing to share their opinions. Mr. Uccello fielded the questions and comments with experienced smoothness. Her responsiveness to the audience was clear as she answered the queries tactfully and deliberately.

The debate on both the pros and cons of existing transportation provoked the vital questions of convenience and effectiveness of the present systems. Should improvements be made, and if so, how extensive must they be? Are there enough buses, trains, planes, and too many cars?

Many of these questions remained unresolved. However, those present at the hearing undoubtedly departed with a greater awareness of the problems.

Women's Health Service Offered

The Southern Vermont Women's Center Inc. is a non-profit organization being established to provide professional medical care to women at a cost they can afford.

Initially, the center will focus on the care of women's reproductive systems, since women of childbearing and past childbearing age must receive preventive, as well as crisis health services. The services will include gynecological exams, pap smears, breast exams, venereal disease testing and treatment, diagnosis and treatment of vaginal infections, birth control methods, pregnancy testing, objective counseling on alternatives of unplanned pregnancy, early pregnancy termination, and health information and education. Some women in the Rutland area are not being reached by the present medical facilities. Out of the 913 children born in Rutland in 1970, 182 received no pre-natal care before the fifth month, and 9 received no care at all in Vermont. 435 cases of gonorrhea were reported in 1970. Best estimates are that only 11% of all actual cases are being reported to Vermont health authorities. The Center will provide a location for women who think they have VD to come for confidential tests and treatment.

A recent survey of Vermont households showed that the family planning need for 24% of the population are not being met.

These statistics illustrate that there is still an immense demand for medical facilities that offer these services.

The Southern Vermont Women's Health Center hopes to provide professional medical services to more women by offering health care at a location at a price determined by the woman's ability to pay.

LITTLE PROFESSOR
BOOK CENTER®

Downtown Burlington
+
Essex Junction

Is today a DOG day?

You bet. Everyday's a dog day at Lums. Seven days a week you can get a famous extra-large Lumdog topped with chili, cheese, sauerkraut, relish, onions, just plain mustard, or all of it. So if you're hungry right now, get to LUMS, and put down a dog.

LUMS

FAMILY RESTAURANTS

WILLISTON ROAD

1130 am - 1:00 am TOWARDS THE AIRPORT

rtation...

impressive precision the various bus and train schedules. He felt that the existing transportation has not been adequately used and that people have failed to inform themselves. He reinforced his opinion by pointing out the limited attendance at the hearing.

Through the turnout was disappointing, the audience was quite diverse. There were representatives from a medical organization, a poverty program, and a local transportation agency, as well as university students and concerned citizens. Some were well-informed, and others perplexed, critical, or angry. However, all came willing to share their opinions. Mr. Uccello fielded the questions and comments with experienced smoothness. Her responsiveness to the audience was clear as she answered the queries tactfully and deliberately.

The debate on both the pros and cons of existing transportation provoked the vital questions of convenience and effectiveness of the present systems. Should improvements be made, and if so, how extensive must they be? Are there enough buses, trains, planes, and too many cars? Many of these questions remained unresolved. However, those present at the hearing undoubtedly departed with a greater awareness of the problems.

ice Offered

in Rutland in 1970, 182 received no pre-natal care before the fifth month, and 9 received no care at all in Vermont. 435 cases of gonorrhea were reported in 1970. Best estimates are that only 11% of all actual cases are being reported to Vermont health authorities. The Center will provide a location for women who think they have VD to come for confidential tests and treatment.

A recent survey of Vermont households showed that the family planning need for 24% of the population are not being met.

These statistics illustrate that there is still an immense demand for medical facilities that offer these services.

The Southern Vermont Women's Health Center hope to provide professional medical services to more women by offering health care at on location at a price determined by the woman's ability to pay.

at Lums.
amous ex-ra-
-ose, sauer-
-mustard,
ght now,
a dog.

TS

WARDS THE AIRPORT

UVM Basketball 73-74

(continued from page fourteen)

Vermont's caliber from the midwest, such as Manhattan or Georgetown, but these teams could not risk the possibility of an upset. For a team such as North Carolina the game is really a breather and an upset is not foreseen. The coaches realize these teams are way above Vermont in ability but it is the best way to build a program. Coach Salzberg explains that "when you want to get better you can either play the same teams as before and not get better or play teams way above you who don't risk a loss." Playing these teams will strengthen UVM basketball. It induces better recruiting, gains publicity for the team, and eventually can produce home and home series as with St. Joseph.

In the Yankee Conference the caliber of play is also improving. Massachusetts won a game in the 1973 N.I.T. against Minnesota and the league defeated Ivy League teams in 12 out of 19 contests. Coach Salzberg believes the league is better than the Ivy League. The feeling is that Massachusetts and Connecticut will battle for the championship. Vermont should improve on its league record of 2-10 of last year. In assessing the schedule, Salzberg believes the first 10 games, which are the hardest, are crucial. If the team can win the first two or three at Maine and New Hampshire and perform with respectability on the Southern trips, they could enter the second half in good shape. A winning season is a distinct possibility since the second half of the schedule is relatively easier. Overall, the coach lists two factors that are important in the coming season. First, how much have last year's sophomores learned in the first year of varsity ball, and second, how much can the freshmen help immediately. The coach is optimistic, the attitude is good, and strides are being made in improving the team and the image.

From the image angle, the coach has initiated a UVM Basketball Club to raise money for scholarships and other team related events. The first feature is a preseason game this Sunday at Patrick Gym against Loyola of Montreal. The game is at 2:00 and tickets will be sold at the door for $1 for the general public and $5.50 for UVM students. All proceeds will go to the UVM Basketball Club. This year will also feature a bigger and better game program and new warmups and uniforms. All this lend to the improvement of the image of UVM basketball.

From this reporters point of view, the frankness and sincerity expressed by Coach Salzberg and Coach Brown is good to see. They realize the big chore is still ahead. Recruiting is done honestly and with no strings attached. It is not like the many unfortunate recent examples of college recruiting that lead to scandal. Coach Salzberg is molding a team with his type of player to form his type of team.

The team is rebuilding. The rockbottom days that Brown remembers are behind but a complete turn around will take time. But one realizes a change of image and attitude under Coach Salzberg. It is best to be optimistic before any team begins the season and the coaches and players believe they can perform well. High hopes are held for the freshmen such as Prehmus, Charlie Trapani, Ron Gottschalk, and Jim Hargrave. Returning veterans such as Captain Joe Greco, Barry Cohen, Bernie Palmer, Mario Macias, Terry Green, Brian Donahue, and Jeff Niles will give added strength with a season under their belts. There is aggressiveness and a desire to win. The hopes for UVM Basketball are definitely on the upswing. A good start from the players and from the fans are hoped for. So remember the dates, November 11, for the preseason game against Loyola of Montreal, and December 5, the home opener against New Hampshire.

Ski Films

On November 11 at 9:00 p.m. the Smugglers Notch ski area will present three ski films at Patrick Gymnasium. The films to be shown are: Winter Heat, Spider, and the Frenchmen. An assortment of door prizes ranging from season ski passes to equipment will be given out. Admission is $1.00 with proceeds going to the University of Vermont Ski Team.

Varsity To Play Freshmen In Annual Hockey Contest

Sponsored by the Friends of UVM Hockey, the Varsity-Freshman game is always exciting as evidenced by the close series (varsity leads, 3-2) we have had in the past, and Jim Cross, head coach. Tickets for the game are available at the Patrick Gym, Room 206. Costs are $1.00 for students and $2.00 for adults. The game will also mark the first appearance of the defending Division II champions at the home ice this year. Vermont opens its season at the first annual Bishop's University Invitational Tournament in Lenoxville, Que., Nov. 17-18. The

Synchronized Swim Team Places Sixth

(continued from page fourteen)

Ann Galligan who placed 7th in the Beginner Division and Jean Crane who placed 6th in the Intermediate Division. Synchronized Swimming is synonymous with water ballet and the UVM team practices two nights a week. The next event for the swimmers is the EISSC Routine Competition held March 22, 23, 1974 at SUNY at Albany.

Women's Swim Results

International Invitational at Plattsburg, November 3, 1973		Laura Schriesheim - 3 first place - 200 yd. IM, 50 yd. breast, 100 yd. IM.
Place	Points	Place	Points
1 UVM	132	Ann Altmeyerth - 2 first place - 50 yd. butterfly, 100 yd. breast. Captain - Jackie Force.
2 McGill	80	UVM Divers - First and Second Place - (First Place - Cyndie Prehmus)
3 Middlebury	48 1/2
4 Vassar	43
5 Skidmore	34
6 Plattsburg	14 1/2
Team Records Broken - Laura Schriesheim - 220 yd. Individual Medley - Time 2:29.4, First Place.		Second Place - Ellen Long
Sara Carr - 200 Freestyle - Time 2:17.8, First Place.		B Team has a meet on Thursday, November 8 against Keene State.
Ann Altmeyerth - 100 yd. breast - Time 1:15.7, First Place.		November 15th - meet meet at Middlebury.
Laura Schriesheim - 50 yd. breast - Time 34.9, First Place.		November 16th - Dual meet with University of Massachusetts.

Rugby Team Downs Johnson 80

(continued from page fourteen)

player awards for the season are to be shared by Rick Sheriff and Jack Long. Several UVM players will later date.

The Insider

by Barry Cohen.

It is always difficult to predict before the start, the success a season will bring to an athletic team. In 1969 had Tom Seaver been writing a pre-season article headed "The Insider", could he have envisioned the magic year of triumph the New York Mets were to have? Injuries for example, sometimes play a large role in hurting a team. Losing a close game may also hurt a team's spirit and cause them to lose other games. There are many ups and downs in the nature of all sports, and many ways in which a team can get momentum and rise to victory, or lose all motivation and submit to defeat.

This year, Vermont basketball fans should be neither overly optimistic nor pessimistic about the upcoming season. The team has a good blend of experience and young new faces to give the fans new interest in basketball. The Catamounts first display their new look against Loyola of Montreal this Sunday, November 11th at Patrick Gymnasium. Tickets are on sale at $5.50 for students and $1.00 for adults. If you like basketball, I know you'll find that this year the ballgame will be well played and exciting.

The University of Vermont has a basketball team that has rarely received or deserved much publicity. Last season, the first under Coach Peter Salzberg, was a disappointment to most of the players and fans. Will this season be successful? That is difficult to say trying to be reserved and detached from emotion.

Yet in my second year on the basketball team, it is clear that there is a new attitude on the part of the whole team. It is partially that which winning players always seem to have, and partially the positivism of a young coach whose expectations know no limit. The team this year includes four new faces who will add firepower and rebounding strength. They are freshmen Ron Gottschalk (6'6"), Charlie Tripani (6'6"), Warren Prehmus (6'2") - one of the finest shooters Vermont has ever seen, and Jim Hargrave (6'5"). They have always been winners and do not know how to take being losers. The rest of the team includes two sharpshooting sophomores, Jeff Niles and Brian Donahue, and five improved juniors, Terry Green, Bernie Palmer, Mario Macias, Barry Cohen, and last year's leading scorer Joe Greco. The attitude is good, the players are winners and the team should succeed. But success is yet to be proven. However, the entire team believes they will be successful, and unless a rash of injuries hits, they will be!

UVM Skating School Opens

The popular University of Vermont Figure Skating School opens Saturday, Nov. 10, and again, the talented Barbara Levitt will be one of the instructors. Assisting Miss Levitt will be Kathleen Ryan. Both are ISIA registered instructors. Registration for the skating school is scheduled for Saturday, from 9-11:30 a.m. at the Gutterson Fieldhouse. The skating school's classes will be held from 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. Each skater will be assigned to a specific time and class the first day of the school. The first session of the skating school will run from Nov. 10 to Dec. 22, a seven-week course. The second session (eight weeks) will be from Jan. 5 to Feb. 23. Cost of each session is $14.00.

Beginning Sunday, Nov. 11, public skating will continue every Sunday during the season at the Gutterson Fieldhouse, from 1-3 p.m. and 3:30-5:30 p.m. The admission to the public skating - per session - is $5.50 for children through age 15 and $1.00 for everyone over 15. Skate sharpening will be available for $.75.

THE LAST CHANCE

A NIGHTSPOT OPEN NOW

20¢ ALE Mon.-Thurs. 7-10 PM.

PREMIUM DRAFTS & DRINKS

NO COVER CHARGE

OPEN AT 7PM 7 DAYS A WEEK

147 MAIN ST.

BURLINGTON

BEFORE OR AFTER THE UVM VARSITY - FRESHMAN HOCKEY GAME (Sat. Nov. 10)

ENJOY DINNER AND A FEW DRINKS AT SIZZLING STEAK

MAKE THE EVENING COMPLETE WITHOUT BREAKING YOUR BUDGET

SIZZLING STEAK

1216 WILLISTON ROAD, SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT (NEXT TO SHOWCASE 1 & 11) (ACROSS FROM McDONALD'S)

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HOURS

DINING ROOM: 4 P.M. TO 11 P.M. MON.-FRI. NOON TO 11 P.M. SAT.-SUN.

LOUNGE: 4 P.M. TO 1 A.M. MON.-FRI. NOON TO 1 A.M. SAT.-SUN. SERVING ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

ECONOMY MINDED?

Shop us for the largest selection at the biggest savings

special collection

STEREO ALBUMS

Classical - Rock - Folk - Jazz

All your favorite composers plus all your favorite artists

JIMI HENDRIX - DOORS - CHER
BLIND FAITH - CREAM - DAVID
BOWIE - ELTON JOHN - BEATLES
DAVE MASON - DAWN - NEW SEEKERS

NICE - JERRY REED - BEE GEES
DEEP PURPLE - CANNED HEAT
HUNDREDS OF OTHERS

Your Choice

$1.99

UNIVERSITY STORE

ON THE CAMPUS

ski colorado

$209*

UNIV. OF VERMONT SKIS VAIL

JANUARY 5 - JANUARY 12

Round trip jet charter via TWA 707 with bus transfers to hotel

7 Days-7 Nights lodging

Talisman Lodge

Saunas - Heated Pool

Free Continental Breakfast

Located in heart of Ski Village

Lodge within 3 minute walk to lifts.

IF INTERESTED CONTACT:

Paul Kenny or Robert Kornfeld

425 Davis Hall D334 L/L

Ext. 2517 Ext. 4263

DEADLINE: DECEMBER 5TH

U.V.M. SPORTS

Cats Bow To Minutemen 27-7 In Final Conference Contest

This past week the University of Vermont closed out its Yankee Conference football schedule with a 27-7 loss to the University of Massachusetts. The Cats kept the contest close in the first half but were unable to cope with the strength of the Minutemen in the second and were greatly outplayed.

The Cats were plagued with penalties throughout the contest and this proved to be one of the key factors. Their own drives were hampered by penalties or else they gave the Minutemen extra yardage. Overall, UVM was nailed for 91 yards in penalties.

On the opening kickoff Minutemen standout Tim Berra almost broke loose for the first score of the game. He took the ball on his own three yard line and was finally brought down on the UVM 34. But the Cat defense held strong and halted the UMass drive.

Following an exchange of punts, the Minutemen opened up the scoring on a 51 yard scoring drive. After moving to the UVM seven yard line, UMass quarterback Piel Pennington hit Bill Wolfe with a touchdown pass. The extra point conversion was good and the Minutemen took an early 7-0 lead.

But this did not hold for long. After returning the kickoff to their own 35, the Cats scored on the very next play. Sam Blood, with the aid of key blocks by Tony Jones and Billy Looker, rambled 65 yards for Vermont's only score of the afternoon. Brunst's point after tied the score at 7-7. But this was all the Cats were able to get all afternoon. They were bottled up by the UMass defense or else hurt by penalties.

Quarterback Bob Bateman throwing over a group of UMass linemen in Saturday's 27-7 loss.

UMass second score resulted from a weak UVM punt and penalties. Taking over on the Vermont 27 because of a weak defense. The Minutemen then drove to the Cat's 13 yard line where Pennington hit tight end Ed Hadjusek in the end zone. The extra point attempt was blocked by Gary Gottfried and the score remained 13-7 until the fourth quarter.

In the fourth quarter, Fred Keliher, who replaced the injured Pennington, guided the Minutemen to two scores while the UMass defense totally stopped the UVM offense. Early in the quarter Keliher connected with tight end Gary Mika for a 24 yard score. With only minutes remaining Keliher turned the game into a rout with another pass to Mika from 15 yards out.

The loss was the fifth for the Cats in what has been a disappointing Yankee Conference campaign.

A Look At UVM Basketball 73-74

by Mike Schwartz

The feeling is optimistic as the UVM Basketball Cats prepare for the 1973-74 basketball season. A tougher schedule and a new outlook in building up the program are breeding this new optimism. With a preseason game on November 11 and the season opener at Maine on November 30, it was a good time to review the Vermont basketball picture. Coach Pete Salzberg and assistant coach Mike Brown were both quite candid and enthusiastic in reviewing the past and the future of the UVM basketball program.

When looking at Vermont basketball, one must realize that the program is in the rebuilding stage. It is a gradual process and since Mike Brown remembers the rockbottom years when he played for Vermont the move up the ladder of respectability cannot be achieved overnight. But the new approach and philosophy under Salzberg can be seen, as Brown and Salzberg expressed their views to this reporter. Both coaches are doing their best to improve basketball at UVM.

To achieve this respectability, recruiting quality players is of number one importance. The coach must find the players that will fit his style of play. For Salzberg, this means a player who is "a credit and an asset to the University." Salzberg is attempting to find players that are more than just athletes. The ideal blend is a person who is both a scholastic and athletic asset. The coach is building a program of bright and alert men who are quick, aggressive, and good ball handlers. He is looking for a hustling team that can perform equally well at the many fundamentals of basketball. A good example is freshman Warren Prehmus from the Albany, N.Y. area. The coaches describe him as a great shooter, penetrator, and ball handler. What is lacking in height and an overpowering center is made up through determination and aggressiveness. Of course, if a good big man is found, the coaches will do their best to bring him to Vermont. Many ballplayers go to the gym an hour or so before practice to start shooting and perfecting their play.

The coaches feel the big difference between last year's team and this squad is that it is "bigger, stronger, and more aggressive." The freshmen spur the returning players and competition develops for the starting jobs. Says, Coach Salzberg, "You can do more things with better players." The recruiting program is aimed at finding the aggressive players from the good high school areas of the Northeast. Another way to build up the program and attract quality players is through scheduling. The first thing Coach Salzberg did when he came to Vermont was scheduling a game with North Carolina, one of the nation's best. Besides that game, the basketball team will also play Georgia, Vanderbilt, and North Carolina State. In 1974-75 games are scheduled with Columbia, St. Joseph (Pa.), Virginia Tech, and Tennessee. In 1975-76 St. Joseph will visit Burlington for a game. Duke will also be a part of the schedule. The coaches expressed an interest in playing teams a bit above

(continued on page thirteen)

Rugby Team Closes With Victory Over Johnson State

The University of Vermont Rugby Team closed out its fall season with an 8-0 victory over Johnson State College. This marks the fifth straight victory and the third shutout for UVM, leaving the team with an overall record of 6 wins and 2 losses.

The game, which was extremely physical and a hard-hitting affair, was not decided until the final half, when UVM was able to capitalize on the extremely strong wind. During the first half Johnson State was able to keep the play in UVM's half of the field but were not able to score owing to the aggressive defense of the UVM forwards led by Jim Blainfield and Mike Simineau.

After halftime, with the score 0-0, UVM scored when Simineau fell on a loose ball in the Johnson State end zone. UVM scored again when Marcel Bergeron ran 10 yards into the Johnson State end zone. Both conversion attempts were missed.

The 6-2 record marks UVM's best fall season to date. UVM was able to score 91 points this season for an 11.4 average, while limiting their opponents to just 49 points, a 6.2 average. High scorer for UVM this season was freshman Preston Tutill with seventeen points. Following him were junior Marcel Bergeron with sixteen and senior Rick "Omar" Sheriff with 14. Most valuable

(continued on page thirteen)

The $70 lift ticket returns.

Vermont's residents and students can ski all season long at Mad River Glen for just $70.00. This special pass is good for unlimited skiing, day and night, week-days except Dec. 26-Jan. 1 and Monday, Feb. 18.

Mad River Glen's 25 trails challenge all skiers - from beginners to advanced experts. There's a season full of skiing activity... weekly races... special clinics with Dixi Nohl's ski school.

When you're not actually skiing, Mad River Glen has everything you need... a pleasing cafeteria and General Stark's Pub for hearty meals and apres ski enjoyment.

For your $70.00 lift ticket, call, write or visit Mad River Glen... The Ski Area for Skiers.

MAD RIVER GLEN

Waitsfield, Vermont 802-496-3551

Catamount Football Clippings

Probably the most physical team Vermont will face this year provides the season's final competition, as the Bucknell Bison (2-3-2) host the Catamounts at Memorial Stadium in Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 10 at 1:15 p.m. The Parents Day crowd should enjoy this game between two bruising defenses. Bucknell's strength, as is Vermont's, is the defense against the run, and both like to hit with authority. "We have a great deal of respect for Bucknell, particularly the way they come at its opponents," said Vermont's head coach, Carl Falivene. "It should be an interesting game, since both clubs play solid defense, particularly against the run."

Once again, the freshman duo of Sam Blood and Larry Lockwood will be in the starting backfield for Vermont. Senior Steve Coon will see plenty of action and might even be a starter before Saturday rolls around. Blood raced for 119 yards and one TD (65 yard jaunt), as the speedster started his second game of the year. He also had two receptions for 14 yards. Sophomore quarterback Bob Bateman, who was seven of 14 and 65 yards at Massachusetts Saturday, will start at quarterback.

"We'll have to be prepared to throw the ball against Bucknell, as their defense against the run is as strong-if not stronger-than any club we have faced this fall," said Falivene. "We want this game to finish the season on a winning note, added head coach. The two-time Vermont closed out its season with a win in 1972, a 28-20 win over Middlebury.

Cats To Host Loyola Of Montreal

Area fans will have their first chance (Nov. 11) to see the "new look" Vermont basketball team, which will feature three freshmen and a top junior class, headed by captain and All-New England candidate, Joe Greco. Freshmen, Warren Prehmus, Charlie Trapani, and Ron Gottschalk could be in the starting lineup when the Catamounts host Canadian power, Loyola of Montreal, in a scrimmage at the Patrick Gym, Nov. 11, beginning at 2 p.m. The game is sponsored by the Friends of Vermont Basketball and tickets ($5.50 for students and $1.00 for adults) are available at the Patrick Gym.

Synchronized Swim

Team Places Sixth

The UVM Synchronized swim team traveled to Geneseo this past weekend to compete in the annual EISSC Stunt Competition. Fifteen teams representing various colleges and universities in the Eastern United States met and UVM fared well placing sixth behind Geneseo, Albany, UNH, Villanova, and Hunter. Scoring points for UVM were Mary

(continued on page thirteen)

Women's Volleyball Schedule

Nov. 5	Castleton - H	6:30
Nov. 6	Green Mountain - A	6:30
Nov. 9	Keene State - H	6:30
Nov. 12	Castleton - A	7:00
Nov. 28	Green Mountain - H	6:30
Dec. 6	Keene State - A	7:00

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE

LUXURIOUS SELECTION OF BEERS, ALES, AND AMERICAN & IMPORTED WINES AT GREAT SAVINGS

OPEN 10 to 10 DAILY
12 to 5 SUNDAY

DUNHAM'S
campus boots
MAZEL'S SHOE STORE
104 North Street

SPILLANE'S MOBIL SAYS:
Think snow!
$24⁹⁵ Mobil snow tires

Mobil Super Traction Polyester
Any Size Listed Below

Size	Reg. Price	Sale Price	Val. Tax
680-14	28.44	24.95	1.98
730-14	27.80	24.95	1.98
775-14	28.82	24.95	2.00
825-14	32.09	24.95	2.24
865-14	35.13	24.95	2.43
900-15	29.33	24.95	2.14
775-15	28.82	24.95	2.11
825-15	32.09	24.95	2.22
865-15	35.13	24.95	2.42

All tires reserve the right to substitute their own brand and models.

Wholesale $3.00 more

RECAPS, BELTED, AND RADIAL SNOW TIRES
AVAILABLE AT SIMILAR SAVINGS

SPILLANE'S MOBIL
811 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON

JUST DOWN THE HILL NEAR GAYNES

VALUGA SPORTS WELCOMES YOU to its 3 day first anniversary party

REGISTER FOR OVER $450 IN DOOR PRIZES

- 1 pair Rossignol Cobra skis $80.00
- 3 speed touring bikes $75.00
- 1 pair Nevada Grand Prix bindings $67.50
- 1 pair Davis alpine skis $60.00
- 1 Rossignol boot bag $30.00
- 1 weekend light touring ski $30.00
- 1 pair K2 ski poles $30.00
- Nordic light touring ski $30.00
- 2 day-tickets at Smugglers Notch $25.00
- 1 Rossignol ski gloves $15.00
- 2 pair cross-country poles $30.00
- Rossignol ski bag $15.00

FREE CIDER & DONUTS

GREAT FLICKS TO BE SHOWN

MEET & TALK TO ALL THE EXPERTS

George Birdsong - Head Ski Co. - Thursday p.m.
Gale Shaw - Boots - Nordic Boots, Look Nevada Bindings, Volk Skis - Thursday p.m.
Jay Moraw - Solomon Bindings - Friday p.m.
Hugh Harley - Rossignol USA - Friday p.m.
Peter Clifford - K2 - All day Saturday
George Adair - Current Eastern Freestyle Champ - All day Saturday with movies of free style competition and movies of professional racing circuit.

OPEN 9 to 9 ALL 3 BIG DAYS

Nader Critic

"The atomic energy country today," Ray Thursday night at P... Nuclear power... nation's energy, ar... which has the hug... country. Nader war... power plants: "Our... nuclear fusion en... Criticizing the oil... restraint on that i... much government... relaxation of pollu... strip mining, statu... be the first priority... Moreover, Nader... crisis could have b... early 1972. The i... President Nixon to... supply shortage... Nader also call... to the crisis and... students to becom... action."

S.A. S Cal

by Bruce Madd... The motion by S... calling for the res... Nixon was passed b... amendment that i... included in the ball... year-no... night's meeting of... Senate also saw a... financial policy th... recognition of... Forum, awarding t... its $11,760 allocat... 1974 edition, and... announcement of C... resignation as Con... chairman... Following attend... has been fairly goo... (60 - 70%). Ste... Chairperson, we... committee reports... gave his report of... work. In addition... resignation, he ann... formation of a... committee to find... Bureau assistantsh... talked about the... opening of the... Sundays. He and... will present the pe... has been circulating... campus to Preside... this week... Denis Lambert... Education Director... the process of e... estimates for the U... Sunday openin... according to a me... earlier, Heller wi... Vice President... discuss possible... or input into fac... Heller also comm... very heavy sched... being a president... in the same... universities gove...

In Th

Abstract Eve... Concert Bure...

U.V.M. SPORTS

Cats Bow To Minutemen 27-7 In Final Conference Contest

This past week the University of Vermont closed out its Yankee Conference football schedule with a 27-7 loss to the University of Massachusetts. The Cats kept the contest close in the first half but were unable to cope with the strength of the Minutemen in the second and were greatly outplayed.

The Cats were plagued with penalties throughout the contest and this proved to be one of the key factors. Their own drives were hampered by penalties or else they gave the Minutemen extra yardage. Overall, UVM was nailed for 91 yards in penalties.

On the opening kickoff Minutemen standout Tim Betts almost broke loose for the first score of the game. He took the ball on his own three yard line and was finally brought down on the UVM 34. But the Cat defense held strong and halted the UMass drive.

Following an exchange of punts, the Minutemen opened up the scoring on a 41 yard scoring drive. After moving to the UVM seven yard line, UMass quarterback Piel Pennington hit Bill Wolfe with a touchdown pass. The extra point conversion was good and the Minutemen took an early 7-0 lead.

But this did not hold for long. After returning the kickoff to their own 35, the Cats scored on the very next play. Sam Blood, with the aid of key blocks by Tony Jones and Billy Looker, rambled 65 yards for Vermont's only score of the afternoon. Brunst's point after tied the score at 7-7. But this was all the Cats were able to get all afternoon. They were bottled up by the UMass defense or else hurt by penalties.

Quarterback Bob Bateman throwing over a group of UMass linemen in Saturday's 27-7 loss.

UMass second score resulted from a weak UVM punt and penalties. Taking over on the Vermont 27 because of a weak Lew Hatch punt, the Minutemen then drove to the Cat's 13 yard line where Pennington hit tight end Ed Hattjusek in the end zone. The extra point attempt was blocked by Gary Gottfried and the score remained 13-7 until the fourth quarter.

In the fourth quarter, Fred Keliher, who replaced the injured Pennington, guided the Minutemen to two scores while the UMass defense totally stopped the UVM offense. Early in the quarter Keliher connected with tight end Gary Mika for a 24 yard score. With only minutes remaining Keliher turned the game into a rout with another pass to Mika from 15 yards out.

The loss was the fifth for the Cats in what has been a disappointing Yankee Conference campaign.

A Look At UVM Basketball 73-74

by Mike Schwartz

The feeling is optimistic as the UVM Basketball Catsmounts prepare for the 1973-74 basketball season. A tougher schedule and a new outlook in building up the program are breeding this new optimism. With a preseason game on November 11 and the season opener at Maine on November 30, it was a good time to review the Vermont basketball picture. Coach Pete Salzberg and assistant coach Mike Brown were both quite candid and enthusiastic in reviewing the past and the future of the UVM basketball program.

When looking at Vermont basketball, one must realize that the program is in the rebuilding stage. It is a gradual process and since Mike Brown remembers the rockbottom years when he played for Vermont the move up the ladder of respectability cannot be achieved overnight. But the new approach and philosophy under Salzberg can be seen, as Brown and Salzberg expressed their views to this reporter. Both coaches are doing their best to improve basketball at UVM.

To achieve this respectability, recruiting quality players is of number one importance. The coach must find the players that will fit his style of play. For Salzberg, this means a player who is "a credit and an asset to the University." Salzberg is attempting to find players that are more than just athletes. The ideal blend is a person who is both a scholastic and athletic asset. The coach is building a program of bright and alert men who are quick, aggressive, and good ball handlers. He is looking for a hustling team that can perform equally well at the many fundamentals of basketball. A good example is freshman Warren Prehmus from the Albany, N.Y. area. The coaches describe him as a great shooter, penetrator, and ball handler. What is lacking in height and an overpowering center is made up through determination and aggressiveness. Of course, if a good big man is found, the coaches will do their best to bring him to Vermont. Many ballplayers go to the gym an hour or so before practice to start shooting and perfecting their play.

The coaches feel the big difference between last year's team and this squad is that it is "bigger, stronger, and more aggressive." The freshmen upon the returning players and competition develops for the starting jobs. Says, Coach Salzberg, "You can do more things with better players." The recruiting program is aimed at finding the aggressive players from the good high school areas of the Northeast.

Another way to build up the program and attract quality players is through scheduling. The first thing Coach Salzberg did when he came to Vermont was scheduling a game with North Carolina, one of the nation's best. Besides that game, the basketball team will also play Georgia, Vanderbilt, and North Carolina State. In 1974-75 games are scheduled with Columbia, St. Joseph (Pa.), Virginia Tech, and Tennessee. In 1975-76 St. Joseph will visit Burlington for a game. Duke will also be a part of the schedule. The coaches expressed an interest in playing teams a bit above

(continued on page thirteen)

Rugby Team Closes With Victory Over Johnson State

The University of Vermont Rugby Team closed out its fall season with an 8-0 victory over Johnson State College. This marks the fifth straight victory and the third shutout for UVM, leaving the team with an overall record of 6 wins and 2 losses.

The game, which was extremely physical and a hard-hitting affair, was not decided until the final half, when UVM was able to capitalize on the extremely strong wind. During the first half Johnson State was able to keep the play in UVM's half of the field but were not able to score owing to the aggressive defense of the UVM forwards led by Jim Blaisfield and Mike Simineau.

After halftime, with the score 0-0, UVM scored when Simineau fell on a loose ball in the Johnson State end zone. UVM scored again when Marcel Bergeron ran 10 yards into the Johnson State end zone. Both conversion attempts were missed.

The 6-2 record marks UVM's best fall season to date. UVM was able to score 91 points this season for an 11.4 average, while limiting their opposition to just 49 points, a 6.2 average. High scorer for UVM this season was freshman Preston Tutill with seventeen points. Following him were junior Marcel Bergeron with sixteen and senior Rick "Omar" Sheriff with 14. Most valuable

(continued on page thirteen)

The $70 lift ticket returns.

Vermont's residents and students can ski all season long at Mad River Glen for just $70.00. This special pass is good for unlimited skiing, day and night, week days except Dec. 26-Jan. 1, and Monday, Feb. 18.

Mad River Glen's 25 trails challenge all skiers - from beginners to advanced experts. There's a season full of skiing activity - weekly races, special clinics with Dixi Nohl's ski school.

When you're not actually skiing, Mad River Glen has everything you need - a pleasing cafeteria and General Stark's Pub for hearty meals and apres ski enjoyment.

For your $70.00 lift ticket, call, write or visit Mad River Glen - The Ski Area for Skiers.

MAD RIVER GLEN

Waitsfield, Vermont 802-496-3551

Catamount Football Clippings

Probably the most-physical team Vermont will face this year provides the season's final competition, as the Bucknell Bison (2-3-2) host the Catamounts at Memorial Stadium in Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 10 at 1:15 p.m. The Parents Day crowd should enjoy this game between two bruising defenses. Bucknell's strength, as is Vermont's, is the defense against the run, and both like to hit with authority. "We have a great deal of respect for Bucknell, particularly the way they come at its opponents," said Vermont's head coach, Carl Faltivene. "It should be an interesting game, since both clubs play solid defense, particularly against the run."

Once again, the freshman duo of Sam Blood and Larry Lockwood will be in the starting backfield for Vermont. Senior Steve Coon will see plenty of action and might even be a starter before Saturday rolls around. Blood raced for 119 yards and one TD (65 yard jaunt), as the speedster started his second game of the year. He also had two receptions for 14 yards. Sophomore quarterback Bob Bateman, who was seven of 14 and 65 yards at Massachusetts Saturday, will start at quarterback.

"We'll have to be prepared to throw the ball against Bucknell, as their defense against the run is as strong if not stronger than any club we have faced this fall," said Faltivene. "We'll have to be prepared to throw the ball against Bucknell, as their defense against the run is as strong if not stronger than any club we have faced this fall," said Faltivene. "We'll have to be prepared to throw the ball against Bucknell, as their defense against the run is as strong if not stronger than any club we have faced this fall," said Faltivene.

Cats To Host Loyola Of Montreal

Area fans will have their first chance (Nov. 11) to see the "new look" Vermont basketball team, which will feature three freshmen and a top junior class, headed by captain and All-New England candidate, Joe Grego.

Freshmen Warren Prehmus, Charlie Trapani, and Ron Gottschalk could be in the starting lineup when the Catamounts host Canadian power, Loyola of Montreal, in a scrimmage at the Patrick Gym, Nov. 11, beginning at 2 p.m. The game is sponsored by the Friends of Vermont Basketball and tickets ($5.00 for students and $10.00 for adults) are available at the Patrick Gymnasium.

Team Places Sixth

The UVM Synchronized swim team traveled to Geneseo this past weekend to compete in the annual EISSC Stunt Competition. Fifteen teams representing various colleges and universities in the Eastern United States met and UVM fared well placing sixth behind Geneseo, Albany, UNH, and Middlebury.

(continued on page thirteen)

Women's Volleyball Schedule

Nov. 5	Castleton - H	6:30
Nov. 6	Green Mountain - A	6:30
Nov. 9	Keene State - H	6:30
Nov. 12	Castleton - A	7:00
Nov. 28	Green Mountain - H	6:30
Dec. 6	Keene State - A	7:00

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE

FINISHING SECTION OF BEERS, ALES, AND WINE. AT GREAT SAVINGS. 12 to 9 SUNDAY

DUNHAM'S
campus boots
MAZEL'S SHOES
194 North Street

SPILLANE'S MOBIL SAYS:
Think snow!
$24⁹⁵ Mobil snow tires

Mobil Super Traction-Polyester
Any Size Listed Below

Size	Reg. Price	Sale Price	Fed. Tax
680-14	28.44	24.95	1.28
720-14	31.50	26.95	1.36
775-14	35.82	29.95	1.50
825-14	37.00	31.95	1.58
880-14	39.19	34.95	1.73
900-15	39.33	34.95	1.74
775-15	38.82	34.95	1.71
825-15	32.08	28.95	1.45
880-15	35.19	31.95	1.62

Charge it and pay monthly on your Mobil Credit Card. We also honor MasterCard, Charge, BankAmericard, American Express, and Carte Blanche.

Mobil
RECAPS, BELTED, AND RADIAL SNOW TIRES
AVAILABLE AT SIMILAR SAVINGS

SPILLANE'S MOBIL
811 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON
JUST DOWN THE HILL NEAR GAYNES

VALUGA SPORTS WELCOMES YOU to its 3 day first anniversary party

REGISTER FOR OVER $450 IN DOOR PRIZES

- 1 pair Rossignol Cobra skis $39.00
- 3 speed touring bikes $75.00
- 1 pair Nevada Grand Prix bindings $67.50
- 1 pair Davis alpine skis $40.00
- 1 Rossignol boot bag $30.00
- 1 weekend light touring ski $30.00
- 1 pair K2 ski poles $20.00
- Nordic light touring ski $30.00
- 2 day-tickets at Smugglers Notch $20.00
- 1 Rossignol ski gloves $18.00
- Two pair cross-country poles $15.00
- Rossignol ski bag

FREE CIDER & DONUTS

GREAT FLICKS TO BE SHOWN

MEET & TALK TO ALL THE EXPERTS

OPEN 9 to 9 ALL 3 BIG DAYS

George Birdsong - Head Ski Co. - Thursday p.m.
Gale Shaw - Boots - Nordic boots, Look Nevada Bindings, Velti Ski - Thursday p.m.
Jay Monroe - Solomon Bindings - Friday p.m.
Hugh Harley - Rossignol USA - Friday p.m.
Peter Clifford - K2 - Ski day Saturday
George Ashwood - Current Eastern Province's Champ - All day Saturday with movie of free style competition and movie of professional racing circuit.

Nader Critic

"The atomic energy country today," Ray Thursday night at F... Nuclear power p... nation's energy, ar... which has the hug... country, Nader war... power plants. "Our... nuclear fusion en... Criticizing the ou... restraint on that i... much government y... relaxation of pollut... strip mining, statin... be the first priority... Moreover, Nader... crisis could have b... early 1972. The t... President Nixon to... supply shortage... Nader also called... to the crisis and... students to becom... action."

Nader called for a ban of nuclear power because they are up... thirty-six nuclear fiss... producing five percen... nation's energy, are u... to dangerous melt... other accidents... "What right do we... inflict on unborn ge...

S.A. S... Cal

by Bruce Madd... The motion by S... calling for the resig... Nixon was passed, b... amendment that it... motion on the ball... up-coming electio... yet no quantitat... night's meeting of... Senate also saw a... financial policy the... recognition of... Forum, awarding t... its $11,760 allocat... 1974 edition, and... announcement of Ch... resignation as Con... chairman... Following attend... has been fairly goo... (60 - 70%), Stev... Chairperson, we... committee reports... gave his report of... work. In addition... resignation, he ann... formation of... committee to find... Bureau assistantsh... talked about the... opening of the... Sundays. He and... will present the pe... has been circulating... campus to Preside... this week... Denis Lambert... Education Director... the process of... estimates for the U... Sunday openin... according to a m... earlier, Heller w... Vice President... discuss possible... or input into fac... Heller also comm... very heavy sched... being a president... at the same ti... universities give or...

In Th... Abaton Eve... Concert Bar...

Closes With Johnson State

After halftime, with the score 0-0, UVM scored when Simmons fell on a loose ball in the Johnson State end zone. UVM scored again when Marcel Bergeron ran 10 yards into the Johnson State end zone. Both conversions were missed.

The 6-2 record marks UVM's best fall season to date. UVM was able to score 91 points this season for an 11.4 average, while limiting their opponents to just 49 points, a 6.2 average. High scorer for UVM this season was freshman Preston Futhill with seventeen points. Following him were junior Marcel Bergeron with sixteen and senior Rick "Omar" Sheriff with 14. Most valuable

(continued on page thirteen)

he 70 Ticket Turns.

ents and students can at Mad River Glen for a special pass is good day and night, week- 26-Jan. 1 and Mon-n's 25 trails challenge beginners to advanced a season full of skiing races, special clinics ski school.

ot actually skiing. Mad everything you need ria and General Stark's deals and apres ski en-

OO lift ticket, call, write Glen. The Ski Area

RIVER GLEN

802-496-3551

BIL SAYS:

Thinking about... don't make... you have your own... if you have your own... if you have your own...

Charge it and pay money... in your credit card... we have your... American Express... and Visa.

Mobil

SNOW TIRES SAVINGS

OBIL DAD

N

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XXI

NOVEMBER 15, 1973

NUMBER 24

Photo: Wynn Gold

Due To Possible Energy Shortage Patterson Announces Conservation Policy

by Bruce Madden

At a press conference Monday afternoon, Dr. Wayne Patterson, Executive Vice-President, announced the energy conservation policy for UVM in the wake of recent developments forecasting a possible energy shortage, especially in the oil and electricity areas.

Dr. Patterson gave a list of definitive measures designed to cut back on energy consumption and most importantly energy waste. Hopefully, through these measures the university will be able to conserve about 15% of its current energy consumption and cost. If 15% is not enough savings or the proposals aren't effective, more stringent criteria will be issued. However, Dr. Patterson said that the primary mission of the university is still to educate and therefore closing the university or lengthening vacations will be only the last resort.

Sig Heller, president of the S.A., and Bill Ballard, president of the Non-Academic Employees Association, assured the university that they and their organizations will co-operate in helping the university in facing the problem. Dr. Patterson also mentioned that there may be some permanence to these measures to conserve energy even after the crisis.

The major changes and restrictions will be in heating. University spaces will be restricted to 68 degrees at desk height and crowded classrooms will be set even lower because less heat is needed. Also, buildings will be reduced in temperature after 5 PM. Evening division classes will be consolidated into fewer buildings to minimize heating and lighting. Storm window installation has been stepped up to help old, creaky structures like Old Mill hold the heat a little better. Hot water in lavatories will not be as hot and there will not be as much of it. Wherever possible No. 6 instead of No. 2 fuel oil will be used. No. 6 is dirtier and cheaper and also the university felt it should make more No. 2 available for the public. If a shortage is to occur it is supposedly to occur in No. 2 fuel oil. The university does not anticipate any difficulty in getting oil, having been reassured in that regard by the oil companies UVM has contracted to. UVM will also step up its consumption of natural gas to help alleviate the No. 2 oil shortage. Many buildings have dual heating systems, oil or gas, and they will now be converted to gas. In addition, all thermostats will be checked daily and oil boilers weekly. This is designed to monitor oil consumption and to stop the tampering with the thermostats that eat up valuable fuel. Dr. Patterson has already noted that people have started wearing extra clothing due to reduced temperatures.

The major electrical restrictions will be the dimming of hallways, the abolition of ornamental lighting, and of lighting empty classrooms. Elevators will be restricted to handicapped and service personnel, on a voluntary basis at first. Air conditioning in special labs and in the computing centers will be modified.

Most importantly, if no action is taken by the federal government to return to daylight savings time, the university will adjust the work day, probably an hour forward, to reduce the load on Burlington Electric during peak hours.

All university vehicles are now required to not exceed 20 mph on campus and 50 mph on public highways. Snowplowing and grounds maintenance will be reduced to minimums. Also, in an effort to reduce gas consumption, a central motor pool will be started. A parking lot for 36 UVM vehicles will be constructed by the Living-Learning Center. University employees who before took vehicles home because of lack of parking spaces will now park these

(continued on page eight)

Nader Would Ban Nuclear Power Plants; Criticizes President Nixon, Oil Industry

by John Van Hoesen

"The atomic energy issue is the number one crisis in the country today," Ralph Nader told an audience of 5000 last Thursday night at Patrick Gymnasium.

Nuclear power plants, producing five per cent of the nation's energy, are catastrophic risks to New England, which has the highest density of nuclear plants in the country, Nader warned. He called for an outright ban of the power plants. "Our country's survival is not dependent on nuclear fusion energy."

Criticizing the oil industry and President Nixon's lack of restraint on that industry, Nader said, "There is only so much government you can buy." He chided the President's relaxation of pollution controls and his go-ahead signal for strip mining, stating that the health of the country should be the first priority.

Moreover, Nader commented that the short term energy crisis could have been avoided by the stroke of a pen in early 1972. The twenty major oil companies did not ask President Nixon to lift the oil import quota, thus creating a supply shortage.

Nader also called for the use of solar energy as a solution to the crisis and further commended VPIRG, urging students to become involved in a new "ethic of civic action."

Nader called for an outright ban of nuclear power plants because they are unsafe. The thirty-six nuclear fission plants, producing five percent of the nation's energy, are susceptible to dangerous melt-downs and other accidents.

"What right do we have to inflict on unborn generations the possibility of nuclear disaster because of melt-downs, earth quakes, or sabotage?" Nader posed the question, explaining that a melt down (a series of events causing fuel elements to become overheated to the extent that they release some of their accumulated fission products to the environment) would cause the extinction of 45,000 Americans, and the contamination of an area the size of Pennsylvania.

An earthquake causing damage to one of the plants would cause the extinction of a majority of Americans, Nader forewarned. He noted that any defect in the plant's shock absorbers would cause such a disaster if an earth quake occurred.

Nader said that sabotage is a reality, and if a bomb were reported to be in one of the many plants, all would have to be shut down until the bomb were located.

What if an airplane crashed into a nuclear plant? Nader reported that one accident in Detroit almost caused the loss of the city.

Commenting on the safety of the reactors, Nader mentioned that when the AEC (Atomic Energy Commission)

(continued on page twelve)

SPS Photo

S.A. Senate Passes Amended Motion Calling For Nixon's Resignation

by Bruce Madden

The motion by Steve Rice calling for the resignation of Nixon was passed by the S.A. Senate last night. The motion was amended to call for the resignation of Nixon, not just for the Vietnam War, but for his entire presidency.

Dr. Pasquini, in making a report of the committee on the motion, said that he met with Vice President Rollins in the hopes of having some student input into such procedures.

Although not sure about what level or levels student input should be allowed, Pasquini said he is very optimistic about the future.

Dick Cassidy, present member of the Governor's Commission on Student Affairs, said last week's meeting again discussed the Philosophy Four issue and had sent letters to all the Presidents of colleges in the state asking about their respective hiring and firing procedures. They also endorsed the Governor's recent Energy Conservation proposals.

Before stepping into the big discussion of the evening, the resignation motion, Steve Rollins set a few discussion rules and regulations to hopefully curb the foreseen arguments and tension. Jim Breece, Marsh, the Senator for whom Steve Rice substituted when he proposed the motion quickly asked for the anything like this at the withdrawal of the motion, Breece never made that withdrawal. Rice later said he and Breece never made that withdrawal.

What Marsh wanted as he had polled his constituency and also that Rice had assured Breece beforehand that he was not going to introduce

(continued on page nine)

Bottles Not Being Recycled!

by Jill Markert

What is happening to the bottles and cans now redeemable under Vermont's Bottle Ban? A lot of them are being thrown away, and are not being reused at all. Why? Both bottles and cans can be recycled. But there are no recycling centers in Vermont, and the recycling process itself requires a lot of energy. In a society that increasingly views economics in terms of energy, recycling is not the best solution. The refillable bottle, as is required in Oregon, would be a better solution, in many ways, to a sticky problem.

The bottle ban in Vermont was aimed at alleviating some of the state's solid waste problem, and also at reducing litter. While no studies have been done on the actual reduction of litter, it is obvious that the solid waste disposal is still a problem since the distributors are only dumping the bottles and cans, creating more waste. Oregon's bottle ban, which was put into effect with more forethought than Vermont's, differs from Vermont's ban in three ways: the deposit is only two cents, the bottles are reusable by more than one manufacturer, and pop-top cans are outlawed. Scott Skinner, executive director of VPIRG, claims that the main fault in Vermont's law is that it doesn't require containers to be reusable. Environmental Conservation Secretary Martin Johnson said not only would refillable containers help alleviate the state's solid waste problem, but, "the less you use and the less you waste, the cheaper it's going to be for everyone."

Donald Webster, director of the protection division of the Agency for Environmental Conservation, stated ironically that "15 years ago a number of independent bottlers went out of business because they could not afford to go to non-returnable containers because of the cost of glass. If the reason for their demise was the cost of glass, the argument that the requirement to use returnable containers would raise prices is sort of a paradox."

There are reusable bottles available in area stores, and some distributors, such as

Utica Club, are making an effort to use all refills. Oregon has shown that it is actually cheaper to use refills, but many distributors are not making any attempt to reduce costs by recycling or using refills. Steve Dunham of VPIRG is doing a study on what beers are available in refills, and in which stores, but right now it is incomplete.

Dunham said he had found that most beers are available in refills only in case lots. Beverage Warehouse in Winooski, and Chevron on Williston Road have the biggest selection of refills, but if a consumer goes into a store and asks for reusable bottles, he makes it known to the store that there is a demand for refills. In the long run they are cheaper for both consumer and manufacturer.

Attorney General Kimberly Cheney noted that there was a shady side to the redemption of bottles and cans. His office is investigating complaints about distributor price-fixing when the ban went into effect.

There are reusable bottles available in area stores, and some distributors, such as

(continued on page twelve)

Question Of Tenure Studied By Faculty Affairs Committee

by Jim Bradley

The question of tenure has been one of the most important ongoing concerns at UVM this year. The Faculty Affairs Committee of the Faculty Senate has now submitted the results of its study on the tenure issue on a report to President Andrews.

The committee, which defines itself as an advisory group to the president, has come out against the tenure of a faculty member for life. The committee believes that a grant of tenure is a guarantee to the grantee that he will be able to practice his profession of teaching without being compelled, either directly or indirectly, to subscribe to any political, administrative, or professional orthodoxy.

Implicit in the grant of tenure is the recognition by the grantee that he has no right to a salary without performance. It seems reasonable to require that performance be subject to review at periodic intervals. Such reviews should not be looked upon as a threat to faculty but rather as a way to indicate direction and to effect improvement. However, it would be manifestly unjust and an abuse of tenure if a review procedure was to lead to dismissal.

recommendations to President Andrews follow in abridged form.

FIRST

The principle and practice of tenure must be retained because it is absolutely necessary for the preservation of academic freedom in the University. The committee believes that a grant of tenure is a guarantee to the grantee that he will be able to practice his profession of teaching without being compelled, either directly or indirectly, to subscribe to any political, administrative, or professional orthodoxy.

SECOND

Implicit in the grant of tenure is the recognition by the grantee that he has no right to a salary without performance. It seems reasonable to require that performance be subject to review at periodic intervals. Such reviews should not be looked upon as a threat to faculty but rather as a way to indicate direction and to effect improvement. However, it would be manifestly unjust and an abuse of tenure if a review procedure was to lead to dismissal.

THIRD

The present University-wide standards for granting tenure, which are set as a guide for determining the excellence of performance of a faculty member in executing the mission of his academic unit, must be more rigorously applied throughout the University at every level of the decision-making process. It must be recognized, however, that decisions on academic personnel are not always susceptible to computer-like calculation.

The criteria for tenure must be more clearly defined and made known to all faculty members when they are first appointed to the staff, and yearly thereafter. No faculty member should reach the time of decision on tenure to "discover" that he was supposed to have met certain criteria.

FOURTH

Current positions in several Colleges of the University held by non-tenured faculty should be classified or defined in terms of the major or primary effort of the holder of the position. In most cases, the route to tenure should be restricted to those holders of positions in which the primary effort is teaching. The University also recognizes the importance of research to the academic community. Therefore, in exceptional cases, the faculty member whose work is primarily in research

(continued on page ten)

Cynic Polls Students About Case Of The Philosophy Four

by Andrew Morse

This week the Cynic wandered around campus asking people what they think about the Philosophy Four affair. Here's what some of them said:

Todd May '75 316 Mm... "I had both Anderson and Rice and the charges of academic incompetence are grossly misleading and based on incomplete research and irrelevant facts."

Jack Grebb '75 326 Millis "Since the only source is the Cynic, it is not possible for students to make viable judgments and conclusions. As far as I can see the Cynic is biased toward the four men. As far as the administration's silence is concerned, I don't think it's professional for the administration to say things in public about its associates."

Marsha Holme '76 409 Tupper "I don't think Cahn had enough knowledge in his short three weeks here at UVM. He didn't know them, and judged hastily."

There are reusable bottles available in area stores, and some distributors, such as

(continued on page twelve)

Meg Weitz

Meg Weitz '76 204 Tupper "Assuming the administration is on the up and up, I find it hard to believe that the faculty, who I assume have strict criteria for hiring, would in sudden retrospect consider the men incompetent and unscholarly in their conduct. The students are frustrated. They don't know the facts and cannot make their own judgments. We don't know whether the administration is acting in the student's interest or not."

Levi Smith, 51 Bright St., Burlington, Vt. "I'm a senior and have been around awhile and from what I can make of it, there seem to be a lot of unsubstantiated accusations and counter-accusations. Chairman Cahn has not been around very long; it's doubtful whether he knew the four well enough to fire them. The whole thing is rather absurd and melodramatic. There seems to be no careful thinking on either side. Both sides dwell on antagonism."

(continued on page twelve)

In This Week's Cynic:

Abneron Evaluations Of Pathow And Anderson...p10
Concert Bureau Has Change In Leadership...p6 And His Office Hours...p3

Table of Contents

Art & Entertainment...p.6
Calendar Announcements...p.2

Crossword Puzzle...p.13
Cryptograms...p.11
Doctor's Bag...p.8

Editorial...p.4
Op. Ed...p.5
Sports...p.14

CALENDAR / ANNOUNCEMENTS

Residence Halls will be open over Thanksgiving vacation. But the halls will be locked at 12 midnight. If you aren't in by then, you won't be admitted after that.

LABELS FOR LESS

100 Dorset St.
next to
Eastern Mountain Sports

Grand Opening TODAY

featuring finest name
Misses
&
Junior
Sportswear
&
Casual Wear

30%
TO 60% off regular prices on all merchandise

REGISTER
FOR
(no obligation to buy)

1—$50
GIFT CERT.
2—$25
GIFT CERT.
20—$10
GIFT CERT.

drawing Nov. 24 (don't have to be present to win)

OPEN
'TILL 9
MON-FRI

Bank Americard
&
Master Charge honored

UVM Students Organize

by Lisa Brodof
and
Barbara Galt

There are many basic problems that the student at UVM faces concerning the City of Burlington. Each student must accept the bad traffic situation, high rents, and student discrimination because of a lack of knowledge about what can be done to eliminate these problems.

A student group is now being formed which will investigate different solutions to these common dilemmas. Representatives will attend Board of Alderman meetings.

Speak with the Mayor, and contact other local government officials asking for their suggestions on what can be done to alleviate problems. The group will also become involved in the city's local issues by studying its revenue sharing fund allocations, urban renewal plans, and the Belt line highway controversy.

There is a real need for an organization such as this so that the student can find out who to contact in case of any problems. If you are interested in working with, or helping to organize, such a group, call 878-4254.

St. Anselm's Schedule

SERVICES:
Holy Communion: Sunday at 11:00 am and Tuesday at 10:00 pm. (Services are Episcopal - all denominations are welcome.)
Morning Prayer is at 9:00 am Monday through Friday. (Short eucumenical service sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant, and Roman Catholic Chaplains.)
CHOIR: Wednesday - 6:30
DISCUSSION GROUP: Friday - 6:30 pm in Burgess Lounge.
Group of interested students who discuss and raise important questions, concerns.

doubts, and remarks they have about their faith, religion, church, or life as a student. The group is led by Chaplain Odie.

On behalf of St. Anselm's Chaplain Odie wishes to extend to everyone a very safe, and happy Thanksgiving.

Life Styles/Careers '73: A symposium. Procedures for professional career selections. Nov. 29, 7:30 p.m., L/L Commons.

Have A Booth At The Christmas Bazaar!

Christmas is coming...Need gifts or decorations? How handy are you? Are you crafty, can you cook, sew or make anything suitable for gifts? If so, use this application to set up your own booth in the Christmas Bazaar! It's in the WDW Lounge, Dec. 8th, 11-4! Show your wares, or burn a candle.

But get to work because Santa's on his way! Application deadline - Nov. 17th (Saturday) at main desk. If questions arise call WDW Main desk and leave a message.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR BOOTH APPLICATION

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF GIFT, ETC. _____

FOR FURTHER INFO, WHERE CAN WE REACH YOU? _____

Registrar Presents

Thanksgiving Recess begins on Wednesday, November 21. NO classes that day. Classes resume on Monday, November 26.

Initial Spring schedules will be mailed to you at your local address on the 19th or 20th of November. Forced change week for Spring 74 schedules is November 26-30. All completed add/drop cards must be turned in at the Registrar's Office by 3:30 PM on Friday, November 30th.

The last day of classes in the Fall semester is Tuesday, December 11. Final exams begin on Thursday, December 13 and run through Wednesday, December 19th. The official exam schedule can be seen on the Bulletin Board outside the Registrar's Office in Waterman.

Personal characteristics as they relate to career choices. Dec. 5, 7:30 p.m., WDW Lounge. Sponsored by Career Placement & Planning Office.

At-Ateen Meeting

At-Ateen Meeting at First Methodist Church, Winoski Avenue, Burlington, 8:00 p.m., Thursday nights.

This is an ongoing self-help group for people 12-20 years old who have a problem living with an alcoholic parent, friend, or relative.

Call Alan Souise, 862-0189

Next Thing Workshop

The Next Thing, a drug education and human growth project, announces a second workshop by Ken Miller, Suggestology (Hypnosis) and Parapsychology (ESP), on November 30, December 1 and 2 at the Rock Point Conference Center. The workshop is residential, costs $12, and starts at 7 pm Friday. Register by paying the registration fee of $2 immediately at The Next Thing, 146 South Williams Street. Limit is 15.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15

6:45 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society class at the Unitarian Church; beginners welcome, followed by group meditation at 8:00 p.m.
7 p.m., UVM Chess Club meets, fifth floor, Waterman Building.
7 p.m., UVM VPIRG (Vermont Public Interest Research Group) meets, Round Room, Billings Center.
7 p.m., prayer, praise, and fellowship meeting of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Building A, room 134, Living/Learning Center.
7:30 p.m., Placement Office presents a lecture, Marsh Room, Billings Center.
8 p.m., seminar: Jewish history, taught by Mitch Fried, at Harris-Mills recreation room. This week: "Ezra and Nehemiah." Open to all.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 16

3:00 p.m. this Friday and every Friday, FADC at Phi Delta Theta, 439 College Street. Drinks, Beer, and hot dogs, donation $1. All welcome.
4 p.m., Department of Medicine lecture, Dr. James G. Welch, Animal Sciences, "Bovine Specific Appetite for Calcium," Room C-329 Given Medical Building.
4 p.m., "Friday at Four," open house, Arena Theatre.
6:30 p.m., Discussion group at Burgess Hall lounge, to talk about faith, religion, church, or life as a student, open to anyone interested. Discussion leader is Chaplain Odie of St. Anselm's Chapel.
7:30 and 9:30 p.m., Lane Film Society Series presents the final "horror classic," "King Kong," at Benedict Auditorium, Marsh Life Sciences Building; admission is $1 at the door or reserve tickets by calling the Lane Office, Ext. 3418.
7:30 p.m., showing of Peter Robinson's film "Asylum," a documentary in color made "inside the London haven of R.D. Laing," Room 115, The Commons, Living/Learning Center; sponsored jointly by the departments of communication and theatre, and psychology. Admission $1. Mr. Robinson will speak and answer questions.
8 p.m., UVM Baroque Ensemble concert at St. Paul's Cathedral; free and public.
8 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick Building; request night; free and newcomers welcome.
8 p.m., "War," the title James Wamsett has given to three one-act plays at the Arena Theatre; admission free. The plays are: "I'm Really Here," "The Hunter and the Bird," and "Almost Like Being." They will be performed again Saturday night, Nov. 17, also at 8.
9 p.m., "Roundhouse," informal entertainment in a coffee house atmosphere, basement, Billings Center.

There will be a production of three plays by W. B. Yeats, entitled Fools and Blindmen presented in the Apse, Billings Center, on November 30, December 1 and 2, at 8:30 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at a table in Billings Center lobby beginning Monday, Nov. 19 at $1.00 for students with ID's, $1.50 for everyone else.

Students Planning Study In England Should Apply Soon

Students who plan to study in Great Britain for the academic year 1974-75 should start their planning now to avoid disappointment.

Available opportunities in fully accredited programs sponsored by American colleges and universities remain limited. Early application is essential to participate in programs cooperating with British Universities and offering regular degree course enrollment.

Information on accredited study at the Universities of Edinburgh, Lancaster, London, Southampton, Surrey, and Wales is now available through the Center for International Programs, Beaver College/Franklin and Marshall College, Glenside, Pa. 19038.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17

9 a.m., UVM Chess Club holds a chess tournament, "November Rating Quickie," fifth floor Waterman Building; novices welcome. Further information from R. Keen, Ext. 2922.
7:30 p.m., second showing of the film "Asylum," Room 115, The Commons, Living/Learning Center; admission $1. More about the film under 7:30 p.m., Nov. 16, Mr. Robinson, however will not be in attendance at this showing.
8 p.m., three one-act plays which director James Wamsett titles "War," at the Arena Theatre. Admission free, reservations not necessary. The plays are entitled, "I'm Really Here," "The Hunter and the Bird," and "Almost Like Being."

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 18

8 p.m., the Art Education Program presents three films and a classical guitarist, Room 115, The Commons, Living/Learning Center. The films are: "Autumn: Frost Country," "Exercises," and "La Jette," to be followed by a short classical guitar concert by Phil Reinlander. Admission free.

The Lane Series Office has announced a concert by Judy Collins on December 10. Tickets marked "major pop singer" are good for this concert only (if you purchased them on the series), and single admissions are available at $3, $5 and $6. Telephone the Lane Office at Ext. 3418, or stop by 234 Waterman Bldg.

Don't forget the Lane extra, a gala for the entire family, when the Hartford Ballet Company dances the complete "Nutcracker" by Tchaikovsky. The date is December 7, and tickets are priced at $2, $3 and $4.

The next regular series concert will be December 3, "Cost Fan Tuile," presented by the Canadian Opera Company. Tickets are available from the Lane Office. An exhibition of old and new apple varieties, arranged by Prof. C. Lyman Calahan, is on view at the lobby of Marsh Life Sciences Building.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 19

9 a.m.-5 p.m., last session of photography for new I.D.'s for full-time faculty/staff. Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.
4:10 p.m., Zoology seminar, "Energy Flow in Ecosystems," Dr. Peter Rich, Dept. of Biological Science, University of Connecticut, 107 Marsh Life Science Building; coffee at 3:45 p.m.
4:30 p.m., Faculty meeting, College of Arts and Sciences, B-106 Cook Building.
7 p.m., UVM Bahai Club meets, Conference Room C, Billings Center.
7:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club, Scottish Dance Division meeting, North Lounge B, Billings Center.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 20

Last day of classes before Thanksgiving Recess.
Corrie Graves presents a one-woman show at "Everyone's Gallery," Bldg. B, Room 161, Living/Learning Center, from 3 to 8 p.m.
4 p.m., Department of Medicine lecture, Dr. John Blund, Medicine, "Preliminary Experience with the Culture of Human Chromosomes: Morphology and Synthetic Patterns," C-329 Given Medical Building.
4:10 p.m., College of Agriculture faculty meeting 108 Terrill Hall.
6:30 p.m., S.A. Senate meeting, Marsh Room, Billings Center.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 21

No classes scheduled. UNIVERSITY OFFICES WILL REMAIN OPEN.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22

Thanksgiving. University offices will be closed, and will reopen on the regular schedule on Monday, November 26.
MONDAY, NOVEMBER 26
Classes begin on the regular schedule; offices reopen following the Thanksgiving recess.
The next show at Fleming Museum, which will be up when people return on Nov. 26, is the "Invitational Vermont Craft Show," with all items for sale.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

Fresh mushrooms, red sauce, and sharp cheese.

DOMINO'S PIZZA when you're in a squeeze

MELANIE MENACHUM

THIS WEEK'S WINNER OF THE DOMINO'S AD CONTEST AND HER PRIZE A FREE DOMINO'S PIZZA OF UP TO $6.05 IN VALUE. BRING YOUR ENTRIES IN NOW FOR THE NEXT CONTEST PERIOD.

864-7444
WILISTON ROAD

658-3333
NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

50c OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Expires NOV. 28, 1973

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Void if not completed
1 Coupon per pizza

Coke for big thirst!

It's the real thing, Coke.
Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

Veterans' Club To Work For Improved Benefits

BARRY Mansfield, Veterans' Counselor, is presently trying to establish a Veterans Club at the University of Vermont, affiliated with the National Association of Concerned Veterans (NACV). NACV is a powerful veterans consumer lobby fighting for improved benefits for Vietnam Veterans. Current NACV legislation includes the education benefits resolutions presented to the House sub-committee on education and training. These resolutions include: 1. Extension of entitlement from the present 36 months to 48 months. 2. Extension of entitlement period from 8 years to indefinite eligibility. HR 10870. 3. Automatic Cost-of-Living Increase in the Subsistence Allowance. 4. Guaranteed Student Loan Program for Veterans. H.R. 6474.

Other such as: 1. Military Studies credit for time in service. 2. Credit for related service schools. 3. Credit for College Level Examination Program (CLEP) now offered by Counseling and Testing (up to 30 credits). 4. Problems with White River Junction. 5. Emergency Loan—fund for Vets.

His experience at the Philadelphia Conference of AACJC (American Association of Community and Junior Colleges) confirms a belief that the Veterans at UVM are truly a "silent army." One voice can easily be ignored—400 cannot. If you want to help change your education benefits, leave your name and where you can be reached at any of the following locations.

Waterman Information Desk
Billings Information Desk
Grasse Mount-Evening Div.

Faculty And Staff Meeting On Program Support

The Office of Academic Program Support is responsible for assisting faculty interested in developing research and instructional grant proposals for submission to governmental agencies, foundations, and corporations for the purpose of obtaining financial support. The staff provides a broad spectrum of services to the faculty that includes: dissemination of information about funding opportunities, interpreting program guidelines, editing proposal material, developing project budgets, processing grant applications, etc.

is sponsoring an informal orientation program for faculty and staff on Monday, November 26, between 10 am and 12 noon in the Memorial Lounge. Specifically, the staff will be on hand to discuss the following items: 1. University policies and procedures regarding academic grants and contracts. 2. The role of the Office of Academic Program Support and the nature of its services. 3. Procedures for finding funds. 4. Techniques of proposal writing. 5. Elements of project budgeting.

As a means of assisting faculty to become more knowledgeable about the services of the office, the staff

The staff invites interested faculty and staff to this program. For effective planning, please call the office (X-3360) regarding your intention to attend by November 16.

English Department Honors Program For Majors

The Department of English is making a special effort this year to bring to the attention of its majors the possibility of trying for "Departmental Honors" at the end of the senior year. This opportunity involves the writing of a comprehensive examination in English and American literature, does not penalize applicants who fail to achieve "Honors," and gains for the winners "Honors" status both on the student's permanent record and on the commencement program.

Since 1964 students in several departments of the Arts and Sciences college have achieved at least one "Departmental Honor" for themselves and their departments. The largest number to receive honors in the English Department in any one year was six, listed in 1972. Students who wish to learn more about the Departmental Honors program may see Professor Littleton Long, chair person of the English department honors committee, in room 313, Old Mill.

Air Force ROTC Investment Opportunity

As long ago as 1961, Arts and Sciences faculty members began to agitate for Departmental Honors, or special recognition of undergraduates who elected to strive for breadth in the study of their major subject. College Honors, which provides credit for a kind of mini-master's essay written under the direction of one faculty member, had already been a recognized exemplary undergraduate work in the College Honors student selects an area, within his major, for special year-long study, the work culminating in a long essay. The newer plan for Departmental Honors encouraged all departments of

The St. Michael's College, Department of Aerospace Studies, is offering a unique investment opportunity which could dramatically change your future. This is an opportunity open to you—Now! With very little effort on your part you can apply to become a member of our Air Force ROTC Program, with the guarantee of the following returns:

- a. $100.00 a month tax free income for your last two years in college.
- b. $10,000 a year to start after graduation; $15,000 after four years.
- c. 30 days paid vacation per year.
- d. Travel around the world.

Most Important responsibility to match your education. In addition, your membership in our investment program gives you the opportunity to compete for the special benefit package which could pay for your remaining years in college. How can you learn more about this unique program? Come to our meeting in the Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building, at 7:30 pm on Thursday, November 15, 1973. There is no obligation. Remember—this investment program is unique—open to you—Now! Take an hour of your time to learn about how you can invest in your own future.

Ariel Distribution

The 1973 Ariel is now being distributed in the Ariel office, lower Billings. There will be someone giving out books on: Mon., Wed., Fri. 2:00-4:00 p.m. Thurs. - 12:00-2:00 p.m. Call the office at ext. 2056 if you have any questions.

Interfaith Thanksgiving Gathering Tonight

The Thanksgiving season is upon us and by this weekend, many students will be dashing off on their separate ways to all areas of the state and country—going home to give thanks with friends, families and loved ones. What they often forget to do is take the time to reflect on all that they have to be thankful for in their lives here at UVM—friends, studies, and activities here on this campus. Everyone needs to take the time to come together with all those whom they share their existence with, and give thanks.

To this end, a service of Thanksgiving will be celebrated tonight, Thursday, November 15th, at 7:30 pm in the Common Room of the Living and Learning Center. The service is for all faiths and will consist of some songs, readings, and a slide presentation. It has been put together by students and chaplains from most of the

Dial 2068

Bored? It's Friday night, you've had exams all week and you've got to get OUT! If you don't know what's going on try calling 656-2068. This is the new information number at the main desk at Billings. For those of you who were aware of the Information Calendar that was published in September and October, the attempt is being made to replace that with this phone number.

Also, if you have any event going on that you would like to publicize, call the same number, 656-2068, and it will be registered on the calendar. Help make information available to the University.

Hallucinogenics Discussion Tomorrow

Dr. William F. Holden, Visiting Fellow in Chemistry at Princeton University, will discuss "Hallucinogenics—History and Future Prospects" at 8:00 p.m. on Thursday, November 15th at St. Michael's College in Room 107 of the Cherry Science Hall. The talk will cover aspects of chemical-mental interaction and the better understanding of mental disturbance, also a brief history of hallucinogenics in both primitive societies and our own, synthetic preparation methods, and will give an assessment of the potential of these powerful materials.

Dr. Holden is a member of the American Chemical Society, the American Psychological Association, and the Society for the Study of Hallucinogens. He is also a member of the Green Mountain Chapter of the Society for the Study of Hallucinogens.

Secretary - ACS (658-0337); Norman Rappoport, Secretary SME (769-3297); Gil Grady, St. Michael's (655-2000, Ext. 326); Professor Gil Marshall, SME Education (656-3321); Fran Flannery, SME public relations (769-2709).

Astrology Classes

Astrology Classes—Mundane and Esoteric—will be held in conjunction with "The Next Thing." Call Marc at 653-2633 or 862-5233.

Employment Interviews

November 27—Camp, Dresser, and McKee, Boston, Massachusetts, seeks Civil Engineers, Factory Mutual Engineering, Norwood, Massachusetts, seeks all Engineering and Physics, Peat, Marwick, and Mitchell of Albany, New York, seeks Accounting and MBA.

Employment Interviews being held in the Placement Office, Mansfield House:

November 26—Aetna Casualty and Surety, Hartford, Connecticut seeks Math Liberal Arts.
November 28—New Hampshire Dept. of Public Works and Highways, Concord, New Hampshire, seeks Civil Engineers, Union Carbide Corporation, St. Albans, Vermont, seeks Mech., Elec., Industrial Engineers, Chem., Accounting, Liberal Arts.
November 29—Combustion Engineering, Windsor, Connecticut, seeks Mech. and Elec. Engrs. GTE Sylvan, Stamford, Connecticut, seeks Elec., Physics, and Math.
November 30—Ebasco Services, Inc., New York, New York, seeks Civil, Elec., Mech., Hamilton Standard, Windsor Locks, Conn. seeks Mech., Elec., Stone & Webster Engineering, Boston, Massachusetts seeks Civil, Elec., Mech., Chem., Geology, Aquatic Biology.
SIGN UP: MON. TUES. WED. NOV. 19, 20, 21.

Newman Center News

Cunningham Newman Center Morning Prayer: Ecumenical Prayer time each morning Monday-Friday at 9:00 a.m. at St. Anselm's Chapel (Episcopalian Chapel on Redstone Campus). Sponsored by Associates in Ministry, Episcopalian Ministry and Catholic Campus Ministry. Come and join us for morning prayers.

Basic Catholicism—each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Instructor: Fr. Dufault.
Freshman Creative Discussions—Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m., 2nd floor of Center.
Mass Schedule: Weekday: Each day at 4:15. Also, Monday at 7:30 p.m. and Tuesday at 10:00 p.m.
Weekend: Saturday at 4:15 and 6:15 p.m. Sunday 9:00 and 11:30 a.m. Also, 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

Pentecostal Prayer Meeting: Each Monday evening, Mass will be offered at 7:30 in the Chapel, followed by the Prayer Meeting upstairs in the Center.
Liturgy Committee Meeting: There will be a Liturgy Meeting for those on the Liturgy

Advent BOSE SONY PIONEER Technics clear bursts of

SOUND AS CLEAR AS LIGHT

AVAILABLE EXCLUSIVELY AT

Lafayette RADIO ELECTRONICS

Listen to us, you can't go wrong.

2 LOCATIONS:
BARRS MOUNTAIN ROAD
(West to Shelburne)
SOUTH DUNDAS
Shelburne Road
Associated Stores of I.E.S.

Rectifiers, SUPERSCOPE, Sennheiser, SUPEREX

SUNDANCE

WEEKS FROM THE WORLD OF VERMONT STATEMENT

Traders Way

ing. Coca. ers of Burlington

Editorial

No Real Student Input

Slowly but surely, students are beginning to have some influence in this University. But in today's society, in which one shocking event almost daily overturns another, is "slow but sure" progress really enough?

Students, for the first time in many cases, are now able to sit on boards and departmental committees. Next week, elections will be held for student representatives to the Board of Trustees. A step in the right direction? Perhaps, but if so, it is only a very tiny one. In all these cases, students have titles and can attend meetings. Unfortunately, however, they have little or no input into the actual decisionmaking process.

Many times the administration or the various departments try to placate us by saying that eventually students will have a real voice in their education. For most of these reasons, these are merely empty promises.

designed to lull the students into thinking they are making real progress. There are a few notable exceptions. The College of Education, for one, is making a real effort to include students in matters which so vitally affect them.

But these exceptions are not enough. There is no real, actual student input in this university. Our student representatives, the S.A. senators, have no power. In many instances, they are mouthpieces for the administration, not for the student body.

Students' interests and university policy are not always at cross-purposes. But this does not mean that the administration can accurately represent student interests. We are the finished product of this university; we certainly should have a major part in deciding what goes into our education.

B.F.

A Chance Encounter: He Makes The Effort

by Peter Goughly

HE: Hey, what's happenin' baby? You're lookin' really fine, outstight - how 'bout comin' out to dinner with me tonight, whadaya say?

SHE: No.

HE: Yeah, I can dig that. I mean, like, I didn't really expect you to get it on with some total stranger who just walks up. You got real class, chick - you turned me down. OK, but I would really like to get to know you. How 'bout takin' in the sticks with me tonight?

SHE: No.

HE: Yeah, wow, you saw right through that little play and shot it right down. Hey, you're all right - foxy, sharp woman. Man, I really would like to get to know you better - how 'bout a couple of drinks tonight?

SHE: No.

HE: Yeah, hey, I get it - you're goin' out with someone, right? Oh, or maybe you're turned off by all this pushy male chauvinism shit? Well, all right, I can dig that. I'm not really like this ya know, but how else could we get it together if I didn't come up to you like this? Well, I'd still like to see you, ya know, just to rap - how 'bout tonight?

SHE: No.

HE: Yeah, well that tears it. I'm really frustrated with this funky game. You know, you really turn me on, and I'd like to ball you silly, cunt, but I give up - I'm leaving...

SHE: No... wait a minute.

A Penny For The Sun?

by Melanie Choukas

Economic expedience and quick power. Equate the two and one gets War, Watergate and nuclear energy. Prometheus was chained to a cliff for handing us the torch. He would not repent, the earth opened up, and Zeus buried him alive. Perhaps it is left to us to shatter his rock prison with a nuclear blast and set him free. Poetic justice. Does justice exist in another form?

When Ralph Nader came to speak he talked of the danger of using nuclear energy as a source of electrical power. He showered us with scientific facts, rational skepticism, sensationalism, and his own well-versed fear. When we were children we played with matches. Now we are adults and we play with fission and fusion. If a serious accident were to occur in the Yankee Power Plant in Vernon, which has been riddled with operative failures since its construction, we would not be here to kiss the trees, the flowers, and the deer good-bye. The night Nader spoke, I imagined many were more interested in Watergate, in fuel prices, in the bottle ban. Was I wrong? And are these really more pressing issues?

John A. Harris of the Atomic Energy Commission assures me:

"It is hard to imagine an accident in an operating nuclear power plant which would have the catastrophic results which you suggested in your letter, although the possibility certainly is not zero."

Certainly is not zero! Isn't this reason enough to be afraid of destroying all life within a one hundred mile radius, including our beautiful state of Vermont?

In September of this year President Nixon ordered a stepping up in the licensing of nuclear power plants. This means that our "certainly not zero" likelihood of experiencing a nuclear disaster will begin to increase at a frightening rate. And as Nader pointed out, the processing, transportation and disposal of nuclear chemicals and highly toxic waste falls into unprofessional hands as the use of Nader and fusion become a way of life.

Amateurs are found in their constitutional and governmental system of checks and balances. Watergate happened, but look how the culprits squirm. If the guilty don't get what they deserve, at least they squirm and the press makes sure we share their discomfort. We watch composed faces decompose. We are spoonfed facts about enormous sums of embezzled funds and bureaucratic hanky-panky. We swallow it whole and belch it up with glee. The immediate games are rather funny. The murderous games happen far away. Our daily fare is politics. Most of us are not nuclear physicists. Most of us don't know about uranium, deuterium, and that ghost that haunts us from time to time, radioactive pollution. We don't worry about fall-out shelters anymore.

monster - we are breeding. The scanty bit of knowledge I have acquired about the use of atomic power as an energy source has convinced me that all funding of nuclear power plants must cease immediately if we are to escape disaster. The ironic aspects of replacing our waning supply of fossil fuels with fission and fusion would be laughable if any humor could be gleaned from the situation. Pollution is an immediate problem. Nuclear power plants produce highly toxic pollutants. Our economy is hurting. The replacement of faulty apparatus in nuclear plants is outrageously expensive, and things keep going wrong. Vermont Yankee officials are relying on GE, which claims to have produced a new type of fuel assembly, "a better design." Need I elaborate on technological obsolescence and big business expedience? Ralph Nader mentioned that to date these plants have done nothing but cost us money.

Is it possible to escape this catch-22? We can't live without power. We can't live if our power destroys us. There is a way out of this hazardous labyrinth and it greets us everyday. The sun is the source of all our energy. It is our food, our fuel, our light, and warmth. All energy sources on earth can be traced back to the sun. Why not work with it directly, and safely? At this time we are capable of converting solar energy to electrical power through a simple battery used by NASA, and work is being done in the more complex areas of thermoelectric, thermodynamic, and thermoionic conversion. Despite the meager allotment of funds, science is making rapid progress inventing and perfecting materials and processes for collecting, converting, storing and transporting solar energy. Much research in this area is prenatal in nature because the government and industry consider it a bad risk. We can manipulate the atom now. Solar research is nebulous to the realist of 1973. The reason is simple. We've poured billions into the atom and we've barely risked a penny on the sun.

A View On The Energy Crisis: Hocus Poets

by Jeff Ryback

First Vietnam, then Cambodia but they were almost forgiveable in view of opening relations with Russia and China. Then came educational cut backs and military increases; the dollar became ruffled like a lumpy jagged rock, but the rock was worth more: crime up, frustration up, freedom down; and of course there was that trifling matter of Watergate. And if that wasn't enough of an insult, 360,000 tax dollars for maintaining the President's California landscape was. But there must be more... ah yes, now more... the ultimate of insults, now we are

Letters To The Editor

Markowitz Responds

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to the cowardly attack made upon my letter of two weeks past - "A Vote for Israel". Messrs. Hoffman, Douglas, and Golden, I gave you facts, facts which you refused to debate. Everything which I stated can be corroborated in journals. One such test is the Six Day War put out by the then Boston Herald Traveler, a non-partisan view from non-Jewish foreign war correspondents. In relation to Europe and Africa's actions, you must surely know as Third Worlders, that money, in the form of oil, talks. Europe has never been the bastion of social justice. That is why nations such as the U.S. and Israel have been founded. As far as giving and Mr. Golden, it would be wonderful if you too would, as I stated to the others, give generously to the Red Cross. Give all your blood if you like. In short, I gave you facts while you retorted with bigotry and a mishmash of words: ethnocentric, Zionist, imperialistic, inhumane, blind, humanitarian, enlightened, and nationalistic - which in essence amount to nothing. This shall be my last reply to you. It would be ludicrous to continue. From past experience I have learned that nothing beneficial is gained from debate with persons of your genre. However, should you ever wish to discuss your ideas with me personally, you know my name.

Kenneth S. Markowitz

Support Israel

To the Editor:

After reading the two ludicrous diatribes of H. Golden and D. Hoffman in last week's Cynic I would like to express my resentment at their publication. Blatant appeals to religious bigotry have no place in a respectable publication. I also emphatically reject the notion that having pride in my people makes me guilty of "ethnocentric ignorance". We Jews have a long and heroic history and have every right to take pride in our people. The display of support for Israel clearly shows that the Jewish community, including "enlightened" members of it, solidly supports our brethren in their struggle for survival. I would also like to know why if Israel is an "ethnocentrically ignorant" Arab citizens enjoy far more rights than Arabs in Egypt or in any other Arab nation?

David Mandel

Resignation Motion

To the Editor:

The Student Senate voted Tuesday evening to place on its referendum ballot a motion calling for the resignation of President Richard M. Nixon. As the person who originally proposed the motion, which was amended by Representative Dick Cassidy, may I strongly urge its approval Nov. 27 and 28. Sincerely, Steven C. Rice 411 Marsh

From McRae's Friends

To the Editor:

After reading your article concerning our charge of institutional racism, we feel we must offer our most sincere thanks for possibly the best article written to this date concerning our struggle. We are distressed that we must take our case to UVM in order to get accurate press coverage, yet at the same time we feel that you must be commended for grasping and understanding our situation and presenting it to the UVM community in the spirit of true brotherhood and solidarity.

Although we had hoped for a larger crowd to attend our rally we were extremely impressed by the people of the UVM community whom we met. We felt that we were closely bound by common interests and common ideals. We feel we must extend our thanks for your pledges of support. You have shown us that not all students have been choked by the stale air of apathy, and you have proved to us that not all students are afraid to deal with the administration when it is clear that the administration is wrong. Therefore, we feel that you, the student community at UVM, are a model for students everywhere, and because you dealt with us with true concern and real brotherhood, we hold you in highest esteem.

In closing once again we want to thank you for your concern and your support of our cause which is really the cause of students everywhere.

Friends of Otis McRae
Goddard College

Blonde Girl's Ass

by Elliot Freeman

A band of bluegrass singers, picking playing tunes of love, sadness and easy country living in the spotlight on the stage. A young blonde girl's ass is twitching as she has another drink and gazes at the eyes of the young men who are itching to get their hands into her pants. The banjo man is raving, dancing getting notes of sweet perfection from his fingers as the guitar eggs him on. The young blonde girl is leaving with an anxious boy tugging at her sleeve. I hear the wild thumping and the humping of their music from a band of bluegrass singers in the spotlight on the stage.

"GEE, IT SURE WAS NICE OF THOSE GUYS TO GIVE ME THIS LOG..."

Correction

To the Editor:

We wish to rectify a misunderstanding about the grading system in the Graduate College as indicated in a recent article by John Van Hoesen. Letter grades in the Graduate College are used to indicate levels of performance in course work as follows: A - Excellent; B - Good; C - Fair; F - Failure. The Graduate College grading system does not include the grade of D.

Sincerely yours,
William H. Macmillan
Dean

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS MANAGER Barbara Frankel '75
ASSISTANT EDITOR Ruth Hay '74
MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74
NEWS EDITOR Bruce Maddern '76
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lissa Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75
SPORTS EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
ADVERTISING MANAGER Loren Wilson '74

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Doug Beardsley, Dave Campagne, Bill Campbell, Randy Jansen, Jill Markert, Dawn McGinnis, Andrew Morse, Wendy Nelson, Laurie Rapp, Kathy Stasanti, John Van Hoesen.
FEATURE: Sari Rodi, Jeffrey Blum, Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Carol Dufault, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Luf, Joseph Olsan, Karen Trotter.
COLUMNS: Scott Cahoon, John Franco, Elliott Freeman, Alan King, Ron MacNeil, Steven Rice, Jeff Ryback, Scott Sweeney.
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Andy Morse, Alan Patashnick, Norm Robinson, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilenski.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Eileen Driscoll, Camille Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valron, Joan Westcott.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05407.

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

I HOPE YOU CAN DISCUSS THIS WITH YOUR PEOPLE AND WE CAN SOLVE THIS DOG LITTER PROBLEM!

COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES-BOX 9411-BERKELEY, CA 94709

of puerility. To begin with, the problem is not a new one, the facts were known five years ago. Yet here it is thrown in our faces (strangely enough) in the midst of political turmoil. And like good citizens we sit in front of our television sets and listen to our trusty leader make hay on a problem which could have been solved in the political arena. Okay, okay... the problem is important and impeachment seems a far-fetched venture anyway; still there's something wrong with a man who turns all his lights off yet keeps his cars running all day so that the air conditioning is at peak, not to mention his dog, King something or other, sitting about Washington DC in a chauffeur driven car. Of course it is altogether unfair to heap the shadow of deceit totally on the White House, for the long arm of itony no doubt will be waved by capitalist commercialism. In fact, it strikes a funny note to see a gasoline commercial raving about its abundance in comparison with oil, when gas will be just as useless if electrical facilities stop functioning. And Ralph Nader probably had a point when he fixed some of the blame on the large refineries' attempts at closing down the small time operator.

So where does it all leave you? Just where you expected to be left? But of course, pain is what satisfies most Americans. When the president affects you so that it hurts, it's like a strong medicine, excruciatingly soothing. So you say, to hell with the millions wasted on the military, let's make it hurt at home. It's been said that Americans are the greatest under pressure (eg. Sputnik's effect on US education and space technology) and maybe this "crisis" will be the impetus responsible for developing a technology that will enable us to tap the natural resources barely out of reach. After that pinnacle is conquered maybe there will be soil erosion.

Let me end stating that the subject of energy is an immense one. But a solvable one (solar energy, etc.). Also, may I apologize for the Harvard students who immediately turned their thermostats up to 72 degrees and turned all their lights on after hearing the president speak.

Sweet Pie's Message Is Social Commentary And Sex

The Vermont Book Shop

OPENING IN BURLINGTON SOON
100 DORSET STREET

Talk About The Blues, Songwriting, And Artists ...

(continued from page seven) while he has never seen before. Muddy says no, but Dennis insists, and he obviously enjoys looking at the pictures.

He talks about his career. At first he plays around, pretending that he was born in Chicago. "No, really, I was born in Mississippi and raised in Clarkdale. Came to Chicago when I was twenty-eight, but I had a band since I was eighteen. When I was your age I'd work all day and then run not walk I'd run to the juke-house to hear the music." He is now a "cate 58."

In Chicago he made it big. Much of his success lay with his songwriting abilities. "I just dream songs, man. I put down my guitar and it's still by me. Like I was sitting in a barber chair when this pretty little thing comes swishing by. I think Oh man She moves me! Then I think that song. "Long Distance Call" was about a girl who was mistreating me at the time. "Honkeyton" - now I love that song - was about a little girl I had. She was about 18. I was 33 at the time. "Rolling Stone", why I just stole that off an old record."

Muddy's hand is playing out in the gym, and the roadies are getting nervous, but he sits calmly and keeps on answering questions. He talks about the many musicians who have played with him. "Little Walter was the greatest on the harp, no one living can blow like Walter could. Otis (Otis Spann), the piano player, was not my ball brother, but we were close enough to be. I heard him right off when I heard him in '53." Muddy said that he was few of his old ademen because he does not make the city scene anymore. He does not miss Mississippi and has not played there since 1957. But he still listens to Robert Johnson. "I take tapes of him everywhere I go" as well as a lot of other stuff as well.

Freddy King comes into the dressing room looking for a beer. They talk about where they have been recently. Freddy talks about poker and fishing. He invites Muddy to come fish with him when he is in Texas. There is an anecdote about Wolf (Howling Wolf) told in such thick jargon, it is not understandable to the whites in the room. Then, as Freddy starts to tell another story, Muddy slides out the door to perform.

He sits on a stool, puts his telecaster electric in his lap and starts singing. The classical 12 bar blues come on out. "Rock my Rolye" and "Long Distance Call". The harmonica grates and moans along with his voice and the piano fills in with little triplets here and there. Hootchie Kootchie man is the best.

The gypsy woman told my mother on the day I was born, you got a boy-child comin'. He's going to be a mean son of a gun. Goin' to make the woman jump and shout. Gonna tell the world what it's all about."

It's Muddy as the sexual Messiah, bearing good news. Muddy Waters, nee McInley Morganfield was just born. You can't get more basic than that. Then he does a couple from his new album, "Can't Get No Grindin'", and ends with "I Got My Mojo Workin'". ("I got my mojo workin' but it just won't work on you.") Muddy suddenly grabs the microphone, stand and holds it with a subtle intensity and we get an idea of how virile a performer he must have been when he was a younger man. He runs from the stage as the band continues the one chord stomp. The crowd is into it and ready for more, but Muddy Waters does not return for an encore. It has been a long evening, and an even longer road for the blues man.

Energy Policy.

(continued from page one) vehicles in the motor pool and drive their own vehicles home.

A hotline number has been created (ex. 2560) to be manned 24 hours a day for reporting any heating or electrical problems. In addition, a suggestion box has been opened in Waterman for any suggestions to help conserve energy. Also, in the Home Economics Department a mini-course is being scheduled for next February on "Energy Conservation in the Home".

Last year the University of Vermont consumed 18,722,000 KWH of electricity, 2,331,000 gallons of fuel oil and 102,850,000 cu.ft. of natural gas.

the doctor's bag

by Arnold Warner M.D.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Warner, Box 974, East Lansing, MI 48823.

QUESTION: I tried to have sex with my boyfriend twice but he couldn't penetrate either time. I wasn't tense or nervous and it wasn't his fault. I think the problem must be physical and is mine. I wonder what a doctor would do to remedy the situation.

ANSWER: Although most women do not have difficulty having intercourse the first time, some do have a tough hymen or a hymen with a very small opening which prevents adequate penetration. This is more unusual these days since so many women use tampons which do result in some stretching of the hymenal opening. Many sources state that strenuous physical activity by a woman can result in opening of the hymen. The hymen is in a rather sheltered spot and I have never been able to figure out what kind of activities they were talking about. It seems like something of a dubious proposition.

A physician would perform a pelvic examination and determine by visual inspection whether the opening to the hymen was small. If it was only moderately small the physician could teach you how to dilate the hymenal opening using a special set of tubes of gradually increasing diameter. If the opening is very tight he might recommend a minor surgical procedure that could be done in the office. On the other hand, there is a chance that you are still struggling with basic anatomic confusion. You and your boyfriend should go back to scratch and begin with a more leisurely exploration of each other; the problem might solve itself.

QUESTION: Is it possible for the smell of a certain food eaten before urination or sexual intercourse to reveal itself while urinating or ejaculating?

The food I am speaking of is tuna fish. Every time I eat a tuna fish sandwich, the smell of tuna fish for a brief moment exists when I urinate. Or if I have eaten tuna fish before I have intercourse, the odor of tuna fish comes out during ejaculation.

ANSWER: Certain foods definitely do affect the odor of urine. This is because of some breakdown products of the digestive process being excreted in the urine. One such example many people have observed is the characteristic smell of urine after eating asparagus. I have no data on the effects of food stuffs on ejaculation. While the temptation was great to write off the situation you describe as being due to belching (tuna-fish does linger on the breath-for sure) I was saved from such cynicism by a chemist who supplied me with the following observations: "I, for one, clearly have a distinctive odor within two hours of eating a whole can (about 6 oz.) of tuna. Similar, but less distinctive odors occur in my urine after eating about twice that much beef."

Fortunately, I have done a bit of paper chromatography of my urine, including just after meals of tuna. The histidine content goes up markedly at these times and I would not be surprised if this amino acid was the major factor in the odor. In the case of the respondent to the column, he probably is a relatively high excretor (in comparison with me, and, I suspect, with others), but he probably is well within a normal range.

At least part of the puzzle is solved. Will someone step forward with information of comparable scientific quality about semen? I will wait and see and keep you posted.

QUESTION: I recently developed a patchy type rash on my back which spread around to the underpart of my breast. My doctor diagnosed it as shingles or herpes. What are the cause of such a viral infection and what does it involve?

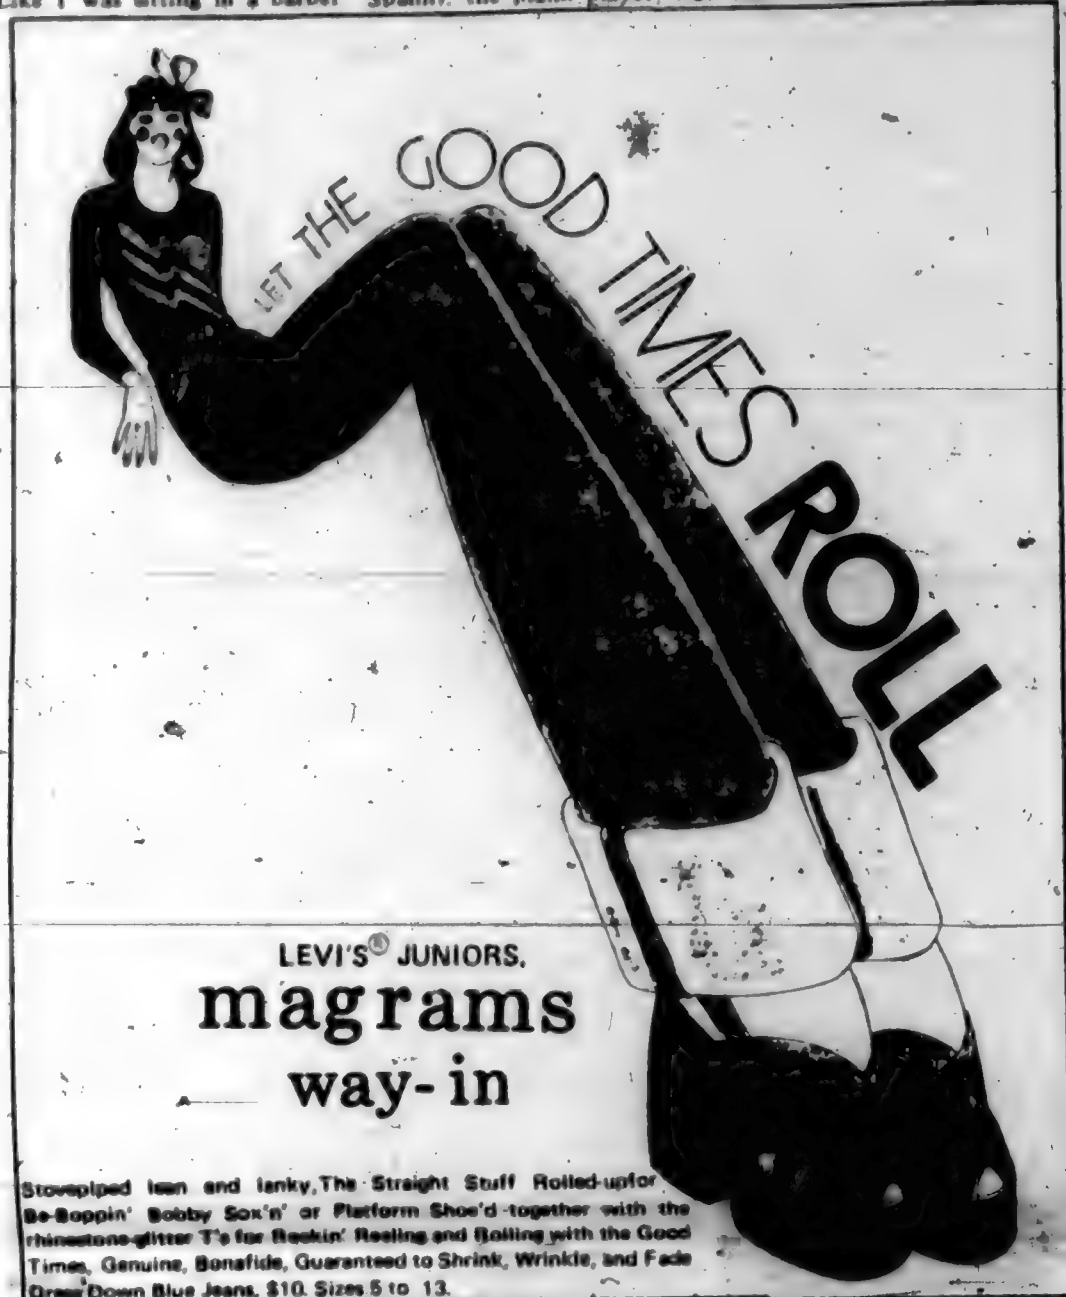

ANSWER: Shingles, (the technical name is herpes zoster) is a viral disease caused by an agent identical or nearly identical to the chickenpox virus. The area of infection follows the distribution of specific nerves involved in peripheral sensation. This explains why it is so clearly demarcated and runs from the back to the front of your body in a relatively narrow path on one side.

Except when the infection involves the eye, in which case it is quite dangerous and needs special treatment, shingles pretty much get better by itself. There are dozens of treatments, none of which is effective, and the person usually has to rely on aspirin or some other pain killer to keep comfortable. Applications of a mild lotion sometimes provide relief from the itching. Occasionally, following improvement of the infection, a person can be left with a painful sensation in the nerve areas that were affected, fortunately this is not common.

QUESTION: Please write a 150 word thesis on the subject of vaginal flatulence. Consider specifically the following aspects and possible causes of the phenomenon: Vaginal geometry, vaginal musculature, hydrodynamic phenomena and temporal proximity to foreign body penetration. Also note if this problem is common among the human species, or if my wife and I have made a unique medical discovery.

ANSWER: I almost decided not to answer this question for fear of besmirching my reputation by creating the illusion that I write term papers for a fee. The noisy escape of air from the vagina is quite common. Relevant factors producing vaginal flatulence include vigorous and active intercourse in positions which allow the introduction of air into the vagina. Contraction of the vaginal musculature following the introduction of air results in a noisy expulsion, as does withdrawal of the penis. Also, the ballooning of the distal vagina during sexual excitement facilitates the trapping of air. Intercourse in the man above position with the woman's knees drawn up to her chest or wheelbarrowing it over the edge of the bed facilitates air entrapment.

I regret to inform you that you have discovered nothing unique. If it has to do with sex, you can be sure it has happened before, many times. Sex is not an area in which there is much uniqueness, except hopefully, the existence of a personal relationship if two people are involved. That's 147 words not counting my aside comments in the first sentence and this last sentence.

LEVI'S JUNIORS.
magrams
way-in

Stomped lean and lanky, The Straight Stuff Rolled-up for Be-Boppin' Bobby Sox'n' or Platform Shoe'd together with the rhinestone-glitter T's for Rockin' Reeling and Rolling with the Good Times, Genuine, Bonafide, Guaranteed to Shrink, Wrinkle, and Fade. Dress Down Blue Jeans, $10. Sizes 5 to 13.

MADMAN - MURRAY - THE - SMILING - TAPEMAN ANNOUNCES HIS GRAND OPENING OF TAPE CITY USA

- THE FIRST FIFTY PEOPLE ON SATURDAY AND SUNDAY (NOV. 17 & 18) RECEIVE A FREE TAPE
- BUY AN 8-TRACK AUTO TAPE PLAYER PLUS TWO SPEAKERS ($50.00) AND PICK FIVE TAPES OF YOUR CHOICE
- SEE AND HEAR A LIVE REMOTE BROADCAST OF WJOY ALL DAY SATURDAY FROM OUR STORE
- RECEIVE A FREE 8-TRACK HEAD CLEANER JUST BY ENTERING OUR DOOR
- WE GIVE AWAY FREE GIFTS WITH ALMOST ANY PURCHASE
- OUR EVERY DAY SPECIALS INCLUDE - BUY THREE TAPES AND PICK THE FOURTH FREE
- WE REPAIR AND SERVICE ALL MAKES OF TAPE PLAYERS AND STEREO EQUIPMENT ON THE PREMISES
- THOUSANDS OF TAPES ON SALE

NO TAPE IS MORE THAN $2.99

WE SELL
8-TRACK TAPES - CASSETTES - RECORDS - REEL TO REEL

GRAND OPENING SPECIAL CHRISTMAS TAPES
DEAN MARTIN
CHARLEY PRIDE
GLENN CAMPBELL
NAT COLE
LYNN ANDERSON
SINATRA FAMILY
& MORE

$2.99

TAPE CITY USA
RTE 7 NORTH & BLAKELY ROAD (INTERSTATE 89 - EXIT 16)
TWO MILES NORTH OF WINOOSKI

879-0448

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

10am - 10pm

Who Goes

by John V.

Ralph Nader, breakneck pace, Burlington, Nader for ETV. By Nader had fine questions and to a rescue President's house engaging in one the very week morning.

Scrambled to Nader and dignitaries at morning. About fifteen somewhat un Nader rather than the President's fifth floor greeted guests handshake. Over slightly chilled.

S.A.

Pass

(continued from the motion picture for representatives of Trustees and the Commission.

Affairs in the question. Debate Ed Paquin will be kept in the N of developing Senate responsibility.

The main centered on Senate should the students to these question opposition to motion that University matter the Senate's just motion was amended. The amended passed (23 - 15 of the house was

Continuing Business. Robinson motion calling temperature of because the recently drafted University in Conservation P motion for a transit system University for help ease fuel cost passed.

Alan King's Candy's motion

Core

1301

So

bedspreads,

tapestries, che

leather hats, b

silver, turquo

jewelry, candle

sets, planete

hangings, m buckles, bell

pipes, hookah

and blouses

Mexico, Afgh

Colombia, Belg

Nepal and oth

and far.

bag

Corner M.D.

and, I suspect, with others), but he is a normal range. Will someone step out of comparable scientific quality and see and keep you posted.

Recently developed a patchy type rash on and around the underpart of my leg and it is shingles or herpes. What is a viral infection and what does it

(the technical name is herpes zoster) is caused by an agent identical or nearly identical to the agent of chickenpox. The area of infection is of specific nerves involved in the body.

This explains why it is so clearly from the back to the front of your narrow path on one side.

Infection involves the eye, in which the virus enters and needs special treatment, to get better by itself. There are dozens of which is effective, and the person on aspirin or some other pain killer to applications of a mild lotion sometimes the itching. Occasionally, following infection, a person can be left with a nerve areas that were affected; common.

write a 150 word thesis on the subject. Consider specifically the following causes of the phenomenon: Vaginal musculature, hydrodynamic phenomena, ability to foreign body penetration. Also common among the human species, have made a unique medical discovery, decided not to answer this question for my reputation by creating the illusion of quite common. Relevant factors include vigorous and active which allow the introduction of air into the vagina. The vaginal musculature contraction of air results in a noisy withdrawal of the penis. Also, the vaginal muscles during sexual excitement, of air. Intercourse in the man above, man's knees drawn up to her chest, or over the edge of the bed facilitates air you that you have discovered nothing to do with sex, you can be sure it has many times. Sex is not an area in which, except hopefully, the existence of a ship if two people are involved. That's why my said comments in the first sentence.

AN

ape

OUR CHOICE
MORE

RE

REMISES

EL

TE 89 - EXIT 16)

Whoosh! There Goes Ralph Nader

By John Van Hoesen

Ralph Nader travels at breakneck pace. Arriving in Burlington late in the afternoon, Nader taped a show for ETV. By 8:30 p.m. he was in Patrick Gym delivering an address before 5000 persons. Nader had finished answering questions and was on his way to a reception at the President's home at 10:30 p.m. engaging in conversation until the very wee hours of the morning.

Scrambled eggs were served to Nader and twenty-five dignitaries at 7:45 the next morning.

About fifteen minutes later, a somewhat unkempt Ralph Nader rather shyly loped into the President's dining room on fifth floor Waterman and greeted guests with a friendly handshake. Over a plate of slightly chilled eggs and sausage

Nader answered some very inappropriately formal questions.

Forced into the issue of capitalism, Nader once more took up the podium and stated that he did not belong to any one system because one system imposes too many limitations on the economy and on oneself.

One guest asked Mr. Nader if he would reflect on the rapidly fading rural life in Vermont. Nader, thankful for the conversational question, hoped we could redefine our economic horizons to maintain the rural life in Vermont.

By 9:40 a.m. Nader had finished his coffee, had thanked Vice President Rollins for the Sags breakfast, and by 9 a.m. was on a flight out of Burlington and on to his next pilgrimage.

Full-time UYA Volunteer Positions Open For Next Semester

by Becky Burr

University Year for Action at the Office of Volunteer Programs is now accepting applications for full-time positions which will begin in January.

UYA is a federal program for University students who wish to serve the poverty community for a full academic year in a somewhat similar capacity as VISTA volunteers. Like VISTA and the Peace Corps, UYA is sponsored by ACTION and first appeared on the UVM campus in January of 1972.

Students placed in UYA jobs impacting on the poverty community receive a monthly living allowance and full academic credit for the twelve month period which they serve.

The positions which are open for January are with the Bread and Law Task Force, the Division of Probation and Parole, and Vermont Legal Aid.

Bread and Law is looking for a food stamp counselor, school feeding worker, The Division of Probation and Parole seeks volunteers who may serve as a Project Coordinator establishing procedures and guidelines for use of purchase of service funds and coordinating services between other divisions of the Department of Corrections and other state agencies. Vermont Legal Aid provides legal services in non-criminal matters to the low income population in Vermont community providing legal services to the poor.

Students who are interested in making a commitment to experiential learning as a University Year for Action volunteer should contact John Engroff, David Osgood, or Hal Woods at the Office of Volunteer Programs in Mansfield House immediately.

McRae Begins Walk To Boston

Vermont Press Bureau PLAINFIELD — Otis McRae, the former Goddard College Staff member who charged he is being fired for racist reasons, started what he terms "the Long Walk for Racial Justice" here Monday morning.

McRae plans to walk to Boston, in protest over his firing, the firing of Goddard teacher Charles Johnson last year, and the suspension of several students earlier this year for protest action on the campus.

Goddard's administration disputes the charges brought against him by McRae, and says he is being fired because he refused to talk with them about the terms of his future employment at the school.

The issue has divided the Goddard Campus, with some students recently hunger-striking in support of McRae and others passing petitions against him and his charges.

McRae and Johnson are black, and they charge they were dismissed because of racism on the part of Goddard College President Gerald Witherspoon and others. The walking with them on the 200 mile journey to Boston were students Mary Kacen and Steve Guerra.

The walk began shortly after 8 a.m. at Mae's general store in Plainfield. McRae and his supporters hope that students from other colleges will join them as they trudge along. Reprinted from The Times-Argus, Nov. 6, 1973.

Former State Planner Huffman To Speak On Environment-Highway Issue

by Patti O'Brien

The most recent casualty of the "Environment-Highway War," Mr. Don Huffman, will be speaking Nov. 19th, 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Lounge in his Monday evening presentation Mr. Huffman will be addressing the need for a complete environmental-impact statement review before clearing a highway development. In his book, The Vermont Farm, A Land Reform Program, Mr. Huffman relates highway growth, increase in land prices, which is followed by the "sell-out" of the rural farmer. Earlier this month the former state planner said he was fired because through carrying out his planning duties, he incurred the wrath of Highway Commissioner John Gray.

According to Huffman, Gray demanded his dismissal, and threatened to resign himself if Huffman stayed on. The Salmon administration acceded to the demand.

The Highway Department and Planning Department was surfaced earlier this year over the "Brookfield Massacre." This was a case where a rural town was forced to accept highway development regardless of local planners' objections to the project. Huffman has openly criticized 3 major highway projects. A proposed four lane highway connecting St. Johnsbury and Interstate 93 in New Hampshire.

A major expansion and relocation of U.S. 2 between St. Johnsbury and Montpelier. A four lane $10.8 million bypass of Rutland City on U.S.

Huffman has attacked the highway department for using this piecemeal method of building Interstate Highways. A formal highway proposal was rejected in 1972. Commissioner Gray has refused comment on this.

In a recent press conference Mr. Huffman charged the Salmon administration with "hypocrisy" in "voicing respect for planning and environmental conservation, while acting as I know the administration has about highways." He also pointed out "growing discrepancy between what the administration verbally commits and what the Highway Commission controls."

As recently as June 1973 Governor Salmon openly supported Mr. Huffman's land reform program. Now the governor's reaction to Huffman's ousting is merely "it's water over the dam, it might have handled it differently, but not now."

The presentation is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by VPIRG as a Public Interest Forum. VPIRG hopes to generate debate, controversy, and action in the Environment-Highway area.

S.A. Senate Discusses Jurisdiction; Passes Amended Resignation Motion...

(continued from page one)

that the motion be put on the ballot for student representatives to the Board of Trustees and the Governor's Commission for Student Affairs in the form of a question. Debate was raised by Ed Pasquini who urged that it be kept in the Senate as a way of developing backbones and Senate responsibility.

The main arguments centered on whether the Senate should keep going to the students for answers to these questions, and also opposition to the entire motion that this is not a University matter and out of the Senate's jurisdiction. The motion was amended 31-17.

The amended motion was passed (23-15) and a division of the house was called.

Continuing into Old Business, Mark Siegars, Robinson, withdrew his motion calling for reduction in be appropriated for the upcoming election and also to have the elections before December 1 - was passed. Hopefully, the $200 will help to better advertise the elections and bring more students to the polls.

S. 33, a motion by Sarah Funkhouser, Secretary for Student Activities, for recognition of Fraternity Forum raised much discussion.

Most of it centered on financial policy and the aging problems of consolidated accounts and S. A. monies. There was also debate on actual recognition meaning and implications. The motion was passed.

Recognition of Friends of Geology (FOG) and UVM, Plant and Soil Science Society were tabled because representatives of the two organizations were not present.

Matt Jones, Hamilton, offered the Finance Committee's recommendations that the ARIEL be given its allocation of $11,760 with the poll stipulation. The money has been in a pending fund.

Production of the 1974 edition is now assured.

Under New Business, Nancy Roberts, Gamma Phi Beta, proposed not in motion form but rather for discussion the possibility that UVM should join the National Student Association. Alan King, Phi Gamma Delta, proposed another motion to the ballot, that of whether the students approve of moving the health facility to the East Avenue Nursing Home or enlarging the present facility. Discussion centered on already definitive measures in moving and that the Senate is only "kicking a dead dog" again. However, the rules were suspended, and the motion passed (even though it is probably too late for student input). Steve deCesnak, S. A. Treasurer, entered two motions: one for allocation of $28.54 to the Pre-Med Club, and the other for allocation of $200 to El Hispanico for Spanish and Cultural Day. These motions were passed with a suspension of the rules. The meeting was adjourned around 9:00 pm and there will be no meeting next week.

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE INC.

Route 2, Williston, Vt. 842-7686

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

- Fine work on American cars
- Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
- Front end alignment • Spin balancing
- Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

Tires for most foreign cars in stock or readily available

SEMPERIT VW Bug tires

$19.95 + $1.79 FEI

VW BRAKE JOB

$39.95

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuilt 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL VW Bug Exhaust $24.95 Spin Balance $2.50 per Wheel Front End Alignment $10

CORGULE

1301 Shelburne Rd. So. Burlington, Vt. bedspreads, rugs, pillows, bath towels, bathrobes leather hats, bags, wine, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

The Good Courts!

Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • 4 excellent clay courts • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Pro Shop • 24-Hour Stringing Service • Expert Advice • Open 8 AM-12 M Weekdays • 6 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-In Rates

TWIN OAKS TENNIS CENTER

Kennedy Drive Opp. N.S. 7th. 843-2429

UNLEASH THE EXOTIC IN YOU!

FROM THE PEOPLES' REPUBLIC OF CHINA

Work Jackets for Men and Women. Sturdy blue cotton outer jackets, worn by Chinese workers and peasants, constructed for hard wear.

Quilt lined $25. PPD Unlined $12.95 PPD

Please state your size Matching peaked cap $2.75 PPD

Women's strap shoe black canvas skid-proof composition sole $4.95 PPD

Men's black canvas work shoe, elastic side step-in $4.95 PPD

Please state shoe size when ordering

CHINESE ACUPUNCTURE POSTERS Three panels with color and diagrams. Each panel 30" x 14". Complete set $3.95 PPD.

Check or Money order please, no C.O.D.

PEOPLES' WARE INC.

2210 DELANCEY PLACE PHILA., PA. 19103

MORE THAN ONCE UPON A TIME

ONCE, A KNIGHT, IN ORDER TO GET CLOSER TO THE EARTH, EAT TOMATOES, AND PICK UP A FEW CREDITS, DID JOIN THE MEDIEVAL U. AGRICULTURAL COMMUNE.

WHERE HE TOOK TO THE CHORES AT HAND WITH DETERMINATION

AND COURAGE

AND DISPLAYED A KEEN MIND FOR INNOVATION.

HIS MUSICAL ABILITY WON HIM A PLACE IN THE BARNYARD CHORUS,

AND HE DID JOIN HIS FELLOW STUDENT FARMERS ON AN EVENING'S HAYRIDE (THEIR WAGON STOCKED WITH PLENTY OF FROSTY-COLD SCHAEFER BEER, THE BEER WITH FLAVOR THEY COULD DEPEND ON NOT TO FADE THE WHOLE NIGHT LONG)

AND SOON, HE DID COMPLETE HIS TRAINING AND WAS ASSIGNED TO THE TASKS MOST SUITED TO HIS ABILITIES.

WHEN YOU'RE HAVING MORE THAN ONE

Albatross Reviews Of The Philosophy Four

from The Albatross
Date from Fall 1972

Phil 204 Section A (2075)
Social Philosophy 3 credits
G. Anderson
Sem/Disc 7-10 PM W
Reserve/Enrollment: 12/19 - 485

	% Yes	% No	% DNA	% Blank
1	100	0	0	0	Did instructor clearly state objectives?
2	100	0	0	0	Did course content agree with these objectives?
3	100	0	0	0	Did exams reflect content and objectives?
4	100	0	0	0	Was instructor well prepared?
5	92	8	0	0	Did students help to determine course's direction?
6	100	0	0	0	Was instructor able to communicate his ideas?
7	8	92	0	0	Were lectures too repetitive of texts and readings?
8	85	15	0	0	Did instructor discuss recent developments?
9	92	8	0	0	Did instructor relate course to allied fields?
10	100	0	0	0	Were students free to ask questions, etc.?
11	77	15	8	0	Have opportunity to see instructor outside of class?
12	100	0	0	0	Was instructor genuinely interested in students?
13	100	0	0	0	Could you approach instructor comfortably?
14	92	8	0	0	Did you know how you would be evaluated?
15	85	15	0	0	Were you graded fairly?
16	54	8	38	0	Were you kept informed of your standing in the course?
17	100	0	0	0	Did instructor enjoy teaching the course?
18	100	0	0	0	Did instructor convey enthusiasm for subject area?
19	100	0	0	0	Was course well organized?
20	100	0	0	0	Did course increase your interest in the subject?
21	77	15	8	0	Has course stimulated you to do extra work?
22	100	0	0	0	Would you recommend course?
23	77	15	8	0	Was class size satisfactory?

24. Amount of material covered:

A. Too much (38%); B. Too little (0%); C. About right (62%); D. DNA (0%); E. Blank (0%)

25. Course workload:

A. Heavier (38%); B. Lighter (0%); C. Average (46%); D. DNA (8%); E. Blank (8%)

26. Course difficulty:

A. Difficult (31%); B. Easy (0%); C. Average (62%); D. DNA (8%); E. Blank (0%)

27. For whom was course best suited?

A. Majors (46%); B. Non-majors (0%); C. Both (54%); D. DNA (0%); E. Blank (0%)

28. One most important reason for taking this course:

A. Friend's recommendation (0%)
B. Advisor's recommendation (8%)
C. Instructor's reputation (31%)
D. It was required (0%)
E. Subject was of interest (62%)
F. Catalog description (0%)
G. Make a good grade (0%)
H. Used pass/no pass (0%)
I. Fit my schedule (0%)
J. Other (0%)
K. Blank (0%)

	% Yes	% No	% DNA	% Blank
1	83	15	0	0	Did instructor clearly state objectives?
2	85	0	15	0	Did course content agree with these objectives?
3	83	5	10	0	Did exams reflect content and objectives?
4	100	0	0	0	Was instructor well prepared?
5	55	45	0	0	Did students help to determine course's direction?
6	95	0	5	0	Was instructor able to communicate his ideas?
7	30	70	0	0	Were lectures too repetitive of texts and readings?
8	35	30	35	0	Did instructor discuss recent developments?
9	55	40	5	0	Did instructor relate course to allied fields?
10	100	0	0	0	Were students free to ask questions, etc.?
11	80	10	10	0	Have opportunity to see instructor outside of class?
12	90	10	0	0	Was instructor genuinely interested in students?
13	85	15	0	0	Could you approach instructor comfortably?
14	75	20	5	0	Did you know how you would be evaluated?
15	25	10	65	0	Were you graded fairly?
16	20	70	10	0	Were you kept informed of your standing in the course?
17	100	0	0	0	Did instructor enjoy teaching the course?
18	100	0	0	0	Did instructor convey enthusiasm for subject area?
19	95	5	0	0	Was course well organized?
20	70	25	5	0	Did course increase your interest in the subject?
21	40	45	15	0	Has course stimulated you to do extra work?
22	70	20	5	5	Would you recommend course?
23	75	25	0	0	Was class size satisfactory?

24. Amount of Material Covered:

A. Too much (0%); B. Too little (25%); C. About right (60%); D. DNA (5%); E. Blank (10%)

25. Course workload:

A. Heavier (10%); B. Lighter (15%); C. Average (75%); D. DNA (0%); E. Blank (0%)

26. Course difficulty:

A. Difficult (25%); B. Easy (20%); C. Average (45%); D. DNA (10%); E. Blank (0%)

27. For whom was course best suited?

A. Majors (5%); B. Non-majors (20%); C. Both (65%); D. DNA (10%); E. Blank (0%)

28. One most important reason for taking this course:

A. Friend's recommendation (10%)
B. Advisor's recommendation (5%)
C. Instructor's reputation (0%)
D. It was required (25%)
E. Subject was of interest (45%)
F. Catalog description (0%)
G. Make a good grade (0%)
H. Used pass/no pass (0%)
I. Fit my schedule (10%)
J. Other (0%)
K. Blank (5%)

Tenure Issue Discussed By Faculty Affairs Committee

(continued from page one)

will also be eligible for tenure provided, however, that the said researcher is also engaged in effective teaching...

FIFTH

A system of early retirement should be instituted as soon as possible preferably within the next three years, to allow those faculty members who, for whatever reason, want to end their teaching career at the University without being subjected to unreasonable reductions in future income, both before and after the normal retirement age...

SIXTH

The Administration should, at the earliest possible time consistent with thoroughness and sound planning, construct a plan of academic development for the entire University that would take into account the primary mission of the University as a teaching institution committed to academic excellence at reasonable cost to the students and without undue financial sacrifice by University personnel and the taxpayers of the State of Vermont...

SEVENTH
The Committee believes that the Academic Council of Deans should be eliminated from the decision-making process on tenure. In the case of tenure decisions the Council has no expressed the administration's similar view that a quota system would have too many drawbacks.

"Among other things," he said, "firm ceilings by college or department or program will prevent any kind of updating with new personnel in some of the most crucial professional areas. They will make it necessary for some departments to become permanently transitional, while others entertain no change at all in this generation. They are likely to encourage the appointment of some inferior personnel for the sake of maintaining turnover."

"Indeed there is a serious possibility that rigid quotas might actually discourage good performance while producing less, rather than more flexibility. Teachers who know that nothing they do can save their jobs may well become poor servants of both the University and its students as they bend their efforts toward increasing their own marketability elsewhere."

Feeling prevails in some quarters that administration review of tenured faculty members is a real powder keg of an issue. Traditional distinctions as to appropriate concern for students, teachers and administrators are definitely in the process of transition.

Earl Scruggs And Doc Watson...

(continued from page six)

performed by the Burr Brothers. Their next rendition was If I Only Come and Gone. They later did You Are My Flower by the Carter Family. The rest of the set featured songs which had been taken from relatively obscure performers. One worth mentioning is Freight Train by Elizabeth Cotton; she can be found in the Volume of American Music of the Twentieth Century. Elizabeth Cotton is a black guitarist whose songs were the inspiration of many performers after her time. Her music is simple but strong, and reveals her deep soul. The mention of her name at the concert had great meaning for some, as mention of her is surely not esoteric. Earl Scruggs played an excellent banjo, yet the spotlight of this concert was given to his sons. Gary Scruggs, the vocalist, was passable in his bass playing, but he was greatly overshadowed by his quieter, more talented, seventeen year old brother, Randy Scruggs, who was excellent in his flatpicking and backup guitar. His wrist actions were perfect for country music, and his quiet air added stature to his performance. When the spotlight was on him, it was disheartening to see him play Both Sides Now for the song was done in open E and probably could have easily been done by any half-decent amateur who knew the trick of changing... tuning. His flatpicking and combined leads were in good taste and very professional. Earl's banjo playing should have been given more light, for his skill far exceeds anyone else's in the group. John Graves played a very mediocre slide guitar (often drowned out) and Jody Cox's playing was too choppy and rocklike for this performance, although he has continuously been in the group.

All in all, the good thing about the concert was that it brought the culmination of many songs, groups and song writers of this musical world. Yet I would complain that Earl Scruggs' music is becoming too mod and that he should stick to his old guns. For a continuation along this present path would cause a change in the group venter from leather to vinyl.

WHAT KIND OF STUDENTS ENROLL IN ROTC?

SCOTT A. WHITTED '74

Political Science Major. Commander of Parshing Rifles. Four Year Scholarship winner. Distinguished Military Student and member of various Saber and Color Guard Teams. Scott decided to take ROTC for financial assistance and leadership experiences that would enhance his civilian career.

HELEN L. FOULIN '77

Member Girl's State, Student Congress VP, Model United Nations, served with American Field Service, Cheerleader, participated in several high school sports and numerous other activities. Recipient of French Award for Academic Excellence. "I became interested in ROTC and the benefits a scholarship offers. I really find the program interesting and challenging."

THEODORE P. LANDRY '76

Biological Sciences Major. Plans for Graduate School and Research. Four Year Scholarship winner. Treasurer, Parshing Rifles. "ROTC is a good stepping stone for a career, whether in the Army or not. It offers many challenging leadership experiences."

If you are interested in taking courses in Military Affairs or would like to join ROTC, visit the Dept. of Military Studies, 3rd floor, Williams Hall or call 656-2966 / 2967

by John F. Norman
Norman, Oliver committee member, Young Socialist, speak in North Lee this Friday.
"Watergate: What is the Nixon-Gavel long time activist movement, former the Black Panther recently, the Social party candidate (New York) will be of Watergate in the American politics its relation to the of the past years themes he will

Survey

The L

by Barbara F.
This semester students have come they can no longer Bailey Library be number of people And, according Kehanian, Director of Read this has been an increase in the people occupying. As of October been a 37% increase number of people library. The high last fall on a 2679 people. T over 3600 people

10% O
ACCO
WE RE

Extra
Short
Sleeved

lif
re

Verm
ski all just $7 for unli days day, F
Mad
all ski expert activity ics wit
Who River a plea
Pub fo
joyment
For or visit for Sk

Socialist To Speak On Watergate

by John Franco

Norman Oliver, national committee member of the Young Socialist Alliance, will speak in North Lounge, Billings this Friday noon, on "Watergate: What alternative to the Nixon Gang?" Oliver, a long time activist in the Black movement, former member of the Black Panther Party, and recently, the Socialist Workers Party candidate for Mayor of New York, will assess the role of Watergate in the future of American politics, particularly its relation to the radicalization of the past years. Among the themes he will discuss are Watergate and the political system, the 1970 spy plan and the left, and the possible future alternatives to further Watergate—liberalism, cynicism, or independent action.

Oliver will also discuss the lawsuit filed by the Socialist Workers Party and Young Socialist Alliance against the Nixon administration for its acts of governmental harassment, spying, illegal break-ins, mail surveillance, wiretaps, infiltration, and arson against them. Counsel for the suit is Leonard Boudin, former legal counsel to Daniel Ellsberg and a nationally respected constitutional lawyer. The lawsuit against the Nixon administration has won wide support among activists such as Noam Chomsky, Howard Zinn, Daniel Ellsberg, Gloria Steinem, and Dr. Benjamin Spock. Oliver will also be speaking on behalf of the Political Rights Defense Fund, an organization which is publicizing the issues involved in the Socialist suit, and which is helping raise funds for that legal effort.

Oliver's appearance is sponsored by the Young Socialists of UVM and is open to the public free of charge.

Professor Spinner Spends Year In Guyana

by Dawn McGinnis

History professor Thomas Spinner, his wife, and two children spent the academic year 1972-73 in Guyana, South America, where he served as a Visiting Fulbright Lecturer at the University of Guyana in Georgetown. Guyana is the only English speaking country in South America, so Professor Spinner had no problems when he taught World Civilizations and European History since Napoleon at the University.

This was not the first time the Spinners had travelled outside the US. They have been to Mexico and Europe, and on a sabbatical in 1969-70 they made a complete tour of South America.

Several aspects of the country which interested Professor Spinner concerned the problems confronting the Guyanese. The population is 51% East Indian, 43% Black, and only 2% White. Both the East Indians and Blacks were brought into the country many years ago to work on the rice crops and in the bauxite mines.

There are great cultural differences between the two ruling ethnic groups and the differences divide them politically. Presently, the president is Chinese, but he has little power because the ruling system is parliamentarian (until 1966 Guyana was under British rule). The Prime Minister is Black, and the East Indians are complaining that the government is too pro-Negro. Professor Spinner notes that "the situation is very volatile and could explode." Strangely enough, he said, these political problems aren't carried into the classroom. All the students got along well together and asked Professor Spinner to tell them more about their homelands.

Other problems in Guyana include a high rate of unemployment (as high as 25% in Georgetown), malnutrition, poverty, and overcrowded public schools. It takes two Guyana dollars to make one US dollar. The prices of imported products are outrageous, as the Spinners soon found out. They paid $28 for a toy for their son which costs about $10 here in the states.

What was it like for the Spinners, who are white, to live in a country where they were in a distinct racial ethnic minority?

Spinner said everyone was extremely warm, pleasant, and kind to them, and they never had any feeling of being different. He said nobody feels troubled or threatened by the whites because there are relatively so few of them.

There is some resentment toward the British, he added, but that probably stems from their occupation of the country before it achieved independence.

Many American scholars who go to foreign countries are approached by the CIA, but Spinner said this did not happen to him. In fact, he was surprised the government sent him at all since he is a social democrat and has criticized the US extensively, leading protests against the Vietnam War on campus.

According to Spinner, the US role in Guyana has been primarily to help the Guyanese with their rice crop and improve living conditions. The purposes behind US policy are humanitarian—to help poor people, and political—to run the appeal of the Marxists. Spinner thinks the US programs should be applauded, but more of the aid should be channeled through the UN. Guyana accepts aid from Russia and China, as well as the US.

What was it like to come back to the US after being away for a year? The Spinners returned unhappy that McGovern lost. They voted by absentee ballot. They were interested in the Watergate scandal, which the Guyanese newspapers played up, because they found it highly amusing.

The Spinners lived in a Dutch style house on stilts (both because of the flooding in the rainy season and the heat) across the street from the Embassy of the People's Republic of China. The American Embassy was six doors down the street. Their house had no screens on the windows, and the mosquitos were quite a problem at times. The house had no hot water and sometimes no water at all.

They had problems with food too. The local beef was tough, the fish tasted bad, but the chicken was satisfactory and became a frequent staple. Potatoes and onions had to be imported, a process taking months only to find they were rotten. Bananas, pineapples, and oranges were part of a variety of delicious fruits. The Spinners had bananas for the picking in their yard. Local rice, beer, and rum were added treats.

It is very humid in Guyana and the temperature reaches 90 degrees each day. The mosquitos caused some discomfort to the Spinners, but it was better where they lived than it was in other parts of the town. They sprayed their bedrooms every other day and burned coils every night. Georgetown also has roaches and mice. While Professor Spinner was teaching at the University he researched the political activities of the country extensively. He hopes to write some magazine articles and ultimately a book on the subject. He and his family "enjoyed themselves immensely" and once they adjusted to the differences in the way of life they had no problems. They would like to return to Guyana some day soon.

SAGA Informs IRA Of Earlier Closing Of Dining Halls

INTER RESIDENCE ASSOCIATION meeting was called to order at 7:15 by Mary Ashcroft in Harris Mills. Dr. Miser was present. Ms. Ashcroft announced that petitions for Board of Trustee and Governor's Committee on higher education can be picked up by those interested in Billings. All students may store their bikes in Harris Mills Nov. 15, 16 from 11:00 to 5:00. The Hot Line Committee is working on a card with telephone no.'s for different information centers on campus.

Fred Smith (new head of SAGA) talked about changes SAGA would make for the energy crisis. Dining halls will close at 9:00 for breakfast instead of 10:00 and the lights won't be used all the time. His extension is 2660 for anyone with questions.

Dr. Miser announced the residence halls will be open over Thanksgiving but the doors will be locked at 12:00 every night. A motion to make a ceiling of $750 to be spent for a Sadie Hawkins dance, December 7th was tabled for next week. All the work and planning will be done by girls working on a project. Wilks is having a Christmas Bazaar, December 8th and needed money for publicity, security, etc. A motion of $125 was made and tabled for next week. A new motion for $100 to WDW to fix the pool table was made.

The understanding is that they pay anything over $100. There being no further business the meeting was adjourned at 8:15.

Survey Underway: Overpopulation In The Library Nonconductive To Study

by Barbara Frankel

This semester, many students have complained that they can no longer study in Bailey Library because of the number of people present. And, according to Paul Sebastian, Director of Libraries and Milton Krouch, Assistant Director of Reader Services, there has been an enormous increase in the number of people occupying the library.

As of October 12, there has been a 37% increase in the number of persons in the library. The highest number last fall on a given day was 2679 people. This semester over 3400 persons have been present on a given day. In order to alleviate the situation, Sebastian and Krouch have instituted a security officer who will check I.D. cards. If the person is not a UVM student he/she will be asked to fill out a form. Sebastian and Krouch hope to find out what percentage of those using the library are non-UVM students. If it is a high percentage, they may be forced to restrict the number of hours that non-UVM students, faculty and staff can use the library facilities.

"We're not eager to do this, but for the sake of our own students," they commented. They further suggested the use of more dining halls for evening study.

Officials at Bailey Library feel that the problems they are facing must be solved primarily by the students who "must exercise more consideration and self-control." A new library council committee has been formed, headed by Professor Sam Bogard of the English department. There will be student representatives on this committee.

Grab and Go
WINTER TREADS
from E & E Tire
"VT.'S FINEST RETREADS"
We manufacture our own retreads right on the property. You save because there are no middlemen.

10% OFF ON ALL RETREADS
ACCOMPANIED BY THIS AD

WE RETREAD YOUR CASINGS

E & E Tire

The $70 lift ticket returns.

Vermont's residents and students can ski all season long at Mad River Glen for just $70.00. This special pass is good for unlimited skiing, day and night, week-days except Dec. 28-Jan. 1 and Monday, Feb. 18.

Mad River Glen's 25 trails challenge all skiers—from beginners to advanced experts. There's a season full of skiing activity... weekly races... special clinics with Dixi Nohl's ski school.

When you're not actually skiing, Mad River Glen has everything you need... a pleasing cafeteria and General Stark's Pub for hearty meals and apres ski enjoyment.

For your $70.00 lift ticket, call, write, or visit Mad River Glen... The Ski Area for Skiers.

MAD RIVER GLEN

Whitfield, Vermont 802-496-3555

Bass 1305 Williston Road South Burlington Bass

OPEN: 9:30 AM to 9:00 PM

Bass Shoe Factory Outlet

Where you can save up to 50% on quality footwear

Men's and Women's Hiking Boots $19.95

For hiking or climbing or just plain street walking, this general-purpose hiker may be for you. Dark brown high quality suede uppers, padded elasticized scree guard, reinforced back stay, hand pull tab, heavy duty lug type soles and heels. All popular sizes.

Men's and Women's Hiking Boots $33.95

A top quality hiking boot for the week-end or seasoned hiker, high quality cowhide uppers, full leather lining, padded elasticized scree guard, bellows style closure, speed laces with crush back lacing, Vibram® soles and heels. The color is brown.

Men's and Women's Hiking Boots $37.95

A lightweight durable hiking boot for men and women, full grain leather cowhide uppers, full leather lining, soft padded elasticized scree guard, reinforced backstay, double stitched Goodyear welt, Vibram® soles and heels. The color is natural. All popular sizes.

Bass SATISFACTION GUARANTEED YOUR MONEY BACK Bass

DOWNHILL SKI PACKAGE

HEAD GK-03 120.00

MARKER BINDINGS 45.00

$165.00

PACKAGE FOR $114.95

CROSS COUNTRY SKI TUNE-UP

THIS WEEK

$4.95

INTRODUCTORY OFFER

- Remove all wax, wax and tar from skis
- Sand bottoms smooth
- Pin wax bottom
- Burning tar deep into pores
- Binding check

CROSS COUNTRY SKI PACKAGE

NORGE SKIS WITH LIGNOSTONE 44.00

TRYSIL KNUTE BOOTS 34.00

POLES 8.50

TROLL 3-PIN BINDING 8.00

DELUXE WAX KIT 7.75

MOUNTING 3.00

$105.25

PACKAGE FOR $74.95

Swiss Chalet

40 Pearl St., Essex Jct.

Open Daily 9 A.M.-9 P.M.

Doc Watson...

professional. Earl's banjo playing should have been given more light for his skill far exceeds anyone else's in the group. John Graves played a very mediocre slide guitar (often drowned out) and today Cox's playing was too choppy and rocklike for this performance, although he has continuously been in the group.

All in all, the good thing about the concert was that it brought the culmination of many songs, groups and song writers of this musical world. Yet I would complain that Earl Scruggs' music is becoming too mod and that he should stick to his old-timey. For a continuation along this present path would cause a change in the group venter from leather to vinyl.

Graduate School and winner. Treasurer, stepping stone for a lot. It offers many

OTC,

67

THE GOOD TIMES

Student Opinions On Philosophy Four...

(continued from page one)

Susan Ainsworth '76 206 Tupper
"Now both sides are trumping it up. UVM is fairly unique in having a philosophy department that stresses a humanistic approach to the subject. It would be sad if it were lost through usual university politics. I hope people in a position of responsibility in this matter keep the best interest of the University in mind."

Jeff Dames - Richmond Dr. Shelburne
"It all boils down to students having more voice in university policy. Then again, who is in a position to judge? If the student comes out of the course with an understanding of what is being taught, then the professor is successful. It's imperative to have diversity of views and courses. The department must be diversified. That's what the university is all about, is it not?"

Jeff Dames

Ginny Atkinson '77 307 Tupper
The Cynic is one-sided, they show no good aspects about Cahn."

Craig Myotte '76 324 Mills
"Hub? Is Philosophy Four a course?"

Jamie Stokiem

No Recycling Of Bottles

(continued from page one)

He also said that there was no justification for some stores requiring a cap on a bottle for return of the 5-cent deposit.

The redemption center for cans in the machines on campus is behind the Agricultural Engineering building. These cans are not reused. Ideally, the machines should be switched to 12-oz. reusable bottles; unfortunately, no one makes them. There is a reusable 7-oz. bottle on the market, however, and VPIRG hopes to meet with University officials to discuss the possibility of replacing the cans with bottles (at a reduced cost, since the bottle would be smaller).

In January when the legislature reconvenes, administration officials hope to introduce some modifying provisions to the bill. A bill has been filed banning "pop-tops," which would increase the pressure to remove canned beverages from the market. Other measures contemplated include the reduction of the amount of deposit to two cents if refills are widely used; this would hopefully provide an incentive to the manufacturers to introduce the scholarship, creative activity, research, institutional and of just case lots or bar bottles. Another helpful item would be to set up central redemption centers, which would take a lot of the burden off the small retailers who are the biggest hit by the bottle ban. To win their support would be to undercut a large portion of the opposition to the bottle ban.

WHO CARES IF THE HEAT'S OFF

KEEP WARM IN OUR

Western Shirts of cotton flannel & Baseball "Fun" Flannels in all sizes

LANDLUBBER Boot Jeans & New Belted Back Corduroys...

Down Filled Parkas

Shirred Back Navy Blue Melton Zippered Pea Jacket $35.00

top it off with Moriarty Tuques or Newsboy Caps...

It's only the beginning at

Connection

Petitions Available For Student Representatives

There will be a general election on November 27 and 28 to elect eight student representatives to the Board of Trustees. The Board of Trustees meets bi-monthly or when necessary. Students on the committees are responsible for determining student positions and opinions on issues and conveying these positions to the committees. In addition to a student chairperson, there are seven committees.

The committees are: Buildings and Grounds, Development, Election Policy, Finance and Budget, Investment, Student Activities, and University Governance.

At the same time, four representatives will be elected to the Governor's Commission on Student Affairs. The Governor's Commission has the responsibility of acting as the voice for students within state government. The Commission meets monthly at different colleges and universities around the state.

Petitions will be available at the S. A. Office during the week and at Billings Main Desk during the weekend.

Petitions must be returned to the S. A. Office by 3:00 pm, November 20. Voting will take place at Waterman, Billings, and Simpson Dining Hall, November 27 and 28, from 9:00 am to 6:30 pm. For more information call the S. A. Office at Ext 2053.

A large turnout for this election may show the Board of Trustees and the Governor's Commission that students at UVM are not apathetic as they may believe.

Letter From Andrews About Philosophy Four

The following is quoted in a letter President Andrews wrote to Leonard Rose, Acting Chairman of the Governor's Commission on Student Affairs, in response to that man's query about the Philosophy Four case.

We are seeking to establish fair, precise criteria for this would hopefully provide academic personnel decisions an incentive to the manufacturers to introduce the scholarship, creative activity, research, institutional and of just case lots or bar bottles. Another helpful item would be to set up central redemption centers, which would take a lot of the burden off the small retailers who are the biggest hit by the bottle ban. To win their support would be to undercut a large portion of the opposition to the bottle ban.

confirmed in writing on March 22 as follows:

"Put simply, I believe that student judgments should be taken into account as decisions on tenure are taken, and I want to make it clear that they are welcome."

I do not feel that students should have voting responsibility in this process. I agree that mistakes are sometimes made in granting or not granting tenure, and am convinced that responsibility for these as well as for making the right decisions must rest with juries of one's peers, taking into account all that is relevant in each case.

"I know that some tenure decisions here in past years have had the benefit of student input, and I know that student views were considered in the two cases you mentioned. I will not use our correspondence to engage in a debate on past decisions. I do recognize, however, that student advice has been received and used only informally in the past and would be happy to have any suggestions that the Student Association might have for improving the process. I believe that our goals—the betterment of education at UVM—are mutual and that we can work together on the means."

The February 10 meeting with SA Executive followed, by a few days, passage by the SA Senate of a resolution calling for a committee "investigation" and tenure cases at the request of faculty members. As a consequence of the meeting and of my subsequent letter, a proposal for the structured student participation in academic personnel decisions at the Departmental level and for advisory input at the College level was drawn up, as representative of the SA

Executive's views. It was intended to be the basis for discussion with students, administrators, and faculty and a copy was given to me but there was no follow-up. In retrospect, I probably should have stimulated ongoing dialogue on the proposal at that time.

The question again came up in 1972 in the form of a memorandum from the then President of the Student Association, Mr. William Sisco, to the Vice-President for Academic Affairs, Dr. Rollins, replied as follows:

"We are always glad to have statements of student opinion about matters of University policy and most especially to discuss directly with the Student Association any policy issue of interest to the Association."

"I do believe that the most productive place for the student participation in the making of University personnel decisions is at the departmental level where the specific opinion and information of students who have direct contact with the individual's teaching can be made available in an effective manner. I would be delighted if the Student Association would take the lead in talking with Deans and Department Chairmen about improving such opportunities. I believe that in a number of departments students are participating in a productive way and I hope this can become true in every department in the University."

Again I am not aware of follow-up—and as a consequence I have reached the conclusion that we should, at the administrative level, try to establish formal institutional policy for student input in academic performance reviews rather than depend on the generation of momentum at the student/faculty level for the development of the concept. We intend to draft such a policy, for discussion in the near future. It would, if adopted, take effect with the 1974 performance reviews.

This is where we stand at the moment. Thank you again for your interest. If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to ask.

Sincerely,
Edward C. Andrews
President

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER

Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction

This man was once a humble pinsetter in a cove town bowling alley.

Discover yourself, you beauty, in a portrait by SANDERS H. MILENS Call for appointment 862-3350

REILLY TIRE COMPANY FROM RECAPS TO RADIALS WE HAVE IT

Prices Starting At $16.60 for a 6.50/13 Blackwall (plus federal excise tax $1.86)

Inverno etna

PIRELLI

A remarkable snow tire. Its distinctive tread bites into mud, slush, soft or crusted snow. Flanged sidewalls pack snow into a firm supporting track to prevent lateral sliding. Stop on the accelerator, change gear, take a curve or hit the brakes—Pirelli Inverno grip... and hold.

Mohawk Storm Trac

4 ply nylon - 78 series
• Exclusive Zero-Flex tread—remains soft at below-zero temperatures.
• Dual white sidewalls
• Tough, deep tread
• Pinned—ready for stud application

ACCOMPANIED BY A COPY OF THIS AD Install and Balance Your Snowtires—$5.00

ACCESSIBLE TO UVM 31 San Remo Drive So. Burlington

(Behind Burlington Rent-All)

CROSSWORD

- ACROSS
1. Wordhouse
2. Seven points
3. Episodes
4. Well-known
5. Girl's name
6. Play out
7. Admiral in Toulon
8. Borneo which concerns wildflowers
9. Ship used by corsairs
10. Unwired
11. Egyptian goddess of fertility
12. Fable (Lat.)
13. Vague
14. Play
15. Total
16. New Latin lab.
17. Father close behind (Lat.)
18. Symbol
19. City in Southern Germany
20. Woodpecker
21. That's a
22. Uncommon that
23. A door to not a door when it is
41. Things known or assumed
42. A month
43. Means
44. Of a deity's pale complexion
45. British counties
46. Intrigue
47. Face's counterpart
48. no
49. Strange skin disease
50. Rejoice
51. Pardon
52. Pitcher

CLASSIFIED

Attic sale Willard, hours 10-6 Sat., 12-4

Dark brown 12 Norwegian perfect condition $70, now $25, blue flying j with fur, good $35 - call 863-3144.

Side are 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. afternoon, No. Sue W., x4250.

Female new small house Burlington - fireplace, lawn, evenings.

Want two share house. Fireplace, etc. util., Avil. 863-2822.

FOR SALE bus/camper condition - $450, or $450.75. As leave name or

SKI BO SALE: Lane with Spotter, excellent condition. $1,000. Negotiable. 2198.

SERVICES Fraternity of meal per week experienced and ordering Phil Epsilon.

FOR SALE '71 - sunroof, tape deck, airport, excellent condition to be called 864-767.

Lost. Lk field wallet or 'Livi' belongs to please return. Thanks.

Discusses Energy, Nixon, Oil...

Advocating third and focusing on Washington and the state capitals were Nader's suggestions as an immediate response to the energy crisis.

Solar Solutions
"The oil industry has never gained title to the sun," Nader laughed. Solar energy was his solution to pollution as well as the energy crisis. Nader said that the sun is a clean and inexhaustible source of energy. He also stated that nuclear fusion was safer than nuclear fission and should not be ruled out as a positive form of energy.

Civic Action
"People have delegated wholesale their rights to government and corporations; they have relinquished responsibility to the government," Nader considered this abominable.

The new "ethic of civic action" should involve projects to overcome student boredom, Nader suggested. "These are not just bandaid measures," he insisted. He said that they can help bridge the gap between town and gown.

According to the consumer advocate, democracy can be revitalized if only 10 to 15,000 people will make concrete their hobby instead of television.

Quality of Life
"More and more things are not buying more and more happiness," Nader analyzed. The qualitative fabric of the economy and the hideous consequences of pollution are matters of immediate concern.

"If you can't solve the problems here in Vermont, it's not likely you can solve them outside of Vermont," he concluded.

Why Four

It was if the Student Association would take the lead in talking with Deans and Department Chairmen about improving such opportunities. I believe that in a number of departments students are participating in a productive way and I hope this can become true in every department in the University.

Again I am not aware of the follow-up and as a consequence I have reached the conclusion that we should, at the administrative level, try to establish formal institutional policy for student input in academic performance reviews rather than depend on the generation of momentum at the student/faculty level for the development of the concept. We intend to draft such a policy for discussion by the University community in the near future. It would, if adopted, take effect with the 1974 performance reviews.

This is where we stand at the moment. Thank you again for your interest. If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to ask.

Sincerely,
Edward C. Andrews
President

COMPANY
NO RADIALS
IT

Mohawk Storm Trac

• 4 ply nylon - 78 series
• Exclusive Zero-Flex tread - remains soft at below-zero temperatures.
• Dual white sidewalls
• Tough, deep tread
• Padded - ready for steel application

POSSIBLE TO UVM
an Remo Drive
Burlington

behind Burlington Rent-A-Car

Photo: Greg Sobbin

crossword puzzle

Answer to Puzzle No. 112

ACROSS

1. Waffle
2. Seven points
3. Sulfur
4. Waffle
5. Girl's name
6. They eat
7. Aerial in
8. Aerial in
9. Aerial in
10. Aerial in
11. Aerial in
12. Aerial in
13. Aerial in
14. Aerial in
15. Aerial in
16. Aerial in
17. Aerial in
18. Aerial in
19. Aerial in
20. Aerial in
21. Aerial in
22. Aerial in
23. Aerial in
24. Aerial in
25. Aerial in
26. Aerial in
27. Aerial in
28. Aerial in
29. Aerial in
30. Aerial in
31. Aerial in
32. Aerial in
33. Aerial in
34. Aerial in
35. Aerial in
36. Aerial in
37. Aerial in
38. Aerial in
39. Aerial in
40. Aerial in
41. Aerial in
42. Aerial in
43. Aerial in
44. Aerial in
45. Aerial in
46. Aerial in
47. Aerial in
48. Aerial in
49. Aerial in
50. Aerial in
51. Aerial in
52. Aerial in
53. Aerial in
54. Aerial in
55. Aerial in
56. Aerial in
57. Aerial in
58. Aerial in
59. Aerial in
60. Aerial in
61. Aerial in
62. Aerial in
63. Aerial in
64. Aerial in
65. Aerial in
66. Aerial in
67. Aerial in
68. Aerial in
69. Aerial in
70. Aerial in
71. Aerial in
72. Aerial in
73. Aerial in
74. Aerial in
75. Aerial in
76. Aerial in
77. Aerial in
78. Aerial in
79. Aerial in
80. Aerial in
81. Aerial in
82. Aerial in
83. Aerial in
84. Aerial in
85. Aerial in
86. Aerial in
87. Aerial in
88. Aerial in
89. Aerial in
90. Aerial in
91. Aerial in
92. Aerial in
93. Aerial in
94. Aerial in
95. Aerial in
96. Aerial in
97. Aerial in
98. Aerial in
99. Aerial in
100. Aerial in

DOWN

1. Waffle
2. Seven points
3. Sulfur
4. Waffle
5. Girl's name
6. They eat
7. Aerial in
8. Aerial in
9. Aerial in
10. Aerial in
11. Aerial in
12. Aerial in
13. Aerial in
14. Aerial in
15. Aerial in
16. Aerial in
17. Aerial in
18. Aerial in
19. Aerial in
20. Aerial in
21. Aerial in
22. Aerial in
23. Aerial in
24. Aerial in
25. Aerial in
26. Aerial in
27. Aerial in
28. Aerial in
29. Aerial in
30. Aerial in
31. Aerial in
32. Aerial in
33. Aerial in
34. Aerial in
35. Aerial in
36. Aerial in
37. Aerial in
38. Aerial in
39. Aerial in
40. Aerial in
41. Aerial in
42. Aerial in
43. Aerial in
44. Aerial in
45. Aerial in
46. Aerial in
47. Aerial in
48. Aerial in
49. Aerial in
50. Aerial in
51. Aerial in
52. Aerial in
53. Aerial in
54. Aerial in
55. Aerial in
56. Aerial in
57. Aerial in
58. Aerial in
59. Aerial in
60. Aerial in
61. Aerial in
62. Aerial in
63. Aerial in
64. Aerial in
65. Aerial in
66. Aerial in
67. Aerial in
68. Aerial in
69. Aerial in
70. Aerial in
71. Aerial in
72. Aerial in
73. Aerial in
74. Aerial in
75. Aerial in
76. Aerial in
77. Aerial in
78. Aerial in
79. Aerial in
80. Aerial in
81. Aerial in
82. Aerial in
83. Aerial in
84. Aerial in
85. Aerial in
86. Aerial in
87. Aerial in
88. Aerial in
89. Aerial in
90. Aerial in
91. Aerial in
92. Aerial in
93. Aerial in
94. Aerial in
95. Aerial in
96. Aerial in
97. Aerial in
98. Aerial in
99. Aerial in
100. Aerial in

SPEAKING OF HOCKEY

by Bob Wilenski

The UVM varsity defeated the freshmen last Saturday night 9-2 in front of a small crowd at Guttercup. Eric Tipton had a hat trick for the varsity and Michel Le Beau scored both goals for the freshmen.

An exciting game it wasn't but the contest proved that the Cats will have very good depth this season. LeBeau had an excellent performance and put on a dazzling display of his skating ability. He skates very smoothly and can reach top acceleration in about two strides. Varsity goalie John Kury can testify to the velocity of his shot. LeBeau's second goal was a slapper that Kury said he could hardly see. He'll be the best freshman to watch this season.

After a nervous start freshmen goalie Tom McNamara steered down and displayed quick reflexes in keeping many "sure" goals from crossing the goal line. With a little more experience he is going to be quite a nuisance to the competition.

Captain Ted Castle felt that the freshmen played well, and attributed much of the sloppy play at times to the fact that all the players whether they be freshmen or varsity use the same system of play. "It's very hard to surprise your opponent when he knows what you're going to do," Castle said. Ted had two goals in the game.

There was an unfortunate injury in the game. Senior center Willie MacKinnon suffered a shoulder separation when he hit the boards in the second period. No one really knows when Willie can come back but he'll probably miss the first few games of the season. It's a heartbreaking loss for the Cats. MacKinnon is a skillful player who always gives 110% on the ice. The Cats will miss his excellent stickhandling and tenacious forechecking, but as they say, the show must go on. But Willie will be back in a few weeks. I'm sure. You can't keep a good man down.

Ski News

Thursday, Nov. 15th, 8:00 p.m., Wright Dining Hall, there will be an organizational meeting for the UVM Trip Out West. All of those interested must attend or have a friend represent you. They need 40 people from UVM to make this trip happen. If you cannot attend call Paul Kenny (Davis) 2517 or Rob Kornfeld (L/L) to inform them of your interest.

Thursday, Nov. 29th 7:00 p.m., Wright Dining Hall, there will be a meeting of all of those students interested in participating in the UVM Ski Club. Discussion will be membership, deals at area and shops, transportation to areas, and ideas for activities of members.

The weekend of Nov. 3rd was very much a skiing experience. The Warren Miller production, Skiing's Great, was attended by some 450 ski enthusiasts. Many were held spell-bound by the slow motion ballet that only a master like Warren Miller can capture. The applause was warm and loud after this 90 minutes of skiing excitement.

The next day, Saturday, found a great deal of activity at Wright Dining Hall. The UVM Ski Club was up early moving tables and chairs and making space for the arrival of the displays from area shops and mountains. After walking through the complete show most of the people, approximately 1500, were smiling and bubbling with excitement in anticipation of the coming season. All in all, the weekend, as it was billed, was more skiing in 24 hours, without snow, found in Vermont. A great success and those who worked on it should be proud.

Cats Impressive In Preseason Game...

(continued from page fourteen)

Macias did not shoot well, and he and Barry Cohen were forced into turnovers when Loyola double-teamed the ball at center court. Some of their passes did not hit the mark. Defensively there was a need to talk it up a little more and to help each other out. The Loyola team was not particularly good shooters and if they were hot from the field it may have been a different story. Then again Vermont did play very well and controlled the action. They forced Loyola into numerous errors, shot well, and showed defensive potential.

This preseason game showed the Cats have the talent to be very competitive this season. The final tally was impressive, but the importance of the game was not in winning or losing. The players had the chance to play under game conditions. It gave the freshmen a chance to test out their talents and everyone got a lot of playing time. The talent this year is deeper than in the past and should give the opposition a good battle. The battle starts for real in two weeks at Maine on November 30. The home opener once again, is December 5 against New Hampshire.

Harriers Perform Well In Conference Meet

by David J. Haveri

The Vermont cross-country team with a record of 9-4 this season, performed well in the annual Yankee Conference Meet held in Durham, New Hampshire on October 27. The Catamounts placed third out of the seven schools behind the powerful UMass and UConn. The five men to complete the scoring were Stan Dunklee 11th place, Bob Graves 16th, Mike Berry 18th, Peter Weith 20th, and Dave Milligan 24th place.

On Monday, November 5 at Boston's Franklin Park, the UVM Squad once again demonstrated their excellent running in the New England cross-country championships. The Harriers finished 13th out of thirty schools without the aid of Stan Dunklee, as he was unable to attend. First for UVM was Mike Berry who placed 37th out of a field of two hundred and eighty-nine runners. As expected, the unbeaten University of Massachusetts won the meet.

Indoor Track Meeting

There will be an indoor track and field meeting on Thursday, November 15 at 4:00 in Room 117 Patrick Gym. If you are unable to attend contact Coach Bill Nedde or Ed Kusik.

HARRIS Soccer team defeated LIVING LEARNING "C" CHAMPIONSHIP.

HARRIS ROSTER - Benavides, Augusto; Leverich, Robert; Towle, Andrew; McDonald, Jeff; Sueoka, Ben; Tashash, Norman; Miller, Todd; Edman, Carl; Austin, Steve; Latchis, Spero.
LIVING LEARNING "C" ROSTER - Eardensohn, Paul; Parker, Jeff; Meconi, Kevin; Pafunda, Daniel; Libby, Steve; Barnard, Tom; Walker, Mark; Schoch, Richard; Folkman, Paul; Lauenstein, Kurt.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURAL RACQUETBALL (S) TOURNAMENT WINNER:

Karen Bednarski (INDEP) defeated Laurie Peltier (INDEP) 21-18, 21-8.

Contentment Farm
Riding Stable, Open Year Around - Trail Riding - Instructions - Hay & Sleigh Rides - Tack Shop - Shoeing - Sales - Boarding - Reasonable Rates - Indoor Arena. South Hero 372-4087.

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics $2.75 per page
Send for your up-to-date, 160-page, mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage (delivery time is 1 to 2 days).
RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2
LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold for research assistance on.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Attic sale 16 South Willard, hours 9-9 Friday, 10-6 Sat., 12-4 Sunday.

Dark brown ladies size 12 Norwegian Ski parka - perfect condition - was $70, now $25; also man's blue flying jacket, hood with fur, good condition $35 - call 862-5164 or 863-3144.

Ride available to Boston Monday afternoon, Nov. 19. Call Sue W. x4258.

Female needed to share small house in South Burlington - own room, fireplace, land. 862-6288 evenings.

Want two persons to share house. Single rms. Fireplace, etc. $68/mo + util. Avail. Dec. 1 - 863-2522.

FOR SALE: 1966 VW bus/camper - good condition - rebuilt engine - $450. or best offer - 863-9257. Ask for Pius or leave name and number.

SKI BOOTS FOR SALE: Lange Competition with Spoiler, 2 years old, excellent condition, Size 8 medium. Price: Negotiable. Call Don, Ex. 2198.

SERVICES WANTED: Fraternity cook for 11 meal per week for 25 guys; experienced in cooking and ordering. Call Sigma Phi Epsilon, 863-9881.

FOR SALE: BMW, 1969 71 - sunroof, FM radio, tape deck, tinted glass, sunroof, snow tires, excellent on gas - must be seen to be appreciated. Call 864-7871.

Lost. Light brown 3 fold wallet. Either in gym or Living/Learning Building - Tim Miller. Please return to 419 Davis. Thanks.

ski colorado

$209*

UNIV. OF VERMONT

SKIS VAIL

JANUARY 5 - JANUARY 12

Round trip jet charter via TWA 707 with bus transfers to hotel

7 Days - 7 Nights lodging

Talisman Lodge

Saunas - Heated Pool

Free Continental Breakfast

Located in heart of Ski Village

Lodge within 3 minute walk to lifts.

IF INTERESTED CONTACT:

Paul Kenny
425 Davis Hall
Ext. 2517

or Robert Kornfeld
D334 L/L
Ext. 4263

DEADLINE: DECEMBER 5TH

SKI CLOTHING and SKI EQUIPMENT SALE

SKI CLOTHING:
Ski Parkas, assorted styles	40% off
Windshirts, good selection	30% off
Ski Sweaters, men's and ladies	20% off
After Ski Boots, 20 styles	$5 up
Warm Up Pants	Reg. $30 NOW ONLY $10
SKIS
Rossignol 520	Reg. 165.00 SALE 119.00
Hart Competition	175.00 125.00
Head 606	165.00 82.50
Head 720	185.00 92.50
Fischer Alpine Deluxe	35.00 17.50
Fischer Alu	150.00 95.00
Kneissel Super Star	295.00 175.00
K2 One	120.00 96.00
K2 Two	135.00 108.00
K2 Three	160.00 128.00
K2 Four Competition	185.00 148.00
Yamaha A2 I	85.00 68.00
Yamaha AR II	104.00 79.00
Yamaha Floater	158.00 79.00
Volk Derby	35.00 17.50
Volk EPV 200	95.00 47.50
Volk Portillo S	120.00 60.00
SKI BOOTS:
Lange STD '72	Reg. 95.00 SALE 29.00
Lange Pro '72	145.00 69.00
Lange Comp '72	175.00 75.00
Nordica Jr.	35.00 25.00
Nordica Velox	65.00 39.00
Nordica Lady Astrol	100.00 49.00
Reiker L22	22.00 15.00
Reiker Jr.	37.00 19.00
Reiker K500	50.00 29.00
Humonic #526	75.00 59.00
Koflach Racer	45.00 29.00
Koflach Blue Star	65.00 49.00
Technus Lady	170.00 99.00
Technus Plus	170.00 99.00
Technus Racing	190.00 120.00
Lange Swinger	120.00 75.00
Lange Pro	150.00 90.00
Lange Comp	180.00 135.00
SKI BINDINGS:
All Marker Bindings	20% off

ALPINE SHOP

Williston Road, So. Burlington
OPEN DAILY 9 A.M. TO 9 P.M.

VERMONT CYNIC

VOLUME XXI

NOVEMBER 29, 1973

NUMBER 25

Council Flooded With Complaints Over Ostentatious New Sign

by Kathy Stasani

The Non-Academic Employees Council has recently been flooded with the complaints of many students of faculty who have expressed concern over the recently placed, rather ostentatious sign in front of the Student Building. People have complained that in light of the energy crisis it seems a policy on the part of the university to have a lighted sign. However, members of the council refuted these criticisms saying that the University's sign is for the benefit of strangers who are unfamiliar with the campus. Furthermore, members of the Buildings and Grounds Committee cited incidences of mistreatment of the sign as a result of stoning, parking, and even stealing. This report evoked a reaction of considerable displeasure during the meeting. The maintenance department is anxious to emphasize the expense of the sign and is making a plea to students and community members to refrain from stealing them.

Other important issues of the meeting centered around retirement and pension plans for non-academic employees. Numerous employees are forced to retire within a week or two after their 65th birthday. It is hoped that the policy will be changed to allow employees to work at least until the end of the fiscal year. There was also a motion to allow employees to be rehired after the age of 65. This suggestion prompted heated debate since faculty members do have the privilege of working after age 65. Some non-academic employees thought they were being discriminated against. However, it was argued that faculty are too highly specialized to be automatically discharged upon reaching their 65th birthday. Though it was not felt that the two groups, the academic and the non-academic, should be judged on the same basis, the discussion was resolved as committee members agreed that aging non-academic employees do deserve special consideration.

Discussion about retirement continued actively as three new proposals for a new pension plan were introduced. Since this was such a controversial subject, the parliamentary rules were temporarily suspended and open discussion was encouraged. There will be another special meeting on November 28. At the present time a retirement plan is not mandatory for all University employees. Each of the three alternative proposals will make a pension plan mandatory. They differ in that each suggests a different ratio of employee to University contributions to benefits after retirement. There was overwhelming support in favor of the third proposal. This proposal was so popular largely because it states the following in the fifth section of the second clause: "At the beginning of the sixth year of employment the University completely funds the employee's pension plan." It is doubtful that this third plan will be approved as it places a staggering burden on the University.

The council did not neglect to discuss the currently pressing issue of UVM's conservation policy. Mr. Ray Lavigne, executive assistant to Dr. Wayne Patterson informed the council of the recently effected energy conservation measures. NAEC chairperson, Bill Ballard, assured Lavigne that the council will make every effort to advance the University's energy-saving goals.

UVM Students Greatly Disillusioned With President Nixon's Leadership

Compiled by Andy Morse

What do you feel should be done about President Nixon?

Barbour, Box 333, Richmond.

"Nixon should be impeached soon. I don't feel the country would be any worse off. We need a boost, a change quickly, especially on environmental issues. Nixon is being ruled by large corporations. He's a puppet to their wants and needs."

Sarah Hutchinson, Burgess.

"Up until recently I've thought that over all impeachment was a bad idea because of the adverse effect on foreign and domestic policy it would have. But now the tides have changed. Nixon is back against the wall and is climbing it now. For his sake and our own he should be taken out of office."

Lisa Fraser, 415 Wright.

"The way he's going he should be impeached and convicted. But he shouldn't resign for this would clear the air or restore the lack of confidence that enshrouds this country and the executive branch of government."

Rollins Recommends University Not Rehire Three Of The Philosophy Four Decision On Corcoran Not Published Yet

by Barbara Frankel

Yesterday, Dr. Alfred Rollins, Vice-President for Academic Affairs, told three of the four philosophy professors, Gerald Anderson, Robert Rice, and Alan Paskow, that he had not recommended they be rehired. The fourth professor involved, James Corcoran has as of press time, not yet been informed about his status.

The philosophy professors consider Rollins' decision final and irreversible as the issue now will go to President Andrews. They expect that he will uphold Rollins' decision. The professors have until December 7th to request interviews with Andrews, which means that he won't decide until after that date.

In order to publicize their views on the entire affair, Anderson, Rice, Paskow, and Corcoran held a press conference yesterday afternoon in John Dewey Hall. Appearing with them, in support of their cause, was Will Miller, a tenured member of the philosophy department.

Paskow began the press conference with a brief statement in which he asked several pertinent questions such as, "Why is it that all the people who had a hand in hiring our present chairman did not support us?" and "Why was Cahn hired, over the protests of 9/10 of the philosophy department?" Paskow feels they have been fired for political reasons. His case is different from the other three because he alone has been denied tenure. Paskow feels they have all been persecuted because of their outspoken criticisms of the university.

Paskow fears that this decision will intimidate young faculty members. All of these philosophy professors are afraid that the students will suffer as a result of this action. Rice fears this will preclude faculty members from coming together in a worthwhile academic community because of fear of university repercussions. Will Miller commented that the only way to keep your job at UVM is to keep quiet. This is why, Miller feels, some professors who are not as qualified as Anderson, Rice, Corcoran, and Paskow have not had their rehiring questioned. Gerald Anderson, who believes that there is widespread corruption in the University, commented that "Waterman has become Watergate." Anderson feels the decision is a "violation of our academic freedom" and that the University is irresponsible, unjust and immature. The University is closing itself off to any kind of critics. We

News Analysis

Super Short S.A. Senate Session Plagued By Lack Of Attendance

by Bruce Madden

Following the pattern set last year, this week's SA Senate meeting was plagued by lack of attendance and apathy. If a quorum had been called the meeting would definitely have ended instantly.

Without the "regular" senators, who do most of the work and offer most of the discussion, the meeting proceeded through the agenda in complete silence with the "Tuesday night only" senators waiting for the gavel to strike adjournment. However, if nothing else, it was proven that a meeting could be held even without discussion.

After attendance, Sig Heller went through his announcements and week's work. He entered the name of Evelyn Liberty as the nominee for secretary of communications. Heller spoke of recent developments in the energy crisis and its relation to UVM.

He noted that the university will definitely not shut down and also that the university is still waiting on the daylight savings time proposal in Washington. Also, a university committee has been formed to deal with the crisis as it affects UVM. The committee is seeking student representation and input.

In old business, S. 34, recognition of Friends of Geology, was passed with dead silence. Sarah Funkhouser, SA secretary of student activities, asked the Senate why only a week ago it had asked all organizations seeking recognition to be at the meeting and then when they showed up it did not ask them any questions. S. 25, recognition of the UVM Plant and Soil Science Society, also passed without discussion or investigation.

Mark Stegma's proposal that UVM petition to designate parking time was passed. Dick Corcoran entered a motion to table it in view of the fact the House of Representatives in Washington may pass such a bill effective nationwide. Cassidy's motion was defeated and the motion for daylight savings time was passed anyway to give Washington a "little push."

The only new motion entered was by the Finance Committee for allocation of $350.00 to the Third World Club for its activities. The motion is automatically tabled until next week.

The senators from Gamma Phi Beta and Alpha Tau Omega announced a drive to collect flip tops from cans in order to offer iron lung service to Vermonters. To have one machine for a week, 8,000 flip tops need to be collected.

Sig Heller gave some student complaints about the recent

Students work to impeach Nixon

SPS Photo: Greg Bobbin

Court Bars Expulsion Of Graduate Student For Distributing 'Indecent' Newspaper

By Cheryl M. Fields

From Chronicle of Higher Education.

WASHINGTON In a 6-3 decision, the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that a state university cannot expel students for distributing offensive publications on campus.

Relying on an earlier decision which asserted that "state colleges and universities are not enclaves immune from the sweep of the First Amendment," the majority opinion said "the mere dissemination of ideas - no matter how offensive to good taste - on a state university campus may not be shut off in the name alone of 'conventions of decency.'"

The decision thus overturned lower-court rulings that had upheld the expulsion in 1969 of a University of Missouri graduate student for distributing an underground newspaper. The paper, the Supreme Court noted, included a front-page cartoon depicting policemen raping the Statue of Liberty and the Goddess of Justice and an article entitled "M - f - Acquired."

The Court ruled that the Plaintiff, Barbara Susan Panish, should be reinstated in the university's graduate journalism program "unless she is barred from reinstatement for valid academic reasons."

Three justices, led by William H. Rehnquist, sharply disagreed with the majority. "It simply does not follow under any of our decisions or from the language of the First Amendment itself that because petitioner could not be criminally prosecuted by the Missouri state courts for the conduct in question, that she may not therefore be expelled from the University of Missouri for the same conduct," Mr. Rehnquist said.

"The notion that the officials lawfully charged with the governance of the university have so little control over the environment for which they are responsible that they may not prevent the public distribution of a newspaper on campus which contained the language described in 'the court's opinion is quite unacceptable to me, and I would suspect would have been equally unacceptable to the framers of the First Amendment,' he added.

The underground newspaper had been sold on the campus for more than four years under the name of 'the underground newspaper.'

The following are quotes and opinions from members of the faculty on the impeachment of President Nixon.

Noel Ring, Geography.

Ms. Ring favors the impeachment of President Nixon only if they can get clear criminal evidence on him. She feels that there are many fishy things going on. Too many people too close to the president have been indicted, convicted or resigned for him not to know. Ms. Ring, a liberal Republican, states "I didn't vote for him. You have an authorization from the university's business office before the edition in question appeared.

At the time she was expelled for violating requirements that students "observe generally accepted standards of conduct" and not engage in "indecent conduct or speech," Ms. Papish already was under disciplinary probation for distributing similar literature. The majority opinion ruled firmly that Ms. Papish be reinstated.

First Amendment leaves no room for the operation of a dual standard in the academic community with respect to the content of speech, and because the state university's action here cannot be justified as a nondiscriminatory application of reasonable rules governing conduct."

The Majority Opinion also noted: "That other recent Supreme Court decisions had made clear that the cartoon and headline impeachment of the President last remark 'I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go.'"

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

UVM Faculty Members Express Opinions On Nixon's Impeachment

by Randy Jansen

The following are quotes and opinions from members of the faculty on the impeachment of President Nixon.

Noel Ring, Geography.

Ms. Ring favors the impeachment of President Nixon only if they can get clear criminal evidence on him. She feels that there are many fishy things going on. Too many people too close to the president have been indicted, convicted or resigned for him not to know. Ms. Ring, a liberal Republican, states "I didn't vote for him. You have an authorization from the university's business office before the edition in question appeared.

At the time she was expelled for violating requirements that students "observe generally accepted standards of conduct" and not engage in "indecent conduct or speech," Ms. Papish already was under disciplinary probation for distributing similar literature. The majority opinion ruled firmly that Ms. Papish be reinstated.

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

resignation of the President last remark "I'm convinced would be easier for the country that he has to go."

First Prize Winner Short Story Creative Writing Contest: A Difference Of Age

by Elizabeth Hyde

In the morning Vicky came to pick her up for school. Usually she hadn't finished breakfast, and her father made Vicky wait there, standing in the back hall, bundled up too tightly for the mid-October morning. He made her finish everything, the oatmeal, the juice, the vitamin, and after that she had to brush her teeth. Vicky sometimes had to wait for so long that she started sweating, and then she smelled a bit. She was only ten, but Christine's mother had once said that she was rather well-developed for her age, and Christine figured that had something to do with smelling when you got too hot. She herself didn't.

Christine didn't have to bundle up so much. She didn't have her winter jacket out yet anyway; her mother said it was too early. She wore a big heavy gold sweater, so big that it made her legs look skinnier than usual. As the two girls headed down the walk they looked like a furry fat guinea pig and a dressed-up Tomcat. Their school was straight down the street, with only one turn to make, and then they were at the crosswalk where the Janitor stood every morning. They called him "Russ," but his real name was Mr. Russell. He lived alone with his mother, who was old and dying, and one of the older boys once said that Russ was just waiting for her to die, because then he would get a lot of money and be able to quit his job at the school and play cards with his old friends all the time. But Mrs. Kristensen, the fourth grade teacher, heard this, and Daniel had to stay after school for a week with her and do math problems.

Christine didn't like Russ, but she felt that she had to be nice to him because he was so nice to all of them. He was large and solid, and had a face that looked like it had been cooked too long, with a white bushy moustache that tried to cover his mouth. When Christine was too young to walk to school alone with Vicky, her father would walk with her, and she would willingly hold his hand until they neared the crosswalk. Then they would be where everyone else could see them; she wanted to let go of her father's hand, but she couldn't let go, just like that. And when they would arrive at the crosswalk and her father would have to turn down the hill and leave her there, she couldn't not kiss him goodbye, and Russ would stand there grinning at them, only she thought he was laughing at them. Then Russ would take her hand and lead her across the street, winking back at her father. He always said he liked Russ.

Now she didn't have to walk with her father; she and Vicky walked abreast down the side of the street with the other trees on it, because they liked to pretend they were trains plowing through the snow as they shuffled through leaves, tipping their heads back and puckering their lips and breathing out frosty white

(continued on page ten)

(continued on page ten)

(continued on page ten)

(continued on page ten)

(continued on page ten)

(continued on page ten)

(continued on page ten)

In This Week's Cynic:

Creative Writing Contest Winners...p1, 10
Hockey Team Wins Home Opener...p14

Table of Contents

Art and Entertainmentp6
Calendar Announcementsp2
Crossword Puzzlep8

Cryptoquotep13
Doctor's Bagp8
Editorialp4

Op Edp6
Sportsp14

OFF FOR ALL PEOPLE..

Earth
NOE
BURLINGTON

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Future Teachers

Future Teachers' Meeting December 9 at 8 p.m. Topic: Special Education. Speaker: Sister Janice Ryan, R.S.M. from Trinity College.

Labels for Less

100 Dorset St

Next to Eastern Mountain Sports

featuring finest name Misses & Junior Sportswear & Casual Wear

30% TO 60%

off regular prices on all merchandise

JUST ARRIVED

Shrinks Bubble Tops

Vests

Pullover Sweaters

Reg. $10-$15

OUR PRICE

$6.89 to $10.89

OPEN 'TILL 9 MON-FRI

SAT TILL 6

Bank Americard & Master Charge honored

Registrar Presents

Forced Change week for Spring 1974 schedules ends tomorrow, Friday, November 30th. All add/drop cards must be turned into the Registrar's Office by 1:30 P.M. on the 30th.

Final Spring 74 Schedules will be mailed to your local address on Friday, December 7th.

The last day of classes this semester is Tuesday, December 11. Exams begin on Thursday, December 13 and run through Wednesday, December 19th. Grades will be mailed to your permanent address on December 31st.

JFK School Of Government

The John Fitzgerald Kennedy School of Government of Harvard University announces its graduate program in Public Policy. Ph.D., Master's or joint Master's, professional school degrees are offered. Applicants should be interested in policy analysis and be at ease in both the world of words and the world of numbers. Write Dean Harry Weiner, Littauer Center, Cambridge, Massachusetts 02138 for catalog and application.

Music

At Museum

Come, bring a book, wander around the Fleming Museum or just sit and listen to music played weekdays from twelve to one o'clock. Terrill Goss, a music major and violinist with the UVM orchestra has selected and arranged the programs of recorded music ranging from the Renaissance through the twentieth century.

Special requests from listeners will be welcomed and programs will be announced weekly. First program for the week of Dec. 3rd: Monday-J.S. Bach, Tuesday-Schubert, Wednesday-Beethoven, Thursday-Debussy and Ravel, Friday-Mozart.

Information On Planned Parenthood

Many people have heard of and have used Planned Parenthood, but most know little about its function and fees.

Its reason for existence is, just as the title states, being able to plan for parenthood, a freedom to choose. The main purpose is to bring Family Planning Services to the women in the State who otherwise would be unable to afford such a service. Thus, fees are based on a sliding scale.

Funds are granted through state and federal government and private donations. Although the growth rate is soaring, the grants are not. They now have four clinics in Burlington, a General clinic every Monday evening, a College clinic every Wednesday evening, an Under-21 clinic every other Tuesday evening, and a Vasectomy clinic on the first and third Thursdays of every month.

At Planned Parenthood's funding goes, however, it is to be used for clinical services to only the medically indigent people. Their overhead is great as they staff a family planning specialist, a clinical coordinator and assistant, a nurse coordinator, a training specialist, a secretary and records clerk, physicians, etc.

'The Sound Of Music'

Rodgers and Hammerstein's famous Musical, "The Sound of Music" will be presented as a benefit for the Essex Junction Centennial Committee on Thursday, 11/29, Friday, 11/30, Saturday, 12/1, and Sunday, 12/2 at 8:00 PM at the Essex Junction High School Auditorium. Playing the part of Maria will be Jeannette LasCombes and the Captain will be played by Charles Hoag. The Musical is being produced by Nancy Stillinger, directed by Michael Kennedy, with musical direction by Stephen Plumb.

Tickets for this production are only $3.50 and are available at Bailey's Music Rooms and Tip Top News in Essex Junction.

Since they recognize the free for freedom to choose for everyone, regardless of age, race, income, race or marital status, they operate the Wednesday night clinic.

Because of the restriction on fund use, they are prevented from giving college students totally subsidized service.

Planned Parenthood does offer "competent medical services, counseling and education, and all methods of contraception at a price below what a private physician and most pharmacies would charge." You need be prepared to pay at the time of your visit. If they are to continue the operation of clinic services for anyone other than those recognized as medically indigent, it is necessary to charge the fees. However, if you are on financial aid and you go to their office and obtain a letter, they will reduce your payment.

For those attending the University of Vermont, there are free services offered at the infirmary. Also, if one can get pills at a cheaper price elsewhere one can obtain a pill prescription from Planned Parenthood.

If you have any questions, call Planned Parenthood or drop in, 19 Church Street, Burlington.

Tenant's

Council Meets

The next meeting of the Tenants' Council for off-campus students will be held this afternoon, Thursday, November 29, at 4:30 in North Lounge, Billings Center.

Among the topics to be discussed are a proposed constitution (for Student Association recognition), the returns of the questionnaire about off-campus student concerns, tenants' legal rights and resources, and a food co-op.

Spiritual Corner

- St. Anselm's -

ST. ANSELM'S CHAPEL

ACTIVITIES

Holy Communion: Sunday 11:00 a.m. Discussion & Coffee follow, Tuesday 10:00 p.m. (Services Episcopal, all denominations welcome!)

Morning Prayer: Mon-Fri, 9:00 a.m. (Ecumenical services sponsored by the Episcopal, Protestant, and Roman Catholic Chaplains).

Wednesday, 6:30 p.m. The Christmas Season is upon us and the choir will be singing all sorts of Christmas music. If you enjoy singing come, and join in. Rehearsals last one hour.

Discussion Group: Friday, 6:30 p.m. Burgess Lounge Group of interested students discuss and raise important questions, doubts, remarks and concerns they have about their faith, religion, church, or life as a student. The group is led by Chaplain Odie.

Free Dinner!: This Sunday night, 5 p.m. At the Chapel. Tired of Saga meals, or your own home cooking? St. Anselm's is offering a delicious alternative this Sunday night.

The festivities will start at 5 with some wine and cheese in front of a big, warm fire, with dinner to follow at around 5:30 or so. After dinner there will be a short but provocative film on forgiveness. Anyone is welcome for some fun, fellowship, and good food. Bring a friend! If you think perhaps you may come it would be helpful to call Chaplain Odie at 656-3882 or 864-6354 so our expert chefs can have an idea of how much food to prepare.

Voyages In Spirit

Voyages in the Spirit is a weekly opportunity for personal sharing and growth. All are invited to come. The next Voyage will be Wednesday, December 5, at 8:22 noon in Marsh Lounge, Billings Center. The guide for this Voyage will be Professor Stan Varian of the UVM Department of Religion. Bring your lunches. Coffee and tea will be provided.

Newman Center

CUNNINGHAM NEWMAN CENTER

Bible Study: Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. Topic: Letter to the Hebrews.

Pentecostal Prayer Meeting: Each Monday evening. Mass celebrated at 7:30 p.m. followed by Prayer Meeting on second floor of Center.

Basic Catholicism: Tuesday evenings, 7:30 p.m. Instructor: Fr. Dufault.

Morning Prayer: Ecumenical Prayer time each morning, Monday-Friday at 9:00 a.m. at St. Anselm's Chapel on Redstone Campus. Sponsored by associates in Ministry, Episcopalians, Ministry and Catholic Campus Ministry.

Liturgical Schedule: Weekday: Monday - Friday at 4:15 p.m. Also: Monday - 7:30 p.m. and Tuesday - 10:00 p.m.

Weekend: Saturday: 4:15 and 6:30 p.m. Sunday: 9:00 and 11:30 a.m. and 4:15 and 6:30 p.m.

Student Recital

On Thursday, November 29, the final student recital of the semester will be presented by the University of Vermont Music Department in the Ira Allen Chapel at 12:40-PM. Approximately twelve students will be performing on various instruments and voice. The recital is free and other students are encouraged to attend.

Alnasrawi Will Speak

The department of Economics will hold another of its regular Faculty-Student Seminars. Dr. Abbas Alnasrawi, Associate Professor of Economics, The Middle East and the Energy Crisis, December 10, 1973, Monday, 4:15 P.M. Dewey Memorial Lounge, Old Mill.

UVM Choral Union

The University of Vermont Choral Union, under the direction of Professor James G. Chapman, will present a concert on Friday evening, November 30, at 8 PM in the Ira Allen Chapel. The concert will be a program of masses by Marchault, Josquin, Haydn, V. Thompson and Stravinsky. The concert is free and is open to the public.

At Fleming Museum through January 1, 1974 "Invitational Vermont Craft Show," work by Vermont craftsmen featuring a variety of media. Many works for sale. Also, in the lounge, an exhibition of blown glass by Michael Boylen of West Burke, Vt.

At "Everyone's Gallery," Building B, Room 161, Living/Learning Center, "Sketches by Burlingtonians," 3-8 p.m. Mon.-Fri., 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Saturday.

The Lane Series has on sale tickets for the Dec. 3 regular series attraction, "Così Fan Tutte," as sung by the Canadian Opera Company; tickets to the Dec. 10 concert by Judy Collins (the pop singer hooked after series tickets were sold-tickets marked "pop singer" are good for this concert only); and tickets for the Dec. 7 holiday gala for the entire family-Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker," to be danced by the Hartford Ballet Company. This Lane Extra is offered at popular prices; tickets are available at $2, $3 and $4. Contact the Lane Office, 234 Waterman Building, 656-3418 for more details and to reserve tickets.

Nov. 26-30 is also forced change week- time to make changes if your pre-enrollment schedule didn't work out.

Nov. 26-30 the Sociology Department will have a photo exhibit in the main lobby area of Billings Center. Tickets to three Years plays will be on sale Nov. 26-30 at Billings Center, from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., or call Jeffrey Fernandez, 862-0083. Prices are $1.50 general admission, $1 with UVM student I.D. The plays will be produced at Billings at 8:30 p.m. on Nov. 30, Dec. 1 and 2.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29

8 a.m., School of Home Economics seminar, Dr. David W. McCandless, UVM Anatomy Dept., "Energy Metabolism and Myelination," Room 305 Terrill Hall.

9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., "New Eruptions of the Sacred in Our Time," a symposium presented by the Religion department, Marsh Room, Billings Center.

12 noon to 1 p.m., faculty recital, sponsored by the Music department, admission free at the Allen Chapel.

4:30 p.m., Faculty Senate meeting, Room 103 Rowell Building.

6:45 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society holds a class at the Burlington Unitarian Church, beginners welcome; followed by group meditation at 8 p.m.

7 p.m., UVM Chess Club meets, 5th floor, Waterman Building.

7 p.m., prayer, praise and fellowship meeting of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship; Building A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

7:30 p.m., second organization meeting of the French Foreign Film Society. All who attended the last meeting and all interested in helping form the society are invited. Place is Slide Hall.

7:30 p.m., the Religion department presents a play, "The Harrowing of Hell," in North Lounge, Billings Center, to be followed by a panel discussion. Admission free.

8 p.m., Seminar in Jewish History, taught by Mitch Fried, Harris-Millis Recreation Room; all are welcome. This week: the Hellenistic Period.

8 p.m., Directing Class one-act plays at the Arena Theatre; same as under Nov. 28. Admission free.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 30

9:30 a.m. - 1 p.m., continuation of the Religion department symposium at Marsh Room, Billings Center, entitled "New Eruptions of the Sacred in Our Time."

4 p.m., Department of Medicine lecture, Dr. John Bland, Medicine department, "Preliminary Experience with the Culture of Human Chromosomes: Morphology and Synthetic Patterns," Room C-329 Given Medical Building.

4 p.m., "Friday at Four," open house, Arena Theatre.

6:30 p.m., Chaplain Odie leads a discussion group at Burgess Hall lounge, open to all interested in discussing their faith, religion, church or life as a student.

8 p.m., University Choral Union annual fall concert, at Ira Allen Chapel. See story in this issue for details; admission is free but an offering will be accepted to help defray expenses.

8 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick Building; free and open to all.

8:30 p.m., English department presents a program of three plays, "Fools and Blind Men," at the Apse, Billings Center. Admission is $1.50 general, $1 with UVM student I.D. The three plays are by W. B. Yeats.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

SINCE THE BEGINNING OF THE SEMESTER, YOU STUDENTS HAVE HAD THE PLEASURE OF READING CATCHY, HUMOROUS, AND ATTENTION GETTING PHRASES OR SENTENCES IN THIS SPACE. WELL, WE'VE RUN OUT OF THESE CATCHY PHRASES. NOW WE CALL ON YOU TO HELP US.

NEXT WEEK WILL BE OUR LAST CYNIC FOR THE SEMESTER AND YOUR LAST CHANCE TO WIN THE DOMINO'S AD CONTEST. IN 15 WORDS OR LESS GIVE US A CATCHY PHRASE. IF YOUR IDEA APPEARS IN OUR LAST ISSUE, YOU WIN A FREE PIZZA OF WORTH UP TO $6.05. ENTRIES MUST BE SUBMITTED BY THIS MONDAY NOON.

PLEASE SEND OF BRING YOUR ENTRY TO THE ADVERTISING DEPARTMENT VERMONT CYNIC BILLINGS CENTER

REMEMBER DEADLINE IS MONDAY NOON.

864-7444
WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333
NORTH WINOOSKI AVE

50c OFF A LARGE PIZZA

Expires DEC. 5, 1973

Name _____

Address _____

Phone _____

Void if not completed

1 Coupon per pizza

Good sport.

It's the real thing. Coca-Cola.
Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m. Exchange, Waterman Building, Room 103. UVM students only.

8:30 p.m. - 10:00 p.m. UVM students only. Center, admission: $1.00. Details under 8 p.m.

7 p.m. - 11 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

7:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Billings Center.

Editorial Too Much To Be Effective

As students at this university, we sometimes observe members of the administration who we feel, have undertaken too many jobs to be effective at any one of them. We loudly condemn them, and rightly so, for "spreading themselves too thin."

Well, it's time to take a long, hard look at our own student leaders. For years we have heard students say that most student leaders are members of an elite clique. These same student leaders have subsequently claimed that no one else is interested and that, as a result of this mass apathy, they must do all the work.

Our campus leaders bemoan their lack of time. This, they feel, is the cause of the shoddy results the student body sees. A student leader, for example, our S.A. President, constantly says that there just "aren't enough hours in the day" to accomplish everything he would like to and to be a fulltime student. We sympathize with Mr. Heller. We ask one question, however, of him and of other student leaders. If you are too busy to devote enough time to doing one good job, why do you simultaneously seek others?

Sig Heller recently ran for Chairperson of the Student Representatives to the Board of Trustees. Certainly a student representative should be concerned and informed about university affairs. As President of the Student Association, we hope Sig Heller is well-informed, but wouldn't we all be better off if Heller devoted his precious time and energy to one job?

B.F.

Thanks for the ride. Yeah, thanks. Wow, only 300 miles to go. Lot of traffic. Shouldn't have much problem. I'm getting some coffee in Eddie's. Hey! Eddie don't want us in front of his. He called the cops. Motherfucker. No sir! We didn't know you needed a sign. Yes Sir. Here's a Pizza Box courtesy of Eddie. Just counted a thousand cars. Put you to sleep? Almost. Can we camp out? Shit, no. Whole town is watching us. Let's walk. 300 miles? Got a dime? Hey Rusty, how are ya? Hey, we're stuck up in the boonies. Come get us? Waldoboro....

Greg Bobbin

Thanksgiving Was A Blast But It's Good To Get Home

by Scott Caboon

Between classes at a certain state university.

"Hey, Herbie. What's happening?"

"Too much, Rod. I got two papers to do, an hourly to study for, 300 pages of reading, and a speech to write, all before vacation."

"Wow. That's rough."

"Yeah, I'll be glad when Thanksgiving comes and I can get out of this madness."

Herbie is about to get his wish.

On a bus (Greyhound) on a highway. She speaks first.

"Where are you going?"

"Oh!...uh, hi. My name's Herbie. Boyish grin. What's yours?"

Faint smile. "Sue Ellen. Where you travelling?"

"Oh to Altoona. I'm going home for Thanksgiving. How about you?"

"I'm going to St. Louis. My fiance is meeting me there."

"That's nice." It figures, thinks Herbie. The good-looking chicks are all taken. "St. Louis is a long way to go on a bus." Guy's probably some Army staff.

"I don't mind. I think bus riding is fun. You meet so many interesting people."

"Huh! You could call them interesting. I'd call 'em weird. I hate riding buses. The only reason I'm on this one is, 'cause my mother sent me the money. Otherwise I would have hitched."

"Isn't that kind of dangerous?"

"No more dangerous than going to school. Last week the annex of our chemistry building, which looks sorta like the Pentagon standing on one side, rolled over in a stiff wind while they were doing some experiment inside. Stayed a big fire. A few people got burned to a crisp."

"That's awful! How many people were killed?"

"They're not sure. The charred bodies were on their way to the hospital when they somehow got diverted to the cafeteria and served for dinner."

"Ugh! That's horrible!"

"The worst part of it is that it was the best meal we've had all semester."

At the bus station. Mom and Dad waiting for Herbie.

"Oh, there he is, Ralph!" Waving frantically.

"Where, Cora? Don't see him."

"Right there, behind that woman with the pink garters. He's getting his suitcase. Herbie! He-r-r-r-b-l-e-e-e! Here we are, dear."

"Herbie. Over here, son."

"Hi, Mom. Hi, Dad."

"Your hair looks terrible, Herbie. How are your classes? Why didn't you write more often? The car's over here. Are you keeping up with your studies? What your roommate like? What'd I do with the car keys? When are you going to get a haircut? Aunt Florence won't like to see you like that. Where did you get those awful clothes? Did you send Eddie a get well card like I told you? I hope you brought back some better clothes than those. Where's your comb? Are you glad to be home, Herbie?"

"Sure."

The Sour Dog. Alton's late night hot spot. Herbie is engaged in riotous behavior with his peer group.

"Hey, Herbie. How was your turkey?"

"Ah, we went over the river and through the woods to Grandmother's house, where we ate thinly sliced turkey, drank Red Rose tea, and spoke merrily of Aunt Flo's hairpiece." Understanding laughter from behind glasses of golden foam. "It was so much fun, my mother wanted me to stick around tonight for more, but I told her I'd had too much excitement for one day. Herbie, she said, 'What do you want to go out drinking on Thanksgiving for?' Mom, I said, 'You give thanks for Aunt Flo's hairpiece, I'll give thanks for Michelob on tap.' Be in early, Herbie," she said. "Sure, Mom. Don't wait up for me." "A toast!" exclaimed Herbie. "To the worried mothers of the world."

Glasses are raised, bottoms tipped, the golden nectar slides down thankful throats.

"When ya goin' home tonight, Herbie?"

"Sure."

Last week I sat solitary

In my daily haunt,

Shielded from the driving wet

By a ridged green slab of tin.

Pondering as always,

Dreams of better days

To come and past.

Days when working wouldn't

Bring to mind

Endless frustrating anecdotes,

Peopled by

Nasal voiced old ladies

Beckoning for second

Cups of coffee

And sparsely toothed

Chattering men, trudging

Back and forth with

Sloshing trays of dirtied dishes.

Days when I hadn't met the Suffering-ranks of Black domestics

Filling buses with many

A head plastic-hatted against

The rain. Their dance of Freed slavery to the Music of slow and throaty talk.

by Susan Pories

Open Letter To Mr. Andrews

RE: Portions of Letter

Published in the Cynic to Mr.

Leonard Ross concerning the Philosophy Four.

I wish to thank you for your consideration of the student body (your employers). Your education? Why have Arab children died in their mothers developing the history of arms while waiting in the corridor of the governor for a permit to see a doctor? Why have the consistently loyal citizens from Kafir Birm and Iqrit been forbidden to return to their villages? Why has Israel transformed its Arab citizens into a pool of cheap, unskilled labor by expropriating

1,000,000 dunams of their land, by providing irrigation for only 5% of the cultivated land still owned by Arabs, etc?

Nevertheless, the most emphatic obligation of Israel's claim to democracy remains the fact that 2.5 million

Palestinians should-be citizens of Israel, but are not allowed even to live in their country,

let alone vote in it.

Sincerely,

Rita Swan

You state that you "do not feel that students should have voting responsibilities in this process" (of reappointment and tenure). However, you fail to give any supportive reasons for this opinion. My only question is whether your reasons are that you do not feel morally obliged to listen to the verbal input of the student body, but you are afraid that this input in the form of a voting power would prove threatening to both you and your elite administration? I do hope that this is not your reason and that you can present your true argument

soon.

Sincerely,

Douglas S. Frink

Where Is The Money Going To?

by Tom McCormick, '75

Last year, you remember, the administration reported that it was in a financial strait-jacket. It had no money and the future looked worse. So it pleaded for, and subsequently received, an increase in state funding. It also hiked out-of-state tuition to a new high, and warned that in-state tuition might have to be raised, if the financial situation didn't improve.

In September, it looked like the university really intended to cut costs. When syllabuses are printed on both sides of the paper that must mean something, right?

Well, something happened between imminent bankruptcy and the recent past. First, little signs popped up all over campus, identifying buildings properly. (Now that the art department is in Williams Science, and the Sciences have moved to Cook, and Billings Library is no longer a library, that's probably important.)

The signs are nice. They give you something to read when you're bored. They give you guides something to point to when prospects visit the campus. (See our new signs? That's one of the little extras that makes UVM so pretty—and so expensive.) They're also a replacement for all the elm trees that are dying off around the area. And there's one lovely sign that lights up at night, outside of Waterman. (Presumably, it was erected so campus planners could find their way to the building at night, when they wanted to work late on other creative ideas like putting up signs.)

Then, a miracle happened: the university posted a surplus. A surplus. Now, really, when you're on the brink of financial disaster, it takes a little hocus-pocus to come up with extra money. It's like getting fat on a ninety day fast. It just had to be a miracle. There's no other explanation. Well, maybe one.

Paris used to have a section known as the "Court of Miracles", where the "lame" walked and the "blind" saw. The city's beggars would turn there after a strenuous day's work, and abandon their roles. Maybe the administration like the beggars, has been playing games to increase its revenue.

In any case, the administration rather generously decided to share its surplus. It picked up the tab on faculty-staff Blue Cross-Blue Shield payments. Now, that was a nice gesture, I'm sure it made a lot of people happy. But I hope that the administration doesn't cry poverty when it's time for the next budget. If there is money for decorative signs, and a surplus and raises—there certainly shouldn't be any problem financially.

Should there be a problem, it might be a good idea to give the administration a thorough examination, because that's where the real problem will be.

If there is money for new signs and unexpected pay raises, there certainly isn't any reason for a tuition increase

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS MANAGER Barbara Frankel '75
ASSISTANT EDITOR Ruth Hay '74
MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74
NEWS EDITOR Bruce Madden '76
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lisa Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75
ASSISTANT FEATURE EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
SPORTS EDITOR Loren Wilson '74
ADVERTISING MANAGER

NEWS: Betty Andrews, Doug Beardsley, Dave Campagne, Bill Campbell, Randy Jansen, Jill Markert, Dawn McGinnis, Andrew Morse, Wendy Nelson, Lauris Rapp, Kathy Stinson, John Van Hoesen.
FEATURE: Sari Bodi, Jeffrey Blum, Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Carol Dufault, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Oshon, Karen Trott.
COLUMNS: Scott Caboon, John French, Elliott Frauman, Alan King, Ron MacNeil, Steven Rice, Jeff Ryback, Scott Swensen.
SPORTS: Fred Combs, Gene Goldberg, Andy Morse, Alan Patashnick, Norm Robinson, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilenak.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Eileen Driscoll, Camryn Hay, John Lynde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Valvon, Joan Westcott.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and Business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4911. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $5.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Editor

Mission Israel For All

To the Editor:
donating students in your last issue, the efforts of the cultural contributions of the Jewish advocates people throughout history, as other deserve the world's admiration light to a and gratitude, but I feel no physician; concomitant obligation to write a support Israel as an exclusivist anyone for Zionist state.

As long as Zionism exists humane moral mission on Jews cruel and everywhere to come pioneer in their conquered territory, while prohibiting the return of society. If any of the 2.5 million work for Palestinian exiles to their area, or if Israel's "ethnocentrism" will be able to the obvious to me. From Golda Meir who told The London Times that the Palestinians "did not exist" to the Israeli girl who told NBC on the Golan Heights, "when we came here, this was just a desert wasteland," Israel has failed to comprehend the Arabs as human beings.

If the Arab citizens of Israel are granted their "rights," why has Israel banned Sabri Jiryis' book, The Arabs in Israel? Why do these Arab citizens forfeit their citizenship if they leave the country for higher education? Why have Arab children died in their mothers' arms while waiting in the corridor of the governor for a permit to see a doctor? Why have the consistently loyal citizens from Kfar Bita and Iqrit been forbidden to return to their villages? Why has Israel transformed its Arab citizens into a pool of cheap, unskilled labor by expropriating 1,000,000 dunams of their land, by providing irrigation for only 5% of the cultivated land still owned by Arabs, etc.? Nevertheless, the most emphatic obligation of Israel's claim to democracy remains. Philosophy the fact that 2.5 million at example. Palestinians should be citizens of Israel, but are not allowed to live in their country, the faculty let alone vote in it.

Sincerely,
Rita Swan

BLUES TONE

In tonight light
I'm black
Walking upstairs
With capes of Summer's sweet wind
To shield
Crickets chorus
Only music
North Star's
Spidery eye
Casts spells
Confusion beats
Against my back
And tonight
I'm black

by Wendy Gordon

Going To?

and the recent past. First, little signs popped up campus, identifying buildings properly. (Now that department is in Williams Science, and the Sciences to Cook, and Billings Library is no longer a probably important.)

are nice. They give you something to read and bored. They give you guides something to when prospects visit the campus. (See our new one of the little extras that makes UVM so expensive.) They're also a replacement for trees that are dying off around the area. And lovely sign that lights up at night, outside of (Presumably, it was erected so campus planners their way to the building at night, when they work late on other creative ideas like putting up miracle happened: the university posted a surplus. Now, really, when you're on the brink disaster, it takes a little hocus-pocus to come up money. It's like getting fat on a ninety day fast. To be a miracle. There's no other explanation.

ed to have a section known as the "Court of where the "lame" walked and the "blind" saw. beggars would return there after a strenuous day, and abandon their roles. Maybe the beggars, has been playing games to revenue.

one, the administration rather generously decided a surplus. It picked up the tab on faculty-staff. Blue Shield payments. Now, that was a nice to sure it made a lot of people happy. But I hope administration doesn't cry poverty when it's time budget. If there is money for decorative signs, this and raises—there certainly shouldn't be any there be a problem, it might be a good idea to administration's thorough examination, because the real problem will be.

is money for new signs and unexpected pay certainly isn't any reason for a tuition increase.

The Advent Of Man-- Doomsday

by Jeff Ryback

Twelve years ago I found myself rummaging around a bookstore searching for something that would quell the disdain I had developed towards the monthly book report. My teacher had recommended a number of books, but most of them smelted of classic comicbook material. So, for once, I decided to find something interestingly different, something gory or scientifically indecent. After wading a few minutes wading through the dirty covers, I ended up with Aldous Huxley's Brave New World. After all, what could be more exciting than "Hatchery" and "Test Tube Babies." The book had little effect on me then, beyond the report I wrote, and it wasn't until a few days ago when I picked it up again as an aid in preparing a section on genetics for my science classes that something astounding and frightening manifested itself. For the first time all the literature I had read about man's being replaced by machines adhered into an unequivocal revelation. Mankind's destiny is enslavement. Yes, this is a strong statement and probably one I would have been less inclined to make five years ago. But the corruption of government along with manipulation that has led to a rather joyless and estranged society necessarily raises questions concerning how advances in modern technology and genetics will be used.

Consider a few facts (April 27, 1971 edition of Time): close to 50 percent of human ailments are genetically induced; 25 percent of all conceptions never develop outside the womb environment because nature is busy destroying defects in heredity man has nurtured; 5 out of 100 babies are said to have genetic defects; the criminal mind, schizophrenia, and other mental disorders are largely genetically based. And to these facts man answers with an ability to remove an egg from an ovary, to artificially fertilize it and keep it alive and propagating in a test tube for upwards of 50 days; developed an artificial womb; a perfecting techniques of microsurgery to enable him to cut out defective genes from the D.N.A. strand; has tampered with the aging process; and probably the most fascinating feat of all was accomplished by J. B. Gurdon (Oxford University) when he destroyed the nucleus of an unfertilized frog egg, replaced it with the nucleus from an intestine cell of a tadpole, and found the unfertilized egg developed into an identical tadpole. Just think of it, every somatic cell in your body has a nucleus with all the information to program another you.

Yes, genetics has come a long way since Gregor Mendel played with garden peas, but can it go too far? Consider the matter of deleting or adding genes to the chromosome. Scientists theorize the possibilities of adding extra eyes, extra fingers, of babies being born with the knowledge of the alphabet and basic math, of a society devoid of all the aggressive disorders that now plague man, of genetic purity. Add to that Gurdon's discovery of developing an identical organism from an intestine cell and you can imagine the day when a cell as simple as perhaps the squamous epithelial cells you scrape off the insides of your cheek in a freshman biology course could be utilized to manufacture a rather ordered society. The dangers of such a cloned society are obvious, after all who would make the decisions, Richard Nixon? I find it hard to comprehend thirty or forty Nixons and Agnew's running around.

Even more astounding than basic genetic knowledge is (or will be) man's ability to manipulate nature. No longer will the catastrophic process of evolution direct man to return to the oceans or to lose a baby finger, for man has captured the secret of life itself; he can now create his own mutations. The process of extinction which has seen the defuncting of 98 percent of the plants and animals through the eons of time will no longer matter; man will be supreme, he will control all. Simply put, man will reach his zenith, or the apex of egotism, yet man will believe himself a God.

But what is life anyway? Is it fun or is it just going to work? I mean what do you live for, WORK? Sure the machine will take your job and all of a sudden you will be a nobody, a welfare recipient, gee... maybe it's fun? But what on earth are they striving for, a utopia? I wish I knew. If I did maybe I could answer questions such as why art has become irrational, or why the youth has turned to the east?

So, in closing, ask not what Richard Nixon can do for you, Ask what you can do for Richard Nixon... And remember it takes all kinds to make a world.

UNTITLED

So empty
My stomach doesn't exist,
My eyelids are slow.
Ponder and reminisce,
It doesn't help.

Jealous? no.
Nor am I bitter, embarrassed, or ashamed.
I'm like Russia's old trading system,
Laissez-faire, it's called.
I feel nothing... I wonder if he feels like me?
I doubt it.

by Jane E. Griffith

Editorializing In The Vermont Cynic: A Short History

by John Van Hoesen

This is the first of a two part series surveying the history of editorial policy in the Vermont Cynic from its inception in 1883.

Over its history of 90 years, the Vermont Cynic has been a conservative newspaper and a radical newspaper. From an unbending continuity of coverage of campus events to a growing involvement in broader issues of the nation, the Cynic made a niche for itself as the apathetic voice of the 1890's as well as the muckraker of the 1960's.

Almost 20 years had passed since the Civil War; the West was won, steel and oil were making money for the Robber Barons. The University Cynic emerged in this atmosphere early in 1883. The Cynic was published primarily as a literary journal under which "nothing of a partisan character (was) admitted." In the respectful words of the editorial board: "Today the University Cynic makes its first appearance before the college world. It will not assail the Faculty; it will give voice to the sentiments of no faction. But of the city, the student, and the college it will aim to be fairly representative." Yet in less than a century, in the "give a damn" atmosphere of the sixties, the editorial board would scorn an administration involved in what the Cynic saw as an unjustifiable war in Southeast Asia.

The change in attitude is inherent in two viewpoints. Leafing through the pages of the Cynic of the late 1880's the observation might be that while a nation involved itself in outward expansion and the taming of the cow towns, the college newspaper complained about reading rooms and a cold chapel. But 90 years later the point of view had changed — the newspaper was striking out against the Viet Nam war, segregation, and materialism, while the nation basked in its own material abundance and while the government spawned an arsenal that could, at any moment, trigger the ultimate battle, Armageddon, the Cynic's editorial policy reflected a change in viewpoint of the college campus and its relation to the nation.

Seven years before the battle of Wounded Knee, the University Cynic confined itself to expressing the concerns of the University. "It opens a new field for effort; it enlists his sympathy; it whispers of his life." Who or what would whisper for Geronimo?

Primary to the editorial policy of the paper was its name. The board explained in the first issue of the Cynic that the name meant they would honestly speak the convictions of their minds; that their objectives were utilitarian; it meant that all things conflicting with the interests they represented they should constantly and consistently combat. The name originated from Antisthenes, the founder of the Cynic school of thought.

So it was that the early issues of the Cynic stepped gingerly on the toes of the Burlington community and the University administration. So anxious was the Cynic to live in harmony with Burlington that the board stated that "...in Burlington, our institution forms one of the chief interests of the people, and is the constant recipient of their courtesies and good will." The only fault the Cynic could find with the city of Burlington was in the honorable tradition of town vs. gown, a standard controversy in nineteenth century universities. Reluctant as the board was to find fault with Burlingtonians, in response to a Sherman band concert held in the park in 1883, the Cynic reprimanded the city for the faint applause and "the absence of any kind of enthusiasm or of any adequate expression of approval."

Any rebellion that was voiced in the editorials stemmed from immediate practical events. By November 1883, the board, departing from its somewhat pusillanimous resolve to print nothing-partisan, stepped bravely to the fore with the statement that "The Cynic is not bound to sit forever a passive spectator, to act a thoroughly noncommittal part, with no voice, no opinion of its own in the great conflict of opinions..." The bold statement was printed in response to an article on freshman and sophomore case rushes. The Cynic did not choose to respond to the national issues at hand, deflation, credit tightening, steel mill strikes, or hunger riots — the paper ignored them all.

Through the 1880's when the Newport plutocrats threw millions of dollars of loose change into gold studded mansions, when an industrialized New York worked children for sixteen hours a day, the University Cynic complained of a cold chapel during morning prayers, and could the reading room be kept open for an extended period of time? The paper marled at the noise in halls during recitation hour, and at students' misuse of the Billings Library. The board was extremely perplexed because students were not allowed to dance at the Presidential reception of 1887.

In 1886 the paper printed the qualifications necessary for an editor: literary ability was the prime qualification, yet a presence of business capacity was indispensable.

But as the University stepped into the early 1890's the Cynic expressed their most pertinent feelings in a June editorial.

"Rah! Rah! Rah! Rah! UVM Rah!" The editorial board moved to the football field. Announcing that "war (is) the normal state of college mankind," the Cynic published editorial after editorial on the college gridders. Of the annual match game between lower classmen and upper classmen, "both of these classes are amply provided with charming young ladies who are just dying (sic) to do the honors of the game for their respective champions."

Through the turn of the century, while immigrants flowed like spilled milk over New York City, while immigration inspectors shouted in German, Polish, Yiddish, Italian, and Russian, the Cynic continued to worry about the University's baseball reputation. On diminished college spirit the editors wrote:

"we prefer the term 'apathy' to lack of college spirit... we point to our past record with pride... yet in spite of this a kind of lethargy seems at times to take hold of us." The major issues continued to be football, athletics, military drill, and the annual Cake Walk.

The war abroad in 1914 had little influence on the editors of the Cynic. Although the board had come a ways since the days when they would not assail the faculty, their editorial statements continued to ring status quo bells. Stating in late 1914 that a college paper had two aims, to print news for news sake, and to print it for college records, the Cynic expressed an interest in all points of view. Still, manners in the chapel, singing contests, and good sportsmanship were the bulk of editorial substance.

It cannot be said that the war had no meaning to the Cynic, but the board's attitude toward the war was a red-white-and-blue one. Reacting to the preparedness committee, the editors took the attitude that they had a commitment to the government. "Let us prepare earnestly in every possible way and place ourselves at the disposal of wiser heads in the interest of greater efficiency." The serving of our country is a grand opportunity and a special privilege.

Forgetting the war, the Cynic plunged into the twenties returning to the glory of the football field. The board believed that pre-game smokers in the gym should have priority over concerts. The normalcy of the editorials was the glorification of athletics.

At twenty cents a pack, the real man of the twenties would smoke Murad Turkish cigarettes as he strutted over campus in a pair of five-dollar Brogue Oxfords. Fad and fashion seemed to be the rule of the day.

The Cynic warned against the forgetfulness of the winter months. "Now that the football season is nearing its end perhaps the tendency will be to forget football for another year. But we must overcome this tendency. Football is the college sport and every effort should be made to make it always successful at Vermont." The board saw this as a duty, the duty of the college. Several months later the college would elect the "most popular" males and females, and the Cynic would urge all students to enter the class

The Devil's Advocate:

Another Kind Of Experimental Program

by Alan King

Quite a bit has been printed about the Experimental Program here at UVM. I must admit that I still don't know exactly what it attempts to accomplish with its students, but whatever it is, many students seem to like it. From the outside (and since I'm not in the program I qualify as much as anyone else), it looks like a credit factory. From what some of the people who have dropped out of the program say, the credits are about as hard to earn as merit badges. I recall the now-famous quote that "in the E.P. if you meet them they give you credit for it." I doubt that the program is as bad as some of the former students say, but I will not hesitate to criticize the administrators of the project for the lack of communication with the rest of the outside world. I really don't know much about how the thing works, but that's because not many people have gone on public record (like the Cynic) to explain some of the finer points. As much as has been printed about it, there is little real information. I also wonder how graduate, law, and medical schools view experimental courses. I can just see some pre-med student walking into the plush office of the admissions director and being asked something like "What profound experiences did you receive from Ceramics I and II?" But I really don't want to knock the program too badly, because it is alternative education and we do need to experiment with this concept.

One form of experimental program which is working very well is the co-operative education at Northeastern University. I hadn't heard about it until this week and was fascinated by it. The program, unlike UVM's, is attended by virtually all of the student body, and involves work experience along with classroom instruction.

The co-op system lasts five years and each year is divided into three semesters (tri-esters). It would be like the current UVM system using summer as the third tri-semester. These facts alone would dampen the spirits of a lot of UVM'ers, as there are few students who would like to go to school over summer and for five years. But it isn't really all that bad, as the vacation periods are actually the same at Northeastern as they are here. Here is how the system works:

The freshman year is spent the same way as it is here. You go to classes in the fall, and again in the spring. You have summer off.

The sophomore year starts the co-op. Every student is assigned to one of two groups, the only difference being the schedule of classes vs. work experience. Let's take someone in group A, for example. This student would choose a field that he would like to enter upon graduation. The University finds the student work in his chosen field in the Boston area and guarantees him a minimum of $90 a week (the mean being approximately $110-a week). For the first semester of his sophomore year, Group A student is working at his job. In January the student returns to classes. He gets a semester break in May, then returns to classes for the summer.

The "middle" year is next, starting off with the student working at his co-op job again. This time he holds the job right through to the end of the spring semester in May. Back to classes in Summer.

The junior year continues with the class/co-op system. The senior year for all students is spent in two semesters of classes as it is here.

At graduation Northeastern places 90 percent of their students in jobs related to their field of interest. Students have gained both a degree and work experience (with the nice addition of money). I'm not saying that this system would work here, as it probably wouldn't. Boston is a little bit bigger than Burlington. But it's something to think about. I would like to know how our own experimental program is doing to students who graduate.

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

song contest.

From 1930 to 1970, the Cynic would undergo changes in its editorial policy. These years saw the Cynic involve themselves in national and international issues. The conclusion of this survey will appear in next week's Cynic.

$5

WRAP
STAMP

Food Stamps mean more food for people with a small income.

If you are eligible it's your legal right to buy food stamps at a discount or get them free.

WHO GETS FOOD STAMPS?

Food stamps are for people who support a big family on a small income. Or for elderly people who earn little and live on Social Security. Or for anybody with a small income who is eligible. Depending on your income, the government sells you food stamps at a big discount or gives them to you free.

AS GOOD AS MONEY.

Food stamps are like money. You use them to buy food as if they were cash. They stretch your food dollars and let you feed your family better. With food stamps you can get twice as much food for your family without spending any more money.

GOOD AT MOST GROCERY STORES.

Almost all food stores take food stamps for food purchases. It's a good deal for the store because it increases total business when you use food stamps to buy extra food.

YOU HAVE A LEGAL RIGHT TO FOOD STAMPS.

Your legal right to food stamps is protected by Federal Law. In addition, you have a legal right to get food stamps as soon as you move to a new area. And you have a legal right to a quick decision on your application for food stamps.

FIND OUT IF YOUR FAMILY IS ELIGIBLE NOW.

You do not have to be unemployed or on welfare to be eligible for food stamps. However, you should check with your local welfare office to find out whether you are eligible, where to go and what to do. In some areas, the local welfare office even gives out or sells the stamps. If you run into any problems, write:

FOOD STAMPS
ROOM 301
1424 16th STREET N.W.
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036

Don't cheat your family but get better meals for less money. Remember $5 can get you $10 worth of food stamps.

An advertisement for you by PUBLIC COMMUNICATION, INC., 2005 L Street N.W.; Washington, D.C. 20036
Prepared in cooperation with the National Welfare Rights Organization, Washington, D.C.

THIS SPACE MADE AVAILABLE BY THE VERMONT CYNIC

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Album Review:

'Quadrophenia.. Accomplished Rock And Roll

by Doug Collette

QUADROPHENIA
The Who
(MCA) (1966)
I have to be careful not to praise
I can't pretend that I can teach
And yet I've lived your future
By pounding stages like a

"Jazz Catalysts" Will Play Sunday

The demand for free. The group is a contemporary jazz in the Burlington area, as well as the entire state, has been practically non-existent in the past. Today, however, more and more people are turning their ears to the variety of current trends in jazz as an alternative to the dwindling of creativity in the "rock" world.
Jazz people like Miles Davis and John McLaughlin and
"rock" groups like Emerson,
Lake & Plamer have played a vital role in the overlap and fusion of the two styles, exposing to a larger audience some of the many innovations in current jazz.

On Sunday, Dec. 2, at 8:00 p.m., the Billings Center
Governing Board will present Catalysts, a group of contemporary jazz musicians.
The concert will be held at Commons Rm. 115 in the Living/Learning Center and is downs

Pete Townsend
If you're thoroughly familiar with Tommy and Who's Next, then try to imagine a cross between those two albums, a marriage of all Tommy could have been and all Who's Next is. That combination is Quadrophenia.

It would be pointless to relate the literal story of Quadrophenia not just because you can read it and puzzle it out for yourself, but because the story of Jimmy the Mod,
Who fan, is just a metaphor.
The plot is just a sketch, ambiguous enough to accommodate the personal interpretation of the individual listener. Townsend has worked it out from every conceivable angle, so that, in the final analysis, Quadrophenia could be applicable to almost anyone living in contemporary society (though most especially, of course, m-m-m-m-y generation). You listen to this carefully and if you don't see very much of yourself and your life mirrored back at you.

Quadrophenia was recorded on the Who's private studios at Battersea while those very studios were in the process of construction. Judging from the liveliness and energy of the group's playing on this album,

capturing as it does so much of the explosiveness of the Who on stage, it sounds as though the basic tracks of guitar, bass and drums were recorded with Townsend, Entwistle and Moon playing together live. In such an informal and spontaneous atmosphere, even the extensive overdubbing of additional voices, instruments and tapes couldn't destroy the immediacy of the previously recorded rock and roll.

(continued on page seven)

Music Thing

Survey Of Several Groups

by Michael Thurston

Buffalo Springfield /Anthology/Atco/ Atlantic has done a really nice thing for music freaks. They have taken all the best from Buffalo
Springfield's three albums
(Buffalo Springfield, *Buffalo
Springfield Again*, and Last Time Around) and compiled the cuts logically into a beautiful, two-record set. The biggest treat from the album is the previously unreleased nine-minute version of Stephen Stills' Bluebird, available until this time on a series of low-quality bootleg albums.

Buffalo Springfield as an album, traces the progress of the group from its novel folk rock sound, through the height of the group's musical success (considered represented best by the second album) and then onto solo efforts, hints of which were more than obvious in Last Time Around. This album is a completely satisfying piece of musical document, and should be a part of everyone's collection. A masterfully constructed masterpiece.

Tres Hombres /Z.Z.
Top/London/ Z. Z. Top have always been good in concert, been that ill' ole ban' from Texas that they are, but somehow, that generation of power, power capable of transforming the cerebral tissue between your ears into cream cheese, gets lost in the translation. In this, their third album, Z. Z. Top have remained religious to their cause. Good ole Blues and Roll.

Z. Z. Top are Billy Gibbons,
Dusty Hill, and Rube Beard.
The reasons you've never heard of their first two albums are numerous, but London's lackadaisical approach to *Z. Z.
Top's First Album* and Rio Grande Mud are a vital factor contributing to the negligence.
Z. Z. Top still have a lot of refining to do, the rough edges must be filed; they must make the transition from live to studio work. Because of their awkwardness in the studio, about a third of the material from Tres Hombres could be eliminated without any noticeable difference. The bridge, however, between Waitin' For The Bus, a rock number, and Jesus Just Left Chicago, a blues number, is very effective, as well as affective, and, perhaps, the best the album has to offer.

Writing a review for this band is a difficult task. They are on the brink of becoming a major entity and disappearing all together. Z. Z. Top are riding that fine line between the sensational and the has-been. With their talent, let's hope they can work what they have into the blockbuster that could emerge. Z. Z. Top aren't bad for Tres Hombres.

from Texas. Maria Muldaur /Reprise combines a refined country artist with some of the finest sidemen in the country. Such names as Jim Keltner, Ry Cooder, Chris Ethridge, and David Nichtern. The artist is Maria Muldaur, and her first album is visually, and audibly graphic. Self-admittedly a product of pure country, an early listener to such artists as Josh White, Dolly Parton, and Hank Williams, the influence shines through loud and clear on such cuts as My Tennessee Mountain Home.

The range of vocal styles stem from soft and mellow extending into foot-stomping, cookers. Maria performs numbers penned by Dan Hicks,
David Nichtern, Jimmie
Rodgers, and Dolly Parton.
After hearing the lady in concert, there are obvious improvements that could have been made while recording this album, and in an interview
Maria is the first to admit shortcomings. As time goes on, however, Maria Muldaur will go down as an excellent debut album, from a standpoint not only of production, but of execution and selection of material as well.

The best cuts from the package are Midnight At The Oasis, Long Hard Climb, Don't You Feel My Leg (Don't You Get Me High), and Walkin' One & Only. Lenny Waronker and Joe Boyd deserve credit for an excellent production job;
engineers Lee Herschberg and Donn Landee also deserve a hand. A splendid entrance from a lady with spunk.
Another cute number from the album is Jenny Muldaur.

Lane Series Offers "Cosi Fan Tutte"

One of the wittiest operas in all the repertoire, Mozart's
"Cosi Fan Tutte" (Women are Like That), will be presented in the Lane Series next Monday,
Dec. 3, at 8 p.m., in Memorial Auditorium.

The opera will be performed by the Canadian Opera Co. in English, with full sets, costumes and musical accompaniment by the Canadian Opera Orchestra
under the direction of John Fenwick.

Next Monday's appearance by the Canadian Opera Co. is the second here under the auspices of the Lane Series.
The first was in 1971, when Offenbach's "Orpheus in the Underworld" was offered.

Tickets, $3, $5, and $6, are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. Reservations may be made by telephoning the Lane Office at 656-3418.

The Canadian Opera Co., founded in 1950 as Canada's first professional company, began touring in 1958, and since that year has made 15 tours of Canada and the United States. General director of the company is Herman Geiger.

Torel, who came to Canada in 1948 from South America, where for nearly 12 years he had been stage director of the Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires.

The story of Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte", which had its premiere in 1790, deals with two sisters, the proud Fiordiligi and the more flirtatious Dorabella, who are pawns in a wager plotted by a cynical and wordly libertine, Don Alfonso.
Don Alfonso challenges the girls' respective suitors, Guglielmo and Ferrando, to test their affection. Amid hilarious disguises and encounters, the ladies prove all too susceptible the lure of new romance, while protesting at the finale that they have been on to the game all the time.

"Cosi Fan Tutte", they all do it...but seldom within such enchantment as Mozart's unique score provides.

Appearing in Monday night's performance are Garmel Brooks as Ferrando, Peter Barca as Guglielmo, Peter Kane as Don

Alfonso, Barbara Collier as Fiordiligi, Carol Anne Curry
as Dorabella, and Ann Cooper as Despina (the maid to the two ladies).

John Fenwick, the conductor, is a pianist,
composer and musical director.
In addition he is associate artistic director of the Charlottetown Festival, for which he composed the score for the hit musical "Jehannu Belinda", premiered there in 1968. Mr. Fenwick was musical director of the Halifax Symphony (1964-1967) before he joined the Canadian Co. in 1967.

The current *"Cosi Fan
Tutte"* is a new production, which has been made possible by generous grants from the Canada Council and by the arts councils of several of the provinces. The acquisition of a touring orchestra, which was added in 1968, is subsidized by an extra grant from the Canada Council. Thus, Monday night's performance is underwritten not only by the Lane Fund but also by the Canadian Government.

Openhouse At Billings To Be An All Night Affair

On the night of December 7,
the Billings Center Governing Board will have an openhouse at Billings Center from 8:00 p.m. to 8:00 a.m. Already programmed for the openhouse, a concert by the UVM Stage Band and a showing of the Beatles' film, Yellow Submarine, an extended schedule of Roundhouse, and a table tennis tournament. The Catamount den will have the grand opening of a "mini-den" with donuts and pastries at special prices. A breakfast special will be one of the many Saga bargains throughout the night.

Still in the stages of being possibly presented are a boogie band for dancing, folk dancing, a horror classic film and jigsaw puzzling. Every event is free.

Watch for more details around campus later and in next week's Cynic. Let's all spend the night together - Dec. 7.

APPEARING FOR ONE WEEK

DEC. 3 - 8

TRACKS

MONDAY NITE - ALL UNESCORTED
FEMALES FREE

WEDNESDAY NITE IS 10c NITE

LIVE ENTERTAINMENT EVERY SUNDAY NITE

THE SILVER KEG

156 ST. PAUL ST. BURLINGTON

PROBABLY THE MOST
CONTROVERSIAL
FILM OF OUR TIME

BURT LANCASTER
ROBERT RYAN
WILL GEER

EXECUTIVE ACTION

Eve. 7 + 9 P.M.

BURLINGTON PLAZA
CINEMA 1 & 2

NOW PLAYING 2 XRATED FILMS

SHOWN AT 7PM & 9:55

They Came from the Four Corners of Hell to Make the Savage
CONNECTION
IN COLOR

PLUS 2nd BIG FEATURE!

Shown at 8:25 PM only
LATE SHOW
11:15 PM Fri & Sat

THE DIVORCEE

LATE SHOW
Fri & Sat (Both films shown)

STATE

MED SCHOOL
ADMISSION
PROBLEMS?

Euromed may offer RX via overseas training

SIDDHARTHA

A NOVEL BY HERMANN HESSE /
A FILM BY CONRAD ROOKS

A FAME
UNEXCELLED...

A BEAUTY
UNSURPASSED.

SHOWS AT 7:00 P.M.
+ 9:00 P.M.
Through Tues.

SIDDHARTHA, the celebrated novel by Hermann Hesse, is the most widely-read novel of today's generation.

Universally acclaimed and loved, the most widely-read best seller by the Nobel Prize winner tells an epic story of man's search for self, through realms of experience of the flesh and the spirit.

It is the first Hermann Hesse novel to be brought to the screen, filmed with rare beauty on location in India.

CINEMA 1 & 2

JOIN US FOR DINNER
AND A FEW DRINKS
AT SIZZLING STEAK

MAKE THE EVENING
COMPLETE WITHOUT BREAKING YOUR BUDGET

SIZZLING STEAK

1216 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT
(NEXT TO SHOWCASE 1 & 11)
(ACROSS FROM McDONALD'S)

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HOURS

DINING ROOM: 4 P.M. TO 11 P.M. MON-FRI.
KITCHEN: 4 P.M. TO 11 P.M. SAT-SUN.
LOBBY: 4 P.M. TO 1 A.M. SAT-SUN.
SERVES ALL LEGAL BEVERAGES

MOVIE GUIDE

Theaters honoring Cynic Discount Card

STATE

Double Feature
DIVORCEE
7:00
SAVAGE CONNECTION
8:20

CINEMA 1 & 2

Executive Action
7:49 P.M.
SIDDHARTHA
7:49 P.M.

Showcase 1 & 2

THE WAY WE WERE
AMERICAN GRAFFITI
Call theatre for times

FLYNN

THAT DARN CAT
Call theatre for times

For the session starting Fall, 1974,
Euromed will assist qualified American students in gaining admission to recognized overseas medical schools.

And that's just the beginning.

Since the language barrier constitutes the preponderate difficulty in succeeding at a foreign school, the Euromed program also includes an intensive 12 week medical and conversational language course, mandatory for all students. First hours daily, 8 days per week (12-16 weeks) the course is given in the country where the student will attend medical school.

In addition, Euromed provides students with a 12 week intensive cultural orientation program, with American students new studying medicine in that particular country serving as consultants.

Senior or graduate students currently enrolled in an American university are eligible to participate in the Euromed program.

For application and further information, phone toll free,
(800) 645-1234

or write,
Euromed, Ltd.
170 Old Country Road
Manhasset, N.Y. 11040

Lane Series Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker" Ballet Is Christmas Special

Tickets are still available for two Lane Series concerts which will take place in the interval between the Thanksgiving recess and the mid-term holiday.

The complete "Nutcracker" ballet will be presented by the Hartford Ballet Company on Friday, Dec. 7, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium. The ballet, one of the most popular in the entire repertoire, will include sets, costumes, music by Tchaikovsky, and all the wonderful dances, as choreographed by Lev Ivanov. These dances include not only the concluding Waltz of the Flowers and the Sugar Plum Fairy, but also the Spanish, Chinese, Arab and Russian entertainments provided for Little Clara.

Tickets for the "Nutcracker" are popularly priced: $4, $3, and $2, and are on sale in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, telephone 656-3418. The major pop singer in this year's Lane Series is Judy Collins. She will perform on Monday, Dec. 10, 8 p.m., in Memorial Auditorium. A limited number of tickets are available at $3, $5 and $6 in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. For reservations, tel. 656-3418.

UVM Movie Calendar

Friday, November 30, Ingmar Bergman's Shame 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., B106 Cook Hall, Admission $1.50.

Made in 1969 and starring Petting Ponto on Philip, The Max Von Sydow and Live Music Box, Big Business, and Ullmann, this is the story of a "You're Darn Tootin'" will be husband and wife, both presented musicians, who have taken up residence on an island while a brutal civil war rages on the mainland. Their only concern is survival with no interest in political affairs.

Friday, November 30, 11:30 p.m., B106 Cook Hall and Saturday, December 1, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. only, 235 Life Sciences, $1.00 admission, Woody Allen's Everything you always wanted to know about sex?

Woody Allen's most recent film, written by and starring him, was released in 1972. It is a take-off on David Ruben's best-seller. A series of funny sketches make up the film, all of which are satirical on various situations about sex as only Mr. Allen could see them. But were afraid to ask.

Sunday, December 2, 8:00 p.m., B106 Cook Hall, no admission charge. Laurel and Hardy Night 2

The SA owned film series

'Quadrophenia' Is F-U-N

(continued from page six)

The Who's playing as a band is tighter and better controlled, yet just as violent as ever. Moon churns out a literal wave of percussion; Entwistle wryly binds together the rhythm over which Townsend's grand, crashing chords resound. Pete's soloing has improved tremendously, too; he can play sparsely and precisely but with all the richness of the most fluent electric guitarists. Roger Daltry, of course, is the rock and roll singer par excellence, shouting and hollering, but always on pitch, making each note clear.

On top of this definitive Who rock and roll space (which strangely or not so strangely, echoes both recent and vintage Who songs), Townshend has woven a fabric of horns, synthesizers, additional percussion, keyboards and taped sound effects that is as delicately intertwined as are Quadrophenia's music and thematic threads. Smooth transitions in music are always difficult to accomplish: The musicians have to maintain a precarious balance of moods and textures and still provide sufficient changes of pace. Whether between songs or sides of particular motifs, Quadrophenia progresses as gracefully, and evenly as possible.

Just when I expected the piece to lose its steam, as Tommy and most double sets do, "Sea and Sand" and "Drowned" keep the thing afloat and the comic relief of "Bell Boy" carries the work into the home stretch. I've spoken very generally of Quadrophenia as a single piece, not because there aren't highlights, but because it is so uniformly good from the start to the finish. If you get deeply involved with this album, you'll be able to see all the subtlety and nuance the Who have sewn into it and I hope that process of discovery is as enjoyably satisfying for you as it is for me.

It's important to realize though that Quadrophenia does contain some of the best pieces of music, as four superb sides, or as a collection of rock and roll songs. Such versatility naturally is the end result of much hard work and careful preparation, including a peerless job of recording that captures as much presence as it's technically possible to get, when you hear the sound of the surf here, you start looking around for the waves! And that recording benefits the music many times as much!

I didn't think anyone working in rock and roll today could successfully pull off anything approaching the vast concept of this undertaking. Look at all the nauseating attempts.

But Quadrophenia is by far the most accomplished rock and roll work I've heard. Townshend learned from his previous mistakes and his humility comes across in the guileless but penetrating lyrics of this piece. Perhaps by consciously not attempting to do so, Pete and the Who have created something that's both life-affirming and -dare I say it? - profound.

Besides, Quadrophenia is such great rock and roll, and as I am positive Pete would agree, before it can be anything else, rock and roll has to be

In the scope of its conception and the excellence of its execution on every level, Quadrophenia is even more than the album of 1973. If that sounds like overenthusiastic praise, I can't help it. Hyperbole does usually sound hollow, but I don't use extravagance any more unless I feel deeply justified in doing so and there is simply no other way I can think of to convey the magnificence I hear in this album. Listen to Quadrophenia really intently and consider what the Who have done; I don't think what I've said here will seem like overstatement then.

If this Earth survives another 300-500 years or so, rock and roll deserves to be seen as the most vital and fertile music of the twentieth century and, seen in that light, Quadrophenia will be regarded as one of its most important and masterful achievements.

And you know, somehow it figures that the Who would be the ones to do it. Next Week - A review of the Who in Montreal!

Contest Entry:

Head Brain And Body

by Althea Simeri

I stepped on the Canada Goose, whose gals sketched off, limp and dead white, purpled slabs of organ meat, yellow spreading stains of yolk. If I were a seer I could find answers in the congealing mass, purpose in this dead bird's death. I see with my eyes, my eyes are the agents of my sight and they see nothing. They do not see this bird. My brain tells me it's in my head. (Nonsensical figure of speech, there isn't room for a Canada Goose in my head.)

The day is dappled sunlight, scudding clouds. My feet sense ground beneath them; my brain says trust your feet. My head though, my head says crazy things, you killed that goose you wicked woman. Eat it, so it doesn't die in waste. If I walk very fast down this road, trusting my feet to find it, my head will leave the goose behind it.

Clouds, the clouds distract my eyes. My feet are without eyes to guide them for I cannot walk on clouds. Foot, foot, foot, foot, good feet to bravely keep walking when the mind is arguing elsewhere. We'll get to the post office yet. (Me and my feet.)

This day passes through time. My feet pass through time walking on this day. Dual purpose feet to walk through time while stepping one two on flagstone sidewalk, I say to myself this is a pleasant day as I walk to the post office. Ground is down and Sky is up. (God's in his heaven, all's right with the world.) And I'm off again. If there's anything my head won't tolerate, it's my socialized, civilized brain implying that there is God, he God, whose position affects this life I live in here. It was an attempt at therapy, head: Be calm, this upset is in you. I'm all right and you keep trying to confuse me. Why shouldn't I believe that God in His heaven makes all right in the world? It takes the burden off of me and puts it back on God where it belongs. Men are built to carry weight. We aren't; We are you and me, head, we're in this body together.

Remember the post office. The purpose of this walk is mailing a letter. All else is fantasy. Amusing, at times, frightening at times, but fantasy. You can forget that goose. The goose is dead; long live the goose. I just decided to put goosey back together again.

Let hard wings beat the air. The great gray goose must find a lover. It's a terrible sin to kill a goose. Geese mate for life. They mourn and miss a lost beloved. I'll not be responsible for creating a widow. So find another symbol, head, I'm tired of birds.

I walk on down the hill, feet functioning normally, alternating left and right the sequence of bend knee, lift, reach, and step, landing on my toes like an indian, so as not to

LITTLE PROFESSOR BOOK CENTER

Downtown Burlington
Essex Junction

YOU AND YOUR SUGARPLUM

A christmas treat for loved ones

Portraits by Sanders H. Milens sitting & proofs in B&W $15
call 862-3350

Funky Boo Hoo Bozinsky's Band To Jive At UVM

One of the most incredible of the late 60's underground bands that are still tripping and functioning is coming to UVM next term. Captain Boo Hoo Bozinsky's Traveling Band has been amazing people in coffee houses, dance halls, and small arenas for seven years.

Originating in the psychedelic dungeons of San Francisco in the height of the flower power days, Bozinsky and his comrades early made a name for themselves as a tight band, off-it-not-on the stage, with their slogan and policy of "The band that lays together, plays together." In those days the members of the band, of various ages, sexes, and talents, often covered the stage with mattresses and played for did not play - the spirit moved them in various stages of undress. The band, in size from performance to performance, also was known for its habit of asking people in the audience to join the festivities on stage. Later, as they went through some heavy changes and a sado-maso trip, they changed their style and their slogan to "The band that flays together, plays together." No one ever knew what to expect from them, except that it is bound to be unusual. People generally emerge from a Bozinsky concert which can last anywhere from an hour to three days depending on how they're feeling, saying, "Far out, man! A real heavy band." "Those people are really weird, but I can dig it," and "Brilliant, really brilliant music."

One UVM student who has seen the band before, Arto Jones of Colchester flipped out when he learned they would be coming here. "Man, I saw that band in Gallup, New Mexico three years ago and they were incredible. It was this little road-side bar and before the night was over, the Sheriff bailed the place and we all had to spend the night in jail. UVM won't be the same after they play here," he chuckled.

diamond wedding ensembles - created for the girl who can't say "NO."

YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT
Prices start from under $100

E.J. PRESTON & SON INC.

17 UPPER CHURCH STREET - BURLINGTON

Billings Night Affair

Watch for more details around campus later and in next week's Cynic. Let's all spend the night together - Dec. 7.

MED SCHOOL ADMISSION PROBLEMS?

EuroMed may offer RX via overseas training

For the session starting Fall, 1974, EuroMed will assist qualified American students in gaining admission to recognized overseas medical schools.

And that's just the beginning.

Since the language barrier constitutes the preponderant difficulty in succeeding at a foreign school, the EuroMed program also includes an intensive 12 week medical and conversational language course mandatory for all students. Five hours daily, 5 days per week (12-16 weeks) the course is given in the country where the student will attend medical school.

In addition EuroMed provides students with a 12 week intensive cultural orientation program with American students now studying medicine in that particular country serving as counselors.

Senior or graduate students currently enrolled in an American university are eligible to participate in the EuroMed program.

For application and further information, phone toll free, (800) 645-1234 or write,

EuroMed, Ltd.
170 Old Country Road
Great Neck, N.Y. 11040

Psst! Want a deal on a good deck?

TEAC
MAGNETIC TAPE SYSTEMS

TEAC 220 Stereo Cassette Deck
List price $239.50
w/TEAC AN-60 Dolby Noise Reduction Unit.
List Price $99.50
Now at TECH HIFI only -

$229.50

The TEAC 1230

4 track 2 channel stereo tape deck offers the least expensive professional quality. The three motor design along with the solenoid operation, provide fast positive control of all operating functions, as well as eliminating potential sources of unreliability. The three precision heads, record, playback, and erase provide wide frequency response, and a better signal to noise ratio than the compromise heads usually found in records of this price range. Included in this package also are two Teledyne EC-200 Condenser Microphones and a case of Capital recording tape.

The total list comes to $586.95 but you can get it now at TECH HIFI for only -

$399

tech hifi

"Quality Components at the Right Price"

150 Church St., Burlington

the doctor's bag

by Arnold Warner M.D.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Warner,
Box 974, East Lansing, MI 48823

QUESTION: My wife and I disagree on whether or not there is a pill available by prescription which the man may take in lieu of the woman taking birth control pills. She says there is and I say there isn't a birth control pill for the man.

ANSWER: There are no oral contraceptives available for men at this time. There are active research programs to develop contraceptives for men that would interfere with sperm production or activity, and yet be reversible, which could be taken by pill or injection. I do not believe any of these have reached the testing stage in this country, and certainly are not available by prescription.

Oral contraceptives are much easier to develop for women than for men since the female reproductive system functions in a much more defined and systematic fashion than does the male, at least at the current level of understanding. Ovulation (release of the egg) is under the control of several discrete hormones and occurs in a cyclical fashion. Oral contraceptives establish a hormonal environment that does not permit the usual release of the egg, therefore fertilization and pregnancy cannot take place.

In the man, sperm are produced fairly continually and are stored for release whenever ejaculation occurs. The hormonal conditions necessary for sperm production basically involves the presence of the masculinizing hormone, testosterone. Interference with this certainly stops sperm production but it also results in becoming feminized, decrease in sex drive, and changes in body appearance.

While I continue to hope for the perfect contraceptive before my reproductive senescence, I am not optimistic. In the meantime, sperm being relatively puny things, they are rather easily stopped before they get loose. Therefore, if the Pill or IUD (intrauterine device) poses problems, there are still condoms, contraceptive foam and diaphragms.

QUESTION: I am trying to persuade one of my roommates to use an underarm deodorant. She insists that it is unhealthy to do so. Are the effects cumulative?

ANSWER: The odor associated with sweating is due to bacterial action on perspiration. There are basically two types of sweat glands, one is found all over the body and the other type is found under the arms, in the genital region and around the nipples. The second sweat gland produces a thicker type of secretion which is much more associated with body odor. The underarm areas do not allow rapid evaporation of perspiration and is warm and moist, so the bacteria have a longer time to act and more odor is produced. Underarm odor can be controlled fairly successfully by frequent washing to get rid of the residue of sweat. This can be inconvenient or impossible in hot weather when most people sweat fairly heavily, thus the common practice of resorting to an anti-perspirant or deodorant. Technically, there is a difference between the two since an anti-perspirant stops or slows down perspiration but the deodorant merely masks the odor. The terms tend to be used interchangeably, however.

Anti-perspirants and deodorants generally are harmless if used as directed. Anti-perspirants contain chemicals which inhibit perspiration, but usually do not do so completely; these are usually aluminum salts. In addition, sometimes when their effect wears off there is a rebound and the person sweats more heavily. Women who shave their underarms occasionally experience irritation from anti-perspirants. This appears to occur when the stuff is applied immediately after shaving. To avoid the irritation, a woman can shave her underarms in the evening and apply the anti-perspirant the next morning.

QUESTION: Can one cause damage to his body by "cracking his knuckles"? I am in the habit of cracking the joints in my fingers and wrists, neck, back, knees, toes and occasionally my hips. I have heard this might lead to arthritis.

ANSWER: I immediately checked my Guinness Book of World Records and could find no entry under knuckles. I would advise you to apply for certification before you disarticulate yourself. Though unusual, I have seen people crack necks and backs but never the knees and toes and the visual image conjured up by the thought of someone cracking their hips resembles a grasshopper-type catapult across the room. You are dangerously toying with the very structure of your body and indeed may produce arthritis or worse.

The general run of the mill finger cracking has two current theories. One of them involves the slippage of tendons over bony prominences but the newer one states that with the distortion of the shape of the joint, a small amount of synovial fluid in the joint space vaporizes slightly and that results in the popping noise. Larger joint crackings are usually associated with the clear cut feeling of a tendon sliding over something. The tendons and ligaments as well as the bearing surfaces of joints were never made to endure these types of stresses repeatedly.

Project Elm Plans To Involve Community...

(continued from page twelve)

near their school campuses. In January, a representative of Lowden, Inc., of Massachusetts, has been invited by "Project Elm" to conduct a Dutch Elm Disease clinic. During this time the Lowden experimental research, involving selected New England sick Elms and controlled antibiotic treatments of such trees, will be examined and discussed. Several University and Community groups and officials are being invited to this clinic, with the hopes of bringing an effective group together in order to discuss the Dutch Elm Disease problem from a variety of angles.

The combined effect of all these activities will hopefully find all in a position to properly care for campus trees in a way which is absolutely necessary.

Ideally, successes of this nature within the university community can not only prove to be most meaningful to those of sharing such goals, but such successes can also encourage similar activities in the Burlington Community as well. It is the feeling of "Project Elm" members the citizens: both on and off campus must become more actively involved in the welfare of our community.

TAJ MAHAL
Ooh So Good 'N' Blues
COLUMBIA KC 32600

THE WHO Quadrophonia
MCA 2-10004
A Two Record Set

ISAAC HAYES
Joy
ENTERPRISE ENS 5007

APL-4297X

GREAT SAVINGS ON ALL THE LATEST ALBUMS

$1.97 LIST | $2.99 LIST | $3.69 LIST | $4.19 LIST | $4.59 LIST
2.98 LIST | 4.98 LIST | 5.98 LIST | 6.98 LIST | 8.98 LIST
STEREO TAPES

Extensive selection in stock
Rock - Blues - Jazz - Classic

RINGO STARR
Photograph
APPLE SWAL 3413

LOU REED
Berlin
RCA APL 1-0207

On the Road TRAFFIC

THE GRATEFUL DEAD

THE STEVE MILLER BAND
The Joker
Capitol 11275

THE O'JAYS
Ship Ahoy
PHIL. INT. KZ 32408

ELTON JOHN
Goodbye Yellow Brick Road
MCA 2-10003
A Two Record Set

LOGGINS & MESSINA
Full Sail
COLUMBIA KC 32540

JOHN DENVER
Greatest Hits
RCA CPL 1-0274

Classics

MENUHN & GRAPPELLI
Music of the Thirties
JALOUSIE
ANGEL SFO 3888

SCOTT JOPLIN MUSIC
The Real Scott Joplin
New England Conservatory
ATTEL S 2808

Vermont's largest collection of Classical recordings

Discount records

93 Church St. Downtown Burlington 10-9 Mon - Fri 10 - 6 Sat 863-4587

TUT'S

248 North Street
Burlington, Vt. 05401

"A NICE LITTLE JOINT"

OPEN DAILY 9:30 AM to 9:00 PM

Bass

1305 Williston Road

South Burlington

Bass

Bass Shoe Factory Outlet

Where you save up to 50% on Quality footwear.

G. H. Bass & Co. Men's
5" Work Shoe
$29.95

Manufactured in the true Bass tradition, this 5" work shoe is available in oil-treated brown leather, speed hooks with rawhide laces, fully leather lined; moccasin toe; crepe sole with wedged heel. All popular sizes.

Men's Leather Upper Work Oxford
$13.95

This ankle-high oxford in brown quilt leather represents an excellent value; four-eyelet tie with cord laces; moccasin toe; cream cowhide lined; cushion insole; Neoprene welt with gum crepe sole. All popular sizes.

Men's Leather Upper
5" Work Shoe
$14.95

This 5" boot comes in smooth brown quilt leather; speed hooks with cord laces; cushion insole; moccasin toe; spring steel shank; Neoprene welt with gum crepe sole. All popular sizes.

Bass SATISFACTION GUARANTEED YOUR MONEY BACK Bass

Tenants' Council Projects Continue Although Lack Of Interest Is Discouraging

by Kathy Stasiak
UVM's four thousand off-campus students have manifested only a vague response to the recently-formed Tenants' Council. The group had its third meeting Thursday, November 8, and though the turnout was disappointing, its leaders are anxious to forge ahead to gain S.A. recognition. Members of the council are presently working together to develop a constitution. On several afternoons there has been an exhibit in Billings Center on issues concerning the off-campus population manned by informed students who live off campus.

One of the main topics of discussion during the meeting was the question of how to effectively inform students of the council's activities. Various forms of publication such as newsletters, bulletins, or a handbook were suggested. However, it was decided that since the majority of students have access to the Cynic or the Burlington Free Press these two newspapers would be the most useful at present.

There was a definite emphasis on the need for the council to establish an identity and to become generally known and recognized. Since the council is obviously in its embryonic stages, it is necessary to discover people's reactions to the idea of a collective organization. What type of commitment are people willing to make? How can more interest be generated? It is evident that many people are reluctant to participate until a definite base of foundation is established.

The prevalent attitude is a discouraging one. Too many people feel that they can discover resources and services on their own when they really need them. The organizers of the council are trying to change this attitude by emphasizing the advantages of centralized information concerning rent, housing, vacancies, and tenants' privileges.

There was talk of forming a community resources committee as a branch of the council. Though there is a pamphlet called "The Vermont Peoples' Yellow Pages" with detailed information on resources it is not specifically geared toward students. The Tenants' Council has already joined the Union River Co-Op on Archibald St. Thus, students are forming buying groups to order food at minimum costs. An ordering meeting was held on Tuesday afternoon in Billings. Grain items may be ordered once a month and produce items every second Tuesday. Here again students have to work together to fill orders. Without adequate participation the Co-op's group benefits and rates will be unavailable to individuals.

It is hoped that at the next meeting, which will be held today at 4:30 p.m. in Billings Center North Lounge, there will be increased interest and support for the Tenants' Council.

Inside Facts On Student Directories

by Dawn McGinnis

Larry Van Benthuyzen of the UVM Public Relations Department said recently that the Fall Student Directories were supposed to be available a month before they were. The delay was attributed to a problem in gathering data on the students, a job which is done by the Registrar's Office.

The tabloid format of the Student Directories is new this year. The Registrar's Office proposed that a tabloid directory be instituted to save money and therefore make it possible to print two copies a year — one for each semester. The rationale was that many students change addresses during the semester and some drop out. A new directory each semester would be much more accurate.

The Faculty Staff Directories remain relatively accurate each year, so only one issue has to be printed. The number of copies has been reduced to one for every phone on campus. There is a supply of them available to everyone as long as it lasts. There are no plans to print the Faculty Staff directory in tabloid form. Last year 8,000 Student Directories were printed at a cost of $4,200, and many were left over. This semester 10,000 have been printed and another 10,000 will be printed next semester, at a cost of $2,000 per semester.

Two improvements from last year are a list of Student Senate members and the information on the University Health Service on page 38. There also are lists of student organizations; student offices; faculty, staff, alumni, parent, and religious organizations; residence halls; fraternities, sororities, and dining halls (hours they're open are included).

Van Benthuyzen says, "time will show that the new format is as durable as the other." He also feels the advantages of this new form far outweigh the disadvantages, and he welcomes any comments or suggestions for a different format. His office is on the second floor of Alumni House.

Toys For Tots Drive Underway; Donate To Help Less Fortunate Children

by Becky Burr

Your old teddy bear is in the back of the closet somewhere, and you've almost forgotten how much he meant to you once. Your little sister is ten now, but she still loves her velvet rabbit. There are hundreds of children all over Burlington who are less fortunate than you may have been. OVP, TEP, and Theta have gotten together to do something about it.

Toys for Tots is an annual volunteer project coordinated through OVP and carried out by members of Tau Epsilon Phi and Kappa Alpha Theta. Each year before Christmas the students volunteer their time and energy to collect toys in the Burlington area.

This year the drive is being coordinated by Fletcher Balla, a Sophomore from Brockport, New York and a Civil Engineering major in the college of Technology. Assisting him from TEP is Paul Breslin, a Senior Forestry major from Milton, Massachusetts. Sue Elliott, OVP Project Director of the Interfaith Senior Citizen's Project is the third member of the organizational committee.

Toys which are in good condition, games and children's books are all welcome contributions. If you have any of these items and would like to contribute them to the Toys for Tots drive, you may leave them at the Office of Volunteer Programs, Mansfield House, or at TEP, 383 College Street, or at Theta, 215 South Prospect Street. If you have toys but are unable to deliver them, Toys for Tots Volunteers will be glad to pick them up. There will be one pick-up date, TONIGHT, NOVEMBER 29 from 6:00 to 10:00 p.m. If you wish to have toys picked up at your home, please call the Office of Volunteer Programs (656-2062), TEP (863-9294) or Theta (864-6181), and leave your name and address. All toys collected through the Toys for Tots Drive will be contributed to area children's agencies for distribution.

Black Historian To Speak Tuesday

Leo Burkely, a black historian at Vanier College in Montreal, will give a lecture on Tuesday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 115 at the Living/Learning Center.

The lecture, entitled "What's With Jansen and Shockley?" will be a discussion of race theories as related to black education.

A Black History specialist,

Burkely will be offering a course in Black History at UVM spring semester. He taught the course last spring, and it was well received by students.

A doctoral candidate at George Williams University in Montreal, Burkely lectured for the Community Relations Council in London, England, in the summer of 1973.

He will be at the replacement in the Living/Learning Center at 4 p.m. for a coffee hour, and will have dinner in the dining hall from 5:30 to 6:30, should anyone wish to talk to him informally.

Burkely's lecture is being co-sponsored by the History Department and the Cross-Cultural Communications Component.

Grocery Stores Asked To Conserve Energy By Following Specific Guidelines

The energy crisis is the concern of every citizen. The grocery industry feels it is important to take appropriate action and is asking the grocery stores in Vermont to enact the following guidelines as soon as possible, but no later than Tuesday, November 25th.

1. All major supermarkets (5,000 ft. or greater) shall be closed on Sunday.
2. Major supermarkets shall close their stores on Mondays,

Tuesdays, and Saturdays at 6 p.m.

3. All other markets regardless of size shall reduce their current night-time store hours; no store should be open later than 10 p.m.

4. All stores shall reduce their store temperatures to a range of 60 to 65 degrees.

5. All stores shall shut off wherever possible throughout

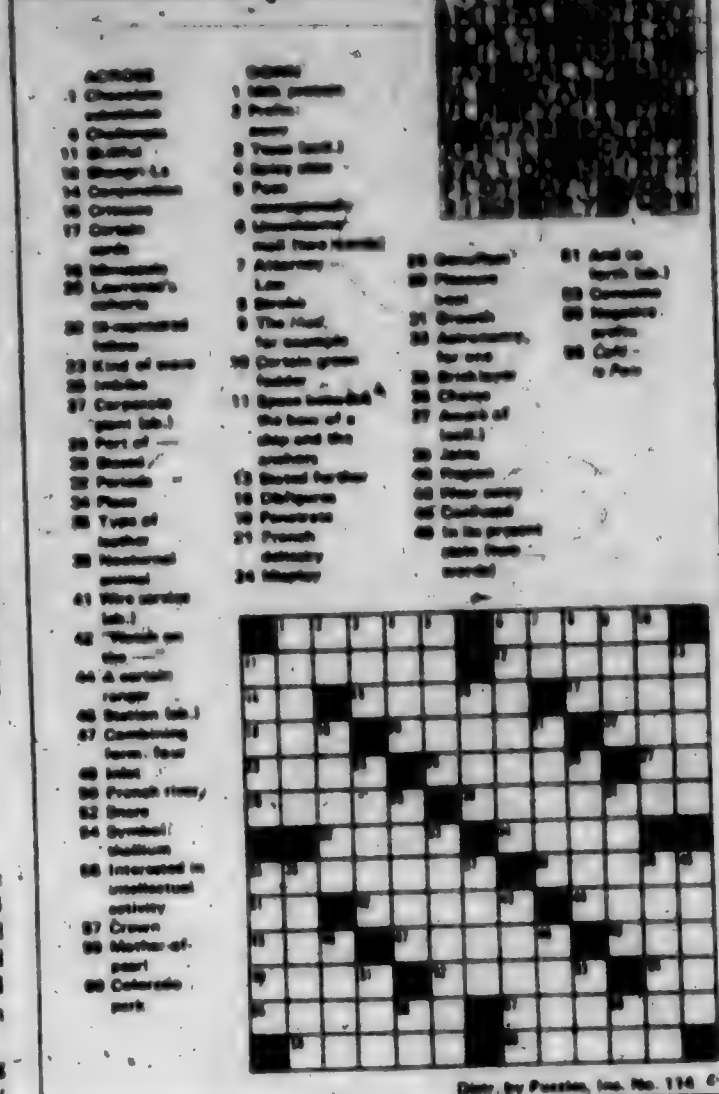

6. All neon signs shall be turned off.

7. Frozen food and dairy case lights shall be turned off wherever possible.

8. All store lights shall be turned off at store closing, except those necessary for safety and security.

9. Limit all other lighting wherever possible throughout the store.

crossword puzzle

"Indecent" Newspaper...

(continued from page one)

were not "constitutionally obscene." That the university had not claimed that the newspaper had not disrupted campus order or had interfered with the rights of others.

That, although universities have "legitimate authority to enforce reasonable regulations as to the time, place, and manner of speech and its dissemination" — on their campuses, Ms. Papish was dismissed because of the disapproved content of the newspaper rather than the time, place, or manner of its distribution.

Chief Justice Warren E.

Burger called the majority decision "curious — even bizarre" and dissented because "in theory, at least, a university is not merely an arena for discussion of ideas by students and faculty; it is also an institution where individuals learn to express themselves in acceptable, civil terms."

The Chief Justice indicated that he found it ironic that the court held that the university should have allowed distribution of the newspaper, since the majority opinion itself resorted to using the "now-familiar" code abbreviation for the petitioner's foul language.

BARAINS ON BOOKS FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING

NOW!!!

in the

UNIVERSITY STORE

ON THE CAMPUS

105551. All Color book of insects. By M. Tweedie. 101 full color photos. The fascinating world of insects in photos, accompanied by a text expert accounts of each insect's habits and life history. Extra value import only $2.95.

105608. All Color Book of Mushrooms and Fungi. By M. Savonius. 104 full color photos. Exotic world of mushrooms and fungi, shapes and colors pinpointed in fantastic enlargements. Incl. edible mushrooms with cooking lore, poisonous fungi, toadstools, weed bracket and sinister fungi. 8 1/2 x 11 1/2. Extra value import only $2.98.

105535. All Color Book of Racing Cars. By B. King. 104 full color photos. All the daredevil thrills, all the romance of glamorous racing personalities captured in action pictures. 3 1/3 H.P. Daimler-Engine model to today's Lotus Mark 56 that's been clocked at almost 170 M.P.H. Extra value import only $2.98.

106379. All Color Book of Wines. By David Milligan. 100 full color photos. Red and white Bordeaux, Champagnes, wines from Germany and wine from California — Characteristics, better vintages, behind the scenes at the vineyards — it's all here, with luscious photographs to make the blood race. Extra value import only $2.98.

099004. The Art of Drying Plants and Flowers. By Mabel Squires. 40 photos. Guide to what plants will dry well, where to find them, color wheel, arrangements, drying flowers, foliage, nuts, seed pods and cones. Orig. Pub. at $4.50. New Complete Ed. only $1.49.

016338. Thornton W. Burgess at Paddy the Beaver's Pond. A book of nature stories. Illus. by Harrison Cady. 21 new stories from the green forest. How Mr. & Mrs. Paddy Beaver kept constant watch as they built their home and prepared their food pile. For boys and girls. 3 to 8. Orig. Pub. at $3.95. New, Complete Ed. only $1.49.

111667. The Sculptures of Gian Lorenzo Bernini. By R. Wittower. 254 illus. First comprehensive study of the "great baroque sculptor" who has just recently emerged from the shadows. A lavish collection and critique of the mystically sensual ecstasy of St. Teresa, the Baldacchino, the tomb of Pope Urban VIII, more. 8 3/4 x 12 1/2. Pub. at $17.50. Only $7.95.

N08540. Book of American Antiques. By J. Bennett. 100 illus. 40 in full color. The American tradition, from early colonial crafts to the furniture, ceramics, silver, glass, toys, etc., of the 18th and 19th centuries. A handsome historical and social picture of the growing nation through its antiques. $7.95. Extra Value Import only $3.95.

027674. Buck Rogers. The Collected Works in the 25th Century. Introd. by Ray Bradbury. Comic strip and space buffs will revel in this careful selection from 40 years of the strip starting in 1929. Over 1000 of them reproduced in color and monochrome on 400 pages. Massive 11 X 14 volume. Orig. Pub. at $15.00. New, Complete Ed. only $7.95.

015927. The Burgess Book of Nature Lore. By Thornton W. Burgess. Illus. by R. Cady. 26 stories of how animals and plants make the most of life told in charming style with lots of real information. Orig. Pub. at $5.00. New, Complete Ed. only $1.98.

N03336. Color Treasury of Cats and Kittens. By A. Torregrossa. Lavishly illus. with photos, drawings, paintings incl. over 180 cats in beautiful full color. The most exceptional value of any cat book ever published — gorgeous photos, history, habits, etc. 9 x 12. Extra value import only $1.98.

112930. Color Treasury of Firearms. Intro. by F. Wilkinson. 133 illus. mostly full color photos. Fascinating pictorial story of gun development, blunderbuss to high-velocity rifles, guns with square bullets and other oddities, elaborately ornate firearms, etc. 9 x 12. Extra value import only $1.98.

109794. Color Treasury of Motorcycles. Over 110 brilliant color photos. The excitement and thrills of the world's greatest motorcycles, built for speed and power, displayed as gleaming symbols of our time. 9 x 12. Only $1.98.

N03360. Color Treasury of Mushrooms and Toadstools. By U. Tomic & A. Faneli. Over 425 beautiful photos all in rich full color. Every size, shape and form of mushroom and toadstool vividly portrayed, plus a wealth of information on poisonous types, myths and history, etc. 9 x 12. Extra value import only $1.98.

082535. Complete Book of Dried Arrangements. By R. M. Underwood. A wealth of information about preparing and using dried materials — drying, pressing, skiltopping, pressed-flower pictures and trays, dome and paperweight bouquets, using driftwood, seeds, pods, cones, shells, etc. Pub. at $4.95. Only $1.69.

107155. The Complete Bread Cookbook. By T. A. J. Kaufman. Over 300 international recipes for delicious breads, rolls, brioche, scones, muffins, popovers, biscuits, babkas, etc. New, improved ed. only $1.98.

026856. Country Flavor Cook Book. By Haydn S. Pearson. Delicious country recipes, both new and traditional, for soups, chowders, breads, cakes, pies, puddings, casseroles, etc. Orig. pub. at $4.50. New, complete ed. only $1.49.

016346. Thornton W. Burgess. The Crooked Little Path. A book of nature stories. Illus. by Harrison Cady. 26 delightful stories about the animal characters made famous by Burgess. Peter Rabbit, Buster Bear, Bricky Porky, Little Joe Otter, etc. Orig. pub. at $3.95. New, complete ed. only $1.49.

11531X. Drawing People. By P. Hogarth. 133 illus. incl. 8 full color plates. Hogarth shares his secrets on drawing people in every kind of action — from London strippers to oil riggers. How to approach a subject, portraits, caricatures & social comments, much more. Pub. at $10.95. Only $4.95.

106612. Durer The Artist and His Drawings. By C. White. 169 illus. incl. 8 color plates. Durer's development as a draftsman revealed in critical analysis of 106 plates with early paintings and prints to compare with the later works. Pub. at $17.50. Only $7.95.

101823. Encyclopedia of Knitting and Crochet Stitches. By F. Westfall. With photos of over 300 stitches. A wealth of ideas for knitting, knitted lace, crocheting, etc., covering how to read instructions, descriptions of stitches, synthetic and natural fibres, etc. Orig. pub. at $5.50. New, Complete Ed. only $2.98.

119978. Fast Feasts A Cookbook for Hurried Gourmets. By J. Van Biber. Twenty varied menus for marvelous meals made quickly incl. a Sicilian spring feast of spaghetti with artichoke & fennel, veal scallop with lemon, gnocchi, salad, fruit and cheese, etc. Pub. at $7.95. Only $2.98.

120860. Favorite Recipes from Southern Kitchens. Casseroles — incl. breads. 95 illus. Secrets of country casserole cookery from readers of progressive farmer, incl. chicken, meatball pie, chicken & corn, etc. freezing rules. Breads, soups, other tips. 7 x 10 1/2. Pub. at $3.95. Only $1.98.

001489. Fine Points of Furniture. Early American. By Albert Sack. Intro. by J. M. Graham II, Curator, Colonial Williamsburg. 800 illus. thorough analysis through pictures and text of the elements of design, decoration, craftsmanship, construction, finish of early American furniture. Only $3.95.

115425. Gods & Goddesses of the Movies. By J. Kobal. Over 400 illus., many in color. The glamorous stars who make the movies what they are — the sometimes foolish, extravagant, live-today-for-tomorrow — we die beautiful people — all in a magnificent comprehensive book on doings on and off the screen of Gable, Garbo, Monroe, Dietrich, Lots more. Extra value import only $4.95.

N01015. TREASURY OF THE WORLD'S BEST LOVED POEMS. 109 lovely poems, lyric and dramatic, from the Bible to Whitman, gathered in a beautiful volume bound in brown simulated leather and stamped in gold. Extra Special Value only $1.00.

117754. TREASURY OF PROVERBS AND EPIGRAMS. Over 2500 of the best sayings of the great leaders, teachers and philosophers of all times, with indices of sources and categories. Bound in green simulated leather with simulated gold stamping. Extra special value only $1.00.

117762. WEBSTER'S TREASURY OF SYNONYMS, ANTONYMS AND HOMONYMS. 12,000 synonyms, 10,000 antonyms, and 2000 homonyms, arranged in dictionary form, indexed, and bound in green simulated leather with simulated gold stamping. Extra special value only $1.00.

117746. TREASURY OF FAMILIAR QUOTATIONS. Over 2500 well-known useful quotes listed under 900 topic headings from Ability to Zeal, indexed, and gathered into a lovely volume of Green simulated leather with simulated gold stamping. Extra special value at only $1.00.

AND MANY MORE

Community...

Effect of all of sharing such goals, but such successes can also encourage similar activities in the Burlington Community as well. It is the feeling of "Project Elm" members the citizens both on and off campus must become more actively involved in the welfare of our community.

AMERICAN FAMILY PLANNING IS A HOSPITAL AFFILIATED ORGANIZATION OFFERING YOU ALL THE SERVICES TO AN UNWANTED PREGNANCY FOR INFORMATION IN YOUR AREA CALL: (315) 486-2000 AMERICAN FAMILY PLANNING A Medical Service in New York

AM to 9:00 PM South Burlington Bass

Shoe Outlet

% on Quality footwear.

Men's Leather Upper 5" Work Shoe $14.95

This 5" boot comes in smooth brown quilt leather, aged looks with cord laces, cushion insoles, moccasin toe, spring steel shank. Neoprene well with gum soles. All popular sizes.

GUARANTEED YOUR MONEY BACK Bass

Winner In Short Story Contest: A Difference Of Age

(continued from page one)

breaths. "Wooh, Wooh!" they screamed, and the high school students who were walking in the opposite direction, who also thought they knew everything, looked at them with scorn. Christine and Vicky hated them all, and had nasty names for all of them. There was Booger Brains, who had curly greasy black hair, and pimples on his face and was always walking with his girlfriend. They called her Juicy Toothy Lucy because she was missing two front teeth, and once it slipped out when she could hear. She knew they were talking about her and turned bright red because Booger Brains was there with her and he knew they were talking about her.

"How do you suppose they like?" whispered Christine. "I wonder who it feels funniest to, her or him. I'd rather kiss a dog than to kiss someone without any teeth!"

"Maybe she has some false teeth that she sticks in so he doesn't have to feel that space."

"But then she would have them in now, because they're already hanging and hanging."

Poetry Winner Tornadoes In Minnesota

There were no sirens in the north,
the pines would croon yellow we would be under water, teeth clenched
box of salt on the dock
ready to ward off bloodsuckers;

I never found out if they swam or clustered in the mud like tangerines
black slices I saw
one once on my cousin's
lard leg, tense as a dead root, white
he came from the water, mouth open
like an echo from the lake ran back screaming, ran screaming, ran

back into the woods
it was black and wet as a slap
of molasses - I could only wheeze
and the tornadoes had come without warning
they travelled in packs,
up there stirring the mountains
across the lake, shrouded women
scarf dancers/sky going lizard

we had skinned toads on the shore
before and watched them sopping, hop
to water - pink bodies now litter and flutter like rose petals before
the brides, the twisters
coming beyond the screens
we have no cellar, can always get in the car and drive ahead leading them like malleable ogresses across the Indian reservations
and out onto the plains to wait.

by Ellen Sullivan

the way to school. Look! Now!"

They had their arms around each other and Christine and Vicky mimicked as he hugged her close and kissed her cheek.

"They're just right for each other because she can't kiss his cheek or she'll get a mouthful of pimples." They shrieked with laughter and giggled and choked after attempting to stifle it.

There was a fat freckled redhead they called Many Pounds. He didn't like them very much either, and he threatened them with smart, condescending remarks that made Christine want to cry and hit him at the same time. That's how Vicky felt, too, and once she jumped on his back and pulled his hair, screaming, "You think you're so smart, you fat ugly dink! You leave us alone!" Christine's eyes bugged out when she saw Vicky do this; she thought Many Pounds was going to take it out on her since Vicky was behind him on his back, but he scowled and muttered something like "Vug In Brats" and quirked out of her grasp. Vicky was quite proud, and claimed it was because she herself had red hair that she dared to do that, but Christine thought her to be just plain stupid.

They had to pass a park along the way, and there was a pond with ducks in it that they could see from the street. As they approached it that morning, all the ducks were clustered along the shoreline nearest them. Christine and Vicky had both brought their lunches; usually Vicky ate the hot lunch at school while Christine had a sandwich and an apple and a chocolate bar from home. She didn't have much left when she was through.

"I hate my mother! She always gives me chicken sandwiches when I have to bring lunch. I hate chicken sandwiches. I told her to give me cookies too and she gives me this stinky cake. I hate cake. I hate it all." She looked over to where the ducks were swimming themselves on the grass. "I'm not going to school today. I'm going to feed the ducks."

Christine said, "You'll get hungry at lunchtime, you know. I'm not going to give you any of my lunch. I have cream cheese and jelly," she added, and pulled out her sandwich to sneak a bite. She didn't get to sneak it at all, though; Vicky saw her and said, "Don't be a pig. Feed it to the ducks with me."

"I'll be hungry at noon, thought Christine, and she knew she couldn't go home for lunch and her mother would wonder why she would eat so many cookies at three o'clock. But she didn't tie her sandwich back up into the baggie and they walked off the sidewalk over to the duckpond. The ducks started squawking and honking and ran up to them. They were spoiled from everyone throwing Sunbeam bread heels at them.

"Here, ducks!" called Vicky, but the ducks were running away from her pudgy body so carefully wrapped that morning by an over-precious mother. "Maybe they don't eat chicken," offered Christine.

"I don't blame them," said Vicky, dumping the chicken onto the ground. She threw the bread halves into the water, and they floated on the cloudy surface like four tiny rectangular rafts until they were snatched by the once fearful ducks. "I hate ducks," said Vicky.

"Quit saying you hate. My mother says it's not true whenever you say hate, that you don't really hate anything. Say you don't like them."

"I don't like them very very much. There, that's just about the same, isn't it?"

"Well, at least it sounds better," said Christine. Her tone closely resembled her own mother's when she was reprimanding her children. She refused to spank them when they had done something wrong; instead she spoke to them of consciences and honor and self-respect, words that had taken on ominous rather than abstract qualities for Christine. She had found her conscience one day underneath her armpit. It looked like a tiny brown mole, but she knew it was her conscience. Vicky didn't hear about consciences and honor from her mother; she was grounded for misbehavior.

She had been grounded last summer. Christine and Vicky had fixed up a fort out in the woods, and they wanted to run away from home and live there. They hadn't really built it; it had been constructed a year earlier by some boys who had abandoned the old one to the two girls. Vicky and Christine thought they were miles away from everything and everyone, and that it would be a good place to play doctor. That summer they talked about breast cancer, because Vicky's aunt had had an operation and she was dying to know why they wouldn't tell her what had happened. She still looked the same to Vicky. It wasn't as if she had grown another bosom, she said, like cancer would probably do to you.

There in the little underground hut they played doctor. Christine didn't have breasts yet; even her nipples stayed pressed flat and close against her chest. But Vicky was growing fast; her breasts were already the size of baseballs. Proud yet at the same time embarrassed by them, she would lift her T-shirt and let Christine cup them in her hand, slowly squeezing them in a circular rotation. Her nipples were soft and puffy; sometimes, Vicky said, they hurt and she could feel a big lump on the underside that was sore when she touched it. Christine felt her own but there was just skin on top of ribs.

They talked about cancer and bleeding, and Vicky said that you had to wear cotton between your legs once a month, whether you liked it or not, and she didn't know why. "Well, I won't! I'm not a baby; I can hold it in!" declared Christine. Deep down inside, though, she was afraid, but she certainly wouldn't let Vicky know.

But their privacy was intruded upon through their own carelessness. For neither had ever carried a watch along and, contrary to their belief, the hut was not unbeknownst to the families. A face appeared at the opening of the shelter one day when they thought it was mid-morning and Vicky's mother was there, kneeling and looking very stupid in a white flowered housedress.

"What are you doing?" she screamed. "Victoria Jean, you get your shirt on right this minute! Both of you. Shame on both of you. Just wait until your fathers hear about this!" and she bustled the two of them out of there. Christine was red with embarrassment, Vicky purple with rage. "I hate you, Mother!"

Christine couldn't see her for four full days. She herself had received an uncomfortable address, uncomfortable for her because she was the naughty one and it was her punishment, meant to bring out a guilty conscience; uncomfortable for her father and mother because they didn't like to say exactly what it was she had done and why they thought it worthy of a lecture.

Now as they headed away from the duck pond, they knew they were late for school; they knew too they couldn't go home for lunch, or for TV, or for books, or for toys to fill the day.

In the playground they teased for a while. But Vicky was too heavy for Christine, and she liked to sit on the edge of the seesaw, leaving Christine pendulating up in the air, wavering between that fine point of balance where she could sink her end to the ground. If that started to happen, Vicky would jump off and Christine would land with a thud on the ground. At first she laughed; after three times the jolt traveled up her spine and she could feel it all through her stomach and chest. Without saying anything, or laughing like she usually tried to, she got off and walked up the steep hill to the rock ridge.

"Christine! Wait! I'm coming too!" Vicky heaved the air in and out of her lungs as she tried to catch up with Christine, who was already at the top.

Halfway up the hill she met a man. He had on an old army coat the color of the duck pond, and beige pants that were too large. The cuffs hung down over his shoes as he sat there on the rock, with his legs half bent and his hands on his knees. She couldn't see his eyes because he wore very thick glasses, D-shaped, and they caught the sun when he looked at her.

Vicky said, "Did you see my friend go by here?" Her fat face was demanding.

But instead of answering the question, he said, "Sweetie, you're a cute girl. Would you like to see my pistol? I'll let you see my pistol."

"You mean, you have a gun?"

Are you a hunter?"

"Well, yes. I have a gun." He smiled again at her, and the sun flashed off from his glasses.

"Well, what are you hunting? Ducks?"

He did not answer her. Christine was coming down the hill as the man began to pull the zipper of his pants down, carefully and slowly, until he was holding his organ, swollen and pointing towards Vicky's face. He held it and smoothed his fingers over it, and with his other hand he reached up and touched his own face. Vicky backed away from him, fascinated, and kept staring directly at his flesh. She didn't blink and her mouth was open just a slit, but she wasn't saying anything.

Christine stood behind Vicky, also silent, and her eyes traveled from his face to his crotch and back to his face again. Then she reached out and gingerly touched Vicky's hand. "Vicky. Come on," she said quietly.

He was still touching his face, smoothing his fingers over his eyes and nose and lips, and he spoke again.

"You like my pistol? It'll go bang. You want to watch?"

Vicky was about to nod her head but Christine tightened her hand around her friend's and pulled her back. "Vicky. Come, please." Christine was very stiff and afraid she would have to really pull Vicky away, though she knew she didn't have the power to do that if Vicky really wanted to stay and watch the man shoot his pistol. Christine didn't. She felt as if she were going to throw up.

She let go of Vicky's hand, turned, and began to climb up the hill, carefully placing each foot in front of her and picking up the other as if she were creating for the first time a new step, each one different. When she was at the top of the hill she broke into a run, and she ran and ran until she felt she had squeezed the juice out of her muscles. Then she remembered Vicky, and she stopped and looked around hoping to see Vicky following. But of course she wasn't, and Christine had to go back. At the top of the hill again she looked down, and there was Vicky, running up towards her. The man was standing down there, his position unchanged save his hands, which now hung at his side. He was watching Vicky wiggling her body up the path.

Vicky's eyes were still opened wide and she had an awesome but guilty look on her face. "He's mental," she whispered. "He was having a spastic attack down there. And it looked like he was going to the bathroom." She bit her lower lip in a half frown and squinted her eyes and hunched her shoulders up. She breathed long and hard and then said, "Don't tell your mother because she would kill us for saying what we saw. Like we can't play doctor any more."

Christine didn't answer. She was thinking of her father and her brother, of Daniel and Russ. She felt sorry for the man in the park; truly, he must have been mental like Vicky said.

MORE THAN ONCE UPON A TIME

ONCE A KNIGHT WAS ADVISED BY HIS FRIEND AND ROOMMATE, A DRAGON, THAT THE PURSUIT OF ACADEMICS MIGHT NOT BE BEST SUITED TO ONE OF SO ARTISTIC A TEMPERAMENT, AND THAT THE KNIGHT COULD BEST ACHIEVE THE GREATNESS THAT WAS HIS DESTINY BY PURSUING A COURSE IN FILM MAKING.

THE KNIGHT DID SEE THE WISDOM OF THE DRAGON'S ADVICE AND DID REGISTER FOR THE COURSE, AND COMMENCE WITH STUDIOUS PREPARATIONS.

WHICH PREPARATIONS WERE SOON INTERRUPTED BY REVERIES OF CINEMATIC CELEBRITY, HE DREAMED HIMSELF DIRECTING A CAST OF THOUSANDS IN A CINEMASCOPE REPRODUCTION OF THE LIFE OF IMMANUEL KANT.

OR, ENGAGED IN A FILMIC HIGH MOON SHOWDOWN WITH DIRTY JOHN, IGNORABLE VILLAIN OF A FILM BASED ON A THIRD-RATE JOKE CALLED "THAT'S DIRTY JOHN'S GIRL."

OR, PINNACLE OF PINNACLES, APPEARING AS AN URBANE SPOKESMAN IN A GENUINE SCHAEFER BEER COMMERCIAL.

BUT, ALAS, HE WAS CALLED BACK FROM HIS REVERIES,

AND WAS GIVEN BY HIS INSTRUCTOR HIS FIRST ASSIGNMENT: HE WOULD, ON JOY, BE SPECIAL-EFFECTS MAN FOR A DOCUMENTARY FILM TENTATIVELY TITLED "THE MATING HABITS OF THE CLIFF PIGEON."

WHEN YOU'RE HAVING MORE THAN ONE

Schaefer Breweries, New York, N.Y., Baltimore, Md., Lough Valley, Pa.

Faculty Expresses Opinions On Impeachment

(continued from page one)

under his direction has clearly usurped many of the functions which rightfully belong to the other coordinate branches of the government, especially the Congress. He has violated the autonomy of supposedly independent government the IRS. And it has been done not in pursuit of a particular ideology nor for partisan gain, but apparently for the perpetuation of a personality cult. The first loyalty of this administration has been to presidential whims and not the American public.

Skip Dickerson, English

Mr. Dickerson's statement: "I would like to see him go, because he has shown himself to be the leader of the most corrupt administration of all time." He continued, "The best thing that can be said is that he is incredibly stupid. I doubt that he will be impeached."

W.N. White, Chemistry

Of impeachment, Mr. White said: "I guess I'm in favor of it." Mr. White is hesitant to convict the administration because to his knowledge President Nixon has not committed any criminal acts. He does say that he feels "our government hasn't been conducted on the highest moral plane."

Anne Lusk, TA in Sewing

"I say no, just for the stabilization of the country," states Ms. Lusk. She admits that she doesn't have many political views. "Any view I have is definitely uneducated. I haven't really studied the situation."

Frank Emanuel, Hospitality Administrator

When asked whether he was in favor of President Nixon's impeachment, Mr. Emanuel replied "No, I'm not in favor of impeachment." He wanted to point out that he was in favor of following up the procedure of investigating President Nixon.

FOREST HILLS
OUTLET

WINOOSKI VT.
WEST CANAL ST.
SHOP DAILY
9 AM to 10 PM

ACCOMPANIED BY THIS COUPON

THE NEW RINGO STARR ALBUM

'RINGO'

ON SALE

Reg. $5.29 Sale $3.57

Complete line of darkroom accessories

NOW! 40% DISCOUNT
ON ALL PHOTOFINISHING (EXCEPT EK)

Winner In Short Story Contest : A Difference Of Age

(continued from page one)

breaths. "Woo, woo!" they screamed, and the high school students who were waiting in the opposite direction, who also thought they knew everything, looked at them with scorn. Christine and Vicky hated them all, and had nasty names for all of them. There was Booger Brains, who had curly greasy black hair, and pumpled on his face and was always walking with his girlfriend. They called her Jucy Toothy Lucy because she was missing two front teeth, and once it slipped out when she could hear. She knew they were talking about her and the way to school. Look! Now!"

They had their arms around each other and Christine and Vicky smirked as he hugged her close and kissed her cheek. "They're just right for each other because she can't kiss his cheek or she'll get a mouthful of pimples." They shrieked with laughter and giggled and choked after attempting to stifle it.

There was a fat freckled redhead they called Many Pounds. He didn't like them very much either, and he threatened them with smart, condescending remarks that made Christine want to cry and hit him at the same time. That's how Vicky felt, too, and once she jumped on his back and pulled his hair, screaming, "You think you're so smart, you fat ugly dink! You leave us alone!" Christine's eyes bugged out when she saw Vicky do this; she thought Many Pounds was going to take it out on her since Vicky was behind him on his back, but he scowled and muttered something like "Vug in Brats, and squirmed out of her grasp. Vicky was quite proud, and claimed it was because she herself had red hair that she dared to do that, but Christine thought her to be just plain stupid.

"They had to pass a park along the way, and there was a pond with ducks in it that they could see from the street. As they approached it that morning, all the ducks were clustered along the shoreline nearest them—Christine and Vicky had both brought their lunches; usually Vicky ate the hot lunch at school, while Christine had a sandwich and an apple and a chocolate bar from home. She didn't have much left when she was through.

"I hate my mother! She always gives me chicken sandwiches when I have to bring lunch. I hate chicken sandwiches. I told her to give me cookies too and she gives me this stinky cake. I hate cake. I hate it all!" She looked over to where the ducks were swimming themselves, on the grass. "I'm not going to school today. I'm going to feed the ducks."

Christine said, "You'll get hungry at lunchtime, you know. I'm not going to give you any of my lunch. I have cream cheese and jelly," she added, and pulled out her sandwich to sneak a bite. She didn't get to sneak it at all, though. Vicky saw her and said, "Don't be a pig. Feed it to the ducks with me."

I'll be hungry at noon, thought Christine, and she knew she couldn't go home for lunch and her mother would wonder why she would eat so many cookies at three o'clock. But she didn't tie her sandwich back up into the baggie and they walked off the sidewalk over to the duckpond. The ducks started squawking and honking and ran up to them. They were spoiled from everyone throwing Sunbeam bread heels at them.

"Here, duckies!" called Vicky, but the ducks were running away from her pudgy body so carefully wrapped that morning by an over-protective mother. "Maybe they don't eat chicken," offered Christine.

"I don't blame them," said Vicky, dumping the chicken onto the ground. She threw the bread halves into the water, and they floated on the cloudy surface like four tiny rectangular rafts until they were snatched by the once fearful ducks. "I hate ducks," said Vicky.

"Quit saying you hate. My mother says it's not true whenever you say hate, that you don't really hate anything. Say you don't like them."

"I don't like them very very much. There's that's just about the same, isn't it?" "Well, at least it sounds better," said Christine. Her tone closely resembled her own mother's when she was reprimanding her children: She refused to spank them when they had done something wrong; instead she spoke to them of consciences and honor and self-respect, words that had taken on ominous overtones than abstract qualities for Christine. She had found her conscience one day underneath her armpit. It looked like a tiny brown mole, but she knew it was her conscience. Vicky didn't hear about consciences and honor from her mother; she was grounded for misbehavior.

She had been grounded last summer. Christine and Vicky had fixed up a fort out in the woods, and they wanted to run away from home and live there. They hadn't really built it; it had been constructed a year earlier by some boys who this year had built another one, abandoning the old one to the two girls. Vicky and Christine thought they were miles away from everything and everyone, and that it would be a good place to play doctor. That summer they talked about breast cancer, because Vicky's aunt had had an operation and she was dying to know why they wouldn't tell her what had happened. She still looked the same to Vicky; it wasn't as if she had grown another bosom, she said, like cancer would probably do to you.

There in the little underground hut they played doctor. Christine didn't have breasts yet; even her nipples stayed pressed flat and close against her chest. But Vicky was growing fast; her breasts were already the size of baseballs. Proud yet at the same time embarrassed by them, she would lift her T-shirt and let Christine cup them in her hand, slowly squeezing them in a circular rotation. The nipples were soft and puffy; sometimes, Vicky said, they hurt and she could feel a big lump on the underside that was sore when she touched it. Christine felt her own but there was just skin on top of ribs.

They talked about cancer and bleeding, and Vicky said that you had to wear cotton between your legs once a month, whether you liked it or not, and no, she didn't know why. "Well, I won't! I'm no baby. I can hold it in!" Christine said quietly.

He was still touching his face, smoothing his fingers over his eyes and nose and lips, and he spoke again.

inside, though, she was afraid, but she certainly wouldn't let Vicky know.

But their privacy was intruded upon through their own carelessness, for neither had ever earned a watch along and, contrary to their belief, the hut was not unbeknownst to the families. A face appeared at the opening of the shelter one day when they thought it was mid-morning and Vicky's mother was there, kneeling and looking very stupid in a white flowered housedress.

"What are you doing?" she screamed. "Victoria Jean, you get your shirt on right this minute! Both of you. Shame on both of you. Just wait until your father hear about this!" and she bustled the two of them out of there. Christine was red with embarrassment, Vicky purple with rage. "I hate you, Mother!"

Christine couldn't see her for four full days. She herself had received an uncomfortable address, uncomfortable for her because she was the naughty one and it was her punishment, meant to bring out a guilty conscience; uncomfortable for her father and mother because they didn't like to see exactly what it was she had done and why they thought it worthy of a lecture.

Now as they headed away from the duck pond, they knew they were late for school; they knew too they couldn't go home for lunch, or for TV, or for books, or for toys to fill the day.

In the playground they seethed for a while. But Vicky was too heavy for Christine, and she liked to sit on the edge of the seesaw, leaving Christine pendulating up in the air, wavering between that fine point of balance where she could sink her end to the ground. If that started to happen, Vicky would jump off and Christine would land with a thud on the ground. At first she laughed; after three times the jolt traveled up her spine and she could feel it all through her stomach and chest. Without saying anything, or laughing like she usually tried to, she got off and walked up the steep hill to the rock ridge.

"Christine! Wait! I'm coming too!" Vicky heaved the air in and out of her lungs as she tried to catch up with Christine, who was already at the top.

Halfway up the hill she met a man. He had on an old army coat the color of the duck pond, and beige pants that were too large. The cuffs hung down over his shoes as he sat there on the rock, with his legs half bent and his hands on his knees. She couldn't see his eyes because he wore very thick glasses, D-shaped, and they caught the sun when he looked at her.

Vicky said, "Did you see my friend go by here?" Her fat face was demanding.

But instead of answering the question, he said, "Sweetie, you're a cute girl. Would you like to see my pistol? I'll let you see my pistol."

"You mean, you have a gun? Are you a hunter?"

"Well, yes. I have a gun." He smiled again at her, and the sun flashed off from his glasses. "Well, what are you hunting? Ducks?"

He did not answer her. Christine was coming down the hill as the man began to gull the zipper of his pants down, carefully and slowly, until he was holding his organ, swollen and pointing towards Vicky's face. He held it and smoothed his fingers over it, and with his other hand he reached up and touched his own face. Vicky backed away from him, fascinated, and kept staring directly at his flesh. She didn't blink and her mouth was open just a slit, but she wasn't saying anything.

Christine stood behind Vicky, also silent, and her eyes traveled from his face to his crotch and back to his face again. Then she reached out and gingerly touched Vicky's hand. "Vicky. Come on," she said quietly.

"You like my pistol? It'll go bang. You want to watch?"

Vicky was about to nod her head but Christine tightened her hand around her friend's and pulled her back. "Vicky. Come, please." Christine was very stiff and afraid she would have to really pull Vicky away, though she knew she didn't have the power to do that if Vicky really wanted to stay and watch the man shoot his pistol. Christine didn't. She felt as if she were going to throw up.

She let go of Vicky's hand, turned, and began to climb up the hill, carefully placing each foot in front of her and picking up the other as if she were creating for the first time a new step, each one different. When she was at the top of the hill she broke into a run, and she ran and ran until she felt she had squeezed the juice out of her muscles. Then she remembered Vicky, and she stopped and looked around hoping to see Vicky following. But of course she wasn't, and Christine had to go back. At the top of the hill again she looked down, and there was Vicky, running up towards her. The man was standing down there, his position unchanged, save his hands, which now hung at his side. He was watching Vicky wiggle her body up the path.

Vicky's eyes were still opened wide and she had an awesome but guilty look on her face. "He's mental," she whispered. "He was having a spastic attack down there. And it looked like he was going to the bathroom." She bit her lower lip in a half frown and squinted her eyes and hunched her shoulders up. She breathed long and hard and then said, "Don't tell your mother because she would kill us for saying what we saw. Like we can't play doctor any more."

Christine didn't answer. She was thinking of her father and her brother, of Daniel and Russ. She felt sorry for the man in the park; truly, he must have been mental like Vicky said.

Poetry Winner Tornadoes In Minnesota

There were no sirens in the north the pines would crouch yellow we would be under water, teeth clenched
box of salt on the dock
ready to ward off bloodsuckers;

I never found out if they swim
or clustered in the mud like tangerines
black slices I saw
one once on my cousin's
lard leg, tense as a dead root, white
he came from the water, mouth open
like an echo from the lake
ran back screaming, ran screaming, ran

back into the woods
it was black and wet as a slap
of molasses - I could only wheeze
and the tornadoes had come without warning
they travelled in packs
up there stirring the mountains
across the lake, shrouded women
scarf dancers, sky going lizard

we had skinned toads on the shore
before and watched them sopping, hop
to water - pink bodies now
litter and flutter like rose petals before
the brides, the twisters
coming beyond the screens
we have no cellar, can always get in the car and drive ahead leading them like mateless ogres
across the Indian reservations
and out onto the plains to wait.

by Ellen Sullivan

MORE THAN ONCE UPON A TIME

ONCE A KNIGHT WAS ADVISED BY HIS FRIEND AND ROOMMATE, A DRAGON, THAT THE PURSUIT OF ACADEMICS MIGHT NOT BE BEST SUITED TO ONE OF SO ARTISTIC A TEMPERAMENT, AND THAT THE KNIGHT COULD BEST ACHIEVE THE GREATNESS THAT WAS HIS DESTINY BY PURSUING A COURSE IN FILM MAKING.

THE KNIGHT DID SEE THE WISDOM OF THE DRAGON'S ADVICE AND DID REGISTER FOR THE COURSE AND COMMENCE WITH STUDIOUS PREPARATIONS.

WHICH FACTORS WERE SOON INTERRUPTED BY REVERIES OF CINEMATIC CELEBRITY. HE DREAMED HIMSELF DIRECTING A CAST OF THOUSANDS IN A CINEMASCOPE REVISION OF THE LIFE OF IMMANUEL KANT.

OR ENLARGED HIS DREAMS WITH NOON SHOWDOWN WITH DIRTY JOHN, IGNORABLE VILLAIN OF A FILM BASED ON A THIRD-RATE JOKE CALLED "THAT'S DIRTY JOHN'S GIRL."

OR, PINNACLE OF PINNACLES, APPEARING AS AN URBANE SPOKESMAN IN A GENUINE SCHAEFER BEER COMMERCIAL.

BUT, ALAS, HE WAS CALLED BACK FROM HIS REVERIES,

AND WAS GIVEN BY HIS INSTRUCTOR HIS FIRST ASSIGNMENT: HE, WOULD, ON JOY, BE SPECIAL-EFFECTS MAN FOR A DOCUMENTARY FILM, TENTATIVELY TITLED "THE MATING HABITS OF THE CLIFF PIGEON."

WHEN YOU'RE HAVING MORE THAN ONE

Schaefer Breweries, New York, N.Y., Baltimore, Md., Lehigh Valley, Pa.

Faculty Expresses Opinions On Impeachment

(continued from page one)

under his direction has clearly usurped many of the functions which rightfully belong to the other coordinate branches of the government, especially the Congress. He has violated the autonomy of supposedly independent government agencies, the IRS. And it has been done not in pursuit of a particular ideology nor for partisan gain, but apparently for the perpetuation of a personality cult. The first loyalty of this administration has been to presidential whims and not the American public."

Skip Dickerson, English

Mr. Dickerson's statement: "I would like to see him go."

because he has shown himself to be the leader of the most corrupt administration of all time." He continued, "The best thing that can be said is that he is incredibly stupid. I doubt that he will be impeached."

W.N. White, Chemistry

Of impeachment, Mr. White said: "I guess I'm in favor of it." Mr. White is hesitant to convict the administration because to his knowledge President Nixon has not committed any criminal acts. He does say that he feels "our government" hasn't been conducted on the highest moral plane."

Anne Lusk, TA in Sewing

"I say no, just for the stabilization of the country," states Ms. Lusk. She admits that she doesn't have many political views. "Any view I have is definitely uneducated. I haven't really studied the situation."

Frank Emanuel, Hospitality Administrator

When asked whether he was in favor of President Nixon's impeachment, Mr. Emanuel replied "No, I'm not in favor of impeachment." He wanted to point out that he was in favor of following up the procedure of investigating President Nixon.

FOREST HILLS
OUTLET

WINOOSKI VT.
WEST CANAL ST.
SHOP DAILY
9 AM to 10 PM

ACCOMPANIED BY THIS COUPON

THE NEW RINGO STARR ALBUM

'RINGO'

ON SALE

Reg. $5.29 Sale $3.57

Complete line of darkroom accessories

NOW! 40% DISCOUNT
ON ALL PHOTOFINISHING (EXCEPT EK)

Age

"You like my pistol? It'll go bang. You want to watch?" Vicky was about to nod her head but Christine tightened her hand around her friend's and pulled her back. "Vicky, come, please." Christine was very stiff and afraid she would have to really pull Vicky away, though she knew she didn't have the power to do that if Vicky really wanted to stay and watch the man shoot his pistol. Christine didn't. She felt as if she were going to throw up.

She let go of Vicky's hand, turned, and began to climb up the hill carefully placing each foot in front of her and picking up the other as if she were creating for the first time a new step, each one different. When she was at the top of the hill she broke into a run, and she ran and ran until she felt she had squeezed the juice out of her muscles. Then she remembered Vicky, and she stopped and looked around hoping to see Vicky following. But of course she wasn't, and Christine had to go back. At the top of the hill again she looked down, and there was Vicky, running up towards her. The man was standing down there, his position unchanged, save his hands, which now hung at his side. He was watching Vicky wiggling her body up the path.

Vicky's eyes were still opened wide and she had an awesome but guilty look on her face. "He's mental," she whispered. "He was having a spastic attack down there. And it looked like he was going to the bathroom." She bit her lower lip in a half frown and squinted her eyes and hunched her shoulders up. She breathed long and hard and then said, "Don't tell your mother, because she would kill us for saying what we saw. Like we can't play doctor any more." Christine didn't answer. She was thinking of her father and her brother, of Daniel and Russ. She felt sorry for the man in the park; truly, he must have been mental like Vicky said.

On Impeachment

in himself Anne Lusk, TA in Sewing the most of all the country," states Ms. Lusk. She admits that she doesn't have many political views. "Any new have is definitely uneducated. I haven't really studied the situation."

Mr. White Emanuel, Hospitality Administrator When asked whether he was in favor of President Nixon's impeachment, Mr. Emanuel replied, "Nor I'm not in favor of impeachment." He wanted to point out that he was in favor of following up the procedure of investigating President Nixon.

Dr. Hoyt To Speak On Cruise To Greenland And Tide-Races

A Cool Summer" an exploration in pictures and talk of the nights and pleasures of an extensive cruise in Greenland and an intensive week of racing in the tide-races of Cows and the Channel, by Dr. Hoyt. This lecture will be held December 3, Monday, Cook II 106, 8 P.M. with UVM ID, others for $10.

In the summer of 1973, Dr. Hoyt and his wife cruised with George Moffett, Jr., in the COV GOOSE, a 50 foot ketch, to Halifax, St. Pierre and Miquelon, Newfoundland, Greenland. In the far north, birds fill the skies in hundreds of thousands, whales come caplin, and the few inhabitants of the vast reaches of land and ice are just beginning to feel the impact of civilization. From Greenland's icy mountains, Dr. Hoyt, abandoning his wife to complete a record of SNOW GOOSE's trip, flew to England, joined "Shorty" Birmingham at Gosport and was. Here Hoyt acted as navigator on WIZARD OF PAGET for the Bermuda Admiral's Cup Team. The closed course racing at Cows and the ocean races to Le Harve and around the Fastnet Rock were the biggest ever, and showed the superiority of American designs in the hands of foreign yachtsmen with foreign sailmakers.

Mathematics Seminar

Mathematics Seminar will be held Tuesday, December 4th at 4:10 in Cook 3203. Dr. David Sylvester will speak on "Statistical Analysis of Multidimensional Cross-Classification Tables: An Introduction."

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics $2.75 per page
Send for your up-to-date, 160-page, mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage (delivery time is 1 to 2 days).
RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2
LOS ANGELES, CALIF. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold for research assistance at

Get in some great downhill skiing this vacation.
Live at the Lift connecting all trails in Madonna and Stowe
Luxury one bedroom apartment available at economy daily or all inclusive package rates.
Steps 4 comfortably Travel to and from Burlington Area arranged.
Call 802-645-5445 Paul and Nancy Gross
GATEWAY
Smuggler's Notch Ski Area
Madonna Village, Vt. 05463

FROM THE PEOPLES' REPUBLIC OF CHINA
Work Jackets for Men and Women. Sturdy blue cotton outer jackets, worn by Chinese workers and peasants, constructed for hard wear.

Quilt lined $25. PPD
Unlined $12.95 PPD
Please state your size
Matching peaked cap $2.75 PPD
Women's strap shoe black canvas acid-proof composition sole $4.95 PPD
Men's black canvas work shoe, elastic side strap-in $4.95 PPD
Please state shoe size when ordering

CHINESE ACUPUNCTURE POSTERS
Three panels with color and diagrams. Each panel 30" x 14". Complete set $3.95 PPD.
Check or Money order please, no C.O.D.

PEOPLES' WARE INC.
2210 DELANCEY PLACE PHILA., PA. 19103

Results Of Lacrosse Raffle

The following prizes were won by:
Glen Ellen Season Pass - Gary Lafabre, Summit St.
Smuggler's Notch Season Pass - Lon Cohen, 318 Wright
Panasonic Television - Paul Butler, 310 Coolidge
10 Speed Bicycle - Jo Ann Segmoun, 213 Jeanne Mance
Student Refrigerator - Joe Fowler, 138 Mills Hall
5 Band Radio from Lafayette - Wozza Matthias, 40 Monroe
Two dinners at Sirion Saloon - Parry Andrea, 121 Tupper
Stereo Headphones from Tech Hi-Fi - John Collins, Delta Psi
Two dinners at What's Your Beef - Andrew Boulier, Hamilton
Dinner at Black Angus - Dr. John Humphries, Baltimore
Two Dinners at Lums George Beato, 424 Millis
5 Pizzas at the Tower - Mike Periman, 418 Marsh
4 Pizzas at Shakey's - Steven Post, 414 Marsh
4 Tickets at the Flynn - Kathy Diener, 7 Tupper
One $10 gas coupon from Cigo - Rich Goldstein, 404 College St.
One $10 gas coupon from Cigo - Rick Laflame, 419 Mills

Dr. Hoyt has been 26 years a teacher at St. George's School, has sailed across the Atlantic 20 times, and has had his writings and pictures published in national and international magazines. A record holding swimmer, a P. T. skipper, in WW II, he has been a photographer of the sea since 1946.

Trans-Racial Adoption

A discussion on Trans-Racial Adoption, to be held December 5, 7 p.m. in Rm. 115, Living/Learning Center, is sponsored by the Cross-Cultural Communications Component. Everyone is welcome.

Christmas Bazaar

Remember the Christmas Bazaar and Craft Fair is coming up soon. The fair, December 8th, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., in WDW Lounge.

Help Collect Flip Top Can Rings

Of all the small insignificant products that this society manufactures, the flip top can rings are unique; they can now be put to an additional useful purpose. Before long you will see small containers around campus, especially near soda machines, where you can deposit your ring tops. What for you ask? What could anyone want with ring tops?

The Massachusetts General Hospital has a special program where ring tops can be used to rent an iron lung machine, serving as fuel, and the iron lung is made available to anyone who needs it and just can't afford to pay.

It takes 500,000 ring tops a year that's 10,000 ring tops every week to rent an iron lung under this arrangement. It is hoped that UVM students can support 1% of this project. This would involve acquiring 2,500 ring tops each week; that figures out to about 50 ring tops for each soda machine on campus each week. It's no impossible and the help of everyone is requested.

Please save your ring tops, leave them in the containers you find around campus. If you have any suggestions to enhance this campaign please contact Joy at Gamma Phi (864-4343) or Dean at ATO (658-6828).

Ride Info Center Created In Billings

Before the holiday, the Billings Center Governing Board created and implemented a much-needed centralized ride information center. Its location is at the Billings Center information desk and is serviced by a new phone line 656-2088. (This is also the number to call for campus information and lost and found.) Rides of all kinds needed, available, commuting, skiing, etc. may be registered either by phone or in person.

The main function of this service is to provide a unified ride board for use by the University community and alleviate the problems involved in locating a ride for someone. Hopefully this service can lead to the establishment of carpools for commuting students for skiers this winter, and for the winter holiday. This ride information center is open the same hours, Billings Center is - 7 days a week.

Vermont Nuclear Power Discussion

Vermont Tomorrow is sponsoring a panel discussion on the future of nuclear power in Vermont. The panelists will be Arthur Tampion, (former AEC member and Ph.D. in Biophysics), James Griffin (President of VJLCO and President-elect of Vermont Nuclear Power), Martin Johnson (Head of Agency of Environmental Conservation). This discussion will be held in the Vermont Hall of the Tavern Motor Inn in Montpelier at 8:30 p.m., December 6.

Anthro Meeting

Anthropology Club Meeting, December 5, at 4 p.m. in the Anthro Seminar Room on 5th floor Williams science. Peter Woolfson is to speak on "Value Orientations Among French Canadians and Franco-American School Children." Coffee will be served.

Photo Exhibit In Billings

From Sat. December 1, December 8, the Billings Center Governing Board will present a photography exhibit by Gene Peroni, (73) in Marsh Lounge of Billings Center. Gene Peroni teaches photography at the Living/Learning Center of UVM. His work has been displayed before in the Ariel and in the UVM alumni magazine. A collection of approximately fifteen black and white photographs will be exhibited.

DOWNHILL SKI PACKAGE

HEAD GK-03	120.00
MARKER BINDINGS	45.00
	$165.00

PACKAGE FOR $114.95

CROSS COUNTRY SKI TUNE-UP

HIGH WEEK

$4.95

INTRODUCTORY OFFER

DOWNHILL PRE-SEASON SKI-TUNE-UP

Includes:	ONLY
• Edges Sharpened
• Bottoms Flat Filed
• Gouges, Scratches Filled
• Edges Deburred
• Bottoms Waxed
• Binding Maintenance Check
	$4.95

LOWA BOOTS

ALPSPIZ

The Alpspitz is a superb boot for the serious backpacker mountaineer. The boot is rugged enough for the most demanding cross country booting, yet light enough for comfortable backpacking. Its versatility, durability, and quality construction make it one of LOWA's finest designs.

$58.50

Swiss Chalet

40 Pearl St., Essex Jct.

Open Daily 9 A.M.-9 P.M.

The Good Courts!

Student rates from $1.50 each per hour for Doubles • Good Lessons • Group or private • Stop action TV available • 4 excellent clay courts • Attractive lounge and locker rooms • Attended nursery • Charlie's Tennis Den • Pro Shop • 24-Hour Stringing Service • Expert Advice • Open 6 AM-12 M Weekdays • 8 AM-11 PM Saturdays and Sundays • Reserved Time and Walk-in Rates

TWIN OAKS

TENNIS CENTER

Kennedy Drive Opp. H.S.

Tel. 863-3439

This year try something different

Personally design and Block Print your Christmas Cards!

Block printing offers a unique method of expressing your Christmas message. You design the card and choose the paper, the colors, the inks and the size. The range is infinite and limited only by your imagination. Ah! The cost you say, well we saved the best for last. The cost is as flexible as the card itself. You can save a great deal or splurge. Still not convinced? Stop in and talk over the possibilities.

Art Shop - Lower level
Church and College Sts., Downtown Burlington
858-4554

the corner bookstore

"One-stop shopping for books, stationery and art supplies"

THE CORNER BOOKSTORE The CORNER BOOKSTORE The CORNER BOOKSTORE The CORNER BOOKSTORE

WINOOSKI VT.

WEST CANAL ST.

SHOP DAILY 9 AM to 10 PM

THIS COUPON

TARR ALBUM

GO!

Sale $3.57

room accessories

DISCOUNT

SHIRING (EXCEPT EK)

Research. ising

In addition to their studies, "Project Elm" students and staff members alike have been engaged in an industrious community education and fund-raising campaign. Many of their plans will soon find active expression in a variety of up-coming activities. The last of such activities is scheduled for Friday night, November 30, at 9 P.M. Thanks to the kind efforts of Bruce Schwartz, Steve Tanner, and Sigma Phi Epsilon, (371 Main Street), "Project Elm" will sponsor its first fund-raising activity: The ELM BARK BEETLE BEER ASH, a dance featuring the talents of "Shipstream" (a local band also donating their efforts to the Elm cause on campus) will be open to any and all who wish to attend. Donations of $1.00 per person will pay for things like beer and the use of the fraternity house, and the profits of the affair will be placed in the "Project Elm" bank account for use this spring in special on-campus Elm maintenance, and experimental treatment. "Operations of this nature take enormous sums of money," Kessler indicated, "and it is up to us within the University community to decide now how we want to spend our dollars, either for more cutting of future dead trees, or for making an effort to save these remaining Elms. A thorough community sanitation program is the key to an effective Dutch Elm Disease program. Unless good sanitation methods are practiced our present elm bark beetle infestations will continue to prevail and prove fatal to all remaining American elms. With all giving a little now, however, the future of the trees on campus could reflect a harmonious balance of both mature Elms as well as the lovely young trees of many varieties which are being planted every year." "Project Elm" and Sigma Phi Epsilon are looking forward to this first fund-raising event and will be making every effort, with live music and a dozen keg of beer to ensure that party goes well. "Project Elm" continues its fund-raising and educational efforts with a series of benefit concerts and slide shows. They are also hoping to set up another information booth in this spring's Burlington Garden Show in order to continue the service they provided last year. Other activities include a total of seven Arbor Day programs to be conducted by "Project Elm" students and staff in local schools throughout the community. Each session will include a week-long "teach in" during which time a "Project Elm" representative will share their knowledge of the trees with a selected group of young people and the culminating activity of each group of students will be to actually plant their own trees on or

(continued on page eight)

DUNHAM'S

campus
boots

MAZEL'S SHOE
STORE
104 North Street

PEN

ocation

10

PLAZA

Students Disillusioned With Nixon

(continued from page one)

Cathy Nell, 423 Christie

"Nixon should be nailed, down. The Mid-east and energy but I don't think it's going to happen. Things have slowed attention. It's too bad."

Jim Russell, R. D. 4 Winooski

"If Nixon were to be impeached, we would be just as bad off or worse with Ford. And that would be throwing the frying pan into the fire. Ford would just be the lesser of two evils. I think we ought to wait 10 years and then decide whether we should have thrown him out. That would be 1984 wouldn't it?"

Joe Sullivan Jr., 104 Home Ave.

"Impeach him, not so much for what he has done, but more importantly because he has lost the confidence and trust of the American public which is the powerhouse of the office of the president. I would ask that his trial be not one of vengeance, but rather a trial designed to determine once and for all whether Mr. Nixon is capable of holding the trust of the American people and executing his office in the manner in which it was designed to be executed."

Head Brain And Body...

(continued from page seven)

make a sound as I creep up on my toes. Softly now, lifting toe again if a twig snaps as I drop heel. Evil thoughts are all around us. We must be silent until the time to attack. I stub my toe on a frost heaved flagstone and say fuck it, head, I'm not amused, let's do something else. Your purpose is to find the post office, so keep walking.

If I were in a helicopter, I'd see by body in a set created for electric trains - exquisite detail. Every action triggered by electric flow. Intersection light turns green, cars roll down the hill. My body crosses with the traffic. Watch the lady on the left. The market door opens before she touches it. Now head and me, we both know there's electric circuitry in this world, but what we don't know is, how far it goes. Electrical impulses trigger my muscles which bend my knee, lift, reach, and step my leg. I'm electrified. Glowing, pulsating like the blinking lights in the Turn On Shop at Sears. Head says find the switch, you idiot, before you blow a fuse. I live alive in this body too you

Career Planning And Placement Interviews

December 5 - A Federal Career Day will be held in the North Lounge of Billings. Approximately 20 Federal Agencies will be represented to discuss various career opportunities within the Federal Government. Plan to attend at some time during the day.
Graduate School Interviews:
December 4th - University of New Hampshire
Whittemore School of Business (All interested majors.)
December 7 - Syracuse University School of Management (All interested majors.)

Sign up now for a personal interview in the Placement Office.
Employment Interviews:
December 10 - Koppers Company, Inc. of Pittsburgh Pennsylvania seeks CE, ME, EE, and Chem.
December 11 - National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration of Norfolk, Virginia seeks Engineering and Physical Sciences.
December 11 - New England Electric System of Westboro, Massachusetts seeks EE and ME.
December 11 - Telling and Kelting of Ticonderoga, New York seeks Accounting majors.
Sign up for these interviews in the Placement Office on Monday (December 3), Tuesday (December 4), and Wednesday (December 5).

UVM Skiing Outlook Bright For '74...

(continued from page fourteen) jump will be ready to use next month and a cross country course in back of Centennial Field will soon be in use for training. Financial support has been improving with formation of the Friends of UVM Skiing, which has now grown to one hundred and twenty members. The Carnival season opens at Smugglers Notch Ski Ways on the 1st and 2nd of February. Be sure to be on hand for the start of an effort that could very well culminate in the University of Vermont's first national championship.

Old Mill as it appeared in the late 19th century. and elms were plentiful on the campus.

"Elm Bark Beetle Beer Bash" Shipstream Friday, November - Sigma Phi Epsilon sponsors 30 from 9:00 pm to 1:00 am "Project Elm's" fund raising with a $1.00 donation, party, with beer and the band

Short SA Session

(continued from page one) with various competitions and student representative skills. Dick Cassidy announced elections. He said he has received many complaints that there are no voting booths and no privacy when voting. Chris Milanesi, SA secretary for elections, said he just didn't have time to get booths for the elections. Next week's SA meeting is the last of the semester and hopefully the Senate will conclude with a bang. Even a puff would help to stir the silent "Tuesday night only" senators from their seats.

BEVERAGE WAREHOUSE
FINEST SELECTION OF BEERS, WINES, AND AMERICAN IMPORTED BEVERAGES
104 North Street
Burlington, VT 05401

HAS THE WAR ENDED?

For many American students, the Battle of Southeast Asia has ended, but the battle within the hearts of her people—the pains of sickness, hunger, fear and death rage on with horrendous force. Americans view the signs of Southeast Asia as symptomatic of the global condition. American missionaries labor through subhuman conditions around the globe. We perpetuate the battle—to liberate the struggling masses from the causes of war. NO MORE WAR! WAR NEVER AGAIN! Let us work for this goal by defeating the structures that oppress and exploit mankind.

MARKED OUR SESSION explains a new and exciting training program for future missionaries. Will you volunteer?

For your free copy of MARKED OUR SESSION with: Maryland Missionary, Chestnut Hill, Mass. 02157

NAME _____
STREET _____
CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____

Grab and Go
WINTER TREADS from E & E Tire
"IT'S THE FINEST RETREAD!"
We manufacture our own retreads right on the property. You can be sure there are no additives.
10% OFF ON ALL RETREADS
ACCOMPANIED BY THIS AD
WE RETREAD YOUR CASINGS
E & E Tire

50% OFF ON
- selected -
PAPERBACKS
Outstanding current & backlist titles
All subjects/All publishers
BEGINNING NOW-LASTING TILL THEY RUN OUT

The Vermont Book Shop
100 DORSET ST
OPEN 9-9 Till Christmas
Also in Middlebury and Waitsfield

Gigantic USED SKI EQUIPMENT SALE USED SKIS $5
by: Rossignol, Fischer, Head, Northland, Benner, Scott, Hart, Kneissel, Yamaha, A & T, Toni Sailer, Spalding, Sears, Erbacher, Warwick, K2, Volk.

USED BOOTS $8 up by: Nordica, Reiker, Henke, Lange, LaDolomite, Humanic, Koflach, Rosemount, Molitor, Raichle, Le-Trappeur, Cross Country Boots.

RENTAL SKIS $30 and $50 with bindings Short Length
RENTAL BOOTS 22 Pair $18
Nordica
RENTAL SKI POLES 20 Pair $3
BarreCrafter
ALPINE SHOP
Whittemore Road, So. Burlington
OPEN DAILY 9 A.M. TO 9 P.M.

Sadie Hawkins Dance
featuring: Satin & Steel will be held, Friday, Nov. 30th (9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.) in MAT Dining Hall. Admission is free. Sponsored by IRA and Group 34 of HEC 65. Everyone welcome.

VINTAGE APPAREL
FANTASTIC COLLECTION
GLAD RAGS FOR A SONG
DEC. 1 & 2 SAT. & SUN. 10:00-3:00
OVER 10,000 ITEMS FROM YOUR FAVORITE FASHION PERIODS
A Rumage Sale for CONNOISSEURS
AND AN AUCTION
THE SCHOOL HOUSE 104 NORTH STREET, BURLINGTON

UVM SPORTS

Miller Scores Winning Goal Cats Down Hawks In Overtime 8-7

by Neil Gruber
The University of Vermont hockey team came up with a big win Tuesday night in a packed Gutterson Field House. The Catamounts beat the Hawks from Saint Anselm 8-7 on a goal by Chris Miller at 18 of the ten minute sudden death overtime period.

Twice the Cats blew two goals to set up the dramatic overtime win. The Cats scored mostly offensive-minded against the Hawks and at times forgot to play defense which resulted in some easy St. Anselm goals.

In the first period the Catamounts came out shooting. At 8:36 Tim O'Connell beat St. Anselm's goalie Tom Gavin with a wrist shot in the upper corner of the net. Ted Child got the assist on the play as he broke out of the Vermont zone after Kiely had stuffed Jeff Lindberg in all alone.

Michael Lebeau scored for Vermont at 15:14 of the first period when he converted a rebound of a slap shot by Ted Child from the left point. This was a power play goal and it seemed like a rout was imminent.

At 15:52 Mike Gavin of the Hawks poked in a loose puck which John Kiely failed to clear. Gavin went on to score twice more in the first period, one at 16:24 and the other at 19:59 on a power play. The Hawks went into the dressing room with a 3-2 lead at the end of twenty minutes of play.

At the start of the second period, the Cats came out hard, putting heavy pressure on the Saint Anselm's goalie. At 10:25 O'Connell tied the score as he beat the goalie with a defenseman who often is well up ice, scored from about eight feet out after receiving a nice pass from Mallette.

Chris Miller scores the game winning goal putting the puck past St. Anselm's goalie Tom Gavin as Bill Kotch raises his stick in celebration.

The Hawks wanted this game badly, as they came back with three straight goals to go ahead 7-6.

Ted Castle who was all over the ice scored the goal that sent the game into overtime. At 9:50, with a great individual effort, Castle came in on the breakaway with a defender all over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

over him and put a wrist shot over the goalie's right shoulder from about twenty feet out. Miller scored the winner on a good hard-fought play. First he stole the puck in the St. Anselm's zone, passed it over to Tubbs, who sent it back to

UVM Skiers Look Strong For '74 Season

by Dave Donahue

Competitive skiing is a highly demanding, individualistic pursuit which is not usually thought of in terms of team efforts. The rationale behind this statement is found in the competitive skiing format. A ski jumper who starts down an in-run of a 60 meter jump has only his own talents to rely upon. He can't call upon a teammate to assist him. He is a forsaken man in a hostile environment; he must perform to the best of his ability without assistance. The same holds true for an alpine racer who skis down mountains at 65 mph, and a cross country runner lost in the woods looking for the finish line he knows to be a punishing five miles away.

The question becomes, how can this group of zealous individuals, involved in different disciplines, be molded into a performing team? Largely, this process relies on the establishment of a mutual regard for the individuals involved and a quest for success in both an individual and a team sense. Two men have been instrumental in the development of these concerns which have led to UVM ski team successes: Denis Lambert, former head coach and now Athletic Director, and the present coach, Chip Lacasse.

Lacasse, who is beginning his third full season as head coach, exuded the confidence of a man with faith in his program and the ability of his personnel to perform. Coach Lacasse explained that he now has ten alpine A's and eight nordic A's, more than ever before. The alpine contingent is headed by Bobby Cochran, who has been a strong, international, seasoned Can-Am competitor, competitor, and member of the United States Ski Team for a number of years. It is doubtful that Cochran will be able to ski for UVM this year because of the international schedule of competitions, and a new NCAA rule stipulating that a performer must participate in at least one carnival and the Eastern Championships to be eligible for the National Championships.

Also returning in senior, co-captain, Chris Brown who earned the distinction of All-American last year as a result of his third-place finish in the Alpine Combined at the National Championships. He also won the Eastern Championship Downhill at Middlebury. UVM's other All-American, Dave Dodge, will hopefully be able to ski by midwinter. Dodge, seriously injured his knee skiing in Italy this summer and underwent surgery in July. He was fourth in the NCAA Alpine combined and will be sadly missed should he be unable to compete.

Billy Rathbone, a consistent performer last year, can be expected to have a much better year this year. Rounding out the returning alpine competitors are Dick Erdman, Jim McIntyre, Dave Donahue, Jim Gregory, Alan Partridge, Titus Plomarius, Steve Lacy, Bill Barbour, and John Keough.

A number of incoming Freshmen make the alpine part of the program even more impressive. Greg Bartlett, a member of the United States Talent Squad, can be expected to distinguish himself as a freshman Brian Sumlin, a top eastern competitor. Two Central competitors with Can-Am experience, Alex Yewer and John Lally, are also being counted upon. Coaching the alpine team will be Neil Mackey, a former UVM ski team captain. Coach Lacasse expressed great confidence in Mackey and explained that his devotion to the program this fall merits commendation.

Coach Lacasse also has an extremely strong group of nordic competitors. Leading the jumpers is co-captain, All-American, Peter Kongali, who is now a member of the Norwegian National Ski Team. Kongali was defeated only once last year in the United States, that defeat coming in the NCAA's when he finished second as a result of a fall.

Joining Kongali this year will be another excellent Norwegian jumper, Trygve Rolseth. Trygve, at 18, is one of the top junior competitors in Norway and has competed on the Junior National Team. In addition to the two Norwegians there are a number of jumpers returning. T. McCloud-Oddy, who finished fourth in the UVM Carnival, can be expected to have a very good year as can a rapidly improving Jeff Davis. Hopefully this group will be able to offset the loss of Martin Grimmer who graduated and is now the special jumping coach.

Cross country looks to be reasonably strong this year as it was last year. Stan Dunklee, a member of the United States Ski Team, and a fourth place finisher in the NCAA's leads the group. Dunklee repeatedly turned in outstanding performances last year and must be considered one of the best collegiate runners in the country. Not far behind Dunklee is Trygve Sw. Kjoseth who finished third at Dartmouth last year. He has been training hard this fall and is expected to be stronger than last year. Complementing these two runners will be Dave Walker, Brian Dossie, and Kirk Dice, a promising runner from Cheshire, Connecticut.

Mention has been made of three disciplines. But because of the ten man team, with three people counting in each event, combined skiers are essential for success. Last year Tom "pup" Lantz did a fine job as he achieved success in both cross-country and jumping, and even turned in an occasional alpine performance. This year he will have some

(continued on page thirteen)

CLASSIFIED ADS

DARLENE—call me when you get to Vermont, til then Happy Birthday. Love MF.

Ride wanted to N. Y.C. Friday, the 30th, or Saturday, the 1st. Call Miller, 864-9567.

Need stuff for your apartment? I have: bed, kitchen table and chairs, curtains, pots and pans, dinnerware, silverware, clock, and table, chair, lamp, 27 inch B & W TV. Call 864-0351.

A Great Deal in Ski Boots. 1 pair size 9 Trapeur Pro's. Excellent condition (used 20 times) $185 new, now $90. Call Dave at 863-3881.

HOUSE EXCHANGE: Professor at Florida Technological University would like to exchange home with local professional. Contact Dr. John Shadgett Florida Tech. University, Box 2500, Orlando, Florida 32816.

Nearly New Tapdeck with Dolby. AKAI model GXC-40D with glass-fibre head. Fully instrumented. For more information call Dan Fortin at 865-0382 evenings.

For Sale: Bauer Black Panther Skates. Size 11. Used little. $22. Contact John Altieri, Room 417, Cook Building.

I would appreciate the return of my wallet and its contents to Steve Danny's box at OVP.

Want person to share house, private room, fireplace etc., $68 per month and utilities. Available now. 863-2622.

Roommate wanted to share four-room apartment with two girls. $60.00 everything included. 15 minutes from campus. Available Dec. 20th. Call 862-2764. Sue or Lisa.

1974 Cross-Country Ski For Sale: Won as a door prize. Original cost - $35. 215 CM. Brand New - Never Mounted. Price Negotiable. Call Don. Ex. 2186.

'64 Ford Galaxy 500, good transportation, Vt. inspection (Sept.), $200 or best offer (leaving town) - Call Kim at 863-6818 (day) and 862-6901 (evenings).

For Sale: Sylvan Solid-State stereo with two speakers, two years old. Very good condition; excellent tone. Must call Call 862-2577 evenings and ask for Nancy.

Incredible savings on ski equipment. Special New Reelrol. St. (180, 200 cm) Wholesale price $125 and other good used equipment. Call 864-7146 after 6.

Intramural Indoor Track & Field Results

TEAM WINNERS:

1. DELTA PSI - 64 points
2. JUSTIN HALL - 27 points
3. MASON HALL - 15 points
4. JOE BARRY'S - 13 points
5. INDEPENDENTS - 10 points
6. SIGMA PHI EPSILON - 7 points
7. WASTED - 5 points
8. HAMILTON HALL - 3 points
9. TIE MEDS - 1 point

ACACIA - 1 point

INDIVIDUAL WINNERS:

- LONG JUMP - 18'4 1/2" Kongli, Petter (AUSTIN)
12 lb. SHOT PUT - 44'4", Munson, Kenneth (DELTA PSI)
HIGH JUMP - 6'0", Lindgren, Jeff (AUSTIN)
50 yd. DASH - 5.7, Myers, Richard (INDEPENDENT)
600 yd. RUN - 1:23.9, Donahue, David (DELTA PSI)
28 lb. WT. THROW - 54'10 1/2", Gardner, James (JOE BARRY'S) POLE VAULT - 10'6", Santin, Ernest (MASON)
300 yd. RUN - 35.0, Iverson, Mark (DELTA PSI)
55 yd. INT. HURDLES - 7.0, Iverson, Mark (DELTA PSI)
1000 yd. RUN - 2:06, Lantz, Thomas (DELTA PSI)
NEW RECORD.

The School of Management of Syracuse University, Syracuse, N.Y. will be interviewing interested applicants for the Masters in Business Administration, and M.S. in Accounting Program on

Thursday, Dec. 6, 1973, 2PM - 5 PM

For further information inquire at the Placement Office on campus.

GET HIGH THIS WINTER

Glen Ellen has the highest peak in the Green Mountain National Forest, 2,645 vertical ft. with some of the most challenging skiing anywhere. Special week day rates for all UVM students and extra-low rates for Outing Club and Student Skiing Association members (weekends and holidays included).

UVM SEASONS PASS RATE - $60.00

*With Glen Ellen Ski Pass, $4 for $5.00 at Sugarbush and Mad River on weekdays.

Time Payment Plans available.

Contact: Jim Pietrovito, Millis Hall, 866-3848, or Steve Brown, Millis Hall, 866-3845.

The First New England Catalogue

A delightful edition carrying on the ideas and spirit of the last Whole Earth Catalog. REGULARLY $4.95

SPECIAL AT $3.49

EVERYDAY BOOK SHOP

106 CHURCH ST. - 862-5191 - OPEN FRIDAY EVE.

1301 Shelburne Rd. So. Burlington, Vt. bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets, planters, statues, wall hangings, mirrors, Tiffany buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses and blouses from: India, Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria, Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania, Nepal and other places near and far.

bedsprings, rugs, pillows, tapestries, chess sets, boxes, leather hats, bags, wineskins, silver, turquoise and bone jewelry, candles, oils, incense, toiletries, occult books, mugs, tea sets,

CALENDAR/ANNOUNCEMENTS

Registrar Presents

Final Spring '74 schedules will be mailed to your local address tomorrow, December 7th.

Last day of classes for this semester is Tuesday, December 11th. Exam week is Thursday, December 13th.

Wednesday, December 19th. The official schedule is posted on the Bulletin Board outside the Registrar's Office, 361 Waterman.

Grades for this semester will be mailed to your home address on December 11st.

Registration for the Spring Semester 1974 is Monday, January 14th at Patrick Gym, 8:00 A.M. Noon. New Students.

1:00 P.M. 5:00 P.M. Day Non-Degree and Degree Students Taking Evening Division Courses.

Late Registration is Tuesday, January 15th in the Registrar's Office, 8:10 A.M. 3:10 P.M.

Classes begin Wednesday, January 16th.

Newtonians To Speak

The College of Arts and Sciences Fall Symposium presents "Sir Isaac Newton and the Newtonians" brief talks in the following topics will be presented:

The Newtonian Universe. Professor Albert Crowell, Chairman, Physics Department.

Magi, and the New Science. Professor James Overfield, History Department.

Sir Isaac Newton and the Poets. Professor Mary Hall, English Department.

Metaphysics and Sir Isaac's Science. Professor Henry Steffens, History Department.

The time is 3:30 p.m. Thursday, December 6, 1973, in Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building.

Refreshments are offered during breaks. Feel welcome to hear any talks that you choose and stay as long as you like.

Attention: Pre-Law Students

Notice to Pre-Law undergraduates: Asst. Atty. General William Wuester representing the Law School of Southern Methodist University will be at UVM 210 Old Mill, December 7th to speak to students interested in this Law School. For further information, please contact the secretary of the Political Science Department, 2nd floor Old Mill, Ext. 1050.

Christmas Bazaar

Christmas Bazaar and Craft Fair, Saturday, December 8, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., WDW Lounge. For sale: jewelry, pottery, macramé, ski hats, candles, plants, and lots more. "Get your Christmas shopping done early!"

The Next Thing

The Next Thing offers a free workshop in Synetics. An Introduction to an Elaborate Group Creative Problem Solving Process. This workshop by David Britton, Director of Curriculum Research and Development in the Chittenden South Public Schools, will be on Wednesday, December 12 at 8 p.m. at the Next Thing, 73 Church Street, Burlington. The process provides a summary of much that is known about creativity and problem solving. An innovative model for the leader/follower relationship will also be presented.

Toys Needed

OVP, TLP, and Kappa Alpha Theta have extended their Toys for Tots Drive. Toys and games in good condition are desperately needed for area children. Brandon Training School, one of the recipients of the Program has just had a fire in which all their Christmas toys were destroyed. Please Help. Call 864-6181, 863-9294, or 656-2062 to have your toys picked up, or deliver them to 215 Prospect St., 383 College St., or the Office of Volunteer Programs at Mansfield House.

Speed Skating

Notice to all interested speed skaters. As a result of banning the public speed ice skating session on Friday nights at Essex Junction Rink, the people involved are forming a speed skating club. Anyone interested in joining please contact Barb Fulmer at 878-5035 or Dave Raneri at 656-2911.

American Primary EP

The American Primary Experimental Program is a two year set of experiences for juniors majoring in elementary education. This is an alternative program involved in practical experiences in public schools. Applications and information for the class of '76 can be picked up now at 140C Living/Learning, or 539 Waterman. Application deadline is 5 p.m. on December 10.

Don't Hoard Fuel

With the energy shortage and gasoline cutbacks, students are finding all sorts of ways to conserve fuel. Many of these are helpful to the University and their fellow man. One is not. This is the storage of gasoline in closets, rooms, basements and other confined places. Five gallons of gas ignited in a closed space can have the explosive power of several sticks of dynamite. In addition to this, gasoline vapors are heavier than air and will float along the floor, undetectable, but extremely volatile.

To compound an already dangerous situation, students are storing gas in open buckets, dissolvable plastic containers, and other dangerous containers. If one of these careless conditions were ever to be ignited in a residence hall, fraternity, sorority, or apartment the damage and loss of life could be considerable. So do your part to help in the energy crisis—don't store gasoline.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6

3 to 5:30 p.m., College of Arts and Sciences Fall Symposium: "Sir Isaac Newton and the Newtonians." Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. Talks include "The Newtonian Universe," by Prof. Albert Crowell, Physics Dept.; "Magic and the New Science," by Prof. James Overfield, History Dept.; "Sir Isaac Newton and the Poets," by Prof. Mary Hall, English Dept.; and "Metaphysics and Sir Isaac's Science," by Prof. Henry Steffens, History Dept. Come for any or all of the Symposium. Refreshments during the breaks.

4:15 p.m., Graduate College faculty meeting, Room 103, Rowell Building.

6:45 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society presents a yoga class at the Unitarian Church, beginners welcome, followed by group meditation at 8 p.m.

7 p.m., Chess Club meeting, fifth floor, Waterman Building.

7 p.m., prayer, praise and fellowship meeting of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Building A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

8 p.m., Seminar in Jewish history, Harris-Millis Halls. This week: "Maccabees and the Second Jewish Commonwealth." Taught by Mitch Fried.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7

10 a.m. to 7 p.m., art print sale, Marsh Room, Billings Center, sponsored by Student Activities Office.

4 p.m., "Friday at Four" open house, Arena Theatre.

4 p.m., Department of medicine lecture, Dr. Roy Wäthier, Orthopedic Surgery, "Current Theories of Calcification," Room 4-329 Given Medical Building.

6:30 p.m., discussion group at Burgess Hall lounge, led by Chaplain Odie, and open to anyone interested in discussing matters of faith, religion, church or life as a student.

7 p.m., BILLINGS CENTER EXPO opens for 24 hours. Attractions will include two showings of the Beatles' film "Yellow Submarine," plus performances by the UVM Stage Band and a ping pong tournament. Sponsored by Billings Center Governing Board. The Roundhouse will extend its normal hours and will be open until 1 a.m.

Mr. William O. Wuester, an assistant attorney general, State of Vermont, will speak to interested undergraduates about the School of Law, Southern Methodist University in Texas. Time and place to be arranged. Contact the secretary in the Political Science Department for time and location.

8 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet at Southwick, open to all.

8 p.m., LANE SERIES EXTRA! The Hartford Ballet Company will dance Tchaikovsky's complete "Nutcracker," a holiday gala for the entire family. Tickets are available from the Lane Office at popular prices $2, $3 and $4. Place is Memorial Auditorium.

8 p.m., Directing Class one-act plays, at the Arena Theatre. Those seen tonight will be repeated again on the evening of December 8. Admission is free, reservations not necessary. The program: George Kaufman's "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," directed by Katie Hill, O'Neill's "Abortion," directed by Millicent Preston, and "Escurial," by Michael de Ghelderode, directed by Chip Towers.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8

9 a.m., Champlain Valley Open Chess tournament, two-day event, fifth floor, Waterman Building. Information from R. Keen, Ext. 2922.

2:5 p.m., Craft workshop demonstrations in conjunction with Museum's Vermont Craft Show. Featured craftsmen are: Beverly Danforth, quilts; Kay Curtis, puppets; Meg Walker, weaving; and Hideo Okino, ceramics. All in the museum galleries except the ceramics which will be at the Art Building.

7:30 p.m., Woman of UVM's "Hockey Night and Pizza Party," more information from Mrs. Harold Greig or Mrs. Denis Lambert.

8 p.m., Folk concert at Fleming Museum. Margaret McArthur, fiddling, and Louis Boudoin, French Canadian fiddler, in the Museum's Marble Court. Admission by donation.

8 p.m., repeat of directing class one-act plays (listed under 8 p.m. on Dec. 7) at the Arena Theatre, admission free, reservations not necessary.

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 9

4 p.m., NOT 8:30 AS PREVIOUSLY ANNOUNCED. Annual Christmas Concert by the University Choir under the direction of Prof. James Chapman, at Ira Allen Chapel. The program includes: Three Renaissance Motets by Jean Mouton, Heinrich Isaac, and Jan P. Sweelinck; Scenes from the Holy Infancy by Virgil Thompson; Two Christmas Motets of Francis Poulenc; a group of carols; and The Christmas Cantata by Daniel Pinkham, with the University Brass Ensemble, conducted by Prof. Robert Wigness. Admission is free.

Lane Series tickets are available for the Dec. 10 concert by pop singer Judy Collins, and the Lane Series Office announces that the date has been set for "Godspell," Wednesday, Jan. 30. Tickets are still available. Contact the Lane Office, 234 Waterman Building, 656-3418, to make reservations.

Noon hours, Mon. - Fri., the Fleming Museum has music. Take a lunch over, or stroll through the galleries, and enjoy yourself. On view, with some items on sale, through Jan. 10 are Vermont craft items, with a special exhibit of glass by Michael Boylen.

A sale of student art prints will be held Dec. 12-24 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the gallery and printing room, second floor, Williams Science Hall.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 10

1 p.m., Music lecture, Melvin Kaplan, oboist and member of the Juilliard, "Baroque Ornamentation," Memorial Lounge, Waterman Building. This concludes the series of lectures by Mr. Kaplan, founder/director of New York Chamber Soloists, on the general subject of "Elements of Musical Interpretation in Performance," hosted by the Music Department.

4:15 p.m., Economics faculty-student seminar, Dr. Abbas Alnasrawi, "The Middle East and the Energy Crisis," Dewey Memorial Lounge, second floor, Old Mill. Dr. Alnasrawi, a member of the Economics faculty, is assistant dean, College of Arts and Sciences.

7 p.m., Bahai Club meets, Conference Room C, Billings Center.

8 p.m., weekly meeting of CAPE, round room, Billings Center.

7:30 p.m., German Club film, "Tomio Kroeger," German with English subtitles. Johnson Auditorium, Votco Building.

8 p.m., Lane Series concert, pop singer Judy Collins. Memorial Auditorium. Tickets are still available—contact the Lane Office, Ext. 3418, to make reservations. Remember that tickets marked "pop singer" are good only for this concert.

8 p.m., Directing class one-act plays, at the Arena Theatre, admission free, reservations not necessary. Plays to be performed are "The Marriage Proposal," by Anton Chekhov, directed by Nancy Fleming; Strindberg's "Plains with Fire," directed by James Heidenreich; and three short plays: "Wandering," "Chuck," and "The Unexpurgated Memoirs of Bernard Mergendeller," directed by David Sherman. All of these plays will be repeated on the evening of Dec. 11.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 11

Last day of classes for the fall semester.

7 p.m., bible study sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Building A, Room 131, Living/Learning Center.

7 p.m., Art Club hosts "The Two Penny Group" of Goddard College. North Lounge, Billings Center. Admission free. This is a program children will especially enjoy and they're welcome to come.

7:30 p.m., Lamplighters meet for gospel music and bible inquiry, Marsh. Austin-Tupper Hall lounge.

8 p.m., Christmas Candlelight Service at St. Anselm's Chapel. Favorite carols and stories will be followed by a trip to the hospitals for caroling.

8 p.m., Directing class one-act plays, same as under Dec. 10, at the Arena Theatre, admission free.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 12

9 a.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society class for women at 73 Church St. (The Next Thing's space), beginners welcome.

Monday, December 10, the German Club presents the film "Tomio Kroeger," in German with English subtitles in Votco 101, 7:30 P.M. No admission charge.

Bailey Library Sets Spring '74 Schedule

Bailey Library
Saturday, Jan. 12, 1974 - Saturday, May 11, 1974
Monday-Friday 8:00 a.m. 12:midnight
Saturday 8:00 a.m. 11 p.m.
Sunday 12:noon 12:midnight
Please Note Exceptions:
Saturday, Jan. 12 8:00 AM 5:00 PM
Sunday, Jan. 13 2:00 PM 6:00 PM
Sunday, Feb. 24 9:00 AM 12:midnight
Sunday, March 3 9:00 AM 12:midnight
Friday, Mar. 22 8:00 AM 5:00 PM
Saturday, Mar. 24 CLOSED
Monday, Mar. 25 through Friday, Mar. 29 8:00 AM 5:00 PM
Saturday, Mar. 30 CLOSED
Sunday, Apr. 28 9:00 AM 12:midnight
Sunday, May 5 9:00 AM 12:midnight
Saturday, May 11 8:00 AM 5:00 PM
Night Study Jan. 16, 1974 - May 11, 1974.
Monday-Friday 9:00 AM - 7:00 AM
Saturday 10 AM - 7:00 AM Sunday
Sunday 10 AM - 8:00 AM Monday
CLOSED SPRING VACATION: Sunday, March 24
Saturday, March 30.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

WHY WINE AND DINE,
WHEN YOU CAN
PEPPERONI AND CHEESE?

—Susan L. Morse

This week's winner of the Domino's Ad contest and the prize of a free pizza of worth up to $6.05.

864-7444
WILLISTON ROAD

658-3333
NORTH WINOOSKI AVE.

50¢ OFF A LARGE PIZZA
Expires DEC. 12, 1973

Name _____
Address _____
Phone _____

Void if not completed
1 Coupon per pizza

Aid to education

It's the real thing. Coke.
Coca-Cola Bottlers of Burlington

LAST CHANCE before Holidays
30% to 60% OFF
on LADIES
CASUAL WEAR

LABELS
FOR LESS

100 Dorset St.
next to
Eastern Mountain Sport

DECEMBER 6, 1973

9 a.m., Political Science Conference Room C, Billings Center.
11:45 a.m., 12:30 p.m., Art Education presents their weekly "Lounge." Bring your lunch, tea and coffee.
Billings Center.

12:30 p.m., introductory to Meditation, presented by UVM Meditation Society, at 108 Main.
1:15 p.m., Art Education presents their weekly "Lounge." Bring your lunch, tea and coffee.
Billings Center.

4:30 p.m., Faculty Senate meeting, Billings Center.

8 p.m., The Next Thing synectics: an introduction to a problem solving process, conducted by curriculum research, Chittenden South Public Schools. Admission is free.

8 p.m., CAPERS (Good All meet, Department of Military, Williams Science Hall, open to all.

8 p.m., introductory to Meditation, presented by UVM Meditation Society, at 108 Main.

8:30 p.m., UVM Folk Dance, UVM Folk Dance building, open to all.

THURSDAY, DEC. 6
Fall semester examinations, December 19.

12 noon, UVM Women's Center, Waterman Building.

6:45 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society, beginning group meditation at 8 p.m.

7 p.m., prayer, praise and Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Living/Learning Center.

7 p.m., Chess Club meeting, Billings Center.

FRIDAY, DEC. 7
4 p.m., "Friday at Four." Art. Take a break from your final stories presented through Chan.

6:30 p.m., discussion group, Burgess Hall lounge. Open to all. Faith, religion, church or life as a student.

Electricity Conservation

The VPIRG Energy Conservation Project co-ordinators hope to stimulate competition among dorm complexes to see which one(s) can cut down the most on their electrical consumption by making available the figures

Dorm complexes
Wing-Davis-Wilks
Christie-Patt-Wright
Mason-Simpson-Hamilton

Other buildings
Waterman
Bailey Library
University Store

T.J.'s
FASHION
Misses &
1297 Williston
So. Burlington
HOLIDAY
STARTING
Mon. thru Fri. 9-9
Sat. 9-9

McN
1325 Shelburne
658-1111

SERVICE with
mon-fri.
sat.

and Ha

DECEMBER 6, 1973

DECEMBER 6
NOVEMBER 10
 The University Choir under the direction of Allen Chapel will perform at the University of Vermont. The choir will perform at the University of Vermont. The choir will perform at the University of Vermont.

for the Dec. 10 concert. The Lane Street Office also has a copy of "Godspell" available. Contact the office at 656-1418 to make a reservation.

The Fleming Museum has music on display, through Jan. 1. The exhibit is of glass by the artist Robert Rauschenberg.

will be held Dec. 12-24 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the second floor room, second floor.

DECEMBER 10
 The UVM Women's Caucus meets at 12 noon in the Waterman Building. The caucus will discuss the UVM Women's Caucus.

6:45 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society holds a class at the UVM Center. The class will be held at the UVM Center.

7 p.m., Prayer, praise and fellowship meeting of the UVM Christian Fellowship. The meeting will be held at the UVM Christian Fellowship.

8 p.m., Chess Club meeting, fifth floor, Waterman Building. The chess club will meet at the Waterman Building.

8 p.m., "Friday at Four", Arena Theatre, admission free. The arena theatre will perform "Friday at Four".

Take a break from your finals, and come watch our! Stories presented through Chamber Theatre. The chamber theatre will present stories.

6 to 10 p.m., discussion group led by Chaplain Odie at the Burgess Hall lounge. The discussion group will be held at the Burgess Hall lounge.

8 p.m., CAPERS (Co-ed Affiliates of Pershing Rifles) meet in the Department of Military Studies office, fifth floor, Williams Science Hall, open to all interested.

8 p.m., introductory lecture on Transcendental Meditation, presented by UVM Students International Meditation Society, at 308 Main St.

10 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets, Southwick Building, open to all.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13
 Fall semester examinations begin, and will end on December 19.

12 noon, UVM Women's Caucus meets, fifth floor, Waterman Building.

6:45 p.m., Ananda Marga Yoga Society holds a class at the UVM Center, beginners welcome, followed by group meditation at 8 p.m.

7 p.m., Prayer, praise and fellowship meeting of the UVM Christian Fellowship, Building A, Room 131, Living Learning Center.

8 p.m., Chess Club meeting, fifth floor, Waterman Building.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14
 4 p.m., "Friday at Four", Arena Theatre, admission free.

Take a break from your finals, and come watch our! Stories presented through Chamber Theatre.

6 to 10 p.m., discussion group led by Chaplain Odie at the Burgess Hall lounge. Open to all interested in talking about faith, religion, church or life as a student.

8 p.m., CAPERS (Co-ed Affiliates of Pershing Rifles) meet in the Department of Military Studies office, fifth floor, Williams Science Hall, open to all interested.

8 p.m., introductory lecture on Transcendental Meditation, presented by UVM Students International Meditation Society, at 308 Main St.

10 p.m., UVM Folk Dance Club meets, Southwick Building, open to all.

8 p.m., Burlington Folk Dancers meet for the last dance of the fall semester, at Southwick Building, open to all.
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 15
 No calendar events listed.
SUNDAY, DECEMBER 16
 4 p.m., "Muska Appropria," a Christmas Choral Concert directed by Jane Brown at Fleming Museum Marble Court; admission by donation.

crossword puzzle

Answer to Puzzle No. 114

DOWN

1 Across

2 Across

3 Across

4 Across

5 Across

6 Across

7 Across

8 Across

9 Across

10 Across

11 Across

12 Across

13 Across

14 Across

15 Across

16 Across

17 Across

18 Across

19 Across

20 Across

21 Across

22 Across

23 Across

24 Across

25 Across

26 Across

27 Across

28 Across

29 Across

30 Across

31 Across

32 Across

33 Across

34 Across

35 Across

36 Across

37 Across

38 Across

39 Across

40 Across

41 Across

42 Across

43 Across

44 Across

45 Across

46 Across

47 Across

48 Across

49 Across

50 Across

51 Across

52 Across

53 Across

54 Across

55 Across

56 Across

57 Across

58 Across

59 Across

60 Across

61 Across

62 Across

63 Across

64 Across

65 Across

66 Across

67 Across

68 Across

69 Across

70 Across

71 Across

72 Across

73 Across

74 Across

75 Across

76 Across

77 Across

78 Across

79 Across

80 Across

81 Across

82 Across

83 Across

84 Across

85 Across

86 Across

87 Across

88 Across

89 Across

90 Across

91 Across

92 Across

93 Across

94 Across

95 Across

96 Across

97 Across

98 Across

99 Across

100 Across

101 Across

102 Across

103 Across

104 Across

105 Across

106 Across

107 Across

108 Across

109 Across

110 Across

111 Across

112 Across

113 Across

114 Across

115 Across

116 Across

117 Across

118 Across

119 Across

120 Across

121 Across

122 Across

123 Across

124 Across

125 Across

126 Across

127 Across

128 Across

129 Across

130 Across

131 Across

132 Across

133 Across

134 Across

135 Across

136 Across

137 Across

138 Across

139 Across

140 Across

141 Across

142 Across

143 Across

144 Across

145 Across

146 Across

147 Across

148 Across

149 Across

150 Across

151 Across

152 Across

153 Across

154 Across

155 Across

156 Across

157 Across

158 Across

159 Across

160 Across

161 Across

162 Across

163 Across

164 Across

165 Across

166 Across

167 Across

168 Across

169 Across

170 Across

171 Across

172 Across

173 Across

174 Across

175 Across

176 Across

177 Across

178 Across

179 Across

180 Across

181 Across

182 Across

183 Across

184 Across

185 Across

186 Across

187 Across

188 Across

189 Across

190 Across

191 Across

192 Across

193 Across

194 Across

195 Across

196 Across

197 Across

198 Across

199 Across

200 Across

201 Across

202 Across

203 Across

204 Across

205 Across

206 Across

207 Across

208 Across

209 Across

210 Across

211 Across

212 Across

213 Across

214 Across

215 Across

216 Across

217 Across

218 Across

219 Across

220 Across

221 Across

222 Across

223 Across

224 Across

225 Across

226 Across

227 Across

228 Across

229 Across

230 Across

231 Across

232 Across

233 Across

234 Across

235 Across

236 Across

237 Across

238 Across

239 Across

240 Across

241 Across

242 Across

243 Across

244 Across

245 Across

246 Across

247 Across

248 Across

249 Across

250 Across

251 Across

252 Across

253 Across

254 Across

255 Across

256 Across

257 Across

258 Across

259 Across

260 Across

261 Across

262 Across

263 Across

264 Across

265 Across

266 Across

267 Across

268 Across

269 Across

270 Across

271 Across

272 Across

273 Across

274 Across

275 Across

276 Across

277 Across

278 Across

279 Across

280 Across

281 Across

282 Across

283 Across

284 Across

285 Across

286 Across

287 Across

288 Across

289 Across

290 Across

291 Across

292 Across

293 Across

294 Across

295 Across

296 Across

297 Across

298 Across

299 Across

300 Across

301 Across

302 Across

303 Across

304 Across

305 Across

306 Across

307 Across

308 Across

309 Across

310 Across

311 Across

312 Across

313 Across

314 Across

315 Across

316 Across

317 Across

318 Across

319 Across

320 Across

321 Across

322 Across

323 Across

324 Across

325 Across

326 Across

327 Across

328 Across

329 Across

330 Across

331 Across

332 Across

333 Across

334 Across

335 Across

336 Across

337 Across

338 Across

339 Across

340 Across

341 Across

342 Across

343 Across

344 Across

345 Across

346 Across

347 Across

348 Across

349 Across

350 Across

351 Across

352 Across

353 Across

354 Across

355 Across

356 Across

357 Across

358 Across

359 Across

360 Across

361 Across

362 Across

363 Across

364 Across

365 Across

366 Across

367 Across

368 Across

369 Across

370 Across

371 Across

372 Across

373 Across

374 Across

375 Across

376 Across

377 Across

378 Across

379 Across

380 Across

381 Across

382 Across

383 Across

384 Across

385 Across

386 Across

387 Across

388 Across

389 Across

390 Across

391 Across

392 Across

393 Across

394 Across

395 Across

396 Across

397 Across

398 Across

399 Across

400 Across

401 Across

402 Across

403 Across

404 Across

405 Across

406 Across

407 Across

408 Across

409 Across

410 Across

411 Across

412 Across

413 Across

414 Across

415 Across

416 Across

417 Across

418 Across

419 Across

420 Across

421 Across

422 Across

423 Across

424 Across

425 Across

426 Across

427 Across

428 Across

429 Across

430 Across

431 Across

432 Across

433 Across

434 Across

435 Across

436 Across

437 Across

438 Across

439 Across

440 Across

441 Across

442 Across

443 Across

444 Across

445 Across

446 Across

447 Across

448 Across

449 Across

450 Across

451 Across

452 Across

453 Across

454 Across

455 Across

456 Across

457 Across

458 Across

459 Across

460 Across

461 Across

462 Across

463 Across

464 Across

465 Across

466 Across

467 Across

468 Across

469 Across

470 Across

471 Across

472 Across

473 Across

474 Across

475 Across

476 Across

477 Across

478 Across

479 Across

480 Across

481 Across

482 Across

483 Across

484 Across

485 Across

486 Across

487 Across

488 Across

489 Across

490 Across

491 Across

492 Across

493 Across

494 Across

495 Across

496 Across

497 Across

498 Across

499 Across

500 Across

501 Across

502 Across

503 Across

504 Across

505 Across

506 Across

507 Across

508 Across

509 Across

510 Across

511 Across

512 Across

513 Across

514 Across

515 Across

516 Across

517 Across

518 Across

519 Across

520 Across

521 Across

522 Across

523 Across

524 Across

525 Across

526 Across

527 Across

528 Across

529 Across

530 Across

531 Across

532 Across

533 Across

534 Across

535 Across

536 Across

537 Across

538 Across

539 Across

540 Across

541 Across

542 Across

543 Across

544 Across

545 Across

546 Across

547 Across

548 Across

549 Across

550 Across

551 Across

552 Across

553 Across

554 Across

555 Across

556 Across

557 Across

558 Across

559 Across

560 Across

561 Across

562 Across

563 Across

564 Across

565 Across

566 Across

567 Across

568 Across

569 Across

570 Across

571 Across

572 Across

573 Across

574 Across

575 Across

576 Across

577 Across

578 Across

579 Across

580 Across

581 Across

582 Across

583 Across

584 Across

585 Across

586 Across

587 Across

588 Across

589 Across

590 Across

591 Across

592 Across

593 Across

594 Across

595 Across

596 Across

597 Across

598 Across

599 Across

600 Across

601 Across

602 Across

603 Across

604 Across

605 Across

606 Across

607 Across

608 Across

609 Across

610 Across

611 Across

612 Across

613 Across

614 Across

615 Across

616 Across

617 Across

618 Across

619 Across

620 Across

621 Across

622 Across

623 Across

624 Across

625 Across

626 Across

627 Across

628 Across

629 Across

630 Across

631 Across

632 Across

633 Across

634 Across

635 Across

636 Across

637 Across

638 Across

639 Across

640 Across

641 Across

642 Across

643 Across

644 Across

645 Across

646 Across

647 Across

648 Across

649 Across

650 Across

651 Across

652 Across

653 Across

654 Across

655 Across

656 Across

657 Across

658 Across

659 Across

660 Across

661 Across

662 Across

663 Across

664 Across

665 Across

666 Across

667 Across

668 Across

669 Across

670 Across

671 Across

672 Across

673 Across

674 Across

675 Across

676 Across

677 Across

678 Across

679 Across

680 Across

681 Across

682 Across

683 Across

684 Across

685 Across

686 Across

687 Across

688 Across

689 Across

690 Across

691 Across

692 Across

693 Across

694 Across

695 Across

696 Across

697 Across

698 Across

699 Across

700 Across

701 Across

702 Across

703 Across

704 Across

705 Across

706 Across

707 Across

708 Across

709 Across

710 Across

711 Across

712 Across

713 Across

714 Across

715 Across

716 Across

717 Across

718 Across

719 Across

720 Across

721 Across

722 Across

723 Across

724 Across

725 Across

726 Across

727 Across

728 Across

729 Across

730 Across

731 Across

732 Across

733 Across

734 Across

735 Across

736 Across

737 Across

738 Across

739 Across

740 Across

741 Across

742 Across

743 Across

744 Across

745 Across

746 Across

747 Across

748 Across

749 Across

750 Across

751 Across

752 Across

753 Across

754 Across

755 Across

756 Across

757 Across

758 Across

759 Across

760 Across

761 Across

762 Across

763 Across

764 Across

765 Across

766 Across

767 Across

768 Across

769 Across

770 Across

771 Across

772 Across

773 Across

774 Across

775 Across

776 Across

777 Across

778 Across

779 Across

780 Across

781 Across

782 Across

783 Across

784 Across

785 Across

786 Across

787 Across

788 Across

789 Across

790 Across

791 Across

792 Across

793 Across

794 Across

795 Across

796 Across

797 Across

798 Across

799 Across

800 Across

801 Across

802 Across

803 Across

804 Across

805 Across

806 Across

807 Across

808 Across

809 Across

810 Across

811 Across

812 Across

813 Across

814 Across

815 Across

816 Across

817 Across

818 Across

819 Across

820 Across

821 Across

822 Across

823 Across

824 Across

825 Across

826 Across

827 Across

828 Across

829 Across

830 Across

831 Across

832 Across

833 Across

834 Across

835 Across

836 Across

837 Across

838 Across

839 Across

840 Across

841 Across

842 Across

843 Across

844 Across

845 Across

846 Across

847 Across

848 Across

849 Across

850 Across

851 Across

852 Across

853 Across

854 Across

855 Across

856 Across

857 Across

858 Across

859 Across

860 Across

861 Across

862 Across

863 Across

864 Across

865 Across

866 Across

867 Across

868 Across

869 Across

870 Across

871 Across

872 Across

873 Across

874 Across

875 Across

876 Across

877 Across

878 Across

879 Across

880 Across

881 Across

882 Across

883 Across

884 Across

885 Across

886 Across

887 Across

888 Across

889 Across

890 Across

891 Across

892 Across

893 Across

894 Across

895 Across

896 Across

897 Across

898 Across

899 Across

900 Across

901 Across

902 Across

903 Across

904 Across

905 Across

906 Across

907 Across

908 Across

909 Across

910 Across

911 Across

912 Across

913 Across

914 Across

915 Across

916 Across

917 Across

918 Across

919 Across

920 Across

921 Across

922 Across

923 Across

924 Across

925 Across

926 Across

927 Across

928 Across

929 Across

930 Across

931 Across

932 Across

933 Across

934 Across

935 Across

936 Across

937 Across

938 Across

939 Across

940 Across

941 Across

942 Across

943 Across

944 Across

945 Across

946 Across

947 Across

948 Across

949 Across

950 Across

951 Across

952 Across

953 Across

954 Across

955 Across

956 Across

957 Across

958 Across

959 Across

960 Across

961 Across

962 Across

963 Across

964 Across

965 Across

966 Across

967 Across

968 Across

969 Across

970 Across

971 Across

972 Across

973 Across

974 Across

975 Across

976 Across

977 Across

978 Across

979 Across

980 Across

981 Across

982 Across

983 Across

984 Across

985 Across

986 Across

987 Across

988 Across

989 Across

990 Across

991 Across

992 Across

993 Across

994 Across

995 Across

996 Across

997 Across

998 Across

999 Across

1000 Across

Spiritual Corner

St. Anselms

Readers being the "Season of Exams", the Christmas Season is also upon us. Most will soon be taking off, going separate ways to celebrate the holiday. With the ever increasing commercialization of Christmas, everyone needs to take the time to come together and celebrate and reflect on the true meaning of Christmas - the birth and incarnation of Jesus Christ, our Lord and Savior.

To this end, St. Anselm's Chapel on Redstone Campus will hold the very popular Christmas Candlelight Service this Tuesday, December 11th, at 8:00 p.m. The service will be a festival of favorite carols along with a series of readings retelling the Christmas story of the Nativity. It will be led by Chaplain Odie, Chaplain of St. Anselm's, and Ted Stronach, the Protestant Chaplain on campus.

People of all denominations are welcome to join in this festive occasion. (Since Wednesday is a day off before exams start, on Thursday, Tuesday evening will be a good time to get away from the grid for a few moments.)

Following the service, there will be hot chocolate and singing to guitars in front of the Chapel (Episcopalian Ministry and Catholic Campus Ministry).

NEWMAN CENTER

FUTURE TEACHERS: at the Cunningham Newman Center, on Sunday, December 9, at 8 p.m., Sister Janice Ryan, R.S.M. from Trinity College will speak about Special Education in Vermont. All are welcome to join the Future Teachers' Group at the Center that evening.

BIBLE STUDY: Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. Topic: Letter to the Hebrews.

Editorial Parting Commentary

This issue of the Vermont Cynic marks the end of another Editorial Board and thereby the means for a new one to get started. For those of us who are involved with the Cynic, this is a time for reflection. If that sounds a bit strange coming in the middle of the year, think for a minute about some of the strange things that have happened over the past few months. Tuition went up, so did food prices, and then the university had a surplus. Not long after that we were told that the energy level was going down, along with future prospects of soon again seeing the standard of living that we grew up knowing. Oh yes, by this time the government seemed to have long since fallen apart.

In looking back over the months it is easier to see the failures of our times than the successes. At a time like this, most departing college editors call for student involvement in activities, in student government, in the whole awareness syndrome.

For the seniors, the happenings away from UVM will soon be a part of everyday life. But for those who will still have the shelter of a college community, staying abreast with the effects of our changing economy, our political systems, indeed our changing way of life, will take a bit more work.

The way to become more aware (and to stay that way) may not be in student government or college newspapers for some — but the need is still there. No matter how it's done or whatever, one's thing may be — do it. Enjoy what it has to offer. When it applies to making this university a better place — apply it. Working with people is not the only thing that makes the world go 'round. Having fun helps too.

UVM needs more activities, more events, more to do. UVM needs more and better leaders and more and better supporters. Perhaps some day soon we'll be able to look back over the months and recognize some successes too.

S.G.W.

Editorial

Support "The Third World"

The same old myth has been voiced over and over again, until its very presence has become a sick joke. "There is no racism at the University of Vermont." The incident occurring during the S. A. Senate meeting Tuesday night gives one cause to wonder.

"The Third World" is a campus organization basically consisting of Black and Spanish students. At the request of the curator of the Fleming Museum, three "Third World" members and an advisor will travel to Boston and New York in February to view and select materials for a cultural art exhibit, which will be held in the museum. The resulting art display will be of educational value to the community as a whole.

The estimated cost of the trip would be $400, which would exhaust the proposed budget allocation. Part of the money they hoped to raise through a play, but to insure the needed funds, Senator Jones (Hamilton) offered an amendment to the budget that the S.A. would match up to $200 of the play proceeds.

In the heated discussion that followed, the chief objection was that the S.A. does not allocate funds for travel and did not want to set a precedent by doing so. It was mentioned by substitute Senator Glasco (B-Living/Learning), a Third World member, that the minority students were asking for money that would educate the whole university. It is distressing that some Senators cannot distinguish between a "jaunt" and a serious expedition for the purpose of procuring works of art for the benefit of the University and community. Perhaps, instead of splitting hairs over precedents, the Senate should re-evaluate their interpretation of "travel expenses." Senator Siegars (Robinson) was quite right when he said that the expression was being misconstrued.

The issue was resolved when the Senate passed a budget allocation of $800, with $400 marked for the trip. It was about time that "The Third World" got a budget allocation, after the first three had been vetoed by the Finance Committee.

M.M.H.

Letters To The Editor

Strazinsky Vs. Boz Insky

To the Editor:
In last week's Cynic there was an article on Captain Bob Strazinsky's Travelling Band which I believe was extremely misleading and inaccurate.

First of all, the correct name of the band is Captain Bob Strazinsky's Travelling Band not Captain Bob Hoo Strazinsky's Travelling Band.

You also state in your article that Strazinsky began his musical career in the "psychiatric dungeons of San Francisco" but do not make clear that he is now a highly accomplished blues musician. Last week over Thanksgiving vacation I was fortunate enough to attend a jamming session of his in Boston. I can confirm that Strazinsky has come a long way since his San Francisco days and is a highly respected musician in the world of blues.

I would agree with you that Strazinsky has a profound effect on all people who come in contact with him, but cannot believe that he was responsible for the imprisonment of his followers in Gallup, New Mexico.

I am looking forward to his appearance on campus, so I hope that more information will be forthcoming. The date was not stated in your article.

Sincerely,
J. Reed

Thank You

To the Editor:
To those students who supported the motion urging Mr. Nixon's resignation in the recent SA referendum, may I extend a gracious thank-you.

As the person who originally sponsored the motion, it was rewarding to see some people turn out at the ballot box. Some of us do care.

Sincerely,
Steven C. Rice
411 Marsh

When the land has heard the pain
Of Winter's grasp
And uttered but a moan
That cracked the stillness
Of the falling snow
And shattered the frozen tracks
Of the starving animals
Leading to and from the garbage pile
Solidly shut by the howling wind
Angry refusing mercy to the living
And the half alive;

When the sunlight glistens Winter's gold
Reflecting stallions running freely
Across the hazy starry field
Toward horizons of white breasted children
Building snowmen with nothing on,
And the first sign of Winter's Spring
Drifts memories of lovers past your window
While mirrors of crystal snowflakes
Cling to the pane
Melting in the light
Of the sun's reply;

And when this Winter's night
Brings you closer to yourself
Pile the wood upon the fire
With love
And light your room with understanding
Of Nature's forgotten child
And warm your room with laughter
Of your families cheer
So that when the morning breaks
The sounds of you will sound
A reawakening of life.

By Paul Viera

Israel Is The Humane Place In The Mid-East

To the Editor:

I would like to personally respond to the letter of Mr. Rita Swan published in last week's Cynic. Ms. Swan, you should visit Israel and the Middle East before you write additional appeals to emotionalism and anti-semitism.

As far as medical care for Israeli Arabs is concerned your charge simply are groundless and untrue. I have visited several Israeli hospitals and seen many Arab patients, all of whom received expert care by their Israeli doctors. The fact is Ms. Swan that following the liberation of old Jerusalem, hundreds of Arabs flocked to Israel's Haddasah Hospital where they received treatment that was far superior to that which was given them by "benevolent" King Hussein. If you ever get to Jerusalem you should visit Haddasah Hospital and talk to the Arab patients. As for Arab labor, strong unlike Arab nations, strong Arab and Jews, exist in Israel. If you are interested in women's rights you should be aware that in Israel, unlike Arab nations, women are allowed to vote and politically participate. You might like to investigate the condition of Arab women in "enlightened" Saudi Arabia. In addition, Ms. Swan, there are more freely elected Arab members of the Israeli Parliament than in any Arab nation, which are ruled by such "freedom loving" men as King Faisal. I should also like to inform you of the tyrannical conditions Jews in Arab lands must live under. A document Welcome to Syria, published by the Syrian Arab Republic, sums up the Arab position by stating "Syria welcomes all people except those of Jewish faith." Is this humanity, Ms. Swan? Jordan refused to permit Jews to visit the waiting wall, in violation of United Nations resolutions and used Jewish gravesites as their sidewalks. Ms. Swan, is this humanity? Iraq, in 1969, hung dozens of Jewish citizens for the "crime" of being Jewish. Again, Ms. Swan, ask yourself, is this humanity?

David Mandell

Let's See The Other Side Of The Question

To the Editor:
After reading the front page article in last week's Cynic dealing with student views on President Nixon, I was left with this question — How can you consider yourself a viable source of unbiased information?

In the first place, I think that the question with which the story dealt (i.e. impeachment) should warrant a larger number of opinions than the eight views published. Along with this, it is essential that the quotes printed represent the views of the student body as a whole before any broad conclusions can be reached. This, quite obviously was not the case in your article as each respondent voiced negative feelings toward the President.

This indicates to me that your study was conducted in a very nonchalant manner with no importance placed upon the proportional representation of differing student views. Your headline, "UVM Students Greatly Disillusioned with President Nixon's Leadership," is not substantiated by an accurate compilation of a school wide poll, even though the headline would indicate that such a study forms the basis for the stated conclusion. If the Cynic has such strong feelings about the job Nixon is doing, I would expect that the Editorial page might provide ample space for delineation. The masking of opinions behind the supposedly bias free front of a news article demands an examination of the Cynic's credibility and raises questions relating to your journalistic integrity.

Sincerely,
Bob Leverich, Jr.

BUT IS IT FAIR TO STOP ENROLLMENT NOW — WHEN HE SCORED SO HIGH ON HIS SAT'S?

One More Energetic Bit Of Tokenism

by Tom E. McCormick, '75

So you think you're doing your bit? Shutting off lights. Keeping the thermostat set at 68 degrees. Burning candles. Rahl! It'll win you an energy conservation merit badge, but it's not enough. It's just tokenism, and we need sacrifices.

Like getting rid of cars.

Cars are to Americans what the Golden Calf was to the wandering Jews — with the exception that we have a polytheistic state: Ford, Chrysler, American, GM.

Gas cars and you reduce pollution by 75 percent, traffic deaths by 55,000 (more per year than the entire Vietnam War), crime significantly (ever try to make a get-away by bus?), and energy consumption by at least half. It's the closest thing to a panacea I'll ever propose. But I'll only get scorn and derision instead of fame and honor.

You see, not only do we believe in cars, we're addicted to them. Many people believe cars are the only way you can get a message to the public: McGovern, Don't blame me, I'm from Massachusetts. Jesus loves you. Save the ecology (which is rather like including a vegetarian message with every purchase of stainless steel steak knives).

Other people think that cars are the only feasible way of getting around. So they drive to energy conservation meetings. And they drive to the YMCA to work-out. And Ralph Nader drives to Vermont to tell us how the oil industry is being naughty and isn't doing its best to discover more oil.

The only thing about the energy crunch that worries people is that they'll have to walk further than the garage. Ever since the car was invented and reached the general populace, wheels have been rolling, no matter the time of day or night. Now there's the subconscious fear that if cars come to a standstill, the world will stop spinning.

People are willing to freeze or go blind (trying to read in near-darkness) to save energy. But walk — or use mass transit. That's just too much. If God had meant us to walk, He wouldn't have invented oil or Henry Ford, would He? Lately, there's been a foggy feeling that all is not right in Detroit. Attempts have been made to make cars safer (seat belts, head rests, collision bumpers). And there have been a few inefficient starts at air pollution control. But it's time to admit that the patient has seen better days, and to stop using extraordinary means to keep it alive.

The energy crisis is an opportune time to start moving toward mass transit. Unfortunately, energy control plans are dedicated to maintaining private transportation. Fuel allocations to autos will be rationed, but so will fuel allocations to business and to public transportation. We'd rather be out of work than out of gas. It wouldn't surprise me if we banned motherhood before we ban cars.

Mindful of those obstacles, I still suggest that: a) We give industry what fuel it needs. 1974 will be economically difficult as it is without forcing production cut-backs because of insufficient fuel. b) We double fuel allocations to mass transit systems. During times of fuel shortages, public transportation should be encouraged; certainly not discouraged. c) Buses be allowed to go 70 m.p.h. with impunity, and strictly enforce 50 m.p.h. regulations for cars. d) We allow market prices to ration gas. For years we have been encouraging drivers to use gas by keeping prices artificially low. If gas prices were high, and travelers could save 20 m.p.h. by using public transit, there would be a healthy jump in mass transportation use. e) We should reduce highway development funds. We should pump much, much more money into the development of mass transit.

It isn't likely that those suggestions will be heeded in the near future. So drive carefully (and slowly) this Christmas vacation.

Past One

slow november afternoon clouds the baby sighs asleep almost two now
she grew so damn fast

the sink is full of heavy dishes red knitting makes me angry clicking little dishes twelve one is a catch energy slipping away from me pulling back is too hard lady macbeth could not see you can't live through another cats curled together like one beast

the stove needs more wood small sounds mock my peace
I shouldn't let the fire go

by Kathy Dods

FRANKLY SPEAKING... by phil frank

© COLLEGE MEDIA SERVICES-BOX 9411-BERKELEY, CA 94709

Vermont Cynic

EDITOR-IN CHIEF Steven Wood '74
BUSINESS MANAGER Barbara Frankel '75
ASSISTANT EDITOR Ruth Hay '74
MANAGING EDITOR Jim Bradley '74
NEWS EDITOR Bruce Madden '76
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR Lisa Charles '75
FEATURE EDITOR Margo Howland '75
ASSISTANT FEATURE EDITOR Rick Steinberg '75
SPORTS EDITOR Loren Wilson '74
ADVERTISING MANAGER

NEWS: Betsy Andrews, Doug Beardsley, Dave Campagne, Bill Campbell, Randy Jansen, Jill Markert, Dawn McGinnis, Andrew Morse, Wendy Nelson, Laurie Rapp, Kathy Stearns, John Van Housen.
FEATURE: Sari Rodi, Jeffrey Blum, Peter Campbell, Doug Collette, Carol Dufault, Barbara Freedman, Jonathan Lief, Joseph Oksan, Karen Trott.
COLUMNS: Scott Caboon, John Franco, Elliott Freeman, Alan King, Ron MacNeil, Steven Rice, Jeff Ryback, Scott Sweeney.
SPORTS: Fred Coombs, Gene Goldberg, Andy Morse, Alan Patashnick, Norm Robinson, Mike Schwartz, Bob Wilenski.
ADVERTISING: Bonnie Barry, Debbie Powell, Rob Schaefer.
PRODUCTION: Eileen Driscoll, Camilla Hay, John Lunde, Kathy Tormay, Debbie Vayron, Joan Westcott.

Opinions expressed in editorials, cartoons, or columns in the CYNIC do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the University administration, faculty or staff, or the State of Vermont. Opinions expressed by the columnists do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the majority of the members of the CYNIC Editorial Board.

Published yearly during the college year by the students of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College. Editorial and business offices in the Billings Center, Burlington, Vermont. Telephone: 658-4971. Deadline for notices is one week prior to date of publication.

Founded in 1883. Subscription rate $8.00 per year, single copy ten cents. Second class postage paid at Burlington, Vermont 05401.

Pity The Poor Post-Grad Applicant

Editorializing In The Vermont Cynic: A Short History

Finally, in 1954, drawing together the courage to criticize the tradition of Kake Walk, the board severed the black face added, thanks to the experience of heart "Cotton Bales" or some "walkers" perform. Still turn the knife in the wound, the Cynic thrust the blade to the crux of the issue: "When the penetration of black face with all its ramifications, is not challenged by college students, there is, it seems to us, a serious deficiency in critical thinking." The board published a letter from

However, the most significant change in the attitude of college students was the we-have-overestimated. We want students at UVM have a right to self-orientation. We want a chance to express ourselves, to bring about needed change, and to raise the academic standards of our University."

Alistair Cooke has aptly expressed in his book, America in this country, a land of the most persistent idealism and the blindest cynicism, the race is on between its decadence and vitality (America) is a bitterly and sometimes ironically completed race, this land thrashing over su-

As you go on your semester break this season, remember that you supply a great deal of the money that operates this university. You can pull the strings if you want to. But remember that there's no good dope in tearing something down unless you have something at least as good to put in its place. Everyone makes mistakes and the small one's should be ignored. But if you really feel strongly about things, get others interested. Power is measured in terms of numbers at UVM. Have a good holiday, and I'll see you in the even some Sunday afternoon next semester.

A Grim Fairy Tale

One such shaded household was that of Albert Houghton, who was acquainted with one of the boy's parents. His concern drove him to a small and quite peculiar length. He had heard too much of kidnappings while parents slept remained helpless because of armed abductors, so Alb placed his son's stickball bat outside his bedroom door with 1960's, usually realizing their role in a society imbued with a conservative tradition but often embracing radical principles and measures.

Abigail Strinivinsky Protests In Late Night Fit Of Rage

Working harder than ever, Mr. Stronowasky had

A sour view of that sweet stuff

America has turned into a nation of sugar addicts. In 1972 we consumed an average 126 pounds of calozed sweeteners per person. More than two pounds a week for each and every one of us. Enough sugar to cause serious danger to your teeth, general health and possibly even your heart.

If you think you're not eating as much sugar as the average American, you're probably mistaken. Much of our sugar intake is hidden in sweetened foods like snacks and soda pop, cakes and candy, desserts and cereals, and even in sauces and frozen vegetables.

It's high time we stopped the sweet talk about that sweet stuff. Here are some bitter facts from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.S. government:

doctors, nutritionists and the U.S. government:

- Sugar contains no vitamins, no minerals, no protein
- Sugar contains only calories — as many as 30 per rounded teaspoon

Sugar is not a necessary part of a balanced diet - you do not need to eat sugar at all since a healthy body converts all the energy it needs from other food.

Sugar rots your teeth. Tooth decay afflicts 98% of Americans. And a dental bill can hurt even more than a toothache. Evidence indicates that sugar is the primary cause of tooth decay. So, to protect your teeth, limit your sugar intake.

a toothache. Evidence indicates that sugar is the primary villain in causing tooth decay. The sour candy you suck on or the soda[®] pop you suck up drenches your teeth in sugar.

Sugar can make you fat. When you eat sugar it's easy to take in more calories than you need because sugar is nothing but calories. And you only need a little sugar to eat a lot of calories.

Sugar may affect your heart. Recent studies suggest a relationship between high sugar intake and heart disease. Some doctors believe that eating too much sugar could be as harmful to your heart as excess fat consumption.

Sugar interferes with good nutrition. If you substitute sugar for good nutritive foods, you dilute your nutrient intake. If you add sugar on top of a balanced diet, you'll probably get fat.

What should you do about the sugar view of sweet stuff? Now that you know that sugar is not all sweetness and light, here are a few suggestions. Skip sweetened cereals, try a little fresh fruit on regular cereal instead. Put less sugar — or none at all — in your coffee or tea. Stop using sweets as a reward to children for good behavior (or you run the risk of giving them a sweet tooth for life.) Switch to snacks and drinks like nuts, raw fruits, whole and skimmed milk and unsweetened fruit juices.

Actually, the best thing you could do is to completely stop adding sugar to your food. But that's a pretty tall order. What you and your family should do is cut down on sugar. You'll be amazed at all the fun things to eat that aren't sweet!

A public interest message brought to you by Public Communication, Inc.
 2805 L Street N.W. Washington, D.C. 20037
Health Research Group
 2805 P Street N.W. Washington, D.C. 20037

THIS SPACE MADE AVAILABLE BY THE VERMONT CYNIC

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Tickets Still Available:

Judy Collins Highlights Lane Series Monday

Collins was born in Seattle, Washington, the daughter of a prominent radio personality, and was raised in Denver. Her musical training began with piano lessons at the age of seven.

At sixteen she found the guitar, and, as she says, "the only discipline was my desire to get at the communication through lovely, beautiful songs — words put together with melodies that came from somewhere different, immediate, close."

Then Judy Collins and guitar drifted into the folk music scene, casually but inevitably. She began singing in Denver, and along the Chicago-New York-Cambridge folk axis of the early 60's. Acclaimed for her singing of the traditional Anglo-American ballads, she signed her first recording contract with Elektra.

Her transition from folksinger to interpreter of contemporary songs is usually dated from Judy's In My Life album in 1967, but her involvement with contemporary material had begun as early as 1964 with the release of her third album.

In My Life changed everything. The album was hailed as a milestone, an irrefragable break with the past, a unique treatment of unique material, a new attitude towards contemporary songs as works of art.

The music which Judy now plays and sings on her most recent albums is lyric and poetic, and her repertoire includes not only Dylan, Cohen and Mitchell, but also Jacques Brel, Bertold Brecht, and, of course, Judy Collins.

Yeats' Plays Garner Little Criticism

by Margo Howard

Something different came to the Billings Area this past weekend, a theatre in the round production of Foot and Hand consisting of three one-act plays by the great Irish patriot, poet, and playwright William Butler Yeats.

On Balle's Strand, The Death of Cuchulain, and The Herne's Egg were produced and directed by Dr. Sidney Foger of the UVM English Department. Thomas Reed of the Music Department composed and conducted the music, with haunting and beautiful results. William Schenk supervised the sets.

Several factors caused Foot and Hand to be a particularly difficult production: the atmosphere of a theatre in the round, the fact that there was no break between the first and the second play, which may have caused a bit of confusion in the audience; there was a predominance of double and triple casting; and finally, the fact that Yeats' plays are not stuff of spun sugar, but complex, rich in symbolism and meaning. And so, in light of all this, it is gratifying to say that our UVM students (and non-students) carried it off well.

Aside from a few minor irregularities (a fluffed line or two, non-uniform use of the Gaelic accent, an awkward exit) there was but one notable criticism to mention and that does not concern the acting at all. Perhaps it would have been better if the names of the cast printed on the program were in order of appearance in all three plays. But now, to the plays themselves.

All three plays are set in ancient Ireland. The plots complement each other, for there are repeated characters, incidents, and lines which illuminate them. The Death of Cuchulain follows On Balle's Strand in time, and The Herne's Egg, while having different characters, has about the same era in time and similar folk in it.

On Balle's Strand and The Death of Cuchulain are the third of a cycle of five plays and two poems. They concern the death of the hero Cuchulain, King of Muirtheimne, a legendary figure of the Gaelic epic Táin Bó Cúailnge.

On Balle's Strand reflects Yeats' longing for a son and has the sense of impending doom one finds in Greek tragedy. The theme of fools and blind men that is recurrent in all three plays frames the beginning and the end of this play. The fool and the blind man parallel Cuchulain and the High King Conchubar, for: Life drifts between a fool and a blind man. To the end, and nobody can know his end.

The hawk is the symbol of Cuchulain; legend had it that though his mother was a mortal woman, his father was a hawk from the sky.

The Blind Man, (Patrick Orr), combines the traits of an oracle and an eavesdropper, as is his comrade, the Fool (Laurie Beane), as Cuchulain and Conchubar are companions.

The High King Conchubar (John Ransom) commands the proud and spirited Cuchulain (Michael Yellin) to swear an oath of allegiance, for his men are so in awe of him that they beg for the assurance of his loyalty. Cuchulain, son of a hawk, the man that answers to no one, must be brought under control for the very safety of the High King's realm.

Cuchulain, at the insistence of other kings and Conchubar, resigns to take the oath, and then is confronted by a young Scottish enemy champion (Kevin Meconi) whose presence was so distressing to Conchubar.

Cuchulain is convinced by Conchubar and the other Kings that he is bewitched by the young man, for what sane man would lay hands on the High King and shake him ignominiously about? He remembers his oath, and is held to it. It is from a fool and a blind man that Cuchulain learns the terrible truth, for he has killed the one whom he longed for most, on Balle's Strand.

Of the three plays, this is most nearly a tragic play. Michael Yellin is perfectly cast as Cuchulain. Every movement, every facial expression, every word rang true; his agony over the death of his son and Aioife was truly wrenching. John Ransom, a freshman who plays Conchubar, does well enough, but does not quite seem to put across the mannerisms of a High King; it is as Congal in The Herne's Egg that Ransom really shines. The other Kings are appropriately played by students. Laurie Beane is very good; Patrick Orr, the Blind Man in both On Balle's Strand and The Death of Cuchulain, is quite believable, with his staggering, halting blind steps, his wide-eyed blind man's stare, his oft and Gaelic voice (not overdone), and his shock of old, gray hair, and improves in the second play.

Kevin Meconi, a freshman, plays the ill-fated youth from Aioife's country, anxious to look good in the eyes of his homeland, yet bearing no ill-will to anything but a name.

The Death of Cuchulain. Cuchulain, grown older and still fighting, is tricked into entering a hopeless battle through the spell of the Goddess of War upon his mistress, Eithne, (Christine Hilbert).

Cuchulain is wounded by six men who are avenging the deaths of their fathers at his hands. He comes back to die and confronts figures from his past—the vengeful, triumphant Aioife, excellent played by Susan Selig and the blind man of On Balle's Strand (Patrick Orr) who has been promised twelve pennies for killing the already dying Cuchulain. And as the death-blow was struck, the white mist around the great black hawk turned black-red—a chilling and effective device. Emer (Maureen McKenzie) comes to grieve for the lost hero in a beautiful and mournful dance, enhanced by haunting music. Suddenly, it is modern times, and a carnival atmosphere. Three musicians, a piper, a drummer, and a singer, representing a harlot, present the song referred to in the beginning, that "the harlot sang to the beggar-man."

Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they had stood? No body like his body Has modern woman borne But an old man looking on life Imagines it in scorn. A statue's there to mark the place By Oliver Shepard done— Such heroes, brave and reckless, who often prove their own undoing, are seldom to be found today. Yeats says, and we at today, poorer for their absence."

This, the third play, differs from either of the other two. Again, the theme of fools and blind men runs through the story. Rarely performed, The Herne's Egg can best be described as a tragedy, in which deadly battles are comic but none the less deadly. Again, the special effects are excellent.

The story concerns two kings, Congal of Connacht (John Ransom) and Aeth of Tara (Harry Orth) who call for a celebration after fighting fifty stylized, perfect battles, like so many mechanical toy soldiers. They will celebrate with a feast of Herne's eggs at the house of Tara. But when Congal summons the priestess Attracta (Karen Trotter) with a magic flute, to ask her for the eggs which she guards among the rocks, she refuses. The eggs are forbidden to all but those married, or betrothed to the Great Herne.

Congal laughs at her, telling her she is deluded and can only be cured by sleeping with seven men; and the eggs are stolen despite the curse laid upon her to the beggar-man."

Cuchulain's death is finalized, as he takes his place in folklore and ballads among the Irish heroes. His memory stands in spirit among the martyrs of the Easter Rebellion of 1916.

"What stood in the Post Office With Pearse and Connolly? What comes out of the mountain Where men first shed their blood? Who thought Cuchulain till it seemed He stood where they

"Siddhartha". Though Visually Strong, Doesn't Quite Make It On The Screen

by Lisa Charles

If you're interested in observing Conrad Rook's film adaptation of Hermann Hesse's philosophy, go to see "Siddhartha".

It's a very strange experience. Five years in the negotiation and planning, and two years in the making, this eagerly-awaited film turned out to be a disappointing arrangement of redundant dialogue, and captivating photography, which unfortunately, did not seem to balance one another.

The story of "Siddhartha" is familiar to most high school and college students. For those, however, who have not read Hesse's work, a brief synopsis is in order. Most simply, the story is an allegory about a young Brahmin named Siddhartha, who searches for the truth of wisdom in hope of someday achieving nirvana (external state of peace). Rook's film follows Siddhartha from the age of 18 to his death as an old man. During this span of time, he experiences four phases of his search, or follows four basic paths: Dharma, a period of harsh asceticism, when he seeks peace in the teachings of Sadhus (holy men) and Buddha; Karma, when he seeks peace in the "art of love"; Artha, when he experiences the wealth of business; and Nirvana, which is the eventual inner harmony he wishes to attain.

Siddhartha discovers, in the course of his wanderings, that sensual pleasures and luxury may come easily, but the secret of happiness can only be revealed to oneself through inner experience. He learns to live for the moment and finds wisdom in the reality of time. The element of time is most definitely an important, but ambiguous concept in the film.

adaptation of this philosophic novel. For the deliberate pace of the film is attuned to the slow movement of the book, which, in perhaps why its duration is very nearly minutes. If Rook intentionally employs this slow pace to reinforce the notion of timelessness and tranquility, that is acceptable, and surprisingly appreciated. But it seems that the film is constantly playing up to the importance of an American or western audience by compensating for this slow movement with an intensified soundtrack of what sounds like Americanized Indian music, and exceptionally jolly photography.

The film is indeed a visual experience; it is cinematic poetry. The director is fortunate to have employed the prolific artistry of the Swedish cinematographer, Sven Nykvist, who has shot all of Ingmar Bergman's films for the past fifteen years. The dazzling photography, however, seems to be the only redeeming quality in the entire film. Everything else, including the acting, has an annoyingly western appeal which immediately breaks the mood of this eastern philosophy.

Shashi Kapoor (who plays Siddhartha) and Simu Garewal (who plays Kamala, his lover) deliver the dialogue with unnatural, contrived sensitivity. Although the acting merits lead, it is often thwarted by unnecessary dialogue and redundant visual sequences. In one scene, for example, Siddhartha leaves the Sadhus and decides to continue his search alone. A silhouette shot of him raising his arms against the sombre sky is a stronger statement of his liberation than his shouting a moment later, "I am born again today."

Indeed the artistry of this film strains credibility. At one point, for example, Siddhartha is standing outside of Kamala's estate, observing her as she passes by the front gate. It asks aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

Just as Siddhartha does himself, the film "thinks and waits" — which is not at all bad if that is the intention of the producer-director. But there is really no need to apologize or compensate for such a slow pace with poetic photography, redundant dialogue, stylish costumes and quasi-hip Indian music. Yes, in spite of its vogue, or perhaps because of it, "Siddhartha" simply does not make it on the screen. Conrad Rook should either leave Hesse's philosophy in the library or else credit the audience with more patience and intelligence.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

asked aloud "who is that?" — and a totally unwarranted but conveniently omniscient voice answers, "Kamala, the wealthy princess." Is this the voice of a servant, a gardener, or a god? Other covey sequences which assume should be interpreted as spiritual experiences, are Siddhartha's meetings with Buddha; and his change of direction or "Path" — which are accompanied by the sound of thunder! This technique employed effectively, instead of being filtered through the "westernness" of the film, could add a great deal of authenticity to the emotional impact of Siddhartha's revelation. Unfortunately its effect was more contrived than anything else.

Concert Review:

The Who In Montreal Prove To Be Spectacular

Photo: Ed Flynn

by Doug Collette

THE WHO

Montreal Forum

December 2, 1973

If I told you what it takes to reach the highest high

You'd laugh and say "Nothing's that simple."

Peter Townshend

From Tommy

I've never walked out of a rock and roll show feeling as completely satisfied as I was after I saw and heard The Who at the Forum. Even though I'd seen them three times before last Sunday, I'd never been so thoroughly prepared for them before and they were all I dreamed they could ever be. Let me tell you why.

First they warmed up with a few old tunes. They smashed loose with "I Can't Explain" and "Summertime Blues" and on an extended version of Entwistle's "My Wife," the Who really got cooking. "My Generation" set the stage for "Quadrophonia." Already exhilarating! Already explosive!

The Who's in-concert version of "Quadrophonia" is as magnificent in its own right as the album version, which only reaffirms the new work's superiority over its forerunner, "Tommy."

Described most accurately by Roger Daltrey as a series of memories, rather than a story, this live representation comes across with a directness and power all its own. The Who carefully chose what to include and exclude from the recorded piece so as to maximize its impact without sacrificing the subtle meaning of "Quadrophonia." I didn't think it could get much stronger but wait...!!!!!!

"Don't Get Fooled Again" — Like everything else the Who play live, this typically concise, definitive statement of Townshend's is simply shattering!

Then "Pinball Wizard" and before anybody could catch their breath, the "See Me, Feel Me" climax of "Tommy" which came across all the more powerfully after what we'd been seeing and hearing for the past two hours. Those guys didn't miss a trick all night — their encore: the most basic of all, the Bo Diddley beat, a howl to the blues, the "Magic Bus."

The stage act The Who are giving us now is the most well-conceived presentation I've seen or heard of any rock and roll group doing. In terms of integrating the music and its themes and the superb stage lighting, which tremendously accentuated the Who's presence on stage, it is peerless. Watching this happen, right before my eyes, there was so MUCH to absorb!!!!!!

To this day the Who are the most exciting rock and roll band you can see: a frenzied Pete Townshend, running in place, in circles and all over the stage, scissor-kicking in mid-air, all the while playing those thundering chords with his windmill sweeps of his arm or picking precise solos just as full of manic fury; Roger Daltrey, all brash and don't-give-a-shit, swinging that mike in arcing circles, threatening to lasso anyone who comes near (he almost got Pete round the legs once!!), angrily spitting out lyrics, shrieking furiously or warbling softly, never failing to walk that tight rope between shouting and singing that makes him the rock and roll vocalist supreme; Keith Moon, the puke madman, flailing at his drums as if for life, maintaining and embellishing the rocksteady rhythm that as counterpoint to Townshend's guitar is the cornerstone of the Who sound which is even further fortified by John Entwistle whose cool, calm, collectedness keeps the band from self-destructing, playing fast fingered bass runs that stun you in the gut, as leasable for their inventiveness as for the dependability and scope that's indispensable in any instrumental trio.

What's actually amazing about all this is that it isn't contrived, but spontaneous, spectacular theatre. THE WHO ARE ENJOYING THEMSELVES WHEN THEY PLAY — they know the pure joy of REACTING to rock and roll and that's what you see them doing on stage, moving and dancing as happily as you are because IT FEELS SO GOOD!!!!!!

And they're kooky characters still. Pete playing hockey, his guitar the stick, Roger the puck, or Moon, hammering it up for his solopost on "Bell Boy" (everyone in the group had his own showcase). All this good-natured, informal repartee is almost a warning not to take this all TOO seriously, 'cause it's all for fun first.

The Who once used physical flash to cover up what they believed to be musicianship not up to snuff, but now they're counterpoint to Townshend's guitar is the cornerstone

(continued on page fourteen)

Choral Union Performs Masses With Skill

by Lorraine Routhier

A concert of masses isn't a curious bill of fare when the performance is as good as that of the Choral Union last Friday night. The concert began with the Kyrie and Gloria from the Mass de Notre Dame by Machaut, accompanied by recorders, crumhorns, shawn and trombone. This was followed by three mass movements by Abelard, Jaquin des Prez and Mouli. The Mass for Two Part Chorus and Percussion, by Thomson, was most refreshing. The precision of the percussionist Robert Levis and blend and control of voices made it just beautiful.

In the second part of the program, Stravinsky's Mass for Mixed Chorus and Double Quintet was sung very skillfully with feeling, good diction and dynamics. Soloists Jill Levis, Joanne Raymond, William Bosworth, Robert Lew and Gary Moreau sang with conviction and great reverence. Miss Brevis by Haydn certainly made this concert complete. A great work well performed! The contrast and control of the voices supported by the string ensemble were just magnificent and so was the control of voices made it just beautiful. Joanne Raymond.

Faded Dungaree Jackets

WITH THESE COLORFUL EMBLEMS SEWN ON THE BACK

Also Available: NEW RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE, ROLLING STONES, LED ZEPPELIN

JACKETS: $19.95 + $1.00 for postage and handling

Army Shirts with Emblems: $9.95 + $1.00 for postage

Blouse: $5.00, L, XL

Emblems without Jackets: $5.95 + .99 postage

Naturally Faded Jeans: $19.95 + $1.00 postage and handling (includes waist and length sizes)

Send to: HEAD SHED, 21 SOUTHOLD RD., WORCESTER, MA 01097

Quilts, Toys, Weaving, Ceramics At Fleming

In conjunction with their current exhibition "Vermont Crafts '73", the Fleming Museum is sponsoring a series of workshops by four of the exhibiting craftsmen on Saturday, December 8, from 2-5 pm.

In the Museum galleries will be Beverly Danforth, who makes quilts and stuffed toys, ("Beasties"); Kay Curtis, who makes apple dolls, dolls, and woodcut cards and calendars; and Meg Walker, a weaver. Hideo Okino, ceramics instructor at UVM, will conduct a workshop in pottery at the Art Building, Williams Science Hall.

This, in the evening, a musical concert with two performers will be presented in the Museum's Marble Court. Margaret McArthur will sing traditional folk songs of Kentucky, Missouri, and Vermont, accompanied herself with dulcimer, guitar and harp. Burlington musician, Louis Besoudin, will also perform, playing his fiddle French Canadian style.

The concert will begin at 8 pm. Admission by donation.

Everything you need to know to take a small budget and parlay it into a big time. How to ski, eat and sleep for less money in 26 regions and 49 ski areas. All the details on packages and cut-rate tours and a special section on the atmosphere in areas and hotels. With 26 maps. $3.95 paper; $7.95 hardcover. At all bookstores.

HAS THE WAR ENDED?

For many American students, the Battle of Southeast Asia has ended, but the battle within the hearts of her people—the pains of sickness, hunger, fear and death rage on with horrendous force. Americans view the signs of Southeast Asia as symptomatic of the global condition. American missionaries labor through subhuman conditions around the globe. We perpetuate the battle—to liberate the struggling masses from the causes of wars. NO MORE WAR! WAR NEVER AGAIN! Let us work for that goal by defeating the structures that oppress and exploit mankind.

MARKED OUR MISSION explains a fair and lasting trading program for future generations. Will you volunteer?

For your free copy of MARKED OUR MISSION write: Maryland Missionary, Christian M.B., Box 10167

NAME _____

STREET _____

CITY _____

STATE _____

ZIP _____

billings center governing board's

Schedule Of SA Films To Close Out The Semester

On Friday, December 7, 1973 in B106 Cook Hall will be shown the final film of the famous Bergman series, The Passion of Anna, for fifty cents. This film is again set on a bleak island as was last week's film, Shame. Anna, a woman with a troubled past, arrives, and seeking to fill the emptiness in his life, takes up with Anna, a widow with a destructive obsession for attaining perfect love. Through her, Anna meets him and Eve, an architect and his wife, and an unsatisfactory affair develops between him and the bored Eva. He returns to Anna, but their better quarrels continue. It then develops that a madman is loose on the island, slaughtering animals wantonly. His true identity is never determined, but a man who is accused of the deeds is driven to suicide. Anna attempts to go on with Anna, but the affair collapses under the weight of his despair and her demands, but fails leaving him in a state of utter chaos. This film describes a society of men, but only a shadow of a true society, one such as could exist after the war of cultural destruction that occupies Shame. The people exist, but they cannot communicate with each other, and their pathetic attempts to do so are doomed.

On Saturday, December 8, 1973 in 235 Marsh Life Sciences at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. and on Friday, December 7 at 11:30 p.m., is Clint Eastwood in A Fistful of Dollars for $1. Utilizing what is in effect the plot of Akira Kurosawa's classic samurai film, Yojimbo, this film combines the best of recent trends in adventure entertainment as well as the mystery-motivation of psychological drama. The main plot of this unusual movie has created a man with no name and have placed him on the one setting considered ideal for the character development and free-for-all action—the American Southwest—here, Clint Eastwood plays a different kind of cowboy: a man who makes no friends and the few enemies he accumulates learn only one important fact: his aim is deadly. His disdain for death is so self-conscious that another analysis in the audience can have a field day. The director Sergio Leone, an Italian, has created a film with large pictorial compositions and operatic effects at a time when the rest of today's filmmakers are going towards the cheaper and less expressive made for TV films.

On Sunday, December 9, 1973 in B106 Cook Hall at 8:00 p.m. is Buster Keaton's The General and Laurel and Hardy in Horseplay. These two films represent the pinnacle of comic slapstick humor for these three great comedians. The social satire and just downright side splitting humor of these films from yesteryear demands that you see them. Remember the time, the place and most important of all that they are free.

On Monday, December 10, 1973 in Room 115 of the Living Learning Center at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. is Peter Sellers in Dr. Strangelove. For FREE! Before *M*A*S*H* and before 2001 and before Clockwork Orange, Stanley Kubrick made the first and certainly the most definitive anti-war film of the decade with Peter Sellers and George C. Scott in Dr. Strangelove. It is a film that is as crazy and humorous as its title indicates. Yet beneath this fine veneer of humor, this movie makes a truly strong and impassioned statement about war, the way we involve ourselves in war and about the men who run our wars. So take a final break and witness this fantastic film.

On Tuesday, December 11, 1973 in B106 Cook Hall at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. for 25 cents is a three ring special. First is Alfred Hitchcock's The Ring—the story of the rise of a young boxer, his difficulties with his wife, who has an affair with his rival and then the Championship of the Albert Hall. This results in the boxer gaining the title and his wife. From the opening sequence the film's realism, drive and punch is assured. Second is the Champagne, an almost unknown film from Hitchcock's work at the venture. It is the story about the daughter of a millionaire who is forced to get a job in a cabaret. The bright entertainment of this film is largely due to the volatile performance of Betty Hutton. The third film in the sequence is The Manxman from the novel of Hall Caine. It is the story of two friends who live in a village in the Isle of Man. One is a fisherman, the other studies law, and both fall in love with the daughter of the village innkeeper. The film is at times a bit melodramatic, and somewhat unconvincing, but it is superb in its use of locations and its extraordinary pictorial compositions.

On Wednesday, December 12, 1973, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in the North Lounge of Billings Center for free is the final film of the Sci-Fi series, The Invisible Ray with Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi. A scientist on an expedition to Africa discovers a new substance called Radium X. By absorbing the rays, he becomes a figure of walking death in this prophetic treatment of the misuse of science.

On Saturday, December 15, 1973, at 7:30 and 9:30 in 235 Marsh Life Sciences for $1 is Clint Eastwood in For a Few Dollars More. In this sequel to A Fistful of Dollars, Clint Eastwood, strictly out for reward money, and Lee Van Cleef, who is out for revenge, ride out of a western town to get Gian Maria Volonte, a deranged killer who has just broken out of jail and is responsible for the death of Van Cleef's sister. Eastwood gains Volonte's confidence and joins his gang. A bank is robbed and Van Cleef suspects a double cross. Volonte does some suspecting and in a fierce battle knocks them both out. Another wild battle ensues in which all in the bandits gang with the exception of Volonte are killed. The honor of killing Volonte is given to Van Cleef to avenge his sister. In a final sense however, Volonte is reduced to beg for his life and Eastwood rides off with his money. A great film in the fine shoot-em-up style of Clint Eastwood.

On Sunday, December 16, 1973, at 8:00 p.m. in B106 Cook Hall for FREE is the final film this semester in the SA Owned Film Series. The film is Emil Jannings starring in Dupont's classic German film, Variety. The film is a striking example of German expressionism at its height with excellent acting by Jannings and his co-stars. The film also gives the modern viewer a superb insight into the workings of the German circus of the '20's. America was not the only country to have excellent circuses. The film is one of the finest to come out of Germany during the pre-war era. A classic you shouldn't miss.

Vermont Opera Company Formed

Vermont's first professional opera company has announced plans for a gala holiday tour of Engelbert Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" throughout the entire state.

The Vermont Opera Theatre, newly launched with a grant from the Vermont Council on the Arts, brings together regional artists whose professional careers have taken them to Europe, Asia, the

and the National Conservatory in Bogota, Columbia. Ms. Owens has acted as opera consultant to the Queen Elizabeth II Arts Council in New Zealand and is guest director this year at Western Michigan University.

Members of the opera theatre include Nan Nall who has just completed her fourth international concert tour; Sandra-Sliker, faculty member in voice and choral conducting at Johnson State College, voice teacher at Middlebury College, and soloist with the Vermont State Symphony Orchestra; Alice Cody of Burlington, frequent soloist with various New England music organizations; and Michael Kimbell, composer, clarinetist and faculty member at Johnson State.

"Hansel and Gretel", known and loved throughout the world for its beautiful music and exciting story, will tour the state beginning in early January. In residence at Johnson State College, the Vermont Opera Theatre is headed by Barbara Owens, director of the Johnson State College Summer Opera Workshop. Ms. Owens has been stage director with the New York City Opera, co-founder and director with the Farnum Opera Players and other opera projects in Germany, Austria, Holland and South Vietnam. She has headed opera workshops at Boston University, University of Washington, Hunter College

'Godspell' Date Announced: January 30

The musical Godspell has just been dated, according to the Lane Committee. It will be presented in the Lane Series on Wednesday, January 30, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Auditorium. Based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew, Godspell was the most popular concert in last season's Lane Series and attracted an over-flow audience. The musical, which won a Grammy Award for LP album for a musical in 1971, features such songs as "Day by Day," "Prepare Ye the Way of the Lord," "Save the People," "By My Side," "Learn Your Lesson," and many others. Tickets in all price ranges, $3, $5, and $6 are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. Reservations may be made by telephoning 656-3418.

My Side," "Learn Your Lesson," and many others. Tickets in all price ranges, $3, $5, and $6 are available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. Reservations may be made by telephoning 656-3418.

"Nutcracker" Ballet Features Renowned Dances

The Nutcracker ballet, which will be performed in the Lane Series on Friday, December 7, by the Hartford Ballet Company, has some of the most exciting dances in the entire repertoire of the ballet.

Choreographed by Marius Petipa, the ballet concludes with the famous Waltz of the Flowers. Tickets for the Nutcracker, $2, $3, and $4, are still available in the Lane Office, 234 Waterman. Reservations may be made by telephoning 656-3418.

The Nutcracker, which will be presented in Memorial Auditorium beginning at 8 p.m., is the first complete professional performance of this ballet to be offered in the Burlington area.

The Hartford Ballet presentation will include sets, costumes, the music by Tchaikovsky, and the wonderful dances based on the original choreography by Lev Ivanov and the scenario by Marius Petipa.

Dancing the major roles of the Sugar Plum Fairy and the Nutcracker Prince are Anditha Gossnell and Roland Roux. The first performance of this most popular ballet took place at the Maryinsky Theatre in St. Petersburg on December 18, 1892.

The Hartford Ballet founded in 1960 to establish the Hartford School of Ballet, became in 1971 a full-time resident professional company.

THE STUDENT ASSOCIATION CONCERT BUREAU ANNOUNCES AN EVENING WITH STEPHEN STILLS
FEBRUARY 15, 1974

UVM PATRICK GYM
$4.50 UVM ID - $5.50 GENERAL

Student ticket orders being taken now at the Student Activities Desk, Billings Center.

Reserve your tickets now!

(Pay later)

Available starting January 17, 1974

"They do not love
that do not show their love."

William Shakespeare

Choose Keepsake
with complete confidence,
because the famous
Keepsake Guarantee
assures a perfect
engagement diamond
of precise cut and superb color. There is no finer diamond ring.

Keepsake
REGISTERED DIAMOND RINGS

HOW TO PLAN YOUR ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING
Send us 25 pg. booklet, "Planning Your Engagement and Wedding" plus full color folder and 44 pg. Bride's Book gift offer all for only $24. E71

Name _____ Phone _____
Address _____
City _____
State _____ Zip _____
KEEPSAKE DIAMOND RINGS, BOX 94, STURGEON, N.Y. 12580

PINE ISLAND STRING
BAND
Sat. Dec. 8
Snow Snake Lounge
Smuggler's Notch Ski Area
9:00-11:00
no cover

Get the bus to
SMUGGLER'S NOTCH
SKI AREA
bus departing from Patrick
Gym
Sunday, Dec. 23,
ski and save energy
For details call 899-4089

Right Now - at Chittenden Offices Including Dorset Street and Williston Road near UVM

Special UVM Hockey Puck
Coin Banks

on sale for just $1.50
FOR THE BENEFIT OF FRIENDS OF UVM HOCKEY

Chittenden
TRUST COMPANY

Member - FDIC

Outbreak Of B From Med

There appears to be a modest local epidemic of Hepatitis (Yellow Jaundice)
Most of the reported cases have come from the Medical Center Hospital personnel. The exact source is unknown, but reportedly three food handlers at the hospital are ill with the disease. Several doctors, nurses, and technicians have added to this total.

The condition is rarely fatal, but can, of course, be unspectacular, inconvenient, and irritating for prolonged periods.

The symptoms of the early stages of the disease include a moderate fever, mild intestinal upset which might go away by itself, and a loss of appetite.
Jaundice will usually follow

Billings All Night Dancing, Films.

Tomorrow night, December
7, the Billings Center Governing Board is presenting an all-night affair, Billings Bottom. Starting at 8 p.m., with a concert by the UVM Stage Band, festivities will continue throughout the night until early Saturday Morning.
Activities will range from a coed table-tennis tournament (enter at Billings info desk by Friday 5 p.m.) with a first prize of dinner for two at the Sirolo Salon to an early morning showing of The House
That Dripped Blood, a horror film directed by the same man who did Psycho. The S.A.

Senate Elections

(continued from
Do you approve of the fact move the student health facility Home rather than enlarge the of Main and South Prospect Streets

249 - YE
342 - NO
173 - NC

DOWNHILL HEAD GK MARKER

THR

PRE-SE

Includ
• Edg
• Bott
• Gau
• Fille
• Edg
• Bott
• Bine
• Mat

THE S WISHE CHRIS ME

Swi Cha

40 Pearl St
Open Daily 9

Outbreak Of Hepatitis From Medical Center

There appears to be a small local epidemic of hepatitis (Yellow Jaundice). Most of the reported cases have come from the Medical Center Hospital personnel. The exact source is unknown, but reportedly three food handlers at the hospital are ill with the disease. Several doctors, nurses, and technicians have added to the total.

The condition is rarely fatal, but can, of course, be incapacitating, inconvenient, and irritating for prolonged periods.

The symptoms of the early stages of the disease include a moderate fever, mild intestinal upset which might go away by itself, and a loss of appetite. Jaundice will usually follow yellow symbols with or without yellow skin. This form of the disease is passed from person to person by the oral-fecal route that is, taken in by mouth and eliminated in the intestinal tract. Close personal contact is usually necessary for this to occur, but persons sharing food, and kitchen or bathroom facilities can become infected from just one member of the group. The disease can also be spread from person sharing glasses, wine bottles, cigarettes (including pipes and joints).

If you feel you may have been in contact with someone with Hepatitis, come in or call the infirmary. Don't wait for the symptoms to occur.

Billings All Night Festival:

Dancing, Films, Table Tennis

Tomorrow night, December 7, the Billings Center Governing Board is presenting an all-night affair, Billings All Night Festival. Starting at 8 p.m. with a concert by the UVM Stage Band, festivities will continue throughout the night until early Saturday Morning. Activities will range from a coed table-tennis tournament (enter at Billings info desk by Friday 5 p.m.) with a first prize of dinner for two at the Sinton Saloon to an early morning showing of The House That Dripped Blood, a horror film directed by the same man who did Psycho. The S.A.

Concert Bureau is co-sponsoring a rock and roll group, Strawberry, for dancing from 10:30 p.m. until 2 a.m. WRUV-AM will be broadcasting from Billings during the evening. The Beatle's Yellow Submarine, will be shown at 9 p.m. and 4 a.m. An early morning concert by the Arm and Hammer String Band will bring in blue grass music, the Catamount Den, open all night, will have food specials including a breakfast special. Check the ad in This Week. More is happening. Come one, come all.

Senate Elections, Referendum

(continued from page one)

Do you approve of the fact the Trustees have elected to move the student health facility to the East Avenue Nursing Home rather than enlarge the present facility at the corner of Main and South Prospect Street?

269 - YES
342 - NO
173 - NO OPINION

S.A. Recognizes Organizations

The following are the only completely recognized organizations. All others previously recognized will lose all rights granted them as of December 19, 1973. To avoid this, come up and pick up your forms, and return them before the deadline.

Alpha Lambda Delta
Anthropology Club
Arist
ASCE
ASME
Bhai
Campus Crusade for Christ
Catalina Club
Cynic
Ethan Allen Rifles
Forestry Club
Friends of Geology
German Club
Home Economics
Horse Club

Mortar Board
Outing Club
OVP
Perishing Rifles
Phys. Ed. Major/Minor
SA Film
SA Speakers
SPS
University Players
UVM Folk Dance
UVM Rugby
UVM Rescue
UVM Sailing
UVM Student Wives
UVM Plant and Soil Science

InterVarsity Christian Fellowship
Lamplighters
Lawrence Doherty

Vt. Jr. Dent. Hyg. Assoc.
Model U.N.
WRUV-AM

For further information, contact Sarah Pankhouse at ex. 4269, or leave a message at the Student Association Office, ex. 2053.

Teaching Positions Available

More than one thousand school but in most cases they are comparable to those in the U.S. Vacancies occur and are filled throughout the year. Foreign language knowledge is not required. Some schools do not require previous teaching experience or certification. If you are interested in a position with an overseas school or college, contact: Friends of World Teaching, P.O. Box 1049, San Diego, California, 92112. You must indicate three (3) countries where you would consider a position, and enclose $5.00 with your request to cover printing costs. There is no further charge.

Friends of World Teaching is an independent teachers' information agency, dedicated entirely to assisting American and Canadian educators in securing teaching positions in foreign countries.

However, there is still the possibility that, to realize the maximum energy savings, the entire complex may be shut down completely during this vacation period.

Patrick Gym Reschedules For Exams, Vacation

The Patrick Gym will be used for exams December 12 through the 21st, and for registration January 10 through the 15th. Between these periods it will be open for faculty, staff, and student recreation between the hours of 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Monday through Friday.

The track and handball courts will be open between December 12 and January 15, Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for faculty, staff and UVM students. Because of lifeguard and supervisory problems during the vacation period and also to conserve energy in these areas, the rink and pool will only be open 12 noon to 12:45 p.m. Monday through Friday from December 12 to January 15.

All facilities will be closed all day on December 24, 25, 31, and January 1.

Student Union

Are you tired of trucking all over campus to see films each night, tired of having no comfortable and roomy place to go between classes, tired of having no space for student organizations offices and above all, are you tired of not having a place you can call your own? Then come to a meeting and explore the need for a Student Union. Come and find out what a Union can offer you! The meeting will take place at Billings Center, in Conference Room C on Monday at 2:30. Come find out what a Student Union may have in store for you.

January 30

Side, Learn - Your own, and many others. Tickets in all price ranges, $3, and $6 are available in Lane Office, 234. Reservations may be made by telephoning 3418.

ed Dances

Further information in the 1972-1973 year brought the attention of Michael Uthoff, artistic director.

The company is now making arrangements throughout the United States. Last summer it was a week's performance at prestigious Jacob's Pillow.

Artistic Directors: Michael Uthoff, a former member of the Joffrey Ballet, not only dances with the company on tours, but also is responsible for the choreography of many of the company's ballets. Mr. Uthoff's wife, professionally known as Bradley, also dances with the company. She, too, is a former member of the Joffrey Ballet.

Viewing one of the Obi's Pillow evenings, Chances of the New York Times wrote that "the company is doing happy and content. It seems to be a ballet troupe its way up."

Get the bus to MUGGLER'S NOTCH SKI AREA.

Departing from Patrick Gym Sunday Dec. 23. Ski and save energy. For details call 899-1089.

enden Offices Street and near UVM

ockey Puck
nks

est $1.50
OF FRIENDS OF KEY

tenden
UST OMPANY
FDIC

DOWNHILL SKI PACKAGE
HEAD GK-03 120.00
MARKER BINDINGS 45.00
$165.00

THRU SAT. ONLY
$99.95

DOWNHILL
PRE-SEASON SKI-TUNE-UP

Includes: ONLY
• Edges Sharpened
• Bottoms Flat Filed
• Gouges, Scratches Filled
• Edges Deburred
• Bottoms Waxed
• Binding Maintenance Check
$4.95

THE SWISS CHALET WISHES YOU A HAPPY
CHRISTMAS AND A
MERRY SKIING
NEW YEAR

Swiss Chalet

40 Pearl St., Essex Jct.
Open Daily 9 A.M.-9 P.M.

ALL SALES ARE VINYL

The Discount Record

Aures Vesperas Nobis Praebete!

Pick up a copy of our 16 page Gift Guide in our store
Thousands of LP's and Stereo Tapes on Sale For One Week.
Just in Time for Christmas Gift Giving

*Lend Us Your Ears! (And You'll Save Money)

SELECTED BEST SELLERS $4.29 ROCK-JAZZ COUNTRY CLASSICS Buy one tape at regular price Get the other tape at 1/2 price! MEMOREX Recording Tape Reproduction so true it can shatter glass. Selected Best Selling Pops and Classics From LONDON BONFA JACARANDA - LUIZ BONFA RANWOOD RECORDS R 8112 BONFA'S TIME IS NOW AND THE CRITICS AGREE! Arranged and Conducted by EUMIR DEODATA	SELECTED BEST SELLERS $3.69 NEW RELEASES SELECTED BEST SELLERS $3.69 ROCK-JAZZ COUNTRY CLASSICS RCA THE ENTIRE CATALOG AT SPECIAL SALE PRICES. ARCHIVE PRODUCTIONS $4.29 5.99 LIST SPECIAL MAJOR LP LABEL PURCHASE Thousands of LP's - All Categories Pop-Rock-Classics-Jazz-Shows-Blues $1.98 Per Disc	SELECTED BEST SELLERS $3.69 ABC/DUNHILL RECORDS BLUESWAY SELECTED BEST SELLERS SELECTED BEST SELLERS $3.69 THE WHO MCA 2-10004 A You Record Inc. SELECTED BEST SELLERS $3.69 JOHN MAYALL Ten Years on Tour A Specialty Record LP Set POLYDOR PD 3-2008 THE ENTIRE CATALOG $3.69 PER DISC MELODY ANGEL MELODY ANGEL	Carole King, Cat Stevens, Billy Preston, Carpenters, Quincy Jones, Nazareth, Cheech & Chong, Rita Coolidge, & Kris Kristofferson AM $3.69 5.99 LIST Hundreds of Quality CLASSICS At Low Budget Prices. Includes Single Discs & Sets Qualiton $3.99 5.99 LIST PER DISC SUPRADHON Classics for Connoisseurs WEP $3.69 5.99 LIST SELECTED BEST SELLERS
--	---	--	---

discount records
93 Church St. Downtown Burlington 10-9 Mon - Fri 10 - 6 Sat 853-4587

The following quote is in code along with the author's name. To solve it, remember that a different letter has been substituted for each letter of the alphabet.

For Example: Looqfllow
twonmifwe
In this example, I has been substituted for L, w for a and so forth. This example however, is not part of this week's code.

CRJW CBQ KSVET LIKEQAF-ESIK OSQAQHQA
OO TCIBP SCQHQQA OO TC OQ SQIA KQJ LKXVR
CN JVWQ

Last Cryptquote:
Impeach the Cox Sacker.

Parking Lots And UVM Priorities

If you've been wondering what that new stretch of pavement with the chain-link barbed-wire fence around it in the commuter parking lot is being built for, here's the answer. It will be a parking area for UVM vehicles.

At the present time many of these vehicles are given home at night by UVM employees. As an energy conservation measure, the university is discontinuing this policy. The fence and barbed wire are security measures.

Only the section of the commuter parking lot being set aside for the UVM vehicles is being paved. When asked if paving it isn't an unnecessary expenditure for the university which is feeling a financial pinch in the face of the energy crisis, Executive Vice-President Wayne Patterson told a group of students a week ago that it was being paved so it could be plowed. A curious student then inquired if that meant the rest of the commuter lot would not be plowed. Patterson said it, too, would be plowed, but that the university has certain priorities.

SOPHOMORES

SENIORS

GRADUATE STUDENTS

IF YOU ATTEND THE ARMY ROTC BASIC CAMP AT FORT KNOX, KENTUCKY
FOR SIX WEEKS THIS COMING SUMMER YOU MAY QUALIFY FOR AN OFFICER'S COMMISSION IN TWO YEARS

Monetary Benefits

SUMMER CAMP PAY (Basic camp '74 - approx. $500 Advance camp - Approx. $450)
Free travel to and from camp plus free room and board at camp
$100/month for up to ten months each school year during your remaining two years at UVM

TOTAL BENEFITS APPROX $2600 WHILE IN SCHOOL

Other Benefits Include

LEADERSHIP TRAINING
Opportunity for full scholarship to cover tuition, books, fees, etc. for your remaining two years on campus
Challenging courses
Civilian career enhancement

UVM FRESHMEN MEN & WOMEN

IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO TRY ROTC (WITHOUT SERVICE OBLIGATION) TO SEE IF IT'S FOR YOU

WE OFFER:

CHALLENGING LEADERSHIP EXPERIENCES

Courses in military affairs
Field training (weapons, equipment, tactics, map reading, etc.)
Extracurricular activities
Civilian career enhancement
Opportunity for full tuition scholarship

If you elect to continue ROTC through your junior and senior years,

YOU WILL RECEIVE MONETARY BENEFITS OF APPROX $2200 DURING COLLEGE AND BE COMMISSIONED AS AN OFFICER

Your service obligation would be two years or three months active duty plus a period in the Reserve

UVM STUDENTS OF ALL CLASSES

Currently, several non-ROTC men and women are taking our courses in military affairs. For the spring term we offer:

MS 2 U.S. DEFENSE ESTABLISHMENT - Principles of war. Relationship of war to society. Impact of technology on warfare. Role of logistics and administration. Political, social, economic factors making up current military power.

Two hours. CPT Walz

Our non-ROTC students have found our courses challenging. Perhaps you would like to join them by adding MS 2 to your spring schedule?

FOR MORE INFORMATION:

VISIT THE DEPARTMENT OF MILITARY STUDIES,
3rd floor, Williams Hall or call 656-2966 2967

FDA Sets

by Susan G. Morse
The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has undertaken one of the most ambitious programs in its history—to make food labeling more informative as an aid to proper nutrition. Nutrition labeling spells out a standard that permitting food consumers to detail the amount of protein, calories, carbohydrates, fats and the percentages of the recommended daily allowances of protein and seven essential vitamins and minerals found in serving.
One of the significant contributions of nutrition labeling is the establishment of the U.S. Recommended Dietary Allowance (U.S. RDA) as the dietary standard for use on food labels. With this tool, a wise consumer will find it possible to determine which nutrients he is getting in a food and how much a serving or portion will contribute to his daily needs.
The idea that food contains more than energy-yielding nutrients was recognized by 1920, but it wasn't until 1940 that any formal effort was made in the United States to evaluate and establish a set of dietary standards. In response to the very high rejection rate among young service recruits

OVP Needs Help

by Becky Burr
The Office of Volunteer Programs is faced with the problem of serving immediate human needs on an emergency-type basis. Several times each day calls come into the office for one that, hour or day-long needs. Example: Poor family is forced to move and has no way or means to accomplish the move. Can OVP mobilize an emergency task force of volunteers to respond to this need within three days?
OVP will offer its resources and help to any student who wishes to establish a Special Needs Task Force as an ongoing project. At least two people are needed to serve as Project Directors to coordinate this response to the human needs of the community.
If you feel that you can commit yourself to the

Get the bus to
SMUGGLER'S NOTCH
SKI AREA
bus departing from Patrick
Gym
Sunday Dec. 23
ski and save energy
For details call 899-4089

If you are planning
Santa Claus
Engagement pow is the make you

YOU ARE INVITED
PRESTON'S
Prices start
A FAMILY OF JEWELRY
F.J. PRESTON
17 UPPER CHURCH

FDA Sets Up Ambitious Nutrition Food Labelling Program

by Susan G. Morie

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has undertaken one of the most ambitious programs in its history to make food labeling more informative as an aid to better nutrition. Nutrition labeling spells out a standard format permitting food processors to detail the amount of protein, calories, carbohydrates, fat and the percentages of the recommended daily allowances of protein and seven essential vitamins and minerals found in each serving.

One of the significant contributions of nutrition labeling is the establishment of the U.S. Recommended Dietary Allowance (U.S. RDA) as the dietary standard for use on food labels. With this tool an aware consumer will find it possible to determine which nutrients he is getting in a food and how much a serving or portion will contribute to his daily needs.

The idea that food contains more than energy-yielding nutrients was recognized by 1920, but it wasn't until 1940 that any formal effort was made in the United States to evaluate and establish a set of dietary standards in response to the very high rejection rate among young service recruits for reasons attributed to inadequate nutrition. Twenty-five scientists met in 1940 at the first Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council to establish dietary standards designated as "Recommended Dietary Allowance" (RDA) that were judged to be adequate for the maintenance of good nutrition in the population of the United States. Since the first RDA standards were published in 1943, there have been six revisions due to improved analytical techniques and increased knowledge of most nutrients.

It is significant that the FDA has established the U.S. RDA as the official measurement of daily nutritional intake, replacing the former Minimum Daily Requirement (MDR) which was used for 30 years on food labels. MDR indicated only the amount of a nutrient required to prevent symptoms of actual deficiency. The U.S. RDA's represent the amount of nutrients needed by healthy people everyday plus an excess of 30 to 50 percent to allow for individual variations. RDA was selected due to arguments that the MDR was no longer scientifically sound and that the term MDR was misleading to many consumers who did not realize that minimum requirements were chosen for legal reasons and formed only a basis for past labeling regulations.

The FDA derived the U.S. RDA from the RDA of the National Research Council (NRC). The NRC's RDA has 24 tables within it, broken down by age groups and sex. For labeling purposes, this system was just too complicated. So, the FDA took the highest level of nutrient intake from these tables thereby making the U.S. RDA a measurement of intake considered nutritionally adequate for essentially everyone. Also, many normal, healthy people may not need the full 100 percent of the U.S. RDA of a given nutrient on a given day, and falling short of this level may not be a cause for alarm. In all cases, the quantities of protein, vitamins and minerals will be stated as percentages of the U.S. RDA rather than as absolute amounts such as in grams or units. The FDA agreed upon this system because percentages are easier to use and almost everyone understands percentages and knows that 100 percent means "complete." Thus, consumers will not have to memorize or constantly refer to a table of the U.S. RDA to know if they are getting enough of any given nutrient. They can simply add the percentages for all the foods they have eaten that day.

There is no U.S. RDA standard for calories, carbohydrates, and fat and this is why no percentages of U.S. RDA of these nutrients appear on the label. These nutrients serve principally as sources of body energy and are difficult to assess. As energy sources, the amounts needed by individuals depend upon many factors, such as age, sex, height, weight, body metabolism and degree of activity.

In subsequent articles, I will discuss the influence of these factors: age, sex, weight, height, body metabolism, degree of activity and their affect on an individual's nutritional needs.

The significance of the nutrition labeling program will be examined: why the labels were developed, and what the labels mean to the consumer, and what the food processors think about the nutrition labels.

First UVM Girls In ROTC Program Are Happy, But Desire More Participation

by Barbara Frankel

This semester, fourteen freshmen and sophomore girls entered UVM's Reserve Officer's Training Corps (ROTC). It was the first time in the program's history at UVM that girls were allowed to enter.

Although they are still unable to be more than "just observers" in some aspects of ROTC's program, most of the girls are quite happy with the organization. Many of them are hopeful that, if and when the Equal Rights Amendment is passed, they will become full-fledged members of ROTC.

In a recent Cynic interview, three of the girls, Sue Makin, freshman from St. Johnsbury, Lucille Morrill, a sophomore from Stowe and Margaret Rind a freshman from Hinesburg, expressed their feelings about ROTC. All three intend to go into the regular army.

Their reasons for joining the organization ranged from a desire to meet nice people and gain valuable job experience to a "desire to travel someday by being an army officer."

The girls have met with little discrimination from the male members of ROTC, "although we do have our standard MCP's," they commented that, "it's mostly good-natured fooling around." They claim to have received mostly good feedback from friends, male and female, who are not in the program.

Their biggest gripe is still being regulated to the role of "spectator." They are not required to participate in combat practice and, "on a recent overnight, were only allowed to be observers during the day, after which time they were transported home. As Sue Makin commented, "Being a spectator's fine, but you don't really feel a part of it."

Not surprisingly, ROTC has witnessed a certain revival this year on campus. Lucille Morrill feels this may be because "some of the bitterness from Viet Nam is finally dying down." According to Sue Makin, "most people seem to accept girls being in ROTC now more than they previously accepted men being in it."

Poetry Corner: The Tread

THE TREAD

(A Fourth Elder Ballad)

Sneak what wid
cane drops from graz and vergin wood

Sneak what wid
cane drops from graz and vergin wood smellin' ev'rywhere was thee ap'urn' mood
U and eye won't wankin'
abon tewgather.

Before, was war frenz of soarts, We'd luffed und imbyed inn wyne and chess.
Chered sun tyme wid mewchewall frenz.
We'd plaid and fot upd yett.
...aye lyke U sunhowe
Your Kwalties uktract meo
Your smyle, Your f's, Your hed, Your whit
Yes, eye lyke U kwite ch byt.

Wea wauk nauw, tauk nauw, thee rane beagin.

Letie und downey umbreller letz us stae longur undir thee brancher
while rane come.
Thots ov us az wun purcyst,
und tew bee thatt wun,
is myne.

Ceylent
Peece tew wigh is jest enuf tew
sat. "Belowe iz
purfect und wil
bee plenti."
Soc lett us keep

al between us love
one me was butt
us wil now.

U halve meo and meyo
lan wun, und al eye axm
iz yare four nouw and evermore.
Thuh Tread iz wee.
You and Me.

timn inawis

Note: any translation from Fourth Elder causes a loss to reality and in that a loss.

Leahy Makes Statement On Gas Station Limits

STATEMENT BY CHITTENDEN COUNTY
STATE'S ATTORNEY
PATRICK J. LEAHY ON GAS STATIONS

A number of complaints have been made to my Economic Crime Division that certain gasoline stations in Chittenden County are, on a selective basis, refusing to sell gasoline to some people so that the station's supply can be saved for regular customers. Other stations are setting a limit on the amount of gasoline that can be purchased at any one time. According to the complaints made to me as well as Deputy State's Attorney John Bergeron and Economic Crime Investigator Paul Bruhn, these same stations are, at the same time, selling more than that limit to their regular customers.

While I can appreciate the pressure many gasoline stations are under during the energy crisis, my office cannot condone this kind of action. If a gasoline station is open for business, all customers, whether or not they are regular patrons, must be treated exactly alike. At a time of both State and national crisis, the office is prepared to take drastic action to preclude this type of conduct.

A station operator can set a limit on the amount of gasoline he will sell at any one time. However, that limit must be uniform to all customers. My office would request that any station limiting quantities should post a notice which clearly states:

1. That there is a limit and
2. What the limit is.
Any citizen having a complaint of this nature against a gasoline station should immediately call my office.

Vermont's Consumer Fraud Statutes prohibit any unfair practice in commerce whether or not such practices constitute fraud. This office will consider any unequal treatment in violation of this statute and offenders can be prosecuted.

OVP Needs Help Setting Up Emergency Force

by Becky Burr

The Office of Volunteer Programs is faced with the problem of serving immediate human needs on an emergency type basis. Several times each day calls come into the office for one shift, hour or day long needs. Example: Poor family is forced to move and has no way or means to accomplish the move. Can OVP mobilize an emergency task force of volunteers to respond to this need within three days?

OVP will offer its resources and help to any student who will establish a Special Needs Task Force as an ongoing project. At least two people are needed to serve as Project Directors to coordinate this response to the human needs of the community.

If you feel that you can commit yourself to the administration of a group of volunteers in this project, or, if you wish to be one of the volunteers, please come to the OVP office at Mansfield House at once, or call Sharon Williams at OVP (656-2062).

Remember: people need, and right this minute OVP has, the following special requests. Can you help?

OVP urgently needs volunteers to:

- 1) Work with returning Job Corpsmen
- 2) Tutor a high school student
- 3) Gather data to make downtown more accessible to the handicapped.
- 4) Transport child to Speech Therapy weekly, Monday, 9-10 a.m.

5) Participate in a neurological project at Waterbury State Hospital

6) Help elderly mother with 4 year old once a week

7) Become part of a one day paint crew for Howard Mental Health on December 8.

8) Cooperate with the Visiting Nurses Association in assisting a low income mother with four children

9) Provide child care at the Burlington Farmer's Market on December 10, 11, 17, 18, 21.

10) Be creative and paint a sign on the fence on Main Street advertising the Howard Mental Health Circus to be held in January.

Get the bus to
SMUGGLER'S NOTCH
SKI AREA
bus departing from Patrick
Gym

Sunday Dec. 23
ski and save energy
For details call 899-4089

PINE ISLAND STRING
BAND

Sat. Dec. 8
Snow Snake Lounge
Smuggler's Notch Ski Area
9:00-11:00
TICKETS COVER

If you are planning to have Santa Claus deliver your Engagement Diamond,
now is the right time to make your selection.

YOU ARE INVITED TO OPEN A
PRESTON'S CHARGE ACCOUNT
Prices start from under $100

F.J. PRESTON & SON INC.
17 UPPER CHURCH STREET - BURLINGTON

GRAND OPENING

20%
OFF
EVERYTHING IN THE STORE

DAY 11th
DAY 12th
WEDNESDAY 13th

Open 10-9 Monday thru Saturday

BRITCHES EAST

Britches for Everyone

100 DORSET STREET
S. BURLINGTON

DON'T LET THEM
SEE THE LABEL
UNTIL AFTER THEY
TASTE THE WINE.

"No peeking. Taste it first."
"Wow, that's good!"
"Are you sure?"
"Sure, I'm sure. It's great!"
"Not too sweet?"
"No it's...uh...what is this?"
"Sort of different?"
"Yeah, it's light...smooth...kind of...c'mon!"
"Ok. Are you ready for this?"
"At this point, bottle is turned to reveal label, although some fans like to drag things out a little longer."
"MANISCHEWITZ"
"Cream White Concord."
Manischewitz doesn't always mean sweet wine, y'know.
"But this is terrific! Y'know, if I'd seen the name, I might never have believed it!"
"Uh-huh."

Manischewitz Wine Co., New York, N.Y.

THE GOOD TIMES

HEY LOOK!
IT'S SNOWING!

by Has

Faculty-Senate Discusses Proposed Five Year Plan...

(continued from page one)

Will UVM overcrowd its classrooms and risk specifying quality, will the University petition the legislature for additional funds, will the college find another solution? These were the questions in the minds of the Faculty-Senate. After giving the Senate about 10 minutes to reflect on the dilemma, President Andrews was succinct and posed a question to the body: "What would you do about this?" Dr. Norman London did not hesitate to reply: "We'll do the same thing we did this year, although it isn't acceptable over-crowd."

Answering the suggestion that year around operation would be beneficial, Andrews believed the policy didn't work at other institutions and was pessimistic about it, but offered that a faculty committee could look into the matter.

Not ready to commit suicide, the president threw out several ways to combat the rising costs of running a university. Among them were capital fund drives and deficit spending measures.

Energy Conservation: The kilowatt-hour consumption of electricity in 15 of UVM's largest buildings has decreased two percent under last year's figures, as a result of the decision to cut down on energy use two weeks ago. Vice President Patterson revealed to the Senate, Harris Miller has decreased consumption by 14 percent and the book store has decreased consumption by 22 percent.

However, President Andrews stated that UVM will do all it can to ease the energy crisis, but the University will not close down unless the governor so requests. The prime administrator of the University was reluctant to interrupt the academic process because such an interruption would seriously hamper students' and faculty's efforts to stake out a summer employment position. Moreover, Patterson revealed "the impact of sending students home, but keeping open laboratories and clinical offices for research would amount to savings of 5.0 percent of the annual total of heating oil and a 1.4 percent savings of the annual total lighting cost if the University were to close for another month."

Committee Reports: The Senate concluded their meeting with reports from the Faculty Affairs committee, the Physical Planning committee, and the Student Affairs committee.

As a representative for the AAUP, Dr. Virginia Clark urged the Faculty-Senate to direct the Faculty Affairs committee to subscribe to AAUP guidelines and give reappointments one year prior notice to reappointment rather than seven months. The committee will also attempt to correct the situation of short notices to reappointment that have occurred this year.

Dr. H. Squire, reporting for the Physical Planning committee, announced that journals published before 1921, presently located in Bailey Library, would be moved to a storage facility on Church Street but would be available upon request, at Bailey, within 24 hours. The proposal created some controversy.

Dr. Z. Ponzo submitted a report from the Student Affairs committee outlining general areas of student concern: gym fees, active student participation in rehiring, promotion and tenure cases, and increased library services.

The Senate will conclude its semester's work in their final meeting on December 12.

Students Needed To Support Upcoming Labor Union Strike ...

(continued from page one)

workers, union and non-union, on construction jobs involving federal funding) has dropped from $5.15 to $3.38 an hour in Franklin County since the beginning of the strike. (It should be remembered that laborers receiving the union wage were lucky to take home $5,000 or $6,000 a year because of the irregular nature of the work. The Bureau of Labor statistics "lower budget" for a family of four in areas of population from 2,500 to 50,000 of the northeastern United States for Autumn 1972 was $7,234.) It is anticipated that a reduction in construction wages will have a depressing effect on other wages, and that other unions will be endangered if the construction unions go.

State taxpayers also would bear the costs in the form of increased taxes to pay for welfare, medical assistance, etc. (In 1972 the health and welfare fund of the Laborers' International Union paid $550,000 to Vermont hospitals for members' medical expenses.)

To date state government has failed to take any decisive action to force contractors to the bargaining table. Although Governor Salmon campaigned as the candidate of "ordinary people" depicting his opponent as the representative of "big special interest business" like Pizzagalli, it was not until June of 1973 that he even used his statutory authority to appoint a mediator. While the unions had long before agreed to submit to binding arbitration, no effort was made to bear on the contractors to agree to this or any other method of settling the dispute. The possible sanction of denying them the right to bid on state contracts was not invoked.

It was only in September 1973, after a demonstration in Montpelier protesting the award of the contract for the construction of the Chittenden Community Correctional Center to the Pizzagalli Construction Company, that Governor Salmon appointed a fact-finding panel to investigate the causes of the strike and make recommendations. The committee, headed by Attorney John Burgess of Montpelier, conducted extensive public hearings. Repeated efforts on the part of the committee to persuade contractors to resume negotiations with the unions met with flat refusal. At the conclusion of the hearings the committee, as an interim measure, (the committee's final report is still awaited at this writing), asked the Governor to announce that he reserves the right to prohibit contractors refusing to bargain in good faith from bidding on state contracts.

This the Governor declined to do, citing an opinion of the Attorney General, and stating that he was not inclined to do so anyway. However, the Attorney General's opinion in question appears to acknowledge the possibility that the state may take into account the labor relations policy of a prospective bidder in issuing bid invitations or in approving or rejecting bids.

The statute governing the bidding procedure for state contracts specifically gives the secretary of administration "the right to reject any and all bids and to invite other bids."

The Vermont Public Interest Research Group has pointed out that this section clearly allows the state to decline to give state contracts to contractors whose actions are detrimental to the best interests of the state as a whole, and that, indeed, the Governor as chief executive, has an affirmative duty to make sure that state taxpayers' money is not used to subsidize union-breaking activity (any more than it could be used to subsidize racial discrimination, for example).

The state has long provided substantial financial and technical assistance to industry supposedly for the purpose of providing enhanced employment opportunities for Vermonters. It was recently announced that Governor salmon will ask the legislature for a major increase in financing for the state's industrial development program, in order to attract "good paying manufacturing jobs" to the state. It might perhaps be questioned whether the state is really more interested in helping workers or the owners of industries, when state construction contracts continue to go to contractors whose efforts to destroy the unions for their own profit are already adversely affecting wages and working conditions in the state.

Among the groups taking an active interest in the strike is the Vermont Public Interest Research Group, which has maintained that the strike is a public interest issue because the questions involved affect all working Vermonters. According to VPIRG, the "neutrality" professed by Governor Salmon is in fact a failure of state government to take responsibility for its actions in a matter of critical public importance, and amounts to a decision to continue supporting the contractors in their efforts to destroy the unions.

Ski Club Meeting

On Thursday, December 6, the Ski Club will hold an important organizational meeting. Special features include ski movies and a maintenance demonstration program. All interested members please attend, at MAT Lounge, 7 p.m.

Education In Residence Halls

Is there room for one more Experimental Program and Living/Learning are two of several programs which have been developed to bring education to the residence halls. A group of people met last Thursday evening to expand on this philosophy of Residential Education and strongly felt that some continuous and diverse programs should be initiated for next semester. February 1st was set as a target date at which time the first of fifty or so programs would be held in a hall or lounge which could serve as a focal point for the entire semester's project.

Programs might include a gourmet evening, hypnotism, karate and judo demonstration, discussions about alternatives to religion, energy crisis, sculpture and visual environments and folk evenings. Ideas are limitless! The unique aspect about this concept is that you'll know where to go when you have a free evening or a new idea. Here you can present your ideas, skills, experiences, or have the opportunity to appreciate those of others.

Through your efforts a greater "community" feeling and a greater sense of educational fulfillment can be realized. Thus far, 27 people including students, staff, and faculty have expressed interest in helping to organize this project. If you would like to become a part of this program, either as an organizer or as a presenter of ideas, please call Paul Stonely at 2904 or leave a message at 2901.

Art Print Sale

Today and Friday December 7, Dasamar will hold an art print sale in the Marsh Lounge of Billings Center between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Featured will be the works of Chagall, Matisse, Wyeth, Escher, Vasarely, Picasso, Homer, and many others. Matting and framings for the prints will be available. Do some holiday shopping now.

Christmas Print Sale

UVM Student Christmas Print Sale, Wednesday, December 12, until Monday, December 24, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Williams Science Hall Gallery. Prints are "reasonably priced."

...S.A. D

(continued from page one) Finally, $41 which recommends that $350 be given to the organization was approved so that Third World students will receive $50 extra, a total sum of $400.

Under Committee Reports, Doug Beardsley and the Concert Bureau announced that Steven Stills will be coming to UVM on February 15. He also reminded senators of the Boogie Dance during the Billings Bedem this Friday, December 7. He discussed tentative March bookings mentioning that the Concert Bureau had been in touch with J. Geils and Frank Zappa. However, as of now there are no definite bookings for a March concert. Steven deCesnak talked about new financial policies while giving the Finance Committee report. Funds for travel and social activities for student organizations will be ruled out.

During the Board Meeting report Evelyn Liberty was nominated for the position of Secretary of Communications. Later, in the meeting she was elected by an overwhelming majority. Ms. Liberty sees her position as a public relation function and hopes to establish more effective means of student body senator communication. Six Heller had several announcements pertaining to the Coordinating Committee. He read a letter to the Senate from the State Commission on Higher Education which congratulated the S. A. for being the only student group in the state to contact the government on issues concerning education. Heller also emphasized the immediate need for the S. A. to submit a plan to the administration on faculty hiring. He warned that student opinions are being ignored because the S. A. hasn't yet publicized its position on the issue. Heller announced that the gym will be open on Sundays next semester from 10:00 a.m. and from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m. He felt that this decision was a major accomplishment for the S. A.

There was talk about the energy crisis. The fact that students are hoarding gasoline was criticized as it is a dangerous activity. It was mentioned that maybe the S. A. will be able to subsidize operation of a gas pump to assure students who may have trouble getting home for vacation an adequate supply. Robinson representative Mark Siegars announced that there is an emergency number for information on energy consumption and cutback.

Dick Cassidy, newly elected student chairperson for the Board of Trustees, discussed the recent Board meeting. First, Cassidy emphasized the need for the S. A. to submit its position concerning faculty tenure. He talked about the University's financial status.

FOR AN EVENING JOIN US FOR AND DANCE AND SEASON UVM - RPI HALL (SAT. 12)

MAKE THE COMPLETE BREAKING Y

SIZZ ST

1216 WILSON SQ. BURLINGTON (NEXT TO CACROSS) OPEN 7

Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc.

SPECIALISTS IN QUALITY, LIGHTWEIGHT CAMPING AND MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT

CITY CENTER-100 DORSET ST.-S. BURL.-PHONE 864-0473

FREE X-C CLINICS

TUESDAYS
7:30 PMSATURDAYS & SUNDAYS
9:30, 11:30, 1:30

for your convenience

OPEN SUNDAYS 9am - 6pm

MONDAY - SATURDAY 9am - 9pm

THE LAST
CHANCEA NIGHTSPOT
OPEN. NOW

20¢ ALE
Mon.-Thurs. 7-10 PM.
PREMIUM DRAFTS
& DRINKS
NO COVER CHARGE

OPEN AT 7 PM
7 DAYS A WEEK147 MAIN ST.
BURLINGTONGET HIGH
THIS WINTER

Glen Ellen has the highest peak in the Green Mountain National Forest, 2,645 vertical ft. with some of the most challenging skiing anywhere. Special week day rates for all UVM students and extra-low rates for Outing Club and Student Ski Association members (weekends and holidays included).

UVM SEASONS PASS RATE - $60.00

*With Glen Ellen Ski Pass, ski for $5.00 at Sugarbush and Mad River on weekdays.

Time Payment Plans available.

Contact: Jim Petrovito, MHN, HAF, 856-3848, or Steve Brown, Millis Hall, 856-3848.

Education In Dance Halls

There is room for one more "Dance Hall" Program and learning are two of the programs which have been developed to bring on to the residence group of people met Thursday evening to on this philosophy of Education and felt that some of the more diverse should be initiated in the first of fifty or so would be held in a lounge which could be a focal point for the semester's project. The program might include a evening, hypnosis, and judo demonstration, and other alternatives such as energy crisis, and visual aids and folk ideas are limitless. The aspect about this is that you will know to go when you have a new idea, you can present your skills, experiences, or the opportunity to use those of others. Through your efforts a "community" feeling of greater sense of fulfillment can be achieved. Thus far, 27 people have expressed interest in going to organize this. If you would like to be a part of this program, as an organizer or as a member of ideas, please call at 2904 or leave a message at 2901.

Print Sale

Monday and Friday December 7 and 8, 1973. The Marsh Lounge in the Marsh Center between 10 and 5 p.m. Featured will be the works of Chagall, Matisse, Wyeth, Escher, and others. Matting and prints for the prints will be available. Do some holiday shopping now.

Christmas Print Sale

Monday Student Christmas Sale, Wednesday, December 12, until Monday, December 24, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the Science Hall Gallery. Prints are "reasonably priced."

HOUSE LEAD OFFICE EDUCATION S. AND PORTED

WINGS

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

ALLEN STREET

...S.A. Debates

(continued from page one)

Finally, S. 41 which recommends that $350 be given to the organization was amended so that Third World students will receive $50 extra, a total sum of $400.

Under Committee Reports, Doug Beardsley and the Concert Bureau announced that Steven Stills will be coming to UVM on February 15. He also reminded senators of the Boogie Dance during the Billings Bedlam this Friday, December 7. He discussed tentative March bookings mentioning that the Concert Bureau had been in touch with J. Geils and Frank Zappa.

However, as of now there is no one definitely booked for a March concert. Steve deCarismak talked about new financial policies while giving the Finance Committee report. Funds for travel and social activities for student organizations will be ruled out.

During the Board Meeting report Evelyn Liberty was nominated for the position of Secretary of Communications. Later in the meeting she was elected by an overwhelming majority. Ms. Liberty sees her position as a public relation function and hopes to establish more effective means of student body senator communication. She Heller had several announcements pertaining to the Coordinating Committee. He read a letter to the Senate from the State Commission on Higher Education which congratulated the S. A. for being the only student group in the state to contact the government on issues concerning education.

Heller also emphasized the immediate need for the S. A. to submit a plan to the administration on faculty hiring. He warned that student opinions are being ignored because the S. A. hasn't yet publicized its position on the issue. Heller announced that the gym will be open on Sundays next semester from 10:00 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. He felt that this decision was a major accomplishment for the S. A.

There was talk about the energy crisis. The fact that students are hoarding gasoline was criticized as it is a dangerous activity. It was mentioned that maybe the S. A. will be able to subsidize operation of a gas pump to assure students who may have trouble getting home for vacation an adequate supply.

Robinson representative Mark Siegars announced that there is an emergency number for information on energy consumption and cutback.

Dick Cassidy, newly elected student chairperson for the Board of Trustees, discussed the recent Board meeting. First, Cassidy emphasized the need for the S. A. to submit its position concerning faculty tenure. He talked about the University's financial status which looks dim since the state may have to cut back on funds as a result of needed appropriations to combat the energy crisis. He did assure senators, though, that forced extension of Christmas vacation is doubtful.

New Business other than the dilemma over the Third World Organization centered around the Winter Weekend Ice Show on February 22 and 23. S. 42, the bill proposing an S. A. donation of $600 was amended to include an extra $100 and a provision that the proceeds from the show go to improving Gullerson's sound system, and passed. So that the ice show should receive $700 from the S. A. provoked opinions on the winter sports in general here at UVM.

It was felt that ski, hockey, and basketball teams receive too much money. However, the complaints were discouraged as one senator pointed out that the S. A. does not have the power to control spending within the Physical Education Department.

During the announcement period a senator encouraged support of the Albatross. The final announcement was made by Dick Cassidy who reminded the senate of a meeting of the Senate Rules and Procedures Committee on Sunday, 1:30 p.m. in Davis Hall. The meeting was adjourned just before 9:00 p.m.

Address letters to Dr. Arnold Werner
Box 974, East Lansing, MI. 48823

QUESTION: Recently I have been using honeysuckle perfumed talcum powder on my breasts after showering. Lately, my breasts seem to be enlarged, at least enough so that my bras are getting snug. Could the enlargement be due to the powder?

ANSWER: While the idea of honeysuckle talcum powder increasing breast size may provide many readers with charming fantasies, fortunately breast size is under the control of more rational forces. In the fully grown woman, an increase in breast size would almost certainly be related to one of three things: There has been an increase in total body weight, the woman has started taking birth control pills, she has become pregnant. Substances applied externally to the breasts do not increase their size.

This wouldn't be in the "Doctor's Bag" without me speculating. I'd guess that you are honeysuckling your breasts for someone who is making you feel awfully good, so perhaps you are relaxed and eating more, or perhaps you have even started taking birth control pills. I sure hope the breast enlargement is not due to an unwanted pregnancy.

Incidentally, if you decide to continue using the talcum powder, beware of humming birds when spring comes.

QUESTION: Do cats and dogs get high? If so, how long does it take when they are in the same room with people who are smoking marijuana?

We have a cat and she seems to exhibit unusual behavior under the effects of marijuana such as hyperactivity, increased appetite and falling asleep suddenly. Could it be that we are seeing her acting in an unusual way because we are high or is she the one who is really high?

ANSWER: Considering that marijuana does effect the perceptions of humans somewhat but doesn't really interfere with their reality testing, I take your description of the cat to be an accurate one. I sure sounds as if she is responding to the marijuana. I have heard other similar descriptions of dogs and cats when they have been fed marijuana. It is, of course, in the nature of the difference between lower animals and humans that a beast's subjective response to drugs is impossible to determine.

Major biologic and physiologic differences between humans and lower animals complicate the whole matter of drug testing, not just with regard to marijuana but also with pharmacologic agents used for therapeutic purposes in medicine. At times, a particular drug will have a desired effect in an animal but will not have such an effect in a human. Conversely, it is probably true that many useful drugs for humans have been discarded because they had no measurable effects in animals when tested.

Particularly when one deals with drugs affecting the central nervous system and thought processes, animals are singularly unsatisfactory for testing. A number of years ago some over-enthusiastic researchers calculated the dose of LSD suitable for an elephant. They proceeded to give the elephant the acid. The poor pachyderm snorted, bellowed, thumped its feet and then dropped dead. What it saw or what it thought remains a mystery.

QUESTION: Is it always necessary to wash one's hands after using a bathroom? If so, is cold water and soap sufficient? Also, my mother told me never to sit on a public toilet seat. From what was she trying to protect me, and is this a reasonable prohibition?

ANSWER: There is a logical and an illogical side to washing your hands after using the toilet. Clearly, after defecation there is a high likelihood of substantial contamination of one's hands with fecal material and odors. There is always the possibility that one could be a carrier of infectious diseases transmitted by bacteria or a virus, but for the most part what we are really discussing is a matter of esthetics. Following urination, especially for the man, the chance of meaningful bacterial contamination is really quite low.

Cold water and soap with adequate rubbing should be quite sufficient for cleansing, as the task is not one of performing a surgical scrub but rather, removing gross contamination. If you want to be cynical about the whole thing, just remember that unless you go through incredible contortions, you must touch the door handle of the bathroom in order to get out, and you are probably recontaminating yourself courtesy of the prior occupants who were not as careful as you.

To sit or not to sit on a public toilet seat, is a major preoccupation of a limited part of our population. Since you neither can get VD nor get pregnant from sitting on a toilet seat, what can you get? If you eye ball the toilet seat and it appears dry and clean there is precious little that you can get. Undoubtedly, there are a lot of bacteria floating around on toilet seats but there are also bacteria floating around on table tops and every other surface imaginable. The time honored technique of placing toilet tissue on the seat of a public toilet before sitting down is probably more of a placebo than anything else. But as such, if it eases your mind sufficiently to allow relaxation of your anal sphincter it is probably worth the effort.

QUESTION: Are periodic sperm counts recommended following a vasectomy? If so, how often? I had a vasectomy in January 1972 complete with singed and tied tubes and remain sterile. I remember the doctor saying that the tubes could possibly grow back together and allow sperm to get into action again, but I am not keen on the hassle involved in periodically taking sperm specimens to be checked.

ANSWER: With the older style vasectomies in which the tubes carrying the sperm were merely cut apart and tied off, up to 5% of them reestablished an effective channel. With the newer type of vasectomy, which is what you describe, in addition to the tubes being cut, their openings are destroyed with an electric cautery and then they are tied off. With this technique, in only one to three cases per thousand have the tubes reopened.

Following vasectomy, about ten ejaculations are necessary to clear the system of sperm. A check at this point indicating the absence of sperm should be considered sufficient for the future. Annual checks would be only considered worthwhile if a pregnancy would have absolutely devastating effects such as threatening the life of the woman or, if the vasectomy was done to prevent the transmission of a hereditary illness.

QUESTION: I use a diaphragm and contraceptive jelly. The jelly has a very antiseptic smell and taste. I am wondering if you know of brands that have a more pleasant odor and taste (flavors perhaps) or are free of any smell or taste.

ANSWER: In doing research for this column I have set certain limits as to what I will and will not do. Comparison shopping is one thing, but the idea of launching a one man taste and smell comparison on different contraceptive products, seems to me to be above and beyond the call of duty. However, let me see if I can help anyway.

In fact, the contraceptive jellies and foams I have had contact with do have something of an antiseptic smell and I suspect your comments about the taste of the product you are using is generalizable to others. I am unaware of any product which comes in flavors or special aromas though I think the idea would be marketable if it did not draw flies.

To avoid interfering with preintercourse enjoyment, I suggest putting the diaphragm in place rather carefully and applying the jelly only around the edge and the inside surface. Washing your hands to get rid of the odor of the jelly and the application of a small amount of perfume should mask the rest of the odor. Then, before actually having intercourse you could use one of the standard contraceptive foams applied with the diaphragm in place for added insurance.

All contraceptives have their draw backs and their inconveniences. The whole trick is to use your imagination and focus on making love rather than allowing yourself to get distracted and tied up by the necessary technology.

QUESTION: I am twenty years old and have a great problem getting out of bed in the morning. This morning was the last straw. I forced myself to get out of the bed and move around. I fell asleep at the breakfast table and my face fell into my bowl of cereal. In the past I have tried taking caffeine but I still fall asleep in class. It doesn't seem to matter what time I go to bed either. Last week I went to bed at 9:30 and still couldn't get up for my 10:20 class. I could sure use some help.

ANSWER: Very rarely a situation such as yours may be due to a medical problem, such as decreased thyroid function, but more often than not it is simply a matter of a mismatch between a person's physiologic need for sleep and their sleep pattern.

When people have trouble getting up in the morning they often move in the direction of trying to get more sleep. However, there is evidence suggesting that some people get too much sleep. In such cases they tend to be confused when they awake, be in a poor mood and have trouble getting going, just as you describe. Sometimes this can last for a whole day. The experience of oversleeping and then feeling dragged out is nearly a universal one, but some people are perpetually in such a state. You might try to reduce the amount of sleep you are getting in a systematic fashion, holding with a similar schedule for a week at a time. Begin by trying eight hours of sleep per night and then reducing the amount of sleep by half hour decrements each week until you get down to about six hours sleep and see if your awakened state is altered. To do this properly you will have to forego any naps during the day. If this does not work, you might try increasing your nocturnal sleep by a half hour or an hour to see if this makes any difference. Persistence in a uniform early waking time and changing the time you go to sleep, almost invariably results in some improvement. Of course, matters are made worse when a person does not feel any necessity or desire to get up by a certain time.

Seasons Greetings From The Vermont Cynic

PINE ISLAND STRING
BAND

Sat. Dec. 8
Snow Snake Lounge
Smuggler's Notch Ski Area
9:00-11:00
no cover

Notice! UNIVERSITY STORE ON THE CAMPUS

Please notice pick up dates for the Refrigerator Rental Agreements terminating December 12, 1973.

Our truck will be at the following locations at the time specified for the Noon Hour, December 12 and December 13.

Please bring your unit to the lobby. It must be defrosted and cleaned to receive your deposit refund.

You may wish to return your unit to the store; in that case, come to the loading dock, located across from Dairy Sales.

December 12 & 13

Buckham
Chittenden		12:00
Wills
Patterson
Wright		12:15
Christie
Wing
Davis		12:30
Wilkes
Coolidge		12:40
Tupper
Austin		12:45
Marsh
Mills
Mason		1:00

FOR AN ENJOYABLE EVENING
JOIN US FOR DINNER
AND DRINKS
AND SEE THE
UVM - RPI HOCKEY GAME
(SAT. DEC. 8)

MAKE THE EVENING
COMPLETE WITHOUT BREAKING YOUR BUDGET

SIZZLING STEAK

1216 WILLISTON ROAD
SO. BURLINGTON, VERMONT
(NEXT TO SHOWCASE 1 & 2)
(ACROSS FROM McDONALD'S)

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HOURS

DINNER 4 P.M. TO 11 P.M. MON.-FRI.

NOON TO 11 P.M. SAT.-SUN.

LOUNGE 4 P.M. TO 1 A.M. MON.-FRI.

NOON TO 1 A.M. SAT.-SUN.

ENTRANCE FREE

RESERVED SEATING

RESERVED SEATING

RESERVED SEATING

VETERANS

YOU MAY BE ELIGIBLE FOR A COMMISSION
IN THE ARMY IN ONE OR TWO YEARS.
YOUR PREVIOUS MILITARY SERVICE MAY BE CREDITED AS PARTIAL COMPLETION OF ROTC.

IN ADDITION, IF YOU ENROLL NOW IN ROTC, ALONG WITH ALL ADVANCED COURSE STUDENTS, YOU WILL RECEIVE
$100 PER MONTH SUBSISTANCE. (EVEN IF YOU ARE ATTENDING COLLEGE UNDER THE GI BILL)

OBLIGATION IS EITHER TWO YEARS OR APPROXIMATELY THREE MONTHS ACTIVE DUTY PLUS A PERIOD IN THE RESERVES.
FOR MORE INFORMATION VISIT THE

DEPT. OF MILITARY STUDIES,
3rd FLOOR, WILLIAMS HALL
OR CALL 656-2966/2967

Oberlin's Iconoclastic Athletic Director Draws Faculty Attack

by Philip W. Semas
From the Chronicle of Higher Education

Oberlin, Ohio
When Jack Scott was appointed athletic director at Oberlin College in March, 1972, one coach there predicted that "sports will be destroyed at Oberlin."

Jack Scott's reputation gave ample cause for such a prediction. He is probably the No. 1 iconoclast in American sports.

He has written two books, Athletics for Athletes and The Athletic Revolution. They pummel the nation's professional and intercollegiate establishments for their win-at-any-price philosophy.

When Mr. Scott was given a job teaching physical education at the University of Washington, the coaches there raised such an uproar that the job offer was withdrawn. Mr. Scott sued and won $10,500 damages in an out-of-court settlement.

He has been attacked by Spiro Agnew, sports fan and by Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The latter called Mr. Scott's Institute for the Study of Sport and Society the "Woodstock Athletic Association" and suggested that its "creed, undoubtedly is QUIT and its advice to athletes—don't compete."

Such an apparent defiler of the American sports tradition should have had little trouble destroying intercollegiate athletics at Oberlin.

Criticism is the Opposite

Oberlin's program is decidedly small-time, although its football teams used to play (and sometimes defeat) Ohio State. Oberlin has no athletic scholarships, no huge stadium to fill, and no recruiting drives. The Ysomen, as its teams are called, play such opponents as neighboring Kenyon College and tiny Centre College of Kentucky.

Yet Jack Scott has not destroyed what passes for intercollegiate athletics here. Ironically, the most persistent criticism is just the opposite: that he is over-emphasizing intercollegiate athletics at the expense of other parts of the physical education department, which he heads in addition to being athletic director.

He has brought in what some at Oberlin consider "big-time" coaches and is even talking about producing winning teams.

If he was able to hire

"big-time" head coaches, Scott replies, it is because they are black and no major university would hire them.

Besides, he adds, there's nothing wrong with hiring the best people available—Oberlin's conservatory does the same thing.

Walter Byers to the contrary, Jack Scott has never been against winning. Any self-respecting athlete wants to excel, he says. What he opposes is not the winning but the recruiting, the drugs, and the exploitation that some coaches use to win.

Scott wants to win for another reason: to prove that an athletic program can be run according to his humanistic philosophy and still produce winning teams.

Kids Invited
In the P.E. department, he has added courses like "Sports and Literature," "Sports and the Mass Media," "Sports and Racism," and "The Way of the Peaceful Warrior," a course on such Eastern disciplines as karate and kung fu.

Physical education is the only department at Oberlin that gives parity in departmental votes. Students also had a role in naming the football and basketball coaches.

Scott has opened up the college's facilities to the kids in the town of Oberlin, which has a population that is 40 per cent black.

Oberlin has stopped charging admission to football and basketball games, no big financial sacrifice (gate receipts never totaled more than $3,000) but symbolically important to Mr. Scott.

Increased Women's Budget
Before he arrived, women's athletics got about $1,000 out of the $70,000 athletic budget.

"The view here was that the kind of women who come to Oberlin weren't interested in athletics," says Scott. I took that statement the same way I would if someone told me they weren't interested in sex.

He began sending letters about the athletic program to women applicants (something done routinely with men), encouraged the creation of a student-faculty women's athletic committee, and increased the women's budget to $7,000.

Now the women are arguing that $7,000 is a pittance.

Long Hair Once a Problem
A year before Mr. Scott came here, a student was kicked off the baseball team because he had long hair. (He was reinstated on orders from Oberlin's 37-year-old president, Robert W. Fuller, and proceeded to lead the team with a .500 batting average.) This year the star quarterback of the football team, a freshman Chicano from California, wears his hair in a ponytail.

The change that is probably most important to Scott, however, is the hiring of three black coaches.

First, he signed Tommie Smith, the black sprinter who broke world records 11 times but is probably better known for the black-power salute he gave on the victory stand in the 1968 Olympics. Smith was teaching second grade in San Jose, California, when Scott asked him to become assistant athletic director and track coach.

Then, came Cass Jackson, and assistant coach at San Jose State, to be the first black head football coach at a predominantly white college, and Patrick Penn one of the most successful high-school basketball coaches in Ohio.

Proud of Tradition
Most people at Oberlin would deny that the black coaches are part of the reason for the criticism Scott has run into here. Oberlin is very proud of its liberal tradition as the first predominantly white college to admit blacks.

Scott, however, doesn't think Oberlin is nearly as liberal as its reputation. He thinks faculty members feel threatened by the black coaches (who constitute one-third of the black professors here), by the black kids from town using the gym, and by the student participation in running the P.E. department.

Whatever the reasons, Scott is under attack here.

Rejected by Old Guard
He was never popular among the old guard in the P.E. department. They rejected his appointment on a 13-1 straw vote. When he was appointed anyway (on a 5-1 vote of the faculty council), several coaches left—but the resentment in the department is still there.

Some of the P.E. faculty members feel Scott is getting a lot of credit and publicity for what Oberlin was doing quietly all along. He has been the subject of articles in Sports Illustrated, Time, and even Rolling Stone. C.B.S. Sports has been here; so has Howard Cosell.

Earlier this fall, a faculty committee found "an atmosphere of bitterness and recrimination" in the P.E. department.

The committee also criticized the changes Scott made in the curriculum, saying many of the courses overlapped and were "lacking in content and intellectual challenge." That is a serious charge because Scott was brought here to upgrade the department's academic quality. Scott says that the courses overlapped because he had to hire several faculty member on short notice last year, and that the problem has been straightened out. But Donald Reich, the dean of the college who was instrumental in bringing Scott here, says the academic development he hoped for hasn't come yet because Scott has been busy hiring coaches.

Give Up One of Two Jobs?
As a partial solution, the faculty committee proposed that Scott give up one of his two jobs as chairman and athletic director.

When the women's athletic committee suggested that one of the jobs ought to go to a woman, Scott agreed to remain as athletic director and turn over the chairmanship to Ruth Brunner, an eight year veteran of the department.

Then President Fuller, a strong Scott backer, resigned this month. Scott and his allies, fearing that Fuller's resignation might be a prelude to an assault on the P.E. department, decided Scott should remain as chairman and Tommie Smith be promoted to athletic director.

UVM Gymnastics

UVM's Sue Supovits on

by R. R. Lew
Gymnastics, it would seem, to one of the less glamorous sports on the Vermont College scene. This is well reflected by the generally sparse attendances at meets throughout the state. Coach Holly Szabo, now in her fifth season, has again developed her available talent to form a highly competitive unit. Although hampered by injuries to three key all-around performers, who by the way turned in very impressive performances, UVM managed

"Cosi Fan Tutti"

by Allison Davis

The Canadian Opera Company, presenting Mozart's comic opera Così fan Tutti captivated a full audience on Monday in the Memorial Auditorium. The opera, translated as meaning, "Women are like that," was sung in English. It was translated from the original Italian libretto by Ruth and Thomas Martin. Music director and conductor, John Fenwick,

...Grim

Albert's son was your regular into mischief, eating, yelling, butterball of a kid. He was eight proudly proclaim whenever qu boys of his age knew, worry was did. Besides, who has time for and have all that living to catch thought of himself first when the screen door one Sunday will lips. You can imagine his mother to relief as her boy's fist liberated not something more dire. A we the wash cloth here and there, a antidote for little boys sent to adventure. Mom lit a cigarette and leave her throat. That night sent tooth to brush and Albert to descended upon them all. Suddenly there was a noise exploded out of bed, pushed the grabbed the stick with his furiously beating the figure huddled screams rocked the house pistons, beating the intruder. So and Albert swung to flick on the beaten and bruised on the floor fairy.

DAVES AUTO

INC.

Route 2, Williston,

FOREIGN CARS

SPECIAL

• Fine work on American

• Firestone tires • Fair

• Front and alignment

• Undercoating • Eng

Tires for most foreign or readily

New SEMPERIT

$19.95 + $1

VW BRA

Includes: 8 new

brake linings, 4 turn

drums, rebuilt 4 wheel

cylinders. Discs $10 ad

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL

VW Bug Emblem $24.95 $2.50

SKI EQUIPMENT SALE

FINAL CLEANUP OF ALL LAST SEASONS EQUIPMENT

SKIS

Reg. Sale

Fischer Alpine Deluxe	$35.00	$17.50
Volkl Derby	$35.00	$17.50
Volkl EPV 200	$95.00	$47.50
Volkl Portillo S	$120.00	$60.00
Hart Competition	$175.00	$125.00
Kneissel SS	$295.00	$175.00
Head 720	$185.00	$92.50
K2 ONE	$120.00	$98.00
K2 TWO	$135.00	$108.00
K2 THREE	$160.00	$128.00
K2 FOUR	$185.00	$148.00
Rosignol ROC 520	$165.00	$119.00
Dynamic 337	$165.00	$132.00
Yamaha ARI	$85.00	$68.00

ALL MARKER BINDINGS 20% OFF

SKI BOOTS

Reg. Sale

Lang Std '71-'72	$95.00	$29.00
Lang Pro '71-'72	$145.00	$69.00
Lang Comp '71-'72	$175.00	$75.00
Lang Swinger '72-'73	$120.00	$60.00
Lang Pro '72-'73	$150.00	$75.00
Lang Comp. '72-'73	$180.00	$99.00
Nordica Velox	$65.00	$39.00
Reiker K500	$50.00	$29.00
Koflach Racer	$45.00	$29.00
Koflach Lady	$75.00	$49.00
Koflach Blue Star	$65.00	$49.00
Humanic No. 526	$75.00	$59.00
Tecus Fast	$145.00	$99.00
Tecus Lady	$170.00	$99.00
Tecus Racing	$190.00	$120.00

RENTAL NORDICA BOOTS $18

RENTAL SKIS WITH BINDINGS

$35 - $60

GREAT SELECTION OF USED BOOTS by

Nordica, Reiker, Lange
Henke, Raichle, Rosemont
Letrappier, Humanic, Molitor

$5 up

TERRIFIC SELECTION OF USED SKIS by

K2, Rosignol, Fischer,
Head, Spalding, Hart,
Volkl, Yamaha, Kneissel

$8 UP

• FREE GIFT WRAPPING • GIFT CERTIFICATES
OPEN EVERY EVENING TIL 9

ALPINE SHOP

Williston Road, So. Burlington

OPEN DAILY 9 A.M. TO 9 P.M.

Yeats'

Plays...

(continued from page six)
them. Attracta seeks revenge, and the Kings fight; Conal is insulted by receiving a mere hen's egg. The scene is excellent; Harry Orth symbolizes the absurdity of the whole business.

The comic scenes continue yet the true situation becomes more deadly. John Ransom is much improved as the worldly king who doesn't understand what he fights against, and gets caught in a drop of his own undoing. The sexual humor of the situation continues, especially with all the connotations of birds present.

There are some wonderful Jeers, and Patrick Orr makes a most memorable drunken soldier. Paul Ugalde is excellent as Mike, the prim, stony-faced echo chamber. Karen Trot, most recently in Covenant, is outstanding as an actress and sings beautifully as well, and Kevin Meconi reappears as the Fool.

(continued from page seven)

how and ride the music. Of course, it wasn't all perfect. The group hit some off-key harmonies and, from the anguished look on his face, I could see Pete was as disappointed as anyone when some sustained feed-back marred the gripping climax of "Won't Get Fooled Again." Little mishaps like that are inevitable and they pale insignificantly against all those moments that took my breath away, brought tears to my eyes, or the widest smile to my face, all in that one of a kind ecstasy. "My Generation," "Love Reign O'er Me," and "Won't Get Fooled Again" are anthems in the true sense of the word and to listen and watch the Who playing them live gave me the kind of deep feeling that I would guess some people get from gazing at the flag or praying or whatever they believe in.

Well, I believe in rock and roll and so do the Who. Their love and devotion to the music is unparalleled. Daltrey, Townshend, Moon, and Entwistle are not gods, but four very dedicated and talented men, members of a four-part collective genius that becomes its own testimony whenever they are in action.

During the excerpt from Tommy in that sequence including the refrain "Listening to you I get the music," three gigantic spotlights blazed from above and behind the Who just as the other spotlights around the arena began to bathe the entire audience. I don't think I've ever known a more dramatic moment in my life and I can't describe how deeply it reached inside, touched me and held me. Listening to what the Who were singing and watching what was happening all around me, I realized the total reciprocity those lyrics describe. I sensed an exchange of mental and physical energy between me and the Who. For me and for everyone else who

Who In Montreal - A Total Experience

OPEN DAILY 9:30 AM to 9:00 PM

Bassi 1305 Williston Road South Burlington Bassi

Bass Shoe Factory Outlet

Where you save up to 50% on Quality footwear.

Men's Nationally Advertised

Levi's Jeans

XX Denim

$930

Durawal Corduroy

$934

The slacks and jeans that everybody wants...often copied, but never quite duplicated. Your choice of 100% cotton pre-shrunk blue denim jeans, flared for fashion; or 100% cotton durawale corduroy pants in brown or navy. Stitched through-out with rugged thread. All popular sizes.

Bassi SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

Bassi

TUT'S

244 North Street

Burlington, Vt. 05401

"A NICE LITTLE JOINT"

The $70 lift ticket returns.

Vermont's residents and students can ski all season long at Mad River Glen for just $70.00. This special pass is good for unlimited skiing, day and night, weekdays except Dec. 26-Jan. 1 and Monday, Feb. 18.

Mad River Glen's 25 trails challenge all skiers—from beginners to advanced experts. There's a season full of skiing activity... weekly races... special clinics with Dixi Nohi's ski school.

When you're not actually skiing, Mad River Glen has everything you need... a pleasing cafeteria and General Stark's Pub for hearty meals and apres ski enjoyment.

For your $70.00 lift ticket, call, write or visit Mad River Glen... The Ski Area for Skiers.

Williston Road, So. Burlington 802-498-3551

UVM Gymnasts Down State Rivals

UVM's Sue Supovitz on her way to a first place finish on the balance beam.

SPS Photo: R. R. Lew

by R. R. Lew
Gymnastics, it would seem, is one of the less glamorous sports on the Vermont Collegiate scene. This is well reflected by the generally sparse attendances at meets throughout the state. Coach Holly Szabo, now in her fifth season, has again developed her available talent to form a highly competitive unit. Although hampered by injuries to three key all-around performers, who by the way turned in very impressive performances, UVM managed to dominate Castleton State College and Vermont College at Castleton this past Sunday. Total scores were 63.2; 39.2; and 36.35 respectively. Individual places for UVM are as follows:

VAULTING:
Kathy Kalinowski & Candy Goerier tie for first.
BARS:
Barbra Abrams, First; Candy Goerier, Second; and Kathy Kalinowski, Third.
FLOOR X:
Debbie Light placed second.

BEAM:
Sue Supovitz, First; and Debbie Light placed Third. If you have a yen to check out these rather attractive young ladies literally flying through the air with the greatest of ease, you can do so on January 26th; 7 p.m., at Patrick Gym. UVM will host what will be its greatest challenge so far this season, Dartmouth College. Also competing will be Castleton and Green Mountain College. Admission is free to all.

"Cosi Fan Tutte" Captivates Large Audience

by Allyson Davis

The Canadian Opera Company, presenting Mozart's comic opera Così fan tutte, captivated a full audience on Monday in the Memorial Auditorium. The opera, translated as meaning "Women are like that," was sung in English. It was translated from the original Italian libretto by Ruth and Thomas Martin. Music director and conductor, John Fenwick, created a truly delightful version of the musical aspects of the opera. All, save one individual, who was on the orchestra, were very young and they added the necessary enthusiasm and musicianship to help awaken the music. All of the leading performers in the opera were not only fine singers, but were convincing actors. The diction was superb, with no words being lost.

Act I was performed with vitality and humor. The voices of the men were rich and powerful and the ladies cooing, sweet, but commanding. The costumes and the scenery were superb. The scene changes were effective, as one observed the two servants pulling across the different background scenes as simply as if they were drawing drapes.

...Grim Tale

Albert's son was your regular, knocking-around, getting into mischief, eating, yelling, lovable, brown-eyed, butterball of a kid. He was eight and a half, as he would proudly proclaim whenever queried as to his age. As all boys of his age knew, worry was just something that Mom did. Besides, who has time for worry when you're young and have all that living to catch up on. And so Albert's son thought of himself first when he came screaming through the screen door one Sunday with blood all over his licking lips. You can imagine his mother's alarm - quickly turned to relief as her boy's fist liberated an out-of-place tooth and not something more dire. A well-placed napkin, a dab of the wash cloth here and there, a gentle hug - the universal antidote for little boys sent him back on his way to adventure. Mom lit a cigarette and waited for her heart to leave her throat. That night sent him to bed with one less tooth to brush and Albert to bed with his wife. Sleep descended upon them all. Suddenly there was a noise in the next room. Albert exploded out of bed, pushed the door with his left hand, grabbed the stick with his right and in seconds was furiously beating the figure hunched over his son's bed. Wild screams rocked the house. Albert's arms drove like pistons, beating the intruder. Screaming quickly subsided and Albert swung to flick on the light. There, lying bloody, beaten and bruised on the floor of the room lay the tooth fairy.

The opera was a pure delight, and it was wonderful to see such a full and varied audience enjoying such a rare musical treat which so seldom comes to Burlington.

Intramural Results

MEN'S INTRAMURAL HANDBALL (S) TOURNAMENT:
"A" Tournament - Paul Lynch (Barry's) defeated Johnson (LI) 19-21, 21-8, 21-15.
"B" Tournament - McNeil (DP) defeated Bicknell (DP) 21-10, 21-13.
"C" Tournament - Kenealy (DP) defeated Bayles (LI) 21-0, 13, 21-5.

MEN'S INTRAMURAL RACQUETBALL (SINGLES) TOURNAMENT WINNERS:
"A" TOURNAMENT - Kruger (PDT) defeated Dutil (PDT) 21-1, 21-8.
"B" TOURNAMENT - Gruber (INDEP) defeated Sweeney (LI) 15-21, 21-6, 21-10.
"C" TOURNAMENT - Manley (DAVIS) defeated Barber (SPE) 21-11, 11-21, 21-15.

The Insider...

(continued from page sixteen)

from medium range and Warren scored from outside as well as from driving to the hole on backdoor plays. Vermont went ahead, remained cool, and with the help of some clutch rebounding and shooting by Bernie Palmer and Terry "Terrible" Green, beat Maine for an opening game victory, 68-60.

I wish I could stop now and say we beat Maine up there and had a big victory. But we played the next afternoon and just waited too long to play hard. We were down by as many as fifteen points in the second half and despite Joe Greco's 23 points, we could not come back. The closest we came was a six point deficit with four minutes to go. We then got some bad breaks and some questionable calls and Maine won, 83-72.

Perhaps the keys to the success on Friday and the defeat on Saturday were defense and rebounding. In winning on Friday the Cats gave up 60 points and out-rebounded Maine 42-39. In losing on Saturday, Vermont gave up 83 points and was out-rebounded 44-30.

It is difficult for most athletes to lose any game, but especially to a team you know you should have beaten. A 1-1 record is not bad, but it could have been 2-0.

For stretches our basketball team was patient and showed real signs of maturity, guts, and togetherness. But there is still a tendency to rush shots and let up at times. A team like Maine could have been beaten in the first ten minutes on Saturday but we did not assert ourselves until it was too late. Perhaps it was overconfidence or fatigue from the victory the night before, but nevertheless we are 1-1.

CAT NOTES:

- Friday night at Maine, Bernie Palmer tapped in a rebound and got up so high, he was practically cying the balcony fans on an even plane.

- Also on Friday, Warren "Country" Prehmus made two backdoor layups catching the ball in mid air both times and flipping the ball into the hoop, virtually without looking. Warren scored 24 points on Friday and received a respectful round of applause upon fouling out Saturday with thirteen points.

- Cats play North Carolina State and North Carolina this Friday and Saturday. Both games are sellouts, with State seating close to 15,000 and Carolina 10,000.

VERMONT (68)

	fgm	fga	ftm	fta	reb	pf	pts
Trapani	2	5	2	4	8	5	6
Green	6	10	4	7	6	4	16
Greco	4	8	3	4	8	4	11
Prehmus	8	19	8	10	2	2	24
Cohen	1	7	2	5	4	3	4
Macias	1	1	1	1	1	2	3
Gottschalk	1	5	0	0	2	1	2
Palmer	1	1	0	0	5	1	2
Total	24	56	20	31	36	22	68

MAINE (60)

	fgm	fga	ftm	fta	reb	pf	pts
Warner	7	11	2	3	9	2	16
Conley	1	6	0	0	5	5	2
Gavett	0	1	0	1	8	1	0
Hamlin	5	12	1	1	0	5	11
Russell	2	7	2	2	0	2	6
Burns	6	13	2	3	7	4	14
Anderson	1	1	2	2	1	2	4
Condon	1	6	5	6	4	4	7
Reilly	0	0	0	0	0	1	0
Total	23	57	14	18	34	26	60

John Kiely deflecting the puck in Cat's 11-4 victory over Norwich Tuesday night.

SPS Photo: R. R. Lew

Cats Upset Terriers 7-6...

(continued from page sixteen)

through for the night. Goaltender John Kiely and the defense put them to rest for the remaining 15 minutes and 34 seconds of the game. Vermont still had one more task remaining and Mr. O'Connell took care of it. Thirty seconds after a BU player was sent to the penalty box, O'Connell drove one home for the seventh. Catamount goal at 6:30. Bill Koch and Roger Mallette, who both had super performances, donated the assists. Goalie Robillard was injured on the play and Ed Walsh came in to complete the game in the nets for Boston.

There were now 13 minutes and 30 seconds left in the game which gave Boston more than enough time to tie or win the contest. Unfortunately for the Terriers, they could not stop Vermont's game. The Cats were forechecking and backchecking Boston to death while pummeling the new goalie with hard, crisp shots. Defensemen John Glynn, Ken Yeates, Ted Child, John Murphy, and Ted Curtis came alive and were very physical in the remaining minutes as they decked players that were bigger than they. They were also clearing the puck out of the zone nicely.

The offensive lines were making good passes and giving goalie Ed Walsh heart failure. John Kiely was doing his thing in the crease as the Terriers were being frustrated at every aspect of the game.

With 2:27 remaining in the contest, Boston received a big break. John Glynn was sent off for two minutes for interference on a questionable call. The fans were going wild thinking that the home town team would tie it up. Not this time. Even though Walsh was pulled and Boston had a 2 man advantage, the Cats killed the penalty in perfect fashion with Kiely turning away shot after shot and the defense taking away the rebounds. With eight seconds left in the game a BU player was penalized for dragging down Michel Lebeau illegally. When the buzzer sounded the Cats streamed off the bench to congratulate each other in an enthusiastic manner.

The locker room scene can only be described in one word - pandemonium. Vermont goalie Dave Reece came by to offer his praise and was almost hysterical. John Moynihan, last year's hockey announcer for WJOY, offered his congratulations.

Willie MacKinnon sat on a bench in the locker room and kept saying, "It was a TASTY victory, just tasty!"

Coach Cross, like the players, called it a total team effort. Bill Koch, who had a tremendous evening with two goals and an assist, felt the turning point in the game was between the first and second periods. "We all talked it over and we felt we could beat them," Koch said. "We started to play our type of game in the second period."

Kiely said he wasn't discouraged after Boston scored two quick goals on him. "It makes you more determined to stop the puck," he said. He felt the pressure helped him because it kept him moving quickly. "If you don't have the pressure, it hurts because you start to really slow down," Kiely added. Kiely moved quickly all game, especially in the first period he made a remarkable glove save while flat on his back which robbed a BU skater of a goal. This would have given Boston a 3-0 lead. Kiely is starting to come into his own this season. He opened a lot of people's eyes last Saturday night. Kiely was the difference between victory and defeat against BU, and frustrated a lot of Terrier Skaters. While the defense was a little shaky in the first two periods, Kiely kept them in the game.

The Cats defeated a powerful Division One team that was picked to beat UVM. But they knew they would win even before they left Saturday morning. That's because they believe in themselves. The team is a tight unit; physically and most importantly psychologically. It's obvious they have the physical ability to play great hockey, but it's the belief in each other that makes wins like the last one possible. It's that feeling that's going to give UVM another hockey championship this season.

Kiely had 34 saves for Vermont. Robillard and Walsh combined for 26 saves for Boston. Vermont had one save for the Vermont Press Corp. when he stopped a coffee cup in the press box that was thrown by the Boston assistant coach at the final buzzer.

Grab and Go

WINTER TREADS from E & E Tire

"VT'S FINEST RETREADS"

We manufacture our own retreads right on the property. You save because there are no middlemen.

10% OFF ON ALL RETREADS ACCOMPANIED BY THIS AD

WE RETREAD YOUR CASINGS

E & E Tire

Essex Junction, VT 05452

YOU AND YOUR SUGARPLUM

A christmas treat for loved ones

Portraits by Sanders H. Milens

sitting & proofs in B&W $15

call 862-3350

DAVES AUTOMOTIVE INC.

Route 2, Williston, VT. 862-7886

FOREIGN CAR REPAIR SPECIALISTS

- Fine work on American cars
- Firestone tires • Exide Batteries
- Front end alignment • Spin balancing
- Undercoating • Engine rebuilding

Tires for most foreign cars in stock or readily available

New SEMPERIT VW Bug tires $19.95 + $1.79 FET

VW BRAKE JOB $39.95

Includes: 8 new brake linings, 4 turn drums, rebuild 4 wheel cylinders. Discs $10 additional.

OUR EVERY DAY SPECIAL VW Bug Brake $34.95 Spin Balance $2.50 per Wheel Front End Alignment $10

Knock them off their feet with HOT SOX

The big rage for young people to wear with rolled up jeans or just the fun way to keep warm. 3.25 and 3.50 per pair in stripes, Luxe, tweeds, Christmas tree argyle in brights and darks.

WAY IN

magrams

Books for Giving & Using

Vermont Book Shop

200 DORSET STREET

by Barry Cohen

November 30, Vermont beats Maine at Maine: a happy and exalted team celebrates in the visiting locker room chanting "The Pit Ain't Shit" over and over! December 1, an unhappy Vermont team drudges dejectedly into the visiting locker room at Maine after being defeated by the same team it had beaten the night before. One victory and one defeat was the result of the Vermont basketball team's trip to Maine this past weekend.

In case you didn't know, Maine plays in a handbox of a gym called "The Pit". Sports Illustrated noted in a recent issue that the Maine home court advantage gave them one of the most decided edges in the country. Yet I'd have to say that we were not affected by "The Pit". Despite all the roaring the crowd did at Maine, we just played the game. When we did the right things technically on Friday night, we won, but when we did not execute well on Saturday, we lost.

Friday night, we spotted Maine an eleven point lead in the first half before we really started to dig in on defense. At the end of the first half our guards denied the ball so effectively that Maine's big men handled the ball more than they would have liked. This caused Maine to lose their tempo on offense and Vermont broke out on an 11-3 burst cutting the Maine lead to 35-31 at halftime.

At the start of the second half, our strategy was to get the ball in our one-four offense, to feed Joe Greco at the high post. After getting the ball, it was his choice whether to take it himself or let Warren Prehmus with a backdoor pass driving to the basket. The strategy worked as Joe hit

(continued on page fifteen)

UVM SPORTS

Cats Upset Highly Rated Terriers 7-6

by Bob Wilenski

A conversation in the B.U. press box:

Vermont Cynic Writer: How come Ed Walsh, the number 1 goalie for B.U., isn't starting in the nets tonight?

B.U. Writer: Well, Coach Abbot would like to give him a rest tonight since the competition won't be too tough tonight.

Last Saturday night in Boston, the University of Vermont Icecats upset a highly favored Boston University team by a score of 7-6. It was the first win ever by Vermont over the highly rated Division I power in four attempts.

The Cats looked nervous and unorganized in the beginning of the first period. Their passes weren't connecting and they were being outmuscled by the big Boston skaters. Netminder John Kiely had to make some tough saves in the first half of the period to keep the Cats in the contest.

The Terriers drew first blood at 9:53 of the opening frame. Bill Spence was sent to the penalty box at 7:59 for hooking. With only six seconds remaining in the penalty, Bill Buckton took a slap shot that was deflected to the left of Kiely by Bill Bishop giving Boston a 1-0 lead. It was a well executed play which Kiely had no chance to stop.

At that point Boston was flying, and within a minute they had their second goal of the first period. Mike Erzuone lifted a 10 foot backhand shot past Kiely at 11:02 when the Cats failed to clear the puck.

The Boston University fans were enjoying themselves immensely after the second goal but little did they realize the party was slowly coming to an end. At 13:10 of the first period, with a Terrier in the penalty box, sophomore defenseman Ken Yeates ripped a slap shot past Boston goalie Joe Robillard through a screen. John Murphy and Willie MacKinnon got the assists. It was MacKinnon's first game since suffering a shoulder separation in the freshman-varsity game.

At 18:57 of the same period the Cats caught the Boston defense off guard. Freshman speedster Michel Lebeau hit a breaking Chris Miller with a beautiful pass at the BU blue line. Miller skated in on the goalie and rammed his shot home. The score was now 2-2 and the Cats were starting to settle down. They were never to trail again for the rest of the contest.

The second period was a wild one with Vermont outscoring Boston 3-2. As in the first period, John Kiely was the savior for the Cats. He turned away many hard shots that seemed destined to hit the back of the Vermont net.

Roger Mallette started it off for the Icecats by putting the puck past Robillard with assists from Ted Castle and Willie MacKinnon. But the Terriers came back to knot the score at 3-3 when Bill Burlington found an opening in the Vermont goal at 11:16.

It was at this point of the game that junior wing Bill Koch showed his stuff. At 12:56 Koch popped one into the Boston goal with help from Mallette and Tim O'Connell. But he wasn't finished yet. Fifty-two seconds later, Koch had his second goal of the game which gave Vermont a 5-3 lead. The arena was so quiet at this stage that you would have thought a chess tournament was being played. But the fans were revived at 16:03 when Boston scored a goal with Cebau sitting out a penalty. Penalties were hurting Vermont all night and with 45 seconds left in the period Bill Spence was sent to the box for tripping. This proved costly to Vermont in the final stanza.

With 1:01 gone in the 3rd period defenseman Vic Stanfield tied the game for Boston at 5-5 with the Terriers having the man advantage from the previous period. The BU fans were now noisy, again feeling that it was going to be curtains for the Cats.

Chris Miller, who has scored some big goals this season, gave Vermont some breathing room with his second goal from Lebeau and freshman center Tom Colby at 3:36 giving the Cats a 6-5 advantage.

However, Boston came storming back fifty seconds later and drove the puck past Kiely tying the game at 6-6. But the Boston sticks were

(continued on page fifteen)

by Eli Tubbs

THE INSIDER

It seems quite obvious now that college hockey, in the East anyway, is going to be a real showdown this year. Vermont is an excellent example, for if St. Anselm, ranked fifth in Division II, can play as tight a game with us as they did, and we can defeat Boston University, ranked fifth in the nation, it becomes clear that both divisions are coming close together and that no one team will run away with its division crown.

Concerning this, last week the UVM hockey team grew up considerably. St. Anselm was not a team ready to lay down and die. They were well coached and consistent. The reason we won was guts. We were just that much more psyched, enthused, and downright into it. After the 8-7 victory there was obvious jubilation, but the apprehension of the upcoming B. U. game kept it down to a dull roar.

The B. U. experience was one to remember. Two beautiful sunny days in Boston, a strong contingency of loyal Vermont fans, but most important, a self-realization that we are a hockey club to be reckoned with. Up until Saturday night we had never beaten B. U. They are ranked fifth in the country, and to say we were nervous is an understatement. Analysis of the game as far as scoring goes is not important here — it will undoubtedly be carried elsewhere. Everyone played his heart out and the victory was well worth the work. Triumph was not only sweet for us, but for Coach Cross as well. He went to B. U. and played varsity hockey there.

We have RPI Saturday and St. Lawrence next Monday so we have our work cut out for us. No wins are going to come easy and we will have to work for everything. But as Coach Cross said Saturday night after the game, "Anyone who doesn't believe in you now is crazy."

Swimmers Vie For Undefeated Season

by Joey Olshan

After two victorious seasons with 22 consecutive wins, the notorious aquacats will begin their new season December 8 against U. Maine. The dynamic squad will be especially strong this year due to the acquisition of some promising freshmen, one of which was an all American high school swimmer.

The team is coached by Les Leggett and has been practicing since early October. The two co-captains are Dave Phelan (freestyler) and Cliff Johnson (individual medley, and backstroke). Veterans of the squad are Jim Werther (individual medley) and Gary

Shepard (freestyler). These men are competing for their last season, and will retire accordingly. Juniors include Mike "Machine" Kurt (long distance freestyler), John Mahoney (butterflyer), Kevin Delaney (breaststroke). Sophomores include Tripp Blair (freestyler), Mike Gossler (butterflyer), Buzzy Jones (butterflyer), Mike Jacobs (backstroke). The promising freshmen are John Blake (freestyler), Mike Delaney (All American Freshman, freestyler), Kevin Fisher (backstroke), Kurt Haigis (freestyler), Alan Kober (breaststroke), Joey Olshan (freestyler), and Peter Weiler (freestyler).

The divers of the squad are quite proficient also boasting of many first place finishes. They are Doug Piche, Bob Nold, and Mike Brace. They are hoping to aid the aquacats in a racing season of nine meets and finally the Yankee Conference and the New England. The first two meets are away, but second semester promises a breathtaking series of home meets in Forbush Natatorium, where students will be able to watch one of the most difficult sports on campus, performed expertly.

Intramural Basketball Results

The Intramural Basketball schedule began October 11 with sixty (60) teams entered. Ten (10) leagues were formed and the winners of each league competed in a single elimination playoff. The results of this playoff were:

Residence Hall Staff
Medics
Phi Delta Theta
Willard Street
Medics '76
Faculty
Marsh 4
Acacia

T-Boners
Phi Delta Theta
Los Machimos
Prime Cuts
Faculty
Acacia
Phi Delta Theta
Prime Cuts
Final Championship Game
Faculty (45) - Paden, Lloyd; Mosca; Sherman; Brodie;
Kuklis
Prime Cuts (46) - Moss;
Fields; Sisto; White;
Fitzmaurice.

PINE ISLAND STRING BAND

Sat. Dec. 8
Snow Snake Lounge
Smuggler's Notch Ski Area
9:00-11:00
no cover

Contentment Farm
Riding Stable, Open Year
Around - Trail Riding -
Instructions - Hay &
Sleigh Rides - Tack Shop
- Shoeing - Sales -
Boarding - Reasonable
Rates - Indoor Arena.
South Hero 372-4087.

Invitational Track Meet

The fifth annual University of Vermont-Green Mountain Athletic Association sponsored Christmas Invitational track and field meet is set for UVM's Gardner-Collins Cage, beginning at 11 am with the trials. The meet is sanctioned by the AAU and the USTF. Awards will be presented to the top three finishers. There will be a senior men and collegiate division and selected girls' events. For further information contact Ed Kusiak, Roy L. Patrick Gymnasium, University of Vermont, 05401.

RESEARCH

Thousands of Topics
$2.75 per page
Send for your up-to-date, 160-page, mail order catalog. Enclose $1.00 to cover postage (delivery time is 1 to 2 days).
RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 WILSHIRE BLVD., SUITE #2
LOS ANGELES, CALIF 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold for research assistance on

DUNHAM'S
campus
boots
MAZEL'S SHOE STORE
194 North Street

UNWANTED PREGNANCY?
AMERICAN FAMILY PLANNING IS A HOSPITAL AFFILIATED ORGANIZATION OFFERING YOU ALL ALTERNATIVES TO AN UNWANTED PREGNANCY. FOR INFORMATION IN YOUR AREA CALL:
Call (215) 449-3006
AMERICAN FAMILY PLANNING
A Medical Service to Help You

1301 Shelburne Rd.
So. Burlington, Vt.
bedspreads, rugs, pillows,
tapestries, chess sets, boxes,
leather hats, bags, wineskins,
silver, turquoise and bone
jewelry, candles, oils, incense,
toiletries, occult books, mugs,
tea sets, planters, statues, wall
hangings, mirrors, Tiffany
buckles, bells, beads, antler pipes, hookahs, shirts, dresses
and blouses from India,
Mexico, Afghanistan, Syria,
Colombia, Belgium, Tanzania,
Nepal and other places near
and far.

CLASSIFIED ADS

HOUSE EXCHANGE:
Professor at Florida
Technological University would like to exchange home with local professional. Contact Dr.
John Shadgett Florida
Tech. University, Box
2500, Orlando, Florida
32816.

Need stuff for your apartment? I have:
iron-post bed (single),
kitchen table & chairs,
curtains, pots & pans,
clock, end table, rocking chair, lamp, 27 inch B&W
TV. Call 864-0351.

For Sale: 1965 Ford
Falcon Funky! 6 cyl./auto.
trans. 18-20 m.p.gallon.
Good heater, 2 stud snow
tires, inspected till Feb.
must sell! $175.00. Call
Jody after 6, 658-2289.

For Sale: Size 7 Large
Pro's and 1.95 cm Zebra skis with Nevada bindings.
$130. Call 864-5051.

Ladies' watch found week of 10/14. Get in touch with information office,
Waterman.

Male needed to share house on lake in Malletts Bay. Own room, $80 includes everything. Bring X-C skis and skates! Call
878-8288 after 6.

DARLENE - it is past the day and you still have not arrived, no excuses, mama.
Love MF

1974 Cross Country Skis
For Sale: 215 cm. Won an Door Prize - Worth $35.
Asking $28. Made in Finland. Call Don, Ex.
2198.

Apartment to Share with 2 other female students. Has 3 rooms, 2 bedrooms, 2 full baths, kitchen, living room, all furnished, all utilities, walking distance to campus, view of lake, available any time. $77 a month. Please call 863-3942 or Janet,
656-5401.

VW Snow Tires already mounted on wheels. Will sell with wheels. Like new.
$35.00. Call Rob,
863-4407.

Mixed gay and straight self-defense group looking for non-sexist teacher of practical self-defense.
Contact Gay-In-Vermont-863-2496, women's switchboard weekdays
862-5504.

Bartlett-I'll see you in the funny papers. Till then Happy Birthday. Love
Boobie.

Roommate for 2nd semester. Share house, own room. $7/month +
utilities. Call 863-5744.

REILLY TIRE COMPANY

FROM RECAPS TO RADIALS

WE HAVE IT

Prices Starting At $16.60
for a 6.50/13 Blackwall
(plus federal excise tax $1.86)

Inverno etna

PIRELLI

A remarkable snow tire. Its distinctive tread bites into mud, slush, soft or crusted snow. Flanged sidewalls pack snow into a firm supporting track to prevent lateral skidding. Stop on the accelerator, change gears, take a curve or hit the brakes - Pirelli Inverno grip... and hold.

Mohawk Storm Trac

4 ply nylon - 78 series
Exclusive Zero-Flex tread - remains soft at below-zero temperatures.
Dual white sidewalls
Tough, deep tread
Pneumatically ready for stud application

ACCOMPANIED BY A
COPY OF THIS AD
Install and Balance
Your Snowtires - $5.00

ACCESSIBLE TO UVM
31 San Remo Drive
So. Burlington

(Behind Burlington Rent-A-Roll)

royal christy

Burlington's Only Specialty Ski Shop

WE'VE GOT WHAT IT TAKES TO IMPROVE YOUR SKIING

SKI TUNER

Our new wet belt sander sharpens edges and waxes ski bottoms without the heat and build-up that conventional ski sanders produce - not a touch-up, but a refinishing process that rivals a factory job without spending $20 in six weeks time.

ONLY $7-

Bring your skis in and watch our wet belt work wonders

The Royal Christy within

the ski shop
SHELBURNE RD.,
BURLINGTON, VT.

BOOGIE AT BILLINGS BEDLAM WITH STRAWBOSS 10:30 - 2:00 am FRIDAY NIGHT DEC 7

sponsored by SA Concert Bureau and Billings Center Governing Board